Accidental Drowning Hinted

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Police say a high-ranking member of the British Parliament who disappeared after telling friends he was going swimming may have drowned.

The Right Honorable John Thomson Stonehouse, 49, a Labor Party member of Parliament since 1957, was last seen on the beach of a local hotel, police said Thursday.

"Everything points to a drowning accident," said police Lt. Jack Webb. "That's what we're treating it as at this time."

A police spokesman said Stonehouse's personal belongings appeared undisturbed in his hotel room after he failed to return Wednesday, and other belongings remained unclaimed at the hotel's cabana.

"He just went swimming and never returned," said Det. Philip Kronski.

Oil Depletion Phase Out?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has approved a bill to phase out the oil depletion allowance and reduce individual income taxes by about $2 billion per year.

If the bill clears the Rules Committee, it would be brought to the House on Dec. 4. If the House passes it, the measure would still face a lengthy, and perhaps fatal fight in the Senate during the waning days of this congressional session.

The Ways and Means Committee vote was 16-4, with all-state representatives on the committee leading the dissent.

Some congressional sources said the legislators will not finish work on the bill before the end of this session. That would mean the 94th Congress arriving in January will be forced to start all over again.

Counterproposal Offered

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Greyhound officials are studying a counterproposal offered by the striking Amalgamated Transit Union in an effort to end a nationwide strike which has idled an estimated 16,000 bus company workers.

The firm spent most of Thursday studying the union's proposal. Details of the package were not revealed.

Negotiations broke off early Thursday to permit the company time to consider the union proposal.

Federal mediators met with each side individually during the day. Mediator Guy Parent said he remains optimistic that a quick end to the strike is possible.

Prosecution Rests

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 6½ weeks of hearing 28 witnesses and more than 20 hours of White House tapes, the prosecution in the Watergate cover-up trial is ready to rest its case.

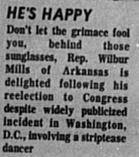

Four relatively minor witnesses, including former White House aide Egil "Bud" Krogh, were testifying today before the defense begins its case, probably Monday.

Tapes May Detail Murders

MACON, Ga. (AP) — A lawyer for Paul John Knowles has agreed to reveal the location of a tape-recorded diary which police believe may provide a trail of violent crime.

Attorney Sheldon Yavitz of Miami, Fla., who previously had refused to lead authorities to the tapes, appeared Thursday at a hearing in West Palm Beach, Fla. He handed over a list of the tapes and their locations to Circuit Judge Russell McIntosh.

The judge read the list, then ordered it sealed.

An FBI agent also testified at the Florida hearing, Yavitz said. After the hearing, Yavitz was returned to Macon where he and his wife were being held on contempt of court charges for refusing to tell a federal grand jury the location of Knowles' diary.

Earlier in the day, two deer hunters discovered the bodies of two men whom Knowles had been charged with kidnapping. The bodies of Florida State Trooper Charles E. Campbell, 35, and James E. Meyer, 29, of Wilmington, Del., were found lying head-to-head in an isolated wooded area about 30 miles south of Macon. Police said each man had been shot in the back of the head about five days before.

The discovery ended an intensive search of central Georgia by hundreds of officers and volunteers. The search began Saturday when Campbell and Meyer were reported to have been kidnapped.

Authorities said they would continue a more limited search of the Macon area for Debbie Griffin, 20, who was believed to have been hitchhiking earlier this month with Edward A. Hilliard of Gainesville, Fla. Hilliard was found shot to death in the Macon area.

Knowles, paroled from a Florida prison last spring, has been charged with murder in the Nov. 6 deaths of Carwell Carr and his 15-year-old daughter, Mandy, of Milledgeville—30 miles northeast of Macon.

Knowles also was charged with kidnapping Campbell and Meyer and with attempted rape in West Palm Beach, the charge which was before Judge McIntosh.

Mondale Quits Dem Race For Presidency in '76

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale has become the second drop-out of the 1976 Democratic presidential race, leaving liberal Democrats at least temporarily without a well-known contender.

Mondale announced his withdrawal Thursday just a few hours after Sen. Henry M. Jackson, who has strong support from party regulars and organized labor, disclosed he has hired a key party organizer for his anticipated candidacy. The Jackson recruit was Robert J. Keefe, 40-year-old executive director of the Democratic National Committee. He will become political director of the still unofficial Jackson campaign Dec. 1.

That will enable him to take charge of the Washington senator's effort at the party's Dec. 6 mini-convention in Kansas City. Candidates and potential candidates will display their wares in Kansas City for some 3,000 top Democrats, many of them likely 1976 convention delegates.

Coming less than two months after the September withdrawal of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, Mondale's surprise decision left Rep. Morris K. Udall of Arizona as the most visible, current liberal candidate against Jackson when the presidential primaries begin 16 months from now.

In fact, Udall's progress in snaring support of key liberals in New Hampshire, the traditional opening primary, was reported to be one factor in Mondale's decision. However, the Minnesota senator insisted, "This is a personal decision on my part and had nothing to do with any other candidate."

Udall is expected to formally declare himself in the presidential race in New Hampshire this weekend. He would be the first official entrant in what will likely be a large Democratic field by early 1976.

Both Jackson and Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia are expected to announce their candidacies next month. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas is another likely candidate, former Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma has spent considerable time in New Hampshire, and Mayor Kevin White of Boston may run there too.

And Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama has made no secret of his plans for a fourth presidential bid.

The Harris poll reported Thursday that Wallace is the most familiar Democratic prospect and the first choice by a slender margin. A poll of 1,265 potential Democratic and independent voters found 39 per cent knew of Wallace and he was the first choice of 19 per cent. He was followed by 1972 contender Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota and Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Mondale, too, had been considered a likely contender, ever since his Minnesota colleague, Hubert H. Humphrey, proclaimed him a future candidate as Mondale swept to re-election in 1972.

But he disclosed at his news conference that as he proceeded his doubts grew. "I found I did not have the overwhelming desire to be President which is essential for the kind of campaign that is required," Mondale said.

HOW TIGHT CAN ONE GET?
Refusing to tighten her belt any further, a New York City demonstrator picketed before a hotel where Secretary of Agriculture Earl Butz spoke. Ellen Catalano said that if she follows Butz's advice, "I'll be a skeleton."

Anti-Irish Feeling High

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — Anti-Irish feeling ran high in Birmingham today after a terrorist bomb blitz that police said killed 13 persons and injured at least 202 in the heart of the industrial city.

The explosions Thursday night wrecked two bars crowded with young people.

The police blamed the Irish Republican Army, whose bombs have killed at least 30 other persons in England in the past two years. The death toll was the heaviest in any bombing in England or Northern Ireland since the war between Roman Catholic and Protestant extremists began in Ulster five years ago.

He said he filed another bill exempting the first $30 of individual electric bills from the municipal utility tax.

Justice Dekle Believed Under Probe

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The Judicial Qualifications Commission is apparently considering for the second time judicial misconduct charges against Supreme Court Justice Hal P. Dekle.

It was uncertain whether the commission, which met until late Thursday, would meet again today because it is keeping its proceedings secret — unlike the trial earlier this week of Justice Joseph A. Boyd Jr. on misconduct charges.

By law, the commission's proceedings are secret unless the accused asks for a public trial.

Commission Chairman Richard Earle has refused comment on what the panel did Thursday behind closed doors in the Supreme Court Building. Dekle's secretary said he would have no comment.

The Tampa Tribune and the Gannett News Service said Thursday that a majority of the 13-member commission had voted in January to remove Dekle from the bench after a decided the utilities could pass part of the corporate income tax costs to their customers.

Much of the evidence brought out in the three-day trial of Boyd referred to Dekle's alleged use of the proposed opinion.

Mason testified that he gave the proposed opinion to Dekle and Boyd. Boyd said Dekle used the proposal in writing what became the court's majority opinion.

Acceptance of a secret memorandum from a lawyer in a case without the other side knowing about it is a violation of the judicial code. Even discussing the merits of a pending case with an attorney outside the courtroom is a violation.

The Tribune and Gannett said Dekle was accused in January of trying to intervene in a Panama City suit involving Miami real estate salesman Sam Jackowitz.

Circuit Judge W.L. Fitzpatrick excused himself from the case on Oct. 5, 1972, apparently after Dekle telephoned him. The newspapers said Dekle intervened on behalf of Jackowitz.

The St. Petersburg Times had reported previously that Dekle was under investigation by the commission in connection with such a telephone call.

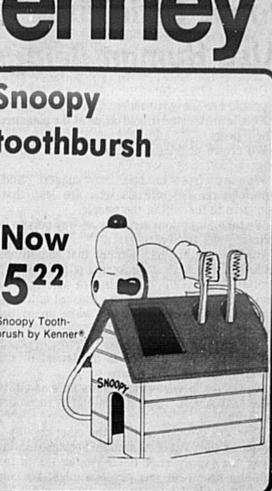

The Tribune and Gannett were defended by attorney Robert Ervin of Tallahassee. Ervin is a brother of Justice Richard Ervin and of Ben Ervin.

Human Side Of Our Economic Downturn

WASHINGTON — Behind the dull statistics, which measure our deepening economic distress, is a poignant human drama. We have conducted our own economic survey to get the human side of the story.

We have sent reporters into the nation's most fashionable neighborhoods and its most scrubby ghettos. We have spoken to the folks on Sen. James Eastland's plantation in Sunflower County, Miss. And we have talked to their impoverished neighbors, who sit on creaking porches with dull eyes and gnawing hunger pains. We have made spot checks on economic conditions across America.

Everywhere, people are complaining about hard times. New York brokers, despairing over the stock market slump are pulling out of their houses and heading South. They hope to find better financial opportunities in Atlanta and Houston.

Ghetto blacks, reversing the previous flow, are also drifting southward. Their families had tended the fields in the Deep South since slave days. Then, suddenly, they were made obsolete by tractors and automatic cotton-pickers. Many of them moved northward to fill up the ghettos of the big cities. They now find life in the ghettos so bleak, so bitter, that those who can scrape up the few dollars are heading back home.

Probably the worst off are the migrant farm laborers, the thousands of faceless men and women and their anonymous children who move with the harvest, stopping only long enough to pick a crop and to earn enough to subsist until the next stop.

The average stoop laborer, according to United Farm Workers official Gilbert Padilla, earns a meager $3,000 a year. For these wandering workers, who move from crop to crop in beat-up trucks, the gasoline price rise has been a disaster.

Even more serious has been the increase in the price of beans from 18 to 69 cents a pound. Many of them moved northward to fill up the ghettos of the big cities. They now find life in the ghettos so bleak, so bitter, that those who can scrape up the few dollars are heading back home.

Not far from this poverty, growers live in baronial splendor, with polo fields parties, shooting and social sores. But if the tinkling of gilded glasses can be heard in their fine houses, there is also much grumbling and

Public Officials Also Human Beings

One of the basic tenets of a democracy is that the people are the government. People are elected to hold office at the pleasure of their peers.

We crown no kings, nor does a man inherit power. We are free to criticize, suggest and, ultimately, remove officials who are less than responsive to the will of the people.

We take our options seriously, as any person in public life will testify. But there is another element that sometimes gets lost in the partisan bickering of politics: We forget that our public officials are also private individuals who pay taxes, curse the cost of living, worry about their children and wake up in the morning with splitting headaches.

Government is, in other words, people, whether the office involved is the lowest or the highest in the power structure. Newspaper reporters and editors are as guilty as the next guy of frequently failing to recognize this distinction.

This was brought to mind the other day by a newspaper story out of Altamonte Springs relating to fear of Councilwoman Helen Keyser that a tax originally levied for one purpose might be continued on the books to serve another purpose.

The story did not specifically say so but, we're afraid, led the impression that somehow or "other" government was poised to commit yet another outrage on the people, that something called City Council would continue to remove from the pockets of Altamonte Springs residents every dollar the traffic would bear.

Well, that may be so, and it would be outrageous if, indeed, City Council was an entity unto itself, some sort of a machine, or maybe a computer, gobbling up our tax dollars to satisfy some obscure appetite having nothing to do with the welfare of the community.

Of course, this simply isn't true. The City Council as with every governmental body empowered to levy and collect taxes is composed of men and women who also pay the tax; there is nothing in the law anywhere that we know of that exempts a man in public office from suffering — along with the rest of us — the consequences of his official actions.

We have been known to hold forth at some length about the competence of office holders and the ineptness of government. We will probably continue to do so in the future.

But we hope that as we write and comment on "government" someone will always be on hand to remind us how these men and women became a part of government in the first place, and that just as soon as the meeting adjourns they too are just as poor, concerned tax payers wondering whether little Nancy's dental work can be postponed for six months.

Traditional School Now Experiment

A funny thing is happening on the way to the gradeless, wall-less and sometimes disciplineless "alternative" school.

Calling it "an ironic and unforeseen development in public education," the Washington-based Council for Basic Education reports that there is a strong and spreading movement to include among alternatives the kind of schools that the alternative approach repudiates.

In other words, the old-fashioned academic school has suddenly become a novel experiment.

In towns and cities where the open classroom concept or some other variation of neo-progressivism has been introduced, the advocates of strong academic schools are arguing before school boards that if experiments in free and unstructured programs are permitted, then experiments in the traditional academic approach should be permitted also.

And in many places, says the council, they are winning the argument.

An example is the Myers Park Traditional Elementary School which opened this fall in Charlotte, N.C., with a full enrollment of 500 pupils and with the proper court-approved racial mix. Over 1,000 applications had been received from parents, black and white, who liked the school's announced emphasis on "back to basics" and its philosophy that teachers know better than grade school students what they need to learn.

Among the features of the program at the school: —The primary concern is the acquiring of basic academic skills, with the school striving to build a positive self-image in each student through academic achievement.

—The curriculum follows a definite progression, building on skills and abilities acquired at each level. Subjects include reading, penmanship (1), spelling, history, English, physical education, art, music and band and orchestra.

—Letter grades will be given in all subjects and report cards will be issued six times a year.

Letter To The Editor

The Christmas season is almost upon us. This year for the third time we are making our services available to braille Christmas cards, free of charge, to anyone in the community. Thus anyone who has a blind friend or relative can send him a Christmas message that he himself can read without depending on others to read it to him. It is our way of saying "thank you" to the community for their interest and support.

Two booths will be set up. One will be located at Orlando Fashion Square and one at The Winter Park Mall, on two dates, Dec. 6th and 13th. The hours are 10:00 a.m. until 4:00 p.m. Both booths will be staffed on both days with certified brailleists happy to braille any message on any cards brought to them. There will be no cards for sale.

We would be most appreciative if you would make this service known to your readers. Thank you for all your past courtesies.

Sincerely, Jeanne S. Gibson, Publicity Chairman, Orange County Brailleists, Inc.

RAY CROMLEY Is Detente Peace On Red Terms?

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — One would think the federal government had learned its lesson from the Russian grain deal of last year. Those U.S.-taxpayer-subsidized shipments hit into so much of our grain we have faced shortages ever since. The shortages have been a principal cause of high food prices — with a domino effect on other consumer goods.

It seemed for a time this year that we had learned our lesson. President Ford stepped in to limit grain shipments to the USSR and developed a control system of sorts. But it turns out we didn't learn much after all. For with the full concurrence of this government and in the name of detente, U.S. industry today is making a series of similar deals with the Russians in high technology and the advanced industrial processes which are the life blood of this country's economic and military security.

The know-how we are preparing to sell the Russians at cut-rate prices and with subsidized loans centers in computers, advanced electronics, sophisticated chemical processes and other fields which provide the industrial and research and development base for military strength. When the Strategic Arms Limitation Agreement was signed, U.S. technological superiority was advertised as the basic reason we need not match the Russian strategic buildup, megaton for megaton. If the Russians are able, with the assistance of this American know-how, to match us in military technology and excess in tonnage, they will assuredly be less cautious in the Middle East, Asia and West Europe, which has shown little ability to stand up to outside pressure.

Leaving military considerations aside, the industrial development assistance Israel poses dangers similar to those of the unfortunate grain deal. When the Russians have the money, they buy in large gulps. Though their purchases may be a very small proportion of total output, they can have tremendous economic impact.

Russia's five-year plans provide for industrial expansion in giant steps with mammoth projects interspersed by lulls. There is not the constant upgrading and rebuilding which characterizes American industry and which normally — but not always as we see so today clearly — keeps our economy on a fairly even course. When U.S. Soviet trade reaches the expected levels as a result of U.S. investments and subsidies, these tremendous Russian purchases in several fields for one, two or three years or so, followed by lulls or shifts to other fields, are likely to accentuate our cycles of boom and recession.

There were a number of individual performances which deserve recognition. Laura Lauer playing the Entertainer on the piano, and as a finale the 200 of us who were there introduced to eighth-grader Emanuel Lester.

He played the piano and sang, "God Bless America." In case you didn't know, the song was introduced originally by beloved Kate Smith — and for many years, she alone was permitted to sing it over the networks. NO ONE ELSE!

Tuesday night, some of that earlier adoration for Ms. Smith rubbed-off onto this young performer — creating a five-minute standing ovation at the conclusion of his song. I have never heard anyone sing a song with so much emotion in all my life.

And if by chance, you are in charge of providing a speaker for your service club, do yourself and your members a favor by inviting Emanuel Lester (God Bless America), and Lewis Dorton (National Anthem) to sing for you.

Burglary Millions Found in Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI has disclosed that about $2.2 billion of the $4.3 million stolen Oct. 20 in the largest cash burglary in U.S. history has been found under fresh cement in a West Side basement.

Federal and local officials said Thursday night the money was found in the basement of a bungalow, buried in a seven-foot hole and covered with five inches of fresh cement.

Most of the $10 and $20 denominations, authorities said. The house belonged to Dorothy Marrera, the grandmother of one of the six men charged in connection with the robbery.

Officials said Mrs. Marrera has been ill and was living with her daughter. Her grandson, Ralph Marrera, was the guard on duty at the Purulotor Security, Inc., vault the night the money was taken.

U.S. Atty. James R. Thompson praised the cooperation of law enforcement agencies which helped in the recovery. He refused, however, to say who tipped off authorities.

Thompson said the money was found by agent Maureen Higgins. The six men were arrested within 10 days of the burglary and charged with bank larceny, bank burglary and illegal use of explosives. They are being held in lieu of bond.

Authorities believe a large part of the balance still missing may be in banks in the Bahamas, where two of those charged were arrested. The banks of the Bahamas, which operate under the Swiss rules of secrecy, have refused to divulge how much was deposited by the men arrested.

Charged in the theft in addition to Marrera are James Matias, 53, of Worth; Peter J. Gushi, 47, of Oak Lawn; Pasquale Charles Marzano, 42, of Cicero; William Anthony Marzano, 41, his cousin, and Luigi M. Difonzo, 27.

Pentagon Reshuffling Bases

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today announced a coast-to-coast reshuffling and reduction of military bases and headquarters that will eliminate about 11,600 civilian jobs and transfer 11,500 Army and Air Force personnel over the next 2 1/2 years.

The moves are aimed chiefly at shifting about $500 million a year from support functions to increased combat capability. The unformed personnel will be sent to combat and combat-related assignments. The 110 "base realignment actions," as the Pentagon called them, will affect dozens of installations.

But only two major bases were ordered closed — the Army's Frankford Arsenal in Philadelphia and Ellington Air Force Base, Houston, Tex. One congressional source said about half of the civilian employees offered transfer could be expected to quit their defense jobs rather than relocate.

Many Army, Air Force and Defense Supply Agency depots, laboratories and offices will lose manpower and womanpower, but some will gain. Net losses will range from about 2,000 civilian jobs at the Frankford Arsenal to as few as a dozen in some small offices, officials said.

Beside the Frankford Arsenal, the biggest losses will be Ellington, Pueblo Army Depot, Colo.; Blue Grass Army Depot, Lexington, Ky.; Griffis Air Force Base, Rome, N.Y.; and Richards-Gebaur Air Force Base near Kansas City, Mo. Officials said civilian jobs will be reduced by a net of at least 1,000 at each base.

Under the plan, Chino, who will sign an initial contract for 13 weeks at $300 a week, will produce public service films to be shown on educational television throughout Florida. The films, aimed at various educational themes, will use a technique that Chino, 58, helped pioneer. The system uses three-dimensional characters made of clay, rather than the usual painted characters, in animated films.

At the earlier hearing, Chino said personal problems led to his failure to report for a military physical. "I recognize completely the mistake I made," said Chino.

It can be, and no doubt in your case is, a difficult disease. It can become chronic with recurring attacks of severe diarrhea and bleeding. Weight loss is not gone into remission and you have not done well with good medical treatment, then it is. At one time it was often a good choice.

As you know the most common features of the disease are diarrhea, often with blood and mucus, and lower abdominal crampy pain. The symptoms are variable. Some people even have changes in the rectum or lower colon and have few, if any, noticeable symptoms. Others have severe diarrhea, hemorrhage and complications such as perforation of the colon.

Don't waste your time on allergy tests. They won't help solve your problem. And, forget about the emotional problems, they often go along with the disease, and you may find out that your problems in this area are markedly improved when you have improved physically. Now, not everyone needs surgery for ulcerative colitis, but in selected cases that have not gone into remission and you have not done well with good medical treatment, then it is. At one time it was often a good choice.

Amur Fish To Fight Pollution

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — The state Cabinet will be asked to approve experiments to take advantage of the Chinese grass carp's rate of growth and its taste for weeds.

If the experiments are successful, the grass carp, or white amur, may help solve some of the state's water-pollution problems while in turn being used as a source of food, officials said Thursday.

The amur is already being used to help clear weeds from four major lakes in Florida. It has not yet been used in pollution-control efforts or as a major food source.

Under one program going before the Cabinet next Tuesday, water weeds — duckweed, water hyacinth, salvinia and water lettuce — and the amur would be stocked in ponds where partially treated sewage water is stored.

The weeds would absorb 40 to 50 per cent of the excess nutrients in the water. In turn, the weeds would be eaten by the carp.

THOUGHTS

He will swallow up death for ever, and the Lord God will wipe away tears from all faces, and the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth; for the Lord has spoken. — Isaiah 25:8.

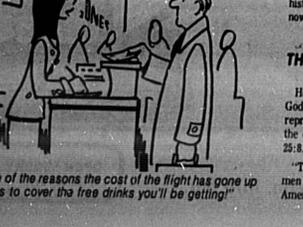

"Tears are often the telescope through which men see far into heaven." — Henry W. Beecher, American clergyman.

Around The Clock

Reflections... all of us, I suppose, have been waiting and hoping there would be an improvement in the national picture. Obviously, Watergate had a depressing and gut-laden effect few of us dared hope to consider. And then to have the present dylematic economic situation evolve so rapidly, it's a wonder we all haven't jumped from our rooftops. (Since they're usually only one story high, that alone gives reason for moving to Florida, right?)

"What I was looking for was a patriotic 'spine tinner'." Leave it to the kids. They'll bring it around. Last Friday night, during halftime of the Seminole-Seabreeze football game, a young fellow by the name of Lewis Dorton sang the National Anthem — without any accompaniment. He was outstanding. Four nights later, while watching the Lakeview Middle School 4-voice chorus perform at Idylwild Elementary School, I had the shivers all over again. Within a short period of nine weeks since the start of this school year, the director Ms. Rastom has blended

Fat Diet, Breast Cancer Related?

By GAYNOR MADDOX
The Herald Services

American women have been jolted awake by the unexpected threat of breast cancer. The mastectomies on Betty Ford, our First Lady, and Happy Rockefeller, wife of the vice-president designate, have spotlighted dramatically how suddenly cancer can strike. Today, every woman wants to know "have I got it and what can I do to prevent it?"

Among many institutions working on the answers to these questions is the American Health Foundation. Its senior epidemiologist Rebecca Gantt observes: We would hope that moderation of the diet would lower the rate of cancer of the breast. We cannot say so definitely. But several studies indicate that there is a positive correlation between cancer of the breast and high intake of animal fats.

Studies at Harvard University School of Public Health indicate also that a high degree of animal fats in the diet may definitely be related to breast cancer. A spokesman for the department of epidemiology says: "High cholesterol levels in the blood are caused by a diet high in animal fats. We have known for a long time that high cholesterol and heart disease are related. Now we are learning from research in many sectors that elevated cholesterol may be connected with cancer of the breast. "Cholesterol is the starting material from which the body makes sex hormones. We also know that some female sex hormones influence the metabolism of breast tissue. It is, therefore, logical to say that the female sex hormones may have some association with breast abnormality," the Harvard scientist concludes. Surveys show that in the United States breast cancer has been on the increase for many years. Our women have been indulging in diets more heavily laden with animal fats during those years. That means they have been regularly eating red meats such as beef, pork and lamb, cheese, butter, cream, whole milk, ice cream and eggs — all great carriers of saturated fats.

Flower Power Is New Mood 'Upper'

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Some people can predict the mood of the public by watching the stock market averages. But former actor Jon Peterson, 38, uses a different gauge — the sales trend of the artificial flowers he designs. When people are dispirited they look for more gaiety in the things that surround them, he has observed. Then, too, the hand-made flowers become more popular as real flowers become higher-priced.

mainly runs to earth colors, yellow and other bright-colored flowers are making inroads. In the south yellow and orange are popular. Peterson has been making flowers for 14 years and now has a staff of 30 helpers, mostly handicapped who work on one of three shifts which start at 5 a.m. Some mutes work in their homes. The enterprise has become so popular, he continues to expand the North Hollywood factory.

In addition to flower arrangements made for individuals, he designs decorative arrangements for department stores, hotels and movie productions and these, too, are more in demand. He designed a 12-foot floral madonna for the film, "Day of the Locusts," and the largest item he has made — a 45-foot orange tree — went to Florida.

Some people select their own containers, he says. Lucille Ball chose a butter churn when she ordered daisies for dress designer Edith Head, he says. Jack Cassidy's blue beehive buttons are in a big basket in his den. Lighter blues fade fast, Patterson says, so they are not so popular.

"A big demand for yellows, oranges, tiger lilies and brilliant oversized poppies indicates people want to be cheered," he says. "During bad times people always choose happy colors like yellow, and they use more flowers in their homes."

His own favorite flower is the daisy, and his "very good friend" — June Allyson shares his enthusiasm for the flower. She has his pink and white daisies "all over her house" and he has made pink silk roses for her bedroom and a perennial Easter basket — papier mache eggs that are hard to distinguish from the real thing.

One of the newer looks combines artificial and real flowers — baby's breath, eucalyptus and ferns, he comments. He uses real branches of forsythia and apple, gluing little yellow and pink silk flowers to them, "which should last forever."

After a time working in some movies and a time working with dress designers, Peterson found a job in a flower shop when he was out of work. Later he started his own flower business buying flowers of Japanese and Czechoslovakian origin and dying them painstakingly by hand with a paint brush. Six years ago he acquired a company with its unique collection of dyes, vintners (used in veining flowers), molds and presses, many from France and no longer manufactured. He surmises his enterprise may be the last in the United States making silk flowers by hand from start to finish.

For example, in Michigan where they usually favor blue or lime colored flowers, and in New York where the taste narrowly runs to earth colors, yellow and other bright-colored flowers are making inroads. In the south yellow and orange are popular.

Askew: Tide Turns On ERA

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew told the Commission on the Status of Women Wednesday that he was hopeful the Florida Legislature would ratify the Equal Rights Amendment during the 1975 session.

The ERA, hotly contested in Florida, has failed in three previous legislatures. But Askew said he saw signs that the tide was turning in favor of the amendment to the U.S. Constitution. However, he urged commissioners to work hard to assure that the ERA does pass.

"Commission members must continue a vigorous education program to allay the mistaken beliefs about the Equal Rights Amendment," Askew said. "Again we must inform the public not only what ERA will do but what it won't do."

"I would not want history to record that Florida, which was recorded as not being a state to ratify women's suffrage, would once again vote to be a state to deny all people equal rights," he added.

Askew said approval by the Florida Legislature could be the impetus needed to get the required four other states to ratify the amendment into the Constitution.

DEAR ABBY Nominees For Heel Of Year

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I would like to nominate my ex-husband for "Heel of the Year." I divorced him 15 years ago, so he could marry another woman. At the time we had a five-year-old son and a three-year-old daughter.

After the first year he forgot all about child support. I had a good job, so I never bothered him.

Last year, our son enlisted in the Air Force. Five months later he was killed in a training accident.

Abby, that boy saw his father maybe a dozen times in the last 15 years. His father never remembered his son on his birthday or Christmas either.

Guess who showed up at our son's funeral? His father! Now for the unbelievable part: my ex-husband told me at the funeral that he was "entitled to half our son's G.I. insurance. (The insurance was made out to me.) I told him where to go, and he said he plans to sue me. And he probably will.

Have you ever heard anything to equal that?

SHOCKED IN CHICAGO

DEAR SHOCKED: No. But if any of my readers have, they'll probably let me know. Does anyone else care to nominate a candidate for "Heel of the Year."

DEAR ABBY: My brother and his wife are secretly married. My husband and I stood up for them. Brother is 31, and Ellen (made up name) is 27.

Brother and Ellen do not live together. She lives with her parents and he has his own apartment.

Ellen has not yet told her parents that she is married and she has given my brother orders not to give away the secret. I think she's ashamed of him, which really upsets me because he is a super guy.

They finally told my parents. Abby, they've been married a year. Last week my parents had a little anniversary celebration party for them. Her folks weren't invited because they still haven't been told about the marriage. It was all so one-sided and weird.

I cannot understand why Ellen won't tell her folks. Neither she nor brother has been married before, there is no racial or religious conflict and my brother doesn't have two heads. In fact, he is very handsome. What do you make of this?

"B" IN SAN MATERO

DEAR "B": I don't know Ellen's reason for keeping her marriage a secret, but whatever it is, it's not your problem. It's hers and your brother's.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing to you because although I am on good terms with my doctor and know him for years I am ashamed to ask him this question.

Ten years ago my husband died. Last year I fell in love again, and the gentleman is five years younger than I am. I am 63.

For the last 30 years I have had no menstruation, having had my menopause completed at age 53. Can you please tell me if there is any possibility of my becoming pregnant now? I am in good health and do not look anywhere near my age. (I'm told I look about 60.) Do not use my name or location please.

WANTS TO KNOW

DEAR WANTS: No danger.

Mystery Man Revealed But Questions Unanswered

The so-called mystery man who was supposed to save the Florida Blazers from extinction was finally revealed before Thursday night's play-off game with the Philadelphia Bell.

But after questioning Robert D. Prentice, 58, of Cocoa Beach about why the team was bought, how much it cost, and who's going to run the Blazers, one came away still wondering "who owns the Florida Blazers."

Further questioning revealed that the gray haired Prentice is strictly a businessman, owning both a mortgage and securities company as well as being involved in several other companies, but not a sports fan.

It seems that Prentice hasn't sunk any of his own money into the team, but as he stated while presenting a check for $1.5 million, "I know how to get the money and stocks."

Prentice arranged the deal, but with whom nobody seems to know or at least no one's saying.

When asked about the rumor of an Arab oil interest in the team, Prentice replied, "I wouldn't know an Arab if I saw one."

The former resident of Buffalo, N.Y., who has been in Florida 10 years said he got involved in the team's purchase because his four sons like football and it's a close drive from Brevard County to watch football.

He said he considers himself the so-called board chairman, and doesn't foresee any change in the management of the team since his athletic interest is non-existent.

Prentice pointed to Channel Two sportscaster Ken Brown, who was standing along side as the catalyst in the deal. "We had some extra money to invest and he (Brown) contacted us about the possibility of buying the Blazers."

His statements that, "I can't even find the football and I didn't even get my uniform dirty when I played in high school," were borne out as Prentice seldom observed the action on the field from his vantage point in the press box, and departed before the end of the game.

So with all these facts in hand, many questions remain unanswered as to who actually calls the shots at the top, and where the money came from. It's hard to conceive that investors would put that kind of finances into not only a shaky franchise, but also a shaky league and not have their own people run the day to day operations rather than the present management which did such a wonderful job of bankrupting the franchise.

Regardless where the finances came from, the Blazers locker room was filled with excitement from not only winning, but as one Blazer player said, "today is D day." The team is supposed to get all its back pay today.

Defense Does It, Blazers Win 18-3

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Florida Blazer Coach Jack Pardee had one word for his team's Thursday night World Football League playoff victory over the Philadelphia Bell — defense.

"It was the defense that opened it up with the big turnovers," Pardee said, "and that's what it takes to win."

The Blazer defense, the toughest in the WFL, scored one touchdown and prevented another in advancing Florida to a semifinal playoff against Memphis next week in Tennessee.

Safety Rickie Harris scored with less than two minutes gone in the first quarter when he scooped up a fumble by Bell running back Claude Watts and scampered 32 yards down the sidelines for the TD.

"I thought at first it was a dead ball," said Harris, a nine-year veteran of the National Football League, "and I was waiting for the whistle all the way."

Philadelphia coach Ron Warren, who watched the play from only a few yards away, said there was no question in his mind that the ball was dead.

"It was a late whistle," Warren complained. "The TD shouldn't have counted. I think the call was ridiculous."

The Blazer defense starred again late in the third quarter on a goal line stand that had the sparse crowd of 9,712 hardcore Florida fans yelling so loud that it took Bell quarterback King Corcoran four tries to get off an audible snap.

The Bell was handed a first and goal from the two as the result of a pass interference call against Blazer cornerback Billie Hayes, but was unable to score.

Defensive end John Ricca, who recovered another Watts fumble earlier in the quarter, threw a screen for an 11-yard loss and the Bell was penalized another 10 yards for holding.

Bell kicker Jerry Warren ended the series with a 35-yard field goal, but the score was nullified by another penalty.

Warren gave Philadelphia its only points in the second quarter on a 37-yard field goal, but missed on a 27-yard try in the opening period.

Florida's second touchdown came on a 54-yard pass from quarterback Bob Davis to tight end Greg Latta, and kicker Dave Strook added a 24-yard field goal in the fourth quarter after missing on boots of 47, 45 and 37 yards.

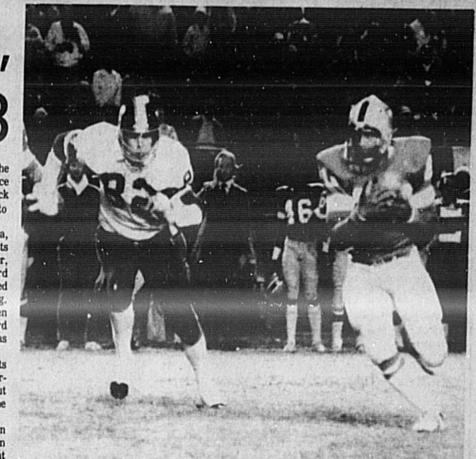

The Blazer secondary, which ranks second in the league, also intercepted Corcoran twice and held the WFL's No. 2 passer to 127 yards on 11 of 32 pass attempts.

Blazer players, some of whom had threatened to boycott the game because they hadn't been paid in 12 weeks, had their spirits lifted shortly before the kickoff when the head of a new group of investors in the franchise delivered a check for $1.5 million to cover outstanding debts.

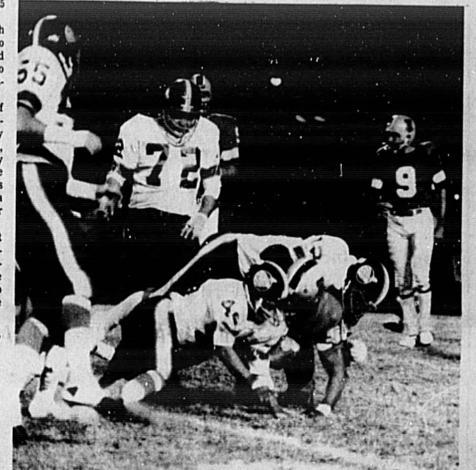

Mob Prentice, an investment specialist from Cape Canaveral, Fla., said the check represented a down payment for the sale of the club, but refused to disclose the total purchase price.

Jeff 'All America'

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — When crowds at Texas Ranger games began increasing this season, center fielder Cesar Tovar look a whistle to the outfield. "I blow the whistle," said Tovar "because I do not wish to collide with Mr. America (Jeff Burroughs)."

The 23-year-old Burroughs has been one of the bright stars for Manager Billy Martin's Texans.

Grid Season Ends Tonight

This is it, the last full schedule of Friday night football in Seminole County and for some of the county teams a welcome date, although successful Lake Brantley High School, named to play in the Rotary Bowl Dec. 6, and a not so successful Seminole High School square off next Wednesday in the season finale.

Last year's game went to New Smyrna, and the Cudas are strong again this year and are currently riding 7-1 after losing their opener.

One thing in Ovidio's favor, the Cudas may be looking past the Lions as their annual showdown with Astronaut is scheduled next week. Astronaut is currently unbeaten.

New Smyrna will have to stop the high scoring Lions, as even unbeaten Astronaut two weeks ago to and Lake Brantley last week, Ovidio is currently 4-4 and with the win tonight assures them a winning season. A loss breaks them even for the season.
