

Cardinal Rookie Is New Sensation In Big League Ball

By GLENN WILLIAMS
AP Features
ST. LOUIS—Razzle-dazzle Braxle you can call him, and have a tailor-made euphemism to label the Cardinal rookie who has plenty of stuff to make him the pitching sensation of the World Series. Because there's no doubt that Braxle, his first name is Alpha, and they call him Al—has the ability to tame the Yankees.

While the Cardinal pitching staff was sinking into sore arm doldrums in July, Braxle was putting up 40 2-3 consecutive scoreless innings with the Redbird farm at Sacramento, a last place club.

So the Cards asked him in. He had won 11 and lost 7 for a team which had taken only 24 ballgames in three months.

For the then hard pressed Cardinals he started against Bos-

Florida's new million dollar air base for servicing the fleet of Clippers that carry more than 100,000 passengers between the Americas each year. It is maintained by Pan American Airways from 12 to 15 planes at one time, covers two and a half square acres of ground area and contains an acre of paved space.

Columbus Day Is Recognized By Local Kiwanians

While ships rotted at the docks, the people were distressed that they could secure no more spices.

boy Columbus, wanting to know what lay in the distance. Mr. Lawton stated that it was this spirit of wanting to know that brought about human progress; but that it took heroes who had vision and were willing to risk their lives to succeed in bringing such visions to fruition.

He also mentioned that 500 years prior to the landing of Columbus in America, Leif Ericson, Norwegian discoverer, had discovered trans-Atlantic country, probably Labrador, but that this discovery had but little influence upon the old world.

Capt. George Woods, who at the request of Manager Howard Long, has been named as the playing manager of the Kiwanis softball team, stated that a civic club all star team is being chosen from among the Kiwanis, Rotary and Lions Clubs members, and a game is expected to be arranged with the executive officers at the Sanford Naval Air Station to be played in the near future.

Next Tuesday evening, the Civic Club All Stars will play high school boys who are members of the Boys' Club. Capt. Woods announced. Proceeds of the game will be devoted to purchase of boxing paraphernalia and other equipment for the Boys Club, he stated.

The Rev. George Ziemer, athletic director of Seminole High School, and coach for the Celeste Feds, stated that he believes the Feds were doing "just fine", and that they should have won from Mainland, Daytona's Buccaneers, who were Northeast conference champions last year. Pete Brock, of the Feds and of the Key Club, also introduced as a guest, stated he believed the Feds would beat Memorial Hospital. So great was the excitement last evening that announcer Ned Smith's voice gave out, and he was replaced by veteran announcer Frank Evans of Lake Mary. The Lions took the lead in the first inning, with 2 runs to 2 and held it until the sixth when the Rotarians knocked in 11 runs.

The Rev. Joe Tolle, who in church preaches "Thou Shall Not Steal" violated this rule last evening by stealing home base and in the second inning ruimed a Lion rally by making several sensational catches that robbed them of sure hits. He also ran bases for G. W. Spencer, who pitched a bewildering assortment of knuckle balls to the Lions, and at bat made four hits result in four runs.

At the very start of the game Prof. R. E. Kipp bounced a hard liner off third baseman George Thurston's glove. Spencer and Doc Eppa both sacrificed. Alvin Spangler and G. W. Williams double to center field then resulted in two runs. Roy Hollerzfiel and the Lions came back with five runs as their slugging lineup cut loose with a barrage of hits. Bill Ludwig, John Melisch, Joe Moss (who went out trying to steel third) and Jake Adams, Glenn Lingle drew a pass good for a round trip of the bases.

The second inning was pitched by Pitcher Spencer that resulted in six runs. The Lions came back with six runs of their own on eight hits.

Rotary failed to score in the fourth, leaving Spencer and Eppa stranded on base, and the Lions increased their lead to four runs on singles by Ludwig, Lingle and Jake Adams. Doubles by Tolle and Eppa hit Tolle and two easily get in. Rotary four runs and tied the score in the first half of the fifth inning. The Lions then scored one run. Rotary then got loose in the sixth, and with nine runs and the lead the Lions could not mistake.

Umpires were Frank Lamson and Charles Morrison on bases and Capt. George Woods behind the plate.

Advertisers Get Economy Hints On Newsprint

2 Associations Offer Tips On Helping Papers Keep Quota

NEW YORK CITY, Oct. 12 (UPI)—Suggestions to advertisers on methods of co-operating with the newspapers in the saving of newsprint necessitated by the decrease in supplies were made last Saturday by the newspaper committee of the Association of National Advertisers and the American Association of Advertising Agencies.

The committees praised publishers' efforts in reducing by limiting circulation and by internal operating economies. Recognition also was given to the facts "that the newspaper publisher's primary responsibility is to his readers and that publishers will strive to maintain the same high standards of editorial quality and public service as before."

Committee's Suggestions

The advertising committees made the following recommendations:

"Publishers advise that optional insertion dates represent one of the most effective methods in which advertisers and agencies can help them to stay within newsprint consumption quotas without limiting space. We therefore urge, as a wartime emergency measure, that advertisers and agencies co-operate in publishing in advance optional insertion dates whenever possible and that as wide a leeway as practical be given."

"We also urge that, where insertion orders providing optional insertion dates express preference for specific days, publishers should make every effort to accommodate by publishing the advertising on the preferred days."

"It is suggested that, if, despite all savings of paper as so effected, some publishers should find it necessary to allocate advertising space this should be restricted to advertisements of the newspaper over a period of years characterized by normal operations."

"Also it is suggested that space should be open to new advertisers with due respect to the fair treatment of old advertisers."

"It is our feeling at this time, that if space to national advertisers must be limited, it should be allocated in terms of total lineage to be made available over a period of time, rather than by limiting the size of individual advertisements."

Other Recommendations

"We further suggest the following additional ways in which advertisers and agencies can help to minimize the need for space allocation measures:

- (a) That information as to insertion dates, size and dimensions of copy be released as far in advance as possible in order to help publishers to plan issues well in advance.
- (b) It is recommended that fast-minute receipt of orders and specifications increases as much as the publishers problem.
- (c) That insertion orders and printing materials be sent far enough in advance to permit publishers to take full advantage of optional insertion dates extended.
- (d) That the furnishing of orders, instructions, proofs and plates be accompanied at all times, as far as possible. This should tend to reduce handling costs, relieve man power shortages and minimize confusion, as well as aid publishers in planning.
- (e) That fast-minute cancellations be avoided as far as possible during the present emergency."

The committees reported that the minimum requirements for fourth quarter of 1943 are estimated at 964,000 tons on the basis of consumption permitted by existing War Production Board orders, while the maximum supply for this period is 870,000 tons. It was reported that the publishers have elected to take the difference out of inventories and to continue their economies.

Japan's Blows Started, Ended Fateful Decade

Envoy To China Ca- bled In '31 Manchurian Attack Meant War

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13.—The fateful decade, 1931-'41, began and ended with acts of violence by Japan, the State Department pointed out in releasing documents to accompany its white paper publication, "Peace and War."

The very first of these documents, a telegram to the department from Peiping Sept. 21, 1931, reciting the opinion of Nelsan F. Grew, then Minister to China, that "it is my conviction that the attack taken by Japan in Manchuria on Sept. 18, 1931, definitely came from the first batch of cables and messages from the Foreign Ministry of Japan to the Chinese government, and was intended to underline the intent of Japan to dominate the areas under our control after what the press to the world."

The man who headed the department involved in the Manchurian incident, involved in the Manchurian incident, was Secretary of State Cordell Hull, in the Hoover administration, who started immediately his study of opposing forces when he was to be found the same day the Japanese cables were sent.

He called a conference for a peaceful discussion of the dispute under the Kellogg-Briand pact, disavowing war as a means of international settlement to which Japan and China both were signatories.

Grew Wrote in 1932

Yet the following year, in August 1933, Grew wrote to Secretary Stimson that, here in Japan the deliberate building up of public animosity against foreign nations in general and the United States in particular has doubtless the purpose of strengthening the hand of the military in its Manchurian venture."

In a subsequent conversation with Ambassador Dobrynin, Mr. Stimson recalled that the United States recognized the right of Japan to live her own way provided she did not break treaties which she had made.

From these tenets sprang the policy which guided the American government in the ensuing nine years.

The policy, taken up by the Roosevelt Administration, was undertaken by Secretary of State Hull in a memorandum to Ambassador Grew in Tokyo, dispatched Sept. 2, 1934, in which he said:

"American public opinion has been outraged by the methods in strategy employed by the conductors, particularly by the Japanese military, and has become gradually more critical of Japan's conduct."

Mr. Hull and his associates had a policy of good neighborly relations with Japan which was subsequently adhered to until the growing crisis of 1939-41.

Grew's Warnings Increased

At the time the message from Ambassador Grew increased with regard to the intent of Japan. On Sept. 12, 1939, he cabled: "What ever the intentions of the present Japanese government may be, there cannot be any doubt that the military and other elements in Japan see in the present situation a golden opportunity to carry their dreams of expansion into effect. The German victories like strong wine have gone to their heads."

Comments at the Department as to why more of these diplomatic warnings had not made日本 with regard to Germany and Italy as well as the time of their receipt, to recall the response that the need for maintaining friendly relations with the Axis countries was such that diplomats would not permit themselves to be regarded as provocateurs.

These implants of war and malice have been the result of the Germanic traits of the Japanese, particularly the racialism of the Japanese, according to the cable.

IN THE RACE DEAD?

(From The Washington Post)

IS THE race dead which had the Mud Men in women's work square?

Who called upon her countrymen
And taught them to dare?

Are of Arc, turn your breast!

Win friends!

Handle people truly, tactfully,

With the hand of your home

Keep personally happy.

Act confidently and with poise.

Manage yourself intelligently and firmly.

Aid your health with a free conscience.

Be natural and clear and informed about sex.

Voluntarily arise, lead our advancement.

To lift against the flag of France!

Let us all do what we did!

And bear the laurels of the laurel.

Undusted, overwhelmed, he stood
Till the world's last day.

By the sword, take up your noble lance!

To save the world, which you held

Danton.

What now men at Valmy fall?

What watchet its naked arms!

It was

The trumpet's call!

Defend more your fame and field!

Two Week Trips To Europe Are Seen As Post War Vacation

By CLAYTON IRWIN
AP Features Writer

VLAIMIR YOUNKEVITCH's contribution to the field of post-war travel is a super-class ocean liner which, for $150, will take you to Europe, let you spend a week in Paris or London, and get you back on the job by the time your two week's vacation is over.

This super liner is no mere dreamer; he is native to Russia, and is now in New York. He designed the hull of the Normandie for its French builders and has the proposed 100,000 tonner drawn up in paper, complete to the last welded seam and mortise. He hopes to see someone start building the ship within a few weeks after the war ends.

It would be a floating city of 7,000 persons, 1,000 passengers and 1,000 crew, four times as long as a football field and capable of reaching Europe in four days at a speed of 36 knots an hour. It would have none of the "Normandie's" interior decor, state rooms and great number of moderately priced cafeteria. One of the few fancy touches would be the accommodation in the hold of 500 automobiles and a number of airplanes.

The superstructure would be built with a single funnel, located astern and mounted quickly into an ed at the side, so the ship could aircraft carrier larger than any now afloat.

Roughly speaking, it would be a fifth again as large as the Normandie—1,200 feet long and with a beam of 133 feet, displacing 83,000 tons.

The ship could make 20 round trips a year, and at $150 a passenger, Younkovich says, it would show a profit and reasonable amortization one the $60,000 construction cost.

The Russian designer does not believe the widespread optimism over prospects of post-war ocean air travel. It will not be a serious competitor of the shipping trade for some time, he says, because it will accommodate only a limited number of passengers at a rate probably out of the reach of the average American.

On the other hand, he feels the United States, after the war, will be the only country financially and technically equipped for the construction of such a ship. He believes the war will stimulate interest in trans-Atlantic travel to Europe, perhaps even to a greater degree than in 1939, when some 1,000,000 passengers were carried by ship between the U.S. and Europe.

Chip Royal Makes Effort To Choose Best Ball Players

By CHIP ROYAL

AP Features Sports Editor
NEW YORK—Up there pot bellied in his cardigan and pull up your chairs around that pot-bellied stove, and we'll get down to the business of reviewing the past baseball season.

It is time to let the leaves fall where they may and select the most valuable players. There's about an all-star team, and all those who disappointed or made good on the majors' diamonds.

As long as the National League is the senior loop, let's glance at that first. There are lots of candidates for the most valuable players award. The Cards have two, Stanley Musial and Walker Cooper; the Reds have Edsel Crabtree, the Dodgers, Billy Herman; the Pirates, Bill Sowell; the Cubs, Bill Nicholson, and so it goes down the lake.

Wait a lake! Musial, the greatest hitter to step up in the National League, according to no less a personage than the great Dizzy Dean.

A lot of Walker Cooper fans will dispute this choice, but that's the problem of choice. He's a lot of pitcher and has done a lot for the Southworthians this year, but we dread to think what would have happened if they didn't have Musial's bat.

Stan not only pounded the pill for a .367 average, but made 10 triples (10 runs). He also led the league with 47 doubles and 20 triples which you must agree is smacking that old pill.

Over in the American League,

Spud Chandler of the Yanks stands head and shoulders above Rudy York of the Tigers, Luke Appling of the White Sox, Vernon Dwyer of the Browns, and any others you can mention for valuable player honors.

Chandler finished the regular season with 20 wins against four losses and an earned run average of 2.60, the best he has had in the junior circuit since 1939 when Walter Johnson went 200 innings for an e.r.a. of 1.40.

Going a little further, Spud pitched five shutouts, nine one-run games, and didn't give an opposing team more than three runs in any one contest. He completed 26 out of 30 games and struck out enemy batters.

Try to find an American League player who helped his team more than Chandler!

The all-star team selected from players in both leagues is next:

Their records speak for themselves. The hardest choices to make were Wakefield and the Cardinal's of the Tigers and Vince DiMaggio of the Pirates and Appling over Vaughn of the Dodgers.

Getting down to the rookies of the year, Johnson is so far ahead of Wakefield, Ed Stanky of the Cards, and Klein of the Cards, Ralph Hearn being way outright of the White Sox that there are no comparisons.

The Yankees, from owner Ed Barrow right down to Pat O'Doherty, the bat boy, can't say enough about the capabilities of third sackers to wear a Yankee Red.

Johnson. They already are calling him the youngster one of the greatest

Germans Retreat

A Berlin broadcast said German forces along the Calore river at the center of the Italian line had retreated to new positions in the mountains near Correto, Correto eight miles west of Pescantolo, whose capture the Allies announced yesterday.

In the day's most telling aerial assault, American Mitchell medium bombers escorted by light-bomber fighters rained bombs on a Nazi airfield on Corfu, strategic Greek island dominating the entrance to the Adriatic. In addition to raking the Garitsa airfield, the Mitchells scored two direct hits on a merchant ship in Corfu harbor.

In the job for the first manager-general of the Negro who brought a mixture of players from other teams into second place.

Hitter who flopped—Lou Novak, the Cub's outfielder who wound up on the bench after holding out about six weeks.

Best comeback—Rip Sowell who used an "epic pitch" to win 21 games while losing nine.

The new bases, made available to Britain immediately, will give

Pfc. Lambert Palmer
Ends Special Course

Pfc. Lambert R. Palmer, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Palmer of 914 Myrtle Avenue, has just been graduated from Aero Tech, Los Angeles, Cal., in an intensive course in ground crew mechanics under the Army Air Forces Technical Training Command. Subsequently he has been assigned to an active Air Force Unit.

Pfc. Palmer entered the first class in Jan. 1942 of the Aircraft Engine Mechanics course conducted by veteran aviator Dudley McCloud, whose pupils became adept that many of them could assemble an aircraft engine blindfolded. After completing this course, Mr. Palmer, who was described as an exceptionally good pupil, was sent to Lynn Field, Savannah, where he made a fine record. He returned to Sanford to enlist in the Army Air Corps. He formerly attended Seminole High School.
