EMS Meeting With Hospital Planned

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

In the wake of disclosure last week that a Midway youth was sent to the wrong hospital for his type of wound, hospital administrators and emergency services personnel may meet this week to iron out procedures for keeping rescue workers informed of the changing situations at hospital emergency rooms.

After a call by Central Florida Regional Hospital Administrator Jim Tesar, Seminole County Emergency Medical Services Director Dr. Benjamin Newman said Monday he is directing his staff to initiate a conference between Seminole hospital administrators or their representatives and EMS staff.

"We will attempt to set up positive guidelines so we know exactly what types of injuries may be brought to what hospitals and develop a procedure for passing on information as situations change," Newman said.

On Aug. 11, Luray Demair Aikens, 17, was shot in the head in Midway near Sanford. Although an Air Care helicopter from Orlando Regional Medical Center was called, Newman cancelled the call and opted to have Aikens taken to Central Florida Regional in Sanford to save 15 minutes. But in the end that cost Aikens five hours.

Newman said he acted without the knowledge that Central Florida Regional no longer had a neurosurgeon on call. He said had he known — and he should have been informed — he would have permitted the helicopter to take Aikens to ORMC.

Once Aikens was admitted to the Sanford hospital, ORMC balked at taking him, as did Florida Hospital-Orlando and others. It was to be about five hours before CFRH personnel could

Stano Asks Execution Be Stayed

From Staff and Wire Reports

Arguments are to continue today to stay the execution of condemned killer Gerald Stano who is asking a federal judge in Orlando to block his scheduled execution Wednesday for the death of a Port Orange girl 14 years ago.

U.S. District Judge Patricia Fawcett spent most of the day hearing arguments by the state Office of Capital Collateral Representative on behalf of Stano, confessed killer of more than 40 women. Arguments were to resume today.

Besides three death penalties Stano is also serving seven life sentences, one for the murder of "Madam X" an unidentified woman Stano killed in Seminole County in 1974.

Stano, 35, was convicted in a non-jury trial in 1984 in the death of Madam X. Her remains were found near the Interstate Mall in Altamonte Springs. Her identity was never established and she was described in legal proceedings by her dental work and bones. In a taped confession, Stano said he picked her up on State Road 436 near Interstate 4 and stabbed her to death when she refused to have sex with him.

Stano's hearing in the death of Cathy Lee Scharf, Port Orange, began about 1 p.m. and continued until 10:10 p.m. with only two brief recesses granted at the urging of Stano's lawyer, Mark Olive, who repeatedly asked the judge for either a continuance or a recess.

By mid-evening, Olive told the judge, "My efficiency is waning because I'm exhausted. I've been up for three days on this case."

However, Fawcett said further examination of the lawyer who served as Stano's public defender, Kenneth Friedland, now a private attorney in Titusville, would continue until she was satisfied the allegations of an inadequate defense had been fully explored.

Friedland was scheduled to resume his testimony today. Olive's arguments focused on the public defender's failure to question the constitutionality of the confessions that drew Stano three life sentences in Volusia County and later the death penalty for the 1973 murder Scharf in Brevard County.

Olive hammered at a theme CCR has been using at Stano's hearings over the last several months. He insisted that police officers obtained confessions from Stano for crimes he never committed. Olive said the officers coerced confessions with promises that a mass murderer could escape the electric chair by using an insanity defense.

Sanford City Attorney William Colbert, left, listens as City Manager Frank Faison responds to questions about expanding the city's development block grant target area. Below, few citizens were on hand as the city commission moved toward expanding the grant target area and extending a city moratorium on collecting transportation impact fees Seminole County commissioners imposed on new developments in the county.

Sanford Expands Grant Area

OKs Planning For Traffic, Parking

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

With two members absent, the Sanford City Commission Monday moved toward extending the city's moratorium on county-imposed road impact fees, approved expansion of a community improvement block grant target area, and approved for planning purposes a downtown parking and traffic study.

Voting for the moratorium, grant area and parking-traffic study were Commissioners John Mercer, Bob Thomas and Whitely Eckstein. Mayor Bettye Smith left Sunday on a trip to Germany, Poland and the Soviet Union. Commissioner A.A. "Mac" McClanahan had a conflicting appointment.

Sanford's ordinance #1856, approved March 23, established a six-month moratorium on all transportation impact fees within the city limits. The county is seeking a declaratory judgment to find whether it has authority to unilaterally impose such fees in incorporated areas. Winter Springs and Casselberry, as well as Sanford, have balked at allowing the fees collections within their boundaries.

The county, meanwhile, is notifying developers of residential and commercial projects within the cities that they may be subject to the fees.

State Praises Grant Program

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

A state inspector has praised the "good audit trail" of Sanford's Community Development Block Grant program.

George Gould, community assistants' consultant with the Department of Community Affairs in Tallahassee, just back from a visit to Sanford, said Monday the Sanford program has good records of its finances.

"The program, which began with a $650,000 state grant a year ago, is 'beginning to smooth out,'" he added.

He said on a visit to the grant target area, Georgetown, he saw room for improvements, such as some paint jobs not being done properly, but overall a "good start."

See STATE, page 8A

Noting the Sanford moratorium was to expire September 23, City Engineer and Planner Bill Simmons recommended the extension. He noted the first approval must come in time for advertising a public hearing on the matter. Although Commissioner Whitely Eckstein said Smith and McClanahan should be in on any decision to

Student Count Hits Projections

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

The actual number of students attending Seminole County schools on the first day of school Monday was only 12 students off the 40,851 projected by school district administrators. A school spokesman reported 40,839 students reported to classes as schools opened their doors for the 1987-1988 year.

More than 43,000 students are expected to be enrolled in Seminole County schools by the end of this year. The school district reported an enrollment of 42,968 when classes let out on May 29, of this year.

Karen Coleman, spokesman for the school board, said the number of students in classes on the first day is not as important as the count school administrators will take on Sept. 8, after the Labor Day holiday.

"We'll have a more accurate idea of exactly how many students will be enrolled in Seminole County after 10 days," Coleman said. The reason the 10 day count is more indicative of what the early enrollment in the district will be is many students and their families have either not returned from vacation or aren't aware school starts so early, according to Coleman.

Coleman said the highest change in enrollment figures was found in the elementary school level.

Coleman reported 18,602 elementary students reported for school Monday. She said the first day count for the beginning of last year was 17,637. "This results in an increase of 1,235 students on that level," Coleman said.

On the Middle school level, 9,307 students were present for the first day of classes. Coleman said this was 183 more than the 9,124 reported at the same time last year.

There were 75 more students reporting to Seminole County high schools Monday, with an overall count of 12,829. According to Coleman, 12,754 was the number of high school students at the beginning of last year.

A Sanford man who reportedly used a suspended driver license unlawfully was also charged with possession of a concealed weapon after a handgun was found in his car. A deputy reported that he was at Midway and Sipes avenues around 7 p.m. Saturday when he asked a man for identification. The man reportedly showed the deputy a drivers license that was suspended in June for failure to pay a traffic fine. The man was arrested in connection with the license suspension. When the deputy checked the items in the man's car before having it towed, he found a .22-caliber handgun under the front seat, hand-grip forward, said police. # Couple Suing Over Child Abuse Arrest

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Longwood couple is suing the city of Altamonte Springs and two of its police officers after police and paramedics broke the rear window of their locked car to get the couple's 10-year-old son out.

David and Kaye Harris filed suit along with their children, Cory and Jennifer. They are seeking damages of up to $200,000, and possibly more. Apparently portions or all of the records involving the case have been sealed or expunged, so some details are not available.

According to the suit, the Harrises drove their 1985 BMW to the Altamonte Mall around noon, May 24, 1986. Harris, his wife and 6-year-old Jennifer went shopping, leaving Cory, 10, locked in the car. He was locked in the vehicle for his own protection, according to the suit. High temperature for that day was about 73, according to the National Weather Service.

A patron saw the boy in the car and, thinking something might have been wrong, contacted the mall's security personnel who called police and an ambulance. The police and paramedics could not open the car. But with police approval the back window of the vehicle was broken and the boy removed, according to the suit. The suit does not state why the boy could not open the door but, according to a dealership that sells BMWs, a locked door on that vehicle can easily be opened manually from the inside. The suit also does not state whether the boy received or needed medical attention. The Harrises' attorney was not available for comment.

The Harrises were then paged at the mall, and when they went to the car Harris and his wife were arrested on aggravated child abuse charges. At that time the boy was with paramedics and the Harrises were not allowed to see him, the suit states. The Harrises also state they were roughly handled before their arrest and that the arrests were false and illegal. They also claim their children were illegally detained since they were, at least temporarily, turned over to the state Department of Rehabilitative Services.

The suit also states an officer reportedly made something of a suggestive remark when he reportedly told Mrs. Harris to "take everything off," implying a strip search. A spokesman for the police department said it does use strip searches. The suit also accuses an officer of making deprecatory remarks in front of the girl about Mrs. Harris' fitness to be a mother and that he was going to make sure her children were taken away.

Harris states in the suit that the aggravated child abuse charge against him was not prosecuted. There was no mention in the suit of the resolution of the charge against his wife.

Harris is suing for false arrest, malicious prosecution, battery, intentional infliction of emotional distress, negligence by the officers, outrageous conduct, deprivation of liberty, neglect on the city's part, the unlawful possession of their auto, trespass into the vehicle and wrongful deprivation of property.

Mrs. Harris is suing for false imprisonment, battery, intentional infliction of emotional distress, negligence, outrageous conduct and deprivation of liberty.

And the children, each, are suing for false imprisonment for the time they were in the custody of HRS, intentional infliction of emotional distress, outrageous conduct and negligence.

Depositions are scheduled to begin in October.

Solicitation, Drugs Arrests Made At Rest Stop

An Orlando man was arrested on a prostitution charge after he reportedly approached an undercover deputy and offered him a sexual favor. It was one of two arrests at local Interstate 4 rest stops over the weekend.

The sexual solicitation incident occurred around 1:45 a.m. Monday at the I-4 westbound rest area just north of Longwood.

The deputy reported that a man approached him and asked him what he was doing and what he wanted. The deputy asked what the man was offering and he reportedly said he would do a sexual favor for free. The officer then arrested the man on a prostitution charge.

Charged with assignment to commit prostitution was Michael Paul Murphy, 34. Bond was set at $500. Murphy listed his occupation as a substitute teacher.

In the second incident, a Lake Mary man was arrested at the eastbound I-4 rest area on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

A deputy reported that he saw a man in the restroom take a silver-colored, two-barreled .38-caliber handgun from his right rear pocket then put it back. The incident occurred around 11:22 p.m. Sunday.

Charged with carrying a concealed weapon was Horace Ray Hyatt, 35, of 147 W. Wilbur Ave. Bond was set at $1,000.

In an unrelated drug arrest Saturday, a woman who police say helped a man in an attempt to sell illegal drugs was jailed on a conspiracy charge.

On July 30, an undercover agent said a man on a street corner near Altamonte Springs suggested he get in the agent's car so he could "serve" him, that is, sell him some cocaine.

The agent said he did not want the man to get into the car. The man then called a woman to the scene and suggested that if the man wanted some drugs, that he ride around the block with the woman so she could "serve" him.

Arrested Saturday at 8:30 p.m. at North and Jackson streets and charged with conspiracy to sell or deliver cocaine was Rochelle Betty Gailart, 26, of 111 San Jose Circle, south Seminole County. —Deane Jordan

Feel as hot as last year? You should — It was 96 degrees Monday in Sanford, tying the record for the date set in 1986. It'll be very hot again today, with about a 50 percent chance of rain.

To the northeast, storms ripped through Jacksonville with torrential downpours and 61-mph winds that downed trees and flooded city streets. The storms in the Southeast had dwindled by early morning.

Jacksonville also broke a 19-year-old heat record, as the mercury soared to 99 degrees. Orlando logged 96 to tie last year's reading. Fort Myers tied a record of 98 degrees set in 1942 and Pensacola hit 98 to break a year-old record.

Elsewhere, thunderstorms that whipped up 80-mph winds in Oklahoma and poured heavy rain on Utah deluged the Southwest early today, threatening New Mexico with flash floods.

Thunderstorms playing across eastern New Mexico, the Texas Panhandle and Oklahoma Monday whipped up hail and 80 mph winds at Tuttle, Okla., destroying a large metal batting cage. Sixty-mph winds slammed Yukon, Okla. The city was also pelted by dime-size hail.

Flash flood watches were up early today over parts of south-central and southwest New Mexico.

Cool weather reached across the northern half of the nation today where pre-dawn temperatures were mostly in the 50s. Readings in the 40s were common early today over the northern half of the Appalachians.

Lonetree Spared Life In Prison; Sentenced To 30 Years

QUANTICO, Va. (UPI) — Sgt. Clayton Lonetree was spared a maximum life prison term for his historic espionage conviction, but he still faces 30 years behind bars, a stiff fine and a dishonorable discharge from the Marine Corps.

Lonetree, the first Marine ever convicted of spying, was sentenced Monday after nearly three hours of deliberation by the same eight-member jury of military officers that found him guilty Friday on 13 criminal counts in the so-called sex-for-secrets scandal at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow.

In addition to the 30-year term and dishonorable discharge, the 25-year-old defendant was fined $5,000. Still, he could have been sentenced to life in prison, and now he would be eligible for parole in 10 years.

Court Overturns Textbook Case

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A federal appeals court ruling that supports the right of schools to use textbooks some fundamentalist Christian parents found offensive will prevent "chaos" in public schools, a state official said.

Parents who sued the Hawkins County, Tenn., schools over the textbook issue said, however, they will appeal Monday's ruling and are confident they will win.

Seven families, all fundamentalist Christians, argued that a Holt, Rinehart and Winston series of reading textbooks contained "anti-Christian" themes and said reading the books could lead students to reach conclusions contrary to their religious beliefs and those of their parents.

"This is not sufficient to establish an unconstitutional burden," the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday, saying there was no evidence students were being required to change their beliefs.

West German Hostage In Beirut Asks Release Of Shiite Terrorist

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — A West German hostage pleaded with his government to act independently of the United States and release a Lebanese Shiite Muslim extremist suspected of involvement in the 1985 TWA hijacking in Beirut in which an American sailor was murdered.

In a four-minute videotape delivered to a Western news agency in Moslem west Beirut, Alfred Schmidt, 47, called on Bonn to release Mohammed Ali Hamedel, who was arrested by West German authorities Jan. 13 at Frankfurt airport. Hamedel was carrying explosives at the time of his arrest.

Schmidt urged West Germany to adopt a policy "totally independent and unattached" from the United States foreign policy.

Hope Seen In Miners Strike

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — White mine owners and the black National Union of Mineworkers said they would return to the bargaining table today in a 16-day-old strike in which six men have died.

"We have been in contact with the union, and we will be meeting at our offices at 2 p.m. today," said Chamber of Mines spokesman Peter Bunkell.

NUM spokesman Kuben Pillay said the union was ready to talk and "optimistic" about ending the strike by about 330,000 miners and related violence in which six men have died and about 350 have been injured.

The breakthrough in the strike came Monday when the Anglo American Corp., South Africa's largest mining company, dropped its insistence that cash wages could not be on the agenda for settlement negotiations.

Tact Makes Peace Move Practical

By suspending his request for renewed aid to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua, President Reagan has proved his willingness to go the extra mile to forge a negotiated solution to the strife in Central America. Now the onus falls on the five presidents of the region to deliver on the document they signed the other day in Guatemala City.

Yet, expecting the Guatemala City plan to bring peace to Central America is wishful thinking, indeed. The agreement reached by the leaders of Honduras, El Salvador, Costa Rica, Guatemala, and Nicaragua falls far short of what is needed to restore regional stability. That will be achieved only by cradling the highly militarized Marxist regime in Managua kept in power by massive infusions of Soviet armaments.

The objectives of the Guatemala City treaty are sound. In theory, at least, the Sandinista government would be required to hold regular elections, permit opposition parties to compete openly, allow press freedom and other forms of dissent, and guarantee civil rights denied by last year's state-of-emergency decree.

The plan is fundamentally flawed, however, in failing to provide a timetable or any other mechanism to enforce the sweeping changes it envisions in Nicaragua's Marxist society.

On the contrary, the Guatemala City agreement, by prohibiting American support for the Contra insurgents, would dislodge the sole incentive for the Sandinistas to bargain with their internal opponents. Can anyone believe the Sandinista Front would relinquish control in free elections called after the U.S.-backed rebels were disbanded under the Guatemala City arrangement?

The peace initiative proposed by Reagan and House Speaker Jim Wright provides a much more realistic framework by stipulating that fair elections and an end to Soviet and Cuban military aid are prerequisites of a suspension of American support for the Contras.

Why, then, has the White House given qualified support to the Guatemala City plan and put its own peace offer in abeyance?

The administration's shift is largely a tactical maneuver made necessary by the fact that it lacks enough votes in Congress to resume Contra aid when the current U.S. assistance expires on Sept. 30, the end of the fiscal year. Although Oliver North's congressional testimony prompted an upsurge in support for the Contra cause, more-recent polls show that much of that backing has dissipated.

The current flurry of diplomatic activity gives the president the opportunity to position himself behind a negotiated end to the conflict in Central America, thereby hurling the ball to the Sandinistas' court. If, as is likely, the Nicaraguan regime fails to institute democratic reforms, Reagan will have strengthened his case for resumption of Contra aid. And by lending his support to the Guatemala City accord, the president cannot be blamed when it fails to produce results.

At the same time, however, the Reagan administration's stance in the regional negotiations is being undermined by a miniature Democratic State Department led by aides to Sen. Christopher Dodd, D-Conn., a strident opponent of American policy. Such free-lance diplomacy, in which the Democratic congressional aides have held direct talks with Central American presidents, is a deplorable interference with the president's constitutional responsibility to conduct foreign policy.

Until such time as fundamental reforms are implemented in Nicaragua, Reagan's policy will continue to rest on U.S. support for the Contra resistance movement — which remains a more viable route to regional security than the mere wishful thinking embodied in the Guatemala City treaty.

Pundit's Job: Debunking Democratic Myth

The trouble with trying to be a political pundit is the public's unreliability. It just won't cooperate.

One day, Ollie North is an American hero. Two weeks later, T-shirts adorned with his quizzical Huck Finn likeness are selling like peanut butter and broccoli sandwiches.

Ronald Reagan still commands enthusiastic overflow crowds, yet 58 percent of the American people also insist he's lying about the Iran-contra scandal. (I've finally become a member of the majority. I thought Reagan was a liar the day he took office.)

Political inconsistencies abound because the public's whims fluctuate.

If it weren't for election results and polls, political punditry would be nothing more than a well-informed bias in search of objective reality.

Case in point was a recent front-page story about the impact the upcoming hearings on Robert Bork's nomination to the Supreme Court could have on the Democratic presidential candidates — especially Judiciary Committee chairman, Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del.

"For the last three years," the story read,

"since their crushing defeat in 1984, when Walter F. Mondale is thought to have been hurt by his close ties to many interest groups, the Democrats have been trying to concentrate on mainstream issues like the economy and foreign policy."

How ironic that Mondale's election chances were ruined by concentrating too much on the economy. He even raised the heretical idea of a possible tax increase.

But myths tend to have a life of their own. One myth that constantly cripples the Democrats is their alleged "close ties to many interest groups."

Freely translated: blacks, women, Hispanics, labor leaders, liberals, the handicapped, senior citizens and the poor.

Supposedly this myth doesn't affect Republicans because they don't have "close ties." But Republicans are dominated by special interest groups — corporate executives, wealthy professionals, industrial associations, conservatives and what Eisenhower called the "military-industrial complex."

Perhaps the mythical perception that Republican special interest groups are somehow more respectable may explain why Democratic special interest groups are regarded as invidious.

Today's average American is more inclined to identify with those economic forces that can accelerate his or her upward mobility than with those groups whose most fortuitous claim to fame is the intensity of the (Yiddish for pains and troubles) they bring to political dialogue.

But Democrats must never forget that Mondale didn't get crushed because of his "close ties to interest groups," but because he came across as a wimp who caved in to these groups and let them decide his agenda, which did not excite a majority of voters.

The wondrous myth that Ronald Reagan palmed off on the American people was that he was not the Pinocholo of Republican special interest groups.

He was indeed. And that is precisely why his administration has become the most scandal-ridden in presidential history.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Friend's Error Corrected

My valued colleague Bill Buckley has wandered into error, and the obligations of friendship compel me to rush to his rescue.

It all began when a blind man named Jim Dickson announced his intention to sail across the Atlantic alone in a 38-foot sloop named The Eye Opener. Dickson declared that his feat would help all blind people, by dispelling mistaken notions about their supposed disabilities.

Buckley, who is quite possibly the world's most enthusiastic amateur sailor and who has himself sailed across the Atlantic twice (though with friends, rather than alone), reacted with genuine shock to Dickson's proposal. It was, he protested in a television interview, "against nature." He wished Dickson well; indeed, he would pray for him. But he denied that Dickson would be doing anything to help the blind. The idea of a blind man sailing the Atlantic alone was as pointless, he asserted, as taking such a person to the Grand Canyon or a ballet performance.

Now, for me to take issue with Bill Buckley on any topic having to do with sailing would ordinarily be preposterous. But it so happens that this controversy involves the one aspect of the entire subject on which I feel qualified to speak, and that is the intrinsic nature of the sailing experience.

Truth to tell, I have done very little sailing in my life. Easily the most memorable episode was an afternoon cruise on Long Island Sound with Bill about 30 years ago. I will never forget the experience — sprawling on the deck (which was usually at about a 45-degree angle to the horizon), with my arms locked around the mainmast or some other relatively stable fixture, while cold salt spray blew into my face. Ever since, I have politely declined Bill's further invitations, and would, if need be, pay a considerable sum to avoid having to sail with him (or anybody else) again.

But, as a result of that afternoon on Long Island Sound and a handful of other equally scarring incidents, I learned something about sailing that Bill, incredibly, seems not to know. And that is that sailing is only very partially a visual experience. It is simply grotesque to compare it to looking at the Grand Canyon or watching a ballet. It is much more comparable to (say) a roller-coaster ride.

Drugs, Bucks And Frequent Flyer Program

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — Is a drug company running its own "Frequent Flyer Program" to reward doctors who prescribe its hypertension medication? One irate physician thinks it is, and the company's marketing tactic has aroused concern on Capitol Hill.

Referring to the free airline tickets and other gifts offered to physicians who prescribe the drug and answer a questionnaire on Ayerst Laboratories' drug Inderal LA, Dr. John Graves wrote: "I am very concerned about this form of marketing in medicine as I feel it creates a clear conflict of interest for the physician in their prescribing habits." The marketing ploy, he told us, "gives the appearance of impropriety."

The company denied that its gift program was a marketing device. Ayerst spokesman Joseph M. Mahady said the program is a "research tool," designed to help the company develop a "patient profile." Participating doctors are asked to fill out a seven-question

JEFFREY HART

Year Of Change

Your friendly columnist has just published a book about the pivotal year 1940, "From This Moment On: America in 1940" (Crown). Before that year, America thought of itself as a glorious island. Between America and Europe's wars stood the 4-million man French army, the British fleet, and the Atlantic Ocean. But, all of a sudden, France disappeared, England was on the ropes, and we were no longer a glorious island. We were a world power with global responsibilities. Here follows a piece I wrote meditating upon that year.

In 1940 everyone went to the Fair. In retrospect, that New York World's Fair was the last of the great optimistic international expositions. From the roof of his Queens, Long Island, apartment house at night, the 10-year-old boy could see the Trylon and Perisphere floating out there, while in the distance, triumphs of modern optimism, designed by Harrison and Foulhoux, and the descendant in its inspiration of the Eiffel Tower, Spinoza, Descartes, and Matisse.

The Trylon and Perisphere were also male and female symbols, spire and globe, and inside the great globe the World of Tomorrow gestated, Democracy, with its superhighways, greenbelts, residential and manufacturing areas, hydroelectric power and cultural centers. It was meant to be the democratic answer to fascism and communism. Democracy was described in detail by the voice of H.V. Kaltenborn, who would soon be broadcasting the Battle of Britain.

By the summer of 1940, the Polish pavilion had closed, and when the Finnish pavilion closed people wept to the strains of "Finlandia." The Soviet pavilion closed, and the huge Worker, who had held aloft a huge red star, went home. That summer, France suddenly fell, Hitler was at the English Channel, and the British and French empires were vanishing like a morning mist. By the fall of 1940, to use a phrase of Yeats', all was changed, changed utterly.

On December 31, 1939, New Year's Eve, it had been 10 degrees below freezing in New York's Times Square. As the large illuminated ball inched its way down the mast atop the Times Building, the crowd began to count the old year out.

On that New Year's Eve, the isolationists still had a plausible case. They are now given bad marks by historians. But as 1940 came in, the isolationists were not opposed to rearmament, only against involvement in the war. Most American opinion was with them. That year, both Willkie and Roosevelt ran as peace candidates. As 1940 came in, everyone knew that the Nazis were bad, but the French were thought to have the best army in the world. Certainly the British had the best navy. Between the eastern tip of Long Island and Europe there was 3000 miles of water. Until the summer of 1940, isolationism seemed a plausible option.

The 10-year-old boy's mother had been on the Broadway stage during the 1920's, and along with the other performers had entertained in the veterans' hospitals. She had seen the men with arms, legs, faces shot away, the wrecked and gasping gas cases. No, we were not going Over There again.

survey form classifying the patients for whom they prescribe Inderal LA, according to age, sex, race, dosage and other medications.

According to Graves, an assistant professor at Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, N.C., an Ayerst representative told him that doctors who submit questionnaires on 50 Inderal LA patients are given a free airline ticket anywhere in the United States. He said he was told there are other, more valuable prizes for filling out up to 200 survey forms.

Graves first raised his objections to the Ayerst free-gift program in a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine. Noting that the market for hypertension medication is clearly a competitive one, and aggressive promotion can be expected, Graves said he thinks Ayerst's technique reflected "questionable ethical standards."

The company spokesman implied that the free gifts were needed as an inducement for doctors to fill out the survey questionnaires. "Completion of survey forms and pro-

Hit Parade Of Whale Melodies

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

WOODS HOLE, Mass. (UPI) — Humpback whales, which sing songs as part of their annual mating ritual, may have their own version of the Hit Parade.

Just as a Michael Jackson hit single may be replaced by Madonna's latest tune as the most popular song among teenagers, different themes in songs may become more popular among humpback whales from one mating season to the next.

"There are themes that appear to come and go," said Peter Tyack, a marine biologist who studies humpback whale songs at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institution. "It's like a Hit Parade."

While many types of whales and dolphins produce sounds, humpback whales are among the few whales known to sing, Tyack said.

Although relatively little is known about the songs, researchers are fairly certain they play a role in the whales' mating habits, said Tyack.

Tyack and his colleagues have hung microphones in the water to record songs for analysis during various times of the year.

The songs sound like a combination of low roars and high-pitched screeches that repeat in patterns.

"Some people find them incredibly melodious; others don't," said Tyack.

Humpback whales, which average about 50 feet in length, spend their summers in cool northern waters and their winters in warm tropical waters, where they mate.

The singing usually begins around Christmastime, with the songs becoming progressively longer and reaching a peak of about 20 minutes long by spring, Tyack said.

Because the singing appears associated with mating, researchers believe humpbacks may choose which males to mate with based on their songs.

"Just as the peacock's tail is aesthetically pleasing, it seems female humpbacks may select males on the basis of their songs," said Tyack. Female humpbacks rarely sing.

Most singing humpbacks are alone, repeating their song over and over again, sometimes for hours on end. While the songs are similar, the whales never sing in unison. But they are often within earshot of each other.

campaign to promote their profitable brand-name prescriptions over generic drugs.

The incentives offered to doctors to prescribe certain drugs "cloud their judgment," Waxman said. He also pointed out that the cost of the gifts to physicians is ultimately passed on to the drug company's customers. Waxman is chairman of the House subcommittee on health and the environment.

Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio, chairman of the antitrust and business subcommittee, said: "I am aware of numerous objections raised in connection with the marketing practices of some firms who are experiencing generic competition. These include charges of unfair and anti-competitive behavior."

Ken Feather, acting director of the Food and Drug Administration's division of drug advertising and labeling, said his office has reviewed Inderal LA promotional material and found nothing that violates FDA regulations. The ethical issue is not within FDA's purview, he said.

Bailes Presents Biggest Roadblock (.143) For Molitor

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Going strictly by percentages, Paul Molitor's hit streak appears safe until Thursday.

But if you went by percentages, Molitor, a lifetime .291 hitter going into this season, wouldn't have a 38-game hitting streak heading into Tuesday night's game against the Cleveland Indians.

The Milwaukee Brewers and their hot-hitting designated hitter had Monday off before starting a three-game series against the Indians.

Cleveland's scheduled starter Tuesday is Ken Schrom, against whom Molitor is hitting .600 this season, 3 for 5, and .360 lifetime, 9 for 25.

"I've had some success off Ken in the past," said Molitor of Schrom, who had two hits against Schrom last Thursday.

Wednesday night, 25-year-old Rich Yett is the probable starter for the Indians. Molitor has not met Yett this season, but is 1 for 4 lifetime against the right-hander.

But then comes Scott Bailes.

This season Molitor is 1 for 4 against Bailes, who will pitch Thursday, and only 1 for 7 lifetime against the hard-throwing left-hander, a .143 mark.

Regardless of the streak's future, the Brewers' immediate past has been enhanced by Molitor's race for the record books — the major-league mark of 56 games by Joe DiMaggio.

During Molitor's hitting streak, the Brewers have quietly climbed within eight games of first-place Detroit in the American League East. Since the All-Star break, the Brewers are 24-15, the AL's second-best record.

Molitor is batting .419 with 33 RBI and seven homers during the streak. His season average is .371.

"It (the streak) may be helping us a little bit," Molitor said. "A lot of young guys benefitted early in the year when we had that (13-game) winning streak. Now this may be helping some more by taking a little from the focus on the team."

Brewer season attendance zoomed to 1,559,070 during the weekend when 108,768 showed up for the three-game set with the Kansas City Royals. That was 30,000 more than normally would have attended the series if not for Molitor's appeal.

The Brewers' attendance Aug. 23, 1986, was 1,102,167.

The next record plateau for Molitor, whose streak is already the fifth longest in major-league history, is that held by Ty Cobb, who hit safely in 40 straight games in 1911.

Molitor's streak is the longest since Cincinnati's Pete Rose hit in 44 straight in 1978.

"You just have to deal with it on a day-to-day basis," Molitor said. "You pretty much focus on who you are going to face in the next game."

Molitor's streak has been marked by hard-hit line drives. He has only bunted once to keep the streak alive.

"I don't know if that makes it any more impressive," he said. "Most third basemen take it (the bunt) away from me. I'm always looking to bunt if they're giving it to me."

Molitor said he felt pressure the first night of the weekend homestand because of "all the fans — that kind of thing."

"It's nice the higher you go," he added. "The attention is nice. It's a great feeling when you see the ball going into the hole to extend the streak."

"Sooner or later, you'll have your moment. This streak has been mine."

33 Years Ago: Arnie Recalls Amateur Thrill

JUPITER (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, the 1954 U.S. Amateur champion, said the tournament remains one of golf's most prestigious events though it is no longer a major.

A field of 282 amateurs will battle the heat and humidity of south Florida, along with the hills of the Jupiter Hills Club, beginning today when stroke-play qualifying begins. Two days of stroke qualifying will narrow the field to 64 players. Match play begins Thursday, with the 36-hole championship round scheduled for Sunday.

Golfers are scheduled to play 36 holes both today and Wednesday at Jupiter, just north of West Palm Beach.

Louisiana State golf coach Buddy Alexander is the defending champion, and two-time winner Jay Sigel also is in the field. Others competing are Gary Nicklaus, son of two-time winner Jack; Brian Watts, the NCAA champion from Oklahoma State; and former Florida State star Nolan Henke, who reached the quarterfinals last year.

"When I look back on my career, I consider winning the U.S. Amateur to be one of my biggest accomplishments," Palmer said. "To any player, it is one of golf's most prestigious tournaments. In my mind it is one of golf's major events and should be treated like one."

"It's a difficult tournament to win. You're not only playing against the course, you're going head-to-head in match play. You're a true champion if you win the U.S. Amateur."

The course is unusual for Florida in that it features hills. The heated conditions should leave players soaked with sweat and exhausted. Two weeks ago, during the PGA Championship at PGA National in nearby Palm Beach Gardens, the professionals said it was too hot for a golf tournament, and conditions are the same now.

Forty years ago, the land where the course is now was being used as a top-secret World War II Army base. It was later converted into a state park, and in 1969 the golf course was completed.

"When we started (clearing land for the course) it looked like a complete jungle," said Howard Everitt, the club's first manager. "We were picking up rifle shells all over the place."

The course has been named as one of the top 100 in the country by Golf Digest and was designed by the late George Fazio.

MOORE DEFENDS JUNIOR

PALM BEACH GARDENS (UPI) — Defending champion Adele Moore of Dallas tops the field in the 12th annual PGA Junior Championship that begins Tuesday at PGA National.

Moore, 17, will be making her fourth straight appearance in the tournament, which will be played on the same course used for the PGA Championship won by Larry Nelson earlier this month.

The competitors are boy and girl champions from 41 geographical sections, and several others who are invited based on their performance in other major junior golf tournaments in 1987. Contestants cannot be more than 17 years old. The 72-hole tournament concludes Friday.

Yardage is listed at 6,471 for boys and 5,710 for girls. The rough has been reduced to 1.5 inches from the three inches used in the PGA Championship.

Arnold Palmer checks out the distance. It may have been 33 years ago, but Arnie still cherishes his U.S. Amateur title.

Ahhhhhhhhhh, 2-A-Days Over

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Ahhhhhhhhhh.

Now that the two-a-day practices are over, the Seminole County football players have made it through the most difficult part of practice. Coaches and players both breathed a sigh of relief Monday with the start of classes.

They will now return to their regular regimen: two-three hour practices after classes each day.

Here's a look at how practice is coming along at three county schools:

● At Lake Mary, coach Harry Nelson said that his team had a few good practices last week. "I was kind of down in the dumps at the start of the week," Nelson, who is starting his sixth year as the Ram head coach, said. "But we really picked things up last Friday and starting hitting hard."

One area of Lake Mary's game that Nelson feels will be strong is the defensive line. This year's line will be experienced as every starter is a senior. "I think that our line will be pretty good," Nelson said. "We have got some kids that are short and squatly. But they are all over 220 pounds, so we will have some size."

Nelson said that Manny Sapten will be anchoring the Ram line as he will be playing noseguard. "Manny has come a long way," Nelson said. "He played a little bit last year, and I think that he'll do a good job."

Seniors Dustin Simms and Matt Kefrel will be playing tackle. "They are both pretty strong," Nelson said. "Hopefully, they will utilize their strength."

Dan Ferris, a starter last season, and Jeff Johnwick will be playing defensive ends. "Dan is a good kid," Nelson said. "And John is also a hard worker."

Nelson said that Brett Grocke, a starter last season who has missed a great deal of practice since he was on a vacation, and Jason Dunaway will also be seeing considerable playing time.

● At Longwood Lyman, coach Bill Scott said that his team is getting better every day. "We have done a lot of things that are definite signs of improvement," Scott said. "The kids are getting the feel of hitting, and I'm happy with their positive attitudes."

Last season, the strength of Lyman's team was its defense. Scott said that he expects this year's team to be strong defensively as well. "I think that we have some kids that can do the job," Scott said. "We have looked pretty aggressive."

The Greyhound defensive line will feature seniors Matt Anderson and Rusty Brewer at ends. "Matt is a great kid," Scott said. "Rusty has missed the last few practices due to a cut that required five stitches on the back of his head," Scott said that

Football

Brewer will be back in action this week.

David Kendrick, who saw plenty of action last season, will be one of the defensive tackles. The other job is still open, according to Scott.

"David has gotten stronger. He's up to 225 pounds now," Scott said.

The Lyman defense will be led by linebacker Mike Whitaker. Last season Whitaker played tackle as he was one of the toughest linemen in the county. "Mike is the type of kid that you like to have on your team," Scott said. "He gets out there and gives it his all on every play."

● At Casselberry Lake Howell, offensive line coach Mike Bouch said that the team is looking to fill some voids defensively. "We lost nine starters last year," Bouch said. "And it is going to take some time to replace them."

"I do feel, however, that we have the kids to replace them," Bouch continued. "At this point, I'd say that we are at about the halfway point as far as replacing them goes."

Bouch said that all of the players are coming through with fine efforts. "Those two-a-days were tough on the kids," Bouch said. "But all of them made it through it and they are all trying their hardest."

"The young kids have been impressive to us (the coaches)," Bouch said. "We are fine tuning the starters game."

One starter that Lake Howell will be without for two weeks in wide receiver Craig Derington. In practice last Friday, Derington separated his shoulder and will miss at least two weeks. "It was a very unfortunate thing to happen," Bouch said. "We were having a tackling drill when it happened. We will really miss him."

"We are just trying to get everybody's attitude in focus," Bouch added. "We still have some work to do, but I'm pleased with the way practice has gone so far."

● $1,123 RAISED — Seminole High's Booster Day raised $1,123.70, booster club secretary Gayle Tipton said Monday. She said the high school still hoped to reach its goal of $1,500. Call 322-4352 and ask for Tipton to donate.

The team of J.J. Partlow, Pat Dougherty and James Cox raised the most money. "Nasty Nick" Casello, Myriel Reed and Walter Hopson came in second.

Reserved season tickets are on sale at the high school. Call athletic director Jerry Posey at 322-4352 for information.

Seminole opens Sept. 11 at home against Titusville Astronaut.

Injury Sidelines Scott

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Chuck Scott has shown a lot of promise but has not received much luck in his professional football career. Scott, a Lake Howell High graduate, was gearing toward the 1987 season with the Los Angeles Rams, a team many experts pick to go all the way, when he injured his back and was forced to the sidelines for eight days.

"He said he was reaching for a pass and hurt it (back) when he turned the wrong way," Chuck's father, Charlie Scott, said. "He kept practicing on it and it got more and more irritated so they took him out."

Scott, an All-American at Vanderbilt University and a No. 2 draft pick last year, was fighting for the No. 4 receiver spot on the team when he was injured. He was forced to miss Sunday night's preseason game against the San Diego Chargers.

"He was really discouraged because he felt he was doing really well," Charlie Scott said. "It's doubtful he'll play this Saturday, too."

The elder Scott said he believed the Rams would keep Chuck this season as one of five receivers. The top three, Henry Ellard, Ron Brown and Kevin House, are a pretty hard trio to crack. If the Rams do not hang on to Scott, there are other teams that have shown interest.

"Chuck's agent said the Eagles tried to trade for him during the draft for a second-round pick," Charlie Scott said. "Other teams have expressed interest as well. He is confident he can play somewhere if he does get waived."

CHICAGO (UPI) — Doug Flutie, once the toast of Boston College and the USFL, finds himself on the brink of unemployment in the NFL.

Flutie, a 5-foot-9 1984 Heisman Trophy winner, has gone from the starter in the Chicago Bears' playoff game last January to probably the No. 4 man on a team that plans to carry three quarterbacks when the regular season begins next month.

"I know what I have to do," Flutie said. "I'm not discouraged. What will happen is what will happen."

Flutie has yet to throw a touchdown pass in two exhibition games. In Saturday's 50-14 rout of Pittsburgh, Flutie was 5 of 9 for 52 yards.

"I saw my receivers well and I did a good job," Flutie said. "Unfortunately, I didn't make a big play."

Flutie's stock has gone down principally because Mike Tomczak's stock has risen. Tomczak has moved up the ladder and may become the club's No. 1 quarterback when the Bears opens the season against the Super Bowl champion New York Giants.

The key to Flutie's future may rest with Jim McMahon. McMahon, recovering from shoulder surgery, has yet to play in the exhibition season and may get his first action Monday against the Cardinals.

If McMahon is healthy, Chicago probably would keep him, Tomczak and the club's first-round draft choice, Jim Harbaugh of Michigan.

WEST CHESTER, Pa. — Paul McFadden

Chuck Scott has been bothered by the injury (in) during his professional career with the LA Rams.

assured himself of a job with the Philadelphia Eagles for at least one more week when he kicked two field goals in a 19-13 overtime victory against the New England Patriots.

"Well, he'll be around for another week," Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan said after McFadden connected from 33 and 22 yards, the last coming with three seconds left in the game to force overtime Sunday night before the Eagles won on a 4-yard touchdown run by Junior Tautalatai.

WASHINGTON — The head of the NFL players union Monday canceled a scheduled speech on the league's labor talks because he refused to cross a picket line expected to be set by striking NBC workers, the union said.

Gene Upshaw, executive director of the NFL Players Association, said he would not appear Tuesday at the National Press Club because NBC technicians and cameramen were planning to picket the event.

Broncos Survive Dolphins

DENVER (UPI) — John Elway ran for one touchdown and passed for another, and the Denver Broncos survived a four-touchdown second half Monday night to defeat the Miami Dolphins 31-28 in a preseason game.

Elway, who completed 11 of 19 passes for 164 yards during his first-half appearance, ran for an 8-yard score and tossed an 8-yard touchdown pass to tight end Clarence Kay.

Gene Lang ran 76 yards for a touchdown on the Broncos' first possession of the second half, and backup quarterback Gary Kubiak added a 37-yard touchdown pass to Mark Jackson in the fourth quarter as the Broncos built a 31-14 lead.

Miami quarterback Ron Jaworski, signed six days ago after Dan Marino dislocated a finger on his throwing hand, hit James Pruitt with two touchdown passes in the final six minutes, including one with 34 seconds remaining.

Of Seminole County's 11 players in professional baseball, nine of them chose to sign directly out of high school and begin their climb up the Minor-League ladder.

Bob Parker, a 1980 Lyman High graduate, would have opted for the pro route, but when he was playing high school baseball, the area was not as thoroughly scouted and no one offered him the opportunity to sign immediately.

Parker, however, has not regretted his decision one bit. He played for two years at Seminole Community College under Jack Pantelias and played in the state tournament. He played for two years for Ron Polk at Mississippi State and competed in a College World Series.

Yes, baseball has been very, very good to the former Seminole Pony Baseball product.

Parker, who is currently playing for the Columbus Astros, Houston's AA affiliate in the Southern League, said four years of college ball helped his cause tremendously.

"I think that there are some players that can jump from high school right into the pros, and there are some that can't," the 24-year-old Parker said last week before a meeting with the Orlando Twins at Tinker Field. "I was one of those players who benefitted from playing college baseball."

After graduating from Lyman, where he led Seminole County in stolen bases his senior year, Parker decided on SCC.

"I think that junior college baseball is just great," Parker, who stands 5-foot-9, and weighs 165 pounds, said. "Jack Pantelias is a tremendous coach, and taught me a heck of a lot."

Pantelias taught Parker how to pull the ball and hit with more power. He became a respected, slashing left-handed hitter who also was a terror on the base paths while playing second base his freshman season.

After playing at SCC for two years, Parker went on to Mississippi State, where he was named All-Southeastern Conference shortstop two years running. He leadoff a potent lineup which included San Francisco's Will Clark and Chicago's Rafael Palmeiro.

"MSU is a great baseball school," Parker said. "Coach (Ron Polk) knows a lot about that game, and it was a lot of fun playing for him."

After attending MSU, Parker was drafted and went to the Rookie League in Asheville, NC. After a year in Asheville, Parker was promoted and moved up the A level as he played for Osceola for a year. After a year at Osceola, Parker was moved to Columbus. This is Parker's second year in Columbus.

"I'm very happy here," Parker, who is currently hitting .240, said. "This is a very competitive league. There have been quite a few players that have jumped straight from here into the majors."

Parker said that he is hoping that he will move up to the AAA team in Tucson, Ariz. soon. "You never know what they (the management) are thinking," Parker said. "My goal is to move up, but I'm just taking things one day at a time."

Parker said that this has not been a very productive offensive year for him. "At the start of the season, I wasn't playing every day," Parker, who has recorded 16 stolen bases in 16 attempts, said. "Now, I am playing every day. After sitting on the bench, it is tough to come in and do well right away."

Parker said that at this stage in his career, he feels that his strong points are his speed and defense. "I'm playing second base right now, and I like it there a lot," Parker said. "And when I get on base, I like to steal."

Parker went on to say that he envisions himself as a utility player in the majors some day. "I can play all of the infield positions," Parker said. "I'd love to be a utility player in the majors."

Parker said that he is hoping to move up as soon as possible. "I'm 24, and in a few years it might be too late," Parker said. "I'm in the middle as far as age goes on this team, but I'd like them to move me up soon if they are going to."

Parker said that Houston organization is very good. "They have treated me really well," Parker said. "This is class organization, and it shows."

Parker said that he is going to pursue his major-league dream for as long as possible. "I'm doing what I like to do, and that's what is important."

Home Cookin': Hrbek Serves Up Twins' Win

United Press International

The Minnesota Twins, who had lost all six games on their recent road trip, returned to the Metrodome Monday night for their usual home-cooked victory.

Kent Hrbek singled home Steve Lombardozzi from third base with one out in the ninth inning to give the Twins, who win 70 percent of their games at home, a 5-4 triumph over the Detroit Tigers.

The Twins are 43-18 at the Metrodome this season.

"They have to keep doing that if we wanna be in this on October 4," Minnesota Manager Tom Kelly said.

"You're gonna win so many games and you're gonna lose so many," Detroit Manager Sparky Anderson said. "I don't think it has anything to do with home or road."

Lombardozzi led off with a single, and Willie Hernandez relieved Eric King, 6-9. Randy Bush sacrificed and Lombardozzi moved to third on Al Newman's single to left.

"It's a big night for us to put an end to the skid and not let it go any further," Lombardozzi said. "I was just trying to get something going. He's (King) been tough on me in the past."

The loss ended Detroit's two-game winning streak and left the Tigers in a virtual tie with Toronto for the AL East lead.

"We sure had our chances to blow them out three or four innings in a row," Detroit's Darrell Evans said. "We didn't get the big hits and that's the thing about playing at home, you get that last time at the plate and the other team doesn't get a chance. You can't let good teams do that."

Jeff Reardon, 6-6, worked one inning in relief of Bert Blyleven and earned the victory. Blyleven allowed four runs on seven hits in eight innings.

BOSTON (UPI) — Boston's self-destruction Monday night helped the Chicago White Sox extend their dominance over the Red Sox.

Greg Walker homered, Jose DeLeon continued his mastery over Boston and the Red Sox committed four errors and stranded 12 runners as the White Sox rolled to a 6-3 victory.

Chicago has won eight of 10 games against Boston this year. "This ballclub really hasn't played well against Chicago," Boston outfielder Mike Greenwell said. "They've seemed to be able to get the outs when they needed them...I don't know why."

DeLeon, a 26-year-old right-hander, improved to 4-0 lifetime against Boston with a 1.94 ERA. DeLeon, 7-11, scattered nine hits in 6 2-3 innings, walked two and struck out four.

"I guess every time I pitch against Boston everything is working for me," DeLeon said. "I don't think about it (being in Fenway Park). If they hit it out of the park, it's fine."

The White Sox moved in front 2-0 in the second inning on Walker's homer. Carlton Flak singled through an overhitter and Walker followed by belting a 2-0 pitch into Boston's bullpen in right for his 23rd homer of the season.

Kent Hrbek, left, singled home the winning run in the ninth inning to keep manager Tom Kelly's club rolling at the Metrodome. Minnesota has won over 70 percent of its home games.

Reuschel Pays Off Right Away

Veteran Ace Responds With 5-Hit Effort As Giants Keep Slight Lead

United Press International

Rick Reuschel is helping a pennant contender without speaking any ill of the last-place club he left behind.

Reuschel, in his first start since being acquired for the stretch run, allowed five hits over seven innings Monday night to give the San Francisco Giants a 6-1 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

"It's exciting to be in a pennant race," Reuschel said. "But I was excited to be where I was. I was almost out of the game three years ago, so I'm just happy to be pitching anywhere."

Reuschel, who last week was pitching for last-place Pittsburgh, raised his record to 9-6. He struck out a season-high eight and walked none, keeping the Giants a half-game ahead of Houston in the National League West. Joe Price finished, Bruce Ruffin, 10-10, took the loss.

"It feels good," Reuschel said. "I'm excited about our chances. I hope I can help out down the stretch."

"It was all over the media that he'll win the pennant for us," San Francisco Manager Roger Craig said. "We'll win it anyway and I didn't want the burden on his shoulders. But I told him he'd better win tonight anyway."

Chris Speler homered in the fourth inning to score Robby Thompson, who had singled with two out, and give the Giants a 5-1 lead. It was Speler's ninth home run of the season.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead off Ruffin in the first inning. With one out, Speler walked, went to third on a single by Bob Brenly and scored on a wild pitch. Chili Davis singled home Brenly and scored on Mike Aldrete's double.

The Phillies scored a run in the first. Juan Samuel tripled and scored on a sacrifice fly by Milt Thompson.

In other games, Pittsburgh defeated Cincinnati 5-4, New York shaded Los Angeles 1-0 and Houston tripped St. Louis 5-2.

IN BRIEF

Record-Setting USA Prepares For Big Olympic Show In Seoul

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — After two weeks of resplendent indulgence and ego-inflating triumph, American athletes have one year in which to prepare for the Big Show in Seoul.

Competing against far smaller countries with minimal resources, the United States flexed its muscles with might and majesty at the Pan American Games, save for a stumble on the final day.

Midway through the 16-day sports festival the Americans already had surpassed their own record for victories, and they wound up the gala spectacular with more gold medals than the 37 other countries combined.

In such glamour events as track and field and swimming, the United States was virtually unchallenged, and the host country also dominated in gymnastics, diving, rowing, shooting, archery, canoe-kayak, cycling, equestrian, modern pentathlon, synchronized swimming, table tennis, taekwondo, freestyle wrestling, roller skating, yachting and team handball.

The United States captured team gold in women's basketball, water polo, women's softball, men's volleyball and men's and women's team handball.

In all, the United States won 169 gold medals — 11 more than the other countries — along with 120 silver and 81 bronze for 370 medals. Cuba was second with 75 gold and 175 medals and Canada was third with 30-16-1.

Davis Wants To Help Druggies

PHOENIX (UPI) — Phoenix Suns guard Walter Davis, treated twice in the last 21 months for cocaine abuse and a key witness in the drug indictments of three teammates, now wants to help others fight drug addiction.

Maricopa County officials said Monday Davis has approached them about building a drug clinic in the Phoenix area, with the stipulation the county provide the site.

"They're going to go out and establish a kind of clinic to educate young people against the use of drugs," county Supervisor Tom Freestone told The Phoenix Gazette. "Whether it be staff support or financial assistance they want from the county, I don't know until I meet with the gentlemen."

NCAA: Postpone Supplemental

WESTLAKE, Ohio (UPI) — The head of the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics has asked NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle to postpone Friday's scheduled supplemental draft because it "attacks the integrity of our educational mission."

Carl Miller, NACDA's president and the athletic director at the University of the Pacific, said Monday in a letter to Rozelle that the two groups must meet to discuss the ramifications of the supplemental draft. Rozelle has scheduled the draft to allow NFL teams to select former Ohio State wide receiver Cris Carter and former Pitt running back Charles Gladman, who lost their NCAA eligibility for accepting money from agents.

Basic Sailing Course Offered

The United States Coast Guard Auxiliary will conduct a 7-week course in basic sailing, skills and seamanship and coastal piloting starting Sept. 14 at 7 p.m. at Maitland Middle School on Thistle Lane just off Horatio Boulevard.

Subjects covered will be piloting, marine engines, lines, sailing, weather, trailering, radio-telephone and navigational aids.

The courses are taught free, however, there is a nominal charge for text and workbooks. For further information, please contact Tremper 830-7563 or Dowler 644-7880.

56 Greyhounds Eye $125,000

TAUNTON, Mass. (UPI) — Fifty-six of America's top ranking canines from 20 tracks begin competing in the prestigious $125,000 added Greyhound Race of Champions at Raynham-Taunton Greyhound Park on Wednesday night.

"Our field for this classic shapes up as one of the greatest assembled in the six-year history of the event," said Kelly C. Carney, director of operations at the track.

Miller Resigns USOC Position

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — George Miller, executive director of the U.S. Olympic Committee the past 2 1/2 years, resigned Monday citing "personal reasons."

The move came after the Pan American Games ended Sunday night in Indianapolis. Miller, 57, will work as a USOC consultant on corporate sponsorships through the 1988 Summer Olympics in Seoul, South Korea.

Pony Baseball To Meet Sunday

Seminole Pony Baseball will hold its annual meeting to elect officers and board members Sunday at the Lake Mary City Hall, SPB President Ed Suggs said today.

Suggs said the public was invited. Call him at 323-7923 for info.

Stocks Active, Open Up

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened higher Tuesday in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues, as equities got a boost from dollar strength and firm bond prices.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 12.43 Monday, was up 19.46 to 2716.52 shortly after the market opened.

Gainers led losers 839-297 among the 1,550 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 11,020,000 shares.

Traders ascribed higher prices to the dollar's strength and firming bond prices.

Stock prices slipped Monday in the slowest trading in nearly two months as equity investors worried about rising interest rates and a weak dollar. Traders said investors were unwilling to buy or even to sell aggressively in the face of an uncertain outlook for the dollar and interest rates.

"The dollar flirted with 140 yen and the Treasury's long bond was flirting with a 9 percent yield," noted Hugh Johnson, chief economist and investment policy officer at First Albany Corp., a regional brokerage.

Johnson said the dollar and the 30-year bond are now near where they were in April and May. The Dow fell more than 100 points in April and did not resume its advance until June.

Dollar Moves Higher Gold Opens Lower

By United Press International

The dollar opened mixed in light trading on major world money markets Tuesday. Gold was lower.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed at 142.90 yen, up 0.25 from Monday's close of 142.65.

Traders said the dollar moved higher following comments by Japanese Finance Minister Kiichi Miyazawa, made during a session of the parliament.

Miyazawa told an upper house finance committee meeting that Japan "should not leave as they are" the recent return of erratic swings in exchange rates.

At the same session, Bank of Japan deputy governor Yasuhiro Mieno reaffirmed agreements by the major industrial nations to intervene jointly if necessary to stabilize currency exchange rates.

He said Japan would call on other nations to step into currency markets if it became necessary.

Mieno blamed the dollar's slide since last week on the announcement of a large U.S. trade deficit for June and a revised estimate lowering expected U.S. economic growth, but he said the yen would probably not continue rising.

In European trading, the dollar opened higher in Zurich at 1.504 Swiss francs, up from Monday's close of 1.4965.

The dollar started the day in Brussels at 38.15 Belgian francs, up from 38.05, and in Amsterdam at 2.0565 Dutch guilders, up from 2.0465.

But the dollar fell in Frankfurt, opening at 1.8225 German marks, down from Monday's close of 1.8238 and in Paris at 6.0935 French francs, down from 6.0945.

In Milan, the dollar opened at 1,319.75 lire, down from Monday's close of 1,320.40.

In London, the British pound sterling weakened to open at $1.621, down from Monday's close of $1.631.

find a hospital to take the injured teenager — University Hospital in Jacksonville. He died several hours later.

Central Florida Regional's neurosurgeon, Dr. Norberto Priu, had given up his credentials for emergency care about three weeks before, but the hospital apparently did not inform Newman, who directs operation of all emergency medical services in Seminole County, Altamonte Springs, Longwood and Casselberry. He is consulted by Sanford and Lake Mary rescue workers as well, because the cities do not have advanced life support equipment.

Tesar called Newman Monday, according to hospital spokesman Kay Bartholomew, and said "if we have a problem I think we need to sit down and talk about it," she said.

Bartholomew said Newman responded favorably and Tesar left it up to Newman to plan the meeting.

Newman said Monday he would have the meeting this week. He said he would invite Tesar and/or his representative and administrators from South Seminole Hospital in Longwood and Florida Hospital-Altamonte. "Probably Florida Hospital-Orlando and ORMC should be included too," he said. "Since we deal with them so much."

Newman said earlier he is constantly informed of changes in what hospitals can accept. For instance, he said, Florida Hospital-Altamonte recently informed him it could not accept thoracic patients — those wounded in the chest — because it has no thoracic surgeon on staff. And he said hospitals inform him when their cardiac care units are full and cannot accept another patient. But, this information has apparently been on an informal basis and needs to be structured to avoid the oversight that caused the delay in the Sanford teen's case. Had Newman known Priu had given up emergency care, due to a perceived higher risk of malpractice suits concomitant with providing such service, he would have had the boy in ORMC within 30 minutes. CFRH's Tesar, however, said emergency technicians who handle such cases have known what conditions exist at various hospitals and should have known about Priu's not handling such cases. Tesar said apparently the EMTs were aware of it, or they would not have ordered a helicopter to move the patient to ORMC in the first instance. Tesar says he's not sure why Newman cancelled the copter. These are some of the issues to be resolved at the proposed meeting in an effort to minimize confusion in transporting patients to local and area hospitals.

When Priu renounced part of his practice, CFRH thought emergency personnel had been informed.

"The problem is, there is no organized system for delivery of such information," Newman said. "We will tell them the types of things we want to know about."

He said he will also attempt to establish better communications with the frequently called upon Air Care helicopter, so Seminole EMS workers know everytime it is out of service.

Newman said his EMS manager, Frank Kirk, would arrange the meeting with hospital administrators.

pleted, that it will have time to do the rest that are planned before the grant period expires.

The Sanford City Commission Monday voted approval of some amendments to the spending plan, including expansion of the target area.

Under the amended plan, which must be approved by the state, the number of planned home rehabilitations is cut from 81 to about 40, according to Community Development Officer Richard Woods. That's because, Woods said, a lot of the people in the area are rehabilitating their own with just the "technical assistance" of the block grant staff. But the $429,000 budget for the rehabilitations is to remain the same. "Instead of spending $5,000 on each house we'll spend $10,000," Woods said.

Gould said he could see that the Sanford program is using some innovative approaches — such as utilizing vocational students to do some jobs and obtaining trees for scenic betterment from the Division of Forestry.

The state acts eligibility criteria for those who apply to receive part of the grant money and sets minimum standards of rehabilitation. But, Gould said, the individual block grant areas are allowed to develop their own spending limits per dwelling unit and set other standards.

Gould said he could sense the overall attitude of those in the Sanford target area was improving as they see improvements beginning to take shape.

There is even a Neighborhood Watch program begun, he said. "They seem to be making steps in the right direction."

Deficiencies he observed included fresh paint peeling due to improper application and lack of proper caulking.

"Caulking is needed everywhere," he said. While block grant administrators "have a lot to learn," Gould said he would place the Sanford efforts "above average."

Coleman said 81 students were reported being enrolled in the Crooms School of Choice and 20 Seminole County students were participating in the Hospital Homebound Program.

Most of the large increases in student populations reported on the first day were in schools in the Lake Mary and Oviedo areas.

Lawton Elementary in Oviedo had an increase of 202 students since the end of last year and Lake Mary Elementary reported 190 more students.

"The increase in student populations at these schools isn't really surprising because those areas are where all the growth is right now," Coleman said.

"Yesterday was seemingly an excellent beginning for the students of this school district," Coleman said about the first day of classes. "Every report we have is that we had a fairly good first day of school this year."

support for its cause with the meeting. The group of local residents and property owners formed after the July 22, announcement of the beltway route.

Gerald Briton, executive director of the Seminole County Expressway Authority, is scheduled to present the group an update on the beltway, Sanford attorney W. C. Hutchinson Jr. is slated to discuss the legal issues concerning expressway opposition.

After the authority approved the proposed 17 mile route through Seminole County last month, Sanford City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein retained Hutchinson. The attorney was to research any legal recourse local residents in blocking the beltway.

The authority plans to restrict property owners' rights along the proposed route for 10 years without compensating them. Local residents who oppose the beltway say they plan to file a suit in Oct. after the authority completes its formal right-of-way maps.

A 1985 law passed by the Florida Legislature gives the state the ability to reserve right-of-way. According to State Rep. Rich Crotty, who sponsored the bill, the law has never been tested in the courts.

A similar case is now pending in Florida's First District Court of Appeals. Opponents of the beltway are keeping a close watch on the outcome of the case.

extend the moratorium. City Manager Frank Faison pointed out there must be time for it to be advertised and come back to the commission before Sept. 23. So the three commissioners tentatively approved a three-month extension, recommended by Faison, with the knowledge it must be voted on again before becoming final.

The original ordinance directed that a study be conducted to determine the appropriateness of transportation impact fees within the city. Simmons said projected traffic counts on area roads are included in the city's updated comprehensive plan. But it is not yet clear whether the city should level its own impact fees on new development and fix roads needing attention now or go along with the county.

The county names some specific roads it plans to improve, but gives no timetable for the work. "Are we talking about 1992 or 2025," Simmons said. "That's the problem with the county's proposal."

A bigger chunk of Sanford's Georgetown area will be eligible for Community Development Block Grant assistance after Monday's 3-0 vote for an expansion of the target area. If the state follows up with its approval and that is expected.

Overall funding for the actual work remains $429,000, but the expansion, about one-third again more area, is facilitated by a rearrangement of plans and the fact some homeowners in the area are rehabilitating dwellings on their own, with just technical assistance of block grant staff, according to Community Development Officer Richard Woods.

Woods said 17 applicants for block grant funds had to be turned down because their homes fell out of the original target area, but now most of them may be accommodated. Expected to be added to the target area are the east side of Bay Avenue from E/7th Street to E. 10th Street; and homes on the east side of Hickory, both sides of Locust and the west side of Orange Avenue between E. 11th Street and Celery Avenue; and homes on the east side of Orange and both sides of Willow between E. 7th Street and E. 8th Street.

The downtown Sanford parking and traffic study by Howard, Needle, Tammen and Bergendoff, a national firm with offices in Orlando, was accepted for planning purposes. Eckstein said there were items recommended in the study report with which he does not agree, but Faison said acceptance of the report is a jumping off point from which staff will make recommendations that must come to the commission individually for approval.

The report suggests the existing two-hour time limit on parking downtown be cut to one hour, coordination of the three traffic signals in the First Street commercial district, reduced size of parking spaces, expansion of the courthouse parking lot by closing Hood Avenue and, possibly, imposition of parking meters to pay for a parking management system.

"We need to implement some of these things," said Mercer, who conducted the meeting in the absence of the mayor.

In other business, the commissioners heard a report from City Attorney William Colbert concerning the annexation (ug-of-war with the county, discussed bids for contracts to provide street lights and accessories, heard a proposal from an Eagle Scout candidate to build a "Welcome to Sanford" sign to be placed at U.S.

Highway 17-92 and Park Drive, and accepted a check for $1,333 from the Seminole County branch of Mothers Against Drunk Drivers to provide a cellular phone for the Sanford police department's BATmobile, the mobile breath testing unit.

Colbert told commissioners that just two and a half hours before the meeting he had received a letter from Assistant County Attorney Bob McMillan telling him the new Florida Governmental Cooperation Act, which became effective July 11, will have no impact on the county's court challenge to the city's Whittle annexation.

The law provides, Colbert reported in a memo to Faison, that a county or municipality may not file suit against the other unless the suing body has notified the potential defendant of its intent to file suit no less than 45 days in advance of the filing. According to McMillan's Monday letter, the county filed an appeal in the Whittle case July 13, two days after the law became effective. He wrote: "Based upon the effective date provision in the Florida Governmental Cooperation Act (Chapter 87-346-Laws of Florida) we can agree that the act does not apply to the appeal of the Whittle annexation ordinance."

The county has challenged several Sanford annexations, contending they create enclaves, areas jutting into the jurisdiction of another governmental body, surrounded by that other body, which are prohibited by state law.

In the matter of the street lights, commissioners agreed to buy 38 light poles from Graybar Electric Company, Inc. Orlando, for $8,450 and street light accessories from Hughes Supply, Inc., Orlando, for $16,600. The poles are to be installed along both sides of U.S. Highway 17-92 from Airport Boulevard to Lake Mary Boulevard.

Dr. Albert C. Neumann, medical director and founder of the Neumann Eye Institute, DeLand, has been invited to participate in Project ORBIS, an international, not-for-profit flying teaching eye hospital dedicated to world blindness.

Project ORBIS collects and disseminates sight saving surgical skills worldwide through the hands-on method of teaching. ORBIS offers the entire ophthalmic community of a country an intense, three week skills exchange program emphasizing appropriate technology.

Renowned specialists from all over the world volunteer to share their expertise with the host country doctors.

Project Orbis will visit the Soviet Union starting Aug. 26 and will be involved in a three-week teaching and surgical mission. Neumann was personally invited by both the Ministry of Health of the Soviet Union and Project ORBIS to participate in this trip because of his expertise and international reputation in the fields of Refractive Surgery and Small Incision Cataract Surgery.

Neumann will perform surgery on Project ORBIS and will lecture to the Soviet medical community on both cataract surgery and refractive surgery techniques.

Neumann was honored by the invitation and sees it as an opportunity to be an effective good will ambassador. 'ORBIS crosses barriers and brings people together who work towards the common goal of alleviating world blindness, he said.'

Neighborhood Peeping Tom Is Good Friend Next Door

DEAR ABBY: I've never written for advice before, but this issue cannot be resolved by any other means.

About a year ago, my husband and I became aware of a "Peeping Tom" who occasionally looks into our bedroom window at night. Our bedroom is on the first floor, facing a woods, and would be considered very private. We also have blinds, but because I sometimes leave the bedroom windows open, the blinds blow to the side.

I have not called the police because the "Tom" is our next-door neighbor. He is a respected professional man and has always been a friend to my husband and me, and his wife and children are very dear to us. We are angry and frustrated and don't know what to do.

I'm on the verge of confronting him, and if I do, it will forever change our relationship with him. (I'm assuming he will deny it.) I've already told his wife that I'd seen "someone" at our window, and to ask her husband if he'd seen anyone in hopes that it would scare him away, but he keeps it.

Any ideas? Or should I just be direct and risk the consequences?

UNEASY IN ILLINOIS

DEAR UNEASY: Even respected professional men are not exempt from this kind of behavior. Your neighbor needs help. You and/or your husband should confront him and tell him that if he doesn't get professional help, you will be forced to tell his wife. And, if necessary, you will report him to the police. Although most "Peeping Toms" seldom go beyond "looking," their victims feel threatened and their privacy is invaded.

DEAR ABBY: We are an elderly couple who made an expensive mistake. After a light lunch at a family cafe that we've patronized for many years, we left a $10 bill instead of a $1 bill for the waitress. I didn't notice it until after we got home.

We went back for lunch on the following day, hoping the waitress would say something. If she had, we planned on insisting that she keep the $10 because she was honest.

Nothing was said, and she avoided any eye contact. She is a new employee and I felt that perhaps we should inform the owner. My husband said forget it; it was our mistake, and it would be her word against ours.

Now we feel uncomfortable going there. What is your advice?

A COUPLE OF SENIORS

DEAR COUPLE: Inform the owner. Your continued patronage and good will should be worth more than $10 to a family restaurant owner.

DEAR ABBY: Baseball is the only major sport in which the players indulge in the disgusting habit of chewing tobacco, then spitting right on the playing field.

Millions of viewers are "treated" to dozens of close-ups of players spitting gobs of gunk onto the field. This grosses out a lot of people, while greatly impressing many young ball players who then take up the habit. Maybe if you would scold them they would clean up their act. Why must they chew?

DISGUSTED EX-FAN

DEAR DISGUSTED: Baseball players "chew" to keep their mouths moist and to relieve tension. Don't chew out the players — blame the cameramen who bring it into our living rooms. Spitting is not only unsightly, it's a health hazard.

DEAR ABBY: My very dear friend, "Clara," is driving my husband and our two sons (ages 12 and 14) up a wall. Clara has a habit of constantly scratching her head. She does this while preparing food, and at the table while eating. My husband and our boys hate to eat at the same table with her. When I'm preparing food in the kitchen, Clara offers to help, and I always say, "No thanks," but she persists. Last evening when she was here for dinner, she scratched her head, then picked up a slice of bread from the dish and passed it to my son. He left the table!

Dear Abby

How can I politely convince Clara to please quit scratching her head while eating at my table and also hers when we are at her home for dinner?

Any advice would be appreciated. Thank you.

SCRATCHER'S FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Be a very good friend and tell Clara (privately, of course) that she needs to see a dermatologist who will get to the root of her problem and cure her itchy scalp.

3rd World Debt Status Unchanged By Banks' Loan Loss Provisions
 NEW YORK (UPI) — Three months after Citicorp Chairman John Reed's $3 billion set-aside initiated an industry-wide increase in loan loss provisions, a drop in the price of Third-World debt portfolios has wiped out a good portion of the extra provisions, one expert said.
 "Citicorp's action has boomeranged and has created a chaotic condition for the marketing of Third-World debt," said Martin Schubert, chairman of European International Finance Corp., known as Eurinam, one of the first firms to do debt swaps beginning in 1983.
 Reed, at a dramatic news conference in May, announced that Citicorp was increasing its loan loss provision by $3 billion, taking a loss of $2.5 billion in the second quarter. Other banks had little choice but to take similar action. A total of $15 billion was set aside by the nation's 50 largest banks.
 "Before Reed, most secondary market transactions were swaps for the purpose of arranging portfolios." Reed said.

Government Urges End To Canadian Railroad Strike

MONTREAL (UPI) — The government, saying it "will not tolerate" a continued standstill of the Canadian rail system, called both sides in a national railroad strike back to the negotiating table today.

Labor leaders and railroad executives, whose talks broke down Sunday over job security, triggering the strike, were to meet today in Ottawa with the government's top mediator.

Failure by the Associated Railway Unions to reach accord with the Canadian National Railways and CP Rail could induce the government to propose back-to-work legislation, officials said.

Canadian Labor Minister Pierre Cadieux summoned labor leaders and company officials back to the negotiating table with mediator Bill Kelly, an associate deputy labor minister generally credited with ending a bitter postal strike earlier this summer.

The 48,000-member ARU, a coalition of nine unions whose members include engineers, trainmen, signalmen, clerks and maintenance workers, went on strike at midnight on Sunday.

The strike has stopped all freight traffic, as well as passenger service provided by Via Rail, a joint CN-CP operation whose engineers, conductors and trainmen belong to the striking unions. The work action also halted commuter rail service in Montreal and Toronto.

CN and CP are losing a total of $14.5 million a day in revenue during the strike and the stoppage has paralyzed rail shipment of grain, iron ore, coal, lumber and other dry bulk commodities.

Cadieux, who Monday sent a telegram to all parties in the dispute, cited the "severe economic consequences" of the strike, including "massive layoffs of Canadian workers."

"The Canadian government cannot and will not tolerate a shutdown of the nation's major transportation systems," he said.

Transport Minister John Crosbie said the government will weigh back-to-work legislation if a negotiated settlement is not reached. "It's quite obvious we can't leave the country paralyzed," Crosbie said in an interview.

Business leaders agreed with the government's dire assessment of the broad economic impact of the strike.

"The consequences of a rail strike will be felt immediately," Larry Dykers, chairman of the board of directors of The Coal Association of Canada, said in a telephone interview from Calgary. "Any disruption will have a proportionate effect on the net income of coal producers."

Dominion Marine Association analyst Angus Laidlaw said the strike could cause losses "in the millions of dollars" for Great Lakes merchant fleets.

Jacques Hudon, a spokesman for the Mining Association of Canada, said a rail strike could spell losses for many mining companies and could lead to thousands of layoffs in the industry.

A Canadian Wheat Board spokesman said the strike has had an immediate effect on Canadian west coast ports, where there was enough grain on hand to fill only eight of 21 vessels due this week.

The strike was precipitated by the union demands for better job security in talks for a new contract.

Under the previous contract, railroad employees with eight years or more of service were protected against layoffs resulting from technological, operational and organizational changes.

The unions want layoff protection to be extended to employees with a minimum of two years of service, and want it expanded to protect against layoffs caused by declining freight traffic or reduced business.

Canada's last national rail strike, in 1973, which saw rotating walkouts over a 10-day period, was ended by federal legislation.

Chevrolet Aiming For 20 Percent Of U.S. Car Sales

DETROIT (UPI) — The Chevrolet division of General Motors Corp. said Monday the total U.S. car and truck market for the 1988-model year could reach 15 million units — and it will account for one of every five sales.

"For the 1988 model year, I'm pushing the Chevrolet organization to sell just above 1.7 million passenger cars and about 1.25 million trucks," Chevrolet General Manager Robert D. Burger said.

"It's doable," said industry analyst Thomas O'Grady, of Integrated Automotive Research Inc. of suburban Philadelphia. "But it will take a tremendous amount of support."

Currently, Chevrolet has about 25 percent of the truck market and about 18.2 percent of the car market, including its Sprint and Spectrum subcompacts imported from Japan.

Burger predicted Chevrolet's all-new pickup truck, introduced in April as a 1988-model, will come close to reaching the half-million sales mark in the next model year as three GM assembly plants reach full speed and add new body styles.

"Our chief competitor in the full-sized pickup market is going to know it's been in a real fight for sales leadership," Burger said in reference to Ford Motor Co., which has consistently beat Chevrolet in sales with its F-series truck line.

However, O'Grady said dealers indicate the new Chevrolet trucks have not been selling very well, considering it is an all new model.

Burger said next year will be the year "when all of the things we've been putting into place over the past five years begin paying dividends."

He predicted in January the division's newest cars, the 1988-model Beretta and Corsica compacts, would add two percentage points to GM's overall share of the market.

Although sales of the cars have recently been good — partly due to strong buyer incentives and better availability as the car's production is stepped up — they have in fact so far taken away from sales of the smaller Chevrolet Cavalier and larger Celebrity models while GM's overall slice of the market continues to erode.

Chevrolet's overall car sales for the past 30 days, a period in which Beretta-Corsica sales have been strong, are up about 8 percent from year-ago levels, industry figures show. But Cavalier sales are down 10 percent and Celebrity sales are off 26 percent, indicating the new cars are cannibalizing sales.

Dr. Thomas F. Yandell, of the Lake Mary Chiropractic Clinic Inc., demonstrates the examination of a jaw joint on Carol McLeod of DeBary. Researchers have found the joint responsible for pains in other areas of the body.

Jaw Bone Can Be Pain In The Neck

The Lake Mary Chiropractic Clinic, Inc., is looking in new and different areas when it comes to treating the pains and aches of its patients. Dr. Thomas F. Yandell looks at more than just the obvious in diagnosing health problems.

Health professionals are still discovering how different parts of the human body can cause symptoms of pain and other ailments to seemingly unrelated parts. Chiropractors are finding this true with the Temporomandibular (TMJ), or the jaw bone.

Dr. Yandell says his clinic can offer successful treatment for patients with a TMJ dysfunction.

A dysfunction of this type often causes headaches and pain across the shoulders and back. Chiropractors report these symptoms can be alleviated in many cases with the proper treatment and follow-up care.

The TMJ gets its name for the two bones comprising the jaw joint. The temporal bone in the skull and the mandible (jaw bone) fit together to form two separate hinge-like joints.

While the TMJ is classified as being a hinge-like joint it has a much more complex action than most other joints of its class.

When a person chews, the TMJ provides movement that allows a grinding of the teeth. During the chewing action one of the TMJ joints slides forward while the other slides back.

This movement can be observed by placing the fingers on the jaw joint and moving the jaw to the side as if chewing. When the fingers are placed on the joint they should be just in front of the opening of the ears. There should be no clicking or popping of the jaw observed while performing this test. If these sounds are present when chewing, it may indicate the TJM is not functioning properly.

A thorough chiropractic examination may help find an imbalance in the TJM that may be causing the sounds and associated pain of a joint dysfunction. The examination should include the checking of the full range of motion of the jaw.

Today's chiropractor uses various techniques to provide a balance of the two joints in the chewing motion. A TJM dysfunction is often cured once the abnormal muscle activity around the jaw is corrected.

As science finds out more about the interrelation of the human anatomy, chiropractors say the treatment of man's health problems will improve. Because of new research in this area, doctors say it's not uncommon for a patient to be treated for a pain in the neck by treating the jaw bone.

The Lake Mary Chiropractic Clinic is located at 902 East Lake Mary Blvd. in suite 107 of the Bayhead Center. For more information call (305) 322-9300.

Convoy Leaves Gulf After Confrontation

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — U.S. warships faced down an Iranian vessel and American sailors fired machine gun bursts over small craft, while two separate groups of re-flagged Kuwaiti tankers steamed through the Strait of Hormuz in opposite directions, shipping and military sources said.

Crews from two U.S. warships went on "general quarters" battle stations alert Monday when an Iranian warship appeared to charge three tankers heading out of the Persian Gulf into the Strait of Hormuz, witnesses said.

In a separate incident, the USS Kidd fired two warning bursts at small craft moving too close to a tanker convoy, the Pentagon said.

By Monday afternoon, however, the supertanker Bridgeton and three other carriers had sailed out into the Gulf of Oman through the Strait of Hormuz, past batteries of Silkworm missiles on the Iranian shore.

The passage ended the fifth escorted convoy transit of the 550-mile distance between the entrance to the Persian Gulf and Kuwait oil terminals at the northern extremity of the waterway.

Soon after, another convoy of at least two re-flagged tankers and four U.S. warships was sighted moving north into the Strait of Hormuz from the Gulf of Oman, apparently beginning their own trip up the gulf to Kuwait.

In one of the closest brushes so far between U.S. and Iranian naval forces in the region, the frigate USS Jarrett maneuvered for about 10 minutes to head off an Iranian ship that came too close to the Bridgeton convoy.

The 600-man crew of the Guadalcanal, an amphibious assault carrier, had already gone on "general quarters," full battle alert, manning 3-inch guns and 50-caliber machine guns.

"Jarrett was instructed to position herself tactically between the convoy and the Iranian vessel," said Capt. Skip Dirren, commander of the helicopter carrier USS Guadalcanal.

Dirren said U.S. ships had been tracking the boat, 2,500-ton amphibious landing craft built in Britain, for some time.

"My guess is that she was just observing what was going on," he said.

Helicopter gunships from the Guadalcanal scrambled into the air and clattered over the Iranian vessel before it sailed off, said a British Broadcasting Corp. camera crew that witnessed the encounter from the Gulf Supplier.

a reflagged vessel present in the area.

In Washington, the Pentagon said the Kidd fired warning shots when a support helicopter observed two small sailing vessels about 8 miles from the guided missile destroyer.

Most of the primitive sailing craft ply the gulf on trade, but some are suspected of serving Iranian military purposes. Sailors on the Kidd fired two machine gun bursts across their bows and they altered course.

The U.S. Central Command at MacDill Air Force Base in Tampa, Florida, later Monday issued a brief statement which played down the significance of the brush with the Iranian vessel.

"The fifth escort was much like the previous three with routine activity," the statement said. "However, on the final day, two dhows approached the convoy and were warned away with shots fired across their bows after they failed to heed verbal and flare warnings."

"On the same day, an Iranian naval ship (amphibious landing craft) observed the convoy for some time and while not considered unusual, U.S. escorts ensured the ship remained at a proper distance."

The Kuwaiti Oil Tanker Co. declined to identify the tankers. But shippers said the re-flagged supertanker Middleton, a 290,000-ton oil products carrier, and the smaller Chesapeake City and Surf City had been standing off the coast of the United Arab Emirates for some days.

ministration last month began escorting Kuwaiti tankers, a policy that has led to fears of a direct U.S.-Iranian confrontation.

Surgery For Hernia May Be Beneficial

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Some time ago I developed a small epigastric hernia just above my navel. At the same time I developed very troublesome stomach problems (heartburn, belching, etc.). How are these related? Nothing my doctor has prescribed has helped, and he's also told me I am susceptible to more herniations. I'm a muscular, hard-working farm girl and would find it difficult to change my lifestyle.

DEAR READER — Abdominal hernias are weaknesses in the abdominal muscles that allow portions of bowel to herniate or protrude. The epigastrum, the part of the abdomen above the navel, is a common location for hernias to occur because the abdominal muscles are thin in this area and abdominal pressure (during straining and lifting) can enlarge any weakness, turning it into a hernia.

Many people with large abdominal hernias experience no serious symptoms whatsoever. On the other hand, some patients with small hernias are troubled by digestive disturbances, such as gas and discomfort. If, as you say, your symptoms started at about the same time your hernia appeared, I'd be tempted to blame your heartburn and belching on the hernia. In this case, surgery to correct the hernia would remove your symptoms.

An operation will neither protect you from developing future hernias nor make you more susceptible to them. However, your digestive disturbances may be due to other factors — for example, peptic ulcer or hiatal hernia. Therefore, before opting for surgery, you should have upper-gastrointestinal X-rays (or endoscopy) to see if your upper tract is normal.

I think that it is less important for you to change your lifestyle than for you to have a proper diagnosis established. Once you and your doctor understand the source of your problem, you can decide what should be done about it.

DEAR DR. GOTT — We recently installed a sauna and used it at least twice a week during the entire fall and winter. We've had no illness, contrary to usual winters. Is there any credence to our belief that the sauna is responsible for our improved health?

DEAR READER — Probably not. Some people, particularly residents of the Scandinavian countries, attribute healing qualities to sauna baths. And perhaps the moisture breathed in does help soothe the upper respiratory tract. However, I am unaware of any reports in U.S. medical literature proving that saunas improve health.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

After West had made a pre-emptive bid of four spades, he committed a bridge sin. When the opponents bid five diamonds, he bid again. Not only did that ignore the fact that he had a partner, but it also gave the opposition more bidding room. North could now pass five spades, saying to partner, "If you have a fairly good hand, we might even have a slam." So South did bid six clubs, corrected to diamonds by North. It certainly seems OK for East to double that contract, but that too was questionable, since it provided declarer with the information he needed in order to bring in a touch-and-go contract. Here's how.

After winning dummy's spade ace, declarer took a club finesse. Then he led the 10 of diamonds from dummy, covered by East with the jack, and won with the ace. The king of hearts was overtaken with dummy's ace and all of the club tricks were taken with repeated finesse.

East had to follow to all four clubs. Next a heart was played to dummy's queen and a heart ruffed. Declarer's second spade was now ruffed small in dummy, and East had to follow. The lead of dummy's last heart left East with the Q-9-7 of trumps. Declarer held the 8-6-4 and dummy the K-5. East was doomed — he could ruff with the queen but would now have to lead away from the 9-7, giving declarer the last two tricks and his contract.
