

Dr. George Constantly On Move

NASSAU, Bahamas, (AP)— Try to imagine one doctor serving all of New England — the combined areas of Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

He is Dr. Steven George, 56, mild-spoken, British physician and surgeon who took his medical degrees at Glasgow University in Scotland.

And he's constantly on the move among hundreds of islands scattered over 70,000 square miles of ocean. He is the only doctor for many of the 40,000 people who live on these islands, some of them tiny spots of land that are little more than big sandbars.

They are the outer islands of the Bahamas chain—British-owned sandy islets that begin a scant 50 miles off the coast of Florida.

Dr. George travels by plane, mail and freight boat; he hitchhikes on millionaire yachts headed his way; and he sometimes sails in Bahamas native sloops, small sailing vessels straight out of another century that carry tiny cargoes of vegetables, fish and maybe a goat or two. Often he must wade ashore at his destination.

Dr. George was brought to the Bahamas by a group of Nassau business leaders who formed an organization they called community welfare. There are a few scattered, resident physicians here and there in this island chain—very few. But the majority of the people cannot reach a doctor.

It was for them that community welfare brought Doctor George to the Bahamas.

With the limited funds at their command they brought a traveling clinic and dispensary—two packing cases—into being.

Dr. George carries his portable "hospital" with him from one island to another. He'll plan a week's visit to one of the major groups, avoiding the few areas where there might be resident medical service. In a typical seven-day period spent touring the Abaco group—a primitive outpost of civilization only 100 miles from the U. S. mainland of Florida—he treated 412 patients and emptied his dispensary case of medicines.

Typical of his stops was Grand Cay, a tiny community of thatched huts, fishing nets, and graceful palm trees. Here willing hands helped set up his clinic in a little church.

Pop-eyed youngsters and bashful elders — some of whom had never seen a real doctor in all their lives—looked on in interest and awe as the doctor opened his examining cases.

It was 4:30 in the afternoon, with the warm tropical sun beginning to dip toward the sea, when he was ready.

First in line was a tall, elderly native who complained of a headache. Although he was 70, it developed he still worked actively as a crawlerman, delving into the sea all through the day for the succulent crawfish which sell in the markets as rockfish lobster. Vigorous and continuing exercise he had to stop, and he was suffering from lumbago.

"I'm no longer a young man," the doctor told him. "A liberal supply of alleviating medicine, with instructions, will help you."

Next and more patients filed silently into the church. The line wound and finally, long after dark, the last patient filed by and Doctor George leaned back with a much needed cigarette. But even as he smoked a fishing cruiser came in from Walker's Cay, with nine more patients.

Finally it was ended. There had been 42 patients, some with trivial complaints, some with quite serious medical problems.

And so it was for a week — travel from one island to another, open up his clinic, treat an average of ten patients in an hour, then back to boat or plane, and on to another isle.

Chances are that, as you read this, the tireless doctor burdened with a workload that would stagger a younger man, is off on another

Kansas On Alert For Tornadoes

TOPEKA, Kan., (AP)—The gentle south breeze fades away. An abnormally humid and oppressive calm lies across the land.

Out of the southwest appears a low line of thunderheads. They rise quickly, toll like angry flood waters and soon dominate the sky. There's a wild turmoil as the clouds, bulging down instead of up, roll about each other.

Kansas knows that means tornado weather. They're especially alert these days since May and June are the months when tornadoes hit most frequently.

Kansas has more tornadoes than any other state. A total of 1,034 blew into the state from 1916 through 1955. There were a record 145 last year, including the one which leveled little Udall, killing 82.

Nationwide in 1955 there were a record 919 compared to the previous high of 690 in 1954. They killed 120 and injured 956. Chances of getting hit by one of the funnel-shaped storms are less than for getting hurt in a car ride.

There were 8,776 killed between 1916-1954 in tornadoes throughout the country. That compares with an average annual toll of 38,300 auto accident deaths.

Tornadoes have struck in every state, in every month and at every hour.

The spinning corkscraws possess tremendous lifting strength and have been known to produce whirling masses reaching jet speeds of more than 600 miles an hour. They pack more wallop than an atom bomb.

Nobody knows for certain just how much energy is generated in the vortex of a tornado because the twister's rotary winds chew up measuring instruments.

Tornadoes have been variously described as sounding like roaring freight trains, hundreds of airplanes—and even like millions of bees.

Milton Tabor of Topeka tells of a tornado he once saw:

"It formed where we were enjoying a picnic and whirled furiously over our heads. We looked up in what appeared to be an enormous hollow cylinder, bright inside with lightning flashes but black as the blackest night all around. The noise was like 10 million bees plus a roar that began to grow louder."

Perhaps they will offer a few shillings—all the cash money they possess in a place where hard cash is truly scarce—and the doctor will courteously refuse as he always does, telling them they may send a contribution to community welfare if they wish.

Community welfare's sponsors see a continuing need for the work of the Bahamas bush doctor. They have put the program of medical aid for the out islands on a firm footing. They hope to expand it: the work of Dr. George, they feel, is vital to the health of the natives.

Tracking Station To Be Established In West Indies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Capt. A. B. Metzger, deputy chief of naval research, announced Wednesday a special radio and radar tracking station will be established in the West Indies.

He said it will be set up in the eastern section for use in connection with the space satellite to be launched more than a year hence from Patrick Air Force Base in Florida.

"The purpose of this station is to obtain an initial fix on the satellite right after it has been launched," Metzger said in an address prepared for the Aviation Writers Assn.

"This will make it possible to determine whether the vehicle actually was established in an orbit, and to estimate the orbit in a preliminary and a very rough fashion."

"The United States plans to launch a small sphere, 20 inches in diameter, into an orbit around the earth at an altitude of 200 miles or more. Its lifetime might be 15 days."

Metzger said the initial information could enable scientists to "localize" the time of arrival of this sphere over any given ground location to within several hundred miles in the initial orbit.

gars description."

The thunderclouds have an ominous appearance. The color often is described as sickly greenish black. Out of the base of this dark thundercloud, a funnel-shaped cloud reaches toward the earth, spinning counter clockwise.

The funnel varies. Sometimes it is a sort of thin, dangling rope. Often it resembles an elephant's trunk as it weaves back and forth across its path.

Tornadoes usually move from the southwest. They average 25 to 40 miles an hour but have varied from five to 139 miles an hour. They usually occur between 3 and 7 p.m.

There is no universal protection except caves or underground excavations.

If you are in open country when a tornado is sighted move at right angles to the storm's path. If there is no time to escape lie flat in the nearest depression such as a ditch or ravine.

There'll be more scientific mechanisms than before at strategic observation posts to warn of tornadoes this year as scientists try to unlock secrets of the devastating storms.

The weather bureau's storm forecasting center at Kansas City issues warnings two to four hours in advance, spotting about 70 per cent of the twisters within 150 miles of the warning area.

Despite advanced knowledge of meteorology and new forecasting equipment, however, there is still no foolproof way to tell in advance when or where a tornado will strike.

If You Breathe Too Fast

By NERMAN H. BUNDSIEN, M.D.

DO you breathe too rapidly or too deeply? Many persons actually overbreathe and get into trouble for their efforts. Overbreathing, or hyperventilation, occurs when the rate or depth of respiration is greater than that needed to satisfy the oxygen requirements of your body.

Less Oxygen
This means that your body loses a greater amount of carbon dioxide with the result that your hemoglobin clings more tightly to the bound oxygen. Thus, less oxygen is distributed to the tissues as your blood courses through your body.

In the brain, and other sensitive tissues, this lack of oxygen is apt to have immediate effects. You may develop a giddy feeling or even lose consciousness. Your face may become flushed, your vision may be blurred and your hands may tingle and feel numb.

By this time you realize something is wrong. Since you apparently have no control over what is happening, you might become panicky. And this will add to your symptoms.

Hyperventilation can be caused by various things. Exertion, especially excessive running, sometimes sets up an overbreathing cycle in apparently healthy individuals. They simply can't reduce the rate and depth of breathing after it has been automatically increased by the exertion.

Exposure to cold, fear, pain or other strong emotional upsets might start hyperventilation to prepare you for flight or fight. It's a natural response to such stimulants.

Maybe you'll launch an episode of overbreathing by frequently yawning or sighing to relieve anxiety or tension. Eventually this sighing might become deep enough and frequent enough to produce hyperventilation.

Sometimes persons actually develop a habit of overbreathing upon finding themselves in an unpleasant situation. For example, you might light a cigarette when under tension or an obese person may seek consolation in food.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Mrs. A. Z.: I am 52 years old and have not had a menstruation period for over a year. Am I still in danger of becoming pregnant?
Answer: Usually, in women in whom menstruation has ceased for this period of time, there is no chance of becoming pregnant.

Sanford's Name Will Be Carried Over Nation By SNAS Personnel

An important wing in the air defense of America will soon be carrying the name "Sanford" with them around the world.

Only recently was the official insignia of Sanford's Naval Air Station approved by the Chief of Naval Operations and currently, the insignia are being made to secure details and bases so that those who are attached here can carry their important location around with them wherever they may go.

The insignia, selected to represent Naval Aviation, and the Naval Air Station here, has across its clock face which symbolizes readiness at all times "SANFORD". This is located just above the Navy Wings which sit below it the electron orbit depicting the electronic and atomic age and a mallet fist supporting the swift sword which depicts heavy attack.

Sanford should be doubly proud to have the name carried over the nation and into every corner of the globe by these men of the Navy as they proudly wear their insignia.

Frankly, it is the first time that we have heard of a location, such as the City of Sanford, shown on an insignia.

What about letting our Navy friends know how much we appreciate all that is being

TODAY'S BIBLE VERSE

The Lord speaks unto Moses face to face as a man speaketh to his friends. Exodus 33:11—This seems to contradict the statement that no man has seen God at any time; but Paul had a vision of the risen Christ and it transformed his life. We knew a disolute degenerate in Delaware, Ohio who was given a vision of the risen Christ and this vision made a saint of the most depraved man we had ever known. This is called a theophany and such appearances by no means represent the totality of the Infinite which is utterly beyond man's comprehension, but such visions have indeed transformed the civilized world.

R. Weede is Newest Matinee Idol

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U. S. A.)—All men who have given up hope of success in life because they are middle-aged, puny and bald can take heart from Robert Weede.

Weede, Broadway's newest matinee idol, is neither young nor tall nor dark nor handsome.

He is stocky and plump-featured, bald on top, middle-aged, and he has freckles on an indisputably bald head.

Far from being defects, those freckles—a beguiling smile and a fine voice—have made him overnight one of the year's greatest successes in the theatre.

Weede, one of America's best bachelors, was a Broadway unknown when he opened a few weeks ago in Frank Loesser's "The Most Happy Fella," hailed by critics as America's finest folk opera since "Porgy and Bess."

He played the role of Tony, an aging bachelor winemonger who was a pretty waitress by correspondence. He is at first taken aback by Tony's appearance, but she marries him anyway. After a few weeks she has a heart and falls deeply and devotedly in love with him. The fact she is bearing a child by another man bothers Tony only slightly. He decides that at his age it is better to have a pretty child with a heart than no child at all.

Well, sir, he old gaffer in the audience, many of whom presumably had a child of their own, but says that a faded theater with tears at the sight of Tony's victory.

Soon Weede was measuring his fan mail with buckets, and most of the letters were in feminine handwriting. Tony had stirred the sentimental ladies, too.

I asked Weede what he himself thought, off stage, about May and November romances, and he replied stoutly:

"I have the same philosophy Tony did. Honest love can make up for a lot of differences between people—differences in age or shape or background."

When "The Most Happy Fella" became an immediate hit, the word went out:

"Who is this guy, Weede? Where did he learn to act?" This rather mystified Weede, who asked mildly:

"What did they think I've been doing all these years in opera?" Weede, a concert star for two decades, has sung with every major opera company in America, including the Metropolitan.

done in the interest of Sanford? From a businessman or a resident, the Commanding Officers would be delighted, we are sure, to hear of your pleased reaction toward having their insignia approved.

Precautions Against Burglars

In a certain city, the police got curious about a possible relationship between burglary and dark houses. They theorized that burglars would rarely venture into a house where a light was burning. The police kept a careful record for awhile and found proof of the theory. Almost every case of burglary took place in a house that had been left dark.

With the summer vacation season and beach outing time at hand, this theory brought out by intelligent investigation on the part of police officers, might be of some value to local homeowners planning to take off for a week's visiting or for a weekend beach party, especially in view of the fact that a wave of house breaking has been experienced recently.

Now, this may seem like rather elementary stuff, but an informed community is a protected one. When the hazards of losing personal valuables and belongings are made known, steps are usually taken to protect both property and lives.

Anybody, one might say, has the sense to keep a light burning. The fact is, however, that few householders do much thinking about ways of not advertising their absence. Leaving a light on is only one of many things that can be done. It is a subject worth some attention, now that the vacation season is upon us.

If your house is going to be empty during a vacation trip, a little thought in advance may pay off handsomely. Leaving a lawn unmowed, for example, is a dead giveaway to burglars casing a neighborhood. Arrange to have it mowed. A collection of newspapers on the front steps says: "Nobody home. Have delivery stopped, or ask a neighbor to pick up the papers daily.

The same goes for mail and milk. See that they don't accumulate while you're gone. Last thing before leaving, turn on one small light—perhaps only a night light in the bathroom. And if you want to be extra careful about fires, pull the plugs out of the wall fixtures.

And another thing—added precaution, of course—is to notify your police department. Let them know you're leaving a light on and in what part of the house it is located; advise them of the date of your return. If you live outside of a city, call your sheriff or constable so that they will be on the lookout for intruders or burglars.

To help your neighbor—just as you would want to be helped—if you see strangers in the neighborhood, apparently up to no good, and acting strangely, call your law enforcement officer so that he may investigate.

These simple precautions, and others you'll think of, may be instrumental in making your homecoming pleasant instead of tragic.

an educator herself, was "the mainprize of my career.

"We're all such self-made people today," he added, "and actually I don't think any of us are self-made."

"We all have a hard time, but there are always people who want to help us. I can't even count all the people who helped me along the way."

"Many people, of course, do have bad luck. But there are others, who, if they made a harder effort to improve their own gifts, would find it easier to go ahead."

"You must, first of all, prepare yourself and be ready for the helping hand when it comes. Otherwise, no one can help you."

He Weede sounds a bit like a teacher, well—that's what he is. In recent years he has aided a number of young singers to launch their careers by giving them voice lessons.

He believes that, once you accept a helping hand, your greatest privilege in life—is as soon as you are able—is to extend one of your own to others.

MISSOURI COMPROMISE?

Dreamy South Pacific Is No More

HONOLULU (U. S. A.)—The dreamy, unspoiled South Pacific is no more. The island natives, via radio and war-gained knowledge, are strictly up to date.

Lein-e-lad baseball teams sporting pitchers with a wicked curve, school teachers strictly up on the racial situation and natives who turn down cigarettes of the wrong brand are the things that travelers had seen.

The Navy destroyer escort Whitehurst found the baseball team was a palm-rigger's and named Lukner. The chief of the island challenged the sailors to a game.

The bases were made of palm leaves and driftwood and there was an outfield fence in center field. The natives had no gloves or shoes and their uniforms were loin cloths, but they could play baseball.

Lt. Jg Tom Kelleher from Salem, Mass., the ship's athletic officer, got up a team of pretty confident sailors—until they got to bat.

The natives won 7 to 6. "The only reason we got any runs at all was because their second baseman couldn't field a ground ball," Kelleher said.

The lieutenant struck out the first time up, and singled the second. It was the only really solid hit the sailors got.

Herlong Reports

A big fight is looming in the House on the question of raising postal rates. It will center on whether the Post Office Department is a business or a service institution. It will probably be decided that it is partly a business and partly a service institution. In other words, the recommendations of the House Committee on Post Office and Civil Service for an increase in postal rates will probably pass but not until after some of the increases have been eliminated.

In substance the bill recommended to the House does, among other things, the following: Raises the rate on first class mail from three cents to four cents an ounce; raises domestic air mail from six cents to seven cents an ounce; raises the rate on the reading portion of second class mail (newspapers, magazines, etc.) six cents a year for a period of five years—a total raise of 20 per cent; raises the advertising portion of such mail 24 per cent a year for five years—a total raise of 120 per cent. Neither of these increases affect publications of non-profit religious, educational, scientific, philanthropic, agricultural labor, veterans, or fraternal organizations. The proposal also raises the rate on third class (usually advertising) mail approximately 25 per cent. There are, of course, other minor changes.

It is estimated that if this bill passes as written, it will increase the revenue of the Post Office Department about $432 million a year. Last year the Department lost $478 million. These increases then, should make the Post Office Department just about break even.

Those who argue that the Post Office Department is a service institution will say that the increases are too much. Those who argue that it is a business institution will say that they should go still further and completely balance the budget of the Post Office Department. It is my belief that the increase in the first class rate is going to have a hard time passing.

Armed Forces Peering Into Future

BY JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (U. S. A.)—What the Army, Navy and Air Force are suffering from is not so much military indigestion as it is near-sightedness from trying to peer into the future.

None of them can see far enough into the future at this time to claim it alone is right.

The feuding among the three services is over the role each thinks it should have in national defense and future war. But the phenomenal development of new weapons may make present conceptions of modern war obsolete. Missile development is the prime example.

The Army now has the job of guarding key points in the United States from air attack with the Nike missile, which has a range of about 25 miles. The Army is developing one with longer range. But the Air Force, which has the job of protecting the whole country from air attack, is pushing a missile of its own, the Navy-developed Talos, with a range longer than the Nike's. What does the future hold? Missiles so accurate and long range that they can substitute for planes in defending the country? If so who handles them then, the Army or the Air Force?

Or will even this idea of national defense shortly be out of date with the development of intercontinental missiles so accurate and devastating that an attack by planes would become obsolete?

Who would handle the defense against these missiles, Army or Air Force?

Class Day Exercises Held At Seminole High School

BY SANDRA BERG
Herald Society Editor

Excitement, tension and a mixed feeling of sadness and gladness were felt by many of the students at the Seminole High School Class Day held in the auditorium 10 a.m. yesterday.

For the seniors it meant a "sort-of farewell" from the lower classes and from the faculty not to mention principal, Herman E. Morris, who is also leaving.

Right before the events started they were lined in straight rows in front of the school for the traditional picture taking after which the 1936 Graduating class marched in the large room to the strains of "Pomp and Circumstance" by the High School Band, which showed the empty places of the Senior band members.

Miss Barbara Smith, senior chaplain, gave the devotional yesterday using as her chapter, First Corinthians, 13.

Jimmy Owen, tall lanky president of the class made a short speech explaining the feelings of the group for the school, faculty and the meaning of the class colors. He then called Bobby Mitchell and John Clarke on stage to present to Principal Morris "for his wisdom and guidance" a gift as "a token of appreciation from the students of SHS."

It was a camera on which was inscribed "SHS Student Body, 1936." Mr. Morris expressing his surprise and pleasure said, "It's a mighty fine gift." As an added feature Jimmy brought out a tall hat box which contained a "10 gallon Stetson" hat and which brought loud applause from the crowd as Mr. Morris "tried it on."

Mrs. A. R. Key of the Sallis Harrison Chapter, D.A.R., was then called upon to present J. D. Stone with a medal as he obtained the highest grades in American History. Mrs. Key explained that the D.A.R. promotes Americanism and backs "patriotic education."

Mrs. M. R. Strickland was on hand to represent the Norman D. V. Howard Chapter UDC and said "I take pleasure in presenting to Miss Nancy Cash the award for the highest grades in history."

Also given medals were members of the Triple Trio and the Double Quartet.

Mrs. Bateman called Miss Sara Jacobson and Miss Pat Dunn, respectively on the stage to present them gifts for "their work on the Celery Fed." Sara was Editor and Chief while Pat was business manager.

Miss Barbara Bohn, girls' physical education teacher, explained that SHS interclass competitions was held and gave letters to the Volley Ball champs, Basketball champs, archery, and softball champs.

Ernest Cowley kept the suspense high as he related the band's experiences and presented letters to the group finally handing up with the presentation of the Band Award which has only been given for five years. "This trophy is for what they do and sometimes what they don't do," he cracked. Miss Joyce Elizabeth Milam was receiver. Joyce was loudly applauded as she marched on the stage to get her prize.

Coach Kettles called the conference winning baseball team on stage to congratulate them and to give them letters. They include Ernie Morris, Ronnie Russel, Branley Schirard, John Bowen, Eddie Barbour, Jim Hawkins, Gilbert Nash, David Galloway, Edwin Madden, John Barley, Bobby Johnson, Robert Sameul, Robert Carter, and Jack Stotaki. For winning the Central Fla. Championship the boys will receive gold footballs.

As the trophy was brought out Coach Kettles said, "as a fitting and just thing we would like to give this trophy to Mr. Morris."

Another round of applause broke out as the retiring principal read the inscription on the base of the trophy.

More awards for the sports were made by Coach Lyster for basketball teams and Coach Ganas said in his short speech for the track team "these boys represent many a hard hour in the practice field." "Track is a very rugged sport and we grade by the point system with four points bringing a letter."

Among those on the track teams were Wayne McCoy, Sidney Vihlen, Murray Nance, Phillip Byrd, Johnny Yeakle, Joe Butler, Bobby Little and Al Collins. He also presented numerals to

Airmen Decide To Ban Banbury

BANBURY, England (AP)—Some 3,000 U. S. airmen, it was disclosed Thursday, have decided to ban Banbury until they bury the Banbury ban.
The ban declares the town out of bounds for British troops, it was imposed by the British army's Western Command "to prevent trouble with U. S. servicemen." Spring has come to England, and it seems there has been a certain amount of allied friction over girls.
The inference that they needed help from Western Command in such competition did not sit well with the Americans. After thinking it over, they arrived at a decision.
Until the town is opened up again to the British, the Yanks themselves will no longer "ride a hot bus to Banbury Cross," which is the way the old nursery rhyme goes these days.
"The fellows," said an officer at the U. S. base in Upper Heyford, "are real upset by the treatment given the British troops. They have decided to give Banbury a miss as a token of sympathy."
Among the 1,000 British Tommies at nearby Kinlet, the news touched off a positive wave of British-American friendship. The general feeling spread that the Yanks are pretty good blokes at heart.
In Banbury's saloons, pronounced "pubs," there were silent cash registers and deep gloom. "Those Yanks," said one publican "are the best customers we ever had."
Meanwhile, in Parliament, indignation was brewing in the person of Lt. Col. Marcus Lion, a Labor member from London's Brixton district.
A fine thing, the colonel said, when a British soldier becomes an undesirable alien in his own, his native land.
So the colonel filed this motion in the House of Commons:
"That in the opinion of this House the military order banning British troops stationed nearby from visiting Banbury so that only American troops are permitted there should be countermanded forthwith."
Nobody knows what will happen next. But what with one thing and another, there hasn't been so much excitement in Banbury since Cynric the Saxon clobbered the British here in the Battle of 554.

The Better Vision Institute estimates that 638,000 Americans a year have disabling injuries from do-it-yourself work.

Council Pits Weight of Community Resources Against Alcoholism

WELLINGTON, Kan. (AP)—Doctor and priest, welfare chief and prosecutor, sheriff and editor have joined in a common effort to make the "zeros" count again in this rural community.

They're members of a remarkable organization known as the Sumner County Council on Alcoholism.

"Alcoholics are zeros in their community," Dr. Karl E. Voldeng, one of the council's founders, said. "Most of them don't contribute anything. They don't even fix up their backyards."

"And that makes them a community responsibility. The alcoholic must be helped to live with himself again—he has to learn once more to be a good husband, father, and neighbor."

The council pits the weight of community resources in an intensive campaign against alcoholism which has been described as the nation's biggest unsolved public health problem.

Kansas' State Commission on Alcoholism helped launch the project and supports it. Lewis Andres, executive director of the agency, says the group probably is unique on the American scene.

The idea was to determine whether—and how—a small town can tackle the complex problem on its own. Today everybody connected with the experiment is pleased with the results.

Founded less than two years ago, the council is zealously propagating the view that alcoholism is a medical as well as a moral problem. Its earthy, homespun approach has paid off in reclaimed individuals and reunited families.

Wellington is a county seat of some 8,000 residents in South Central Kansas. Its situation with re-

Bridey Murphy Is Bringing New Party Craze To Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Bridey Murphy has brought a new party craze to Hollywood—hypnotism. Toast of the town after only six weeks here is a Scottish-born Canadian named Bill McGonigle. At various parties he has hypnotized Kathryn Grayson into telling of another life as an English housewife, Jane Powell into persisting with her diet and Phyllis Kirk into giving up sweets and cigarettes.

Hollywood embraces fads with vigor—author Gayelord Hauser's diet and scrabble struck hard here. So it was only natural that the movie folk should become intrigued with hypnotism. A professional entertainer is currently hypnotizing notables nightly at McCambo. Voluntas on hypnotism have been snapped up at the book stores.

McGonigle, 34, has been invited to 15 exclusive parties in recent weeks and, to hear him tell it, he has been a sensation. Among his amazing achievements was shutting up Mickey Rooney.

The obstreperous Mick was always getting into the act while McGonigle was hypnotizing others at a recent party. So the hypnotist put the whammy on Mickey and made him sit silently in a chair.

"I was a little nervous about working in front of these people," the Scotsman observed, "because all of them are entertainers in their own right. But they seemed to be fascinated by what I was doing."

Wooden keeps a scoresheet which shows that over an 8-month period the council conducted nearly 500 interviews with alcoholics—sometimes in jail—relatives, and interested parties. Of some 60 cases handled, half have been rehabilitated to normal community life—meaning, for the alcoholic, total abstinence.

Others haven't made it but keep trying.

May Said Banner Month At Sanlando

May was a banner month for Sanlando Springs and Tropical Gardens as compared with previous attendance records during the comparative period, according to J. S. Damico, acting manager. The past 31 days were 27.5 percent ahead of May one year ago. Indicative of the gain, this year's May was 43.6 percent up over the same month in 1954.

Tomorrow night at 8 o'clock the whole city will turn out to honor Herman E. Morris retiring principal of the Seminole High School. Proclaimed as "Herman E. Morris Day" by Mayor F. D. Scott, former pupils, citizens, Navy personnel and their families, will gather at the Sanford Memorial Baseball Stadium to join in the festivities.

"Everyone is invited" the Committee pointed out, "and we don't want anyone to stay away."

Especially invited, the committee arranging the gigantic celebration said, are the former pupils of Principal Morris. And they added that the Navy personnel along with their families are invited to attend and enjoy the evening.

Starting promptly at 8 o'clock tomorrow night will be one of the biggest watermelon cuttings ever staged in Sanford. On hand will be a trailerload of choice watermelons to be cut by the Board of Sanford City Commissioners and served by members of the graduating Class at Seminole High School.

Following the watermelon cutting and perhaps during the time that the huge crowd is enjoying this particular part of the festivities a brief ceremony will take place. There will be several prominent speakers and businessmen speaking briefly and praising Morris for his 30-years of devoted service to the youth of Seminole County.

The huge crowd, following the watermelon cutting and speaking, will go directly to the American Legion Fair Building adjacent to the Memorial Baseball Park Stadium for an evening's fun of square dancing. It was announced this morning that Tony Russi and his orchestra will provide the music for this event.

Also planned to precede the festivities is a band concert by former members of the Seminole High School Band.

The committee in charge of the Herman E. Morris Night celebration said this morning, "We don't want anyone to stay at home and miss the biggest celebration ever staged in Sanford honoring the man who has given 30 years to the young people of Sanford and Seminole County."

2 Local Students Chosen To Attend Science Camp

Two high school students from Seminole County have been selected to attend the Fourth Annual Science Camp at Florida State University June 20 to July 3.

Phyllis Clemence, 15, and Elena Tully, 16, Oviola will be among 100 students from all over Florida who were selected because they are gifted potential scientists who may be directed toward scientific study and a science career by getting a taste of what it is like.

The boys and girls will work in laboratories at FSU under the direction of faculty members, will listen to lectures, take field trips and visit the FSU Oceanographic Institute on the Gulf.

With all of this, according to Dr. Alex E. S. Green, associate professor of physics who is camp director, will be mixed dances, picnics and other recreation.

Recreation Program Revealed

The summer recreation program, financed and supervised jointly by the City of Sanford and the Seminole County School Board, will open this year on Monday, June 11.

All children who have reached their sixth birthday are urged to register that day. Registration will begin at 9 a. m. at the Elks' Playground on the lake front.

This year's program will be under strict adult supervision. The morning half of the activities will be restricted to youngsters from the first through the sixth grade, and will consist of a supervised play period; one hour of swimming and a handicraft or arts and crafts period.

The play period will consist of volleyball, touch football, basketball, softball, archery, and several types of play games suitable for the types participating. Swimming will be in the city pool and will be rigidly supervised by at least four lifeguards. The arts and crafts will be held in the community building in the park, which has a large fan and will be comfortable enough to give the children a period of rest.

All children will be placed in a permanent group according to their grade level and all games and activities are being planned by group according to age and physical development.

On Monday morning of each week, all children will be taken to the high school auditorium where a free movie will be shown. The program will consist of one feature length movie and one cartoon. The movies were selected as the most desirable for youngsters by the Legion of Decency.

Each morning, Monday through Friday, two buses will travel separate routes through the city. Bus number one will leave the corner of First and French at 8 o'clock, proceed out French to its intersection with Park, then down Park to the Elks' Playground. Bus number two will begin at 10th St. and Sanford Ave., out Sanford to 23rd St., down to Melonville and to the playground. The buses are provided by the School Board, and to show appreciation for use of same, it is requested that parents do not send children with candy, cake, chewing gum.

Rev. Stone Delivers Sermon

More than 600 parents, students, and faculty members attended the Baccalaureate sermon last night at Seminole High School.

The sermon was delivered by the Rev. Perry L. Stone of the First Christian Church, with the Rev. Fred B. Fisher, First Baptist Church, the Rev. Robert Spear Jr., Church of the Nazarene, and the Rev. Milton H. Wyatt, First Methodist Church taking part in the service.

The Seminole High School Choir, under the direction of Miss Ollie Reese Whittle, sang "Laudamus" and "Praise The Lord, Ye Heavens Adore Him" during the hour-long service at which the Senior Class were seated together in their caps and gowns.

The Rev. Stone told the graduating class of 58 young men and young women that "graduation brings joys not unmixed with sweet sorrow."

"You face a new adventure into a field you have never charted from which there may come a medley of thrills," he said.

"But are you ready — are you prepared — for this great adventure?" he asked.

And speaking forcefully to the graduating class he asked, "Are you ready and are you prepared to manage your life away from home?"

The Rev. Stone compared the adventure to entering a wide door, taking a journey, or embarking on a voyage through unfamiliar scenes.

There are three things you will need, the First Christian Church minister told his graduating class audience — compatibility, industry, and character.

In explaining the three necessities for their future life, the Rev. Stone charged his young listeners "Be humble enough to admit you're wrong and ask forgiveness."

"Character," he said, "is what you are — stripped of all pretense, not what people think you are but what God knows you are. Shine through what you do for it is better to be good than great."

You must throw yourselves into your new adventure with enthusiasm, Rev. Stone advised. But you do not have to go alone, take God with you.

And he concluded his Baccalaureate sermon with the admonition to "Choose the right streams of influence into your lives and dedicate yourselves in faith and love."

Parochial School Graduates 1st Class

The first class to graduate from All Soul's Parochial School was awarded diplomas at commencement exercises yesterday.

Father Richard Lyons delivered diplomas to five girls and four boys, the first of the ninth grade class to graduate from the school.

The commencement service, held at All Soul's Catholic Church yesterday at 4 o'clock, was followed by a reception given by the Most All Soul's Parochial School lawn.

The class "last will and testament," "the class prophecy," and short addresses from each member of the class formed a part of the reception.

Father Richard Lyons, in his commencement sermon to the nine graduates, before delivering their diplomas, said "You are on your first step toward independence and standing on your own feet."

"The main objective of education," he said, "is to give you the ability to answer for yourself and we have given you one more prof in that we have added religion to education."

Looking to the future of the young graduating class, Father Lyons said, "Since this is the first graduation at All Soul's Parochial School, we are anxious to see the results in future years."

"Follow out the scheme of your class colors—white and blue," Father Lyons concluded, "while for purity of conscience and blue for faith in God."

Diplomas were awarded Cynthia Rounhill, Carolyn Michaels, Diane Moye, Joanne Kennedy, Angelina Graves, Robert Teslo, Eddie Rinkavase, Terry Stafford, and Kelly Lake.
