Altamonte Gets Out The Vote By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS -Workers in both the Floyd and Swofford camps were optimistic today as the biggest voter turnout in the city's history appeared at the city's three polling places. Mayor Norman Floyd, in his bid for a second term in office - this time for a three-year term as designated under the new city charter - was entertaining an assistant editorin-chief of a national newspaper from French Africa.

His opponent, veteran officeholder for 20 years of this community before his defeat by less than 200 votes by Floyd two years ago - was canvassing his campaign team to be sure they were getting out the vote.

By 10 a.m. today 522 city voters of the 3,992 eligible on the books had cast ballots at the three polling places - 92 at city hall, 268 at the civic center and 162 at the Montgomery Road fire house.

By JOE ASKREN Herald Staff Writer

The number of Seminole County non-welfare families drawing food stamps has risen more 12 months, Food Stamp Supervisor Curtis Spencer said Monday. Spencer said while the number of households in the county receiving public assistance aid as well as food stamps decreased slightly from 679 in October 1974 to 636 last month, those families not on welfare but certified to receive food stamps more than doubled from 1,108 in 1974 to 2,245 last month.

From September to October alone, there was

Spencer. That number was 1,958 in September and 2,245 last month. Spencer said the reason for the increase is the continued high unemployment rate in the county. He estimated the present unemployment rate at near 13 per cent.

"Either the unemployment rate is worsening or the number of additional people coming to Seminole County are looking for jobs," said Spencer. He said the county's population has grown from 83,692 in 1970 to more than 140,000 today.

"I think that until the construction picks up the picture will continue to be very bleak. . . There are so many people in construction related industries who cannot find work," said Spencer.

At the same time, Spencer said his office has received no firm guidelines to help curb abuses of the present food stamp program, but added: "We are looking for some changes. . . I think there are too many people in the country upset about the large number receiving the stamps and want to see the program under better control."

Spencer said he believes food stamps should go to the people who really need them. He speculated that maybe as much as 25 per cent of the total number in the county on food stamps (welfare and non-welfare families) do not need them and have supplied misinformation on their applications. He estimated an average of some 40 applications

each year are referred i the state for fraud. He said he has five making repayments now.

Spencer said Senators George McGovern and James Buckley and ministration are considering proposals now to reduce the number of striking workers, students and people with higher incomes using food stamps. "We won't know the outcome of the Congressional deliberations to modify the program until a final bill is agreed upon," said Spencer. "We'll be happy to see the first move when the numbers slow down," he added

Under the present eligibility rules, Spencer said, an applicant for food stamps is allowed a example, is allowed a maximum monthly income of $540, and still be eligible for food stamps. U.S. Congressman Bill Chappell (D-Ocala) who represents Sanford, said last week "slipshod federal government has turned our food stamp program into a colossal rip-off of public money."

Chappell said a bill now in Congress which would eliminate the existing scandal and give the nation a genuinely worthy and humane food assistance program is the National Food Stamp Reform Act.

NATION IN BRIEF

Nominees Appear Headed For Senate Confirmation

WASHINGTON (AS) - Nominees in President Ford's top_level shakeup appear headed for smooth Senate confirmation although some senators are voicing concern over the future status of such issues as detente, CIA secrecy and defense spending.

The President annouced Monday night that he would nominate Donald Rumsfeld as secretary of defense. Elliot L. Richardson as secretary of commerce and George Bush as director of the CIA. All three need Senate con currence Senate backers of the policies of fired Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger said they want to know if Rumsfeld will carry on the fight against defense spending cuts and arms concessions to the Soviets.

Reagan Concedes Ford Points

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Ronald Reagan says Vice President Rockefeller's departure from the 1976 Republican ticket should help President Ford's candidacy. But the former California governor apparently remains poised to become a presidential candidate before the end of November.

Reagan conceded Monday during his national speaking tour into South Florida that Rockefeller's departure from the ticket will make it harder for him or any other conservative to mount a campaign against Ford. "A number of conservative Republicans have expressed dissatisfaction with the other half of the ticket (Rockefeller)," Reagan said. "So in that way, it should help President Ford."

Colby Ouster Scored

MIAMI (AP) - A former Central Intelligence Agency officer says the ouster of Director William Colby means the government's beleaguered intelligence-gathering arm will lose a leader who tried to correct its "excesses."

Mike Ackerman, who is writing a book lambasting the CIA for reported involvement in foreign assasaid Monday that Colby helped reform the agency and prevent the kind of abuses being exposed in the press and before Congressional investigators.

"We've lost the man who more than anyone else has set a new tone for the agency," Ackerman said. "The excesses weren't corrected by the Senate or House. They were investigated and corrected by (James) Schlesinger and Colby."

GOP Looks At Deep South

WASHINGTON (AP) - Republican hopes were cen tered on the unlikely target of a Deep South governorship today as party officials scanned a scattered lineup of oddyear elections for evidence of a GOP comeback. Voters were electing governors in two states and legislators in four, while 35 big cities chose mayors. Local issues and personalities were dominant in what campaigning there was, and it will be difficult for the national parties to read much into the outcome. That isn't to say they won't try. Democrats would like to show they can win without Watergate, and Republicans are looking for an antidote to their landslide losses in 1974 congressional and state elections.

Fromme Trial To Begin

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Lynette Fromme, charged with attempting to assassinate President Ford. goes on trial with the possibility of legal issues yielding center stage to a courtroom duel between the devotee of the Charles Manson family and the presiding judge. Jury selection begins today in the trial of Miss Fromme, 27, who was arrested in a park near the state Capitol Sept. 5 after Secret Service agents said she pointed a loaded .45-caliber pistol at Ford from two feet away. Miss Fromme was found mentally competent to stand trial and has been held under $350,000 bail in a maximum security cell here.

Hearst Hearing Scheduled

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) - A hearing on the mental competence of Patricia Hearst could spur a swift trial date or dalay proceedings indefinitely for the newspaper heiress.

Miss Hearst was scheduled to appear at the hearing today before U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter. who will issue the ruling on her competence to stand trial on charges of taking part in a bank robbery while she was a fugitive with the Symbionese Liberation Army, Attorneys for Miss Hearst, who has not yet entered a plea, said she would not take the witness stand.

Kissinger To Offer Memo

WASHINGTON (AP) - Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger reportedly will offer a dissenting State Department memorandum to the House intelligence committee, but it is uncertain whether the panel will accept the action as an answer to its subpoena.

Chairman Otis G. Pike, D-N.Y., said he probably would vote at a meeting today to ask full House backing to act against Kissinger for allegedly defying the committee subpoena for the memo written by Thomas D. Boyatt, the department's Cyprus desk chief, during last year's Cyprus crisis.

Retirement Ruling Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) --- The Supreme Court, scheduled this winter to review mandatory retirement laws covering public employes, has upheid without comment a lower court decision that a Louisiana retirement law is constitutional.

While lawyers and judges are divided over how much weight to give to such summary affirmations by the court. Monday's Supreme Court action in a case involving the Louisiana law held little comfort for opponents of mandatory retirement.

Bus Protest Turns Violent

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) - Police used war gas and made at loast seven arrests in breaking up an angry crowd of brick and bottle-throwing protesters after an election eve antibusing rally in southern Jefferson County.

Delay Called Political

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - The Interior Department's delay in deciding whether phosphate can be mined in the Osceola National Forest is politically motivated because facts already prove that such mining should be banned, two environmental groups charge.

"We can only speculate that the proposed delay ... is politically motivated by a desire to avoid the consequences of authorizing destruction of the Osceola National Forest immediately prior to an election year," the groups said in a joint statement Monday.

The Florida Audubon Society and the Florida Defenders of the Environment asked the state's congressional delegation to investigate Interior Secretary Thomas S. Kleppe's decision for additional studies in the North Florida forest.

Student Regent Bill Passed

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - A bill to get a student on the Board of Regents has been tacked onto one that would cut regents' terms from nine to five years. The House Education Committee passed a bill Monday to reduce terms for regents after adding the section on student membership. The bill would allow the governor to appoint members to one additional five-year term. Rep. Wayne McCall, D-Ocala, sponsor of the bill and a former regent, said the measure was needed because the lengthy term with the high demand on time meant only

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Broward County's school board may have been as much in violation of a law banning strikes by public employes as the 5,000 teachers who struck in September, says a state labor-relations official. Curtis Mack, chairman of the Public Employe Relations Commission, told the House commerce and labor subcommittee Monday that evidence shows the board violated the law by refusing to bargain in good He said PERC obtained an injunction against both the ST. AUGUSTINE (AP) - A teen-ager whose foot was badly chewed by a 6-foot-long shark says he will paddle his surfboard back into the Atlantic as soon as his 30 or so stitches are taken out.

"I've seen sharks out there all the time, and I never thought they'd bother me," Scott Lee Hurst said Monday from his hospital bed. "But I'll go back out when my foot gets well."

Hurst, 18, from the inland city of San Mateo, said he was surfing at Crescent Beach south of here Sunday and was about 45 feet out in water when the shark lunged at him.

Ford Vows Florida Fight

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - President Ford says reports that he will make only a token effort in Florida's 1976 presidential primary are "completely inaccurate." Ford made his comment in a taped interview with four television newsmen. INSURANCE AGENCY Get In The Swim This Winter Wilson Solar Pool Heater

Up until now, if you owned wimming pool in Central Florida you had two choices; a costly pool heater with high operating expense, or a pool you could enjoy only a few days during the winter season.

Now you have another choice, Wilson Solar Pool Heater with low first cost and free fuel to heat your pool, because you make the sun your hardworking servant. A solar swimming pool heater has just 3 components: collector, circulator and reservoir. As a pool owner, you have 2 of them already - the circulator (filter pump) and reservoir (the pool itself). All you need to add is the collector for the sun's heat, and the more advanced. kind is the concentration-type Wilson Solar Heat Pool Heater. Unlike the large, cumbersome, unsightly coil type that mounts on your roof, the Wilson Heater is a compact, high efficiency, concentrationtype solar heating system. One of the secrets of the efficiency of its compact design is the technique of collecting solar energy, as utilized in the solar ovens developed for outdoors men. # U.S.-Sino Relations Improving Slowly

No Westerner may fully understand the workings of the Oriental mind, but the curtain is lifting slowly with each visit that U.S. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger makes to Peking.

In typical fashion, the Chinese leadership began putting the props on the stage long before the American secretary of state arrived. For example, Peking flatly ruled out a visit to China by the mayor of Puerto Rico, taking the occasion to brand the United States as an imperialistic power.

When the United States shrugged off the incident, Peking raised its voice higher to claim for the first time that Washington violated the 1972 Shanghai agreement by permitting a Tibetan dance troupe to tour the United States. The Shanghai communique is the basis of current U.S.-Chinese relations.

At the same time that Chinese officials were slapping rhetorically at the United States, they also were insisting that Mr. Kissinger must visit Peking, and that President Ford must come to China later this year.

The alternating warm and cool treatment continued after Mr. Kissinger arrived in China. At a welcoming banquet Foreign Minister Chiao Kuan-hua sharply warned the U.S. delegation about continuing a policy of detente with the Soviet Union. Mr. Kissinger was not told immediately that he could see Mao Tsetung, the highest Communist Chinese honor that he could receive. Instead Mao saw the king and queen of Mali, whose picture instead of Kissinger's appeared in official newspapers on the following day.

The freeze ended on the second day when Mr. Kissinger and eight of his staff, including a secretary, saw Mao and the receptions were warm and friendly. Finally, as Mr. Kissinger departed the diplomatic climate became formal and chilly once again.

For those who are puzzled, Mr. Kissinger's words on the final day may help put matters into perspective. He accurately noted that the United States and China are both self reliant nations which deal with reality, not rhetoric,

The words that were exchanged in Peking are secondary to the fact that Mr. Kissinger was there and that Mr. Ford will visit soon, U.S.-Chinese diplomacy is moving forward despite impasses over such issues as Taiwan and Korea. China needs the leadership and the strength of the United States. This is the reality.

The words that surrounded the reality were China's way of telling the United States not to take her for granted and the Third World that U.S.-Chinese relations are a strategic marriage of convenience rather than a meeting of minds on ideology.

The United States by and large cannot quarrel with that conclusion.

Toward More Jobs

In 1946, the United States paid lip service to the ideal of full employment when the Congress passed and President Truman signed the Full Employment Act. Today, with unemployment at more than 8 per cent as a national average, we are far short of attaining the ideal. The Full Employment Act seems to have been little more than a statement of good intentions.

We have better unemployment compensation programs and better welfare plans but these only cushion the hardships unemployment causes. In 30 years we have been able to accomplish little or nothing to eliminate the root causes of unemployment itself. During good times it is easy to forget the unemployed.

During hard times, there are more of them. It is difficult to ignore their plight. Somehow the system should guarantee a useful job to every American who sincerely wants to work and is able tc do so. We must not lose sight of this goal and we must not give up hope of reaching it.

Reactor Insurance Keys Debate Nuclear power, the bright dream of the 1960s

has only recently surpassed firewood in its contribution to the nation's total energy supply, noted one authority not long ago.

Well, it may be a little better than that According to figures compiled by the Atomic Industrial Forum, an association of companies involved in the nuclear field, as of the end of 1974. 45 nuclear power plants were in operation, accounting for some 8 per cent of the electricity generated nationwide and saving consumers $700 million on their electric bills. This is what it would have cost, says the Forum, to produce the same amount of power using coal or oil. In addition, firm commitments for more than 200 nuclear power plants have been made by the industry and it is projected that by 1987, nuclear power should be supplying more than 35 per cent of the nation's electricity. Nevertheless, the future of nuclear power remains clouded with uncertainties, especially concerning the safety of reactors. The continued orderly development of nuclear power, says the industry, hinges on renewal of the Price-Anderson Act, which since 1957 has insured the public against financial loss from nuclear accidents and is due to expire in 1977. H.R. 8631, a bill to extend the act for 10 years, was the subject of hearings before the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy in September.

At present under Price-Anderson, nuclear plants are insured by a private pool up to $125 million. In case of an accident, federal indemnity payments would supplement this to an upper limit of $560 million.

This bill is The work you and your staff have done is building reactors.

The industry counters that the record speaks for itself: No member of the general public has ever been injured as a result of nuclear power reactor operation, and no claims have ever been filed under Price-Anderson. A governmentcommissioned study puts the chances of a "worst case" accident on the order of once in a million years for every 100 reactors in operation. Moreover, it is argued, the public is further protected because Price-Anderson bars such technical legal defenses as contributory negligence or a statute of limitations. It is a nofault system in which a claimant need only show that he suffered damages.

This would no longer be true if the system were per gallons of water used. allowed to revert to individual state tort or Why has my water bill increased by three statutory law, says Martin Victor, vice president of Babcock & Wilcox, a supplier of nuclear reactor components and fuel. ## Turf Club Odds Board Under Fire As Infamous Driver Series Opens

No one asked me, but:

- The odds board at the Seminole Turf Club will get the supreme test Wednesday night when news media members climb aboard nine sulkies and try and sprint around the track in championship form. At last check, the morning line started at 99-1 and went skyward.

It's about as slow from the sulky as a roller

Seminole CC Cagers Preview

- Basketball season is creeping in quicker than anyone realizes

Proof is in the pudding. Saturday night Seminole Community College stages its annual homecoming game in which the varsity plays its alumni

This year, two games are to be played. The faculty plays the freshmen at 7, followed by the varsity-alumni game at 8. The freshmen aren't as big of favorites as one might think. Mainly because the faculty has some pretty good shots scattered around the campus. Like Bob Ek, Ed Seamer, Barry Keim, Larry Castle and Charlie Craig.

The alumni won't exactly be strangers, either. Vernell Ellzy couldn't make it, but the list of shows is expected to include Simon Harper, Greg Robinson, Jim Gilchrist, John Thomas, Fred Milton, Earl Stokes, Bill Corso and Gary Sanborn. Harper, of course, was All-American at Seminole and went on to star at Florida Southern for two years. He's been out of school for four years now, but here's a bet that he can still shoot the eyes out of the bucket.

Coach Joe Sterling is going to have a real fine basketball team this season, from the looks of some promising freshmen and a handful of returnees. The season opener is still almost two weeks off, but this scrimmage should tell more about just how good the Raiders might be.

Golden Olympics Next Week

 Area senior citizens hesitant about entering the Golden Age Olympics next week, should consider that while entries are heavy for sports like bowling, golf and tennis, they are light for many other events

And that means the chances of winning one of the superb medallions given to first, second and third placers is excellent. Events range down to the simplest, like arts and crafts.

The catch is that entrants have to be 55 or over, and cost is not prohibitive. Not at 50 cents a throw. Plans are for the week-long ceremonies to be kicked off Monday at 10 when 69-year-old John DePont runs down Sanford Avenue carrying the symbolic torch. DePont, of DeBary, has competed in the Boston marathon several times. Jack Horner, sponsoring Chamber of Commerce director, is hoping the "entire city turns out for the ceremonies.
