GREAT "SANFORD" CAMPAIGN OPENS TOMORROW

Third Party Loses Support of Labor Body

Quarterly Conference Gives Consideration To Study Of Labor Strategy In The Various State Elections

Body May Return To Non-Partisan Policy

Reasons For Action Cited; State Labor Organizations To Assist In Picking Men

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—In direct language from the executive council Sunday, the American Federation of Labor, announced it was through backing third party movements of the kind which it supported in 1924 with the late Senator LaFollette as presidential candidate.

A return to the custom of entering congressional and other political contests in support of individual candidates satisfactory to the union, emphatically was indicated as its future course by the council which has just wound up a quarterly session, during which much time was given to study of labor strategy in approaching elections.

The council decision resulted in a general resolution adopted by the Federation's national convention at El Paso last year, which laid the principle that organized labor must "be as free from political party domination now as at any time in its history."

The convention dictum was carried further by the council's declaration that "no aid or comfort will be given those who seek to launch third party movements," and by a decision to have prepared for the national convention at Atlantic City, October 5, a set of reports dealing with local, state and national political contests. They are to carry tentative endorsements for candidates friendly to labor, regardless of their party affiliation.

Already one car load of Kelvinators and refrigerators is enroute to Sanford. Mr. Sides asserted, and more will be shipped in the near future. A factory training service will be stationed here for installing the Kelvinator plants and refrigerators and for giving service in this line.

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—New plans in the inter-union conflict between bricklayers and shapers developed today when bricklayers employed by the George A. Fuller Construction Company went on strike in all building projects in this city, Washington, D. C., and Florida. Final Meeting of Team Members Scheduled For Tonight; Drive Starts At 9 O'Clock

Officials Predict Fine Campaign

Goal Of Workers Will Be Set At Meeting; Drive Lasts 4 Days

The last step in three weeks of preparation and organization work for the big Chamber of Commerce advertising and expansion fund drive will be taken at 8 o'clock tonight at the Seminole cafe when the entire team organization will meet for final instructions and for the campaign material.

Outlook Very Bright

The outlook for a successful drive is considered very good, by those in touch with the work. Here is what some of the leaders say:

Edward Higgins, president of the Chamber of Commerce: "We have a chance to make this movement an outstanding success. The outlook could hardly be better, but the result will depend upon every citizen and every firm doing their full duty, and upon our team organization. I believe we will make a name for ourselves in this enterprise."

R. J. Holly, colonel of teams: "I believe the team organization is all ready for a most effective campaign. The divisional majors reported today that every captain was ready with his team. We ought to have one of the most successful campaigns in Florida history."

H. McFarland, campaign director: "I would be extremely optimistic about the result if I did not have our confidence. Too many people are taking it for granted that it is going to be a big and successful campaign. It will be if the team organization is on the job for the full four days. Every worker must stick with the job until the end."

Lose Their Lives Auto Accidents In Cities In 4 Weeks

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—The number of deaths caused by automobiles in 57 American cities during the four weeks ending July 18 as compared with 417 in the same period of the previous year, was reported today.

Deaths In 11 States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Ninety deaths from automobile accidents were reported in 11 midwestern states last week, virtually all for the fatalities as follows: Ohio, 27; Illinois, 14; Michigan, 10; Minnesota, eight; Iowa, five each, Iowa, five each.

Now All Together For A Greater Sanford!

NEXT WEEK will tell the story. By next Saturday the people of our city will have decided whether or not their city is to take the place rightfully belonging to it.

Sanford is just beginning to grow. It has for several years been building a substantial foundation. Now it is ready to soar skyward. The present membership drive of the Chamber of Commerce is just a start toward bigger and greater days.

Depending largely on the outcome of the campaign will be the future growth of our community. If we are to be the important center we should be, if outside capital is brought here for investment purposes, if we hope to grow as rapidly as other Florida places, we must see to it that our city is brought to the attention of the people all over the state and to do this, we must advertise extensively.

The banks are heartily endorsing the campaign of Sanford's Chamber of Commerce to raise an adequate expansion and advertising fund to exploit the advantages of this community. The financial institutions are giving both their moral and their financial support, and urge others to co-operate to the fullest extent.

It will require the united effort of every individual if the present campaign is to be as successful as it should be. We believe in our town. We believe in its citizens. We are confident the coming week will show the world that Sanford is a live-wire city and that its citizens are progressive and awake to their opportunities.

The banks are doing all in their power to make the campaign a big success. Are you?

Let's make the coming week an important and far reaching week in the history of our great city.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER
By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Congress passes a lot of laws it's impossible to understand. They can be read in two or more different ways.

Now a judicial decision on a question of constitutionality is one thing. If congress attempts something the fundamental code forbids, then doubtless it's some court's business to point out that it can't be done.

This Is the Zero Hour

Tomorrow morning actual solicitation for memberships in the Sanford Chamber of Commerce begins. About one hundred and fifty men will start out to see those who are counted on to have a part in making Sanford a greater city.

It will be a sorry type of individual who tries to dodge the civic workers this week. No one worthy of citizenship in Sanford will fail to give them a glad hand and the best possible support.

The results of this campaign depend on what you, as an individual, do. If you fall down, and if you do not co-operate, you will act as an impediment to the future growth and success of your town.

Don't put the men off when they call to see you. They have a lot to do. They are just as busy as you are, perhaps more so.

As Brisbane Sees It: Henry Ford's Birthday. His 9 Words—All Wrong. A Paleolithic Expert. More About Air Fighting. BY ARTHUR BRISHANE (COPYRIGHT 1925)

As Brisbane Sees It

Henry Ford, sixty-two years old yesterday, in mind and body as healthy as at thirty-two, thanks to constant mental activity and temperate living, sends out his birthday message:

"I am living in today, not tomorrow or yesterday." A short message, only nine words, and all WRONG.

MR. FORD is living in tomorrow, and in the tomorrows of a thousand years hence. For when we work we live, and Ford, thanks to his industrial genius and economic wisdom, pushing the world ahead in its great problem of transportation, is working in and for the centuries ahead.

AND FORD is living in the past, AND ON THE PAST. When this writer last had lunch with Mr. Ford and a few of his ablest workmen and managers, there were more than a dozen kinds of bread on the table.

FORD LIVES and eats with those Stone Age women with red hair all over their bodies, big chin, and occasional frown, valuing impulse to beat decency into their husbands and brutality out of their sons.

AS HE LIVES in the past, so Ford WORKS in the past, the past of ancient days, when the first man-like creature discovered that a heavy load could be dragged more easily by putting under it a round log and letting the log roll under the load.

AFTER THAT came THE FIRST WHEEL, which was one slice cut out of the log. Long afterwards came the two wheels, rolling on an axle dragged first by several of the women, later by one tame buffalo.

Then came four wheeled wagons, the light four wheeled buggy, and then THE FOUR WHEELED FORD.

HENRY FORD'S giant factories his sixty thousand workmen, his millions of capital all work with the brains of the savage who discovered that one man could pull an anuroch weighing a ton, if he put a round log under the anuroch's body.

YOU LIVE in the past, Mr. Ford, and draw your dividends and power of useful work from the past. Be grateful to it.

A LEARNED gentleman, Dr. Leith, teaches geology at the University of Wisconsin and tells the scientific world "Japan as a war prodigy is a myth."

FLYING MACHINES, high explosives, deadly gases will mean victory or defeat in the next war. And in their manufacture Japan possesses experts as able as any in the world, and incidentally, she has them at work.

THE UNITED STATES some day may get a fearful lesson through the air. The blow would come from the East Coast first, probably destroying the Panama Canal, the backbone of our commerce.

INTELLIGENT PEOPLE on the Pacific Coast should not wait for a sluggish government to wake up after one or two American cities had been wrecked and razed to the ground.

ONE HALF of the money that excited, patriotic fools squandered and that rascals stole in our war excitement, building ships that never went to sea, and flying ships that never flew, would do away with all danger of war in this country.

CHAMPIONSHIP MATERIAL

"IDLE HOUSES" MIAMI TRIBUNE

Various Ohio state institutions are to be coming in for an unusually large amount of newspaper criticism. If it is not the alert Akron Beacon Journal hot in the trail of the legislature for its tax policy, then it is the Cleveland Plain Dealer, or the Youngstown Telegram, or the Columbus Ohio State Journal, or equally vexatious questions. And now comes the Cincinnati Enquirer to do execution upon the Ohio State Penitentiary for its now-notorious "idle house."

The occupants of this room, it is said, regularly number hundreds and all they can do there is sit around on benches, looking at the bars walls, and occasionally talking to each other. Facilities for reading or playing games, which might be expected in such a place, are almost wholly lacking.

Apparently no one is able to locate the real seat of the trouble to fix the blame for this "idle house" upon any particular person or persons. "The idle house" idea, says Gov. Donahy, "is wrong on an economic, humanitarian and moral standpoint. I have been fighting for ten years to abolish the 'idle house' and will continue the fight. Welfare Director Harper adds: "The pitiable side of the issue is that able-bodied prisoners are forced to sit all day -- with their eyes glued upon empty ways and without a thing to occupy their minds." The Enquirer goes on to say:

"Ohio is one of the few states in the Union which will limit prisoners to the manufacture of products used by the state and its political subdivisions. The result is that there is not enough work to keep the prisoners employed. To keep prisoners at work is a matter of elementary humanity. At the same time it rebounds to the public interest that their labor should not be wasted. . . .

"If the State Board of Control wants to keep the 'idle house' at the Ohio Penitentiary filled with men who otherwise could be active and earning revenues for the state," says State Welfare Director Harper, "let it continue to play politics in refusing to approve the expenditure of money appropriated by the legislature for the purchase of the Rossville brick plant." Whether politics is at the root of the matter or not -- and the strong presumption is that it is -- the plant should be acquired at once in accordance with the will of the people expressed through the legislature. Public opinion demands it. The existence of the "idle house" is a disgrace. Prison conditions in the state of Ohio have been backward long enough."

But this unutilized institution, doubtless, is not peculiar to the penitentiary in question; it is found in many another place of correction, almost as bad. And strange to say -- although it would take courage to say it to any guilty parent -- many a home, which ought to be happy, constructive and useful, is an "idle house," made so by parental rules no less foolish and stupid than those prison rules.

The child wants to get into action; he needs and must have exercise for his mind as well as his body. He is full of ideas that he wants to express in his work and play, and if there is always someone around to say "Don't!" instead of giving him opportunity and help, it is not difficult to forecast what the effect upon the child will be.

And often, if the direct testimony of social workers and criminologists is to be taken for what it should be worth, the "idle house" in prisons such as the Ohio State Penitentiary serve as a sort of post-graduate school for such an "idle house" at home. People will do well to abolish them in both places.

HOW TO REDUCE CRIME

MACON TELEGRAPH

Chicago, the worst crime-ridden city in the United States, and almost as bad as Chicago or Canton or any of the hell-holes of the world, recently created a Crime Commission to study causes and effects and arrive at some conclusion looking toward the reduction of disorder. It finds that there are no outward methods to reduce crime -- in other words, that police forces cannot do it, district attorneys cannot do it. The conclusion is that the inner force must be stimulated against crime.

The responsibility for creating that sentiment is laid at the door of the churches. "A religion which fails to make its own members law-abiding, law-respecting, decent-living citizens, is missing its main purpose," says the report. "While crime is a social problem, it will be reached by the church through the home and the influence of the home upon the community."

We agree with the commission to the extent that reduction of crime must come through inner channels and not through the outer forces that could be brought to bear. Prohibition is becoming increasingly effective not because of, but despite the enforcement agencies. The police are no more active than they ever have been, the sheriff of the country are doing no more -- as a whole they are doing less than they ever have done and the Federal force is entirely ineffective. In spite of this, prohibition is gaining ground because people respect the law, even if they do not observe it, and because they do respect it, they hold in respect those who flagrantly violate it, even though they are more intolerant of the man who drinks at his business than we have ever been and it has become unprofitable to mix liquor and business; we are more tolerant of the man who mixes gasoline and whisky than we have ever been.

Let a car driven by a drunk strike another and injure someone and there is a widespread demand for punishment. We are daily growing more intolerant of the whole liquor traffic. This constant wearing away and breaking down will ultimately bring about prohibition, but observance. In other words, not by law but by sentiment, will observance come. The churches have their responsibility, of course. They would do well to accept the advice of the Chicago commission to work toward creating sentiment rather than creating laws. The present trend is decidedly away from molding sentiment and is running toward the enactment of regulatory laws.

Boston out hit Cincinnati but bases on balls mixed with timely drives gave the locals the verdict 8 to 6.

DODGERS DOWN CUBS

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.—Dick Cox, of the Dodgers, duplicated his performance of Saturday by smothering out a home run, this time with two men on base, and gave Brooklyn a lead in the first inning which Chicago was unable to overcome, the visitors chalking up their second straight from the locals, 4 to 2. Rube Ehrhardt relieved Osborne in the third and Chicago was able to get only one hit off him. It was Ehrhardt's first credited victory since May 29.

W. Johnson Celebrates 18th Anniversary By Beating Cobb's Tigers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—Walter Johnson, Washington's premier pitcher, Sunday, celebrated the 18th anniversary of his debut as a big league player by defeating the team he failed to beat on that earlier occasion, the Detroit Tigers.

On August 2, 1907, Johnson, raw recruit from the West, pitched against the Tigers in Detroit for six innings. Washington lost, 3 to 2, but "Barney" was not charged with the defeat.

Sunday, he held the Tigers, who 18 years ago included their present manager, Ty Cobb, to two singles and one run, and the champion Senators won, 5 to 1. Jones, third baseman for Detroit, got both hits but the run was scored on an error by Centerfielder McNeely.

Celery-Feds to Open Series With Lakeland; New Players on Team

The Sanford Celery-Feds will again open a three game series with the Lakeland Highlanders in this city this afternoon at 4 o'clock. In their last series with the Lakeland team the Feds won three straight games and followed this by a winning first of a double header from the Saints from the "Sunshine City" but since that time have been unable to annex a victory.

The contests with Lakeland will begin today after having lost 11 consecutive games, one of which was thrown out to be played over again because of incincerity of Tampa players.

A number of changes are being made in the line up of the Sanford team, however, it is pointed out, and it is expected by local fans that this with the return to home grounds will result in the winning of the series here by the Celery Feds.

Already one or two new players have been added to the roster of the team under the supervision of Vance E. Douglass, recently made president of the club, and it is understood that several other players of note will be here within the next several days who will materially strengthen the team.

PRESSURE FELT BY LEADERS OF MAJOR LEAGUES

Cincinnati Red Sox Annex 8 Straight Victories to Push Giants and Pirates; Sox Make Thrust in American

NEW YORK, Aug. 3.—The lines of limitation drawn about the first place struggles of two teams in both major leagues showed they were yielding slowly Sunday to pressure from potential contenders in third place. The Cincinnati Reds soaring to eight straight victories last week, tonight were still in full cry after New York and Pittsburgh in the National. The Brooklyn Robins, cooling possession of the third rung to the Redland pack became wedged at the bottom of the first division by a three game margin in spite of four triumphs out of six starts as Cincinnati climbed to within five games of second place.

Chicago's thrust in the American accomplished a double end of establishing the Collins entry solidly in third place and in forcing the champion Washington Senators to remain content with second place. The three-cornered chase for the third peg, between the White Sox, Tigers and Browns, after several weeks duration was abruptly terminated with the spurt of the Windy City team, Detroit and St. Louis remaining deadlocked at fourth place, as they had been a week ago.

The lead in the National League underwent its ninth change since the first week in July when the Giants yesterday trounced the Cardinals while the Pirate craft sprung a leak on unchartered Philadelphia shores.

The percentage points separated the vacillating leaders at the end of the week. The week was one of comparative quiet all along the firing line, with second division teams in both circuits continuing to slide contentedly along in grooves they have occupied for several weeks. The Philadelphia Athletics closed with a margin of one game and a half over the Senators, the same advantage they held a week ago, while Chicago, in third place, was still eight and one-half games behind the Harris team.

Sixth place Cleveland perked up slightly while New York Yankees, too far ahead of cellar-bound Boston and long far behind the pace to worry about the Euler positions, had occasion to speculate on the extent of Manager Huggins' weeding out process as Steve O'Neil, veteran catcher, followed Everett Scott and Whitney Witt in taking departure from the club.

Philadelphia, St. Louis, Chicago and Boston showed no disposition to strike out for improved locations in the National standing.

Game, Fresh Water Fish Commission Has Begun Work

TALLAHASSEE, August 1.—That the recently created Fresh water fish and game commission has begun its work in an effective manner is evidenced in the fact that two fish dynamites swam the Sewanee river a few days ago in order to escape a deputy of that office, leaving behind two sacks and hundreds of floating fish which they had killed.

A deputy of the commission, upon hearing an explosion on the river, discovered that four men had just fired the river with dynamite and had succeeded in getting two sacks of fish in addition to many which they had not had the time to pick up. Upon seeing the deputy two of the men who were on the river swam across, while the other two escaped into the woods.

The Commission, says Mr. Royal who is at its head, is taking vigorous steps toward the curbing of dynamiting in the fresh water lakes and rivers of the state. Since July 1, the Department has established itself as a decided opposition to such law breaking.
