Resources Florida Banks More Than $37,000,000 Greater Than Last Year

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Aug. 12.—Resources more than $37,000,000 greater than for the same period one year ago were held by Florida's state banks and trust companies on June 30. This is revealed in the statement just issued by the banking department of the state comptroller's office, which shows that on June 30, these institutions had combined resources of $170,045,923.10 compared with $142,728,787.71 on June 30, 1923.

These figures were slightly below the high mark of $185,582,076.70 on March 31, this year, when the peak is usually shown, but was well above the resources shown for December 31, 1923, which totaled $156,009,085.86.

The statement showed substantial increase in deposits. Individual deposits totaled $9,625,190.30 June 30, this year, compared with $7,937,483.97, a year ago; savings deposits were $41,972,136 this year and $36,290,223.13 last year; while deposits on certificates amounted to $10,628,367.24, which is a gain of more than a million dollars over the preceding year's total of $9,520,094.31.

Capital stock of the state banks and trust companies had also jumped substantially during the twelve months period, the statement showed. The total capitalization on June 30, 1923, amounted to $11,868,000, and on June 30, this year had reached the total of $13,323,000.

Undivided profits aggregated $2,469,101.25 this year against $1,806,082.17 in 1923, and the surplus shown in the statement just issued totaled $4,516,409.82 compared with $3,449,485.30 last year.

REPORTS FROM LABOR CHEERS THE PRESIDENT

Fort Hamilton, N. Y., replying to a protest of the letter against the candidacy of a negro for a seat in congress from New York.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 12.—President Coolidge experimented Monday with talking moving pictures to determine whether they can be used in the campaign.

The try-out was held in the south ground of the White House, where inventors of the phonofilm set up their apparatus. Standing beneath one of the big shade trees, the president made a short talk, which was recorded by the machine. It will be reproduced next week in the White House.

If the production is approved, it will be released to moving picture theaters, so the president may be seen in the act of speaking at the same time his words are heard. Inventors of the phonofilm believe it may vie with the radio in supplying a new method for presidential candidates to place their views before the public.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The popular majority of President Coolidge on election day may even exceed that given to Harding in 1920, according to President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, who returned today from a six weeks' visit to the Pacific coast. The La Follette vote, Dr. Butler believes, will be so diffused as to have small effect on the electoral vote.

from the state borders to the designated parking places in the city was guided by state and city police.

Except for the street cars and officially designated automobiles all regular traffic in the town had been stopped and the authorities had little difficulty in taking care of the incoming machines.

With its population tripled almost overnight, Clarkburg hotels and restaurants were taxed far beyond their capacity, but scores of temporary stands lining the streets furnished food for thousands who could not be cared for in the regular establishments.

A heavy downpour soaked the crowd immediately before Mr. Davis began to speak. The many thousands who filled the Plaza refused to let this dampen their enthusiasm.

Before Mr. Davis had gotten half through his address the rain was falling in torrents. A few hundred of the crowd formed a slight temporary shelter under newspapers and long sheets of cardboard on the press tables, but thousands were less fortunate.

The rain did not serve to interfere with the fireworks display which had been lighted on the nearby hills.

along the east coast of Greenland, prevented the two reconnaissance planes on board the cruiser from hopping off and making a survey of the coast lines in an endeavor to pick out a safe harbor for the planes of Lieut. Lowell H. Smith and Lieut. Erik Nelson to land off from Reykjavik. In sailing here way through the ice one of the propellers of the Raleigh was slightly damaged.

Late yesterday afternoon the Raleigh which was about 60 miles off the Greenland coast, stood out beyond the ice floes in order to insure her safety during the night. If the fog holds off tomorrow it is probable that the two planes will be able to take a short, fast ride to the vicinity of Anker's base for the 2000 feet.

PROVISION FOR NEW CITY JAIL HAS BEEN MADE

merits that the commission accepted the bid. There were four other bids.

Of the six bids received for the wood stave pipe, only three were worth considering, Mr. Craig stated. They were those of Standard Wood Pipe Company, the Pacific Pipe and Tank Company and Wycoff and Sons. The bid of the Wycoff Company was the highest, and was opened at the meeting of the commission Monday, but was lowered in a telegraphic message this morning. On account of ethical principles, Mr. Craig and the commissioners thought it best not to consider the bid of that company.

The bid of the Standard Wood Pipe Company was materially the lowest, Mr. Craig declared. The bid was for white pine and cypress pipe. The other bid considered was that of the Pacific Pipe and Tank Company, which was for redwood only. The difference in the cost would be about $3,900, it was learned, the redwood being the more expensive.

The Commission agreed to accept the bid of the Standard Wood Pipe Company, provided they can definitely furnish a date on which delivery may be made and prove that they have a satisfactory pipe to offer by sending samples to be examined by city officials. If the company can not comply with these provisions, the bid of the Pacific Pipe and Tank Company is to be accepted.

President Edward Lane of the Sanford Shrine Club appeared before the commission in regard to obtaining for the club the use of the new municipal athletic field and ball park for a celebration some time in September. Mr. Lane stated that the Shriners had asked about two months ago for the park for its opening celebration and that he believed they should have preference over the claim of the Junior Chamber of Commerce for it. The civic body never having formally asked for the use of the park, the commissioners informed Mr. Lane that his club could have the park for its September celebration.

Mrs. Anna Woodbridge was present and asked that the City Commission authorize the paying of certain bills contracted by her on account of a fall into a ditch on Pine Avenue several months ago and which, she said, the city had been requested to remedy. The commission informed Mrs. Woodbridge that on account of the length of time having lapsed between the time the accident was supposed to have happened and the time it was reported officially, nothing could be done with the matter by the city.

Resolutions to the effect, that the commission favors an election for the voting of a bond issue amounting to $325,000 were signed by the commissioners. The four resolutions passed were to provide $10,000 for a municipal cemetery, $100,000 for the paving of streets, etc., by the city, $165,000 for sewerage extension, and $50,000 for building and equipping a municipal jail, making a total of $325,000.

Several paving resolutions also were passed authorizing the paving of the following streets and avenues: Popular Avenue, from First Street to Third Street, a width of 24 feet; Twelfth street from Sanford Avenue to Park Avenue, a width of 24 feet; Central Avenue, from Park Avenue to French Avenue, a distance of 24 feet, instead of 19 feet.

Through reports submitted it was learned that the city is paying several thousand dollars interest each month on finished street paving for which no assessments have been made against adjoining property owners. The commission requested that assessments for the paving be made as soon as possible so that this additional and unnecessary expense may be eliminated.

A formal communication from City Attorney George A. DeCottis was read in which he stated that due to ethical reasons he was unqualified to represent the city in the trial of F. D. McBride, alleged bootlegger, whose case will be tried Wednesday morning. Mr. DeCottis said that before he knew McBride had been arrested, the man confided in him some of the facts of the case in an attempt to get the city attorney to represent him in the case, not knowing of course that the attorney represented the city. Mr. DeCottis said that on account of the unavoidable mistake, he had hired Lewis O'Brien to represent the city in the case against McBride.

Upon recommendation by Municipal Judge J. G. Sharon, the City Commission reduced the fine of Earl Powell, charged with having intoxicating liquor in his possession, from $300 to $10, because it was reasonably certain the Mr. Powell had only a flask for personal consumption in his possession and not a quantity to sell.

The question of relaying the brick, taken up for the purpose of laying water mains, on First Street was brought up and the city officials authorized that the work be done at once. The matter of paving that space between the brick road and the fence of the athletic field on the west side was discussed though no definite action was taken.

At this morning's meeting, the city manager was authorized to build a bridge over Pump Branch on Third Street. It was said that the bridge will cost approximately $3,000.

Kansas Children Erect Memorial President Harding

HUTCHINSON, Kas., Aug. 11.—A memorial of granite with bronze tablet, set in a little park surrounded by a three-foot stone wall, marks the spot on a farm near here where the late President Harding shook grain under a broiling sun in June, 1923, when on the trans-continental trip that was brought to an end by his death. The memorial was dedicated August 2, the anniversary of his death.

It was on the Chester O'Neil wheat farm, eight miles west of Hutchinson, that the late president, as he expressed it, "Sentient shook grain in the 'Ohio' Arthur Capper and Gov. Jonathan M. Davis, of Kansas, who previously had shocked the Kansas way of doing it. Then Mr. Harding drove a harvesting machine several times about the field, so the 'newspaper boys could have a story' as Mrs. Harding said.

The president and party had been greeted at the entrance to the farm by a little group of country folk among them several children in his arms. These children and others of Reno county, by contributions of nickels and dimes, raised the fund to erect the memorial.

fied his defects and that he had seen readily through the dissembling. The mental pathologist said that a physical examination would not indicate a man was mentally sick, nor that he harbored criminalistic tendencies. Therefore, he said, he was unable to point out on various X-ray plates "one physical defect in either defendant which accounts for this crime," as demanded by Mr. Crowe.

In his attack on the theory of functional disorders of the endocrine glands, Mr. Crowe asked: "What is the function of the pineal gland?"

"It regulates the balance of other endocrine glands," answered the doctor.

"Isn't it a fact that there is some question that the pineal is a gland at all?" asked Mr. Crowe.

"Yes, in some people's minds," replied the witness.

Dr. Hulbert was being cross-examined on the report of pathology found in Leopold when court adjourned until today. He had been on the witness stand two full days and the greater part of a third. It was indicated that he would be dismissed from the witness stand before noon today, and Clarence S. Darrow, chief counsel for the defense, said that the defense would rest before adjournment.

The state has a list of approximately fifty rebuttal witnesses, including four alienists.

Davis Will Wage Hard Fight Against Republican Party

Cooperation officially with all legitimate endeavors, whether from the League of Nations or from any other source, to lessen the prospect of war; to aid in repairing the ravages of past wars; to promote disarmament and to advance the well being of mankind.

To maintain the means of adequate national defense, "until reason is permitted to take the place of force."

In opposition to the impairment, "either by injunction or by any other device" of the rights of labor to organize and to bargain collectively for "an adequate wage earned under healthful conditions."

The protection of women and children from human greed and unequal laws. Prevention of child labor and suppression of the illicit traffic in soul destroying drugs. Conservation of all of the national resources of the country, to those who were stricken and wounded in the country's service and whose confidence has been so cruelly and corruptly abused."

As its leader have any favors for sale." Expressing in general terms his approval of the proposals contained in the platform adopted by the convention which nominated him, the candidate said he could not be expected at this moment to discuss them in detail or to outline the methods by which they are to be carried into effect.

"There will be time enough for that," he said.

Much of his address was given over to a measured attack upon the record of the Republican party during the past four years. Re-counting what he termed "the multiplied scandals of these misanthropic years," Mr. Davis assailed the executive branch of government for "hurried efforts to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy upon investigators, and, finally, to trump up indictment, to frighten and deter the investigators from their pursuit."

He charged that in the "enactment of the present tariff law there was "an unblinking return to the evil days of rewarding party support and political contributions with legislative favors." Also he charged inability of the administration to function due to disagreement between the president and the Republican majority in congress to agree on public questions.

Declaring that it was not in domestic matters alone that "the symptoms of this creeping paralysis" have appeared, Mr. Davis said that not only have executive recommendations for adherence to the world court been "flouted and ignored, but no evidence is in sight that the Republican party as now constituted can frame and carry to its conclusions any definite and consistent foreign policy."

"With the reconstruction of Europe weighing heavily on the world," he said, "with American economic life dwarfed and stunted by the interruption of world commerce; with the agricultural regions of the West sinking into bankruptcy because of the loss of their foreign markets; we have stood by as powerless spectators, offering to the world nothing but private charity and individual advice."

Moving from his attack on the opposition to a discussion of other issues, Mr. Davis saved to the last large part of his address, which was the basis of a bitter fight in the New York convention—religious freedom. Without referring by name to any organizations, the nominee said he wished to "denounce bigotry, intolerance and racial prejudice as alien to the spirit of America," and promised that when elected, he would "set up no standard of religious faith or racial origin" as a qualification for any of the thousands of offices he would be called upon to fill.

For the aid of the farmer, Mr. Davis said the Democrats proposed to see to it that the discriminations which the tariff makes against him shall be removed; that this government by doing its share toward a European settlement of his foreign markets; that the forces of government shall be put actively to work to lend assistance to endeavors for extending marketing; that when widespread distress has overtaken him, every power which the government enjoys under the constitution shall be exerted in his aid.

"He is entitled, too, to demand an adequate service of transportation at reasonable rates," the candidate said. "In spite of the failures and shortcomings of existing laws, this is an ideal which I can not believe to be beyond the reach of attainment."

Turning to the field of foreign affairs, Mr. Davis told his audience that the Democratic party favored the world court "in sincerity and not merely for campaign purposes, regarding it as a real advance toward the peaceful settlement of international disputes."

As to the League of Nations candidate declared and can not accept authorized by the popular will that Nations is a class as we are concerned that at no time to the League occur or should common judgment can people's confidence" that when the voice of would find means heard."

Promising that president of the America would among groups at all at present Mr. Davis said he will cite it with his step of a great nation sent at such a "under the poor official observers."

Democratic Leader

Out of a torrent of rain that drenched the citizens and visitors in Clarksburg, arose a voice which brought hope to millions of listeners. Republican corruption and convinced the Democratic party that it had a standard bearer with the fighting spirit, of real sincerity of purpose and the highest qualities of leadership, in the person of John W. Davis. Just as he arose out of the riot and tumult of the most prolonged convention in Democratic history to the position of presidential nominee of his party, so did he on Monday night standing forth under most inauspicious conditions, in inclement weather which would have reduced an ordinary man's audience to a handful, further ascend the heights in actually assuming the leadership of America's greatest political party.

With the precision of a trained artilleryman he unflinchingly bombarded the bulwarks and the rank and file of the Republican administration. They may call it mud-slinging, but it was nothing more than merely stating facts when Davis mentioned the conviction of Newberry for corrupt practice in the purchase of his senatorial seat, the bribery of Secretary Fall in return for the Naval Oil Reserve, the ignorance of the Secretary of the Navy while the security of the country was thus so materially lessened, the disgrace which befell Attorney General Daugherty necessitating his resignation, the theft of millions in money and supplies from this nation's gallant defenders by the Chief of the Veterans Bureau. Chairman Butler may say that all this is "ephemeral," but the fact remains that "the supreme need of the hour is to bring back to the people confidence in their government."

But Mr. Davis went on and took his fight to the head of the Republican party. He indulged in "personalities" as the opposition will say. He charged the Executive Branch not only with inaction at a time when "There is abroad in the land a feeling too general to be ignored, too deep-seated for any trifling, that men in office can no longer be trusted to keep faith with those who sent them there," but also with hurried efforts, when discovery threatened, "to suppress testimony, to discourage witnesses, to spy upon investigators and, finally, by trumped-up indictment, to frighten and deter them from the pursuit." Mr. Coolidge may have an answer for this, but no one seems to know where he will get it.

In exchange for this mis-administration Mr. Davis is offering "a Democratic program based on Democratic principles and guaranteed by a record of Democratic performance." It is a program which "like the creed of the church should be repeated whenever Democrats assemble—a belief in equal rights to all men and special privilege to none," "in a more equitable distribution of the rewards of toil; in the suppression of private monopoly," "in local self-government," "in a government administered without fear abroad or favoritism at home." In thus endorsing the Democratic platform, Mr. Davis promised, in so far as his authority as president might enable him, a tax and tariff revision, recognition of labor as a "part of the grand council of the nation," farm aid, co-operation officially with all legitimate endeavors to lessen the prospects of war, law enforcement including religious toleration and the Eighteenth Amendment, and a just and impartial government.

Above all Mr. Davis made it clear that under a Democratic administration the United States would no longer be subjected to the indignity of being represented at international conferences "only under the poor pretense of 'unofficial observation.'" "If I become President of the United States," he says, "America will sit as an equal among equals whenever she sits at all." The aimless drifting of the ship in the middle of the ocean with both engines dead will cease and a definite foreign policy will establish the United States again as a nation among nations. Mr. Davis' approval of the League of Nations leaves no doubt but that the high ideals of Woodrow Wilson are to be preserved and the lost prestige of the United States is to be re-established. What fifty-four other nations find advantageous in doing should certainly not prove so harmful to us. But "on the sheerest grounds of national safety," Mr. Davis, "cannot think it prudent that the United States should be absent whenever all the other nations of the world assemble to discuss world problems."

Throughout, his speech rings with refutation of Wall Street charges. Mr. Davis, once Morgan lawyer and director in three large corporations, has definitely severed his connections with all, and now the American people as his clients is preparing to lead them into a true Democracy. The high rates and discriminatory provisions of the present tariff law, the pride of capitalists, Mr. Davis says, "must be wiped out, and in their place must be written, with fairness to all and favors to none, a statute designed primarily to raise revenue for the support of the government." The law, and all the law, shall be enforced "as fearlessly against wealth that endeavors to restrain trade and create monopoly, as against poverty that counterfeits the currency." "Enforcement of the law against every violator, rich or poor, is the solemn obligation of every official." By his words Mr. Davis demonstrated that a "lawyer sells his services, but not his soul." "I owe the duty, first, to speak the truth as I see it, without fear, favor or evasion, and then so to bear myself that every person in the land, no matter how high or how humble, may feel that he has in me a friend, and that every citizen may know that he can look to his government for unflinching honesty in thought and action."

With great comprehensiveness, Mr. Davis spoke, and yet with great simplicity and with that simplicity a certain sincerity marked his words which has been felt throughout the country. Nobly aspiring to the highest office in the land, the man has laid his cards on the table and has met every issue before the people with clear-cut, out-spoken views. In accepting his party's nomination he has made it clear that no selfish motive, no personal aggrandizement has prompted him, but only a desire "to bring the government back to the people" and to restore in them their one-time confidence in the Republic. Many heard his words Monday night. Many more have read them since. November is not so far away that they will be forgotten before election day.

All the ten-to-ones were in the rear, and a dark horse, which had never been thought of, and which the careless St. James had never even observed in the list, rushed past the grandstand in sweeping triumph.—Disraeli.

Communism to Die... Ford For Senator. LaFollette on the Klan. Mystery of Disease. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

H. G. WELLS says "Communism will die in 25 years." He refers to the effort at communism in Russia, which really isn't communism, but to the theorizing about communism in other countries. "Communism will not die" because it has never really existed, except perhaps on South Sea Islands. "Even there they probably quarreled about the best coconuts and finest ladies."

ORIGINAL MAN, standing on this planet with a sharp fist in his hands, and no other earthly possession, relied on acquiescence, polite name for selfishness, to push him ahead. We have a long distance to go, and selfishness still has much work to do.

THE TIME IS coming when human beings will solve their problems of production and distribution and no longer need to hate envy or oppress each other, or store up special treasures for themselves. But that condition won't be called communism.

Eighty years ago, when the late Albert Brisbane suggested that people should build great apartment houses with central heating plants to save trouble for housewives he was told by clergymen and others that this was "pure socialism" and that Americans would never live "herded like beasts in one big house." That's how they live now, however, and they pay as high as $30,000 a year rent to be herded.

PUBLIC PARKS, better than the richest could afford, open to the poor; magnificent steamships, eclipsing in comfort and safety, any millionaire's private yacht; golf clubs, all these would have been called "socialism" a few years ago. But when we accomplish and accept a thing we change its name.

HENRY FORD is nominated for the Senate in Michigan by petitions containing enough signatures to put his name on the ballot. It was done without Ford's knowledge or consent, and his name may be taken off, but he might better let it go through.

The Senate is an interesting club, and it would be worth Mr. Ford's time to take a look at it, and find out for himself how the inside machinery works. He would have one advantage over other young statesmen: They would listen to his first speech and newspapers would print it.

FORD ISN'T A public speaker, but says extremely well what he has in mind. It might do some Senators good to learn from Ford what the power of organized money in this country, how earnestly it tried, and how nearly it came to success in a scheme to wipe him out, and take possession of his plant.

FORD COULD TELL the Senate many things that he needs to know about wasted water power, the power of graft, the possibility of improving farm condition, Ford ought to go to the Senate for one term anyhow. Michigan would gladly send him.

JOHN W. DAVIS said he had never been a member of the Ku Klux Klan and never would become a member.

La Follette goes further, attacking the Klan, and opposing "any discrimination between races, classes and creeds." He says the Klan can't survive.

It may not, but hatred between races, classes and creeds has survived for many centuries. Whoever thinks the Ku Klux Klan has a monopoly of religious hatred is mistaken.

LA FOLLETTE'S straight-out denunciation of the Klan, although he may not have thought of it, will help him get those Democratic votes that intend to leave their party at this election because of religious discrimination" in the Democratic convention. La Follette's attack on the Klan, which has not been duplicated by either of the other candidates, will appeal to those dissatisfied Democratic voters.

DISEASE IS ONE of earth's mysteries. And most mysterious is the trouble that Nature takes to protect disease germs against their enemies, including man.

For instance, the tubercular bacillus, which kills millions, lives encased in "a heavy capsule of fat" which gives it elasticity and protects it from its enemies in our blood.

SIR LEONARD Rogers, who has specialized in fighting leprosy, noticed the resemblance between the germs of leprosy and of tuberculosis, and tried on his consumptive patients injections of sodium morrhuate, that worked well in leprosy.

It is the salt obtained from the body of codfish, and has shown extraordinary results in leprosy and tuberculosis.

I am not financially able to make big contributions."

GOOD ROADS PARAMOUNT QUESTION ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD

North Carolina started on its gigantic enterprise of road building in the face of many discouraging predictions of fiscal disaster. These prophecies have been discredited; the doubters have become boosters; as they have watched increasing amounts of revenue from automobiles and gasoline and observed the quickening of all the activities of rural and urban life as results of the highway movement.

Investigators find in North Carolina not only the beneficial results of the first North Carolina bond issue of $50,000,000, with an additional issue of $15,000,000, but they hear from many citizens the hope that the special session of the General Assembly of that state will find it wise and expedient to authorize another issue of about $35,000,000.

Good, well-paved sections of any road system are valueless against the adjoining dirt links that keep the outside traffic and business away.
