Some programs have longwinded descriptions.

This is not the case with the Retired Seniors Volunteer Program (RSVP). "We are a program of people helping people," said RSVP director Brenda Wright in the program's office in the portable classroom at Longwood Elementary School.

The program, for those 60 years and older, began about five years ago in Seminole County and reaches into many areas, and now has 300 volunteers.

"We offer assistance to nonprofit organizations that need volunteers, such as the YMCA and various nursing homes around the county," she said. The program extends into Seminole County schools with RSVP volunteers working in almost all of the county's elementary achools.

Lake Brantley, along with three other county high schools, will be visited next week by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools accreditation team. The main problem in the past has been the lack of enough library books for the students. The money has been earmarked for new books and other library materials. Allocation is contingent upon a book drive being started by the school and whether the accreditation committee determines more books are needed and provides time to get them.

Superintendent William Layer informed the school board that Superior Sanitation Co. has agreed to replace all dumpsters at school sites which do not meet with specification originally asked for by the board. Several weeks ago representatives from Dumpall presented pictures and figures showing that the Superior dumpsters did not meet the specifications of six and eight cubic feet.

Measurements by school board officials confirmed Dumpall's findings, and Superior agreed to replace those dumpsters that did not meet measurement requirements, Layer said.

Alternative Ed Program

About 20 children at two county schools have been given parental permission to take part in Seminole County's new alternative education program. The students found were at Sanford Grammar and Goldsboro, according to Mary Groome, director of elementary education. The program, which was given school board approval in August, is designed to combat truancy, disruptiveness and a disinterested attitudes among the students.

York Pushes For A New State Ed Panel

By LEONARD KRANSDORF Herald Staff Writer

"They were elected to deal with their particular specialities like insurance and agriculture and while I know and respect them all, education is too important not to have someone directly responsible," said Chancellor E.T. York. York, Chancellor of the state university system, was in Sanford Friday to encourage support for Proposal 8 to the state constitution. The principal aspect of the proposal is the appointment State Board of Education. Currently, the board is comprised of the elected cabinet of ficials and the governor. Under the new proposal, to be decided by the voters in November, the board would consist of nine members appointed by the governor and confirmed by the Senate for sizyear terms at no salary. The primary function of the board, according to Dr. York, would be the coordination of the public education system in iversity system and the Board Of Regent: would be subject to the coordinating authority of the State Board of Education. It would also include coordination of kindergarten through 12th grade, vocational education, community colleges and the state university system.

The establishment of the board would not change the way money is allocated, as the state legislature will still have that responsibility according to Dr. York. He was critical of the minimum time the current board of education -- the cabinet -- is able to spend on education matters.

"The current board devoted only 30 seconds to discussing the budget for the 1978-79 school year," Dr. York smid. Another section of the provision being endorsed by Dr. York gives the Board of Regents constitutional status. Dr. York said approval of the provision would "add stability and insulation from political problems." This revision would reduce the terms of the Regents from the current nine years to no more than six years with the exception of one member who would serve a two-year term - he could be a student with full voting rights. Dr. York Friday also presented the report by the Commission on the Future of Florida's Public Universities which has completed its 22-month study. "The report," observed Dr. York, "provides sort of a blueprint to improve the universities in the next decade," noting that up to now the emphasis has been on providing university access to state

Dr. York, referring to the just-completeld report by the Com-mission on the Future of Florids's Public Universities, noted that "we have done as much or more as other states in a sheet space of time adding programs. Now," he stranged, "it is time to emphasize quality." He also said many of the state's universities now effer specialized programs and said his objective is to make these programs "rank the best in the country."

'Functional Illiterates'

CHICAGO (UPI) - The most serious obstacle to good education in public schools is the large number of "functional illiterates" who graduate from colleges each year to become teachers, Max Rafferty, former superintendent of public instruction in California, told educators at the seventh Cantornia, told educators at the neventh annual convention of the American Association of Christian Schools. Rafferty, now dean of the School of Education at Troy University in Alabama, said many children are unable to read, write or do simple arith-metic because their teachers are unable to teach the teacts.

County OKs Purchase

Of Sewer Package Plant

County commissioners have agreed to purchase for $15,000 a used 100,000-gallon daily capacity sewer package plant from Longwood Utilities Inc. to upgrade its Country Club sewer treatment plant to comply with state Department of Environmental Regulation (DER) subjects Regulation (DER) rulings.

The commissioners voted 4-1 not only to approve the purchase from federal revenuesharing funds but also another $6,162 from the same source to repair the package system and for its installation.

Public Works Director Jack Schuder said this is an interim solution negotiated with DER and will provide time for the county to resume negotiations for the purchase of the Florida Land Co. Greenwood Lakes water and sewer systems.

Commissioner John Alexander voted against the expenditure, saying good management practices would call for improvements and other expenses of utility operation to be borne from revenues of those systems. He also mentioned that use of the revenue sharing funds allocated on the basis of population, both within and without cities, for a utility department function is another instance of double taxation.

Pay Period Stays Unchanged

The county commission decision made some months ago to go to bi-weekly rather than weekly pay periods for county road department personnel has been rescinded. The reason for the switch, Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff made clear, is because county road department employees protested. Several weeks ago, a delegation of embefore the commissioners pleading with them to change their minds. A spokesman said the plan would cause severe hardship for em-ployees.

Herndon: No Service Subsidy

"Miscommunication within the Herdon office" was the explanation given by County Commission Chairman Dick Williams for the request before the county commissioners this week for a $2,500 subsidy for Herdon to con-tinue emergency ambulance service in Seminole for October.

Although the item was listed on the agenda for action on the requested subsidy, Williams said Herndon is willing, as its officials previously reported to the board, to continue the service without subsidy through this month

Meanwhile, county study is being given to negotiating a contract with Herndon, the possibility of the county going into emergency ambulance service alone or in concert with one or more cities, and the possibility of granting a franchise to another ambulance service. Herndon has asked for a subsidy of 74,000 annually for the service.

While Williams had talked with someone else at Herndon and receive company agreement to provide the service this month for no subsidy, a company officer of the firm sent a letter requesting the $2,500 subsidy.

$4,000 In Raises Approved

A total of $4,000 in pay raises for two county staff members as recommended by Director of Personnel Ron Thames, was approved by the majority of the commissioners.

Ashby Jones, administrative assistant to the clerk of the circuit court, was granted a pay raise of $2,000 to bring his salary up to $22,000 annually. Clerk of the Court Arthur H. Beckwith Jr. is paying $1,273 of the salary. A total of $400 of the $2,000 pay raise is being paid by Beckwith.

The salary of Finance Department Supervisor Ginny Huff was also raised by $2,000 from $14,500 to $16,500. The pay raises for both employees totaled 10 percent in ad-dition to adjustments, for outstanding performance.

Alexander voted no, saying he will vote for no more than a 7.5 percent pay raise in any

The recommendation of County Ad-ministrator Roger Neiswender that David Hotary, employed in the county's Office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE), be appointed director of ad-ministration at a salary of $19,000 annually was approved on a 4-1 vote of the county commission.

The position has been vacant since Bob Ellis resigned to accept a better-paying past in another county. Commissioner John Alexander voted no, saying his request that the job description be reviewed prior to the position being filled was ignored.

Show Biz Legislation?

There was a time when the Humphrey Hawkins "full employment" bill could rightly have been viewed as a pernicious proposal, the enactment of which would cause dire economic consequences.

In its original form, it would have put the federal government back into the business of hiring leaf rakers in order to eliminate unemployment.

Even an overwhelmingly Democratic Congress recoiled from this inflationary exercise in futility. Thus died Humphrey-Hawkins I.

After much legislative backing and filling Humphrey-Hawkins II emerged, was passed by the House and arrived in the Senate. Two committees later, a Humphrey-Hawkins III and IV have emerged.

What we may conclude from all this is that while Humphrey-Hawkins I was genuinely bad legislation, the subsequent versions fit the description of what the Wall Street Journal's Arlen J. Large calls "show business government," or symbolism with no substance.

Consider the Senate banking Committee's Humphrey-Hawkins IV version.

It appeases the original bill's liberal supporters by urging the president to attain a goal of four percent unemployment or less by 1983.

But if he misses the goal, or decided that reaching it would jeopardize some other worthy objective, that's OK too as long as he offers Congress an explanation.

Conservatives also get their ration of ap-

The banking committee inserted amendments instructing the President to aim for "zero inflation" by 1963 and a balanced budget " as soon as

Here again, the president would not be bound by these goals provided there were some "good reason" for failure to attain them.

All the various Humphrey-Hawkins versions enumerate a list of tools the federal government can utilize to manipulate the economy in the in-terests of achieving the cited goals.

There is no substance here because the Congress and the White House already possess the authority to use these economic levers.

It's plain that none of the versions of Humphrey-Hawkins that could be enacted as Congress closes

Hail Liechtenstein

The country of Liechtenstein is said to be so small that people pass completely through it before they can say it. It has been in the news lately because the tiny municipality has become the 22nd member of the Council of Europe and won the full statehood it has coveled for so many years.

The victory wasn't easy. The little country, nestled between Switzerland and Austria, still denies women the vote and feminists fought its membership in the council tooth and nail. Liochtenetein also has a reputation as a tax haven for illicit noney. However, it has its good points. There is virtually so crime and so smog. Also it has the world's second highest per capits income - and men never have to do the dishes.

Welcome to statebood, Liechtenstein.

Those wages are almost invariably the highest union scale in the ares, and the ares may extend from a high-wage central city far into lower wage rural areas. 28 those lower-wage areas, local governments are.... forced to pay exorbitant wages on construction jobs financed in part from federal funds. That is needless burden on local taxpayers, a gift of tax funds to the privileged workers. That is not only problem with the Davis Bacon Act. Consider what happened to the Interfaith Adopt-a-Building project in Manhatian's largely Puerto Rican Lower East Side. There, a group of young Puerto Rican men decided to try te rehabilitate an abandoned tenement building. By acrounging materials, and doing most of the rork themselves (and getting title to the building from the city for a nominal sum) they hoped to become owners of their own cooperative partments.

The plan was a good one. Church groups and a local foundation provided enough money to get started. The men themselves enrolled at trainees in the CETA program, which gave them enough to stay alive while they were learning the construction skills and getting their spartments renovated. Then they ran into the Davis Bacon

Act, which applies if more than eight dwelling units are rehabilitated under a federally insured or assisted mortgage program. These young workers were prepared to part? union plumbers the full union scale to book up the plumbing. That wasn't the problem. The problem came when the U.S. Labor Department insisted that for the first young worker learning the ropes on the project, 12 union plumbers had to be employed, and for the second trainee an additional 14 union plumbers were required! This is the so-called work rules requirement definitely be excluded as the father of one twin. under the Devis Bacon Act.

By JAMES J. DOYLE LOS ANGELES (UPI) - A test for paternity

using white blood cells instead of red cells has identified two fathers for a set of twins, an occurence so rare it could happen about once in one million times under the right conditions.

Dr. Paul Terasaki of the University of California, who developed the so-called HLA test, said the identification of different fathers for each twin was "striking testimony of the ower of HLA typing to determine paternity." HLA, which stands for Human Leukocyte intigen, matches tissue types instead of blood types. In just over one year, more than 7,000 young men and women of all levels of ability, representing 27 Olympic Game sports, have come to these centers for training sessions. But much equipment to train them is lacking. Amateur athletics needs that appropriation to get that equipment for those training centers.

The appropriation would also provide long needed financial assistance to amateur athletic activities for women and expanded opportunities for participation by handicappped individuals.

Is it just amateur athletics that suffers from the potential loss of the appropriation? I think not, although athletes will feel the blow first. America's Olympic efforts will suffer for the lack of effective coordination and organized programs at

It is the one of the few areas left where the county has not been empowered under the home rule act to change the state statutes to suit themselves by passing more restrictive legislation than that required under the state laws. But to foist this off on the public as a method of "holding the line on taxes" under the guine of the popular Proposition 13 of California is pure and plain poppycock. The State of Florida, and Seminole County, as well as some 15 or more states have had a tas "cap" or many years. We have constitutional "limits" of a maximum 1.8 per cent tas rate on fair market assessment California was faced with a 10 per cent tax role on such assassment. The complexities and inequities of fazztion are many, but we now have been given he magic formula.

But let's stay on ad valerem taxes. I say, with longue in check; the most prefound, astate, and deep reasoning statement I have over beard a political candidate make is, quete, "I am in favor of reducing taxes." Who in blazes is in favor of paying more money than a necessary for anything, less alone public services?

We told the passie in ACT, when we went to fair market fall assessment over three years age, that if their tax hill was their only warry, to go hame. We told them then and tell everyone now to be concerned and stay concorned as to what causes increased taxes and to stay vigilantly as top of services and FAT in processed. Nothing has charged. The problem is not in the million ... although in relative effect, it must be hept in focus.

The problem lies in assessment, and domand for services... In the inequities inherent in arriving at a fair meriat full ansated value. AND, the system now used to attend to new, on-time construction. In such a growing state as ours and as our county is, this is med grade "twice", this is incredible. First, to get a supported seriesce for grand increay. Second, to be continued in important. This is not a reflection on the Assessor. He does what the low anys, and with what he has to do with, be rewarded by salary increases.

assessments; because someone sold a property in the vicinity ... their taxes went up. It doem't matter that THEY no intention of selling ... or that need for services did not increase ... or that one piece sold was incomeproducing property and the one next door was vacant ... it all gets assessed at full fair market value based upon the one that did sell. The fact is; services cost money. To cut taxes you find more efficient ways to provide the same services or you cut services. More mportant is the assessment period. If the County wants to play around with tax reform ... the first step would be encourage the adoption of the upcoming Constitutional Amendment to assess the current tax roles only once each 2 years... and at the same time push for egislation, or take local action, if possible, to have on line, new construction that is certified for occupancy assessed semi-annually ... Jan 1 and Lazpayer? July 1 each year. This would eliminate such new occupied construction, which requires services from the first day occupied, from remaining off the tax rolls, thus making no contribution, for as long as a maximum of 23 months under our present system. Just watch it folks ... you could be had ... you could, under this proposal and up with a higher tax cap then the law no allows ... and much higher taxes. This snowball proposition with all its popular overtimes, could and up being. in our case, loaded with rocks.

After returning to the states, Mrs. England practiced criminal law in Brooklyn, N.Y. before returning to Florida with her son, Marco, who is now 16. She chose the legal profession "because it was something I felt I could do well." She acknowledges a few obstacles. "I don't want to say they're suble, because changing. Until fairly recently, the legal profession was very definitely a male club, a male bastion, and women just didn't fit in," she says.

"There are a lot of women attorneys in service programs, which are usually lower paid, less prestigious. Both of the jobs I had prior to this were in that category. I don't want to put them down. Many people devote themselves to that kind of work and it's very interesting. I just look at the trend and I see women in the services and don't see them in the most prestigious firms, and I say it's because nobody invited them in the firms," she adds. ## Lauren Goodman

... Altamonte Springs

Lauren B. Goodman, as a child, was secure and confident. Her parents reinforced the attitude that the could do or become whatever she wished.

Lauren B. Goodman, as a young attorney with the firm Jacobs, Goodman & Goldstein, is still secure and confident. She admits, though, that she sometimes has a problem. "Being young and female, sometimes they (clients) can't take me seriously." However, she feels that her success as a woman in a "man's world" is due to her abilities. "Once I do work for them, I don't have a problem," she says.

Attorney Goodman, who is married to Altemonte Springs City oner Harry Jacobs, chose to keep her maiden name, as she "saw no reason to change it, other than tradition." She shares a practice with her husband in an office in the Pan American building which overlooks busy SR 436 and 1-4, where she sees "about two accidents a day" from the large picture window of her office.

"We've been in this office for two years now and I feel that I'm doing as well if not better than males that I know around here. It helped having a male in the office ... he helps get people over that credibility problem," she says. A native Orlandoan, she was only 23 when she received her degree of juris doctor in 1974 from the University of Miami. She was awarded her masters in May 1976. Attorney Goodman handles corporate, real estate and tax types of law and feels that her sex pases no limitation on her ad-vancement. "It may take a little longer, but I work hard at it,"

And me predicts, "In the next 15 or 29 years, we'll have as many attorneys as men," noting that only five per cent of her class was women when she started, but was 25 percent when she finished. Attorney Goodman supports the ERA. "You hear a lot about the terrible things that will happen... all absolutely ridiculous. Anything in the constitution has to be interpreted by the court, and I feel the court sort of goes along with the mood of the coun-try... I don't think it will automatically change things," she says.

The guest list included Fran Enos, Mitzi McConnell, Susan Ramey, Jody Franks, Sheri Danielson, Bitsy Tristram, Jare Grier, Debbie Bolin and myself. Also present were Beverly's nother and sister, Doris and Charmane, respectively.

Footnote: At the end of the shower, Karen was presented ists of what she had said while opening the gifts. Some of them will be good for laughs for a long time.

South gave the hand interesting play. He won the diamond, played out three rounds of trumps and cashed four clubs in order to discard the eight of diamonds from dummy. The game was match point duplicate and South felt that he had carefully shown West that he, South, had started with one spade, six hearts, two diamonds and four clubs. Nevertheless, West ducked the spade lead that followed without a quiver. South called for durnmy's jack and the defense got west, an old campaigner never said a word except that he felt that the score for six hearts bid and made against him would have been well below sverage and that he wanted to give him-self every chance for aive-ally good score. We think West had another reason for his play. It was that third round of trumps that South had played. He had no reason for that play except to make sure that West would know that South had started with six trumps.
