

Impossible to Imitate Opal. Alone among jewels the opal defies the ingenuity of the imitator. It owes its charm not so much to its own intrinsic merits as to the splendor of the rays of light that it reflects.

When Every Man Was an Enemy. During the medieval period doors were small and narrow, so that only one person could pass through at a time, owing to the universal need for protection against attack.

Philosophy of Health. This philosophy of health may be summed up in three words: "Work, wash and pray." The greatest blessing that man enjoys—as is realized—is his ability and opportunity to work.

Natural Death Intervened. A woman's natural death in the act of trying to hang herself formed the subject of an inquest at Liverpool, England, recently. Sarah Stafford, thirty-six, widow of a ship laborer, was found hanging in her bedroom by a belt attached to the rail of the bed, but it was established by medical evidence that she died from heart failure before she could actually commit suicide.

Paper Box Industry Large. Paper box making, one of the new but very important industries of this country, has made its greatest progress during the last half century, and particularly within the last twenty years, after modern machinery had been introduced.

When Cleaning Furniture. When cleaning upholstered furniture it is often either impossible or inconvenient to move it outdoors. In such a case place a damp cloth over the piece of furniture and then beat it, changing the cloth several times during the process.

Child's Costly Plaything. A six-year-old Edinburgh (Scotland) child has had a rare privilege for a day or two of banging about a $500 diamond-studded watch as a plaything. He found it in the street, and neither his father nor his mother dreamed of its value till they saw an advertisement for its recovery.

Delicacy Known to the Ancients. The raised meat pies, so dear to the heart of the Englishman, and the no less delicious deep pies, made in pastry-lined bowls, were well known to Apicius, and he even gives explicit instructions about leaving a hole in the upper crust through which the steam may escape.

Bad Both Ways. "A man should not seek an election to the senate with a view to making money." "No," replied Senator Borah, "and on the other hand, he'll be criticised just the same if he accumulates money with a view to getting into the senate."

Food After the Flood. Every moving thing that liveth shall be food for you; as the green herb have I given you all. But flesh with the life thereof, which is the blood thereof, shall ye not eat.—Genesis ix; 3-4.

Combine Against the Genius. When a true genius appears in the world, you may know him by this sign, that the dunces are all in confederacy against him.—Swift.

Recipe for Happier World. If people thought less about their own digestions and more about the welfare of other people it would be a healthier and a happier world.

Epitaph Worth Striving For. His heart was as great as the world, but there was no room in it to hold the memory of a wrong.—Emerson.

Park Trammell, the Man Who Made the Run-away Race for Governor, Tells of Campaign and Thanks His Fellow Floridians.

TO THE DEMOCRATS OF FLORIDA:

I wish to thank the MANY THOUSAND VOLUNTEERS who so loyally RALLIED to my support in the Primary on April 30th.

I wish to tender friendly greetings to all who supported either of my opponents and assure them I appreciate their manhood in selecting the candidate of their choice.

Throughout the campaign I have said the people of Florida were going to sound the death knell to the idea, apparently entertained by a few only, that public office is a chattel that is sold at outcry to the highest bidder, that they would not require the matching of dollars of the man whom they would have serve them as Governor, and that I believed the VERDICT OF THE PEOPLE would, when recorded, be - THE MAN AND NOT THE DOLLAR SHALL TRIUMPH. THE WAR OF BALLOTS for the first primary is over and it is clear to all that MONEY CANNOT WIN IN THIS CONTEST - THAT THE PEOPLE ARE GOING TO RULE AND NOT BE SERFS, DRIVEN HITHER AND THITHER BY THE DOLLAR.

While a token of confidence has been given me, for which I am truly grateful, my race is most significant in that it is A REMARKABLE VICTORY FOR THE PROPER PRINCIPLES OF GOOD GOVERNMENT.

My only campaign headquarters was a room in my plain and humble home. My only campaign manager was the faithful and devoted little wife, toiling day and night, assisted largely by friends who worked without pay, in preparing and mailing the limited amount of literature issued by me. My official duties were such I could not campaign as much as did my opponents. Only about ONE-FIFTH as much ADVERTISING was done by me as by EACH OF my strongest OPPONENTS. At least FIVE TIMES as much MONEY was EXPENDED, in behalf of the candidacy of each of my strongest OPPONENTS, as in behalf of my candidacy. NOT ONE PENNY HAS BEEN EXPENDED FOR WORKERS OR SPEAKERS FOR ME OR FOR THEIR EXPENSES. It was a mighty HOST OF VOLUNTEERS who knew I had been TRUE, FAITHFUL AND LOYAL TO THE PEOPLE, who knew I would CHAMPION THE PEOPLE'S CAUSE in the future, who RALLIED TO MY SUPPORT. If I am made Governor, and it is generally believed I will be, I shall OWE MY ELECTION TO THE PEOPLE and them only. I SHALL SERVE THEM AND THEM ONLY.

The approximate vote in the first Primary was:

TRAMMELL.....	26,500
MILTON.....	11,000
GIBBONS.....	10,000
WATSON.....	10,500
SEMPLER.....	800

My lead is FIFTEEN THOUSAND OVER the next candidate, and I received FOUR THOUSAND more than the combined vote of the two candidates having second and third place, and lacked only about 3,000 of winning over all. Forty counties out of the forty-eight gave me a lead. Twenty-three counties gave me a majority over the entire opposition. In Polk, Leon, Hillsboro and Gadsden, all counties in which I have lived and where best known, I received a majority over all my opponents.

THE SECOND PRIMARY.

At this time I do not know if the next high man will or will not force upon the people and myself a second primary. Many of his friends think he should not.

The people generally are of the opinion I ought not to be required further expense on account of a second primary, it being so apparent from the first primary that a large majority of the voters favor me, and that if a second primary is required I will without a doubt be nominated by many thousand majority.

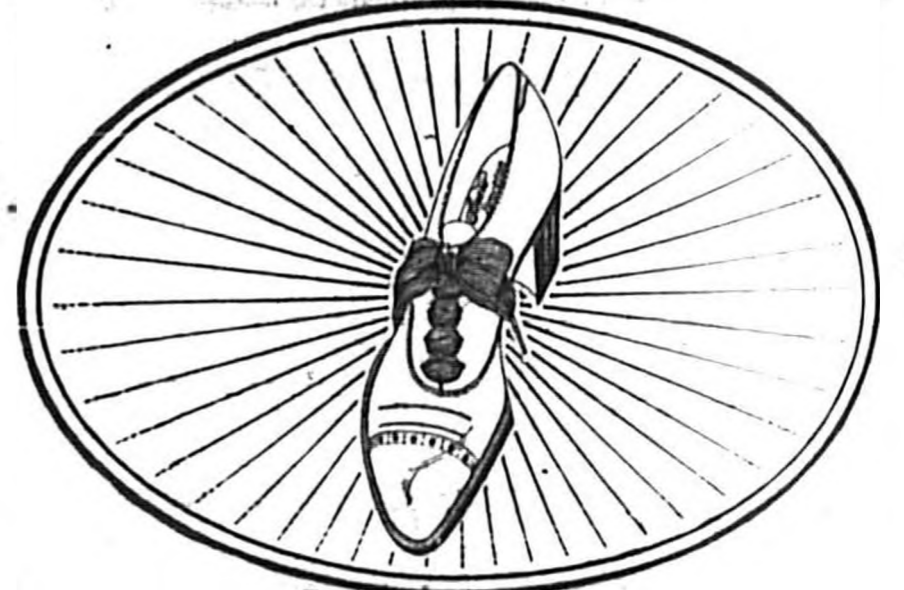

IF A SECOND PRIMARY is necessary, I shall be grateful for the continued active support of my friends throughout the State and will very much appreciate the support and vote of each and every voter who shall participate in said primary.

From personal assurances, letters and telegrams, I will undoubtedly hold my own, get the support of a large majority of the friends of the eliminated candidates, some from the candidates opposing me in the second, and WITHOUT A DOUBT WILL BE NOMINATED BY MANY THOUSAND MAJORITY.

PARK TRAMMELL.

SANFORD SECTION WILL HAVE BRICK ROADS

Sanford, the city that believes in brick streets and good roads has become tired of waiting for Orange county to do any more road making of a permanent nature and the Sanford section has petitioned the county commissioners at their meeting last Tuesday to make this a special road district and if this petition is granted this district will bond for enough to make BRICK ROADS within a radius of about eight miles and the road question will be settled for all time.

The petition will not be acted upon until the next meeting of the board and when the question has been settled the work will start at once, and it is to be hoped that our good roads will be finished in time to attract the travel that comes to the state every winter.

By all means let us get together on this question—the most important by far that has ever confronted us and with unanimous efforts build up a system of highways that will make the whole country sit up and take notice.

Orlando as usual is right on the job in the publicity line and the Board of Trade has authorized the printing of 25,000 booklets descriptive of Orlando to be distributed all over the country calling attention to the beauties of Orlando as a winter resort.

Another man drowned at South Beach near St. Augustine, caught in the undertow and no life lines to save him. The laws passed at the last meeting of the Legislature provided for life lines and other life saving apparatus and all the resorts were compelled to have them.

A number of people made the statement the past winter that they never were in a town where they had such splendid auto livery service, where the cars were clean and dressy appearing, drivers courteous and agreeable, and where the rates were more reasonable.—Eustis Lake Region.

NOT ALWAYS THE BEST MAN

Beacham was defeated for Congress although he had a hard fight and did not see many people during his short campaign he should have received more votes. His platform was simple enough to be easily grasped by the most lowly voter and certainly meant more to the average voter than any other candidate could produce.

Some people never hand in an item for publication, but if we happen to miss an item of news in which they are interested they are sure to hand us a north pole stare that would freeze the liver of a polar bear.

When the common earth worm is cut in two he won't make a fuss about it; but to the tail end will grow a head and to the head end will grow a tail. There will be two worms instead of one. Misfortunes often double our strength.

Frank Clark certainly "ran some" on the East Coast, especially in the Everglades counties, where they had him "beaten to a frazzle" before the election. In Palm Beach county Mr. Burr only leads him by 33 votes, and in St. Lucie and Dade, the other two Everglades counties, the vote is in about the same proportion, with Col. Hillburn in the rear.

Frank Clark is the leading candidate for Congress and should receive the vote of the people in the second. The tremendous vote polled by him in the first primary demonstrated the confidence of the people and only the frame up of having two candidates against him prevented his election.

Mrs. Hughes, Hostess

Mrs. R. L. Hughes entertained at a very delightful card party Wednesday afternoon. Auction Lilies was the game played. Mrs. C. M. Vorce made the highest score and won the first prize, a dainty handkerchief. The booby prize, a deck of cards was received by Mrs. Robt. Newman. After the conclusion of the interesting games delicious ice cream and cake were served. Mrs. Hughes' guests were Mrs. C. M. Vorce, Mrs. R. S. Keezor, Mrs. H. M. Papworth, Mrs. Paul Keely, Mrs. Vorce, Mrs. J. D. Langley, Mrs. Geo. H. Fernald, Mrs. O. W. King, Mrs. A. W. Brown, Mrs. R. J. Holly, Mrs. Robt. Newman, Miss White.

Wednesday Club

The Wednesday Club held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Chase Wednesday afternoon, with a large attendance of the members and three visitors. Miss Florence Frank opened the program with a delightful instrumental solo. The minutes were then read by the secretary, Mrs. S. O. Chase.

As chairman of the program committee Mrs. Chase made several suggestions in reference to some changes in the program, which were adopted by the club.

At the request of the president, Miss Mabel Bowler read the names of the books contributed to the Sanford Library at the book shower given by the Wednesday Club several weeks ago.

A very entertaining Swedish program was enjoyed by the club, beginning with a fine article read by Mrs. F. F. Dutton on the rural life, homes and customs of the Swedish people. Mrs. Lilja who was present confirmed many of the statements made by the writer of the article, by interesting reminiscences of her early life in Sweden, the quaint dresses and coverings for the head, manner of making and keeping bread, and especially of the skill of the Swedish women in weaving.

Mrs. L. R. Phillips exhibited several woven articles, among them an apron, and table cover and a section of a beautifully woven rug.

Mrs. J. W. Dickens read an article, describing Swedish life in the cities, especially Stockholm, its churches, universities and palaces, with glimpses of the home life of the royal families.

Accompanied by Miss Frank, Miss Bowler sang "The Rosary."

Two short amusing satires on the "Cultivation Craze" and "The Cause of Her Death" were read by Mrs. M. H. Bowler and Mrs. C. R. Walker, at the conclusion of which the secretary called the roll.

After a few remarks on the past year's work and suggestions for the coming year's plans, the president announced that the club was adjourned until the second Wednesday in November.

The hostess, assisted by Misses Mabel Bowler, Mell Whitner and Florence Frank served delicious ice cream with silver and chocolate cake, while the club enjoyed a social half hour together.

Welaka Club Notes

The regular business of the Welaka Club was held in the club rooms, Tuesday, May 7th, and proved to be a very busy one.

A committee was appointed to draft resolutions on the death of one of our beloved members, Mrs. F. A. Schumpert.

A report was given from the building lot committee as to a suitable lot for a club house. Nothing definite was done and the club as a whole was appointed to make further investigation on that line. We wish to get a lot and start us a club house as soon as possible, and ask the club members to give their hearty cooperation and support in this matter.

Mrs. Dickens next gave her report on the playground entertainment. She returned $57.73 over to the club as the receipts, $19.25 of this will be spent by the civic committee prizes and other work in the town. Also $38.48 was then placed with the club to do with as they wished. It was voted that this be put in the bank with our other funds at interest, to be used in our building lot fund and for us to add to this fund every month.

It was decided that starting with June 1st the club rooms would be closed till the first of October, except for the regular business meeting the first Tuesday in the month, the notice of which will be in the paper each month.

Then came up the matter of next year's programme and many suggestions were given to the different committees. Mrs. Keezor resigned from the Household Economic Committee and Mrs. A. W. Brown was put on in her place.

Mrs. Dickens, Mrs. Stringfellow and Mrs. F. L. Woodruff were appointed to attend the meeting called for Sunday afternoon by the Men and Religion Movement. PRESS REPORTER.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew A. Preston announce the engagement of their daughter, Alice Evelyn Preston to William Speakman Yates of Dungeness, Fernandina, Fla. The wedding will take place on Wednesday, June 19th, at St. Peter's Episcopal Church of Fernandina. Miss Alice will be remembered by Sanford people as she visited her sister, Mrs. Geo. A. DeCottes during several months of last summer.

Chinese Chorus Girls.
In some Chinese theaters the stage manager has an economical custom of employing dummy figures cut out of cardboard and the like, to swell the ranks of the chorus without at the same time swelling the salary list. Obviously, such a device would never do in this country, for a cardboard chorus girl would hardly satisfy the matrimonial requirements of our gilded youth. In China it is most unusual for women to appear on the stage, and the feminine roles are taken by boys.

Do You Know?
A professor of anatomy at Yale College was asked by a boy the other day why boys were not born with 10 toes on each foot, and the wise man couldn't answer. Most men, after they get to be men, are satisfied with five toes on a foot, but a boy really ought to be allowed 10. With only five on a foot he now slips back while climbing a tree to steal apples. We move that the extra toes be provided before another summer.

Gentle Criticism.
On one occasion Hans Richter was present at a concert given by a brother composer, at which the latter performed a long and not particularly interesting work of his own. When the composition came to an end Richter expressed his criticism in a very few words. "Well," he said, "I too have written compositions to make a pile so high," raising his hand three feet from the ground; "but I have burned them!"

Apt Misquotation.
The minister was attempting to carve a very tough fowl at the dinner. As he was trying to separate one of the joints it slid out of the dish to the other side of the table. He calmly picked it up and gravely said: "What God hath joined together let no man put asunder."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Pride.
"Say, Wearsy, I see that some feller in congress is going to ask th' government to give work to everybody." "Say, what do you think of that! Well, you can tell th' feller if you see him that I've got a little too much pride to depend fr me livin' on th' bounty of anybody's government."

Explaining a Resentment.
"I am an American citizen," said the man who got into trouble abroad. "Well," replied the Oriental official, "in that case you can consult some of your own statesmen and understand our resentment of pernicious activity in politics."

Carried Their Own Spoons.
The cry is now for the individual drinking cup. In Queen Elizabeth's time every guest at a banquet brought his own spoon with him.

Accuracy and Honesty.
"Accuracy is the twin brother of honesty; inaccuracy, of dishonesty."—C. Simmons.

Stumon's will not go away this summer. 61-1f

Easily Explained.
"On what footing is college having now?" "It isn't on any footing at all while they are making fellows stand on their heads."

Went and Returned.
Ben Mulford knows a family living in a little country town that recently suffered bereavement. Next day he received a telegram announcing the demise, and the punctuation marks, by their absence, caused the message to read: "Aunt Maggie went to heaven at 3:30 returning by 11:50 tomorrow morning."—Owl.

Agreed at Last.
"I wish I were an ostrich," said Hicks angrily, as he tried to eat one of his wife's biscuits, and couldn't. "I wish you were," returned Mrs. Hicks. "I'd get a few feathers for my hat."

WOMAN'S GREATEST BLESSING

This Information May Be Of Untold Value To Every Reader Of The

Woman's greatest blessing is health. Without it her happiness is wrecked. Ignorance of the proper treatment of the diseases peculiar to her sex causes this deplorable condition. Poor health comes to all classes,—the society woman and the woman who does her own work. Women's diseases often remain hidden and uncured because her natural modesty shrinks from consulting a physician and the disease goes on uncured for and is well advanced before she awakes to the truth. Her many duties often seem of greater importance than health itself and she neglects proper treatment until her life is a wreck. The knowledge that Reno's New Health will surely cure Scanty, Profuse, Painful, Irregular or Suppressed Menstruation, Bleckly Periods, Constant Weariness and Weakness, Depression, Cramps, Dizziness, Violent Headaches, Palpitation of the Heart, Pain in the Back and Groins, Leucorrhoea, all Inflammations, Ulceration and Discharges of the Vagina and Uterus, is of untold value to every reader. It may be that today you are well and strong and are not in need of medical treatment, but weakness and disease come to every woman and then the knowledge that Reno's New Health will cure you will save you years of suffering and perhaps life itself. The sickly woman is the saddest wreck,—not only for herself but also for the loved ones around her, on account of the misery and sadness she causes them. Her children are likely to be sickly and peevish and too weak to properly fight the battles of life. How important, then, it is for every woman to have health. Reno's New Health is sold under an absolute guarantee that it will not cost a cent unless it will do all that is claimed for it. Weigh well this statement. It means your restoration to perfect health and womanhood without risking a penny. Every woman who is weak and ailing or who suffers with the diseases peculiar to her sex should use Reno's New Health at once and be restored to health and happiness.

blamed. "And that reminds me—have you seen the governor this morning? No? Well, talk about hot! George, but the old man was hot under the collar when I saw him just now! And he looks like he had been dropped from a shot tower! It's this case he's working on, I guess, or else it's about Francis. He's found out what I know."

"Do—do you think so?" I questioned nervously.

"Pretty sure," said Billings carelessly. "Fact is, he's already fixing up to send Francis to some kind of reformatory—heard him making the arrangements over the 'phone"—I was glad he didn't look at me as he rattled on—"and, by the way, the governor told me to tell you not to say a word to Francis—I suppose you'll understand."

"Understand? Oh, yes, I understand! And he said he wanted to see you. Is—is he here?" I stammered, pulling back.

"Thank goodness, no. Gona to meet Colonel Francis Kirkland—say, don't say anything about it—wants to surprise his daughter, you know. On his way to London via San Francisco—arrived at Washington a few days ago."

"Oh, the frump's father! Much I care! But knowing how interested he was in her, I tried to show an interest."

"Colonel Francis—er—lan't his daughter named after him?" And I felt myself grow jolly red, for I remembered that she had told me that about her friend as she sat on the arm of the Morris chair and in the black pajamas.

"Hanged if I know," said Billings carelessly. "I don't know what her name is—don't remember that I ever heard." He whistled. "Say, but did you ever see anything as stunningly pretty in your life?"

I balked. By Jove, I had been doing some mild lying within the past twenty-four hours, but this was asking too much. Dash me if I just could go it, that's all. But he didn't seem to notice.

He slipped me on the back. "By George, Dicky, there's just the girl cut out for you, old chap—take my tip. I think she likes you, too—could see it just now when I was talking about you."

So that was it, I reflected gloomily. The frump now was to be worked off on me, and I was expected to stand for it. I was to be a sort of what-you-call-it offering on the altar of friendship. That was the condition upon which he was patching up things!

Billings laughed suddenly. But, oh, I tell you it would be hard on Francis—a regular knockout, by George!"

Devilish brutal for him to say so, I thought.

"Do you think so?" I questioned dully. "Would Francis really care?"

"Oh, yes," he said lightly. "Soon get over it, though—puppy love, you know."

"Puppy love, indeed! By Jove, how I hated Billings!"

He went on. "Suppose you never heard anything of the professor and the pajamas?"

I had not, and I was devilish sick of pajamas, anyway.

"And say, Dicky, I don't remember that I ever thanked you properly, old man, for putting up my kid brother the other night. He says you treated him like a brick and that you and he got to be great pals. So much obliged old chap, because he wanted to go running around, you know."

"Your brother?" I questioned, astonished, and I guess my face must have showed it, for Billings' eyes, first opening wide, narrowed, and his countenance began to gather an angry red. He stopped short.

"Didn't he stay with you?" he snapped.

I stared blankly. "Why, Billings—I didn't know—I didn't remember you had a brother. I never have seen him."

Billings' face swelled redder, and he struck his fist down with an oath. He looked angrily toward the house. Then he stepped hurriedly in advance of me.

"Excuse me, old chap, will you?" he said, his voice hardened. "Will see you at luncheon—make yourself at home, won't you?"

CHAPTER XXX.

Under the Pergola.

Make myself at home! I sneaked under the quiet shade in a convenient pergola, and, dropping upon a bench, gazed gloomily at the sunlight patches at my feet.

"Oh, here you are, eh?" broke harshly upon me.

I looked up, startled from my mood. There, hands upon his hips and scowling, stood—the chauffeur!

I frowned, but the fellow just moved nearer.

"I guess mamma's baby don't feel so spry this morning!" he jeered. "Doesn't those little heady-cums ache-ums—eh?"

I grunted rather wearily. "If it does, my good fellow, it's none of your business. Don't bother me!" I shifted the other way.

"Oh, but it!"—his tone quickened truculently—"Well, maybe I'll make it my business!" He jerked his arm at me, continuing sharply: "Look here, you glass-eyed monkey-jack, don't you get flip with me this morning!"—he laughed coarsely—or I'll think you want some more! Do you?"

I turned my head and, polishing my monocle carefully, gave it a tight screw and took him in slowly beginning with his yellow mop of hair and ending with the toes of his soiled canvas shoes. By Jove, I was sure they'd never been whitened since he bought them.

I seemed to anger him. He uttered a sort of snort with a mutter up-complimentary and strode forward, towering above me where I sat.

"Answer when I'm talking to you, you sphawped fool," he bellowed, or I'll wring your neck! I asked if you wanted some more?"

I stretched my arms, trying their muscle room in a lengthy yawn, and blinked at him with my free eye, wondering where the deuce he got the crimson hat band. By Jove, that was the most dashed impertinent thing of all!

More what?" I drawled indifferent to double over with a chuckle. "Oh, this is too good!" he yelled. "But I can't help it, I just can't refuse the money, Lizzie! I know they'll send me away for this, but—Oh, mamma!"

And over he'd double again. Oddest thing isn't it how your jolly active mind will wander at the runniest times, and I had a thought then of how, when I was a delicate boy, jolly old Doctor Duke and Doctor Maddox had prescribed a punching bag, and later boxing gloves. And I thought with a pang of what ripping times the governor and I had, scrapping, and of what knocks he gradually began to give me until he forced me to learn to come back harder. Jove, what corking hours we had! And then when Chugsey, the retired English light weight champion, came to batter oh, what smashing three-handed rounds we used to have! Bally old governor, who was never so busy on his sermons but what he could take a walk or a ride with me, or talk with me or fight with me! Why, he—

By Jove, my dashed monocle got so cloudy of a sudden, I almost missed the chauffeur's move—almost, don't you know?"

And then—

"I say, you know!" I said diagonally, as I jerked my monocle at him there his yellow mat sticking out of sight through the jolly view. Awfully low thing to strike at a man, and leave your guard open like that—I could have put it over your heart, don't you know?"

I heard a little sound behind me and there was she.

"Oh!" I gasped as I slipped into my coat. And now I was miserable, for I remembered how kind this, chauffeur, Scoggins, had been to her. And for her to have seen me in this vulgar row!

Yes, I saw it all," she said, as I moved toward her, murmuring some jolly effort at apology. Her eyes were shining. "I saw it all, and heard. And just when I had hunted you up with these— and then I saw that her arms were burgeoning with roses. See what I've been doing for you, sir!"

"For me?" By Jove, it was all I could say as I took them!

And you ran off!" She pouted adorably, naturally too, dash it. I've seen them put it on when they looked like they had toothache. How am I ever going to thank you about the pajamas?" By Jove, her big blue eyes looked me frankly in the face. There was never a quiver of embarrassment. It's wonderful—and to find them here!"

"I'd—I'd have got 'em to you sooner, I faltered, swallowing, but they've been lost a day or two—thief stole them from my rooms, you know."

"How on earth did you ever get hold of them? I never expected to see those pajamas again! Oh, you must tell me all about how you managed it!"—and he moved away—"I just wish father were here!"

"I didn't! Dash it, it made me squirm to think of his return.

As we left the pergola behind, I looked backward through its arch, and there was the chauffeur, standing in the shadows, looking after us. And long after, as we turned from the straight avenue leading through the pergola, I descried his figure, still looking after us, unchanged, immovable.

It was rum!

But I had other things to think of as we sat out in the loggia—chiefly of her, herself; withal, wondering gloomily what her father would say when he found I had disobeyed his injunction about not speaking to her. Presently the summons to luncheon came, and we went in.

From up-stairs came sounds indicating great hilarity on Billings' part. In fact, we could hear him slapping his knee and screaming. The frump looked at me anxiously.

"Professor?" The frump looked at Francis, then at Wilkes inquiringly.

"I didn't know, miss," he murmured contritely. "Is why I didn't mention it."

Wm. M. TOOMER
CANDIDATE FOR
Congressman-at-Large

SECOND PRIMARY, MAY 28th

Jacksonville, Fla., May 6, 1912

To the Democrats of Florida:

Gentlemen—

It appears from the returns in the race for Congressman-at-Large, and which are now practically complete, first, that I am to be one of the candidates in the second primary, to be held for this office May 28, 1912; second, that the combined vote given to me and the other men who were in the first primary with Mr. Claude L. Engle was a very large majority against my competitor in the second primary.

I take pleasure in saying that the work for this second primary is actively begun, and will be carried on in the mail, in the press, and on the stump, at all times fairly and devoid of mud-slinging methods; but at the same time vigorously and without any hesitancy in dealing with my competitor as he may deserve. I am not campaigning on the infirmities of Mr. L. Engle, or anyone else, but will not allow him to libel and abuse me in purchased advertising and in his own paper, and at the same time permit him to pose as a paragon of purity. I believe I am capable of fighting in any game he may select—except editing a newspaper devoted to personal abuse of a fellow Democrat—and will attempt to make this fight in justice to my own candidacy and to the public, determined always not to be a party to anything that will lower the dignity of a Democratic primary.

I intend to send to the voters, individually, a complete history of my personal and business life, a complete platform of my political principles; and in addition to this to meet as many of them, face to face and hand in hand, and in public speech in this campaign as the limited time will permit. I had practically only three weeks in this campaign before the first primary for active work; my competitor had been campaigning for six years. I will always believe that if I had had six weeks, I could have lead him in the first primary, and with an even start now, I promise you that we will have a real race for the choice of Florida's next Congressman-At-Large.

I ask all my friends throughout the State to immediately become active on my behalf. I am in the race to win.

Yours very sincerely and gratefully,
W. M. TOOMER.

We were crossing the great hall in the direction of the beautiful dining room beyond—Elizabethan, I think Francis said it was. We all paused expectantly as Billings rolled down the stairs in his usual jolly, elephantine way. And then on the landing appeared an apparition—not only an apparition, but, by Jove, a scarecrow, as well!

Professor Doosenberry, blandly smiling—his rail-like figure shrouded flabbily in one of Billings' largest and loudest suits! Billings went through the form of introductions, chuckling idiotically the while. But the professor scarcely noticed any one but the frump.

"Don't wait, Wilkes," Billings directed. His nod beckoned me aside. "Gentleman sulking in his tent over here I want you to meet," he said. And I followed him to the library. A figure pacing the floor turned sharply. By Jove, it was the chauffeur, and how he did scowl at me!

"Now, young man," said Billings sternly, "perhaps you'll have the nerve to tell me before Mr. Lightning himself that you were his guest on your way home from Harvard."

"I certainly was!" He made the statement, chin up and eyes blazing. "I was his guest at the Kaboka Wednesday night, and he knows it."

Billings looked at me and shrugged his shoulders.

"Don't bother denying it, old man," he said. "It's all right."

"Oh, but I say—it isn't!" I exclaimed in disgusted amazement. "Dashed impertinence, you know—never saw this fellow before the morning at the—er—boat, and day before yesterday, when I—" I halted, remembering. But the fellow was shaking his finger at me.

"A—ah!" he
