Business Is Good At Local Market

"Business continued good at the Sanford State Farmers' Market last week," said Sandy Anderson, Manager of the local market, in his weekly news report.

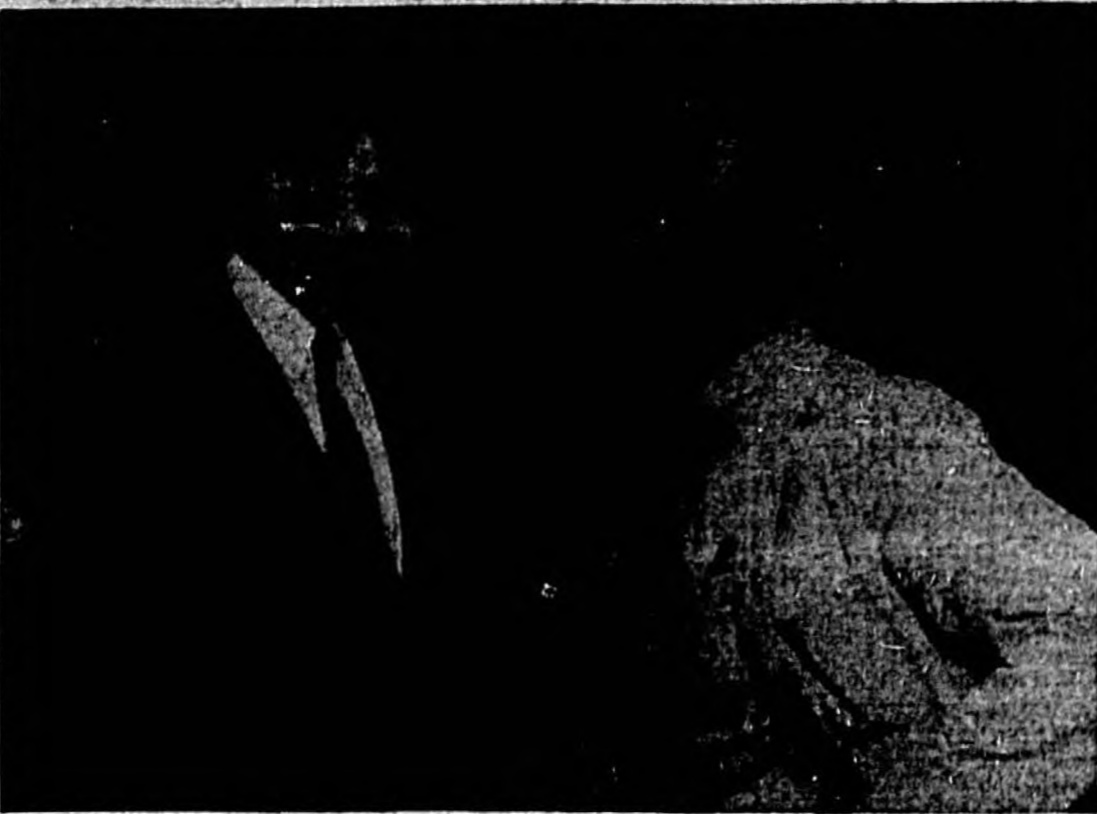

"There was somewhat of an increasing confidence on the part of most salesmen because of the 51 varieties of produce and fruit sold," he said.

The report said "The market, piecewise, represented a condition of strengthening on the majority of items sold."

Sales over the market platform amounted to $4,451 units at a gross valuation of $120,239.40.

Available for the trade this week, said Sandy Anderson, will be a good volume of cabbage, celery, potatoes, beans, cucumbers, corn, tomatoes, squash, peppers and fruit along with 20 other varieties.

Not counting irrigation, use of water on farms is estimated at 3 1/2 billion gallons daily.

YOU'RE NEVER OLD

You're Young As Long As You Look Ahead
By Spring Byington

LOOKING ahead is the secret of youth. And if you're a woman past 60, as I am, who's going to stop you from looking ahead to new experiences if that's what you want?

All my life, till about six months ago, I had been looking ahead to taking flying lessons but I had never got around to it. I've always loved to fly, enjoyed the freedom of the infinite skies, but I never flew my own plane.

Well, one has to make a start. So I leafed through the telephone directory and decided upon the Glendale Airport school near my home in Hollywood Hills. I phoned for an appointment, and the next day drove out for my first flying lesson. It was a lovely day.

The instructor introduced himself as Tom Ryan, and I learned later that he was the lumber-in-law of Vice-President Nixon. Whatever he was to Nixon he didn't look very kindly at me. Imagine, a tiny grandmother who should know better, approaching him for flying lessons. When I told him I acted on the "December Bride" television show, it didn't make matters any better.

No publicity gag? "Are you serious or is this a publicity gag?" Mr. Ryan wanted to know. I assured Mr. Ryan that I was never more serious in my life, that I was determined to learn to fly, and that I had always loved flying so much, even as a girl, that I was one of the first females ever to go up in the rickety Flying Jennys of World War I.

So he proceeded to give me about eight hours of ground lessons, and now that this season's "December Bride" series is wrapped up I'm going back and actually solo in the air. Will I be afraid? Of course I will, but I won't let fear stop me from doing what I want to do. I was scared when I went up in those Flying Jennys years ago and I'll be scared again, alone in a plane, but what an experience to be looking forward to!

Very few people harbor the notion of flying a plane, but the main thing is that you should keep exploring something if you wish to remain young. Let's keep our enthusiasms alive instead of sitting back and drearily thinking there is nothing new to learn.

Go Exploring At Home
You can do very successful exploring right in your own home with books, your garden, even the arrangements in the parlor; or you can explore new interests in community activities.

Personally, and this is in line with my love for flying, I like to let my imagination soar to the vast unknown regions of the sky and sea, and that's why my favorite reading is in the realm of science fiction. When I read a good science fiction book I feel like an explorer, ready to take off through space into the Never-Never Land. And to fly a plane is to have that sense of excitement and adventure first-hand. It is this kind of doing and thinking, reaching out away from one's self, that keeps you young. It means looking ahead—and outward. Why shrink up inside because you're past 60 or 50 or 60? There is always something new under the sun, but you have to make an effort. You have to reach out for it.

Kelsey, Priest Will Meet For 1st Time On Same Rostrum

Two candidates will meet for the first time tomorrow night on the same rostrum to speak on their platforms and candidacy.

The ladies of the Methodist Church at Oviedo will serve supper from 6 to 8 o'clock tomorrow night immediately preceding the Rally. Proceeds from the supper will benefit the building fund of the Methodist Church.

Introducing the candidates will be Jim Lee, of Oviedo, Chairman of the Seminole Democratic Executive Committee which sponsors the series of rallies being held throughout the county.

Crowds are expected to be the largest yet to attend one of the rallies as competition becomes keener between candidates in the various races for local political offices.

Troopers To Get 'Summertime Look'

Florida Highway Patrol Troopers ought to be able to take things with cooler heads for the next few months.

Trooper T. Mark Mack and Patrolman Carl Williams will be wearing their summer gear now which includes a new-fangled, lightweight fibre woven cool hat that looks like a real Panama but it isn't.

The new John B. Stetson creation is from imported fibres and is extremely dressy and gives the troopers "a real new summertime look."

In addition to the new look hats, which are being used for the first time by the patrol, the men have doffed the wintertime black ties and are wearing Simpson Soulees summer shirts with collars thrown back sports style.

State troopers wear warm weather garb until October 15.

Although half the German libraries were destroyed in World War II there is more reference material in the country than ever before.

REBEL BANDS GUNNED

ALGIERS, Algeria—More than 30 French planes machine-gunned two big rebel bands for two hours Sunday in the Tlemcen area of western Algeria, near the Moroccan frontier, French sources said today.

The bands were described as "completely disorganized."

Oran was reported still without a regular water supply as a result of nationalist sabotage at the week end.

Don't let "Shrinking Horsepower" take its toll from your car

Be money ahead with clean-burning NO-NOX
Clean-burning Gulf NO-NOX keeps engines clean... it protects against the deposits that cause "Shrinking Horsepower" in today's sensitive, high-compression engines. The result: NO-NOX helps you keep full, safe engine power... for thousands of extra miles.

No car made in America can shame it in a down-the-pike hassel!

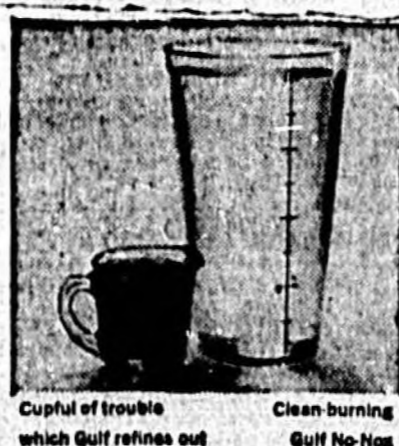

So says expert Tom McCahill of the Chrysler Windsor V-8 in Mechanix Illustrated (Feb.)

Yet you can own this bigger, more powerful Chrysler Windsor V-8 for the cost of a medium-price car... even for the cost of a fully equipped "low-price" car! Won't you come in and drive the YEAR-AHEAD car yourself.

How in 1936	Chrysler	Car '36	Car '35	Car '34	Car '33	Car '32

Aspirants Will Talk At Jaycees

City Commission Approves Utility Easement Vacating

A brief session of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners was held last night at the City Hall.

Adjourning before ten o'clock the commissioners approved the vacating of utility easements east of French Ave. and between Katherine Court and 24th St., relocating the easement on the east boundary of property owned by M. R. Strickland.

Public hearings were set, but dates not announced, to consider recommendations of the Zoning and Planning Commission. According to the action taken at last night's meeting the hearings will include the rezoning from R1-B to C-1 the east 40 feet of lots four and 10, Block nine, in Highland Park.

Another hearing will be held on the rezoning of an area from C-2 to R1-R all land south of the extension of the south right-of-way line of Commercial St. and north of West First St., between Tamarind and Mangoustine Ave., together with lots seven and eight of Block Y.

The third hearing will be held on the recommendation that Lots nine through 14, Block Y, north of West First St. and West of Popular Ave., be rezoned from its present classification of C-2 to an R1-X district. The controversy over the rezoning was brought about by the purchase of property by Otto McDaniel in the C-2 district for the construction of a garage and body shop. Attorney Edwin Shihuler presented a petition signed by residents of the area requesting the rezoning because of the obnoxious condition to the six houses in the immediate area.

Jaycees Are Ready To 'Paint Town'

Members of the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce will "paint the town" tonight in an effort to get out the vote in the forthcoming Democratic Primary on May 8.

Headed by M. L. Raborn Jr., the Jaycees "Get Out The Vote" Committee will be wielding paint brushes on sidewalk stencils to remind local citizens to "please vote."

The group of young businessmen will meet at 7:30 this evening at the Jaycees Information Booth to begin their sidewalk stencil campaign in an effort to boost the vote and create interest in the coming election.

Tomorrow the Jaycees expect to have every corner reflecting the appeal to vote in every direction that will meet the pedestrian's eye.

Five candidates for the office of Seminole County Sheriff will be heard Thursday at the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting to be held at the Yacht Club.

Those who will speak before the young businessmen's organization this week are: Cha lie Beck, J. D. Cordell, J. L. Hobby, Porter Lansing, and Ollie G. Owens. Candidates are given an opportunity to speak on their platforms and desires to hold the office for which they are contesting.

The sheriff's race has been one of the "hot spots" in the bitterly contested race for public office in Seminole County. Last week, in Altamonte Springs, Ollie G. Owens stated before a slim crowd, "It has been rumored that Mr. Hobby and myself are tied up in this campaign for the sheriff's office. I would like to state here that I am running on my own merits and record. I think Mr. Hobby is trying to run his campaign on someone else's merits. There is no connection between my campaign and Mr. Hobby's campaign."

However, two nights later, in Fern Park at the Praelis Lake American Legion building, the speaker with the briefest presentation drew the biggest ovation when Charlie Beck told the crowd of about 200 "I believe the people of Seminole County want an honest, hard working sheriff. That's why I am asking for the job."

With two weeks remaining in the campaign before the May 8 Primary, each candidate is making the most of his time seeking votes in every section of the county.

Tonight, the candidates will be in Oviedo at the High School Gymnasium, when each one in every race will be given an opportunity to state his Iowa and platform before the voters of that district. Each speaker is allotted five minutes and is introduced by James Lee, Chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee.

A benefit dinner will be served beginning at 5:30 this evening by the ladies of the Oviedo Methodist Church. Proceeds from the dinner will go to the building fund of the new Methodist Church in Oviedo.

It is expected that the largest crowd yet to attend a Democratic rally in Seminole County will be seen in Oviedo this evening when two candidates for Constable, George Kelsey and Paul Priest, next door neighbors will be heard for the first time. Kelsey, yesterday, appeared before Judge Vassar Carlton when charges against him were dropped after two Negroes refused to testify. The case grew out of indictments handed down by the grand jury, one of which was dismissed earlier.

Tennis Clinic Set At Mayfair Courts Friday, Saturday

In an effort to promote interest in tennis among the young people of Sanford and Seminole County a Tennis Clinic is being held in Sanford at the Mayfair Inn Tennis Courts Friday and Saturday of this week and operated by Sidney Summerfield, a member of the National Lawn Tennis Association, and Tennis Pro at Daytona Beach and Nantucket, R. I.

The clinic is being financed jointly by the City of Sanford's Recreation Department headed this year by John Angel, and the Florida State Bank, and sponsored by the Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce Tennis Tournament Committee.

Robert Crumley, chairman of the Jaycees Tennis Tournament Committee, revealed today that Summerfield, who will conduct the clinic Friday afternoon beginning at 3:30 and again on Saturday from 9:30 a. m. to 12 noon and from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m., will bring with him an assortment of training aids to be used during the two-day event.

Crumley said that the clinic would be available to young people of Sanford and Seminole County from 10 to 18 years of age.

The clinic, said Crumley, is the forerunner to the following weekend, May 4 and 5 at which time the Jaycees will have their annual Tennis Tournament.

In addition to Summerfield, Crumley said today, Frank Deame, Mayfair Inn Tennis Pro, is contributing his time as a coach and director of the clinic and the tournament.

The winner and runnerup of the tournament to be held May 4 and 5 will be sent to the Florida State Jaycees Tournament in Coral Gables June 1, 2 and 3 for the third annual tournament of the Jaycees organization. The two winners will be sponsored by the Seminole County Jaycees, said Crumley. Winners of the State Tournament will be sent to the national tournament to be held in August in Oak Park, Ill.

CofC Industrial Report Appears In Magazine

A five-point Industrial Committee report of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce appears in this week's edition of the Sem-O-Gram circulated by the Chamber of Commerce to all of its members.

Negotiations are underway, according to the circular, with the Florida Power and Light Company for an industrial survey of Sanford and Seminole County. This survey will bring up-to-date the information that is provided for prospective industrial expansion of the City and county.

A special prospectus and survey is being developed for a proposed dock and terminal project to be located on the St. Johns River and Lake Monroe at Sanford is the second item of the report.

Efforts are being made to attract the Howard Hughes' Aircraft plant to this area with the preparation of a special survey for that purpose.

An electronics manufacturing plant prospect is being furnished with a survey of Sanford and Seminole County which has just been completed.

The Industrial Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce is now in contact with local wood fabricating plants looking for Florida locations.

A heading which appeared above the report of the chamber's Industrial Committee shows that bank deposits in Seminole County on March 31, 1956 were $22,191,691.

Boat, Ski Club Asks For Parking, Launching Aids

Due to the large number of boats using the St. Johns River, the Sanford Boat and Ski Club, backed by Seminole Commissioners John Melich and W. Brown Miller, and the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce, requested last Friday the State Road Department to provide adequate outboard launching and trailer parking facilities.

The all day effort to beach the boats participating in the Silver Dollar Cruise, and the continually growing number of outboard enthusiasts, precipitated the request from neighboring counties and from throughout Central Florida.

Ullie Green, engineer for the State Road Department in the Fifth District, said that "It makes me feel good to see the facilities constructed by the State being so widely used. I feel that the taxpayers money is being spent wisely in providing these facilities."

Candidates Give Views

Governor Lelloy Collins continues his lead in straw polls being conducted in various sections of the State.

The Fort Lauderdale Daily News concluded its straw poll yesterday and announced the results.

Final results of the poll which began April 15 show Governor Collins in a smashing majority over all other candidates in the gubernatorial contest.

The tally revealed Governor Collins 83.8 per cent; Fuller Warren 7.0 per cent; Sumter Lowry 3.3 per cent; Farris Bryant 3.3 per cent; Peaslee Streets 0.3 per cent; Park 0.3 per cent; and Price 0.0 per cent.

In other political activities around the State:

The segregation issue boiled up anew in Florida's governorship race yesterday coincident with new U. S. Supreme Court decisions dealing with the subject.

The court outlawed segregation of passengers on all public buses and turned down a request by the state of Florida for a rehearing of an earlier ruling directing that a Negro be admitted without delay to the University of Florida Law School.

Gov. Collins said the court's refusal to reconsider the Virgil Hawkins case "does not mean that segregation has been broken in our state universities" and declared every legal means would be taken to preserve segregation.

Sumter L. Lowry, in a televised speech at Miami, said "We are not going to have this thing rammed down our throat" and repeated that if he is elected governor there would be no mixing of the races in his choice.

Both Lowry and Fuller Warren, in Dade County speeches, made reference to a convention of Negro preachers and their families opening in Miami Beach May 2.

Warren called the convention an "impending peril."

"They will occupy a number of hotels here and so integration will move upon us at Miami Beach," the former governor said in a talk to a pep rally of campaign chairman.

While Collins, Lowry and Warren traded verbal blows over the segregation issue, another gubernatorial candidate, Farris Bryant, hit at Collins for campaign spending.

Bryant said Collins had proposed to the 1955 Legislature a plan to limit campaign spending and now was leading the field in the amount of money spent during the current campaign.

Ground Is Broken For Winter Park Telephone Building

To meet the demands of its subscribers and the rapidly growing area which includes Altamonte Springs, Longwood, and Carberry the Winter Park Telephone Company broke ground today for a new telephone equipment building, to be located at the corner of Welbourne and New York Aves.

This building, the first section of a long-range building program, is designed to house equipment of the latest type, known as Crossbar equipment.

C. H. Galloway, president of the company, explained, "This Crossbar equipment will enable the company to connect into the nationwide intercity dialing network designed by the Bell System. This will eventually allow our subscribers to dial their own long distance numbers as they now dial their local numbers. From a service standpoint, the new equipment will also provide many advantages, one of which is the so-called 2-5 numbering plan. Each central office will have an exchange prefix, such as Midway followed by five numbers. This will reduce the confusion that now exists between Winter Park and Orlando telephone numbers. The new equipment will also provide additional facilities which we hope will enable us to continue on a ready-to-serve basis."

"The new building," Galloway continued, "will house the new equipment, along with the test-board and operators' switchboards. New sections as they are added will expand to the north and west, along with additional floors as they are needed. It is planned to move our Commercial and Engineering Offices to an additional building in 1959, which will be constructed at the corner of West Morse Boulevard."

"Our schedule," Galloway stated, "is to put this new building and equipment into service in September of 1957, at which time we will provide Metropolitan telephone service, that is, Winter Park-Orlando two-way toll free service."

The telephone company has also purchased land near the south city limits of Altamonte Springs where a central office building will be constructed at a later date to house new equipment to serve the northern section of the area.

Galloway pointed out that with the completion of the building and the installation of the Crossbar type equipment, Winter Park will enjoy telephone service provided by equipment of the most modern design now available to the telephone industry.

Galloway also announced that B. A. Galloway, vice president, has been appointed company representative in charge of construction of the new building and installation of the new equipment when the building has been completed.

In this regard, B. A. Galloway estimated that the building would be completed in November of this year and that the first of the new equipment would arrive in December.

The new Winter Park Telephone Company building which cost approximately $240,000 is designed by James Gamble Rogers II, well-known local architect. "Gore" also designed the Company's present building at 132 E. New England Ave. which currently houses the Commercial Office, Executive Offices, and Central Office Equipment.

B. A. Galloway further announced that the construction contract for the new building had been awarded to the Richards Construction Company. The Richards Construction Company is a well-known company that gained recent distinction in constructing the Winter Park Hospital, and the Commercial Bank at Winter Park.

The pediatrician is shown beside the weird contraption he devised to permit blood to flow around the heart by passing through the glass and stainless steel machine. A hole in Melody's heart, stilled for 17 minutes, was sewn up by Stanford University surgeons on March 20 as the little girl's blood was shunted through the artificial heart. (International)

QUEEN OF HEALTH—That's Margaret Williams of St. Petersburg who won her title at Warm Mineral Springs, Venice. Warm Mineral Springs, said to be the original Fountain of Youth sought by Ponce de Leon, is becoming nationally known for the therapeutic powers of its waters in the treatment of muscular and other diseases. Nine million gallons of water rise daily from a bottomless volcanic crater and maintain a year-round temperature of 87 degrees.

Halpern said he worked on this piece as a "labor of love" to bequeath to his children. All exhibitors are over 60 years.

Proof Of Great State, Its Feats Is In Governor LeRoy Collins

The proof of the pudding is in the taste. Our mothers and grandmothers preserve their precious recipes from the prying eyes of neighbors and friends for they were proud of their reaching the ultimate goal in satisfying the greatest desires of men. And so it is in many aspects with our government and its operation. We find solutions to the problems of satisfying the desires of thousands upon thousands of citizens and we preserve those basic elements which have helped reach the peak of success.

That's the way we feel about Governor LeRoy Collins. He has been that "extra touch" which has brought about the recipe for good government. And so, we feel that he should be kept in his most important office as Governor of Florida—to preserve the better taste in State Government for a most crucial four years to face our State.

Only recently, Governor Collins took the lead in a move to bring nuclear energy into the industrial development picture of the South. His words, spoken at the Southern Governor's Conference in Atlanta, recently were "Our failure to bring the fruits of nuclear energy to maturity and use from wisely may well reduce the South once again to a position corresponding to its agrarian role of the past."

Many point jealously to the climax of some of the plans already underway by Governor Collins. It is the climax of some of the plans that convince us that Governor Collins is just now beginning to be of his greatest use to the State of Florida.

With another four years clearly ahead of him, there is no way to estimate the multi-billion dollar good that comes of "the proof of the pudding."

Governor Collins, realization of the value of the causeway across Lake Monroe convinces us that he is "for all of the State" and not for just one section of the fastest growing State in America. "Another logical step in the development of the upper east coast area," he said, "would be the construction of a four-lane bridge and causeway across Lake Monroe between Sanford and Enterprise."

The results of many of the programs catapulted into a brief two year term by Governor Collins are just now netting results—and from these results come nationwide publicity regarded by some as propaganda. Through the pages of thousands of newspapers, magazines, radio station news programs and television programs, have gone reports, in the past of vice, corruption, juvenile delinquency, and horrid descriptions of collusions and crime. All of this, now, is being supplanted by the great news of expansion—the solution of juvenile delinquency problems—industrialization and scientific achievement.

We reiterate—the proof of the pudding is the taste.

It is through the leadership provided by the Governor of our State, LeRoy Collins, we have begun the headway thousands upon thousands of citizens have been dreaming of. We are approaching a vital hour in the history of Florida—and there is no time for speculation or trial. This is no time to rely on promises—and wishes—and "if I were Governor" conjectures.

The next four years ahead of us will determine the breakdown or the building up of an educational system second to none in the nation.

The next four years will determine whether or not the heritage of the South will be maintained.

Shall we tear up the plans, undermine the foundation, break up the organization that has fought for—legally—fairly—and without armwaving and shouting—the maintenance of segregation in the State of Florida, a State that can be proud of the relationships it has maintained between the races?

Again we say—the proof of the pudding is the taste.

The way our problems have been approached—determinedly and not by force, legally and not by rabble-rousing—cautiously and not without foundation and facts, can be continued with ultimate success.

We say that Governor LeRoy Collins has done more in two years toward resolving the problems of Florida than others have accomplished in four years. We say that the greatest gains are yet ahead, in another four year term for Collins.

If we face the facts there can be but one answer—and that is the re-election of Governor LeRoy Collins.

The results of recent straw polls have already foretold the picture at the close of the day on May 8. Those that have been reported show Governor LeRoy Collins holding an overwhelming lead of from 50 to 85 percent.

A good recipe for better State government—for leadership—for accomplishment—for maintaining the great traditions on which Florida was founded—for growth and expansion—is a Governor with proven ability.

The proof of the pudding is in the taste. The proof of a State and its accomplishments is in Governor LeRoy Collins.

Newspaperman's Tour Report

This is the 18th in a series of articles written by Mrs. Carmage Wells who has been representing the Sanford Herald on a tour of foreign countries.

To resume my account of our Iron Curtain stops on our recent tour of Europe, we left Prague, Czechoslovakia on Tuesday, April 3rd, flying to Warsaw, Poland. The flight itself was quite an experience since it was the first time I had flown on the Aeroflot Line, the Russian airline. Our two-motored plane looked a little dingy but adequate—adequate, that is, until I started hunting for the seat belt. In Russia there's aint any such animal. Apparently one just holds on to the arm of the seat and grits his teeth on take-offs, landings and in rough air—of which there is plenty along these snowy routes.

The stewardesses are also a little different from the trim, neat and attractive girls on other lines. The Russian lassies usually wear the coat and skirt of a uniform and any blouse they happen to pick out of the closet (I say this since I never saw two alike—sometimes ruffles, sometimes checks, sometimes stripes and more often than not, all three and in all colors). The rest of the "uniform" consisted of the ever present fur-lined boots and felt hats. . . . the type worn by women in the States about fifteen years ago and, incidentally, the same type that I later saw on 99 out of 100 Russian women. This coupled with long, stringy hair did not add up to our idea of the well-dressed airline stewardess. However, the service was good and she, as well as others we had later on the trip, was very kind and pleasant.

In this connection, I will bring out here that generally on this trip in Russia and her satellite countries we Americans were treated with extreme courtesy and friendliness—many times with more kindness than in our so-called "ally" countries. This statement is based on contacts with waitresses, clerks, cab drivers, maids and other "little" people. It does not necessarily apply to contacts with the government people in the form of the guides who remained with us constantly from the time we arrived in Warsaw, on through Moscow and Leningrad, leaving us only as we entered our hotel rooms at night. In Warsaw this feeling was in the person of representative of the Polish Journalists Association which, of course, is a government group entirely. Happily, we also had with us at all times someone from our Embassy and while we were kept extremely busy with sightseeing, socializing, etc., it was always under espionage. These guides have a rather superior and arrogant attitude toward both their own countrymen and especially us. They do not want Americans coming (as they express it) "throwing money around" and "spreading propaganda," which I decided meant "talking about automobiles, refrigerators, television sets, etc."

But back to Warsaw itself, from which I seem to have strayed, the city is a monument to heart-breaking work and perseverance. As everyone knows, of course, the Germans occupied Warsaw from 1939

Businessmen Stress Bright Outlook

By SAN DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Amid the chorus of rising confidence that still better times lie ahead you can catch a few notes of caution today—if you're the type who cares to listen.

Most business leaders are stressing the bright outlook. However, a few warn their stockholders that the boom could run into moments of rough going.

The hesitancy of late in the stock market gives some pause. The late spring in many parts of the land dashes some hopes—particularly among those who had looked for a better revival in auto sales and home building.

Rising costs worry many manufacturers. Some stockholders wonder if this could foreshadow a leveling off in corporate profits after their long rise.

Tighter credit and climbing interest rates are bothering the financial officers of corporations who are seeking to raise new capital.

Many sales executives, particularly among the metal producers, wonder how much of their backlog of orders represents inventory building, carrying the chance of a drop in demand later on as customers' own sales should slip.

In recent days executives of top steel, aluminum and copper companies have pointed to signs of a balance of supply and demand to 1944. After an unsuccessful revolt by the citizens of Warsaw, Hitler ordered that the city be "razed" literally. Most of the people were evacuated to prison camps and the wholesale destruction of the ancient and lively city was begun.

We saw a movie (that was stolen from the Germans) showing the progress of the demolition crews. Buildings, homes, factories, schools, everything was blown up or burned or hit. Few buildings were left standing and these were heavily damaged. Then the Russians (or the "Liberation Army," as the Poles call them) arrived and drove out the Germans and took over themselves.

At first the possibility was considered of rebuilding Warsaw on another site because of the problem of rubble, but the original land won out. The people started coming back to the city and literally dug through the debris and started building. They have done one of the most marvelous jobs you can imagine. Of course, much work is still needed but they are ever so busy. These people say (and one cannot help but believe them when you see evidence of the horror they have suffered in war) that they simply cannot endure fighting again. I just hope this feeling for the necessity of peace goes on through to the top echelons in the Kremlin.

While in Warsaw we visited the only automobile factory in Poland. It employs 10,000 people who work in two shifts. Presently they are producing 40 cars daily—mostly for export.

We also had our usual briefing session at our Embassy and a reception at Ambassador and Mrs. Jacobs' home. For the first time some of the top Polish government officials had been invited to the Ambassador's home socially, so there was a rather strained atmosphere on the parts of both the Americans and the Poles present. It was a nice party, however, and I only got into two arguments which, to those who know me, is some sort of minimum record. Everywhere I have been on this trip I was greeted, after saying a few words, with the question, "Where are you from—Alabama or Georgia?" When I would reply "Alabama," the next question would, of course be about the segregation situation as it applies to the University, etc. As we all know, the subject is a serious one and I have gone to great lengths in all instances to try to cover the true side of the picture which I found has not been done in the foreign (and sometimes the State-aided) press. But this night I was tired and I did not care for the personality of the young Communist

An interesting sidelight to this stop was that our guide, a young newspaperman who had been accepted into the Communist Party only four days earlier after serving a year's "apprenticeship," was asked if he, like most Poles, was Catholic. He said, rather curtly, "No. I was born into the Church but—no more." After that exchange I made it a point to watch his conduct in the cathedral and the power of habit or heart or something evidently was too strong because he pretended to be hunting some of our group and as he passed in front of the altar I saw him, very furtively, cross himself.

At a reception and dinner in our honor we had a private interview with Mr. Czeslaw Bajer, of the Foreign Trade Ministry, and Mr. Josef Winienski, Deputy Foreign Minister and an ex-ambassador to the United States. They both emphasized over and over that trade is the important item insofar as Polish-American relations are concerned, pointing out that they are enjoying an annual equal export-ness observers will watch the movement closely, since many metals will be a boon to many manufacturers, especially if it means their big spurt at the end of a rise for the economy as a whole.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY
I don't know how you feel about it but I'm sure glad that the cockeyed wedding is over. Now maybe the press, radio and television folks will get over their hysterics and reduce that blood pressure to a point where a normal human being can read his newspaper or look at television without having to wrangle through a mess of guff about the Prince and Princess.

So a movie star and a foreigner with a trick title get married. Fine, why do we have to go overboard and struggle through every little detail for weeks and weeks? If all column writers on the subject were laid out to end they would probably reach from here to there and back again and the newspapers are screaming over a shortage of newsprint. It don't make sense.

I was gratified to find that the summer edition of House Beautiful's "Guide for the Bride" didn't carry one line about Grace Kelly or Monaco but it did have a lot to say about Florida as an ideal place for a honeymoon and urged starry eyed youngsters to consider our state as a honeymooner's paradise.

For some time now, "Guide for the Bride" has been promoting Florida as a haven for honeymooners and in their current issue they feature a four section article: "Where to go, How to go, Where to stay and What to see," authored by four top flight Florida publicists.

B. R. Fuller Jr. director of the Florida Development Commission handles the "Where to Go" section admirably. He informs his readers that in the past decade Florida has become as much a part of the wedding planning as the "something old, something new" tradition that has come down through the ages and points out that no matter what the import of two hundred million dollars each way with Red China as against only a fraction of that with the United States had trade commitments all over the world which have to be honored and also that we are in the position of not needing many of the items that Poland, for instance, has to export.

One other thing and I must get this off, the prices of "luxuries" were, like in Prague, extremely high—a pony of vodka $2.00; a cup of coffee $2.00; small stuffed doll on a horse (whole toy about 9 inches high) $95.00; eggs 50c to $1.00 each, etc. It is estimated that 75 per cent of the average Pole's salary goes for food. On the other hand, contrary to our system, rent is extremely cheap, only about 3 to 5 per cent of his income. In spite of the high prices the people, however, seem to be well fed and adequately clothed and either content or resigned to their life. I must confess it appeared to me that the correct adjective would be "content."

The next letter will be about our five days in Moscow.

honeyymooners seek, they find it provided in abundance in the Sunshine State.

Larry Olenick, Regional Director of Public Relations for National Airlines discusses the subject of "How to Go." While Larry stresses air travel for speed and comfort the fact remains that splendid deluxe train and bus transportation is also available while those who prefer to drive their own cars will find excellent roads awaiting them.

Hank Meyer, Director of the Miami Beach News Bureau tells of the charm and advantages of the state's semitropical where accommodations at modern tourist resorts are available to suit any pocket book and where amusement and entertainment of every sort abound.

Ed Frick Jr., Editor of the Florida Newspaper News and Radio Digest and a director of the Florida Public Relations Association takes his readers on a personally conducted tour of the state, describing the pleasures that attend a visit to such attractions as St. Augustine with its Oldest House, the Old Fort, Marine Studios and many other points of interest.

He invites motorists entering the state to be sure and see the Stephen Foster Memorial Park at White Springs, Rainbow Springs and Silver Springs in Marion County, Tommy Bartlett's famed Deer Ranch and the Carriage Cavalcade.

He takes them to Bok Tower, The Great Masterpiece, Cypress Gardens, through the splendid citrus groves of central Florida and over to the Gulf for visits to Weeki Wachee Springs, Sunshine Museum and Gardens, the Ringling Museum and Circus Hall of Fame and then through the fabulous Everglades with its cane and vegetable fields, the Sugar House and cattle ranches.

Reaching Miami he includes visits to such attractions as the Seagraves, Monkey and Parrot Jungles, Viscaya and numerous other interesting attractions. I just don't see how any prospective honeymooners can resist coming to Florida after reading the current issue of "Guide for the Bride." It is a wonderful boost for Florida.

My Father worketh and I work. John 5:17. Those who hoard wealth so their children need not work defeat their own ends. They destroy their children. Learn Lot About Person On Journey

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Notes on travel by a poor man's Marco Polo:

You never really know a person until you go on a journey with him. During a two-week trip you can learn more about him than by associating with him half a lifetime in his own home town.

Travel may not be nice to an honest woman. If she goes on an expensive vacation but for one reason or another has a lousy time, she'll rarely admit this fact when she gets back home.

She feels the money is never wasted so long as her neighbors envy the fun they think she had—but really didn't. This may sound like a feminine weakness. It isn't at all. It is part of the armorplate of her strength. Women believe only fools brag about the mistakes they make.

Very few people have the strength of character to stick rigidly to a diet while on shipboard. The greatest possible test of will-power is the ability to actually start a diet while on shipboard. I have never known anyone who could—so did.

This is surprising in a way, for most people aboard ship don't even eat because the food is so good—the meals seldom are as good as you can get at a good restaurant ashore—but because they are expected to. It is traditional.

The only really superior dishes aboard most liners are the desserts.

The greatest sadists among travelers are those who, when a ship is rolling in a heavy storm, stuff themselves at the table while murmuring to wan-faced fellow passengers, "seasickness is all in the mind."

Any dolt who makes an observation like that certainly has a poor sense of location.

There are two types of snobs on every tropical voyage; those who endlessly try themselves in the sun so they can come back with a tan—and those who stay out of the sun altogether, just as if they can look different.

The thing that disturbs the peace of mind of most amateur travelers all through a voyage is "Just whom should I tip—and how much?"

There isn't one out of 10 travelers who know the right answer. Probably there isn't any.

My system: I tip everyone who smiled at me during the voyage—including fellow passengers. Then when my money runs out, I walk by the others head down, holding out my empty wallet like a drooping flag.

There has been so much propaganda put out about the superior services provided by airline stewardesses—much of it justified, it must be admitted—that few travelers dare to raise a holler when they occasionally run into a snippy stewardess.

I, for one, am afraid even to turn down a packet of gum when offered by one of these smiling airline lassies, for fear she'll take it as a form of criticism.

The saddest sight abroad is a group of lame-footed tourists, bullied by a guide into taking an exhaustive tour of all the local museums and monuments in the holy name of culture.

The average visitor can absorb more real worthwhile human culture spending a pleasant evening in the home of an ordinary French family in Paris than he can in three days of wandering through the Louvre.

The best part of any journey is not in remembering what strange sights you saw—but what interesting people you met along the way.

Most of the strange sights are already in books and you can look at them at home. But to meet the people you have to get out and go—and make your own memories.

Silly? Abstract? No!
It's Fun For Photographer!

"EGG BY SUNLIGHT" — by James W. Bell of San Diego, Calif. Prize winner in a Graflex photo contest. Made with a 5 x 8 Graflex. View in 1/100 sec. at f/16.

Tired of trying to make portraits of animals, people? Get real silly, and you might find you've come up with a terrific idea!
The appeal of this egg lies in the fact that it falls into the category of things "I've seen many times and never thought of taking."
A striking effect was achieved when the shot was made with existing sunlight and the shadow of a wire fence on the egg. Shooting the picture is the last thing, T. T. Holden, photo director, Graflex, Inc., Rochester, N. Y., points out. It's the planning that counts. Where would you put the egg? You must view the subject from different angles and at different levels — down low, up high and from the left and right.
Each time observe the form of the object, consider both its outline and the angle at which the sun strikes it. Rotate it in relation to the sun. You'll find one position in which the pattern of light and shadow best reveals its natural form.
The 5 x 8 Graflex View used to take this photo probably is one of the most versatile and flexible cameras for still-life shots. It can be used equally well by both the amateur and professional.
Small objects are easily magnified, allowing many lighting possibilities. Also, magnification of the miniature adds drama itself.
Try some still-life photography yourself, and you'll get valuable experience in lighting and composition. And if you stick to it, you'll be sure to get some really striking prints to add to your collection.

For real space-saving in a small bathroom, consider sliding mirror doors for the medicine cabinet. These mirrors slide open to make either side of the cabinet shelving accessible, and provide extra light, more mirror space for careful grooming. Both the mirrors and the chromium frames they're set into can be kept sparkling by going over them sparkling by going over them daily with a sudsy sponge, followed by a brisk polishing with a soft cloth.

After May 1 the couple will be at home at 212 1/2 W. 16th Street.
Out-of-town guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Lumberson, Marysville, Ohio; Harry Huffman and daughter, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. James Huffman, Orlando; Mr. and Mrs. A. K. Holzman, Daytona; Mrs. E. E. Buds II For Safety
Safety officials warn against storing oily mops in closets where spontaneous combustion can cause serious home fires. This is a wise precaution, why not eliminate the fire hazard entirely?
Instead, soak oily mops promptly in a pail of hot soap or detergent suds to loosen the greasy oil. Then launder in clean suds, rinse, and dry. The clean mop will do a better job of floor waxing, next time.

A Doctor in the Family

By ELIZABETH SEIFERT

WIDOWS

Linda looked for forty years, and looked for ten, but she still was called by her girlhood name. She had been a great belle, and was still a pretty little old woman.

"She always was silly!" declared Aunt Flora, smiling, "and you never noticed it? I recall so well the time she chose to attract attention by riding an unbroken horse side-saddle. All swishy skirts and petticoats. The animal reared, and she went down—with you men most concerned! She came out, of course, but not ready yet to die—and she wasn't hurt beside! I remember so well how you left me sitting lone in the demure and made love her..."

"Uncle Arthur murmured something about that being fifty years ago, and this dissolved Aunt Flora into tears. "Don't weep, Flora," he begged. "That's all done and gone."

"It's not, though," claimed Aunt Flora in a suffocating voice. "Just yesterday—I saw you pet her hand, and bend your back and scrape your feet..."

"Oh, for the good Lord's sake, Flora!" cried her exasperated husband. "That was just manners, and you know it! I'm too old for it to be anything else! And you're too old to think so. I can't get into trouble with a woman, and just as certainly you're not in danger from any man!"

"To announce her immaturity from amorous involvements was the unforgivable sin with Aunt Flora. She rose, weeping, from the table, and stumbled toward the door; and Jacob waited on her decision as to the cloth and china which she wanted washed. He too spoke to her as "Miss Linda." She was given to calling Mrs. Thornton, even down town. Mrs. Alas sometimes, but more often Miss Linda. She was Mrs. Thornton.

"Well, what matter? He helped her to the bath, and she had to wash the saucy cloth, then asked for paper and towels to protect it while arranging the flowers. She glanced, questioning, up at Jacob. He nodded. "You got a hand, Miss Linda," he said approvingly. "Please finished into her cheeks, and sparkled in her eyes."

Then she caught the way Jacob's hand stilled even before she realized that the soft murmur of voices from the breakfast room had been the sharpness of charge and countercharge.

"Oh, dear," she breathed.

"It's heavy it out, Miss Linda," Jacob offered discreetly.

"Thank you, Jacob." One could not discuss the family and its affairs with the servants, even with a boy who'd been born and raised on the place.

Linda turned, crossed the small passage and went into the pleasant breakfast room. Aunt Flora and Uncle Arthur sat at the corner of the table, their whole attention upon the quarrel which was mounting into a furious frenzy. Poor, fat, foolish Aunt Flora—poor, thin and equally foolish, Uncle Arthur. As correct and precise in his neat tan suit, starched white collar and baby-pink skin as Aunt Flora was fussy in her negligee and lace cap, her beads and her twinkly rings.

Linda stood unnoticed in the doorway, looking in on the room.

Aunt Flora was complaining, tearfully, about her husband's attentions to Miss Little Mae Honey-cuit.

Miss Little Mae had been Mrs. Thornton.

"But, Alas!" Kennedy was seventy-five miles from Vahalla. And if he was going to operate there—"Yes, dear," he agreed to all the things he knew had come into her mind. "I am afraid I shall be late for dinner. I'm terribly sorry to do this, Linda, but—"

"Don't worry about me! I feel sure I can celebrate even a wedding anniversary alone. But your mother, Alan—"

"Alan won't like it," he agreed, his dry tone indicating to what extent Bertha disliked any disruption in her plans.

"Can't they get someone else, Alan? Kennedy is nearly a hundred miles away—"

"It's seventy-five—and they do have a surgeon, Linda. He called me. But this case—one can't be moved. I'm closer than any city doctor. It's a young woman, dear. Just in a head-on auto crash. She's a pregnant beauty. I've never seen—her diaphragm is ruptured, with the spleen, liver and intestine pushed through—and the lung collapsed. She—I have to try to correct all that I can, dear. She—she's pregnant besides."

"Oh, dear! But can you...?"

"I don't know. I'm going to try. If they could find another surgeon closer, I reckon they would have him by now. I'm sorry, darling."

"Of course you must go," she agreed, quickly. "Then in an effort to send him off on as pleasant a note as possible: "But don't pretend to leave me. I know your real love!"

"Linda chuckled. "You do, eh? Red-headed, isn't she?"

"All colors. Assorted. Patients come that way."

"I'll grant the assortment," he told his wife. "But I'll argue the identity of your rival. I'm only sorry for my patients, dear Linda; it's their ailments that I love!"

She laughed. "I can't see that it makes much difference... Oh! I want to ask about the Medley boy."

"She sensed the quickening of his interest. "Yes!" he said eagerly. "We had a confirmation this morning! Definitely sickle-cell. Linda, I did right, too, in beginning transusions."

"You always do right where your patients are concerned," she would have qualified the faintly bitter statement, but Alan spoke to someone at the hospital, and did not comment or answer Linda. When he began to talk to her again, it was to say sadly that things were bad for the six-year-old Negro child. "What shall I do, Linda? Tell his mother that Oscar can't live—that he'll surely die before he gets to the hospital?"

"Oh, no!" Her protest was richly compassionate. "Let her hope, Alan! If a woman can't hope, she has nothing."

She felt his sigh against her ear-drum. "Thank you, Linda," he said gravely. "I'll take your advice. Your understanding surpasses... or is it abundance? Anyway, I do! Good-by, dear."

Linda put the phone down, a little smile tucked into the corner of her soft lips. Indeed his real love was his profession. That he let Linda share in that love made the real intimacy of their marriage. She should be content...

CHAPTER TWO

PAD AND PENCIL at hand, Linda sat her breakfast and looked at the clock. This done she moved on to other tasks. This was the day, Saturday, to arrange new flowers throughout the house.

"I had to get the glads and some ferns from the city, Miss Linda," the gardener told her, his eyes speculative. "This is a don't tell Alas! She expects so much..."

Linda reassured the old fellow. He kept the grounds and the little greenhouse beautifully; if Alas had expected more, it was too much. Linda took a few minutes to look over the house, to the dining room where the banquet top had already been placed upon the table, and Jacob waited on her decision as to the cloth and china which she wanted washed. He too spoke to her as "Miss Linda." She was given to calling Mrs. Thornton, even down town. Mrs. Alas sometimes, but more often Miss Linda. She was Mrs. Thornton.

"Well, what matter? He helped her to the bath, and she had to wash the saucy cloth, then asked for paper and towels to protect it while arranging the flowers. She glanced, questioning, up at Jacob. Marlins Counting On Paige

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The Miami Marlins are counting on Leroy Satchel Paige to help them off the ground in the International League race but the ancient pitcher insists it won't be by helicopter.

Paige came to the Marlins on opening night-by whirlwind. He was supposed to land on the pitcher's mound before the game but somehow the pilot missed his signal and it wasn't until second inning that Satch stepped out of the flying machine in a cloud of dust.

He was properly attired in a baseball uniform and ambled to the dugout. Someone brought a rocking chair. Paige obligingly took it and struck a familiar pose.

Bill Veeck, executive vice president of the Marlins, insists that bringing in Paige was no joke but a sincere effort to help the ball club.

"I wouldn't have brought Satch here if he wasn't going to be a help to the ball club," Veeck said. "The old boy still has got a lot on the ball. I honestly think he'll be a big help."

Asked what it cost to bring Paige to the Marlins, Veeck admitted only that he comes high.

"Paige and I have been friends for years," Bill said. "He was with me last year on a barnstorming tour. He can still pitch."

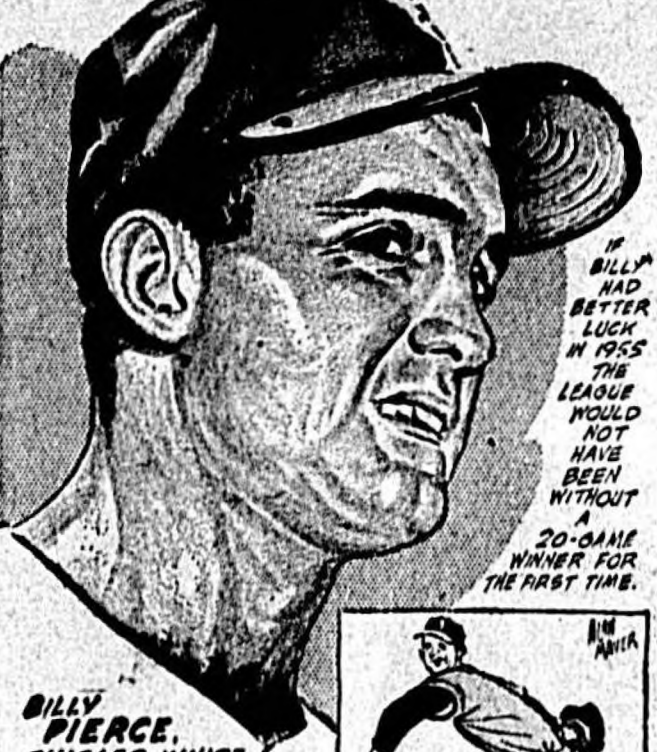

Paige, who entertains the other players with his antics, retired the final batter Sunday night in the second game of a double-header to save a 3-2 decision for Miami.

Last night Manager Don Osborn called on him and Paige came through again. He pitched to Alvin Clark, the ex-Cleveland outfielder who came on as a pinch hitter.

Clark hit the ball solidly but outfielder Dave Mann raced to his left and hauled it in for the final out for Rochester, which won the game anyway 2-1.

The Marlins' roster does not list Paige's age, but his friends say he is in the neighborhood of 60, give or take a few years.

Williams Means Lot To Boston Red Sox

By JOE REICHLER
The Associated Press

How much does Ted Williams mean to the Boston Red Sox? The inescapable truth is that the Red Sox, without Ted Williams, are a second-division club. With him, they're a pennant contender.

The recent series with the New York Yankees demonstrated how feeble the club really is when Williams is out of the lineup.

The combination of a light schedule and bad weather yesterday, which wiped out all major league action except Brooklyn's 6-1 victory over Philadelphia, gave an opportunity for a check of Boston box scores during the past four seasons. Starting with 1932, the year Williams left the club to serve his second term with the Marines (the figure plainly shows Ted's value to the Red Sox).

From the start of the 1932 season to date, the Red Sox have won 316 games while losing 305 for a .509 percentage. With Williams in the lineup, they won 144 and lost 111. That's a .565 gait. Without him, they won 172 and lost 194 for a .470 percentage.

Boston won the first two games handsly this season. Williams clubbed four hits in five times at bat. The Red Sox made it three in a row the next day with Williams out of the lineup because of a foot injury. Then came the three successive losses to the Yankees, 7-1, 14-10 and 13-6. Ted got into action in two of those games as a pinch hitter, driving in a run with a single.

Boston's schedule game with Baltimore last night was postponed because of cold weather. It may prove a blessing because it gives Ted another day to recover from his injury.

Five games were scheduled yesterday, all under the lights, but cold weather, rain and snow combined to wipe them all off the slate except the game between the Brooklyn Dodgers and Phillies in Philadelphia.

In Philadelphia, young Don Drysdale, Brooklyn's rookie right-hander, made his first major league start and turned in an impressive performance. The 19-year-old Montreal graduate yielded nine hits but pitched superbly in the clutch, striking out nine batters.

Fight Stopped In 1st Round

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Flash Elorde, one of the top featherweights of the Orient and champion of the Philippines, pounded Cleo Lane of Oakland into submission in 2:26 of the first round of a scheduled 10-rounder here last night.

The referee stopped the fight. Elorde weighed 140½ pounds to Lane's 129½.

Elorde, a southpaw, came out of his corner punching with both hands. He had Lane backing up from the first seconds, as he fired left hooks to the head and body.

Lane staggered around the ring almost from the first contact. The Oakland fighter was so busy trying to save himself that he was able to get in almost no blows.

"I think that will give us plenty of time between races," Boyd said. "We do plenty of training and are in good condition. After all, even an ordinary practice session calls for at least an hour of good, hard running."

Bucs Are Victors Over Giants 8-2

Although the big guns were with the Giants in their Rotary league game with the Pirates yesterday, the long end of the score went to the Bucs, 8 to 2.

The winning pitcher, Wendell Brooks, racked up the only two hits his club got, but the hapless Giants pumped out five safeties, including doubles by McCoy and Holloway.

Lester Bush in the second inning had trouble finding the platter and passed four men. A hobble at short resulted in two tallies crossing home, and three errors at third base helped the Pirates garner five runs for the chucker. They got one in the first when Halligan was put on as McCoy's glove ticked his bat, and two in the fourth as Getman was hit and Brooks singled to round the sacks and earn home.

The Giants tied up the game as each first when McKibbin singled and after stealing second, came home on McCoy's two base clout. They, too, managed to score in the fourth sending Butler around after he took first on a single.

Sanders Favorite In North, South Amateur Tourney

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Doug Sanders, who learned his golf in a nine-hole course in Cedar town, Ga., found himself in the role of favorite as the North and South Amateur tournament, heretofore pegged as a wide-open affair, began match play today.

The 23-year-old plastic products salesman, who now calls Miami Fla. home, won medal honors yesterday with a record-smashing 66, six-under par.

It was the lowest qualifying round since the 56-year-old tournament cut qualifying play from 30 holes to 18 in 1934. The confident, businesslike manner in which he played stamped Sanders as the man to beat.

Hillman Robbins of Memphis, Tenn., shot a 70 and was the only other player in the field of 114 to better par 72 over the 7,000 yard No. 2 course of the Pinehurst Country Club.

Sanders headed the upper half of the draw. His opponent today was Keely Grice, an accomplished Charlotte player.

Others in the upper half included Frank Strafaci, Garden City, N.Y., a two-time North-South winner; Dave Smith, Gastonia, medalist and semifinalist last year; Eddie Merrins, youngster from Meridian, Miss.; Dick Chapman, the perennial Pinehurst hope; Bill Hynndman of Hunts hope; Bill Hynndman of Abington, Pa., 1935 National Amateur runnerup, and Alex Welsh from Rockford, Ill., runnerup here two years ago.

Robbins, heading the lower half of the draw, met Jack Lumpkin of Athens, Ga., who last year bounced Guy Conrad out of the Southern Amateur tournament a week after the Texan had won the British Amateur.

Another two-time winner, Bill Campbell from Huntington, W. Va., also was in the bottom half along with Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N. C., the 1954 champion, and Don Blasinghoff of Orlando, Fla., the defending champion.

Blasinghoff, who injured his left leg and knee in a fall a week ago, limped around for a 78.

The victory moved the Dodgers into a first-place tie with Milwaukee. Each club has a 4-2 record.

Drysdale, a lanky, baby-faced youngster with a side-arming style not unlike Ewell Blackwell, walked only one batter.

The kid himself set up the winning rally in the fifth. After Carl Furillo had walked, he got the first hit off veteran Murry Dickson, a single to left, Junior Gilliam and Poe Wee Reese followed with singles to give the Dodgers a 3-0 lead. The Dodgers added insurance runs in the eighth and ninth.

 property was bought in a C-2 district for his garage and body shop for which he had purchased a substantial amount of tools and equipment for the venture.

The Board of Commissioners also heard a report from the State Road Department concerning the survey of French Ave. and intersections with First St., Third, Ninth, Thirteenth, Twentieth and 25th Streets.

The report stated that only two of the intersections, from the survey, warrant traffic signal installations. The intersection of French Ave. and First St. and the intersection at 13th St. However, the State Road Department, in its report from M. A. Connor, Engineer of the Traffic and Planning Division, requested that a three-face traffic light (red, amber and green) be placed at the 13th St. intersection, be tied in with the railroad flashing signal so that when the flashers are operating the traffic signal will automatically indicate red toward approaching traffic in all directions.

The Sanford City Commissioners, however, will request that a manually operated (by adults only) light be installed at the intersection of French Ave. and Third St. for use during the morning pre-school period, at the noon recess period and at the school close period.

Records Produced To Answer Charges Made By Candidate

The Board of Sanford City Commissioners, last night, revealed from the minutes of the commission meetings that Robert M. Angus and Associates, were employed by the City of Sanford Feb. 4, 1952.

The motion for the employment of the engineering firm was made by City Commissioner Randall Chase, seconded by Commissioner John Kader, and William H. Stempert who was then Mayor.

Negative votes were cast by Commissioners John Ivey and Andrew Caraway.

According to the records of the City, Commissioner John Kader took office Jan. 8, 1954, nearly two years after the firm of engineers was employed.

The records were produced to answer charges by a candidate for the Board of County Commissioners that Kader was on the Board of Commissioners when the firm was employed to complete plans for the Sanford sewage system.

Kader, according to the City Commissioner made a motion, during the height of the sewer program, to fire the firm of engineers. However, the motion died because there was no second to the move.

It is estimated that Central America will double its population in the next 30 years.

Mrs. T. Gallagher Is Welcome Wagon Hostess In Area

Mrs. Thomas J. Gallagher of this City, has returned from Jacksonville, where she completed a course of training preparing her for the position of Welcome Wagon Hostess which she now holds in this community.

Mrs. Gallagher resides at Rt. 1, Box 190 and is one of Welcome Wagon's more than 5,000 hostesses who are making approximately a million calls annually on families in the United States, including Hawaii and in the Provinces of Canada, embracing more than 1500 cities.

These calls on behalf of Welcome Wagon's more than 50,000 Sponsors are made on such important, family occasions as the birth of a baby, sixteenth birthdays, engagement announcements; also when families move locally in a community and when they arrive in a community as new residents. Calls are also made on special occasions such as golden wedding anniversaries and other special family events.

Thomas W. Briggs, formerly of Memphis, Tenn., is founder and president of Welcome Wagon, which is "in the business of building friendships." Welcome Wagon's basic policy includes cooperation with people of all faiths, with worthwhile civic and welfare groups; also participation in these activities which keep communities good places in which to live. It is significant that a Welcome Wagon has been cited for its volunteer service and achievement in community and nation by such organizations as the American National Red Cross, National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, American Heart Association, American Heritage Foundation, United States Treasury Department and many other such groups.

Welcome Wagon service is one not only of public relations but, more important, it meets a present-day need in the field of human relations.

Mrs. Gallagher, on behalf of her sponsors here in Sanford, will bring Church and Civic information to the families on whom she calls. With her basket of gifts, Mrs. Gallagher will extend for those sponsors to the people of this community the old-fashioned hospitality for which Welcome Wagon is so well known.

Mrs. Gallagher knows this community. She is interested in its welfare and in its progress, including the well-being of its citizens.

A GOOD SIGN—The Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station sets another safety precedent with the installation of "Yield Right of Way" signs at intersections where it is not considered necessary to come to a complete stop in every instance. The new placards replace the old standard Stop signs. Preparing to mount the new signs are Dan C. Spivey (second from left) and T. J. Michels, both civilian employees of the NAS. Charity Drive Report Given Captain Robert W. Jackson, Commanding Officer at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station, revealed yesterday that a total of $8,246.93 has been raised in the current Charity Drive being conducted station-wide at the local Navy Base.

The quota set for the drive was $10,000. However, Captain Jackson said that the drive is just about over but additional funds are yet to come in that may bring the fund up to the goal set during March.

Captain Jackson said that "one particular item of interest is the fact that the civilian personnel overmet their goal by about $250."

The Charity Drive, conducted annually at the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station, will replace the many drives that are usually held for various charitable causes.

The Empire State beacon is stretching a finger of light against the sky. The light is rated at two billion candlepower. The new beacons, installed at a cost of $250,000, are supposed to be seen for 80 miles.

Travel Is A Problem When Baby's Along

By HERMAN M. BUNDLESSEN, M.D.

It won't be long before the vacation season is here. For you new parents, especially, a vacation away from home will be a welcome relief from everyday monotony.

But traveling with babies presents certain problems, as many of you who have tried it will know. So it might be a good idea to begin a few preparations now, or at least a week or so before you leave.

Baby Food
 Probably the most important thing to consider when traveling is food for your youngster. Commercial baby food makes things a lot easier for you than they were for your parents.

But frequently milk is a problem. There probably will be limited when you aren't sure of the freshness of the milk available. To prevent any illnesses, it might be a good idea to take along some evaporated or dried milk.

It's a fairly simple matter to carry sterile nipples, bottles and caps along with special nursery or baby water in your car. Then you can mix the milk as it's needed.

It might be advisable to give your lot an evaporated or dried milk mixture for a week or two before your departure so he will become used to it.

It's also a good plan to get your youngster accustomed to sleeping under different conditions long before you take him away from home and the comfort of his regular bed.

Most of the time, of course, he should sleep in his crib. But once in a while let him spend a night in his carriage or in some other safe, comfortable place. If you do, he'll be less apt to keep you awake the first few evenings you spend in some strange motel, hotel or cottage.

Disposable diapers, of course, are ideal for the traveling infant. And since he'll be wearing waterproof pants, you should change him frequently to help prevent diaper rash.
