Parents learn facts of teen life

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — In March, law enforcement officials joined forces with the Seminole County Public Schools and the Seminole County Parent Teacher Association (SCPTA) to help parents learn some of the "facts of life" about teen agers.

In April, there will be opportunities at each of the six high schools in the county for parents to learn about the response of law enforcement and legal and judicial system to teen problems.

In addition, there will be discussions about the legal liabilities and responsibilities shared by parents and teens.

Air show takes to the wild blue yonder

By SHARI BRODIE Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — It was "touch and go" for a while at Air Show Orlando, not on the ground but in the skies.

As air show gates opened at 8 a.m. at Central Florida Regional Airport Saturday morning, soaking rains, which started late Friday afternoon and continued through the night, were just subsiding. Cloud cover brought the "ceiling" close to the ground, and made things look bleak for the air show, literally and figuratively.

But, as shows began at noon, the clouds began to break and the ceiling rose from 400 feet to almost 1000 feet in less than 30 minutes, according to annoucer Frank Kingston Smith. The performance schedule was re-arranged to Bee Fly, Page 5A

Wilson students hear the beat of a different drummer

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The sound of drums in the distance draws you down the hallway toward the cafetorium.

Pounding, Pulsing, Sending your mind reeling toward the Dark Continent.

Larry Hamberry, dressed in traditional African garb, pounds steadily on the drums in the corner. A teaching assistant offers her talents as well.

A short distance away, youngsters watch their every move. Some play an invisible instrument of their own, pounding out the same beat as Hanberry. Others stare, transfixed by the sound.

by the sound.

Hanberry said he has been playing traditional African instruments for decades.

He started playing for various African-American dance troupes in New York City, including the George Gershwin African Dance Troupe, based at a junior high school in his native Brooklyn, N.Y., and the Amahamelt Weust Dance Troupe in New York City.

Hanberry is at Wilson on this day, and at other schools around Central Florida on other days, to try to teach the youngsters about the history of music through its African roots.

He involves the youngsters in the music through both listening and hands-on interaction with the instruments.

He has a collection of more than Hamberry said he spent 18 years as a drug education specialist in Brooklyn before coming to central Florida six years ago. It was there he found that the youngsters who were involved in music in one way or another were less likely to get involved in drugs or alcohol.

Spring Break: 200,000 hit Daytona

DAYTONA BEACH - The bronzed and the burned, the beer-bellied and the svelte, the innocent and the outrageous are gathering by the thousands for the annual ritual of Spring

"I'm here for the tan, the parties, the beach and the men." said 18-year-old Brooke Snelling, who drove 23 hours to Daytona Beach with three friends from Naperville, Ill.

'it's the happening place. I plan to leave here black," she said, rubbing sun screen on her arms.

She already has one souvenir from Daytona Beach - a pierced navel — and was considering a daisy tattoo on her hip. An estimated 200,000 college students are expected to visit Daytona Beach during the multi-week Spring Break that began in mid-March and ends with Easter. The event pumped $165 million into the local economy last year.

In recent years, with Fort Lauderdale dropping off the college party scene, Daytona Beach and Panama City Beach on Florida's Gulf Coast have competed for the dubious honor of top Spring Break destination. And Daytona has the edge — if you believe Spring Breakers on the beach here.

WEST PALM BEACH — George has had two vasectomies, so when he took up house with Tayke last winter, no one expected anything unseemly.

Now George, a Texas cougar, and Tayke, an endangered Florida panther, are the proud parents of two male kittens.

The 9-year-old Florida panther gave birth two weeks ago in the Dreher Park Zoo. It is the first time the two types of cats have mated in captivity since the panther was placed on the endangered species list in 1977, wildlife officials said. "It's just such a blessing," said zoo curator Clarence Wright.

The kittens have not been named yet and won't make their public debut for at least a month, Wright said.

The Texas cougar is a close cousin to the Florida panthers. Earlier this week, two female cougars were released near the Big Cypress National Preserve in the hopes they will breed in the wild and boister the panthers' blood lines. Only an estimated 50 panthers remain.

McLain plan solves two problems

By BANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The old saying "when life gives you lemons, make lemonade" seemed to be paraphrased by a Seminole County commissioner last week when he proposed a plan to help solve two separate problems ... providing affordable housing for the poor and reducing the high cost of demolishing houses purchased by the county in numerous road widening projects.

Commissioner Daryl McLain received a favorable response from his fellow board members when he proposed moving, rather than destroying homes the county buys along road rights-of-way.

"The county has an extensive road building program." McLain noted, "and houses in the right-of-way could be moved to an amenable site and used to provide affordable housing."

Houses along roads undergoing or slated for construction, such as Airport Boulevard, County Road 427 and State Road 46A are purchased then boarded up. It costs the county thousands of dollars to have the structures demolished.

"We tried to sell the houses and got bids in the $10 to $50 range," McLain said. The houses already owned by the county could be moved and rehabilitated with qualified housing funds, the commissioner suggested. adding the county could provide low income housing quickly while saving the cost of demolishing livable structures. Many times, the dwellings condemned for road programs are in better condition and have a higher assessed value than houses earmarked for rehabilitation for low income housing.

The commissioners suggested companies in the house-moving business be contacted to see if the program is fiscally feasible. McLain did not propose where the homes would be relocated.

1927: Church building begins

By MARGARET WEBLEY Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY - "On December 15, 1927 actions were initiated that resulted on the erection of our present church building. The following persons were named to serve on the Building Committee: P.D. Anderson, Frank Evans, W.V. Dunn, W.G. Ferguson and J.M. Thompson. An architect, Mr. J.L. Snoddy, volunteered his service and worked out the plans.

A large crew of volunteer laborers started to work on Monday, Dec. 26, 1927. Chester Saunders was the foreman in charge. His ability to manage volunteer labor had a great deal to do with the success of this enterprise. Fifty different persons volunteered some service on this building. Leon Pickering and Walter Flanders, carpenters with experience, were the leading workmen on the crew. Mr. Frank Evans took a leading part on our building committee in establishing our credit, in dealing for material, and assisting in financing our crew. Other liberal

The Way We Were: Inside the SHS Salmagundi, 1934

One of the accomplishments that the Seminole High School Class of 1934 is most proud of is their publishing of the 25th edition of the Salmagundi. Re-member that the country was in the depth of the Great Depression so there was a very real possibility that a yearbook would not be published. But the class was not daunted by this almost impossible situation and went about getting the job done.

Costs were cut by eliminating the expensive cover and sub-stituting one of Marveleather, by reducing the number of pages. and by holding fund-raisers.

Expenses were further curtailed by accepting the bid of local printer, Celery City Printing Company, who understood their situation. The bid by President W.M. Haynes was for $654 for 500 books. There would be 72 pages with separate colored headings and a cover of Marveleather in two colors.

The majority of the pages eliminated were the advertisement pages which had numbered 20 the previous year. It was explained in the Salmagundi that the merchanta, when approached with the facts. were very generous in con-tributing to the work. Instead of the usual advertisements, there is just one page listing the 73 contributors. I counted 93 advertisements in the 1933 yearbook.

Block home burgiaries

Sanford police were called to the 300 block of Borada Road, in Hidden Lakes, twice on Wednesday, both in connection with home burglaries. In both cases, police said entry was made by breaking open a screen door to gain access.

An estimated $50 in assorted coins and $2,140 in jewelry and other items were reported missing from one of the homes. Police said the second home was apparently not entered, although the screen had been broken.

Block vehicle burglaries

Sheriff's deputies were called to residences in the 500 block of Holbrook Circle near Lake Mary, twice on Wednesday. One resident told deputies his 1986 Buick, parked in the driveway. had been stolen. The vehicle was later located abandoned on Remington Oaks Drive.

The second call was in regard to a vehicular burglary just a few doors away. An estimated $2,164 in tools and other items were said to have been taken from a truck.

•James Greg Sefried, 35, 1301 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, was found walking on Fourth Street near Sanford Avenue Wednesday. Deputies found he was wanted on a warrant for violation of probation/community control, on a conviction of

• Mary Dianna Acree, 38, 161 Southwest Third St., was served a warrant at the jail Wednesday. She was wanted for failing to appear on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting an officer without violence.

• Melina Shea Robertson, 22, 1065 Second Place, Longwood, was located by deputies at his residence Wednesday. He was wanted for violation of probation on a conviction of conspiracy to traffic in cannabis in excess of 100 pounds.

• James Michael Nicely, 31, 1109 E. Second St., Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at his residence Wednesday. He was wanted for attempted sale of conterfeit substance.

• Samuel Ray Bumgardner Jr., 32, 1908 Holly Ave., Sanford, was served a warrant at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility Wednesday. He was wanted for failing to appear on a charge of

Sheriff reports

●An estimated $1,830 in items were reportedly stolen Wednesday from an apartment in the 700 block of Creekwater Terrace near Lake Mary.

Two vehicles were reportedly burglarized Wednesday on Benchmark Lane in the Midway Commerce Park. A handgun and other items with a total value of $380 were reportedly taken from a 1975 Mercedes. Although entry was made, nothing was immediately determined to be missing from a 1068 Ford van.

Burglary arrests

Sheriff's deputies arrested three women Thursday, following an investigation into the reported theft of an estimated $300 in clothing from a store in the Altamonte Mall in December, 1994. The three were identified as Tammy Lee Brooks, 26, of 2580 Ridgewood Ave., Lucille Brooks, 19, of 109 Hidden Meadow Cove, Fern Park, and Tusha Williams, 18, of 257 Academy Place, Oviedo. Each of the three was was located at their residences. They were wanted on a capiases for grand theft in connection with the incident.

Student battered

Sheriff's deputies arrested Brian Joseph Marotta, 19, of 598 Tail Oaks Terrace, Longwood, in the 3600 block of Lake Emma Boad Thursday, Deputies, said the arrest was the result of an incident in Creekwater Terrace on March 25, when a man knocked on the door of a residence. When a Lake Mary High School student opened the door, he told deputies five men rushed into the home and two of them began beating him, in what was said to have been a dispute over a female. Marotta was arrested on charges of aggravated battery and burglary to an occupied dwelling. A second man suspected of having been involved in the beating is still being sought by deputies.

Prostitution arrest

Cathy Grace Dinge, 43, no address, was arrested by Sanford police during a Special Investigative Unit (SIU) undercover operation at Second Street and Sanford Avenue Thursday. She was charged with assignation to commit prostitution, and resisting an officer without violence.

Double burglary

Sanford police responded twice in the past two days to burglary reports at the Boys & Oiris Club, 919 Persimmon Ave. On Thursday, police responded when a burglar alarm sounded.

A VCR, valued at $200 was reportedly stolen.

Early Friday, police responded again to the club. Entry had been made by breaking open a glass area. The only item reported missing was a TV set valued at $350.

Goldsboro slated for new housing

By NICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Housing continues to expand in Sanford, with a new residential area planned in the Goldsboro area.

The Sanford City Commission approved development of a present vacant area off McCracken Road, just west of Airport Boulevard and adjacent to Academy Manor. According to plans for the development, the medium density residential area is scheduled to have a total of 83 units with a density of 8.3 dwelling unita per acre.

Sanford's director of Planning and Development, Jay Marder, explained that the city has directed substantial community development block grant and related HUD programs into the Goldsboro neighborhood primarily for the purpose of improving and rehabilitating housing. As such, he said, the prospect of additional new housing development in the Goldsboro area is seen as a positive development that will contribute to the city meeting goals and objectives set forth in the city's housing element of the Comprehensive Plan.

Traffic studies indicate that when fully developed, the new residential area may produce an expected 869 trips per day which will have an impact on Airport Boulevard traffic.

The boulevard is a two-lane facility, county maintained, which is planned to become a four-lane artery in 1997. As such, Marder says there should be no adverse effect on the level of service for traffic on Airport.

During discussion of the proposal, members of the City Commission asked what the proposed sale price would be on the homes.

Bruce Andersen, representing the proposed developer. explained that the prices were not established at the present time. "We probably won't know with a builder," he explained.

The City Commission voted unanimously to approve an amendment to the city's Comprehensive Plan to designate the land for medium density residential area, and the rezoning of the land from RI-1, Restricted Industrial, to PD. Planned Development.

Anderson did not speculate any starting time for the devel-

Details, details

It's ironic. Government agencies find it necessary to postpone making a decision because, they say, "they don't have enough information."

At times, it's a matter of not enough specific details or information about potential profits and losses. There are a few times however, when the lack of information is used as a scapegoat to avoid making a decision which will upset certain groups regardless of which way the cookie crumbles.

We see several points to this game of postponement, delay and denial.

Number one, why is someone making a presentation if all of the facts are not studied and available. They should be able to answer almost any question asked regarding a request and/or suggestion.

Number two, why are our people in leadership bringing matters back for discussion and/or consideration time after time if they KNOW they won't have complete details.

This type of action wastes time which could (and should) be spent in making other decisions, and it wastes the time of the people who may attend a government meeting to speak out on a particular situation.

When persons who propose certain projects have everything compiled and all the facts and figures fine-tuned, the public should be made fully aware of them, then they should be brought up for government consideration.

In this way, we believe it will be a much better example of government of and by the people. Give the public information on what is proposed, what it will produce in the future, and how people, will benefit the produce to the future and how people.

Try to all something past government with suggestions and concepts irether than facts and figures, and surprise the public with it, and there is no other choice but to believe a project may have some hidden intent.

We commend all of our government bodies that refuse to accept anything until all of the i's are dotted and all of the t's are crossed.

At the same time, we must ask, without including all of the facts, why do people consistently bring matters up for decisions in the first place?

It makes you want to say, "Hmmmmm-mmm?"

More from Commissioner Warren

Seminole County has often been considered a bedroom community because the bulk of tax generating industries and businesses made Orange County their home. Noted for the quality of its schools and because of its proximity to Orange County. Seminole County became the preferred residential community for young families. These factors contributed to the discrepancy in sources of tax revenue between Orange County and Seminole County. Orange County depends upon single family tax for about 40 percent of its revenue while Seminole County depends upon single family tax for about 70 percent of its revenue.

Targeted economic development for Seminole County became one of Commissioner Pat Warren's major priorities in order to alleviate the burden borne by families. Creating an inviting environment for high tech industries, corporate headquarters and commercial enterprises was imperative. The objective was to provide good solid jobs and simultaneously broaden the tax base, with the median salary for new jobs $35,000 annually.

In accord with the county's economic thrust, Seminole was the first county in Florida to develop its comprehensive economic plan and submit it to the state.

The second phase in the county's economic development plan involved hiring Bob Turk. Turk's responsibilities were to develop and implement economic initiatives for the county.

SEMINOLE

LURLENE SWEETING

The third phase was accomplished when the county made available $750,000 to be used as incentives for businesses.

Tax incentives does not mean actually giving companies cash but rather deferring taxes and permit cost as a means of encouraging businesses to move here. The incentives are based on the number of square footage, the capital investment and the new jobs generated. Incentives provide a window of opportunity for businesses to get on their feet and a 15-20 year commitment to remain is generally secured.

Turk and Commissioner Warren serve on the Economic Development Commission, a regional body that plans for economic development in Central Florida.

Turk reports to the commissioners relative to economic development. His duties entail: developing and implementing economic action plans: aiding in the expansion of existing industries; assisting with the relocation of new industries and related projects and activities.

Turk's report for the period Oct. 1, 1993 to Sept. 30, 1994 reflected our progress. The total capital investment in the county was $40,297,400 (over 40 million dollars) with 622,380 (over six hundred thousand) square footage and a creation or saving of 865 jobs.

AT&T will be moving a part of their corporate headquarters to Lake Mary and Cincinnali Bell will also be moving to Lake Mary. Dixon Ticonderoga (the pencil people) will be moving to Heathrow.

Warren concluded that the county commissioners had practiced sound fiscal management by holding down taxes on county operations for four years. They even lowered the taxes one year. However, there is a mandate from the judicial system including the state attorney and the Clerk of Court to provide more space, personnel and equipment for judicial operations. Consequently, the county commissioners are in the process of examining needs in the area. A feasibility study of funding and design criteria as well as the possibility of an incremental construction plan are being considered.

Pat Warren, like many mothers and grandmothers, is genuinely concerned about enhancing the quality of life in this county. Warren is expecting her 10th grandchild momentarily. Two of her three children and seven of her grandchildren make Seminole County their home.

Warning: This column may make you think

You know I was watching a movie the other day. "Die Hard II": not a bad expenditure of two hours if you like that sort of entertainment. But there was one thing which kept popping up around every commercial break which truly got me to thinking. It was the disclaimer. To wit: This presentation may contain some violence which might be deemed offensive to some of our viewing audience. Viewer discretion is advised. What a wonderful statement. "... might contain some violence ..." For those of you who may not have seen

"" For those of you who may not have seen that particular bit of choice cinemagraphic pap. I believe that someone died or something was blown up at least every three of four minutes. Might contain some violence? Ha! Why didn't they just say what was what? This film is incredibly violent, and unless you get your vicarious joilies out of such things, you might consider watching some other channel for the next two hours. Sometimes I think people are just afraid to tell the truth these days, for fear of what might happen. In the above situation, almost everyone probably knows what kind of a movie "Die Hard" was, and they could watch it again or not if they so choose. As it was rated R in the theaters. I question it being on in the early hours of a Sunday afternoon in any event; I mean to have censured it sufficiently enough to make it acceptable family fare, one would have been forced to cut 90 percent of the whole thing. Of course, the competition between networks wouldn't have allowed that, sooo, we ended up with that ridiculous disclaimer. In order to placate the moralistic watchdogs in the television viewing community (and to garner the highest commercial revenue from the inserted advertisements) the station in question put that little statement in at each commercial break, to cull out the faint of heart and easily offended. Bunk! As most parents stop supervising their children's viewing activities by the age of six, and as such a statement automatically guarantees an increased share of the viewing market simply because it's inserted (puerile pleasures and all that), the statement was simply pointless.

Television is by no means the only place the obvious is understated and ignored; most walks of life have their disclaimers. Diet plans: ... Before undertaking this revolutionary and ego-increasing positive change in your life, consult your private physician ... Carnival rides ... The 10 G's of force alternately applied to first one side of your body and then the other in less than a split second might promote feelings of queusiness among some patrons ... Power tools ... Caution should be exercised when operating, etc. ... Do we really pay attention? I mean how many of us actually consult with a physician before taking that new over-the-counter wonder cure-all? Do we really get on a roller coaster because of its letsurely meanderings around a very large and flat course? And it would seem fairly obvious to most people that if you put your hand in a table saw or garbage disposal or drive a car while doped up on cold meds, the possibility of bodily injury is increased somewhat.

'I remember my father once becoming quite upset at the state of New Jersey for requiring that motorcycle riders wear helmets for their own protection. Now you need to understand that to the best of my knowledge and recollection, my father never rode a motorcycle in his life, nor had he even the remotest thing philosophically in common with those who did (this before lawyers and doctors took over the Harley D. crowd). No, the pater was upset because he viewed the state's interference in the personal freedoms of bikers as being a bit too much and somewhat unnecessary. I recall being bemused by his position at the time, but with age comes wisdom. I now understand a bit more of where he was coming from.

To my way of thinking, disclaimers and limited warranties and maybe even the little tag on the edge of pillows are the attempt by big brother to somehow protect us from ourselves. If even one TV station in this vast country was ever successfully sued for running a movie deemed unfit by someone, then some wise and crafty lawyer or legislative body figured out that a disclaimer would prevent further lawsuits. If through warning us in advance that an amusement park ride might tend to interact with the cotton candy, three hot dogs, two aodas and a burrito which had been so recently consumed, the attraction owners might avoid an irate client. By all means, plaster the whole park with those signs. And if informing us in itty-bitty type that a certain piece of erotically stimulating visual art was intended for educational purposes only ... well, that's a slightly different

What is on the mark and to the point and only for those with an intellectual capacity equal to the challenge of accepting the possibility of a divergent viewpoint, with or without future integration into their own personal belief patterns and regardless of race, creed, sex, or religious affiliation ... is the fact that sometimes, we should accept the responsibility for our own actions rather than allow others to do for us.

Outraged by column

Jerry Stewart's column in the March 28 edition of your newspaper was outrageous. The Heraid should feel ashamed of liself for allowing this trash into print.

The column concerns a woman who is agonizing over an overwhelming burden of debt. Stewart does not suggest that she work out a payment plan with her creditors or that she pursue any similarly honorable course of action. Instead, he advises her to simply renege on her obligations. (He knows that this is easy to do since he evidently did so to the tune of $250,000.00!) In Stewart's view, it is all right to stiff a hospital since their bills are "highly inflated." (Doesn't it occur to Stewart that if hospital charges are inflated, it is partly to cover the costs of people who skip out on their bilis?) One wonders what his standards are for stiffing other creditors. Stewart then advises this woman to be careful to not earn too much money, since it would jeopardize her Social Security payment! Laboration -

This column demonstrates the mindeet of a parasite. Stewart's personal character deficiencies are his own business. The Herald, though, ought not to provide him with a forum for spreading his gospel of irresponsibility to others.

Stewart concludes his column by saying that he has a "wealth of experience" in these matters. There is no doubt in my mind that he does.

George W. Colombo Winter Springs

Mr. Stewart responds

Unfortunately, Mr. Columbo did not read my column for the purposes intended as there was nothing in it even closely resembling his allegations. It is understandable that doctors and hospital administrators might feel the way Mr. Columbo does, because they would not want readers to be informed on these issues.

As for my telling my reader, a lady whose husband had passed away and left her with aix children, a mortgage, no insurance, a mountain of debt, and without a job: Setting up payments for a $100,000 hospital debt is one alternative, as Mr. Columbo suggests. Mr. Columbo also suggests she might try some other honorable means to pay her debt. I guess that might include signing the house she and her children live in over to the hospital, leaving them homeless, in debt and without an income other than Social Security. I did also advise this lady that Social Security will impose a financial penalty if she earns over the limit. To the average person. every penny counts.

I did not tell this woman to renege on all her debts. The opportunities afforded everyone about how to deal with collection agencies, which I offered to share with her, are readily available to anyone through the Federal Trade Commission in Atlanta. It is called the Fair Credit and Reporting Act of 1976, revised. It clearly states your rights and the rights of the creditor in matters of consumer credit practices, including remedies.

Let me address my own situation again for clarification: It was just over a year ago that I was awarded Medicaid, retroactive to July 1990 through September 1992. I, like millions of other proud Americans, found myself without insurance and suffering from advanced kidney disease. After a Social Security hearing, Orlando Judge James A. Claravino found that I should have received Medicaid earlier, as well as SSI benefits.

Although the Medicald was transmitted to me by HRS. I have not, to date, been able to negotiate it with any hospital, physician, or medical facility that gave me service. For the reason I stated before, and I'll state it again, they make more money writing you off than settling with Medicald, as they cannot then write off the balance of that account.

Unfortunately in America today, there is a health care crisis. Many hardworking, honorable people cannot afford insurance, and when a catastrophe strikes, hard choices must be made, as in the case of the woman who asked for my help. I speak for the 'common man' here.——Jerry Btowart block grants to the states. At the same time that budget cuts are being considered, new federal initiatives are being aimed at strengthening the work participation requirements for families receiving public assistance.

Thiscreatena "Catch-22" situation for administrators of state public welfare programs who can anticipate more need for child care services, as more poor parents enter the work force, with fewer funds to help defray the cost of child care.

One lobbying group, the Children's Forum, claims Florida faces the loss of as much as $15 million in federal dollars for subsidized child care and an additional loss of child care food program dollars to feed 25,000 children in child care or Head Start. There are already 19,544 children of the working poor on the waiting list for subsidized child care.

To put the spotlight on this timely issue, the group plans to emphasize children's needs before the Legislature at the eighth annual Children's Day.

Children's Day will be held at the Florida State Capital Rotunda and courtyard in Tallahasee this Tuesday from 11:15 a.m. to 1 p.m. The event. sponsored by the Florida Children's Forum, includes a children's program, children's activities, a press conference and

This year's theme—Child Care Keeps Florida Workingemphasizes the important role that child care plays in helping Florida's families either find work or continue to work. The forum's top legislative priority for 1995 is to maintain state funding for child care. The forum plans to show support of Gov. Chiles' request for a $7.8 million increase for subsidized child care. These funds would serve 2,041 additional children, including 2,635 children from families trying to get off welfare and 406 children from families who are poor but not on welfare. All of these issues will be addressed at the Children's Day press conference. Think 'N Play Child Care Center owner Cindy Brooks plans to be one of approximately 50 child care center directors, parents and representatives from Community Coordinated Care for Children. Inc. (4C) who will travel to Tallahasece Tuesday. She hopes to meet the local decision makers. "I just want to get a better feel of what's going on in Taliahassee."

While the federal government is playing both ends against the center, some parents are already feeling the pinch. Jacqueline Ewell, a single mother with two sons to raise, will not be able to take her youngest to a child care center any more. Her eligiblity for the 4C program has run out, so she will have to look to paying a private babysitter to watch her 3-year-old. The charge will be $10 a day, but this is a big chunk of her income, which totals, she said, $480 a month, with an additional $120 in child support. "I can't go back on AFDC," Ewell said. She will continue to work at her job as a waitress, but now her 7-year-old will have to stay at home alone after school until she gets home from work.

Ewell does receive medical coverage under Medicaid and $200 in food stamps. "I appreciate the help I get," Ewell said, but said her kids "go without a Ewell is now on a waiting list to requalify for 4C, as well as for the Head Start program for her older son. She can expect no help for at least three months, at which time she must re-establish her position on the waiting list, for another three months.

But all of this has not brought her down. "I'm a survivor. I do what I have to do," said Ewell.

Dorothy Dukes, president of 4C. explains that requirements for the programs are very explic-It as to their guidelines. Parents must keep track of the eligibility requirements to continue to receive funds from the program. But Dukes went on to say, the system is "user-friendly." Parents are given notification of the need for recertification six weeks prior. Dukes said she was not aware specifically of Ewell's situation, but said this could have been a factor in this particular case. Funding for 4C programs comes from private sources as well as public foundations, grants, and from the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS). Dukes refers to the agency as the "children's utility," contracted by HRS to be a clearinghouse information about services, provide training programs for childcare workers and quality assurance to child care centers in the area of immunizations and health-related policies, be a the childcare food program. They are also the grantee for Head Start programs in Semi-nole and Osceola counties and fices for family resources.

Parents who qualify for subsidized child care can take their child to any of the 83 licensed child care centers in Seminole County. A determination is made on how much each family can afford to pay, and the 4C program picks up the rest. Dukes said she encourages come directly from HRS.

parents to treat their certification as if it is money. She said one family may pay $5 per child and the certification counts for the balance of the normal cost of a week of care. At this time, the average cost of a week of care for an infant, the highest cost category in child care, is $90.

New county official has been here before

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Call it deja vu or a flashback to a summer job years ago. Whatever the feeling. the new director of the Office of Management and Budget knows Seminole County.

Cynthia W. Hall begins work April 17 as chief of OMB. The Seminole Board of County Commissioners confirmed Hall's hiring by County Manager Ron Rabun Tuesday.

Hall comes to the $55,000 a year director post from Orange County OMB where she was a management supervisor, revenue coordinator and acting assistant manager.

In 1986, Hall was a summer intern in the office she will now direct.

A resident of Seminole County with a Maitland mailing address. Hall has a master's degree in applied economics (M.A.E.) from the University of Central Florida and a bachelor's degree cum laude in Spanish and English from Denison University. Granville, Ohio.

She has eight years of local government budgeting experience in Central Florida, and five years supervisory experience with the Orange County Board of Commissioners, the City of Orlando, the Orange County School Board and the Regional Planning Council. She has also been a teacher and trainer of English, a teacher of economics at Seminole Community College. Valencia Community College and in Orange County Public Schools.

Rabun said Hall supervises a five person staff, serves as revenue coordinator, provides oversight to various management and performance studies and economic impact analysis as acting assistant manager of the Orange County OMB. She oversees the balancing of about 300 funds, has devised multiyear budget procedures, monitors cash flow of bond proceeds and coordinates the county's commercial paper bond program, as well as providing flacal impact analysis of pro-spective and enacted legislation.

A total of 124 applications were submitted for the director's job which was advertised late last year.

Hurricanes scrimmage

MIAMI - The Miami Hurricanes held a

94-play scrimmage Saturday to mark the second of three spring scrimmages.

The number one offense took the first two drives, scored a touchdown and a field goal, said coach Butch Davis. Quarterbacks played better than the first scrimmage by not forcing too many throws, and Ryan Collins exhibited the many fluidity on the field. Devia said.

Spring drills, will end, with a full-orestact scrimmage at the Orange Bowl on April 8th.

Grissom wins Goody's 250

Martin led twice for 198 of the 250 laps on Bristol International Raceway's 0.533-mile oval. but his Ford was no match at the end for Grissom's Chevrolet.

"The longer we ran, the better our car got," said Grissom, who started 18th in the 36-car field but gradually worked his way up through the pack. Once he passed Martin, Oriesom was unchallenged the rest of the way.

He was about 12 car-lengthe ahead of Martin when a spin by Patty Moise brought out a caution flag with 11 laps left. The caution bunched the field for a seven-lap sprint, but once again, Grissom pulled clear of the field.

Chad Little was third, his fifth top-10 finish in seven races this season.

UConn-Vois women in final

MINNEAPOLIS - Connecticut in finally getting to play in the national championship game, against the biggest name in women's basketball no ices, and all coach Geno Auriemma wanted to think about was dinner.

Mike leaves his mark

Sheppard breaks several records on way to All-state

Mike Sheppard broke several game, season and career school records and made all-state during his two years at Seminole Community College.

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - Mike Sheppard should be an example to us all.

When Sheppard came out of Rochester, New York's Franklin High School in 1992, the 6-foot point guard did not feel his head was into college and decided to play for a traveling team in Canada

But after talking to current Semi-nole Community College assistant coach Rod Henderson, who was finishing his college degree in New York, the jet-quick player decided he wanted to give college a shot. Not just to play ball, but to get an

"I set high expectations for myself and I accomplished most of them," said Sheppard. "I'm most proud of the fact that I was never ineligible and started every game. I made a lot of accomplishments and I hope I made my family proud."

When Sheppard decided he wanted to come to SCC, Raiders head coach Bernard Merthie was more than willing to take him on.

"He was everything you wanted in a point guard," said Merthie. "He was quick, saw the floor well, always found the open man with the pass, handled the ball weel and was a good shooter too. He was also a leader and that is very hard to find."

But Sheppard had to set out when he first got to Sanford, because you have to be in school when the season starts and Mike did not get here until January.

He used his free time wisely, going to practice every day so he could learn the offense and working different jobs to help defray the cost of staying in the area during the summer. He very seldom went back to New York, opting instead to stay in Sanford.

"I coached in Coach Merthie's summer basketball camps and went to class," said Sheppard, "Coaching the little guys gave me a chance to be a role model and to show them the basics of basketball. It helped my game a lot too."

After a more than successful freshman year that saw him make the Ali-Mid-Florida Conference first team after averaging 17.3 points and 7.6 assists per game, Sheppard really showed his stuff as a sophomore by breaking several school records and earning all-conference and all-state honors. He was also a starter in the JUCO All-Star game at the state tournament.

He had 10 steals in a game on at least two occasions, easily surpassing the school record of eight, and finished his career with most minutes played (2,072, breaking the mark of 2,068 by Lenny Grace). most steals in a carrer (241, breaking the record of 184 by Willie Williams) and season (150, topping the 102 by Darrius Gallagher) and most assists in a career (491, topping Gallagher's mark of 475).

He also was in the 1,000-point club for a career with 1,103 and shot 40-percent on three-point tries (206 for 515), 44.6-percent from the floor (374 for 838) and 67.4-percent from the free throw line (149-221).

Sheppard has not decided on where he will attend school next year, because it is very hard to graduate in two years, but Colorado and Florida State, among others, have been the Division I coaches calling.

"I haven't made a decision yet." said Sheppard. "But I will go somewhere for sure."

Baker named Lyman

By TONY Description

LONGWOOD - For the second time this academic achool year, Lyman High School principal Dr. Peter Gorman had an enviously simple solution to a potentially difficult problem.

A little more than a week ago, Tom Lawrence announced that he was relinquishing his duties. as Athletic Director to concentrate his efforts on being the Dean of Students. It took less than a week for Gorman to decide on Larry Baker as Lyman's new Athletic Director.

"Larry is such an outstanding person, he stands out as the obvious choice," said Dr. Gorman, adding that he approached Baker about the position. "I had kind of known that Tom was considering retiring as the athletic director to concentrate on adminstration, so I had started considering possible replacements.

"Larry is such a classy person, he jumped to the top of the list. He wanted to take time to think about it and discuss it with his family. which are some of the qualities that make him an outstanding candidate. Larry makes everyone around him more of a classy person. He brings people up to his level."

At the beginning of the year, Gorman tapped Greyhound varsity girls' volleyball and softball coach Christy Tibbitts as the assistant athletic

"I feel lucky," said Dr. Gorman. "The two moves I've had to make in athletics were promoting Christy Tibbits and Larry Baker. I hope it's all as nice as this."

According to Baker, who has coached at Lyman High School for the last 24 years, advancing into sports administration has been something of a dream.

"I'm excited about it." said Baker, who has been the head girls track coach since 1977 and the head varsity football coach since 1992. "This is something I had wanted to do for a few years, but the opportunity had never come about until

"Dr. Gorman and I had a conversation about it, but I needed some time to think it over and discuss it with my wife and family. A decision of that magnitude needs to be discussed with the entire family because it will have an impact on them. But Lyman athletics has been a part of my children's lives since the day they were born, so it's no big change or shock. My family has been extremely supportive."

The duties of athletic director shouldn't add that much to Baker's time load. According to Gorman, Baker will step down as girls' track coach after the season (his first task as A.D. will be finding someone to replace him) and will have his teaching

Diemer shines for new school

By DEAN SOUTH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - There was a homecoming of sorts this past week for Matt Diemer as the Seminole High School graduate accomponied his new teammates at Taylor University from Upland, Indiana in a week of baseball games in the area.

Diemer, who played third base and pitched for the 1992 state champion Noles, made the move to Taylor after playing his freshman year at Seminole Community College.

"He's a fine player who is going to help a lot," said Taylor head coach Larry Winterholter by phone. "He's been hitting over .300 and will hit some home runs for us before the season is over. He can play anywhere, but will start at second base and hit third in the lineup. We're very happy to have him."

Winterholter also said that the righthander may also dee some action on the mound later in the year.

"We let him throw a little in the fall and he did a good job," said the coach. "We haven't had a lot of opportunity to use him on the mound and I really don't want to use him much because he is so valuable as a hitter and defensive player."

Taylor was 7-6 heading into a five-game series at the Ormond Beach Sports Complex against other teams from the midwest and Winterholter felt that his aquad was in for a good season.

"We just told our replace-ment players that we will let them know at 6 o'clock tomorrow," Philadelphia Phillies owner Bill Giles said. "We set up a meeting and will tell them go or no go."

After 7% weeks of spring training, it appeared the replacement players would never take the field for a regular-assaon game.

The Pirates' replacements were about to board a bus to the airport for a flight to Pittsburgh, but the team can-celed Sunday's workout at Three Rivers Stadium and kept the replacements in a Florida hotel overnight.

"I sort of expected it," said Jason Pfaff, the Pirates' scheduled starter Monday against Montreal. "I wasn't going to believe it until we were actually on the plane. I wasn't going to believe it until we were actually standing at home plate." Owners still could vote to use replacements until the regular players are ready, a decision that requires only a majority vote. But the prevailing feeling was that open-ing day would be pushed back to April 23 or 24.

"if they decide not to lock out, I don't think these issues would be very difficult," union 232-day strike Friday after U.S. District Judge Sonia Botomayor issued an injunction restoring old work rules. National League senior vice president Katy Feeney said that if there isn't a lockout, the schedule for each team would be cut from 162 games to the 130-145 range.

"We would get everybody to play the same number of games to protect the integrity of the schedule," she said.

After the strike at the start of the 1972 season, teams played a varying number of games ranging from 153 to 156, and Detroit won the AL East by one-half game over Boston.

In discussions involving back-to-work rules, lawyers also talked about setting new dates for salary arbitration bearings, which usually take place during the first three weeks of February. According to one person

FLAC to operate Ocala Camp

In an effort to privatize some of the services it provides to the public, the Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission has contracted with Florida Leisure Acquisition Corp. (FLAC) to operate its Ocala Youth Camp.

FLAC's operations include the popular Silver Springs and Wild waters attractions in Ocala.

"Privatization is one way to continue to provide a service while reducing its cost to the agency, and combining Florida Leisure's Earth Camp with the Ocala Youth Conservation Camp seemed like an ideal situation." said Judy Gillan, education coordinator for GFC.

"The move saves money for the Commission and offers campers expanded educational opportunities."

Under the agreement, campers will continue to reside at the Commission's facilities on Lake Eaton in the Ocala National Forest, but they will also spend time at both Silver Springs and Wild Waters.

GPC's Ocala Youth Conservation Camp has provided unforgettable outdoor experiences and conservation education to thousands of children for more than 30 years. However, in the past few years, its budget has been limited.

"With FLAC's support, the camp will be able to offer opportunities the Commission simply could not afford," said

Camp programs will continue to focus on Florida's aquatic and terrestrial animal life and their habitats. OFC's hunter education course still will be offered and Commission biologists, wildlife officers, and other personnel will offer a diversity of GFC programs to campers.

Earth Camp programs will shed a more global light on the entire educational experience.

Camp will run from June 18 through Aug. 11 in eight oneweek sessions at a cost of $225 per week per camper. Applications and additional information can be obtained by calling FLAC at (904) 236-2121 or 1-800-274-7458.

The agreement does not affect the Commission's operation of its Everglades Youth Camp near West Paim Beach, which runs during the same period at a cost of $150 per week per camper. Additional information and applications for the Everglades camp are available from the Commission's West Palm Beach office at (407) 640-6187.

fishing continues to improve with dropping water levels. Fish slough mouths and other areas where bait is funnelled out of the flats into the main river channel. Bass and other species wait in ambush at such spots for an easy meal.

Sebastian Inlet continues to provide steady action with anook, redfish, flounder, jack crevalle, ladyfish, and bluefish. Back in the river, trout are hitting over grassy patches.

Captain Jack reports that things are beginning to heat up in Port Canaveral. Cobia are beginning to make their annual appearance. Last week, I caught two in the 40-pound class last Sunday south down the beach on one-ounce jigs.

Offshore, dolphin, king mackerel, and wahoo are making their presence known. Tripletail are in the busy line while sheepshead and flounder are hitting inside

The tip of the north jettles continues to be the hot spot at Peace Inlet. Big sheepshead and drum are taking live shrimp. Redfish, flounder, bluefish, and jack crevalle also are biting on a regular basis. Mosquite Lagona continues to be good for trout load reduced to half-time. Besides, Baker already tries to attend as many as Lyman athletic events as possible.

"That's one of things my family and I talked about," said Baker with a laugh. "I try to support as many of the school's sports programs as I can. I get out to see as many as I can.

"I really enjoy watching the kids participate and compete. There are a whole lot of other things they could be doing that wouldn't be nearly as constructive as participating in

Having served as the chairman of Lyman's Physical Education/Driver's Education/Life Management Department for six football coach, Baker is a strong believer in the ties between athletic participation and academic achievement.

"One of things we stress in football and track is that this (participating in athletics) is an extracurrical activity," Baker said. "It does not come before academics."

Baker looks forward to the challenge of being the athletic director, a challenge he says is eased considerably by the outstanding staff assembled by Lawrence and former Lyman principal Carlton Henley.

"They will make my job a whole lot easier," said Baker of his fellow Lyman coaches and the support staf. "We have some tremendous people who work years prior to becoming the head throughout our athletic program. Of course, most schools could say the same thing.

"Tom Lawrence deserves much of the credit for that. He's been handling that position for quite a few years as well as other responsibilities. He's done at outstanding job."

Dr. Gorman echoed Baker's assessment.

"Tom brought our athletic program to this level, where we were No. 2 in state for FHSAA's Corey Hobbs All-Sports Award behind Winter Park," said Dr. Gorman. "Tom has done such a super job. As the full-time Dean of Students, he'll have expanded duties. He'll be a full-time administrator.

'It's a win-win situation for Lyman High School and our students."

Day at Arena sheer Magic for Midway student

Jasmyne K. George, 11, and a fifth grader at Midway Elementary School, had the great joy of finding out what goes on behind the Orlando Arena doors. Jasmyne, along with six other They got a firsthand view of what really happens on a home game day and what it takes to put on a NBA game. Jasmyne sald it was a thrill she'll never

She had the privilege of hanging out with members of the Orlando Magic and Arena staff beginning at the early morning time of 8:45 a.m. The behind the scenes work was fun and excitement said Jasmyne. The day was devoted in pre-paration for the arrival of the Atlanta Hawks that evening.

Jazz, as she is affectionately called by her family, donned her Orlando Magie T-shirt and cap. and posed with the other five kids for Sports Illustrated for Kids magazine. Busy during the morning getting to know the players and the layout of the Arena, by 3 p.m., Jasmyne began to help Chris D'Orso of the Magic's marketing department write the script for that night's game. She began to cut one copy of the script into strips and place them into the announcer, Paul Porter's, notebook so he would know what to say. Watching the practice, she tested the headsets at the scorers' table and did yideo and sound checks. Her interest being in dancing and music, at 7 p.m. she enjoyed watching the Magie dancers

Jazz was calm and ready as the national anthem was sung and at 7:40 p.m., the referee tossed the ball into the air for the opening game. The Sports Illustrated Kids were ready to work. Jasmyne was sitting by the court. At the scorers' table, Chris wore his headset and Jasmyne wore one too. All were excited as the Magic beat the Atlanta Hawks 109-98.

The staff had a long day and the Sports Illustrated Kids will forever remember their day as the Magic crew. Jasmyne said her day was awesome. She said her opportunity to see the finished product makes her well aware that a lot of planning and work goes into a NBA home game. She appreciates the honor of sharing the spotlight with her Magic idol, Shaquille (Shaq) O'Neal. She was saved from having a Shaq attack by her favorite brother Jeremy (Jay) George. Bonsai, a Japanese word, lit-erally means "tree in a tray." But, as the Lake Mary Garden Club discovered at the March meeting. Bonsai originated in China. Lona Hoffower from Bonasi North was the guest speaker for the meeting. She told club members about Bonsai's origins and their care.

Even though Bonsai originated in China, it was the Japanese who perfected the method. It is not uncommon in Japan to find Bonsai that are more than 200 years old. Bonsai are handed down from parent to child in many families. For those who are unfamiliar with Bonsai, it involves creating a dwarf tree or shrub by confin-ing it to a small pot or tray and systematically pruning its roots. Mother desires freedom

DEAR ABBY: My husband's mother, at 87, has many health problems. She complains constantly and frequently runs to the neighbors, begging them to let her spend the night. After frantic phone calls from the neighbors, my husband and his sister confer with their mother and offer suggestions as to her long-term care. But they have given up after she insists that:

1. She can take care of herself. 2. She will not allow any stranger to stay in her home with her for fear he or she will rob her.

3. She flatly refuses to move in with her daughter because of the potential loss of her freedom,

4. She is not ready for a nursing home.

This leaves us reacting to emergencies from a distance (we live in another state), which is expensive and creates turmoil. My husband is disabled due to a erious heart condition, and the enxiety created by these events la taking its toll.

Better Living for Seniors. "They have sites in all areas of Seminole County," she said. Another atte in Goldsboro considered a Project Care site holds Williams' attention weekly. "It's a community action site to reach the elderly," she said. "I am employed by the Agency on Aging. I work at the Boys and Girls Club which is a congregate meal site. I work with the elderly doing crafts and games. We try to keep them active. They actually work through R.S.V.P. and Better Living for Seniora.

By the time Williams was in high school she started her crochet endeavors. "I have just expanded," she said. "I also began doing macrame and lap weaving, which I learned in high school. Everyone got me interested again in lap weaving."

Admitting that she enjoys crocheting most, Williams said, "I crochet more than I do anything. Sometimes it depends on what I'm in the mood for as to what I do."

She said she has taught many her different crafts and skills. "It's wonderful to see them pick things up. I teach all different things along with my volunteer

As far as embroidery and crochet, Williams said, "I worked on a quilt some time ago. That was in the past five years. I've crocheted doll clothes. dollies, collars and all kinds of things. Most of the time I use worsted yarn."

Williams' macrame projects included pillows, plant slings, mirrors and "lots of wall hangings." Lap weaving creations have encompassed pillows, dollies and placemats to potholders. "I use cotton yarn for all those things."

She emphasized that the patterns all vary depending on the type of frame used. "There are all different patterns and shapes of frames. There are hexagon. rectangle, square and others. Several are used to put together a shawl.'

Her sewing endeavors have encompassed many years. "I made all the clothing my kids wore," she said. "That took up most of my time just keeping them in clothes. I've made draperies, tableclothes, shower curtains and bathroom acessories. It's so easy to learn sewing now. The guide sheets are easy. Clerks at the sewing stores are so helpful too. They can guide you along easily.'

The Senior Girl Scout Challenge combines talents and energy with values and convictions to make a positive difference in the lives of others. The first requirement is to design your own self-development plan, setting goals for yourself, following through with documentation for a period of two months. The second step is to create a plan to increase one's ability to relate to others and follow through with a report on the success of the plan and what was learned and attained. The third step involves developing values for living one's life; from the evaluation process, the candidate is asked to perform three activities that will make a positive change and in which one is able to detail one's own personal contribution to the effort. The goal of this exercise is to match behavior and thoughts with confirmed values and beliefs. The fourth step in the challenge is required participation in a service project

After fulfilling all the requirements listed above as Senior Scouts and fulfilling the requirements for the coveted Silver Award, the candidates began the project necessary to achieve the Gold Award. The requirements for the project included work that each participant felt was personally important and would demonstrate the applicant's commitment to herself and her community. would require a period of at least four months to complete, and the plan had to be approved six weeks in advance of the project's initiation by the council office.

Deciding on the project that would culminate in the Gold Award was a process in and of itself. The questions that Marissa, Kelly, and Dawn asked themselves were. "What do they have in common that they enjoy. that they believe in and that would make a difference in the community?" Since music was a common interest, they decided on a musical theme. According to Kelly, they "began with an Idea similar to the Battle of the Bands and it was going to be big." Dawn said, "It was going to be 10 bands and many kids and an auditorium." And Marissa was quick to point out, "all the bands that we knew were broken up and that helped us put things ins perspective and we became more realistic." What they decided over a period of defining and redefining goals was to find one band, put on a concert, proceeds to benefit children, and

This fit all of the existing efiteria necessary to fulfill the requirement for the Gold Award.

With the plan approved, a band called "The Holsteins" was contacted and agreed to help by providing a free concert to benefit "Life for Kids." The Northland Community Church on Dog Track Road agreed to provide the youth building for the site of the concert. Officer Herb Stewartson of the Longwood Police Department agreed to provide security. Through word of mouth and fliers, the concert was advertised and was held on March 7. Through the generosity of so many, Marissa. Kelly, and Dawn collected boxes and boxes of mostly new items for newborn bables. They agree that they could not have succeeded without the generosity of the band, "The Holsteins," of whom his group says, "The Holsteins are the best!" The Holsteins have a tape that may be purchased called "Umphaza!" In addition to the concert, each candidate had a 'Baby Items'' box located in different schools throughout the county requesting donations for "Life for Kids." According to Diane Woodcock, pregnancy counselor at "Life for Kids," in addition to baby items, "smoke detectors, covers for electrical outlets, and fire extinguishers are also items that are desperately needed as safety is a prime teaching area that is targeted by

Marissa Brown, Kelly Hart and Dawn Jackson have all been Girl Scouts for over 10 years, it was four years ago that they decided to make a commitment to themselves and each other to try to achieve the highest honor, the Gold Award. Lake Mary

The pot should be one you like to look at because this will be the plant's home for life. Your pot should have holes for draining. Those holes also help if you need to wire your bonsai into the pot to get it started. You can use regular potting soil or a special bonsai potting soil. Then you wire your Bonsai into the shape you want. Aluminum or copper wire can be used, but aluminum is better. It's more flexible and can be reused.

When you start a Bonsai, you are committing yourself to regular maintenance that is more time-consuming than with other plants. Every six months to a year, depending on the plant, you have to take the plant out of the pot, prune the roots, put new soil in the pot and replace the plant. Pruning the leaves is ongoing) Bonsai also need to be watered msore. The results of all this work can be very gratifying. With diligence, you will be able to reduce the size of the leaves on your Bonsai. You will have a miniature plant. You will be creating, not just a garden, but a work of art.

After the talk, Connie Bennet gave Lona Hoffower some beautiful flowers in appreciation. Club members then enjoyed refreshments while they discussed old business and new business. In new business, club members discussed Olde Lake Mary days, scheduled for May 13. The group will be participating in the event. As they did last year, the club will be raffling off a gardening basket. They will also have small plants for sale.

Girl Scouts visit Savannah

Imagine going into a restaurant, sitting at a big table, and having platters of Southern food piled in front of you. That's what lunch at Mrs. Wilkes Boarding House in Savannah, Ga. is like. It was just one of the many places Troop 441 from Lake Mary visited when they were in Savannah recently.

A goal for many Girl Scouts is a trip to Savannah, Ga., the birthplace of Juliette Gordon Low, founder of Girl Scouts. Juliette's childhood home is now the Juliette Gordon Low Girl Scout National Center.

Troop 441 spent a day at the Center, affectionately called the Birthplace. The girls enjoyed a tour of the home, built in the 1800s. They also participated in a Special Interest session. A Special Interest Session is an in-depth exploration of some aspect of 19th century life or the early days of Girl Scouting. The Birthplace offers nine different two-hour sessions for Girl Scouts of various ages. Troop 441 participated in Victorian Venture, a session for Cadette Girl Scouts only. The Victorian Venture taught the girls to be ladies from the 1800s.

Another high point of the visit to Savannah was eating at the Pirate's House. The restaurant is one of the oldest buildings in Savannah. Reputedly a pirate's hangout in earlier days, it is also said to be haunted. It was the perfect place to dine the day the troop went on a haunted carriage ride.

The troop visited other historic sights in Savannah including the Waving Girl on Riverstreet; the Massie School, Savannah's oldest public elementary school: the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist; Colonial Park Cemetery: and Laurel Grove Cemetery. where Juliette Gordon Low and her family are buried. The troop also headed east of Savannah. They toured Fort Pulaski National Monument and then went on to Tybee Island. On Tybee, they toured the Tybee Lighthouse and Museum, the oldest and tallest lighthouse in Georgia.

Over 150 exhibitors are scheduled this year with more than 500 international buyers and government trade officials from 30 countries expected to attend. For additional information on exhibiting at the trade show, phone (904) 488-4368, or fax, (904) 922-0374.

Prudential people

LONGWOOD - Geri Roman and Natalie Floren have recently joined the Prudential Florida Realty's Northside office, at 120 Crown Oak Centre Drive, Longwood. Roman previously worked in the food and beverage service. A resident of Orlando for over two years, she has been involved with the Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Floren has three years of real estate experience, having worked for ERA Professional Group. She is originally from

Lipsey positions

LONGWOOD — The Lipsey Company president, Michael J. Lipsey, has announced creation of two new executive positions with his company to accommodate the company's growth and

The Lipsey Company, based in Longwood at 195 Wekiva Springs Road, Suite 320, is a real estate consulting and training company offering approximately 200 programs annually to real estate organizations.

Karen L. Poirier has been named director of course development, and Carol St. Clair is director of business development.

UPS honors drivers

LONGWOOD - United Parcel Service recently honored a number of employees for years of service and safe driving

Walt Shaw, a UPS delivery driver in Sanford, was honored for completing 25 years of service with the company. He began his career as a delivery driver in 1970.

Wayne Meehan, a resident of Maitland, was recognized by the company for completing 20 years of driving without an accident. He provides delivery service in the Orlando area. Mike Carello, a delivery driver who provides service in the Deltona area, was recognized for completing 15 years driving without an accident. The honors were announced by Dan Pearson, International Communications director with UPS.

Phillips predicts growth

Central Florida economic performance remained on a growth path over the three month period ending in February, 1995. The analysis comes from the Dr. Phillips Institute for the Study of American Business Activity, at the College of Business Administration, University of Central Florida.

The Phillips report says there are signs that the tourism industry is rebounding while private construction activity is

It says strong tendencies are found in the local unemployment rate, payroll jobs creation, and traffic at the Orlando International Airport.

Regaring the Orlando Metropolitan Statistical Area (MSA) which includes Seminole County, the report sees a propensity to create nonfarm Joba is continuing at a sterling pace. Within the national group of large MSAs, Orlando's year-over-year rate of job creation ranked second in the nation in December, with only the Salt Lake-Ogden MSA rated higher.

The report concludes, "The welcomed drop in interest rates since November 1994 is over. The odds are tipped in favor of renewed rate increases over the rest of the year, as opposed to any further large decreases."

Job Fair

CASSELBERRY — The Central Florida Employment Council has schedued a job fair at the Community United Methodist Church in Casselberry, Thursday, April 6, from 1 to 4 p.m. Twenty five Central Florida employers will be participating, including Barnett Bank, Bankers Life, General Mills Restaurants, Certified Slings, First Union Bank, Bennigan's Restaurants rants, CBIS, and Regal Marine. An added feature of this job fair will be a special section for senior employment.

Dick Wilson, president of the Christian HELP, one of the founders of the council commented, "The Job Fair planned for April 6 is one of our most viable means of accomplishing the goals of the Central Florida Employment Council.

Persons interested in participating at the Job Fair or seeking additional information are asked to phone 834-4022.

Machine show

Over 100 exhibitors will be part of what is called the biggest display of machinery ever in Florida. The event is the Orlando '95 Advanced Productivity Exposition (APEX) scheduled April 11 through 13 in Orlando.

Over 26,000 square feet of exhibit space has been reserved at the newly-expanded Orange County Convention Center. Exhibit space is 99 percent sold out.

Approximately 3,000 manufacturing professionals are expected to attend this biennial event, sponsored by the Society of Manufacturing Engineers, and the American Machine Tool Distributors' Association.

Exposition hours are 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Tuesday, April 11, 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Wednesday, April 12, and 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Thursday, April 13.

Personnel One settles suit

MIAMI — The Personnel One employment agency has settled a federal racial discrimination case with an agreement to pay a $160,000 fine. The U.S. Equal Employment and Opportunity Commission charged the Coral Gables-based agency discriminated against black and Hispanics seeking bank teller jobs from 1985 to Most of the money will be split by 13 applicants who claimed they had been discriminated against based on their skin color or accents.

The agency was accused of adopting physical specifications set by a now-defunct bank for blonde, blue-eyed applicants with "front-office appearance."

The acronym NQW was used in company records to refer to people "not quite black," and other code words referred to skin color and accents, the EEOC charged. Personnel One denied discriminating but said two of suburban Miami office managers "may have used poor judgment" on minority applications in a county where minorities are nearly the majority. But the company agreed Tuesday to a consent order before U.S. District Judge Wilkie Ferguson to close the case with the fine and an employee training program on compliance with anti-discrimination laws.

What's the best selling home?

Move-up homes are hot

By WOCK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

It's not which statistics are used, or how they are examined that are important. It's what is actually happening today and expected to happen tomorrow.

With this in mind, the sales of homes in this area of Central Florida may see a booming year in 1995.

As an example of statistics, the Fiorida Association of Realtors (FAR) says sales of single-family existing homes in the state have leveled off, decreasing by four percent in February, over the previous February of 1994. They say it is caused by interest rates which were lower, (in February 1995) than in January, but higher than in February of last

Even so, the FAR says the Fort Pierce-Port St. Lucie Metropoli-tan Statistical Area (MSA) recorded a sharp increase of 40 percent this February compared to last year.

The Orlando MSA, which includes Sanford and Seminole County, showed a decrease of two percent from February to February, with sales at 740 single family existing homes reported in February 1995.

Regardless of the type of homes being sold, however, the latest purchase is reportedly being made as a "move-up" home. People who already have owned their first home or apartment, are now looking to move up to a higher level. Many are probably seeking larger homes because of the arrival of children. Others are doing so because of an increase in salary.

As a result, Calton Homes President Don Knutson says his company is expanding its product line in 1996 to concentrate on the needs of both first and second time move-up buyers. To emphasise his point, he dis-cussed one of Calton's newest communities in the market.

"As the area continues to grow economically and attract higher paying jobs." he said. "the demand for move-up housing in the $120,000 to $180,000 range will continue to increase. In more mature markets, the resale market usually captures a significant portion of this demand."

"More mature housing markets have a ration of two to three resales for every one new home sale." he said. "In this area, however, there is only one readle for every one new sale. This means significant opportunity exists for new housing."

Calton is opening five move-up type communities in that price range. They include Beechwoods in Altamonte Springs, Meadows in Oviedo, and others in the Windermere-Ococe, Crescent Park, Conway-Belle Isle, and Churchill Downs in South Orange County. move-up buyers, will one of its finer years.

compete on more than price," Knutson said. "Move-up buyers expect many included features auch as volume cellings, designer kitchens and baths, and impressive exterior elevations. We do that," he added, "and include extras such as custom interior paint choices."

Calton Homes plans to build over 300 homes during 1995. Last year the company topped its sales record with $33 million in dollar volume, and sold 297 homes.

Regardless of the FAR statistics showing this area of Central Florida on basically an even keel since last year, with the number of new residential developments including those by Calton, as well as other builders receiving approvals from Lake Mary, Sanford, Longwood and Seminole County, there are expectations that 1995 could be a year in which home sales. whether for first-timers or move-up buyers, will experience

Credit card complaints close Orlando company

Barnett helps education

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

ORLANDO - Hundreds of consumer complaints have led to an emergency injunction to freeze bank accounts held by PTI of Orlando Inc., a creditcard marketing company.

The firm solicits business over the telephone from people with bad credit histories, offer-ing "secured" credit cards that require users to pay hefty upfront fees, state officials said.

State regulators charged that the company used a misleading sales presentation. Con-

Who's to blame for the shape of schools today?

By LINDSAY HODGES Herald Correspondent

The statement, "Schools aren't what they used to be," has been said many times by the adults of the world.

Is this statement true? Yes, it

But, are the schools to blame? No, the blame lies with the students and the people who raise them.

The students of today are not reared like their grandparents or even their parents were. They grow up in a more lackadalsical and lenient environment where responsibility and maturity aren't nearly as important as living life to the fullest.

Throughout the past decade, students have slowly devolved from respectable youth to hoodlums of society.

What is to be done about it?

The only possible solution lies in the hands of those who are supposed to be bringing up students right, but if that were the case, we would not have a problem. Parents and guardians need to take control back from their teenagers and, once again, raise them to responsible, respectable, educated and mature young adults.

Another problem with the teens of today is that they are Impolite.

Manners are no longer being taught in the home. Students ceased saying "yes, ma'am" and 'no, sir.'

"crisis in the schools." This the job force, and those people so-called crisis has taken over are going to be running the government, and those people are going to be paying the taxes that support the older population through Social Security.

Can you imagine when one of these rude and crude students becomes the President of the United States of America? It is no longer "What is the world coming to?" It is now, "this is what the world is coming to."

It is the reality of the schoolproduced students of the future. Valuable time is taken away from the learning environment, and spent on teaching manners and enforcing discipline.

This is not all students, but it is quite a few.

These are the same students who give the teen age group a bad rap. It is not them that deserve the reputation: It is the adults that did not raise them.

"Overall, I think that the Drug-resistant bacteria Worsening public health threat

By LINDA A. JOHNSON Associated Press Writer

TRENTON, N.J. - The emergence of bacteria strains that cannot be killed by the current arsenal of antibiotics could become a public health threat worse than AIDS, experts

Diseases considered conquered — tuberculosis, pneumonia, meningitis, staph infections - are becoming unstoppable. Common bacteria that cause everything from toddlers' ear infections to pneumonia could become "supergerms" resistant to vancomycin and other

"Over the past five years or so it seems to be taking on somewhat of an epidemic proportion," says Dr. Philip E. Coyne, medical review officer in the U.S. Food and Drug Administration's division of anti-infective drugs.

Scientists expect "nothing short of a medical disaster," Dr. Alexander Tomasz of Rockefeller University in New York City warned at the 1994 meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Doctors eventually could have to resort to pre-antiblotic treatments: draining, or even cutting off, infected wounds.

Hospital patients recovering from surgery, organ transplants. wounds, cancer or infections are at greatest risk of infection by a drug-resistant bacteria. Why? They're already extremely weak, their immune system is down and they're getting a steady diet of antibiotics, which tend to kill off the weakest bacteria and leave the hardlest to proliferate.

With the body's balance disrupted and other species of bacteria killed by the antibiotics. opportunists like enterococcus go in for the kill.

Antibiotic-resistant nosocomial infections, those acquired by hospital patients. began to proliferate in 1990, according to the federal Centers tion, which monitors case reports from 190 urban and teaching hospitals nationwide. "There's been a tremendous coordinator of nosocomial infections surveillance for CDC

Nationwide, CDC found a 20fold Increase from January 1989 through March 1993 in the reported percentage of nosocomial infections by en- strategies from other bacteria, terococcus bacteria resistant to treatment by vancomycin, today's antibiotic of last resort. Many of those strains found were resistant to every available drug.

Vancomycin-resistant enterococcus, or VRE, has more than double the mortality rate (36.6 percent versus 16.4 percent) of that for patients with strains easily killed by van-

Treatment options for patients with nosocomial infections associated with vancomycinresistant enterococci are limited, often to unproven combinations" of drugs or experimental compounds, the Atlanta-based CDC said in an August 1993

Doctors also can resort to repeatedly cleaning out infected areas, or amputations, as they did before the antibiotic era.

Bacteria are naturally plentiful and normally beneficial in the human body. But when Its balance is disrupted by antibiotle treatment, surgery or serious illness, infection often follows.

VRE, considered today's biggest bacterial threat, is most common in major cities in Maryland, New York and Pennsylvania, Horan says. At some New York City hospitals. more than half the enterococcus strains now are vancomycinresistant.

Those bacteria can fight off antibiotics by producing an Bacteria can acquire resistance genes for such making all their progeny drugresistant. CDC is particularly worried VRE will pass its resistance gene to staphylococcus. which spreads very easily and already resists many other anti-

"It feels to us like an accident waiting to happen." Horan says.

While most bacterial infections have been treatable for the last half-century, drug resistance is nothing new. Within a few years of penicillin going on the market in 1940, microbes began evolving into resistant forms through random genetic mutation.

Penicillin-resistant strains of pneumococcus have become common worldwide over the last 15 years, and about 85 percent of all types of bacteria responsible for U.S. hospital-acquired infections have developed resistance. Multiple drug-resistant tuberculosis is reaching epidemic proportions in the New York-Newark region.

Modern medicine is partly to blame, because of overuse of antibiotics in this country and Europe. Those antibiotics kill off the weakest bacteria, leaving the hardiest to become more dominant, particularly if patients stop taking medicine when they begin to feel better.

Some experts also blame the practice of feeding U.S. livestock and chickens huge quantities of antiblotics to boost food produc-T.S. Eliot called April the cruellest month. But most people are happy when it arrives. The last vestiges of winter are disappearing. Flora reappears. and almost as important, we usually start the major league baseball season.

However, as this is April Fools' Day, I'm giving you a deal that might be fact or might be fiction: You judge.

The auction moved in leaps and bounds to six hearts. a contract that appears to have no chance after West leads a trump. not an immediately fatal spade. However, it can be made. Do you see how?

If you solved it in under 10 seconds, you are an expert. If it took you fewer than five minutes, you are a good analyst. as no doubt some took even longer.

Here is the solution. After drawing trumps, discarding a couple of clubs from the dummy, you play a diamond to dummy's king. Then you cash the diamond ace and discard your spade ace! After ruffing a diamond in hand, you cash the club ace before leading a spade toward dummy's queen.

West, with only spades re-maining, has to win with his king and return a spade to dummy's queen. Then you discard your two club losers on dummy's diamond winners.

The bidding betrays that the deal is of an old vintage. The forcing two-bid hasn't been seen in tournament bridge for many years. Nowadays, the weak two, which occurs with much higher frequency, has taken control. The six-heart contract was supposedly declared around 1940 by Sonny Moyse, then the editor of The Bridge World magazine. Do you think he really did play it as described?

Phillip Alder's new book, "Get Smarter at Bridge." is available.
