Miller faces life in prison

SANFORD — A May 5 sentencing has been set for a man convicted Thursday of sexual battery with great bodily harm and two additional counts of battery.

Thomas Scott Miller faces life in prison on the convictions. He was acquitted on a second count of sexual battery with great bodily harm.

Miller was convicted of raping a woman he had met at an ABC Liquor Store on south Hwy. 17-92. Miller and the woman rode in her car to her apartment complex parking lot where the crime occurred.

Miller's trial was initially set for late February but was postponed a month when an attorney said two potential witnesses to the assault had been found and needed to be questioned prior to the trial.

Cadet granted court order

SANFORD — A West Point cadet severely injured in an I-4 traffic accident which killed two of his friends has been granted a court order to preserve and examine the rental van he was riding in March 19.

Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor signed the order Thursday preventing Avis Rent-A-Car from altering, destroying, dismantling or otherwise disposing of the 1993 Plymouth passenger van in which William Foster and seven other U.S. Military Academy Cadets were riding in when it crashed near Lake Mary. The group was returning to Kissimmee from Daytona Beach. An investigation at the time of the crash indicated that the group's designated driver fell asleep at the wheel causing the early morning accident. Foster lost his left arm from the elbow down in the accident.

It's unanimous

GENEVA — The Geneva Bubble protection bill sponsored by Rep. Marvin Couch passed the House unanimously Thursday. It now passes to the Senate, where Sen. Gary Siegel, R-Longwood, has already submitted a companion bill.

The Oviedo lawmaker's bill would create a panel of state and local officials and residents to study existing drinking water protection in the Geneva area and the need for additional protection.

A earlier bill proposal would have prohibited borrow pits, underground fuel storage tanks and other land uses, but county officials objected to the proposals, saying they imposed on the county's home rule rights.

Loiter law scrapped

Court kills Sanford ordinance aimed at drug sales

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Sanford's loitering ordinance has been struck down by the state Supreme Court. The court also nullified a similar ordinance in Tampa.

"I think by doing this," said Bernard Mitchell, "they are not helping us. Rather they are actually violating the rights of the citizens to be protected from people standing around making drug deals."

Mitchell is president of COMA, the Concerned Organization of Men in Action, which has been pressing for a crackdown on drug activities in the residential areas of the city.

"Eliminating this ordinance is certainly going to promote more drug activity," Mitchell said. "We need stronger anti-loitering laws, not the elimination of them."

Both ordinances were aimed at drug street sales. The Tampa ordinance also included prostitution. The court declared that they violated basic American rights.

"This is going to be more time-consuming for our officers," said Mitchell. "See Loiter, Page 5A"

What will Sanford do next?

SANFORD — Although the state Supreme Court has rejected Sanford's loitering ordinance, the city this morning is already talking about establishing a new one.

Sanford City Attorney Bill Colbert said there is a possibility of enacting a new anti-loitering law. "That Supreme Court decision was 4 to 3," he said. "That means three of the justices thought the ordinance was good."

"I would be in favor of reviewing the court's decision," he said. "then sitting down with police"

SANFORD — The man charged with shooting his sister-in-law to death in her Longwood home elected not to testify today in his first degree murder trial.

Judge Alan Dickey Thursday denied a defense motion asking for a judgment of acquittal. The defense argued that the prosecution had not presented sufficient evidence to find Wardeh guilty of first degree murder.

Wardeh is charged with shooting his sister-in-law, Carol Wardeh at her home and firing shots at two of her children. The prosecution contends Wardeh shot the victim over money and a family dispute. The defense claims Wardeh was only

According to Lt. Robert Piepel of the Winter Springs Police Department, Ormiston was taken into custody on a murder warrant in connection with his wife's death.

Ormiston was arrested in Johnstown, Pa. yesterday afternoon. Lt. Glenn Tolleson of the Winter Springs Police Department said.

SANFORD — Over 30 antique powerboats ported at Monroe Harbour Marina yesterday afternoon. The boats made the stop en route to the Mr. Dora Classic Boat show this weekend.

The boats, with well-polished wooden hulls, were mostly built in the 1940s and '50s. The oldest to arrive in Sanford was built in 1918. Most had original equipment with some maintaining SANFORD — At 88, Florence Kearse likes her house warm and just a little damp.

Unfortunately, it's also the perfect breeding ground for roaches.

"The house is so infested that the roaches are all over her meal before she gets a chance to eat," said Lisa Bishop, the home care nurse with Paragon Home Health Care who visits her every day.

Bishop and other Paragon staffers were able to find some temporary help for Kearse, but without continued treatments the home will become reinfested.

Cops chase, nab armed robbery suspect

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — A gunshot was fired after a robbery victim gave chase to his attacker at Monroe Harbour Marina Wednesday night, but no one was injured, Sanford police reported.

The suspect was captured and arrested after first hiding in a truck then leading several police officers on a chase through downtown streets.

The victim reported he was loading fishing equipment into the trunk of his car at about 9:30 p.m. when he was approached by a man who asked for a cigarette, according to arrest reports. The man asked if the victim had caught any fish saying he'd like to buy them. The victim responded his fishing trip was unsuccessful. The man then reported the man removed a handgun from his waistband.

Prosecutor suspended for buying pot

MIAMI — An assistant state attorney general was suspended and will be fired following his arrest for buying marijuana, authorities said.

Richard Fechter, 28, worked in the Miami appeals office and had been with the department for 2½ years, said Deputy Attorney General Peter Antonacci.

Fechter was suspended Wednesday night immediately after his arrest.

Fechter came to the attention of authorities when an informant reported selling drugs to a prosecutor.

The Dade State Attorney's office and the Drug Enforcement Administration then set up a buy in North Miami Beach, said state attorney investigator Jorge Alonso.

Fechter allegedly bought seven grams of marijuana from an undercover agent, and was immediately arrested and jailed on a felony drug purchase charge, said Alonso. He later was released on bond.

Discrimination may be used in case

MIAMI — The attorney for an alleged Haitian hijacker indicated he will make discrimination an issue during his client's trial.

Woody Marc Edouard, 26, appeared before a federal judge on air piracy charges related to his alleged armed seizure of a missionary plane forced to fly from Haiti to Miami in February.

Edouard, who is free on a $100,000 bond, was formally indicted last week and pleaded innocent Thursday.

He did not speak, but his federal public defender, Paul Rashkind, told U.S. District Judge Federico Moreno he will demand documents on other hijacking cases. The judge set Edouard's trial for Aug. 23.

Rashkind has also asked for dismissal of the case, arguing the United States treats Cuban and Haitian hijackers differently.

Panel gets complaint about Brown

JACKSONVILLE — The Federal Election Commission has received a complaint against U.S. Rep. Corrine Brown that alleges her campaign finance reports last year included forgeries and had discrepancies in numbers.

FEC spokesman Scott Moxley confirmed Thursday that the complaint had been filed against the Jacksonville Democrat by a group called Liberty and Justice for All, but he said details must remain confidential until final action is taken.

Brown will have 15 days to respond as to why she should not be investigated.

"There is no forgery," said Brown's volunteer campaign consultant David Heller in Jacksonville. "There was no criminal intent."

However, he admitted a discrepancy of about $2,000 had been found in the reports. He said the campaign raised about $300,000.

"It was an honest mistake made by a campaign volunteer who was well-intentioned and well-schooled in politics and unfortunately not very well-schooled in math," Heller said.

Physician arrested for drug charges

ST. PETERSBURG — A prominent physician appeared in court on charges he trafficked in more than $1 million worth of prescription pain pills.

Dr. Edward R. Popick, who on Thursday was formally advised by a judge of the charges and his rights to an attorney, remained in the Pinellas County Jail on $500,000 bond.

Popick was arrested on Wednesday along with his partner, Ferrentino of Seminole, described by sheriff's spokesman Greg Tita as a "high-level street dealer." Ferrentino's bail was set at $605,000.

Tita said the two men were involved in the illicit sale of approximately 32,000 tablets of Dilaudid, a synthetic form of morphine usually prescribed only for unrelenting pain.

Popick was charged with four counts of trafficking in hydromorphone, the generic name of the drug.

Ferrentino was charged with six counts of trafficking and two counts of illegal possession of a firearm.

Wendy's founder graduates

OCCONUT CREEK — Wendy's founder and pitchman Dave Thomas had six honorary degrees from universities but no high school diploma until Thursday.

Thomas went to work full-time at a restaurant at 15 and was "always bothered" that he had no high school diploma to back up his business success.

To remedy that, Thomas took and passed a general education development exam and was awarded a diploma by Broward County School Superintendent Virgil Morgan in a ceremony Thursday attended by 500 students.

He said he was put on the spot to get a diploma by some "very sharp" high school student journalists who asked "why didn't I practice what I preached" when encouraging students to stay in school.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Quality education?

College professors send kids to schools out of state

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Florida's public university presidents have all sent their children to college for undergraduate work outside the state, actions the leader of a professor's union contends speak louder than words.

"It tells me that they perceive that the quality is not there for their own children, and that's disturbing," Kris Anderson, president of United Faculty of Florida.

"We don't seem to have any state university here that's attractive enough to keep people in the state who can afford to go elsewhere," she said.

The presidents have 19 children who are college graduates or in college. Many went to college before their fathers were hired in Florida. The four now in college attend Harvard, Cornell, Michigan and Morehouse College.

Mary Ann Lombardi, daughter of University of Florida President John Lombardi, is a junior at Michigan. In a unique arrangement, her father receives $13,100 annually from UF's fund-raising foundation toward the cost of her education.

Florida A&M President Fred Humphries, whose efforts to recruit top black scholars have been widely hailed, sends his youngest son Lawrence to another historically black school, Atlanta's Morehouse.

"You want to give your kids a lot of leeway to choose," explained Morris Marx, president of the University of West Florida in Pensacola. "Plus kids want to go away from home."

Marx said his son, Geoffrey, chose Duke for its academic reputation and beautiful campus. His daughter, Laura, a Harvard junior, studies in an "awe-inspiring" library and is coxswain on the women's rowing crew.

"She's doing things you can't do anywhere else," Marx said. "There's something to be said for a new environment and going your own way."

For some students, a college education means getting out of their parents' shadow, said Florida State President Dale Lick. "It's a time of becoming independent, beginning to grow in your own world instead of mom and dad's world."

Lick's children graduated from college before he moved to Tallahassee from the University of Maine.

Two presidents' children are graduate students in the state university system. Diana Lick studies social work at Florida State, and John Lombardi is a graduate student in political science at Florida.

President Anthony Catanese of Florida Atlantic University was a dean at the University of Florida in the mid-1980s when his youngest son chose Rutgers for a football scholarship.

Moderate Mardique became president of Florida International University in 1986, the year his daughter, Ana, graduated from Duke. His son, Mark, is a senior at Cornell.

The newest member of the state Board of Regents said leaving home for college is part of the learning experience.

"They may want to go out and get a beer or do something crazy without being under their parents' scrutiny," said regent-designate Welton Watson. "That's part of growing up."

Cruisin' and musin'
"Whitney" may have lost his last friend, the race or his nerve as he pensively wanders about his pasture in Longwood. Odds are, he is looking forward to brighter times and probably a little more horse play.

Anti-violence group to host celebration

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The committee for Violence Free Communities and Schools will host a celebration in Ft. Mellon Park on Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6:30 p.m.

The organizers hope to bring together representatives of many groups that are committed to lowering the crime rate in the community, especially in the schools, with a fun, carnival-like atmosphere that will appeal to young and old alike.

Representatives of the Seminole County Sheriff's Office, the Seminole County PTA, the DARE program, Mothers Against Drunk Driving, the Head Start Program, the Guardian Ad Litem program and many others will be on hand to distribute literature and answer questions from those in attendance.

"We want the community to be aware of the programs that are available to them," said Dr. Edith Valentine, one of the organizers.

March was designated as the national violence-free communities month.

Locally, representatives of the committee charged with finding ways of making the community and the schools less violent places wanted to put the emphasis on making every month a violence-free month.

"This is just the beginning," Valentine said.

The celebration on Saturday will also include fun activities for children and adults including a basketball game which will pit the members of the Boys and Girls Club of West Sanford against the adults.

In addition, there will be improvisation groups from Seminole and Orange county schools who will perform and rap groups, including the Crooms School of Choice prize-winning Rap Against Drug group, will make presentations.

A mime group and clowns will be on hand to bring smiles and pass along some serious information.

McGruff the Crime Dog will be along to "take a bite out of crime."

Locally produced videos about ways to resolve conflicts will be shown constantly throughout the afternoon.

WMFE TV launches 'Vision for the Future'

By NICK PERFAU
Herald Staff Writer

Television station WMFE, Channel 24, is launching a new project called "Vision for the Future." It will be done in conjunction with WMFE-FM, 90.7.

The project is the result of almost two years of extensive study and research into the wants and needs of the Central Florida community.

WMFE President Stephen Steck said, "While this represents a culmination, it also represents the beginning of a new future ... a beginning where we celebrate the successful results of our first quarter-century of programming, and a beginning where we accept the community's challenge to design and fulfill their expectations of our programming service."

During the past few years, Steck has personally met with a number of government, business and educational leaders in the Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood areas. "Almost every time," he said, "they told me that while they realized Channel 24 was their local educational station, they still believed that we could do even more of a local nature in our programming."

"That's exactly what we are going to do," he added. "Our new program, 'On the Line' for example, will deal with County Commission activities while 'Opinion Street' will focus more on issues, especially those which may affect cities such as Sanford."

"Of course the programming will encompass the cities and counties throughout our entire coverage area," Steck said. "That is from Orlando to Daytona Beach to Melbourne."

Both programs will be aimed at providing a communication opportunity for the school system and county governments.

Steck explained, "Each week on Opinion Street, (8:30 p.m. Thursdays), important news items will be analyzed. Up-close interviews will be held with an important newsmaker, and a panel of opinion shapers, policy makers and business leaders will do the talking."

"This will be in prime time," he added, "where one will hear a fresh sound - the clash of opinions."

Steck said, "Our new programming will continue to grow and improve into the fall which will be the kick off for our 'Campaign for Program Excellence.'"

WMFE TV/FM is located at 11510 E. Colonial Drive, in Orlando.

Burglary arrests

Sanford police say two Sanford men and a 16-year-old youth arrested Wednesday burglarized a Valencia Court home March 19. Other arrests may follow.

Police say the trio took $1,000 in possessions from the home, located in the 800 block. Arrested on charges of burglary and grand theft were Ernest Deramus Graham, 18, 1403 Mara Court, and Troy Clahoun, 21, 826 Valencia Court North. The two men were taken to the Seminole County jail. The youth was taken to the Juvenile Detention Center.

Dart game ends at gunpoint

Allamonte Springs police report two north Seminole County men arrested early Wednesday morning took $60 from a dart-game partner then pointed a gun at him and a friend when they tried to recover his money.

The man reported seeing one of the two suspects walking away from the bar where he had left cash. He and a friend followed the two suspects outside to their truck and demanded the money, reports state. One suspect pointed a gun at one of the victims and told him to leave, but the gun clip fell out. A victim reported the suspect replaced the clip in the gun and pointed the weapon at his head, threatening to kill him.

Police stopped the suspects later and reported finding a .380-caliber semi-automatic handgun and a pellet gun in the truck cab, but no money.

Arrested were Edward Lee Carpenter, 21, 312 Rachel Ave., Apt. 911, Sanford; and Bryan Lee Davis, 21, 2816 Sun Loop, Apt. 112, Lake Mary. Carpenter and Davis were both held on charges of armed robbery with a firearm, aggravated assault and carrying a concealed firearm. Davis was also held on a petit theft charge.

Drug related charge

Telly Savalos Medlock, 19, 1000 Maple Ave., Sanford, was arrested on a drug-related charge Wednesday night.

Sanford Special Investigations Unit agents report seeing Medlock exchange something with another man at a West 13th Street corner at about 8 p.m. Wednesday night. As he approached, an agent reported seeing Medlock toss away two bags later found to contain marijuana. Medlock was held on a charge of possession with intent to distribute marijuana.

Drug arrest made

Tony Anthony Jones, 26, 1405 W. 16th St., Sanford, was arrested on a drug-related charge following a search of his apartment Wednesday night.

Police report finding four grams of "crack" cocaine, a .22-caliber handgun and a .38-caliber handgun. Jones was held on a charge of possession with intent to distribute cocaine.

Greyhound terminal reopens

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Greyhound bus station, 120 S. Park Avenue, is back in operation. The station was closed at the beginning of this month when the agent managing the facility retired.

Richard Khalaf has been appointed by Greyhound as the new Sanford agent. Khalaf has been with Greyhound covering DeLand and Daytona Beach since 1984.

Although the ticket office has been closed for approximately three weeks, the busses have continued to stop. Passengers have been picked up and discharged on the four northbound and two southbound runs each day. A sign has told them to board the bus and buy tickets at the next stop or from the driver.

Khalaf said the afternoon southbound run has been extended into Tampa now, rather than going to Orlando and requiring a transfer.

When the office closed, Elizabeth Dunn at Greyhound headquarters in Dallas said, "We have no intention of stopping service to Sanford. Buses will continue to stop there until we can find some other facility."

Khalaf commented that he intends to continue operating from the present facility for at least a year. "At some future time," he projected, "we may want to move to another location here in Sanford, but we will continue to be here."

Dunn had said, "Sanford has always been a good point of operation for Greyhound, and we plan to set up a new operation as soon as possible so there won't be any loss of service."

When the office closed three weeks ago, the Western Union facility which was also located in the terminal, was transferred to another location. "We have the Western Union back in our building again," Khalaf said, "so everything will be business as usual."

The terminal will be open Monday through Saturday from 8:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m.

Billups is denied bail

SANFORD — Lewis Billups, in jail charged with making threatening telephone calls across state lines, has been denied bail by a federal magistrate in Lexington, Kentucky.

Billups, a former professional football player, allegedly made threatening telephone calls from his Longwood home in Alaqua to Rex Chapman, a Washington Bullets basketball player, who is the brother of a former girlfriend.

After hearing testimony about Billups' violent behavior, U.S. Magistrate James Cook refused to set bail.

In December, Billups was arrested in Seminole County after allegedly raping a woman while his roommate videotaped the assault. The two also allegedly tried to extort money from the woman.

In Kentucky, Jenny Chapman, Billups' ex-girlfriend, told the court that Billups threatened to end her brother's career.

His case is to go to a federal grand jury next month.

Educating mid-Florida

WMFE Channel 24, has been providing educational and entertainment programming for Central Florida for many years. Now, it plans to become more involved in local issues and needs.

Seminole County, Sanford, and Lake Mary are included in the list of areas to be covered by new forum and interview type programming. The station plans to show debates on critical issues as well as conduct interviews with leaders who are knowledgeable in governmental, civic and educational affairs.

This does not mean that a sudden plethora of Sanford people will be seen on Channel 24. The station covers a large area. Programming therefore, will also deal with problems in Orange, Volusia, Osceola and Brevard Counties and many municipalities. These presentations will still be of local interest. Solutions to problems elsewhere could possibly lead to similar actions locally.

Although WMFE is planning its new programming as the result of a massive two year study of the Central Florida area, Stephen Steck, president of WMFE TV/FM should be given a great deal of credit for his involvement. Steck personally spent many hours visiting with local leaders and discussing how the station could serve them better.

Program changes will be a direct result of what the people have suggested to Steck.

Members of the media: TV, radio, and the press, each have a distinct role to play and responsibility to serve the needs of the people. This improvement in localizing Channel 24 programming is a giant step forward.

The call letters for WMFE, are based on the words, "Mid-Florida Education." Bringing more local programming to the local viewers is an excellent way to improve everyone's education.....

CHUCK STONE

Thank you, readers and editors

I can go my president one better in extolling our unity through the geography of words. In his address to the joint session of Congress, President Clinton promised to succeed in one people-saving area where both Presidents Reagan and Bush had failed miserably — enterprise zones. "We will bring ... new jobs to storefronts and factories from South Boston to South Texas to South Central Los Angeles."

But "I hear America Singing" through an almost perfect alphabetical recitation of cities and towns in 20 states from Athens, Ga., to Yakima, Wash.: A is for Athens, B is for Blackfoot, C is for Cambridge and then, Dubuque, Easton, Flint, Galveston, Havre, Johnson City, Kearny, Lafayette, Manchester, Nacogdoches, Orangeburg, Puxatunney, Raleigh, Salisbury, Tifton, Uniontown, Vallejo, Wapakoneta and Yakima.

Eat your heart out, Walt Whitman. Those cities were among the 120 where my column appears, but I'm still missing cities or towns with names beginning with I, Q, X and Z.

Many of you write. A few occasionally call, as did a pleasant-mannered doctor from Florence, S.C., who took firm issue with my column on cult leader David Koresh and the National Rifle Association.

An outpouring of dissenters took me to the epistolary woodshed for my column on gays and the military. A retired lieutenant colonel in Dolgeville, N.Y., (near Little Falls) sharply disputed my position and questioned my use of a Thoreau quote, "The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation."

"You would have done well," he admonished me, "to remember Thoreau's concluding sentence to that paragraph. 'But it is a characteristic of wisdom not to do desperate things.'" (I love literate people!)

When I dumped on Dan Quayle's orthographic deficiencies, a Mt. Prospect, Ill., grammarian chided me, pointing out that I could use a little dictionary time myself. "Your column contained two misspellings." Naturally, I copped out. The editors missed it.

Cherry Hill, N.J., spanked me for writing that Truman had issued the order desegregating base facilities 49 years ago, since Franklin Roosevelt was still president then. (It was Roosevelt who desegregated base facilities; a few years later, Truman desegregated the armed services.)

But a geographic survey of responses is not the main purpose of this column. It is to thank so many of you for your generous contributions to the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee's humanitarian efforts to build a refugee center for 20,000 Somalians after you read about them in this column.

Especially ennobling of the eclectic spirit were the efforts of Lynda Farrah, a member of the Unitarian Universalist Church in Hudson, N.H., to organize church members, family and friends to contribute to AJJDC's work.

Because of that kind of warmhearted spirit, the AJJDC director of special operations, Amir Shaviv, and I were brought together when I made a recent visit to New York City to be a panelist with the Princeton Review's Jay Rosner on the subject of standardized testing. How depressingly ironic.

Eat your heart out, Walt Whitman.

Stone's logic

Chuck Stone's astute editorial of 3/19 blasting the NRA is another tired example of the ill logic of the liberal left. While I agree that few private citizens should be allowed to own a 50 caliber machine gun, Stone's calling the NRA the "National Repository of Assassins" is absurd. The real assassins, the hundreds of thousands gang members and other criminals, both black and white, are most assuredly "not" members of the NRA. Further, old Chuck implies that the constitution only meant to allow the right to bear arms to a formal army, when no formal army existed in those days and virtually everyone owned firearms. Frederick Griffin, who shot the abortion doctor, is a murderer under the law, and Koresh should have been locked up on principle even before the trouble in Waco began. Chuck, spare me the tears and concentrate your efforts on getting the gangs of the nation to respect others' lives and, for that matter, property. Oh, and by the way, Bill Clinton loves "running" the country more than he loves the country. But that's another letter.

Will Clinton prop up Yeltsin?

WASHINGTON — Bill Clinton had the first year of his presidency mapped out. He planned to devote his energies to the deficit, health-care reform and stimulating the economy. Unfortunately, he did not plan on Boris Yeltsin and the Russian Parliament presenting him with one of the most complex foreign policy problems faced by any American president since World War II.

Reportedly Clinton was taken aback when, during his first intelligence briefing as president-elect, the CIA told him it was unlikely that Yeltsin would last another six months. CIA analysts had concluded that Yeltsin would probably be replaced by a more hard-line collective leadership emerging from the former Communist-dominated Parliament.

In assembling his foreign policy staff, Clinton brought together people at the State Department and the National Security Council who believe Yeltsin — Russia's first popularly elected leader — must be saved at all costs. If Yeltsin goes, they believe, his democratic and free-market reforms will be set back decades or scrapped altogether.

The new administration's sole focus became what it could do for the beleaguered Russian leader. Now, however, only two months into his new presidency, Bill Clinton is seeing how terribly complicated the Russian equation has become.

Yeltsin's chief rival, Parliament Speaker Russian Khasbulatov, has badly outmaneuvered him. Intelligence sources here believe that Khasbulatov will try to effectively replace Yeltsin with Yeltsin's own prime minister, the conservative Viktor Chernomyrdin. This will be done by allowing the cabinet, under Chernomyrdin, to directly introduce legislation into the Parliament.

The final break will likely occur over continued privatization and demilitarization of state industries. Chernomyrdin, who once supported Yeltsin's radical, free-market reforms, is apparently now ready to back Khasbulatov's economic "stabilization program," which is actually a return to state planning.

If Yeltsin attends the upcoming Vancouver summit, it is believed he will ask for massive new western aid. If he gets it, Yeltsin will probably move quickly to suspend Parliament and fire Chernomyrdin. Yeltsin will ask for U.S. support in these moves.

Clinton's foreign policy team is advising that the United States give Yeltsin this level of support. In recent days, however, the picture has become considerably more cloudy.

Russian Ambassador Vladimir Lukin asked for, and received, an urgent, private meeting with Secretary of State Warren Christopher. By the time the meeting ended, Christopher and his top advisers were unsure whether Lukin represented Yeltsin or Khasbulatov.

The ambassador warned in no uncertain terms that if Clinton goes too far in his support of Yeltsin, Parliament will scrap the just-concluded START II nuclear disarmament treaty signed by Yeltsin and George Bush. Reportedly, the ambassador also warned that a majority in the Parliament would vote down the ratification of START II if the United States entered the conflict in Bosnia against Russia's traditional ally, the Serbs.

Then Washington received stern warnings from two of the former Soviet Union's newly independent nuclear powers: Ukraine and Kazakhstan. The leadership in Ukraine is especially concerned that Clinton's focus on Yeltsin is beginning to be at their expense. Their message: You'd better consider us or else we will ignore START II also.

As the problems have become increasingly complex, Clinton has turned to two former Republican presidents for advice. Reportedly, that advice has been conflicting if not contradictory.

Former President Bush strongly believes that Clinton must continue his policy of absolute support for Yeltsin. Bush believes Yeltsin is the only one who can deliver on a reform program, and he must receive whatever help the United States can deliver. The same message was delivered to Christopher by former Bush Secretary of State James Baker.

However, former President Richard Nixon is less sure. Nixon reportedly believes the current situation is largely Bush's for not helping Russia more economically in the last year. Possibly reflecting the strong beliefs of his own former secretary of state, Henry Kissinger — who thinks we should not be involved in the Yeltsin-Khasbulatov struggle — Nixon has reportedly advised that the United States focus on supporting Yeltsin's reforms, but remain measured in its support of Yeltsin as leader.

Bill would help small businesses

WASHINGTON — President Clinton's plan to create new employment opportunities during this otherwise "jobless recovery" could get a boost in the coming months from an unlikely source: Sen. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y.

His solution? Take a load off small community banks by letting them bundle and securitize their small business loans, creating a "secondary market." If enacted, it could create enough deficit-neutral economic stimulus to make the current battle over Clinton's $16 billion booster shot seem irrelevant.

D'Amato's plan — the Small Business Loan Securitization and Secondary Market Enhancement Act — would cost taxpayers no money and would create no new government regulations. Instead, it would allow community banks to do what lower interest rates and improved economic numbers have been unable to accomplish: Get money flowing into the hands of small- and medium-sized businesses. D'Amato's bill already has 40 co-sponsors, including five Democrats.

It's no secret that small business is the engine that drives America's economic success. It's where jobs are created and recoveries are born. But this recovery has been different. While the Federal Reserve has been pressing all the traditional monetary policy levers to get more money flowing in the economy, loans to businesses have been tapering off. While banks experienced record profits of $32.2 billion last year, loans to businesses fell by $77.2 billion in the past two years.

Bankers say the reason they aren't lending more is because of tight new regulations, but others believe interest rates are to blame. While short-term rates are at historic lows, long-term rates have remained relatively high. This has allowed banks to achieve record profits simply by investing depositors' money into risk-free government securities.

Clinton promised to end this credit crunch, and he delivered earlier this month by announcing rule changes that would trim much of the regulatory burden banks face in small-business lending. Among other provisions, Clinton's plan would let banks take into account the "character" of lenders as well as financial statements in deciding on loans. So far, Capitol Hill and economists have given Clinton's plan a lukewarm response.

Ironically, candidate Clinton said he would favor a plan similar to D'Amato's to create a secondary market for small-business loans. When Congress passed the Secondary Mortgage Enhancement Act in 1984, which allowed banks greater flexibility in selling securities backed by residential mortgages, it triggered a flood of easy money for homeowners that remains steady to this day.

D'Amato's bill simply calls for eliminating the costly barriers banks face in selling their loans to the capital markets. By not being forced to keep these loans on their books, banks would be able to originate many more loans without having to meet difficult capital requirements. In turn, small lenders would have access to capital markets that they don't enjoy today — meaning more credit at lower prices. Investors would have greater opportunity to invest in small business by buying investment-grade securities backed by pools of small business loans.

D'Amato, who was recently elevated to ranking minority member of the Senate Banking Committee, has a reputation as one of the most consumer-oriented Senate Republicans.

officials and the state attorney, and see if we couldn't modify the ordinance to be acceptable. After all," he added, "we would only need to obtain one more justice's support."

The city enacted the loitering ordinance in 1989. City Manager Bill Simmons said it has been carried into the courts on a number of occasions during the past two years.

The ordinance was intended to allow police the right to arrest persons found loitering, especially in known drug areas.

Sanford police Lt. Dennis Witmire said the ordinance allowed for an officer to make an arrest when a person was suspected of being involved in a possible drug transaction.

"Without the law," he said, "if we go into a known drug area and see people standing around, all we could do was suggest they leave. So they would merely go down the street a few blocks."

He added, "What happened was, we were just displacing the drug activities rather than curtailing them."

Witmire said he intends to consult with the City and State attorneys, to determine how the officials and the state attorney, and see if we couldn't modify the ordinance to be acceptable.

"Seminole County has an anti-loitering ordinance," Witmire explained. "The difference is that the county allows a person suspected of loitering, the opportunity to explain the reason for his or her presence in an area."

"If the explanation is plausible," he continued, "the person will be released. The difference in the Sanford law is that we don't have to ask for an explanation of we have reason to suspect some illegal activity has transpired."

Mayor Bettye Smith commented, "We haven't discussed the matter with the commission yet, but I feel sure there will be a move to recreate some type of anti-loitering ordinance."

She added, "I was disappointed in the court's decision to rule our ordinance out because any tool we have helps in law enforcement."

Witmire said the police already had some difficulty with the law. "In one situation," he said, "we had a case dismissed because the judge determined that our officers had not spent enough time observing a person to see if an illegal act had been committed, before the arrest was made."

agents arrested Ormiston after a caller told them where they could find him and his two children. The children, who are 7 months and 2 years old, are in the custody of child welfare officials in Pennsylvania, he noted.

Their maternal grandparents will bring them back to Central Florida when they are released from state custody.

Records show that Ormiston and his wife Becky were in the midst of a divorce. He had temporary custody of the children and both husband and wife had injunctions for protection from the other.

Ormiston allegedly killed his 31-year-old wife by strangulation, but autopsy results are not yet conclusive, Tolleson said. "They're still checking," he said.

by the state generally holds seven rounds. A full load for the gun in the murder case was seven bullets in the clip or magazine and one in the chamber for a total of eight bullets.

Under questioning, Rathman also testified that hollow point bullets could do more damage than solid point ammunition. Hollow point bullets were used in the Wardch shooting. He explained the energy of a hollow point bullet expands on impact with a target and may not exit the target.

He said it was common sense that if a hollow point bullet expands to the size of a quarter rather than staying the size of a dime when it hits a target, there is more chance the bullet would strike something vital and cause more damage than a regular bullet.

Earlier in the day, there was conflicting testimony from the trauma team doctor who treated Mrs. Wardch when she was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center and the forensic pathologist who did the autopsy on her after she died two days later.

Trauma team Dr. Mark Corbett said he removed a metal fragment from the exit wound

Sanford police Lt. Dennis Witmire. "If we can't arrest someone for loitering in a drug area, our officers will have to observe them longer and make a solid case that they were indeed dealing in some illegal activity before an arrest can be made."

"When the city first passed the ordinance," he continued, "we put it to good use. Then during the past few years, it started going into the courts, and we cut back on the arrests until we could find out where the courts would stand on the matter."

The Supreme Court justices laid out their arguments in an appeal brought on behalf of a woman who has since died. Renetha Wyche was arrested after Tampa police saw her on a street corner in a "skippy outfit waving to passerby and entering a car that had pulled to the curb."

By a 4-3 vote, the court found the ordinance unconstitutional. Besides violating First Amendment rights of expression and association, the ordinance is unconstitutionally vague and so broad it could be used to treat pointed it at him and demanded his wallet.

The victim said he didn't have a wallet, but he had a dollar and gave it to the gunman. The suspect took the bill and walked away, but started to run when the victim gave chase. An Altamonte Springs policeman in the area reported he saw the stickup and identified himself to the suspect then ordered him to stop, but the gunman did not.

Both the policeman and the victim reported hearing a gunshot at that point. The two chased the suspect to people differently and punish innocent activities. Chief Justice Rosemary Barkett wrote in the majority opinion.

"Hailing a cab or a friend, chatting on a public street and simply strolling aimlessly are time-honored pastimes in our society and are clearly protected under Florida as well as federal law," Barkett wrote.

In a concurring opinion, Justice Gerald Kogan said words like "loitering" and "vagrancy" are as dated as "Jim Crow" and "segregation."

Loitering ordinances are an outgrowth of vagrancy laws that were enacted five centuries ago "as a rather barbaric means by which the upper classes of England exercised social control over the landless poor," Kogan wrote.

That historical context must not be forgotten, he wrote. "Until well into this century, loitering and vagrancy statutes in the United States retained much of their medieval character as tools of injustice and oppression," Kogan wrote.

their original engines. Brands included Chris Craft and Gar Wood, with many others. They were all powered by inboard engines, and had open cockpit areas, as was the style early in this century.

The boats and their owners came from throughout the nation to join in a boating trip from Jacksonville to Sanford. Their vehicles and trailers were driven to Sanford while the group enjoyed three days on the St. Johns.

Peter Henkel drove to Jacksonville from Harsens Island, Mich. He was one of seven owners from Michigan to make the run.

"This is something we all look forward to each year," Henkel said. "It's an opportunity for us to get our boats together and have a good time running on the St. Johns."

The first evening was spent in Palatka. Evening two saw the boaters in Astor, with Sanford their final water destination. "I've been in Sanford before," Henkel said. "It's a beautiful town, and just from what I know of the area, this is the kind of place I'd like to settle in when I retire."

Henkel operates Classic Boats & Motors, an antique boat parts and engine repair store.

Among the boats arriving in Sanford were those licensed in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Quebec, and even California.

"By the time we all arrive in Mt. Dora," he said, "we expect there will be about 130 of these antique boats on display. It's events such as these where everyone with a similar hobby, restoring and operating these beauties, can get together, swap stories, and look at each other's boats."

Following their arrival, the boaters enjoyed a banquet at the Holdy Inn last night. This morning, at the crack of dawn, they left for Mt. Dora with their antique prides trailered behind them.

to continue to offer free service.

"If we can find someone who is willing to pay at least part of the service every month family members could come up with the rest," Bishop said.

Kearse said that she and her brother built the house on Airport Boulevard where she still lives. It was built in 1926 as a four room house.

"We added a little at a time," she said. She said she had no formal training in construction, but she learned from her father Albert Kearse about building.

"We helped build the (Second Shiloh Missionary Baptist) church up here when we moved to Sanford," she said.

Kearse, a native of Allendale, SC, has spent much of her life helping others. She now finds that she needs others to help her.

She said her parents made her drop out of school after the second grade in order to care for a cousin who was ill. After that she worked in a variety of other jobs, including picking celery and house cleaning.

And for 18 years she opened her home as a halfway house for older men who were making the transition from mental institutions to life on the outside.

She also took in three children whose mother was leaving Sanford and could not take them with her.

Tanga Law, one of those children, is now an adult with a daughter of her own.

"It is such a blessing that she (Montie) came in here to do this," Law said. "Auntie (Kearse) has done so much for other people. It is good that she's getting help."

Kearse said she hates the bugs. "They bite me all night," she said. "I leave the light on all night, but they still come out and bite me."

Montie said there are German, American, Australian and Banded roaches and various kinds of spiders.

Bishop said that another nurse told her that there used to be rats, but she has never seen one. Neither could Montie find any evidence of the rodents.

"The lady back there (next door) got a cat and maybe that helped," Kearse said.

She said she hopes that the treatment that Montie has done will help alleviate the problem of the bugs.

"But we need to follow up on this treatment," Montie said. "This can't be the end of it."

Health care: What working, insured Americans can expect

By JILL LAWRENCE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — When people with jobs and medical insurance examine President Clinton's health reform plan over their kitchen tables, they may find no immediate advantages — but some unpleasant surprises.

Clinton's promise is that people who lose their jobs or their health insurance won't lose medical coverage. But that sense of security is apparently the most concrete personal gain in the offering for the great majority of Americans.

For most, the plan being developed in secrecy at the White House inevitably will involve some inconvenience and confusion, and probably higher costs, at least at first.

Most of the anticipated advantages, by contrast, are abstract and long term — cost control, deficit reduction, coverage of 36 million uninsured Americans.

The formidable task facing the Clinton administration was clear in an NBC-Wall Street

Journal poll this month: Three-quarters of those questioned said the health-care system doesn't meet the needs of most Americans, but the same overwhelming percentage said they are satisfied with their own care.

Sure, most of them think it costs too much. About half worry that a catastrophic illness would wipe them out, and three in 10 said they had stayed at a job for fear of losing insurance.

But most people don't rate health care a top problem or government priority — suggesting that administration officials and advisers are overstating the case when they say the public is clamoring for reform.

There is some urgency, but it's mostly for the minority of Americans with serious medical problems or no insurance.

"Reducing overall costs means increasing individual costs, at least in the short and medium-term ... through higher premiums, higher taxes, reduced benefits and/or reduced or dislocated services," Norman Ornstein, a scholar at the American Enterprise Institute, concludes in an unpublished essay.

Clinton acknowledged as much in a CBS interview Wednesday night. He said employers and employees are "the last place we ought to look" for more money, but conceded "you may have to pay some more in the short run" to achieve extensive savings.

Several polls show wide acceptance of "sin" taxes on liquor, beer and tobacco products to finance reform. But there's less tolerance for other possible consequences — higher premiums, choosing doctors from an approved list, switching to different plans that may offer fewer services.

"There's going to be a real explosion out there when ... people understand what it would mean for their own individual health care," predicted Republican pollster Bill McInturff.

The White House and the Democratic National Committee already are going to extraordinary lengths trying to avert that.

Democrats squabble over Clinton jobs bill after Senate OKs budget

By ALAN FRAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Democrats are showing less unity behind President Clinton's $16.3 billion job-creation and economic stimulus package than they did in rushing his deficit-reduction plan through the Senate.

Conservative Democrats hoping to delay some of the jobs measure's spending were pitted today against party leaders loyal to the president. Although the Senate still seemed likely to approve a largely intact version of the measure next week, little progress was made Thursday.

As work on the measure slowed to a crawl, the bill's chief sponsor, Sen. Robert Byrd, vowed to hold firm.

"I am defending this president's program," the West Virginia Democrat said. "The president's package is an insurance package. That's insurance against a triple dip in this recession."

With opposition Republicans saying little, conservative Democrats warned that they should not be ignored.

"It's wrong from a political point of view to try to ram something through without considering the political concerns of others, and think you're improving your chances of getting something through later," said Sen. David Boren, D-Okla.

In contrast, Democrats displayed near-unanimity earlier Thursday as the Senate voted 54-45 to approve the outlines of Clinton's half-trillion dollar plan to shrink budget deficits and encourage long-term economic growth.

The House approved a similar measure a week ago, and bargainers from the two chambers hope to complete a compromise version next week.

Capitalizing on strong public support for the new president, the Senate vote came just 36 days after Clinton unveiled his proposal. It was the earliest the Senate has approved a spending blueprint since the current budget law was enacted in 1974.

Just the fax, m'am

Smaller than bread box, cheaper than stamp?

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sending a few pages by fax is faster and getting cheaper than using first-class mail, calculates a professor who has bounced tidings from one coast to another in time-and-cost studies.

Richard B. McKenzie, a fan of the fax who teaches at the University of California's Graduate School of Management at Irvine, sent missives by fax between Irvine and Washington, D.C., to calculate the costs.

He found that a single page can be faxed in 35 seconds and at a cost of 10 cents, at the lowest available night and weekend phone rates, or a maximum weekday daytime charge of 25 cents.

Either beats the cost of a 29-cent first-class stamp.

McKenzie's calculations take into account only telephone charges vs. postage and not the cost of buying a fax machine, which can range from $250 upward.

That investment makes it unlikely that many people will install home fax machines to save on stamps.

Market researcher Judy Pirant of BIS Strategic Decisions in Norwell, Mass., forecasts that 5 percent to 10 percent of homes will be equipped with fax machines by 1996, but mostly for people who work from their homes.

McKenzie doesn't take into account the cost of paper either, but that expense falls on the recipient, not the sender. Paper prices range from a fraction of a cent to 5 cents a sheet.

longer it takes to transmit a page.)

McKenzie says a person would have to send 862 documents by fax to local recipients before the savings would justify the purchase of a $250 machine — and many more than that to justify buying one to send messages to distant points.

An estimated 7.4 million of the machines are in use, and McKenzie thinks they have made the Postal Service more cost-conscious. He thinks stamps would have gone to 36 cents by now if it weren't for the competition.

The Postal Service says it has not conducted any research on whether fax machines are curtailing use of the mails. Spokesman Mark Saunders said faxing "has slowed the growth" of Express Mail, an overnight service that costs $9.95 to deliver up to 8 ounces.

Babe Ruth baseball, softball seasons open

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Almost every available diamond in Sanford will be pressed into action Saturday. In fact, only Pinchurst Park (under construction) and the Seminole High School and Seminole Community College softball fields will be idle.

Highlighting this weekend's action will be the Sanford Recreation Department's Babe Ruth Baseball and Junior and Senior Girls Softball leagues kicking off their seasons.

At Sanford Memorial Stadium, the Babe Ruth League will conduct its opening ceremonies beginning at 9 a.m. Players, coaches, and sponsors of the eight teams will be introduced, the national anthem will be played, and Duane LaFollette of the Sanford Officiating Service, will throw out the first pitch.

Following the opening ceremonies, games will be played at the Stadium and Zinn Beck Field.

At Sanford Memorial Stadium, the Moose Lodge Pirates challenge the Cubs at 10 a.m. and the Korg U.S.A. Expos take on the Knights of Columbus Cardinals at noon.

The 10 a.m. game at Zinn Beck Field pits the Kiwanis Orioles against the Rotary Royals before the R.E. Templeton Blue Jays play the Woodmen of the World A's at noon. Later in the day, at the Fort Mellon Park Softball Field, the Junior and Senior Girls' Softball Leagues will open their season with games beginning at 2:30 p.m.

The reason the girls will have to wait until mid-afternoon to take the field is because the PeeWee Baseball League has games scheduled through 2:25 p.m. at the facility.

PeeWee play begins at 9 a.m. when the Rich Plan Expos tangle with the R.B.M. Plumbing Blue Jays. The A-OK Orioles play the Red Sox at 10:05 a.m. At 11:10 a.m., the Holiday Inn Countryside Royals face the Rinker Material Dodgers. The Ken Kerns Transmission Pirates face the Vaughn Inc. Cardinals at 12:15 p.m. In the 1:20 p.m. game, the Stairs Realty A's battle the Sanford Cubs.

Meanwhile, at Fort Mellon's Roy Holler Field, the Sanford Little Major League will play five games, beginning at 8 a.m. with the Fisher, Laurance & Deen Blue Jays tangling with the Disable American Veterans Royals.

The Sunnland Red Sox face the Security National Bank Orioles at 10 a.m. The Expos and First Union A's take the field at noon. At 2 p.m., the Railroaders Cubs battle the American Legion Cardinals. The Monroe Harbour Pirates play the Rinker Material Dodgers at 4 p.m.

Elsewhere in Sanford on Saturday, the fields at Chase and Lee P. Moore parks will be occupied by the Sanford Church Softball League.

At Seminole High School, the Tribe baseball team (ranked sixth in the Baseball America national poll) play Spruce Creek at 3 p.m.

The Seminole Community College Raiders, ranked 10th in the Florida Community College Athletic Association's state baseball poll, will host the College of Lake County (Ill.) in a doubleheader beginning at 1 p.m.

FCC-J outshines Raiders

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Sometimes even your best isn't good enough.

With ace pitcher Robert Franklin on the mound and its offense starting to come around, the Seminole Community College baseball team felt pretty good about its chances against top-ranked Florida Community College at Jacksonville Thursday afternoon.

But the Stars proved why they are ranked No. 1 in the state as Kevin Kopec hit two home runs and Dan Greene scattered seven hits to help FCC-J post a 7-1 victory in the Mid-Florida Conference contest at Raider Field.

The Stars improved their record to 28-7 overall and 11-3 in the conference, while SCC fell to 15-10 overall and 6-6 in the MFC.

SCC will host non-conference games at Raider Field today and Saturday. Brevard Community College will pay a visit today at 3 p.m. while the College of Lake County (Ill.) will be in town for a doubleheader at 1 p.m. Saturday.

Franklin (6-2) again got to a slow start and FCC-J made him pay. Shannon Diddell and Ray McWhite drew back-to-back walks to open the game. After a sacrifice bunt, Roger Nikka Riggins contributed to Seminole's come-from-behind win over Orangewood Christian on Thursday by hitting a pair of singles and driving in a pair of runs. Riggins and the Seminoles play at North Marion Saturday.

Tribe rips OCS Rams

CASSELBERRY — The Seminole High School softball team put together its best offensive performance of the season as it posted a come-from-behind 20-10 victory over Orangewood Christian at Eastmonte Park Thursday afternoon.

The Tribe scored three runs in the top of the first inning, but the Rams came back with four runs in the bottom of the first inning and added two more in the second to lead 6-3.

Seminole tied the game at 6-6 with three runs in the third inning, then started to take control of the game by putting seven runs on the board in the fourth inning.

Orangewood came back with a single run in the bottom of the SANFORD — The Railroaders Cubs and Rinker Materials Dodgers joined the D.A.V. Royals as the only undefeated teams in the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League with victories Thursday night at Roy Holler Field in Ft. Mellon Park.

SCC ready to make switch

By TONY DeSORMIER

SANFORD — In the debate between slowpitch and fastpitch softball, Seminole Community College has adopted a neutral stance.

Currently, bills are working their way through both the Florida Senate and the House of Representatives (see related story, right) that would require those public high schools and community colleges that play softball to field fastpitch teams.

Should either of the bills make its way into the Florida Statutes, SCC (which supports a slowpitch softball program) is ready to make the transition.

"We have been informed of the possibility of having to go to fastpitch," said Larry Castle, SCC's Athletics Coordinator. "Our plan is to play slowpitch next year and recruit athletes with the idea in mind that they could make the transition to fastpitch."

"We're two weeks away from the signing date. We've already started recruiting for next year. We couldn't sign a player and then turn her away just because we made the switch to fastpitch. We wouldn't do that."

While the state legislature's involvement in the situation is a new twist in the ongoing debate, Castle said that the possibility of making the transition to fastpitch has been the topic of discussion at the community college level for over a year.

"We have been discussing the possibility for at least a year," said Castle. "We being Dr. (Jim) Sawyer (SCC's Vice President of Student Development and Athletic Director) and myself, Dr. (Earl) Weldon (SCC's President) and myself, and the athletic directors around the state."

"We've seen this (the move to fastpitch) coming but

Equity bill approved by House panel

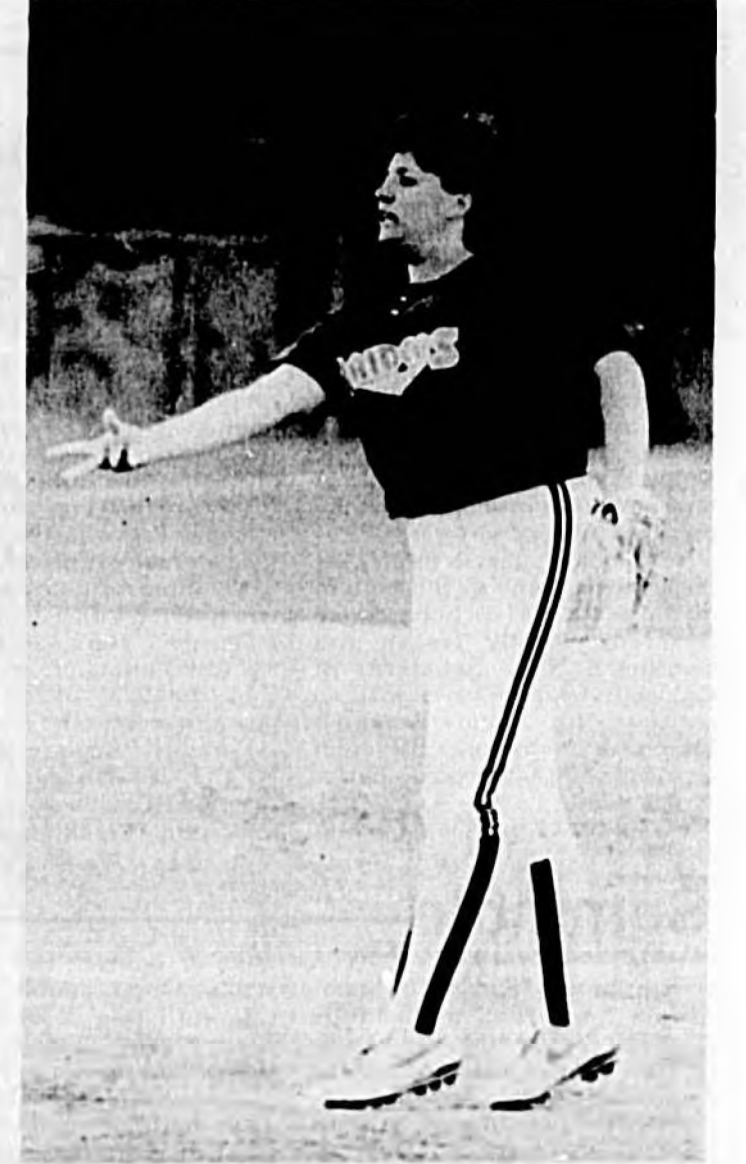

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — A bill to require equal opportunities for women in public school and state college sports was approved by a Florida House of Representatives panel after it had demanded a study of how schools would match the money and facilities devoted to football.

The bill would authorize the state comptroller to withhold state funds from colleges or school districts that don't meet the equal opportunity requirements.

In its last meeting before the scheduled April 2 end of the legislative session, the committee voted 23-9 to approve the bill (CS-HB 899) and send it to the House floor. A similar measure (SB 1716) awaited a Senate floor vote.

The panel rejected a proposal to let community colleges boost student fees to pay for equal women's sports.

At Lake Mary High and SCC, Renee Sanville has played slowpitch softball, a sport that may be legislated out of existence at high schools and community colleges.

Franklin almost got out of the jam unscathed as McWhite struck out and Gene Manning hit an apparent double play grounder to short. the fifth inning on a double by Victor, a walk and a Kopec three-run blast over the 412-foot sign in center field. The Stars' final two runs came against Julio Linarez in the seventh inning on a double by Brian Bridges and Kopec's second home run of the game to left field. The Raiders, meanwhile, were unable to get anything started against Greene, who allowed only three men to reach base after the third inning in raising his record to 7-1 on the season. Kopec drove in five runs with his two home runs, while Diddell went three-for-four and Bridges two-for-four with a double. Oviedo's B.J. Calapa ripped his fifth double of the season to lead the SCC offense. Getting one hit each for the Raiders were Bezeredi, Eckstein, Randy Hagar, Sanford's Demetry Besmon, Oviedo's Eric Jordan and Spruce Creek's Isaac Cruz.

we didn't think it would come down like this. We thought it would be a decision of the college presidents or state association." Discussion continues, only now the topic isn't if the schools would make the change, but which schools would make the change and how. "It (the proposed law change) has been discussed at the state and conference level," said Caule. "Right now, the schools are pretty much evenly divided. Some are saying they would go ahead and play fastpitch, some would drop softball altogether and pick up another sport, and some are undecided. "Right now, it appears that at least 12 schools would stay with softball." Whether or not to make the switch is not an individual decision for SCC. As a member of the Mid-Florida Conference, SCC has to take into consideration what its fellow M-FC member schools are going to do. What's the point of fielding a fastpitch softball team if everyone else drops their program? "I don't have an idea of what might happen in the conference," Castle said. "Our (SCC's) position is that as long as the conference stays strong in the sport and the state stays strong in the sport, then we'll stay with softball. "If most of the schools in the conference drop softball, then we might drop it as well. But we have a good softball facility and we're located in a good softball area. Right now, there's no reason for us to drop softball." While a personal proponent of the slowpitch game, SCC softball coach Ileana Gallagher acknowledges that fastpitch appears to be future of the game at the high school and college level. "I prefer slowpitch because I feel it gives a greater number of athletes a chance to compete and be competitive," Gallagher said. "It allows more students to be involved, especially at the high school level. After college, there are a lot of opportunities to play slowpitch around the state. "But fastpitch has grown a lot in the last few years, around the nation and around the state. Now, if everyone goes (fastpitch), it'll grow that much faster." Gallagher also said that she thought the general quality of play would suffer until players familiar with the sport begin to work their way up through the system. "It'll take a couple of years to bring the level of play up," she said. "The great athletes will always stand out, whether they play slowpitch or fastpitch. But it'll take time to develop pitchers and catchers, which is the biggest difference between slowpitch and fastpitch." Because fastpitch puts a higher premium on athleticism, Gallagher is concerned that borderline players would be left out of the fastpitch game. "I have to admit, I'm not that familiar with fastpitch," Gallagher said. "I played slowpitch at Miami-Dade South Community College and at the University of Central Florida. I was an average player but I was able to compete in slowpitch. "With the high schools making the transition as well, it will make it easier for the community colleges. At least there'll be the start of a feeder system."

Unwanted advertising mail

How to remove name from national mailing lists

Each year, millions of Americans make one or more purchases through the mail. When people make these mail order purchases, their names often are added to a list and marketed to other companies that do business through the mail. While many people enjoy the catalogs they receive as a result of these lists, those who would like to receive less national advertising mail can ask companies not to rent or share their names with other mailers. People who choose not to shop at home can also write to: Mail Preference Service, Direct Marketing Association, 11 West 42nd Street, P. O. Box 3861, New

The Mail Preference Service is a no-charge service that removes names from many national mailing lists. Individuals who would like to use this service are requested to provide their names and addresses (including zip code), and any spelling variations they have noticed on mailing labels, to the Mail Preference Service.

It may take a few months before there is a noticeable decrease in the amount of national advertising mail delivered. In addition, local advertising mail, such as store flyers, will not be affected. In these cases, people can write directly to the mailer and request that their names be removed from the mailing list.

To keep your name off unwanted mailing lists, contact mail-order companies (and other organizations) to let them know that you do not want your name and address shared with other businesses and organizations. In this way, you can still order by mail and belong to charitable organizations without worrying that the amount of unsolicited mail you receive will increase.

Grandpa objects to AIDS education in the schools

DEAR MARY: I know you're not going to agree with me, but I don't think this stuff about AIDS education in the schools is either necessary or appropriate. There are still some things better left to parents and families and teaching a kid about having safe sex is not my idea of responsible education.

DRUG COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

I don't have kids in school anymore, but you can bet if I did, I'd be up there in a quick minute setting them straight on this thing.

GRANDPA IN SEMINOLE COUNTY

DEAR GRANDPA: Most everyone does agree with you that AIDS education would be best handled within a family setting; but this life and death issue is most often not dealt with at home for several reasons, including lack of awareness and knowledge as well as denial.

Please rest assured that the cornerstone of the AIDS education curriculum is that abstinence is the only 100 percent effective form of safe sex.

Now let's talk about how serious the problem really is among our young people. According to a recent congressional study, the number of people between the ages of 13 and 24 jumped by 77 percent to over 9,000 cases between 1990 and 1991.

Since the HIV virus can lie undetected for up to 10 years before AIDS symptoms occur, you begin to realize that we must start making teens aware of their personal vulnerability at a very early age. A 20-year-old stricken with AIDS probably acquired the HIV virus as a teen.

Just as the schools implement other prevention curriculum on topics such as drug abuse and personal safety, it seems to me to be entirely responsible to educate our young people on this preventable and deadly disease.

Woman wasting time in abusive stepmom role

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for four years to a man with two children, ages 23 and 25, who still live with us. They work almost full-time and take a class or two at the university, so they are "in school."

Neither contributes anything, but they are able to buy themselves plenty of the best of everything.

His daughter is rude, manipulative, snooty, and generally engaged in hurtful activities. To protect my privacy, I've had my personal mail delivered at work, important belongings placed in a security unit, and a private telephone line installed for myself. My financial contribution is equal to my husband's.

Three weeks after we were married, my husband requested I sign a waiver of rights to all he owns, so "it will go to my children."

All five of his children (including the three who live away) treat me rudely — as though I have no business in their home. It's like living in a hotel. I feel that my marriage is destroyed and have suggested family counseling. My husband says no. He realizes that the children are causing the problems in our marriage, but he can't ask them to move out because the kids were there first. Please comment quickly.

HAD IT IN PROVO

DEAR HAD IT: First, I am grateful that you didn't ask me to help you, because the only person who can help you is YOU. My comment: Nowhere do you say you care for this man or that he cares for you. Your husband's lack of consideration for you is appalling, and his adult children's rudeness is insulting.

Why are you wasting your time in this abusive situation? You are contributing equally to a household where you are treated like an intruder. If I were you, I would pack up and move.

DEAR ABBY: What is the current etiquette on responding when someone sneezes? "God bless you"? "Gesundheit"? Or simply silence?

ROBIN JOHNSON

DEAR ROBIN: The polite response in English is "God bless you." In German, it's "gesundheit," which means "good health!"

The reason is interesting: According to "Curious Customs — The Stories Behind 298 Popular American Rituals" by Tad Tuleja (Stonesong Press Inc., 1987):

"In many European cultures, sneezing is traditionally associated with death, and it is to this superstitious (fear of sneezing) tradition that Americans adhere. You are very close to death when you sneeze, because sneezing can expel the soul, and thus the life, from the body — no basis in fact, of course; this is merely superstition. So, when someone sneezes, we say, "God bless you" to remove the curse of possible ill health or death. Neglecting this magical utterance could mean that the sneezer could end up in the next world."

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dear Abby, P.O. Box 68440, Los Angeles, Calif. 90068. All correspondence is confidential.)

Come One! Come All!

It's Spring... the circus is in town!
Come one! Come all! Excitement and surprise await under the bigtop. Animals, jugglers, clowns... there is no end to the variety of entertainment. It's showtime!
Cast your eyes on the center ring! Flying, swinging, and dipping through the air, these trapeze artists exhibit a delicate combination of balance, synchronization, strength, skill, and trust, moving as if one. The beautiful, hypnotic rhythm which appears so effortless requires, each day, hours of preparation of mind, body, and spirit.
There are those people who appear to glide through life in much the same way, with balance, strength and trust. Yet, they too prepare each day with prayer and the knowledge of God's will for their lives. Each week, they are further strengthened by worship and fellowship in God's house. You can join them.
Move through life as one with God.
Come one! Come all!

SANFORD — The spirit of the Lord filled each heart and soul of those who came in his name.

Holy Cross Episcopal Church, the original site of the Diocese of Central and South Florida's first convocation, was the scene of the centennial celebration of the diocese on Sunday afternoon.

Filled to capacity, members and special guests took part in a Festival Eucharist service with a number of special participants, as follows: the Most Rev. Edmond Browning, presiding Bishop of the Episcopal Church; the Rt. Rev. William H. Folwell, retired Bishop of Central Florida; the Rt. Rev. John W. Howe, Bishop of Central Florida; the Rt. Rev. Reginald Hollis, assistant Bishop of Central Florida; the Rt. Rev. Herbert D. Edmondson, assisting Bishop of Central Florida; the Rev. Janice Miller, the Ven. Linda Brandsted, archdeacon; Peggy Wing Bedford, lector; Dr. James Loulitt, lector; the Rev. Henry W. Brown III; the Rev. Richard S. O. Chang; the Rev. Richard Bowman; Gary M. Jaskulski, of All Saints, Winter Park, organist and choirmaster; Allen Bean, of Trinity, Vero Beach, and Rachel Rautenstrauch, Holy Cross, Sanford, organists; and choir members of All Saints, Winter

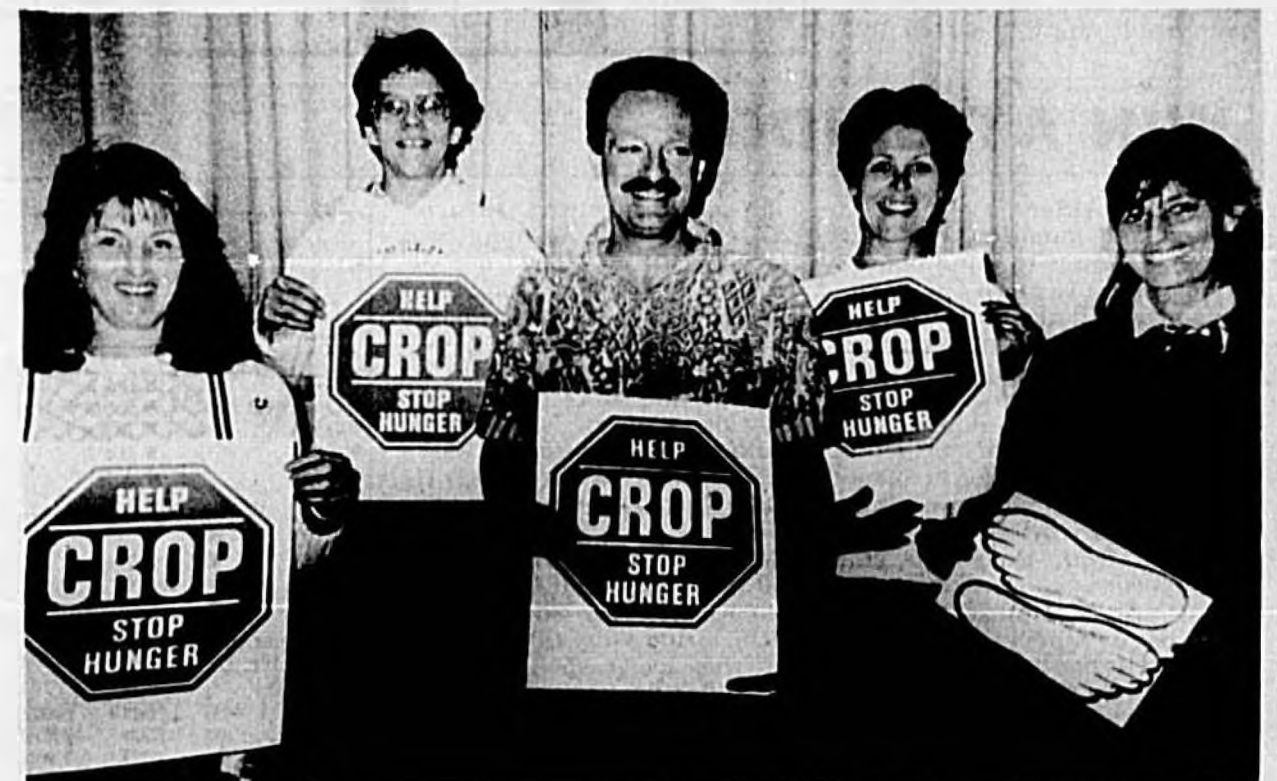

Friends and members of the church gathered after the service to enjoy fellowship and refreshments, prepared by the congregation, during the momentous occasion.

A beautifully decorated sheet cake, made by Cassie Herbers, a member of the church, was donned with a replica of the original sanctuary of Holy Cross.

Moderate vitamin C intake is harmless

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is it safe to take 250 mg of vitamin C daily? I try to eat foods rich in vitamins and minerals yet feel I need the additional vitamin.

DEAR READER: Vitamin C helps maintain and repair the body's tissues. It is present in vegetables (notably potatoes, tomatoes, broccoli, turnip greens, peppers and kale) as well as in many fruits.

The Recommended Dietary Allowance for adults is 60 mg a day. Nonetheless, many people choose to take more vitamin C in pills. Your dose (250 mg) is harmless.

Some health practitioners recommend taking up to 2,000 mg a day. Such massive doses do not afford protection against the common cold or provide any health benefits. In fact, high levels of vitamin C can cause diarrhea, gout and poor absorption of vital minerals.

You could safely ingest up to 1,000 mg of vitamin C a day, but you don't need anywhere near that amount. Stick to the modest 250 mg supplement.

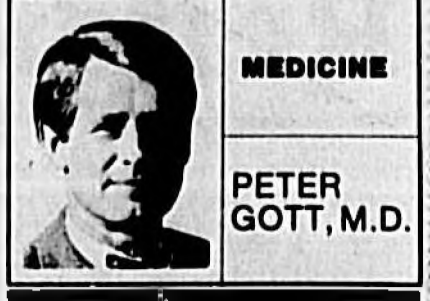

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Fads I - Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: A CT of the brain revealed muscle contraction headaches. My doctor says they are caused by a shrinking of blood vessels in my head, not allowing the blood to flow properly. What are your views on this treatment for my diagnosis?

DEAR READER: I'm confused by your statement that a CT scan "revealed muscle contraction headaches." This is not possible because muscle contraction headaches are caused by muscle spasms in the scalp and neck; such contractions are not visible on CT X-rays. It's more likely that your physician ordered a CT scan to check for stroke or a tumor in the brain. Fortunately, you had neither condition.

I'm further confused (maybe this isn't my day!) by the doctor's correlation of muscle contraction headaches with "shrinking" blood vessels in your head. These two conditions are unrelated. Perhaps your doctor meant to say that there is a circulatory imbalance in your brain. This could indicate migraine.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
First and foremost, Washington D.C. brings to mind politics and politicians. C.V.R. Thompson thinks that Washington is the only place where sound travels faster than light. Bob Hope loves to go there, if only to be near his money. Tim McNamar, the Deputy Secretary of the Treasury under President Reagan, found that if you ask for the time there you get different answers from Democrats and Republicans; 435 answers from the House of Representatives; a 500-page report from some consultants on how to tell time; no answer from your lawyer; and a bill for $1,000.

The bidding was bizarre. East's one-heart opening was crazy. South overcalled one no-trump for want of something better to do. North's two no-trump showed a minor two-suiter. East psyched with his cue-bid of three diamonds, showing a strong spade raise. South wasn't fooled by East's antics, but West was. He doubled five clubs and led a low heart.

Manfield won with his jack and played the club queen. East won with the ace and switched to the spade king. Declarer won with his ace, cashed the heart ace, ruffed dummy's spade jack in his hand and exited with a trump.

This endedplayed West. He led the diamond jack, but Manfield played for split honors, winning with dummy's ace and finessing East for the queen: plus 550.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
March 27, 1993

In the year ahead, there are indications that you will weed out many unproductive aspects of your life. This will allow you to develop in new ways, which will in turn add to your growth and particular strengths.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A lack of prudence might impel you to be wasteful with your emotional and material resources today. Try to operate within a practical framework. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Two people with whom you normally have a cordial relationship might be surprisingly difficult to get along with today. Be careful.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There's a possibility you might not have all of the facts today regarding an important matter. You could jump to conclusions prematurely and create a no-win situation.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A friend of yours who has problems that he or she can't resolve might come to you for assistance and advice today. Unfortunately, this could be a case where the blind are leading the blind.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Deal with the realities of life today, not the rainbows. If you build your hopes upon false premises, your castles in the air could collapse.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you meet with obstacles or resistance today, you might continue to bump your head against a wall instead of trying to circumvent it. Don't allow yourself to slip into a failure mode.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In a joint venture today, it might be wise to take a back seat and let others run the show. There's a possibility your ideas may be on the wrong track.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In order to succeed in a partnership arrangement today, both parties must be aiming for the same objectives. If there isn't union in this area, failure could result.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Guard against any inclinations today to get yourself involved in situations that could prove to be self-defeating. Once you get mixed down, it will be hard to pry yourself loose.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before making plans today that involve your friends, first find out their intentions. There is a chance they won't be in accord with what you have in mind.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be very careful today conducting yourself in situations that reflect upon your reputation. Your image is fragile, and one wrong move could mar you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Strive to be cooperative rather than critical of others today. Sincere compliments help move things along, while harsh remarks could shut down the line. (C)1993, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

NASA finds evidence of oceans on Venus

By JOHN ENDERS
Associated Press Writer

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. — Were there shallow seas on Venus billions of years ago? If so, could they have supported life?

NASA scientists say yes to both questions — maybe. Data collected from the Pioneer 12 orbiter indicate enough water existed on Venus more than 3 billion years ago to fill oceans 25 feet to 75 feet deep, scientists from NASA's Ames Research Center said Wednesday.

If oceans did exist, they were there long enough — several hundred million years — for some form of life to have developed, the scientists said.

But one of the researchers cautioned against assuming too much from the new data. "I doubt very much whether we'll ever be in a position to close the circle and find evidence that life existed on Venus," said James Donahue of the University of Michigan and head scientist on the Pioneer Venus project.

Scientists are still unsure whether the water was in liquid form or vapor, but the possibility of oceans on Venus is "very, very likely," Donahue said.

"The new Pioneer data provides evidence that large amounts of water were definitely there," he said. Venus, Earth's nearest neighbor, is now dry and searing hot with a 900-degree carbon dioxide atmosphere.

Scientists have long believed that water existed on Venus before a runaway greenhouse effect about 3 billion years ago vaporized the water. Donahue said he believes the temperature once was about 70 degrees.

Pioneer plunged to a fiery death in Venus' atmosphere in October. As it moved closer to Venus, its instruments measured heavy hydrogen, or deuterium, at 150 times the amounts previously thought.

Because the heavy hydrogen was a product of the evaporation process, that means that at least 150 times, and possibly 300 times, as much water existed on the planet as earlier believed, scientists said.

Venus is the planet most like Earth and closest to it, and scientists have long looked at it for clues to Earth's formation. The NASA scientists said study of Venus will help them learn more about the effects of possible greenhouse warming of Earth.

Pioneer 12 was a 810-pound drum-shaped spacecraft that orbited the planet more than 5,000 times, making pictures of Venus' clouds and the effects of its 1 million mph solar wind.

Mia testifies: 'Woody, Dylan played in bed'; calls behavior inappropriate

By SAMUEL MAULL
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — Woody Allen exhibited inappropriate behavior with his daughter, Dylan, for years before sexual abuse allegations were filed, his ex-lover Mia Farrow testified today.

"If she visited his apartment, they would end up playing in his bed. The quality of it would arouse her and she would grab at him," said Farrow. "That happened three times."

Allen and Farrow, his companion and leading lady for 12 years, are locked in a bitter custody fight in Manhattan state Supreme Court over their two adopted children, 7-year-old Dylan and 15-year-old Moses, and their biological child, 5-year-old Satchel. Farrow was called by Allen's lawyer to testify as a hostile witness.

Farrow, in her first day on the stand, also said Allen put his thumb in Dylan's mouth when she was about 3.

"I would pull her away, say 'Don't do that,' try to change the subject," said Farrow.

Allen said last week that investigators in Connecticut concluded he had not molested the girl. That investigation was begun after an alleged incident last summer at Farrow's Connecticut home.

Farrow began telling her side of the story after three days of hearing Allen describe her as violent and hysterical.

Asked what was wrong with Allen's behavior toward Dylan, she replied, "The quality of it. The intensity of it. His own neediness, rather than what she needed. It was relentless and overpowering, all the time."

On Tuesday, Allen's last day on the stand, Farrow's lawyer Eleanor Alter tried to show that the filmmaker fell short as a parent. She asked if he knew his daughter's birth date, or if he could name teachers, friends or doctors of his children. A visibly uncomfortable Allen, in most cases, could not.

Elkan Abramowitz, Allen's lawyer, said he planned to question Farrow whether she coached son Moses to write that Allen should kill himself.

Audiences are ducking into family films, studios want more

By JOHN HORN
AP Entertainment Writer

LOS ANGELES — Hollywood has rediscovered the value of the family — mom, dad and the kids couching up an average of 85 apiece for movie tickets.

Sex, violence and raw language are giving way to inoffensive tales of stranded pets, hapless hockey teams and slobbering dogs. Even Bill Murray's latest film, "Groundhog Day," is rated PG, and the makers of Eddie Murphy's next "Beverly Hills Cop" sequel want a PG-13 mark.

This bumper crop of family films is proving hugely profitable and studios are scurrying to snare a new generation of young moviegoers. Films once destined to be rated R are being re-edited for a less restrictive mark.

At Universal Pictures, a brief nude scene was cut from the upcoming "Dragon: The Bruce Lee Story." Over at Warner Bros., several swear words were replaced with less bawdy interjections in May's "Dave." Both should be rated PG-13.

Few studios have done better with family films than Walt Disney. While Disney's G-rated animated musicals "Aladdin" and "Beauty and the Beast" are unqualified smashes,

Study concludes calcium prevents kidney stones

By DANIEL G. HANEY
AP Science Writer

BOSTON — Kidney stone sufferers have long been told to avoid calcium, but a study today suggests doctors have it all wrong: Steering clear of milk and cheese not only fails to prevent stones, it may actually cause them.

The results of the study surprised the researchers from the Harvard School of Public Health.

"The important message is that people who have had calcium stones should not restrict their calcium intake," said Dr. Gary C. Curhan, principal author of the study. "People may actually be at increased risk of forming stones."

Curhan recommended that people worried about stones make sure they get the recommended daily allowance of calcium, which for most adults is 800 milligrams, the equivalent of just over three 8-ounce glasses of milk. The recommended amount for pregnant and nursing women is 1,200 milligrams.

He based his work on a study of 45,619 health professionals, all men, but said the findings should apply to women. The results were published in the New England Journal of Medicine.

About one in 10 Americans will get stones at some time during their lives. The condition is two to three times more common in men than in women.

At the start of the study in 1986, none of the men had ever had kidney stones. They developed in 505 of the participants during four years of follow-up.

Among the results: —The quarter of men with the highest calcium consumption had a 34 percent lower risk of stones than did the quarter with the lowest intake.

—Men with the highest consumption of potassium, which is contained in fruits and vegetables, had only half the risk of stones.

—A high fluid intake was associated with a 29 percent lower risk.

—Those who ate the most animal protein had a 33 percent higher risk.

"The clear message is we should not be telling patients anymore to restrict calcium," commented Dr. Neil Kurtzman, president of the National Kidney Foundation.

The traditional advice, while wrong, made sense, since kidney stones are made up largely of calcium.

Just why calcium might be good rather than bad is unclear. However, the researchers speculated that the answer might have something to do with another component of kidney stones, the nutrient oxalate.

A variety of foods, including chocolate, tea, spinach and peanuts, are high in oxalate. Some think oxalate increases the risk of stones, and calcium blocks its absorption by the body.
