Castrating rapists

Senate OKs bill; state attorney favors prison time

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Keeping convicted rapists behind bars to serve more of their sentences is the approach the local state attorney favors for reducing incidents of rape rather than relying on a chemical castration bill which he strongly opposes.
State Attorney Norm Wolfinger, who serves Seminole and Brevard counties, said the chemical castration bill may be well intended, but he favors keeping rapists in prison away from society as the way to reduce repeat offenses.

Under a bill passed by the Senate Wednesday, the state could force rapists convicted of a second offense to take drugs to reduce their sex

Insight: House of Representatives

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Rep. Marvin Couch, R-Oviedo, said this morning he doubts the House will take up the chemical castration bill approved by the Senate Thursday. Couch, a member of the Criminal Justice Committee, said he spoke with committee chairman Rep. Elvin Martinez yesterday and was told the committee would not take up additional bills after the public nudity bill next week.

Couch said he was uncertain if he supports the concept, but adds he would have to be convinced of its effectiveness.
"It sounds pretty drastic to me," said Couch. "It depends on the testimony, but I'd have to be convinced."

Battling AIDS

Concern grows: Senior citizens realizing risk

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

Editor's note: This is one part of an occasional series on how AIDS is affecting residents of Seminole County.

LAKE MARY — The word has gone out. Senior citizens are not immune. They must become more aware of AIDS problems.

Statistics show 178 AIDS diagnosis for persons 50 and over, as of Feb. 1, of this year, in the tri-county area of Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties.

"The problem is," said Paulee Stevens, "older people believe it doesn't concern them, and many say they don't even want to hear about it."

City seeks inspectors

By NICK PFEIFAUPE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — With the large scale needs for city inspections at the Seminole Towne Center Mall construction site anticipated, one or two additional inspectors are being sought by the city.

Sanford's Director of Planning and Development Jay Marder asked for the city's approval to hire a contractual inspector and plans examiner to work specifically on the mall construction.

Although the actual operation of the mall is expected to bring a great deal of additional tax dollars into Sanford, the cost of permit fees which will be needed in the very near future will also help fill the city's coffers.

In a presentation to the city, Marder wrote, "I have reviewed the anticipated permit fees for the mall which are based on building square footage. For the mall and anchor stores the fees total $167,167.28 and the out parcels total $50,910."

Marder had requested someone who is experienced.

In their Easter bonnets

The pre-kindergarten students at Goldsboro Elementary School in Sanford celebrated Easter in a very traditional way this week. As they prepared for an Easter Egg hunt, they donned their fanciest hats and paraded around the school to show off to one another and to all who wanted to see. In the photo above, from left to right, Kendra Bobb, Kapriela Madison, Vanessa Acevedo and Jasmine Davis modeled the latest in plastic bowl, flower and ribbon hats. The hats are colorful and can be worn with a wide variety of dress styles, from T-shirts to sweaters. The youngsters also completed their outfits with handmade baskets in which they planned to keep the eggs they found in the hunt. At right, Charnee Medlock, shows that a proper Easter bonnet can dress up overalls. Her cute outfit ensured she'd be able to crawl efficiently after hidden eggs while still looking the part of a proper lady.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Passenger train collides with truck

RICHMOND, Va. — No injuries were reported when an Amtrak train carrying 240 people to Florida crashed into a tractor-trailer after the truck got stuck on the tracks.

The driver of the truck jumped to safety before the collision Wednesday afternoon in south Richmond.

Richmond police said the truck's landing gear, which supports the trailer when it stands alone, apparently got caught on the road and lifted the wheels off the road.

A railroad crew saw the truck get stuck and radioed the train, and E.L. Mohan, the conductor, said he slowed from about 60 mph to about 20 mph on impact.

The train, The Palmetto, originated in Boston and was bound for Jacksonville after a stop in Richmond. The first of the train's two locomotives was damaged and was detached before the trip resumed.

The truck was hauling products packaged in materials manufactured by the Westvaco Corp., which makes paper and packaging products.

Police to question Florida man in killing

ST. LOUIS — Photographs of children in provocative poses a Florida man left to be developed triggered an investigation that makes him the prime suspect in the murder of a 9-year-old St. Louis County girl.

The Major Case Squad on Wednesday named John Wayne Parsons, 34, of Bradenton, as the focal point in the 4 1/2-month hunt for the killer of Angie Marie Housman of St. Ann.

Parsons was described as a freelance roofer who once had worked in the St. Louis area.

"This is the best suspect we have," said Florissant Police Chief Robert Lowery Sr., head of the Major Case Squad.

Lowery conceded that investigators have had one or two suspects they feel strongly about almost every week. But he said the Major Case Squad has been focusing on Parsons for about two weeks.

"This one stands out a little bit more," he said.

Three St. Louis area investigators were to question Parsons today in Florida. The FBI plans to analyze the man's hair and blood after obtaining a court order and will compare that evidence with evidence collected at the murder scene.

Teenage girls arrested in beating death

LANTANA — Two girls posed as poor spring breakers to persuade a man into buying them dinner and lure him to a motel where two male friends beat him to death, police said.

The girls, ages 14 and 16, and the two men were arrested in Illinois. Palm Beach County sheriff's officials said Wednesday. They were charged in the death of Edmund Strother, 45, of Hypoluxo, who was found dead March 18.

The 14-year-old is charged with accessory to murder after the fact. The other three are charged with first-degree murder, grand theft auto, robbery and conspiracy to commit murder. The juveniles' names were not released.

Police found the foursome because one of the suspects, 22-year-old Michael Yates, a carnival worker from Tennessee, used his real name when he registered at the Lantana motel, said Lt. John Klanka.

Yates and the 16-year-old girl were arrested Monday in Forrestview, Ill., after police saw her panhandling and checked her records, he said.

The 14-year-old and 17-year-old were arrested in Chicago, where Klanka said they had Strother's vehicle.

Klanka said the two girls are from Lake Worth and Lantana. They pretended to be students from Michigan when they approached Strother during their spring break and told him they were hungry and about to lose their motel room.

Chandler to receive $1.4 million

ORLANDO — The teen-ager who was stuffed into the trunk of a car during a robbery will receive about $1.4 million under an agreement with his father's insurance company, according to court records.

Phillip Chandler, 17, will receive a $515,000 one-time payment from State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Co., court records show. He also will receive a monthly stipend.

"It's very, very comforting to know Phillip will have an income," his mother, Eve Chandler of Pine Hills, said Wednesday. "Although we expect him to recover 100 percent, we don't know how long it will take him to be independent."

Phillip's attorney, Russell Troutman of Winter Park, sued the insurance company in October, claiming Phillip was entitled to the $515,000 benefit under his father's uninsured motorist policy.

Troutman contended the uninsured motorist policy should cover the teen-ager's injuries and treatment because the two suspects in the case had no insurance. The teen-ager was in the trunk of his father's vehicle.

State Farm initially denied Chandler's claim, but later changed its position and offered to pay the policy's maximum, Troutman said.

State Farm's lawyer could not be reached for comment.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Train of the future

State asks private enterprise to build Miami-Orlando-Tampa link

By Associated Press

ORLANDO — The state has renewed its effort for a high-speed train linking Miami, Orlando and Tampa, but this time is making the project more palatable for enterprise.

Florida's Department of Transportation wants a private company, or consortium, to finance and build the 325-mile railway — but it will commit public funds and other incentives.

The state will offer a 30-year franchise and $70 million a year in assistance.

"We're going to be there working hand-in-hand with them as a partner," said Charles Smith, the DOT's manager for the project. The DOT will leave the specifics up to its partner, allowing for "as much private creativity as possible."

An intensive competition among several consortiums for a so-called bullet train went off track four years ago when the winning group found it impossible to raise several billion dollars in private funding.

Malcolm Kirschenbaum, a Cocoa Beach lawyer and former chairman of the High Speed Rail Commission, said the state's new proposal is attractive to businesses and more likely to succeed.

"Everyone was supportive of high-speed rail, but the applicants couldn't finance it," he said. "That was the main reason it failed. Nobody wanted the whole idea to die."

Estimates have placed the cost of such a system as high as $3.5 billion. But costs can be scaled down, depending on the type of train, its speed and the railway route.

Jules Pleau of Bombardier Corp., the North American manufacturer of the French TGV bullet train, said his company is interested in developing an updated version of the TGV capable of cruising at 210 mph in Florida.

"Florida has done its homework and is coming back now with a much more sensible proposal," Pleau said.

TGV of Florida Inc. dropped out of the bidding for the original project after deciding it did not want to seek private investment to develop property around the railway stations, as called for in the state's 1984 plan.

The winning consortium, Florida High Speed Rail Corp., withdrew in 1990 after real estate values dropped, and it decided it needed taxpayer funding as well as private investment to develop the train terminals and surrounding property.

Also interested in the state's renewed plan is Morrison Knudsen Corp. of Boise, Idaho.

"We're looking to see if, in fact, the public sector involvement is enough to allow this program to go forward," Morrison Knudsen's Ronald Evans told The Tampa Tribune.

House narrowly OKs amendment to limit bankruptcy debt shelter

By BILL KACZOR
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Debtors no longer would be able to live in million-dollar mansions while their creditors go unpaid if a proposed amendment to the Florida Constitution is adopted.

They would, however, still be able to shelter homes valued up to $350,000, or equity in that amount, from forced sale or other claims.

The constitution now shelters homesteads, including farms or ranches of up to 160 acres, regardless of value.

"This bill would not force you to sell your home. This bill would force you to pay your debt," Rep. Shirley Brown, D-Sarasota, said Wednesday.

She said only "deadbeats and crooks don't want to pay their just debts."

The proposal (HJR 1519) passed Wednesday in the House with one vote to spare and next goes to the Senate. If also passed there it would go on the Nov. 8 ballot.

The House vote was 73-40. A three-fifths margin, or 72 votes, was needed for passage.

Wealthy debtors have flocked to Florida, put their money into lavish homes and then filed for bankruptcy to avoid paying creditors. Texas is the only other state that has unlimited protection for homesteads.

The $350,000 limit would still be higher than shelters in any other state, said sponsor Rep. Robert Trammell, D-Marianna.

Seven states have no homestead shelter and others range from Georgia's $5,000 to $150,000 in Massachusetts, said Rep. William Sublette, R-Orlando.

Newspapers and the CBS television program "60 Minutes" have featured Florida as a bankruptcy haven because of its unlimited homestead shelter.

Opponents argued the measure would deprive Floridians of a fundamental right to protect their homes.

Supporters said the present situation hurts honest business people who sustain losses because creditors' assets are sheltered through their homes.

Panel rejects nudity bill

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Backers amended a bill to toughen public nudity laws so it wouldn't affect nudist camps, topless bars or nude beaches, but it still couldn't get through a House committee.

"They have voted that it is perfectly legitimate for an individual to be nude in the capital," the sponsor, Rep. Buddy Johnson, R-Plant City, said Wednesday.

Representatives of nudist groups were present.

Organizers of science fair irked by project

By BRIGITTE GREENBERG
Associated Press Writer

RAMONA, Calif. — A science project in which a seventh-grader tested gunpowder to learn which type gives a bullet more bang has been tentatively rejected from a science fair for fear other youngsters might get ideas.

Twelve-year-old Russell Grisbeck, a member of the National Rifle Association, wrote a 12-page report, complete with charts and graphs.

He packed different types of gunpowder in shell casings and fired the bullets from a hunting rifle mounted on a bench to learn which mixture gives a bullet the greatest velocity and accuracy.

The project got an A-plus from his teacher, who nominated it for the Greater San Diego Science and Engineering Fair, April 13-17. The fair is organized by a committee representing San Diego County businesses and schools.

But a subcommittee recommended the project be rejected. "The number one concern for the committee was the issue that other students viewing this project at the science fair might go home and actually try it out," said Tony Spears, the county Office of Education's director of curriculum and staff development. His agency is represented on the committee.

Russell said he wouldn't bring the gun to the fair — just the report and a storyboard.

Russell's father said stopping the boy would violate his freedom of speech and right to bear arms.

"This has been a learning experience for Russ. ... learning that it's a little bit of hard work preserving your rights and your freedoms," Irv Grisbeck said.

Several lawyers have expressed interest in taking the boy's case. The NRA also is supporting Russell.

"This young man is being used as a pawn ... by people who will stoop to any level and any age group that they can to advance their anti-gun political agenda," said George McNeill, director of state and local legislative affairs for the Fairfax, Va.-based NRA.

"The young man has done a sterling science project," McNeill said. "Isn't the purpose of the science fair to cause children to question and to search and to look for answers? And this is obviously a safe way to do it."

The fair's management committee is scheduled to make a final decision next week, but Spears didn't give the project much of a chance.

"Should a 12-year-old be having access to these kinds of weapons?" he asked Wednesday.

Russell's father said he directed his son's project at every step and took the strictest safety measures.

"Russell has learned the responsible use and care of this weapon and other weapons, and we'd really like to show this to other kids, let them know that guns aren't all bad, used in the right way," said the elder Grisbeck, who owns a sport fishing business.

Can't Pay? File Anyway

If you can't pay your taxes, you should still file your tax return on time. The IRS says this way you will save money because you won't have to pay a penalty for filing late.

You should send as much money as you can with your tax return and include a letter requesting a payment plan. Give the amounts you can pay and the dates you can pay them.

The IRS may allow you to follow the installments you've requested or will work out other options with you.

One of the worst things to do is not filing a tax return at all. That could add a lot more to your taxes.

Call the IRS at 1-800-829-1040 if you have any questions about how to pay your taxes.

Unfortunately, this busy signal can be all too familiar to many Americans trying to call the IRS for answers to their tax questions.

You see, when you're busy, doing our special toll-free number 1-800-TAX-1040, so are millions of other taxpayers, which means you may have a hard time getting through to us.

So here's a tip: Call between 8 and 10 in the morning, or after 2:30 in the afternoon.

Believe it or not, there is a good time to call the IRS.

When you call on Wednesday, Thursday, or Friday, you've got an even greater chance of getting through.

So if you have questions, don't hesitate to call 1-800-TAX-1040. Just remember, call during a good time. Because we want you to hear good advice. Not a busy signal.

A salute to Sanford police

Sanford police have gone all out recently in nabbing suspected criminals. Two cases stand out in particular.

Tuesday morning, a check cashing company was robbed at gunpoint. Within just a few hours, police had located and arrested three men in connection with the case.

Early yesterday morning, an armed robbery took place at a Sanford restaurant. Again, within hours, two men and a woman were taken into custody for armed robbery as well as other charges.

Certainly there were other crimes committed which have not been solved quite so rapidly. But these two cases are an excellent example of the type of people Sanford has on its police force.

Sanford police officers are not supermen, nor do they have Robocop on the force. They are mere human beings, but people pledged to fighting crime and protecting the citizens.

In the main lobby of the Sanford police station at 815 S. French Avenue, there are 23 large trophies and over a dozen award medals. They aren't for exceptional duty by the officers. Each trophy was won by a member of the Sanford police K-9 corps over the past years.

While the department can take great pride in their dogs and officers who train and handle them, we believe it's the officers who deserve the trophies.

Each day, our Sanford police officers place their personal safety and lives in jeopardy. When encountering a threatening situation one day, they nonetheless return to work the next, and perform duties as usual.

How many other people are there, on a daily basis, risking their lives for people they may not even know.

We are those people. We owe our police an occasional vote of thanks.

Perhaps a handshake or "thank you" cannot be placed in a display case at police headquarters, but it will go a long way in helping make our officers know they are appreciated.

What capitalism is unable to do

I yield to no one in my admiration for capitalism — that is, free market economics — as the best route to national prosperity. The market mechanism is vastly superior to any governmental bureaucracy in determining the optimum allocation of resources.

But every so often somebody is tempted to let considerations of "market efficiency" shoulder aside important obligations of a purely moral kind. And that, as moral philosophers have long insisted (Pope Leo XIII, for example, in his 1891 encyclical Rerum Novarum), is a serious mistake.

Thus, few today would argue that an employer can properly be indifferent to an employee's age or working conditions, whatever the market might decree in the name of pure "efficiency." It seems equally clear to me that American businessmen have no pre-emptive right to engage in ordinary trade with foreign dictators who savagely oppress their own peoples.

I don't blame businessmen for leaving it up to the government to decide which nations deserve "most-favored nation" trading status and which ought to be denied it. This is a complex world, and one can readily understand that it may be sometimes essential to extend that important favor to certain countries that fall short of our notion of perfection. During the 40-year Cold War, examples abounded.

But it turns my stomach to see President Clinton knuckling under to the pressure of a bunch of greedy businessmen and authorizing U.S. trade with the obscene communist regime in Vietnam, and then offering as an excuse the flat lie that doing so will aid the search for our MIAs.

Far worse, however, is Mr. Clinton's persistence in extending "most-favored nation" status to communist China, in the teeth of overwhelming evidence that the cheap goods with which it is flooding the American market are largely the products of workers who are slaves in everything but name.

The excuses for such cynicism are as phony as they are numerous. "If we don't trade with China, we'll just lose that market to other Western nations that will." Sure, and if we don't sell missiles and nuclear weapons to Iran, North Korea will — or would, if we don't bring heavy pressures on North Korea to desist. Do we have less influence on Western nations than we do on North Korea?

"International trade, and the prosperity it brings, will do far more to liberalize China than isolating it." In the same way, no doubt, that Germany's flourishing international trade in the 1930s moderated Hitler's behavior. A free economy ultimately undermines a dictatorship, because it gives rise to a middle class that cannot be silenced. But in the short run prosperity often actually strengthens a dictator's hand.

Not long before his death the Chinese Nationalist president on Taiwan, Chiang Ching-kuo, asked me, "If America doesn't stand for freedom, what does it stand for?" It's still a good question. We will abandon that moral standard at our peril.

I yield to no one in my admiration for capitalism as the best route to national prosperity.

Bait the trap and they will come

If there is ever an open season on hypocrites and you want to be sure to bag your limit, all you have to do is instigate a juicy political scandal, load your blunderbuss and bunker down.

They will come. Like deer to a salt lick, they will come. Like honking geese to corn-baited fields, they will come. Like crabs to rancid chicken entrails, they will come.

Indeed, the longer I ponder the public process, the more convinced I become that hypocrisy is determined by a gene found in almost all politicians, and it manifests itself routinely.

A crisis erupts abroad and Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., who has spent his entire career lambasting laws that "tie the president's hands" on foreign policy, demands legislation that would require congressional approval to send troops overseas. Senators who tack spending measures on unrelated bills are chewed out by Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., who brags about being a "billion-dollar industry" for his state.

There are some refreshing exceptions — Barry Goldwater comes immediately to mind. You might disagree with what he says but you never wonder where he stands. A few weeks ago, he urged his Republican friends in Washington, and those Democrats who are participating, to get off (Bill Clinton's) back and let him be president and stop nitpicking on a thing called Whitewater.

Told that some Republicans disapproved of his remarks, he responded: "You know something? I don't give a damn."

The thing called Whitewater illustrates my main point perfectly. What we have here, so far, is a dinky scandal involving a failed real estate investment and a savings-and-loan that went belly-up. Yes, the stench of good-old-boy back-scratching hangs in the air, but it is hardly a constitutional crisis. To hear the Republicans scream, however, you would think someone had burglarized their national headquarters.

Take Sen. Al D'Amato, R-N.Y. How this character, who is so oily he can't get a grip on himself, conjures up the chutzpah to criticize others on ethical matters utterly befuddles the brain of a straight-thinking person. He was up to his keister in the Wedtech scandal; he played footsie with junk-bond dealers; he let his brother use his Senate office to lobby the Pentagon for defense contracts. The Senate Ethics Committee reprimanded him for conducting public business in an "improper and inappropriate manner." He refuses to release the committee report, yet has no compunction at all about accusing Clinton of stonewalling.

Take Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas. If Clinton "wants to serve this term out," says fiery Phil, "he's going to have to... put all his dirty linen on the table." He doesn't talk about his own soiled skivvies. He once helped the owner of a failed Texas S&L get together with regulators — after the thrift executive had paid for nearly $60,000 worth of work on Gramm's vacation home.

Take Rep. Newt Gingrich, R-Ga. He goes on and on about morality and ethics, but his personal code did not deter him from dropping his first wife in an especially brutal way. She was recovering from cancer surgery when he visited her hospital room with a yellow legal pad to discuss terms of separation.

Take Bob Dole. He draws dark comparisons between Whitewater and Watergate — an absurd assertion even in the comic opera theater of Washington — and he knows better.

I told you, all it takes is a scandal, real or imagined, and you can fill your freezer full of hypocrites in no time.

They will come. Like deer to a salt lick, they will come.

Humane Society: Make it right

I have not been to nor employed by the Humane Society of Seminole County since Feb. 13, 1994. I worked there on weekends, volunteered and have been a member, for the past three to four years. The things I found each time I worked on the weekends were so obviously wrong but obviously being done daily. The lack of welfare for the dogs is still an upsetting reality to me. The kennel recommendations I had given, as requested, were never applied, posted nor read by co-workers. In fact Barry Black never watched the way I worked, which truly needed to be observed, not just read. The dogs are not leashed for feeding or moving or medicating. They are scuffed by the neck, they cry, get loose and sometimes bite or start fights in the runs among themselves or with workers. The dogs are fed together with no concern when they get into fights. I have been told, "Don't worry about it, they'll work it out." I did break up fights, while other co-workers would laugh at me.

The scoopers used in the runs were never cleaned, nor placed in disinfectant, as I always did, with the cleaning of each run. I have always carried a knife in my boots to clean out hard-to-get areas and would be laughed at. Scott, the kennel manager, does not believe in using 30-gallon, or larger trash bags on a daily basis to place the dogs mess in for garbage pickup. Instead, trash cans are filled and then emptied into the dumpster for pickup. Even worse, when I did come in at 7:00 a.m. on Saturdays, no covers would be on the trash cans, nor were they emptied or cleaned. I began to bring my own trash bags; it is just plain unsanitary and unhealthy for the animals. Many of the animals adopted have gone to homes and found to be sick, and unable to become better. Donated blankets, sheets and towels were being left outside in the rain (uncovered) and/or thrown away. When I was working on weekends, I would ask a community worker or volunteer to cover the clothes to prevent their becoming mildewed and wasted. Before the fire, we had 44 runs and three times as many dogs, and Diane Abers was in charge at that time, and the laundry had priority and was kept done.

The concern Norma Spivey had over Carter was justified. I took care of Carter over the years and have used Baby Fresh Vaseline on him, as well as one of my own bunnies. Temperance, I fostered 2 1/2 years ago and yet have, to soothe their sores and skin. Carter and Molly, being the shelter mascots, are a good reflection on the Humane Society, and many visitors have told me this personally.

I have tried not to get involved with the "political mess" and just hoped there would be more concern about the welfare and care of the animals. The squirrels were eating dog food off the ground and rabbits were fed corn or cat food, so I began bringing food for them, as do other donors and volunteers who have asked me what may be needed there.

I was trained under Diane Abers and worked with Norma Spivey, and it breaks my heart the way things have changed. Their primary concern was always for the animals. The animals tell their own story. They come to the shelter rejected, sick, abused, neglected, abandoned and need special attention, not the same kind of treatment before they came to the shelter.

There is much more, more than I can write in this letter. The Humane Society needs people who have a willingness to work, with a compassion and understanding of the animals there.

My hope is that the Humane Society can be cleaned up, become the place it once was, once stood for, and must be, for the sake of the animals. The animals depend on us and we have to be there for them; they have no other choice. It is up to our community to be aware and help make it right for them.

Clean up shelter

After reading your article, "Humane Society Shake-up" from the March 20 issue, I felt compelled to write. Your article left quite a few questions unanswered. I hope you are planning to delve deeper into the situation.

They cited their actions of removing the two board members and the two society members as an "effort to clean up" the Humane Society. As an ex-volunteer and sometime visitor to the shelter, I think they need to quit worrying about the politics and clean up the shelter itself! Helpless dogs and cats are existing in appalling conditions which there is no excuse for, except people (mainly those in charge) don't know what they're doing.

On several occasions in the past few months I've found it strange that the main, air-conditioned room which used to house the puppies and small dogs, has been empty. The puppies and small dogs have been stacked in crates on the back walkway outside. They have been stacked three high. Some have been not so small dogs on top of small dogs. Is there any reason to this?

On one occasion I was in the back dog run talking to one of the workers about the condition of one of the dogs and a rat ran over my foot! I kid you, not. I've seen several heartworm positive puppies up for adoption. Do they explain the special circumstances with these puppies? Cleanliness is the main way to keep the animals free from disease, right? It is a disgusting mess at the shelter! Why do they keep having Parvo outbreaks? Not keeping the place clean is one reason, the other is not giving the incoming animals the proper shots.

Your article mentions there is no certified veterinary technician at the shelter and that is why their medical expenses are so high. Shouldn't that be a major priority for a shelter that is caring for animals? Inoculations can be bought inexpensively through several outlets. There is no excuse for not having a technician to give shots. I believe they fired all the qualified people they had working at the shelter, didn't they?

As to the subject of money, where has it all gone? What has happened to all the money raised after the fire? My husband and I raised $1,000 of it and we would like to know where it's been used. I do not believe it's been used for the animals. I hear there are fundraisers constantly. Why? More dog runs have not been built. I've seen mountains of blankets and towels lying outside in filth. Why?

The part of your article which reports the fight between Spivey, Mears and Black is lacking some important parts. One of the dogs, Carter, has always had specific instructions that he's not to be dipped because of his condition. Why was this done? Please get more facts on this situation. Check out how the shelter mascots are living now when they used to live comfortably in the office area. Isn't it strange the shelter director made a shelter member leave because she was trying to care for a dog? Isn't it strange she's now kicked out?

I've been involved with animal rescue the past two years. Common sense will tell you there's a right way to do things and a wrong way to do things. The Seminole County Humane Society is definitely wrong! Word of mouth is very powerful and my husband and I steer people clear of the place. It's a shame because the animals are suffering and dying because people have their priorities screwed up. Seminole County no longer gets our help or money. And believe me, we have lots of friends! We've found an organization that does it the right way. They worry about the animal. First, over anything else.

Something must be done about this situation. Why not take some pictures next time. Talk to volunteers who can't stand work there anymore. It's a shame you can't hear it from the animals themselves. Here's something to think about as you imagine a cute, cuddly puppy or kitten:

"Unseen they suffer, unheard they cry, in agony they linger, in loneliness they die." (PETA—People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals)

Castrate

drive and possibly inhibit their violent behavior.

Wolflinger said relying on chemical castration as a cure for rape was a misplaced faith. The drug treatment is rarely practiced in the United States, and the prosecutor added it is controversial.

The Florida Senate voted 29-10 to pass the legislation [CS-SB 1984].

From the Seminole County delegation, supporters were Karen Johnson, D-Inverness; Tom Jennings, R-Orlando; and Gary Siegel, Longwood. Opposing was Buddy Dyer, D-Orlando.

The so-called "chemical castration" bill has made headlines nationwide as Florida legislators try to grapple with one of the nation's worst crime images and highest crime rates.

Rapists convicted of a third violent sexual assault would face the death penalty.

Although the bill may be well intended, state attorney Norm Wolflinger said the legislature should be putting its effort into keeping rapists behind bars away from the public.

Under a provision in the Safe Streets Act passed by the legislature last year, repeat (habitual) rapists are entitled to 25 days gain time for each month they serve. Rapists serving time for their first offense get 20 days gain time.

"I have not studied the bill. I'm sure it is well intended to cut down on repeat offenses," Wolflinger said. "But I would prefer to keep them in prison where they belong. Obviously, if the person qualifies for the death penalty, if there's a homicide, impose it."

Wolflinger does not believe the chemical castration bill will become law.

The Senate voted 29-10 for the bill [CS-SB 1984]. It now goes to the House, where no companion bill has been introduced and the bill's future is uncertain.

"Why should a repeat rapist be eligible for up to 25 days incentive gain time when a first time rapist only gets 20 days," Wolflinger said. "I would be satisfied if they (legislators) would address that."

The incentive gain times were part of the Safe Street Act approved last year.

Wolflinger said the gain time provisions for rapists is an insult to the public. Inmates charged with petty theft are eligible for only 20 days incentive gain time. "That's absurd," he added.

"The mere reason again is the Tallahassee philosophy in last year's crime bill," he added. "to close the front door so people don't go in (to prison) and also push them out as fast as you can. That's a simple example of what Safe Streets is all about. Give repeat rapists 25 days incentive gain time."

Circuit Court Judge Alan A. Dickey said he could not comment on the bill because if the bill does become law, he might have to sentence someone according to the provisions.

In its first, and perhaps only, full debate in the Legislature, senators argued Wednesday whether the bill would deter sexual assaults, while opponents compared the procedure with the experiments performed on humans in Europe during the Holocaust in the early 1940s.

"We, by this bill, will not solve the problem of sexual assault in this state," said the sponsor, Sen. Robert Wexler, D-Boca Raton. "But there will be little girls and little boys who are 5 years and 9 years old now who won't grow up their whole life with the tragedy of being sexually assaulted."

Sen. Curt Kiser, R-Palm Harbor, said his office has received calls and letters from people who supported tougher measures.

"If anything, they would like the traditional version of castration rather than just chemical," he said.

Some senators questioned why the bill was being debated at all when so many questions remained about the procedure.

"We have focused on this bill. I guess because it's the bill that appears on Inside Edition and Oprah Winfrey," said Sen. Jim Boezar, D-Sarasota. "It's one more indication of why the public looks at us with such skepticism."

Wexler's bill would not actually require repeat rapists to be physically castrated.

Instead, it would allow courts to impose chemical treatment on rapists convicted of a second offense in addition to their prison sentences. Offenders would be injected with Depo-Provera, a drug that inhibits sexual arousal and decreases sperm production. The effects are reversible.

AIDS

AARP chapters across the state are being contacted to urge educational programs be given to seniors regarding the virus which is afflicting more and more Floridians over age 50.

Florida's figures, like national figures, show a continuing increase in the proportion of cases among older people.

When the state began tracking residents who suffered from acquired immune deficiency syndrome in 1982, only four were between the ages of 50 and 59, and just one was over 60.

Today, 2,867 Florida residents between 50 and 59 have AIDS, along with another 1,350 over age 60.

"These figures are real shockers," Stevens commented. "I hope it wakes some people up to the dangers of AIDS."

It will be several months before a specific educational program can be arranged for the Lake Mary chapter.

"We have to plan at least three months ahead for our meetings," Stevens said this morning. "And with no meetings during July and August, we are tentatively scheduling an AIDS informational meeting in either September or October."

Stevens said she has received word from Tallahassee that information will be forthcoming on how to set up the educational sessions.

"Some people are already saying they don't want this as a subject," she said. "This has the belief that 'it doesn't mean anything to me,' but I hope their attitudes will change."

The reason for the rapid increase in AIDS among older Floridians was explained by Stephen Kindland, spokesman for the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

"Most of these people probably got infected in their 50s when they were still sexually active or sharing needles or engaging in other high-risk behavior," he said.

"It's behavior, not your age, that puts you at risk," he said Wednesday.

"People get the idea that sex beyond a certain age doesn't happen any more," said Geneva Miller, an 83-year-old North Miami Beach widow who serves on an AIDS and aging task force for Dade and Monroe counties.

"That is absolutely wrong and older people are getting it (AIDS) at 60 and over," Miller said in a telephone interview. "It's happening. Figures are showing it. Too many don't know anything about it."

Elderly organizations are getting help in their effort from state and local health care groups. The American Association of Retired Persons considers AIDS a multigenerational crisis.

"We have this whole group of women who have not been out there and they're in a position now where they have to negotiate sexual relationships and have never had the background or experience," said Ann Prochilo, director of educational services for a health care crisis network in Miami. "They've never seen themselves having to deal with this."

The number of AIDS patients over 50 represents about 12 percent of the 35,697 AIDS cases reported in Florida through 1993, said state epidemiologist Spencer Lieb.

"We do have AIDS cases occurring after 10 years of infection, so somebody could've acquired the infection earlier and not see the actual AIDS syndrome until a little later on in life," Lieb said.

The figure is slightly higher in South Florida — 15 percent in Palm Beach County and 13 percent in Dade County, officials said.

In Lake Mary, Stevens commented, "Even though we probably won't have a special program dealing with AIDS until later this year, we are still active in many other needs for older citizens, such as crime prevention and health care insurance, and we would like people to join us."

The Lake Mary chapter of AARP meets on the third Tuesday of each month beginning at 1 p.m., at the Old City Hall, 158 N. Country Club Road.

Students

those technologies in workplace situations.

Seminole and Lake Howell have not applied to be eligible for the scholarships, officials at Tandy said.

Students who are nominated are the top scientists, computer scientists and mathematicians of tomorrow, Kaye Thornton, program coordinator, said.

John Roach, chief executive officer and chairman of the board of Tandy Corporation, said he believes the students are the future of this nation and that their knowledge of math and science will help pave the way to the future.

"Mathematics, science and computer science are the vehicles that will be used to access the information superhighway," he said.

This is the fifth year of the Tandy program, officials at the company said, but it is the first year Seminole County has had so many students honored.

"I believe that there was a winner or two in past years," Thornton said, "but this year there were quite a few students from Seminole County."

The students who are nominated and receive certificates for their academic merit are then eligible to compete for one hundred $1,000 scholarships that were awarded. None of the local students were scholarship winners.

Some of the schools also nominated teachers who they believed were outstanding in their field. The teachers were eligible for $2,500 grants, though none of the local teachers were award winners.

The nominees from Seminole County were:

● Lake Mary High School
Two of the students were honored as outstanding math/science/computer students. They were Katherine C. Shih and Todd Kramer.

● Lyman High School
Two of the students were honored as outstanding math/science/computer science students. They were Michelle Monroe and Kelly Anne Register.

Seven other students were nominated as being among the top two percent of the students, academically. They were Michelle M. Bishop, Kelly K. Gajewski, Sarah A. Gattlin, Donna C. Goggin, Jason M. Gustin, Deborah J. Larsen and Benedict J. Park.

● Oviedo High School

locked the two clerks in the cooler, escaping with money from the cash drawer. Whitmire said the robber was unable to break open the safe, although he apparently had some type of tools to use on the safe.

In early afternoon, police investigator Terry Mullins had established the identity of the persons involved, and police located and arrested them.

One of the persons was identified as Gianni Cicchino, 21, of 119 Hidden Arbor Court in Sanford. He was one of the two clerks at the restaurant when the robbery took place.

Murphy later determined that the person who actually entered the store was Shawn Patrick Murphy, 19, of 834 Rosella Drive in Sanford. A woman who reportedly drove the get-away car was also arrested. She was identified as Melody Lee Omes, 18, who lived at the same address as Murphy.

Whitmire said when the car was searched, they located the gun, and some of the tools which were believed to have been used in an attempt to open the safe.

Mullins has determined that only slightly over $100 in cash was actually taken in the robbery from the cash register.

Each of the three was charged with attempted murder, false imprisonment, armed robbery, and use of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

"It was a happy birthday," commented Commander Whitmire. Melody Lee Omes just turned 18 the day before the robbery, so we were able to charge her as an adult rather than a juvenile."

All three were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

"It was good work on Investigator Mullin's part," Whitmire commented. "We are always pleased when we can make arrests in such a robbery this quickly."

needed in all phases of inspections and plans examining for an anticipated two year period.

Melvin Simon and Associates, developers of the mall, had previously announced that construction would be completed and the grand opening held in September of 1995.

During discussion by the city commission on the recommendation Monday night, City Manager Bill Simmons explained that the persons hired would operate from a trailer office to be located at the actual construction site.

"With the work they will be required to do with this mall," Simmons said, "we will be needing someone who hopefully has extensive experience in planning and permits for a major mall. We must be certain to get the best quality of people for the position."

The Commission voted unanimously to hire one full time contractual inspector, and if necessary, one additional part time plans examiner. The vote on the recommendation was unanimous.

City Manager Bill Simmons will be advertising for applicants for the position, which would be in a pay grade totalling $36,921.73 annually.

Nudity

groups disputed that, telling the House Criminal Justice Committee current statutes are adequate and more zealous enforcement is unnecessary.

"When a person has gone far into the woods, away from every person, we should not have to fear one lonely policeman with binoculars hiding behind a bush," testified Paul LeValley, president of the 76-member Tallahassee Bare Devils.

After Johnson's bill (HB 1241) failed on a 7-7 tie, he said he hopes a similar measure pending in the Senate will make it to the House.

Criminal Justice Chairman Elvin Martinez, D-Tampa, said he agreed to hold the special meeting to consider the nudity bill but wasn't surprised at the lackluster vote.

Compared with major health care and juvenile justice issues lawmakers are trying to resolve in the last seven days of the legislative session, Martinez said, "Quite frankly, it's not up there."

Still, nearly 20 people signed up to testify for or against the nudity bill, and Martinez selected about a half dozen to speak before the vote at the end of the one-hour meeting.

The bill — and the Senate measure (SB 1280) by Sen. John Grant, R-Tampa — were filed after a federal magistrate dismissed a case against eight beachgoers cited for nude sunbathing at Canaveral National Seashore.

The magistrate said Florida law bars public nudity only if it is lewd or lascivious, or offends someone. The amended House bill would have barred public nudity "except in any place provided or set apart for that purpose."

Consumers: Shop 'til you drop with new TV concept

By JEANNINE AVERSA
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Bell Atlantic Corp. is staking millions on a hunch that consumers will want to order up everything from stock tables to movies on their TV screens without leaving their living rooms.

In the most ambitious effort of its kind to date, Bell Atlantic said Wednesday it will open a production center in July for Hollywood studios and independent producers to convert or create programs that consumers could call up on demand.

Existing programs created by a Hollywood studio could be arranged into packages, such as all Westerns or all comedies. Bell Atlantic is feeling studios out about supplying films and other programs. Possible terms were not disclosed.

Programs could be packaged in various ways so, for instance, consumers could call up movies by actor or by type, such as romances. News programs could be accompanied by more in-depth text.

Bell Atlantic would convert its telephone networks so that customers could receive videos and order programs over the same line.

The Digital Production Center will be located in Reston, Va. Programs will be converted into digital form, stored in computers and then delivered to customers when they request them from their homes, said Stuart Johnson, president of Bell Atlantic's Large Business and Video Services Group. The venture is a first for a phone company.

"We can create a ... video store-type of environment for consumers" in their homes, said Michael Lasky, a director of Bell Atlantic Video Services Co.

Initially, the production center will be used to produce programs for about 1,000 people in northern Virginia who will participate in an experiment. The experiment requires federal regulatory approval.

But the company said the facility will eventually feed its own advanced networks as well as those operated by other telephone and cable companies. Those networks will be capable of carrying voice, video and data traffic at the same time.

Bell Atlantic has plans to convert existing telephone networks into these advanced systems over a 10-year period. In addition to Virginia, Bell Atlantic operates phone systems in five states and the District of Columbia.

The facility, which Bell Atlantic will lease for seven years for $12 million, is a sign that the company is bullish on the future of "interactive" and "multimedia" technology.

Computer, cable, telephone and Hollywood studios are experimenting with various forms of this technology, but none is sure how commercially successful it will turn out to be.

Ultimately, the technology will combine audio, text and video into programs or other formats and allow consumers to retrieve such information when they want it. To do so, consumers will need computer-like boxes linked to their TVs.

Bell Atlantic would not disclose the full tab on the facility. But it will cost many millions to develop special computers called "servers" to store the programming and the rest of the equipment needed to convert analogue films, footage and other video material into digital.

Bell Atlantic needs a stable of programming to carry on the advanced networks it will build. The collapse of a merger with Tele-Communications Inc., left the phone company without a ready supply.

As advanced networks come on line, program producers and Hollywood studios will have more outlets to sell their shows.

In Bell Atlantic's past experiments in northern Virginia, all major Hollywood studios and some cable programmers provided programs for free in return for marketing information. Bell Atlantic would not say whether any of these companies will make programming available to the new facility.

Unlike other telephone companies, Bell Atlantic can arrange and even produce its own programs under a federal court decision last year. The decision overturned a statute barring phone companies from owning and providing video programming directly to phone customers. The ruling applies only to Bell Atlantic.

Share prices keep falling from stock market jitters

By Associated Press

NEW YORK — Is it a "correction" or something much worse?

A slide in the stock market has investors wondering whether it's the start of a bear market or just a case of prices falling back to a more realistic level.

After a 3½-year bull market, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks has fallen some 350 points, or about 9 percent, in the past two months.

It tumbled more than 72 points to 3,626.75 on Wednesday, its lowest level since early November.

It was the fifth consecutive trading day of stock-dumping, leaving the Dow down nearly 9 percent off its all-time high of 3,978.36, reached Jan. 31. And many mutual funds, a popular way for investors to get into stocks, are reporting people are cashing out.

"It's a very nervous market," said David Shulman, chief market strategist at Salomon Brothers.

Vice President Al Gore says people shouldn't be nervous.

"Markets go up and markets go down and the only thing for sure is that markets overreact to everything," Gore said this morning in an interview on NBC.

"The fundamentals in the economy are very good," he said.

Indeed, the market's weakness comes despite an improving economy and continued low inflation.

"To novice investors, this must seem like one perverse stock market," says James Stack, who writes an investment letter called the InvestTech Market Analyst.

"Here we are, three years into a recovery with the economic party finally kicking into high gear and no possibility of a recession. And how's the stock market react? It rolls over and plays dead."

Some analysts have attributed the jitters to rising interest rates, political turmoil such as the Whitewater affair and the assassination of Mexico's leading presidential candidate, and U.S. trade disputes with Japan and China.

But many Wall Streeters still believe the market is simply undergoing a long-due correction, or temporary retrenchment that works off excess enthusiasm by instilling a dose of fear.

2 nabbed in carjacking slayings

By Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Two reputed gang members were arrested in the slayings of two students from Japan who were shot during a carjacking over the weekend.

Raymond Oscar Butler, 18, of Los Angeles, and Alberto Reygoza, 20, of Long Beach, were booked for investigation of murder and jailed without bail Wednesday, Police Chief Willie L. Williams said at a news conference.

In Japan, the slayings of Takuma Ito and Go Matsuura reinforced the image of the United States as a land of gunslings.

Williams timed the late-night news conference to allow its broadcast on the Japanese prime-time news, and he took the opportunity to defend Los Angeles.

"It's not the most violent city in America. It's not the most violent city in the world," the police chief said.

Ito and Matsuura, both 19, were shot in the head in a supermarket parking lot Friday, and their brand new Honda was stolen. They died two days later. Ito was a Japanese citizen; Matsuura a U.S. citizen who grew up in Japan.

"The young men were not targeted because of their ethnicity or because they were students," Williams said. "They happened to be two young boys in a nice car who were being robbed."

Butler and Reygoza were under surveillance for two days after evidence tied them to the crime, Williams said. He refused to say what the evidence was, but did say a videotape of the attack, shot from a cash machine nearby, played no role.

"We have reviewed the videotape," Cmdr. David Gascon said earlier Wednesday. "We find that to be less than what we had hoped for because of the distance and the darkness. We are considering enhancing the tape."

Maryland's Dundalk CC explodes late, dumps Raiders

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — On days like this, all you can do is hope for it to be over soon.

Despite home runs by Nole Elizer and Larry Hardy, not to mention a seven-run rally in the seventh inning, the Seminole Community College Raiders suffered through a 13-11 loss to Maryland's Dundalk Community College Wednesday afternoon at Raider Field.

Dundalk CC (7-1) put together a 17-hit attack that included two doubles, two home runs, and nine stolen bases. Trailing 3-0 through five innings, Dundalk scored all 13 runs in the sixth, seventh, and eighth innings.

Sandalwood scrambles past Lions

From Staff Reports

FERNANDINA BEACH — In a game of missed opportunities the Jacksonville-Sandalwood Saints managed to take advantage of one more than the Oviedo Lions and pulled out a 3-2 win Wednesday afternoon in the first round of the Fernandina Beach Invitational baseball tournament.

Both teams had a chance to blow the game open after leading the bases with less than two outs but couldn't come up with the big hit.

Sandalwood did parlay a pair of leadoff doubles into runs in the second and fourth innings, but the Lions rallied for a run in the sixth inning and one in the seventh to tie the game.

Carlos Martinez led off the Oviedo sixth inning with a walk. Mike Rugenius then reached on an error and Todd Bellhorn drew a walk to load the bases. After Mark Metcalf hit into a fielder's choice, forcing Martinez at the plate, Mike Hynes singled off the pitcher's glove to score Rugenius.

The Lions were unable to get any more runs out of the situation, marking the second time in game that they had the bases loaded with Hardy, a freshman out of Okeechobee High School, led SCC's 12-hit effort with his second home run of the season, a double, single, two runs scored, and two RBI. Elizer, from Cape Coral, also hit his second home of the season to go with a single and two RBI.

Deltona's Pete Bezeredi and Oviedo High School alumnus Erik Jordan each contributed a double, single, one run, and two RBI.

Isaac Cruz (Spruce Creek) added a single, one run, an RBI, and the Raiders' only stolen base of the game. Seminole High School product Rick Eekstein and New Smyrna Beach's Johnny Goodrich each hit a single and scored a run.

square off in the championship game at 7 p.m. While the Tribe gave the Conchs six unearned runs and robbed themselves of a couple, Seminole coach Mike Powers saw several positives in the outcome.

"If we play defense, we win this game," said Powers. "The guys know that. They're starting to realize that when we play good defense, we can play with anybody."

"We've never seen any team that hits the ball as hard as Key West does. There's not a team around here that hits the ball as hard as Key West does. They should be the No. 1 team in Class 3A. They're an excellent ball club and they're very well-coached. And if we make the plays, we win 1-0."

Seminole pitcher Dean Daniels was throwing a no-hitter until Aaron Johnson singled with one out in the third inning. Four Seminole errors later, Key West had a 3-0 lead.

That was all the offense Key West would need as Paul Wallerson shackled the Seminoles on four hits (two by Todd Braden). Seminole's only run came on Brian Willcox's two-out bases-loaded infield single that plated Daniels in the fourth inning.

The Tribe derailed their comeback chances by having a runner picked off first, second, and third base.

"They're getting there," said Powers of his team. "They don't have the maturity or the experience yet, but they're getting there."

"These kids want to go to the state tournament. They feel they can do it. Tonight, they saw the type of team they'll have to beat to get there and learned what it'll take to beat a team like that."

David Monroe and Johnson each had a single and two runs scored to lead the Conchs. Martin Niles, Darren Mills, and Eric Bulbuena each hit a single and scored a run. Craig Lariz singled in a run.

While Lake Brantley turned in a less-than-textbook display of defensive baseball in his loss to Fletcher, like the Seminoles, the Patriots could take some solace in the fact that they were never out of the game and very nearly came back to catch the Senators. Trailing 9-4 going into the bottom of the seventh inning, the Patriots made a run at the Senators. Brad Van Der Weide led off with a walk and, two outs later, Joey Harner singled and Jared Varitek walked to load the bases and chase Fletcher relief pitcher John Thompson.

Mike Hoch came in and promptly walked John Andersen and Jeff Shaw to plate Van Der Weide and Harner, cutting the deficit to 9-6. But Hoch then fanned Brian Krot on a beautiful runs in the top of the fourth and added four more in the sixth to turn the game into a rout.

Van Der Weide had a single, a run, and an RBI. Harner singled and scored a run. Moises Navarro hit a double. Anderson scored a run and drove in a run. James Clark hit a single.

Rich DiToro led Lake Howell's 18-hit assault with a double, two singles, two runs scored and two RBI. Kevin Stephenson added three singles and two runs. Desabrais finished with a home run, a double, one run, and three RBI while Sanford had a home run, single, two runs, and two RBI.

Chris Tolliver singled twice and scored three runs. Peter Gill had two singles and an RBI. Kevin Knorst doubled in a run. Wayne Gonzalez and Matt Huston each hit a single and scored a run. Kyle Feldman also singled. Randy Proulx scored a run. Mike Hernandez had an RBI.

In the first game of the day, Deltona's Jeff Wisniski led off the bottom of the sixth inning with a single and scored on Nolan Reid's single to give the Wolves a 3-2 win over the Titusville Terriers.

Gabe Wittie tossed a complete game in earning the win for the Wolves (9-8), allowing two runs (both unearned) on two hits. He struck out seven and walked three.

one out and didn't capitalize.

Oviedo managed to tie the score with a run in the seventh. Ted Brown led off with a double and moved to third on Tim Slavik's single to left, but was thrown out at the plate trying to score on a pass ball.

Slavik, who took second on the play at the plate, took third base on a ground ball and scored the tying run on a wild pitch.

Sandalwood pulled out the win with a run in the bottom of the seventh.

After Oslilka led off with a double, Bellhorn intentionally walked Bowen to set up the force play. But that strategy was negated when a wild throw put the runners at second and third. Stevens then was walked intentionally to load the bases and set up the force play again.

It appeared that the strategy would pay off this time when the next two batters hit ground balls to Rugenius at second base. He came up with the balls and forced the runners at the plate.

But with two out, the next batter put down a perfect hunt. Bellhorn snared the ball only to hit the batter in the back with his throw as the batter and Lon first baseman Brian Hendrix collided near the bag. The batter was ruled safe and Stevens scored with the winning run.

Oviedo (11-4) will play North Florida Christian in a consolation bracket game this afternoon at 4 p.m. If the Lions win, they'll play for fifth place at 1 p.m. Saturday afternoon. Another loss will put them in the seventh place game at 10 a.m.

A dream come true

Scholarship allows SHS grad to play football

By SHIRLEY K. BAKER
Herald Correspondent

For many years now, Britt Lee-Andre Henderson has had a dream, a dream he will soon realize. In August of this year Britt Lee will begin playing football and working toward the acquisition of a bachelor's degree in physical education at Savannah State College in Savannah, Ga.

Because of his prowess on the football field, he has received an Athletic Grant-in-Aid Scholarship which will allow him to continue his education and play his favorite sport, football, at Savannah State College.

Britt Lee, a 1992 graduate of Seminole High School, has completed one year of his post secondary education at Georgia Military College and one semester at Seminole Community College.

While at Seminole High School, his outstanding ability to play football was noted during his junior and senior years by head coach Emory Blake and his position coach and algebra teacher, Greg Register. Britt Lee credits both of these men with steering him in the right direction. He said, "Coach Register told me to always put education first. Because of his encouragement, I made sure that my grades were always above average." He continued, "I had always thought Coach Blake was hard, but after making the varsity team, I soon realized that he was not as difficult as I had thought. He emphasized self-discipline and the use of good manner at all times." Admitting that he, like many other young people, got caught up in the wrong atmosphere, Britt feels that he is blessed and lucky to have been given another chance. He is also thankful to have a family that never lost faith in him. Well-mannered and quiet-spoken, Britt's advice to other young men is, "Do not give up on your dreams. Life has a lot of disappointments, but we must not let them stop us from pursuing our dreams."

He looks forward to playing football with his former high school teammate Kerry Wiggins, also a student at Savannah State. After college, Britt's career goal is to become a football coach.

Savannah State College's head coach Joseph Cosby and position coach, Michael Wallace, both feel that Britt Lee will be a great asset to their team and look forward to working with him when he reports for practice in August.

Basically, 'basically' drives some insane

DEAR ABBY: I am a linguist who teaches English at a university in California. Language has always fascinated me, and one phenomenon that I have noticed recently is the overuse of the word "basically." Have you noticed this? At an international conference for English teachers I attended last year, I kept a running tally of the times I heard the word "basically." Within one 50-minute session, one presenter used "basically" 12 times! I told my mother about it, and she wrote the following poem:

BASICALLY
I've heard things described from A to Z
And they always start out,
"Basically."
It's basically good, or basically bad
It's basically happy, or basically sad.
It's swept through the nation like a great big flood
"Basically" is basically in everyone's blood.
When you get down to basics,
basically for me
I hear it and tune it out automatically.
Basically has become a boring
refrain
Basically, "basically" drives me insane.

SICK OF BASICALLY
IN FRESNO

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR SICK: I, too, am sick of "basically." Overusing a word indicates a limited vocabulary. I nominate "for the most part" as an acceptable alternative for "basically."

DEAR ABBY: My problem is one I rarely see addressed in your column. I have a daughter who is 5 years old and in kindergarten. She has been taught not to talk to strangers. Unfortunately, strangers don't seem to want to leave her alone. We cannot go to the grocery store without some man — usually older — speaking to her or touching her.

Last summer, we had a frightening experience when a strange man grabbed her and tickled her roughly. It took my hysterical screaming to get him to let go of her, and then he acted like I was a nut.

When I try to explain to these men that my daughter is not allowed to talk to strangers, they invariably say, "It's all right; I'm a grandfather!" (As though that ensures he's not a pervert.)

How am I supposed to act? Perverts don't wear signs to identify themselves. So how do I know who is OK and who is not?

MURIEL D. IN WASHINGTON
DEAR MURIEL: You are rightly disturbed when strangers approach your daughter, but please remember that older people were brought up in a time when violence was not so widespread and children were taught to be friendly.

Most strangers mean no harm, but because there is no way to know who is harmless and who is not, you must continue to teach your daughter to be wary of all strangers. You must also teach her how to respond to strangers and how to fight back and get away if necessary.

Weighing risks of pelvic radiation

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss the effects of radiation in the pelvic area. I understand the good cells will repair themselves but the cancer cells will not. Will my muscles be affected or will anything be permanently damaged?

to expect in the way of post-radiation symptoms.

tact America Online by calling 1-800-827-6364, ext. 8317.)

DEAR READER: Pelvic radiation during the performance of routine X-ray studies causes no long-term consequences. I assume that by "radiation in the pelvic area" you mean therapeutic X-ray treatment for cancer.

As you know, radiation therapy releases huge amounts of radiation that is focused by a machine in the area needing treatment. High-dose X-rays kill cancer cells. They also burn or kill normal tissue, but the theory is that new normal cells will re-grow, leaving the dead cancer cells behind.

In the main, this system works; however, damage to normal tissue can, unfortunately, be extensive. Consequently, pelvic radiation usually causes inflammation and irritation of non-malignant tissue, such as the bowel, bladder, reproductive organs, and lymph glands. Muscles, nerves and blood vessels are generally not affected.

Thus, many symptoms may follow pelvic radiation. These include diarrhea, gas, abdominal pain, bleeding into the urine, uterine hemorrhage, and swelling of the legs.

My answer to your question is, by necessity, general. Your specific case may be unique or different in several ways. For instance, you may require less radiation than is customary, which means you would have far fewer side effects, a trade-off that you may have to accept as part of successful therapy. Ask your oncologist or radiation therapist what is in store for you and what

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Bill Root's latest hard-cover book, "How to Defend a Bridge Hand," has just been published by Crown. Copies are available for $28.75 from The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124.

The book is classic Root. More than 400 pages are packed with sound advice and textbook deals that are ideal for the vast majority of players, those who have a good knowledge of the basics but need to have their technique polished for a move into the upper echelons of the game.

Today's deal is typical of the book's content. Against three no-trump, West leads the heart five. After dummy plays low, how should you, East, plan the defense?

Whenever your partner leads his fourth-highest card, use the Rule of 11. Subtracting five from 11 tells you that there are six cards higher than the five in the North, East and South hands combined. As you can see five of them, you know South has only one. And that card is likely to be the queen, given his two-no-trump response. If so, you must insert the heart seven.

With this layout, your seven forces out declarer's queen. He plays a spade, but your partner wins with the king and — hopefully — leads a second heart. You take two heart tricks and return any card. When partner gets in with the spade ace, he cashes the heart 10 to defeat the contract.

Declarer should insert dummy's nine at trick one. Then you would play the jack without problem. But when South calls for dummy's three, you must cover with the seven to avoid giving declarer a second heart stopper.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol
YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 1, 1994

An exciting year ahead could be in the offing for you. Three individuals who were once very important to you in past stages of your life might make their presence felt once again.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You should be operating on the same wavelength today with persons of influence. Now is the time to press for a favor, even if you don't know the potential donor too well. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences which are governing you in the year ahead. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today by mailing $2 and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 4465, New York, N.Y. 10163. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your gregarious manner, charm and sense of humor are valuable keys today that could unlock important doors for you. Focus on constructive endeavors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)

Someone you find appealing, but who has never responded to you, might undergo a change of heart at this time which is something you should now investigate for yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you are an unattached Cancer who has been looking to establish a new relationship, your wishes might be answered today when a friend introduces you to someone very special.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today if you first set the proper example, subordinates may be willing to go those extra few steps for you, even if you do not request it of them.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Presently you may be far more popular than you give yourself credit for. This might be verified today when you find yourself the center of attention wherever you go.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Let the person you love know today how much you truly care for him/her. Don't be afraid to be demonstrative, even if it is in front of sedate friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your common sense and skills as a mediator might be required today when two pals reach an impasse. Instinctively you'll know how to ease the tension and get them chattering.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to devote your working hours today to labors of love rather than tiring tasks. Doing things you enjoy could prove to be both profitable and pleasant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You have a deft touch today which enables you to lead and inspire others if you choose to do so. This is a rare gift that should only be used judiciously and sparingly for full impact.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Let your heart rule your head today when dealing with family members or persons who have gone out of their way to be helpful to you in the past.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Starting today you might have an opportunity to begin to know better someone who you recently met. This person has a potential to end up a close friend.
