Hot Stockings

A certain large southerly firm lately received an order in Russian, and although the receiver of it had a fair knowledge of the language, there were two words he was unable to translate. Somewhere in the works, however, a real Russian was employed. They brought him along, and he read the letter carefully, but was still puzzled by these two words: Literally, he explained their meaning was "hot stockings," which seemed absurd, but was precisely used by the nearest known Russian synonym for "no hope."

Inculcating Right Views

Some people hold that children should hear and think to cultivate their sympathy. Might it not be just as effectively to teach them to sympathize with gladness? Is it not much easier to weep with those that weep than to really rejoice with those who do rejoice? It is a very hard and heart that is not softened at the sight of pain and distress, and it requires something higher and nobler to be glad, when another has some pleasure or happiness greater than his own.

City's Charter Centuries Old. A 500-year-old charter known by King Edward I. to Aberystwyth, (Carmarthen), Wales, has been discovered by Dr. Lewis of the University College of Wales, in a search for documents for the town council. It was awarded to Llanbarn, the name of the ancient church and parish. In consequence of the discovery in the charter that markets should be held on Monday, Aberystwyth keeps bank holidays on Tuesdays.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HELL PRENT 'EM"—SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

The Country Doctor Day in, day out, night out, night in, Where mud is thick and year is thin, He hustles with his cheery grin To fight, with ill.

Little he says about his pay; Often he gives his skill away, And tho' he's getting old and gray He has no wealth. His life has been an endless trial, His motto has been self denial; Freely he gives from every vein For some one's health.

The gallant soldier goes away While fife and drum and bugle play bravely to conquer or to slay— That is his part. The country doctor rides alone Thru rugged roads, o'er stick and stone To heal them, not to make them moan; God bless his heart! —William Kirk in Atlanta Georgian.

Professor Metchnikoff, in his pursuit of the microbes, announces a new discovery. It is that danger lurks in the uncooked banana, and he warns those who would avoid cancer not to eat any raw fruits whatever. This is not his first contribution on the subject of health. In 1908 Prof. Metchnikoff acquired fame as a "Ponce de Leon" by discovering that one of the greatest secrets of longevity is in the use of sour milk.

That drink, he declared, is a part of the national dietary of the "long lived" Bulgarians, and he advanced statistics to prove that the fluid cleared the intestinal tracts of disease and placed a check on the encroachments of old age. The old fashioned folks who believe that "an apple a day keeps the doctor away," will probably find the noted scientist's latest theory a perplexing one. The professor does not restrict his findings to the banana, but he is equally severe with the husk-calded strawberry, and it is only natural to substitute with the uncooked watermelon.

No raw fruits of any kind are safe, he declares. But he lays especial stress on the banana on account of the fact that there is a popular delusion that the thick skin protects the pulp from microbes. On the other hand, it is a scientific fact that in order to ripen, bananas must be affected by the air germs which reach the fruit after traversing the post. It may be interesting to note in this connection, that in some countries, as for example, in the Hawaiian islands, where they really do cook the banana on occasions to increase its edibility, the natives frequently contract leprosy, not because they cook the banana, but because they eat it. It really begins to appear, from Prof. Metchnikoff's most recent discovery, that a hunger strike in a Turkish bath is the only safe refuge left for helpless humanity.

The secretary of agriculture reports $500,000,000 worth more of food products in the United States this year than last and at the same time he says that living will not be reduced to any appreciable extent, in spite of the fact that the production is up output.

Someone asks why this is the case and why the cost does not apply to reduced cost in the presence of abundant supply, the answer is that middlemen absorb some of it and the farmer may get a little more of the price, but the consumer will receive no benefit.

It is just possible that we may offer another suggestion which goes as far to solve the problem as any other, that is, the cost of getting farm products from the farm to the market place, especially the cost of moving such products from the farm itself to the nearest point of shipment, whether it be by rail or water.

When one figures that it costs an average of 27 cents a ton to move products in a wagon on a common road against about three-quarters of a mill (a move a ton a mile on a railway) and less than that to move the same weight by water, one gets an idea of the tremendous handicap that the ordinary road is on the farmer in the first place and finally upon the retail buyer of farm products.

In a word, we have come to that pass in our highway situation that the ordinary road, which we will call a bad road in distinction from a good road, eats up profits at such a rate that even an increase of half a billion in a year's crop makes no perceptible increase in the price of living to the citizen. The remedy for such a thing is so plain that it suggests itself and need not be rehearsed here.

The candidates for county offices are coming round inquiring about the family and attempting to kiss the babies and I notice several of them getting very familiar with their enemies of the street and making casual remarks about the present incumbents in office. "I have not had time to go to the court-house lately, being busy with my celery crop and am not in position to say that all the present equity officials will stand for re-election or not. Some of them look to me like their jobs were beginning to be irksome and are not beds of roses. Offices of a clerical nature should be filled by people of a clerical disposition who have had experience in office work, otherwise the office work will have to be carried on by employees or allowed to suffer for lack of attention and county jobs if they are jobs at all, or else jobs or any other jobs must be attended to in every detail of the incumbent will soon find out that he is not satisfying his constituents or the state or county or city.

The various offices in Sanford caused a mad scramble when they were appointed to office. I have seen him snooping around your place and inspecting the ash cans and other appurtenances that usually adorn the back alleys and if there is anything in your lot that does not come up to 99 per cent purity you will hear from Artie right now. I heard him telling some people the other day about their premises, and they stated that never before had any man the generosity to tell them the premises were satisfactory but Artie politely informed them that he was telling them now and intended to tell them in the future or they would be able to tell it to Mayor Thrasher or the police court. He is a new man for the job, having been appointed by the new administration and like the new brown he is sweeping them clean for his belief in a clean city. Artie is probably the only sanitary inspector in the state that owns and operates his own car on the inspection tour and the amount of ground he covers in a day is marvellous.

The bulldog is a joke no longer. The present city council said they would not that bulldog over and they mean to know what they are talking about for they go right ahead and do things and in the last paper was a note that every one interested should read. In this you have not I will reproduce the reading: To Frank L. Woodruff, W. J. Thielen, C. H. Steamship Co., Sanford Hotel and Improvement Co., Florida Fish & Produce Co., Wm. H. and H. H. Adams and the Atlantic Coast Ry. Co., and all other property owners along the Sanford Bulkhead District. Take notice:

The following assessments were made against the following property, for the purpose of repaving the lake front along Lake Marion, and the city council will meet as a board of equalization to hear complaints if any, on the 16th day of February 1914, at 7:30 p. m.

CIRCUIT COURT ADJOURNED AFTER THREE WEEKS GRIND

SEMINOLE COUNTY MAKES RECORD FOR FIRST TERM MINOR CASES THIS WEEK

BUT JUDGE AND JURY WERE ON THE JOB EVERY MINUTE AND WHEELS REVOLVED

The first term of Circuit Court for Seminole county has closed, and passed into the history of the county. The first session occupied almost three weeks as there was a full docket and the matter also occupied several days' time. But in all the first session was very satisfactory to judge, jury and the people. Judge Perkins, State's Attorney Landis, his assistant, Geo. DeCottes, Clerk Douglas and assistants, Sheriff Hand and his deputies and all of the officials who assisted the wheels of justice to go round are to be commended upon their good work, for what promised to be a drag of many weeks has been hauled down to less than three and the cases were disposed of with neatness and despatch.

Deputy Sheriff McCulley of Ocala, had a peculiar experience Tuesday afternoon with a negro prisoner who he was attempting to bring to Sanford to place in jail for firing a gun, another negro out of certain establishments.

The Rec-Cooling Test

The rec-cooling test applied here to a car of lettuce for Chase & Co. and F. F. Dutton was satisfactory in every way and a complete report of the cars will be given in Tuesday's issue. The article was crowded out of this issue, but is so important that Tuesday's Herald will give the figures on the cars and the report of condition upon arrival. This is of great importance to the growers here and worthy of consideration before another season rolls around a pre-cooling plant should be erected in Sanford. Watch Tuesday's Herald for the report.

CHILDREN'S QUARREL

Entangles Parents and Killing Is The Result.

Orlando, Jan. 29.—In defense of his father, who was getting the worst of a three-cornered fight, Irving Miller, a ten-year-old boy, shot and probably fatally wounded Heywood Haile, Wednesday afternoon. The shooting occurred at Miller's grocery store on South Magnolia Street.

From what could be learned it is understood that the trouble started several days ago when the two Miller boys and a boy named Redding had a fight. It is said that Mr. Miller found the boys fighting and slapped the Redding boy and Mr. Redding, accompanied by his son-in-law, Mr. Haile, called upon Mr. Miller to inquire what started the trouble.

Mr. Redding entered the store alone after a few words with Mr. Miller several times across the head with a Winchester rifle. At this point Mr. Haile entered the store and, according to the boy's story, took a hand in the fight. The boy who was in the store when the trouble first started, secured a revolver and returned about the time Mr. Haile came into the store. The boy claims that when Haile hit his father he stepped forward and shot him in the stomach.

PRESBYTERIANS WILL BUILD FINE NEW CHURCH HERE

OTHER DENOMINATIONS EXPECT TO FOLLOW IN WORK

CITY OF CHURCHES

WILL BE OUR TITLE AND THE CITY WILL BE REPRESENTED BY MANY

Sanford can well be designated as a "City of Churches" for when the Sabbath-day comes around the people of this city lay aside the thoughts of commerce and trade and go to their several churches to worship. These places of worship may not be of the finest but they were suitable for the age in which they were constructed and up to the present time, the congregations have been able to use them although greatly crowded at times.

Several years ago the Congregational church decided that their building would not answer the purpose and built a new structure of concrete that is a credit to the city. These good people really have the only building in Sanford that meets the present needs and adds grace to our fast growing city.

The Presbyterians found their building too small and built an addition, as did the Baptists. Now the Presbyterians will build a new brick structure and the Methodists will follow and the Baptists and Episcopalians can be expected to hold up their part of construction and build also and Father Bresnahan while not talking about what he will do can be counted upon for a new building as the Irish were never put in the rear of any procession.

All of which means that Sanford will carry out the idea of the opening of this paragraph and be a "City of New Churches." At the present time the Presbyterians will be the first to take the initiative and start the new building. The old one will be moved to the rear of the lot at the corner of Oak avenue and Third street and be veneered with brick and will be the auditorium and Sabbath School rooms.

The life of Capt. Marks is woven into the wool and warp of the thread of Sanford's history. Coming here after the Civil war he assisted in founding the city, laying out the streets and making charge of the work of construction for General Sanford in building a hotel, mills, painting orange groves, etc.

Considerable speculation is afloat as to Mr. Riddle's successor, who has not yet been named. Mr. Riddle takes on his new duties on Feb. 1st.

DEATH OF CAPT. R. H. MARKS

One of Sanford's Pioneers and Best Beloved Citizens Died Wednesday

The city was shocked last Wednesday morning to hear of the sudden death of Capt. R. H. Marks. On Tuesday he was at his place of business as usual and in the best of health and entertained a few friends that evening at a dinner party. Afterward attending the moving picture show and retiring to his usual good health. Mr. Marks was awakened about midnight by the Captain complaining of feeling sick and Dr. Puleston was called and recognized the case as being acute indigestion. He fore he could administer any medicine Capt. Marks had breathed his last. He was about seventy-five years of age at the time of his death and had resided in this city for the past thirty-five years being identified with the city's growth from its infancy.

He was born in Georgia and passed his early childhood near White Sulphur Springs where his father, a Presbyterian minister had a charge. When the Civil war broke out the loyal Marks boys, R. H. and M. R. were the first to answer the call, the one to become the captain of a company and the latter a major and both served with distinction until the surrender at Appomattox, and afterward came to Florida to live.

The funeral services at the cemetery were under the auspices of Sanford Lodge of Elks and their beautiful oration was carried out, the quartette composed of Messrs. Murrell, Lloyd, Wildman and Polk rendering the beautiful "Vacant Chair" at the head of the casket.

The sympathy of the city, county and state goes out to her in her hour of sorrow and affliction.

The life of Capt. Marks is woven into the wool and warp of the thread of Sanford's history. Coming here after the Civil war he assisted in founding the city, laying out the streets and making charge of the work of construction for General Sanford in building a hotel, mills, painting orange groves, etc.

FLORIDA GROWERS FLEECE IN MATTER OF FREIGHT RATES

VEGETABLES COST EXORBITANT RATE TO SHIP NORTH

MATTER IS INVESTIGATED

OTHER NEWS OF THE WORLD AT LARGE—INTERESTING TO BUSY READERS

Chicago, Jan. 30.—The rentals paid by the New York, Chicago and St. Louis Railroad in the private car company today was made the subject of inquiry into the Interstate Commerce investigation into returns between railroads and private car lines. H. E. Morgan, general freight agent, testified that the road formerly had a contract with the Overland Refrigerating Company by which the railroad obtained 250 cars and paid salaries of the car line officials amounting to $1,000 for about $150 a month. He would not admit that the rate was unusually low. A new contract was entered into this month; he said, between the railroad and the Atlantic Seaboard Company, of which the roads furnish 200 cars a month at a flat rate of $15 each.

The examination is related to one in Washington, said Examiner G. H. Boyle. "The Washington Inquiry has shown some of the roads not making much money but many of the subsidies are. It was suspected that returns might be found that were not profitable to the railroads but were highly profitable to the subsidiaries. Edward R. Davies, a Chicago lawyer, presented a table, showing a comparison of rates north and south. "A shipment of 100 hampers of lettuce," he said, "would cost $54.32 to send from Chicago to Jacksonville, Fla. It would cost $26 to send them from Jacksonville to Chicago. The same shipment from Chicago to New Orleans would cost $43. From New Orleans to Chicago, it would cost $139."

Francis Lewis Clark, a millionaire of Spokane, Wash., is being held for ransom near Los Angeles, according to an anonymous letter to a newspaper. The letter is signed "The Black Mailers" and demands $75,000. Clark disappeared from Santa Barbara nearly two weeks ago and it was believed he committed suicide by jumping into the ocean. Police are investigating the letter and Clark says they are willing to pay the ransom if convinced that he really is held a prisoner.

The administration rural credit bills were introduced today by Senator Fletcher who presented the state message and representative Messrs. the house measure. Both were members of the commission which investigated rural credits in Europe. The bills would establish a Bureau for farm land banks in the treasury department; such banks could be organized by any group of farmers in any state, have power to issue bonds, raise funds, loan to farmers, receive and pay interest on deposits. Deposits and loans could not exceed 50 per cent of the value of improved land owned by the borrowers. "City business" by such institutions would be prohibited.

Col. Geo. W. Goethals will accept the governorship of the Panama Canal Zone, Secretary Garrison announced today and intimated that the acceptance was unqualified, but "I am not able to give out the terms of Col Goethals' acceptance now," said the secretary. "But it was whole and complete and when the President sends the nomination to the senate I shall probably be able to make a more interesting statement."

At the Methodist Church Mr. John R. Pepper of Memphis, Tenn., will speak at the First Methodist church on Sunday next at 3:00 p. m. Mr. Pepper is the superintendent of the great Sunday school of the south and is a lay leader of the Men's Movement of the Methodist church. All denominations are cordially invited to hear him. He is in attendance on the Lake Moore Bible Conference at Enterprise. He speaks daily for several days.

Rev. Smith Herdin, presiding elder of the Palatka district will be in Sanford on Sunday and will conduct services at the Methodist church. This is Mr. Herdin's first visit to Sanford in this capacity. He will be given a cordial welcome. The church conference will be held Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The evening service will be conducted by the pastor. A large attendance is expected at all services.

Sunday school at 9:45 a. m. The largest attendance in the history of the school was enjoyed last Sunday. All members and friends are earnestly requested to be present at the Sunday school hour.

STORM SWEPT CALIFORNIA

Deluge Carries Death and Destruction In Its Path

Los Angeles, Jan. 29.—Three men were drowned; a boy was reported to have lost his life, many persons were driven from their homes; buildings were damaged and steam and electric railway traffic was either tied up or seriously interrupted in southern California today as the result of the rain which deluged this section in the last 24 hours. The deaths were those of Louis Jones, a retired banker of Montecito; Hugh Spicer Haven, said to be a California capitalist, drowned near Moorville; and Rico Rodriguez, who drowned near Whittier. An unidentified boy was said to have been swept in the Los Angeles river.

For ten miles along the Rio Hondo, near Montebello, farmers were marooned by flood waters. The Southern Pacific, the San Pedro, Los Angeles and Salt Lake and the Santa Fe railroads all suffered from the deluge. The Santa Fe continued to care for its own traffic as well as for that of the Southern Pacific and the Salt Lake generally throughout California.

Damage to highways in Los Angeles county alone is estimated at $500,000. With the entire countryside literally soaking, the forecast for tonight and for tomorrow was more rain. "Already the precipitation to date is 13.92 inches, or nearly twice the normal rainfall. In the 24 hours ending at 5 o'clock this afternoon the precipitation was 4.4 inches.

Congregational Church

The Social Service Commission of the Congregational Churches of America, composed of such men as Mr. Beardley, ex-mayor of Kansas City, Graham Taylor of the Chicago Commons and Dr. Washington Gladden, friend and counsellor of the working man will be represented in Sanford by Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, the commission's secretary, some eight of the week of Feb. 16-22, definite date announced later. The purpose of this commission is to serve the causes of industry, country life, social service, organized charity and women's work; and Dr. Atkinson is prepared to handle any of these subjects with a master hand. Dr. Atkinson comes under the auspices of the Barnea Class of the Congregational Sunday school. At the close of his address to be given in the church an opportunity will be given for any questions from the house. All men and organizations of the city who are interested in these subjects are cordially invited.

The church choir is planning to give a concert in the near future, and later desires to enlist a large number of the musical talent of the city in another concert.

About forty of the Barnea and their friends will partake of an oyster stew next Monday evening in the Parish Room at 6:30 o'clock.

Next Sunday morning the subject for consideration by the pastor is "The Bible: Its Inspiration," and in the evening at 7 p. m. the fourth of the series will be given, "The Inspirational Force of Faith and Hope." Special music and the orchestra in the evening. All are cordially invited.

Presbyterian Church

At the 11 o'clock services Sunday the pastor will deliver the third sermon of the series of studies in the epistle to the Colossians. These sermons are getting forth the meaning of this epistle to the life of today. Miss Allison will sing at this service.

The 7 o'clock services will be evangelistic. The subject of the sermon will be "The Great Arrangement," an exposition of the last chapter of Isaiah. There was an enthusiastic meeting of the Brotherhood Monday night, and a full meeting of the board of deacons Tuesday night. The deacons are making a whirlwind campaign of the city for a new church.

Auto Blind Tiger

Miami, Jan. 29.—Deputy Sheriff Nolan of Hallandale captured an automobile blind tiger on Sunday night and from beneath the coverings extracted forty-two quarts of whiskey and six bottles of beer.

Nolan approached the auto and asked the driver where he could get something to drink, when the auto man is alleged to have said: "I can let you have it at $2.50 per quart." Nolan purchased the booze and then arrested J. E. Waymire and J. R. Dale and brought them to Miami. Another blind tiger was pulled in Miami by Constable Hodge and C. M. Miller Sunday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Gale of New York, who are spending the winter in Florida were week end guests at the Cushing House on their way to Orlando, having had a pleasant visit with friends at Geneva. C. D. Stark, J. E. Dunson and W. P. Willford of Commerce, Ga., have been enjoying an extended hunting trip along the St. Johns.

Miss Naomi Chambly of Palatka is entertaining a house party at her mother's home on Dove Lake. C. H. Campbell, R. A. Wright, T. E. Buecher, J. C. Crum and F. L. Mansour were among the distinguished visitors to our town last week.

The Magazine Club was delightfully entertained by Mrs. Hope last Friday afternoon. After a pleasing program and refreshments they adjourned to meet next week with Mrs. Ella DeLoe Jones.

It's No Use. Miss Inez Mitholland, the well known and charming suffragist, was arguing with an "anti" at a dinner at the Colony club in New York. "Oh, you are unfair," she said. "You turn upon our infirmities against us. You are like Hain-in-the-Face."

"Hain-in-the-Face" was once escorting a woman in a canoe across a Canadian lake when the Indians held in superstitious dread, believing that if one spoke while crossing, the lake one would inevitably be destroyed by the Great Spirit.

"Well, the woman thought she would cure the Indians of this silly superstition, and so, in the middle of the lake, she sang a song at the top of her voice.

"Hain-in-the-Face" was overcome with dread and horror. He signed to his paddlers to paddle faster and the men strained every nerve. In silence they soon landed the canoe on the opposite bank.

"Then the woman said to Hain-in-the-Face: "There! I hope you're convinced now that one can talk and paddle while crossing the lake without angering the Great Spirit."

"Hah," said Hain-in-the-Face scornfully. "The Great Spirit is merciful! He knows a woman can't keep still."

Sudden Shocks IMPAIR THE SYSTEM, SHORTEN LIFE AND DO GREAT HARM. If you knew that you could cure yourself or your child of a malignant disease by the use of dynamite, would you take the chance?

Calomel acts on the sluggish liver like dynamite on the solid rock. It shocks and upsets the organs and works much harm as proven by its after effects.

Modern science has discovered a vegetable substitute that produces all the desired effects of calomel without the shock or after troubles. It is so harmless that acids may be taken into the system immediately after the medicine without fear of after effects.

It rids liver, kidneys and bowels of all poisonous accumulations and leaves the patient feeling new and strong. Carwell's Liver-Aid is on sale at R. C. Downer's drug store at 50 cents for a large bottle. The purchase price will be refunded in full if you find it unsatisfactory.

MATTER OF FLIGHT

Girl Clerk's Lecture Helped Man Find Himself, Then She Finished the Job.

BY JOANNA SINGLE.

On the June day before his twenty-sixth birthday Paction put things up for himself straight from the shoulder...

What set him with a jar on his mental feet was nothing but the chance remark of a slip of a girl...

"Of course we are not happy! Why should we be? We're in the wrong place...

"I don't know," said Ruth Filmore, the first girl. "You know it isn't it's like a fever—sort of wild overwork...

"Don't cross it. We have some fun, anyhow, while it lasts!"

"It isn't fun," said Ruth Filmore, the first girl. "You know it isn't it's like a fever—sort of wild overwork...

Finding himself unnoticed, Paction turned where he could better watch this girl...

"You had better go away—this fifty cents," she said. "I can't make, please go!"

"There's no chance for a man's half-staying—your sister married a clerk. A clerk isn't a man..."

"I want to walk home with you. You can't refuse that," he said.

"A half hour later the two were on the street together. He led her to a cafe, they had something to eat, and she, who had been so cold and distant...

"I want to put things straight in myself. He was just supporting himself, and laying almost nothing by in five years—he got out his bank book. He had $25.75 to his credit. This shamed him deeply."

"On that June day before he was twenty-six he rushed out of the store at closing time, ate something at the first place he passed, and started out for a long walk...

As he sat on a fallen trunk he saw a man drive some sort of an engine down the road, and he remembered Ruth's speech. "Something was wrong with the machine, and the man had hitched three horses to it, and was having a bad time with them, shouting and cursing a great ado."

"Say, fellow, come over here and help me out!"

Paction went at a run. He led the horses, then he mounted the engine and helped fix something there. He got tired and hot and greasy. He rained his clothes, but by dark he had made a good friend and had a glimpse of a new life. He would not be able to do it. He was just supporting himself, and laying almost nothing by in five years—he got out his bank book. He had $25.75 to his credit. This shamed him deeply.

A TRIBUTE

In the hurry and hustle and confusion of latter day life we turn aside to drop a sprig of arbor vitae upon the grave of our departed friend and a tear drop wells to the eye for his memory and a tear of which we are not ashamed even though it is drawn from a masculine eye and has started against suffering or sorrow by contact with an unsympathetic world.

He believed that "Men and women, youth and children, seek the friendship of the sunny-faced." That "All doors are open to those who smile."

He believed in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. He believed that the man who scatters flowers in the pathway of his fellow-men, who lets into the dark places of life the sunshine of human sympathy and human happiness, is following in the footsteps of his master.

Green be the trees above thee; Friend of my yesterdays; None knew thee but to love thee; None named thee but to praise thee.

FLORIDA'S SUMMER CLIMATE

Florida's winter climate has been sung by poets and enthusiasts for years. Now the plain business man of the north is beginning to sing the praises and compare its summer climate.

In the last issue of the Manufacturers Record, Mr. Richard H. Edmunds tells of an incident of a friend who left New York when the temperature was ranging about 100, carrying an overcoat which he would need in Florida. He said:

"Some time ago a banker friend on his way from New York on a hot July day, met on the train an old acquaintance who years before had moved to Florida, and who carried with him an overcoat, despite the fact that the temperature was ranging dangerously near to the 100-degree mark. The old-time friend was asked why in the world he was carrying an overcoat at such a season. He said that he would not need it until he reached his Florida home, but that as he had to ride three miles from the station to his place in the country, an overcoat would be needed as it nearly always was needed on summer evenings."

"It has not been my privilege to test Florida's climate in the summer time. I cannot therefore speak except from the testimony of others. In vain, however, have I for some years sought to find a Floridian, man, woman or child, who did not claim, if he has ever lived in the north or west, that the summer climate of this state is infinitely preferable to that of his former home. If human evidence counts for anything, the statement is overwhelming, with nothing on the other side."

THE RED BOOK

The Tampa Year Book is out in a rich mahogany finish cover and plenty of good reading matter and pictures of Florida. It is a product of the Tampa Tribune office and shows the careful work of Gilbert Leach in compiling the facts and figures and the same careful work of Hewitt Hill in the composing room. Glens-Ilegin also had a hand in the making of the cuts and tri-color work (whatever that means) and the Year Book is all right with one exception. Sanford has no place in the book but under the head of Unrecorded Development is a statement that Sanford was formerly the leading celery section of the state but now the Elberton section produced better crops. Gilbert Leach knows better than that for he has been in Sanford and seen some five hundred acres in growing celery and the prices paid for it. He has also written statements of the immense amount of different varieties of vegetables and fruits shipped from this section and knows that no other section of Florida or any other part of the world can compare with Sanford either in acreage or quality or prices obtained. If he can let him give us figures and we hereby appoint Secretary Bates of the Sanford Commercial Club to meet him in joint debate or through the columns of The Herald to discuss this subject.

It is all right for Leach to talk about figures and acres of celery around Tampa but when he talks about celery in large figures he is getting beyond his depth and regardless of whether Sanford stood for the advertising stunt or not we want a square deal or else leave our name off the book altogether. Sanford cannot be compared with any other winter vegetable section in the world any more than Tampa can be compared to any other cigar city. Smoke up!

THE SUBJECT OF PRE-COOLING

The experiments that have been made here and elsewhere in the matter of pre-cooling cars for the transportation of fruits and vegetables are successful and demonstrate beyond peradventure that pre-cooling is the only way to solve many of the problems of transportation for our growers here in Florida. The California growers of canteloupes could never ship their fruit to the New York in good shape until pre-cooling plants were established and now the long haul of thousands of miles is made in perfect security and the canteloupes arrive in excellent shape. The fruit and vegetable growers of Texas have adopted the pre-cooling system and the latest section to take up this system is Charleston and other points in the south are bound to follow.

It only remains for Florida then to follow in the footsteps of other great fruit and vegetable sections and put in the pre-cooling plants that will mean so much to the grower and will pay for the installation in one season. It has been discovered by the experts that oranges will not carry well in lead refrigeration cars because the lead, or lead causes a moisture and the moisture causes the oranges to rot enroute to the northern markets. The cars should be heated first to eliminate the moisture according to the authorities on fruits. What better plan than could be devised than the pre-cooling as practiced here this week when the cars were heated to 80 degrees and then lowered to 29 degrees in 90 minutes?

The De Soto News in an editorial on this subject has the following that should prove of great interest to all the growers of fruits and vegetables in Florida. The theory has been advanced, and we think with much sound logic, that the method used in shipping citrus fruit in refrigerator cars has not been conducive of the best results.

Refrigeration is certainly one of the most important factors in the production of citrus fruits and vegetables. It is known to be the chief cause for the decay of citrus fruits of every variety. Other causes for the decay of fruits in transit to the foreign markets have been shown by the Government experimenters to be various, such as clipper cuts, poor packing, etc., but the chief cause for decay is due to the moisture created by the process employed.

It is well known that during very damp weather citrus fruits cannot be prepared for shipment because of the presence of moisture which would in itself be a cause for decay. If heat can be applied so as to consume the moisture, the process of preparing for shipment can be carried on with the same success as during fair weather.

It follows that a very natural conclusion is that if heat can be applied in the manner given above and the fruit thus conserved, that a similar process could be employed for the fruit while in transit to market. Namely, it might be wrapped in heated cars instead of refrigeration.

Outside of any scientific reasoning resulting from this theory there is an experiment of practical application known very well indeed to a great many of Florida's fruit growers and which we think serves as very good reasoning for the assumption that heated cars would procure better results than refrigerator cars, and that is the fact that any kind of citrus fruits may be buried in dry sand and kept perfectly good for many months if moisture is present in any form. Decay will set in at once.

Some parts of the country try to think they think Florida is slow. And yet more towns in Florida support successful daily newspapers than in any other state in the Union, taking towns of equal size. Is there a surer test?—St. Petersburg Times.

BIG BROTHERS

Some time ago the Elks lodge of this city received communication from a gentleman who is greatly interested in the Big Brother movement in New York and other cities in which he stated that the Elks and many other lodges were taking up this movement and asking for the cooperation and help of the United States in the movement that means so much to the juveniles of the country. The Big Brother means that the men will look more closely after the welfare of the young boys of the cities, taking care of them, teaching them good behavior and taking them from the police courts should they be unfortunate enough to fall into the clutches of the law for minor offenses and abiding good for them on probation, procuring good positions for them and acting as their guardians until they reach years of discretion. This movement is gaining momentum and recently the men of Jacksonville organized a Big Brother society and several prominent men of that city made addresses upon the subject of our boys excerpts of which follow.

Mr. Lloyd stated that the need for work among boys in Jacksonville was very great in Jacksonville and further that many boys came here from other cities and either failed to find work or came in conflict with the law. He said that boys are arrested on petty charges that are sufficient to associate them with criminals and smother their future careers.

The speaker also told of boys who belong there, but who are now living in improper environment and who are forced to suffer hardships in working for their living.

James C. Lanier, Duval county probation officer, spoke on the subject of the origin of the movement and stated that there is no more practical form of helpfulness than that which gets the feet of child victims of neglect or environment on the road that leads to useful citizenship.

Mr. Lanier stated that a boy saved was a boy gained, and that a boy in the open with a good friend to advise him was better than a boy in jail with criminals for companions.

He then told of the first organization of Big Brothers in New York city about nine years ago and outlined the plan of placing boys in need under the watch-care of a big brother. The probation officer also spoke of many instances which have come to his notice while in his present position and declared that Big Brothers were greatly needed here.

B. W. Dewell, who was the next speaker, has been running a Big Brother movement all of his own for some time and he declared that it was the best and easiest work in the world. He said it was a simple matter to gain the confidence of a homeless boy if a person approached the fact in the right manner and that good influence would invariably have the right results.

Mr. Dewell said that cigarette smoking among boys was hard to check. He declared that he had been a cigarette smoker and in order to show how easy it is to influence a boy in the direction of a better life, he had a bottle of three 20's of pressed, each other out to smoke cigarettes all night and how both had kept their promise. That the man is improved by aiding the boy was a point brought out by Mr. Dewell.

"In being a Big Brother," said W. S. Jewell of the Associated Charities, "give a boy your personality and not your money. Make boys come to you for advice when they are in trouble and help them to solve their trouble and find work for them; let them work for their money themselves and they will profit by the experience."

Judge W. W. Anderson, of the municipal court, said that he had yet to send his first boy to the city prison farm. He said that while acting as judge of the city court he had made it an unbroken rule to lecture every boy who came before him. Judge Anderson declared the juvenile question to be a great problem and one which had best be carefully handled for the best interests of the country as a whole. The judge said that the movement now inaugurated here was one which was certainly for the best interests of the city and one which would show great results.

Judge J. M. Peeler of the criminal court, said that on the first day he assumed the duties of his office he was confronted with a long line of boys and youths who had technically violated certain laws by trifling acts and some of the boys had never before been in court for trial. Judge Peeler said that right there he had resolved to put forth his energy in the work of steering such boys from a criminal path and had since that time worked with the probation officer to aid and advise such boys who were homeless and friendless. He said he would aid the Big Brother movement and was opposed to making criminals of boys, the inevitable result when boys are thrown in jail on petty charges.

The First National Bank of Sanford, Florida, would call the attention of all who do or who think of doing a banking business to the following facts:

This is the only National Bank in Seminole County and therefore the ONLY ONE UNDER GOVERNMENT SUPERVISION;

This is the oldest bank in the County and in this section of the State, having been in business continuously for MORE THAN A QUARTER OF A CENTURY;

This is the only bank in the County that has built up for the protection of its depositors a surplus equal to its capital, and surplus and profits together nearly double its capital;

This is the BANK WITH A RECORD, for SAFETY, STABILITY and CONSERVATISM, coupled at the same time with progressive management, that has made for success, while other commercial and financial institutions have come and gone.

Let this bank that has PROVED the truth of these facts be responsible for your money.

At 12 o'clock the firing of salutes from the forts announcing the opening of the Carnival. The Chamberlain of King Gasparilla, VII, the Court Chamberlain will arrive and a host of the people leaving banners and the music of brass.

Opening Addresses.
At 1:30 Mayor W. H. McKay will deliver an address of welcome which will be responded to by Hon. Wm. Chase Sampson, President of the Carnival Association, extending a welcome to the visitors and the Royal Court Chamberlain of King Gasparilla, VII. The Chamberlain of King Gasparilla, VII, is a Spanish nobleman from the Majesty King Gasparilla VII, an advance guard to make known the opening of the Carnival to the King and Krews of Florida. His address the Mayor and citizens that the Chamberlain is not a Spanish nobleman but a Spanish nobleman who will be taken by armed force. The Mayor will then appeal to the citizens to make preparations for the defense of the city against Gasparilla and the Pirates.

Floral Parade of School Children.
At 2:30 P. M. five thousand school children will be seen in a floral parade through the principal streets of the city to Plant Park, where they will give a classic singing song composed for this occasion by the children. Thousands will be carried by the children, all of whom will be appropriately costumed.

A Human Chess Game.
At 3:00 o'clock at Plant Park there will be a human chess game on an eighty-foot board of alternate white and black squares which will be participated in by thirty-two beautifully costumed people.

The Landing of De Soto—Tampa's Historic Pageant.
Commemorating the landing of De Soto on the shores of Florida more than three hundred and seventy years ago will be a feature of not only Tampa but the entire city on the night of February 23, the opening of the Carnival. Under the auspices of the Ladies' Club of the city will be shown this magnificent historical pageant, bringing into life the characters who were in the early history of Florida. The daring explorers and adventurers who entered unknown territory in search of gold will be presented in a manner that will be both startlingly beautiful and entrancing. Quite a proportion of the population of Tampa is Spanish in descent and from this source will be secured the people who will impersonate the Spanish characters. Several hundred of these will participate and all will be in the costumes of De Soto's period. Near the place where De Soto will land will be seen a number of Indians and around the trees the squares and papayas glancing in the freedom of the wilds. Suddenly from the trees will ring out the singing of the beautiful Indian maidens who will emerge singing and dancing the corn dance. The braves will come into camp with their game. Long around the campfire they are aroused by the coming of De Soto and his halberdiers, lancers and halberdiers, headed by Juan Ortiz, hurry forth to meet them. De Soto gives peace with the Indians. Blasting of the Spanish flag is shown. Then 1671, the landing of the English and the raising of the Stars and Stripes. Finally a chorus of several hundred voices. The afternoon program will close with a magnificent display of fireworks and illumination of the City and Masked Street Carnival.

At dusk the Honor the Mayor will press an electric button, throwing the city into a blaze of glory. He will immediately inaugurate the beginning of the masked street carnival when the imaginations of the merry-makers may run riot. Several blocks of the main street will be closed to all traffic, giving the maskers the exclusive use of this section. A large aggregation of people will furnish music for the evening's festivities.

It is the inviolable rule that all persons entering this zone be in fancy costumes and that all impersonations keep out of those who impersonate the King of the Masked Street Carnival.

Sunday, February 22.
Sunday morning special services will be delivered at all the churches. At 2:30 P. M. services will be given by all bands in various sections of the city.

All Sunday afternoon the officers of an automobile club will be in charge of a submarine, motor and torpedo boat destroyers and war vessels of various other countries who will be in Tampa during Carnival Week will receive the salute.

At dusk the city will again don its electrical garb.

Monday, February 23.
Elaborate preparations will be made for the defense of the city against the Majesty Gasparilla VII and Ye Majesty Krews. At 3:30 o'clock will occur the celebration in honor of the formal opening of the new LaFayette Street bridge, a $20,000 structure which will stand for all time as a monument to the administration under which it was constructed. The ceremony will be opened by music furnished by the Municipal Band. Mayor McKay will make a brief speech in the name of the city of Tampa, presenting the bridge to the people. Judge C. R. Parkhill will respond. The parade will be closed by a display of daylight fireworks.

Landing of King Gasparilla.
At 3:30 o'clock the city will be thrown into confusion by the firing of guns as the pirate ship and its crew enter the city. In this event will be seen many of the finest private yachts that make winter headquarters in southern waters. These yachts will be one of the most gorgeous ever seen in this country. All the boats will be gorgeous in their holiday attire. The war vessels lift anchor and proceed to meet the enemy. Discovering their inferior force they realize the impregnability of the city and joining the enemy in a relationship, follow it on its victorious course up the river. The pirate ship will land at the Tampa Bay Hotel docks and the krews, headed by Gasparilla, will march to the hotel, where they will demand and receive the keys of the city, and then will be a scene of glee as the pirates float over their rich treasure.

Immediately upon the landing of the pirates, Moroc Tenor Shriner will start their parade, headed by 40-piece Shriner band, at the Tampa Bay Hotel, and will march through the city.

Electric Pageant.
At 8:30 o'clock the fantastic and electric pageant will wind its way through the city, headed by Gasparilla and his krews. The parade will consist of 75 elaborately decorated and illuminated floats, carrying allegorical and mystical scenes followed by hundreds of illuminated autos and waxy marching clubs of weird and fantastic costumes. Along the parade will be dragons and serpents, giants and dwarfs, and forty autos of Seminole Indians. It will close at 11:00 o'clock. The Jayshore drive will be a most magnificent and elaborate pyrotechnical display lasting two hours. It will be given. No other float in the parade will be given before 11:00 o'clock. The parade will be the closing of the Panama Canal. President Wilson, Mayor McKay and other local scenes will be played. This feature alone will cost the Carnival Committee more than $1,000. The beauty and splendor of this display will be unobscured by the fact that it will be shown from the harbor anchored in Hillsborough Bay facing the beautiful bay-shore drive along whose mile of asphalt paved street there is a natural amphitheater that will give 30,000 people a chance to witness the display.

There will also be a reproduction of the masked Carnival of Saturday night. During the evening there will be a garden party and dance in the grounds of the Tampa Bay Hotel. The music will be furnished by the Municipal Band of the city. The music will be from the city.

Tuesday, February 24.
The last and greatest day of the Carnival, the afternoon of which will be given over to the visitors for the purpose of giving the sights of the day, visiting the government buildings, the play factories, the water front improvements and the various points of natural attraction that can be seen in the other climate in all their tropical beauty during the winter months. In automobiles over the mile of beautiful drives through orange groves laden with gold on foot, pine forests fragrant with the health-giving fumes of the foliage, and gorgeous tropical scenery where spring is perpetual.

At 1:30 P. M. on Tuesday the grand allegorical, historical and floral parade will start from the city of Tampa and will march through the principal streets beneath triumphal arches of orange and flowers. It will be the grandest parade of Tampa ever seen, accompanied by mounted heralds, announcers, and a band of 100 musicians. The parade will be headed by King Gasparilla VII, who will appear the Royal Band in fancy costume. Next will follow the Royal Court Chamberlain and the seven courtiers, followed by the Municipal Band. Following these will come the Gasparilla Captain and his lieutenants, followed by the Municipal Band. The parade will be followed by the Municipal Band. The parade will be followed by the Municipal Band.

FLOATS OF THE CARNIVAL ASSOCIATION.
Float No. 1.
JANUARY—Janus god, oldest of potentates, Forward I look and backward, and I count, as God of adventures and gates, The years that through my portals stream and ebb and flow.

Janus, the ancient Roman god was the god of beginnings. He had two faces and looked forward and backward seeing what was to come, and looking with retrospective eye on the past. ## SLOW WITH WIDOWS

But Mrs. Crabtree's Lemon Pies Write Good and She Was Coy.

By CARL JENKINS.

Of course Deacon Hartley, widow, knew that there was such a period in the life of Dalton as Mrs. Crabtree. He knew that she was a widow. He knew that she attended his church.

In fact he passed her house at least ten times a week.

The Deacon knew things and would not have denied them, but he was going slow on widows. During the eight years he had been a widower four different attempts had been made to lassie him for another trip in the saddle of matrimony, two by widow and two by old maids.

The Deacon was a sly old bird of sixty. He was comfortably well off, the way he looked, and he was a man who was not easily taken in.

It was on a day when the four attacks on him by the four women had made him so suspicious of the sex that if a woman stopped him on the sidewalk and asked the time of day, he seemed to be a hidden motive some where.

The widow Crabtree had never sought to advance herself in the attention of the Deacon. He bowed as they encountered each other at the church door she bowed. If he remarked that it was a fine morning she agreed. On one occasion he asked whether old Mrs. Thompson was dead or not, and she had replied that she guessed not as she had seen her out mending the stable door the afternoon before.

It cannot be said that Mrs. Crabtree was either very young or a sly bird, but she may have had thoughts and plans. It is just possible that she may have picked up a hint from a remark dropped by a neighbor one day. The Deacon's name happened to come into the conversation, and the neighbor said:

"I am going to ask you rather a funny question. Do you like pies?"

"I don't care for mango or apple."

"But lemon?"

"I can eat three a day if they are made right," said the Deacon as his mouth began to water.

"I made one this afternoon and I should like your opinion of it. Will you come in and sample it?"

"I'll be glad to."

That pie was on the table waiting for him. His eyes began to dance at the first look. It was a noble looking pie. It refused to smile in his face. There was just the right amount of crust there as thick as the bark on a spring wheat. At last he had found the hope of his heart.

The widow cut the pie in quarters and passed him one of them. He ate this standing up, and with great gusto. Then he ate the next section sitting down and he smacked his lips just seven times.

"Have another?"

"I would."

"And don't leave this place to be longed for."

"I'll do it. I'll follow the other three, but may a man's heart beat, and then the Deacon stood up to go."

"What Crabtree's never tasted better."

"Thank you, Deacon."

"I never tasted as good."

"You are so kind."

"If I could only have such pies every day—yuh, yuh!"

On the next day Aunt Sally determined to visit the Deacon's taste for lemon pie or break a leg. She went for no less than five of the neighbors for advice, and she was successful as she would have been with the work of a watch, but when the good man came to sample it he shook his head and said:

"This is a little improvement, but a little more would tell it from dried pumpkin pie that's about all."

"But what can be the matter with it?" asked Aunt Sally in despair.

"Tain't lemon pie."

"But it is in two lemons."

"Guess they crawled out again!"

"You jest, they couldn't. Deacon Doctor says that too many lemons on pie will destroy the stomach."

"But I don't want but three a day!"

"It is so, that I can't eat you. You know it's a good taste in the mouth, but before you means. You don't know believe do you?"

"You jest better."

"You jest better!"

"Course not."

"No, quicker your mouth up with green."

"He jest!"

"Well, I'm glad that I may as well vomit inside to get best," she waited as he left the house.

It was down Spruce street, again, and as he was passing the door of Mrs. Crabtree's house.

"Well, I jest, I jest, I jest, I jest, another lemon pie today?"

"I jest!"

"What if you will sleep up."

"I jest!"

"I was deceived and pronounced even better than the one he jest possible. He jest for a few minutes this time, but his conversation was only friendly. He was bland and the widow was coy just as should be."

At last to be the thing for the Deacon to stop and eat a lemon pie every day, and sometimes he remained for an hour afterwards. This can't be done in a village without gossip. By and by, without the principals having heard a whisper, the parson of the Deacon's church called him to the study and said:

"Deacon, they say you are courting widow Crabtree."

"I ain't even thought of it, parson."

"But you call them every evening."

"Parson, do you like lemon pie?" was asked.

"Why, yes."

"Well, the widow Crabtree makes the best in the land. That's what I stop for—to eat one of her fresh baked lemon pies."

The parson leaned back and thought for a minute and then said:

"If I was a widower—"

"Yes."

"And I knew a nice widow—"

"Yes."

"Who could make the best lemon pie in Davy county?"

"Yes."

"I'd fall in love with and marry her within three months."

"And darn my old hat if I don't do it."

And he did, and in that account he was cutting his three lemon pies a day, and the couple was very happy.

"It tastes like a raw carrot!"

"You never knew how to make one, and you are too old now to learn. By jinks I wish I knew of a woman within a hundred miles of here that knew how to make a lemon pie—a real lemon pie!"

Aunt Sally started to the kitchen with quivering chin, and Deacon Hartley shoved back from the table and got his hat and cane and started for the postoffice. The widow Crabtree was watching for him. He came down Spruce street with a scowl on his face, and as he reached a point opposite her gate she opened the door and called:

"Just a minute, please, Deacon."

"Well, what is it?"

The Roots Tell the Story of What the Tree Will Be.

An old time philosopher said, "As the twig is inclined so will the tree be bent." Griffings say that on the health and vigor in the young trees depend the future of the planting. The planter who would know what his trees will be, ten or twenty years hence, considers the root growth of trees he buys. Griffings are proud of the root system the trees they sell by the methods of culture practiced in their nurseries. When you plant Griffings' trees, you can look forward to early and productive maturity, if they are given proper care in the grove.

Griffings' Grapefruit Grows

The trees make thrifty, early maturing and highly productive groves because of the fine root systems given them in Griffings' Nurseries. Grapefruit is the great money crop of Florida. We specialize on varieties of proved merit like Duncan, Florida Common and March Seedless, varieties that can be planted with full assurance, since they have been thoroughly tried and tested for many years in all parts of the citrus fruit belt. Other kinds may be good, these are known to be. You can depend on them.

Griffings' 1914 Tree-Book

Not only describes these varieties of grapefruit and other citrus fruits but it tells how to plant and care for your grove so as to assure success. It tells you how to know good trees, how to plant them, the soil and its maintenance that should govern your choice of kind and varieties. This book has been complimented as the most helpful and instructive ever put into circulation by nurserymen. Its contents are so practical and valuable that the book could be sold for a price but we prefer to distribute it free for the good of the territory we serve. You can have a copy by writing for it. Greater Oviedo. The people in general look at Oviedo's fire as a blessing in disguise, and the verdict is, "It had to come sometime." Now we look forward to great anticipations. We have new brick buildings and broader streets. In our imagination we see a brick or cement sidewalk running from the Atlantic Coast Line depot, west until it intersects street running north and south of Mr. Lawton's residence. Another sidewalk beginning at Mr. Howard's northeast corner where his store stood, running past postoffice and Seaboard depot south to Mr. Joe Lawton's residence, then running west again. Some perhaps met a substantial loss, but there was not a business man in Oviedo burned out that is not in the very prime of strength and vigor and in the zenith of manhood and they will rebuild. One of our business men bought the lot on which his goods were burned the same day as the fire. Another of our business men of property let a contract for a brick building below the other coded. The day after the fire the butcher shop was running in a temporary building erected for that purpose. It looked as though Dr. Marshall's new office would be burned; it was soon cleared, but did not burn. Perhaps the operating table and surgical instruments did not get the delicate touch, but the genial Doctor said, "he had no kick coming" and next morning he was ready for business. It would not cost much to get an artisan well near the business center and a small cement reservoir. It would be handy for people stopping and in case of fire. A hundred or so of park trees set out on the new streets and other places where they are missing would help to beautify our little city. A commercial club organized with vim and vigor back of it might be a good acquisition. Some may think a few lights here and there might be a good thing. Some may look forward to an incorporated city with city marshal or night watch. Some may think these things would make so much expense. But perhaps these things brought into operation might be an incentive for others to come here and live and thus help in our aggressive work. As a fire or storm that brings devastation brings the people closer together, and has a tendency to best common sympathy, thought and action, so in this case I think we will appreciate each other more. Nobody hurt, nobody killed—we are thankful.

Oviedo lies in silent ashes gray, Waiting for a glorious, better day; She'll fight the "fight of faith" to stay, And live in a larger, better way.

O Daniel! O Daniel! "Live forever," The people loudly cried; Wilt thou not boldly come, And come now from thy secret hide?

A wireless came from toward the sea, "Forgot the net? I'll think of thee; I'm over here to check the chart; And bring to Oviedo my little girl."

The flames of fire spread with fearful flight, With carpets, water buckets and dild night;

It seemed that lightning filled the sky; A clear case of "root hog or die."

"Lord, save our store," a female cried, As down the street she made a stride; The fire burned hotter than the sun; A silent voice said, "Thy will be done."

The people fought with Herculean might; They worked and sighed the awful sight; Ah! la done, we'll take the "chastening rod."

And humbly and reverently look to God. A. L. ROPE.

FRUIT-MEN WIN

Will Be Allowed To Pre-Cool Their Own Cars of Produce. Washington, D. C., Jan. 29.—The Interstate Commerce Commission's ruling requiring trans-continental railroads to permit California orange shippers to pre-cool and pre-cool their fruit shipped to eastern cities and limiting the charge for the use of cars during the pre-cooling stage to $7.50, was held today by the supreme court. The Commission's order requiring the railroads to permit shippers to pre-cool when the shippers withdrew the privilege after the Commission had reduced the charge for pre-cooling from $30 to $7.50. Justice Lamar rendered the opinion. He sustained the order because the shipper's method of cooling was probably better than that of the railroads.

county when the county comprised what is now Orange, Seminole, Osceola and Lake counties, and he was forced to ride a horse across swollen streams and through the woods, camping out at night and having adventures that would fill a book. He had a real estate office in this city when the yellow fever scare swept the state and scared the prospective customers from Florida. Getting an urgent offer to open an office in Madison Capt. Marks drifted to West Florida and spent several years there engaging in the hotel and real estate business and making many friends among the people of that section of the state. The love for South Florida lured him back and in the early 80s he again opened an office here and business was so brisk at that time that Capt. Marks often sold orange groves by moonlight. He also had charge of the old Wilton Hotel and dispensed hospitality with the lavish hand of the old time southerner.

There was a time when history connected with the life of Capt. Marks that it would fill a book and few men in Florida or any other state have lived such an active life or accomplished more in the making of history as the man who is the subject of this sketch. Few men in these latter days will have the opportunity or the courage to attack the wilderness and undergo the vicissitudes of pioneer days as did Capt. Marks. He resided at Ft. Reed before Sanford was thought of and also lived on the Wekiwa river where he had a magnificent orange grove in the early days of this industry.

During his latter life he was always identified with every movement looking toward the betterment of Sanford and his purse was always opened for every scheme evolved for the publicity of Sanford and the celery delta. An optimist by nature and by action, Capt. Marks had one of the most even and sunny dispositions, and he was always looking on the bright side of life. His office and home were always open to his many friends and his counsel and sympathy were ever extended to those in need. In fact it seemed to have been Capt. Marks' mission in life to cheer his friends and cheer sunshine along the pathway of life. It was often said of him that he was the youngest old man that Sanford contained and despite his years he was forever joking, laughing and pranking with his friends. He was known far and wide in the state of Florida and his memory will be green in the hearts of her people for many years to come.

In the death of Capt. Marks Sanford has lost one of her best men. Perhaps the largeness of his heart, beat in kindly impulses, best in the optimistic spirit that makes cities best in man's humanity to man and best in the spirit of friendship that means more than all the riches of this world.

How sweet a life was his; how sweet a death; Lying to wing with mirth the merry hours, Or with his genial tales the heart to cheer;

Dying to leave a memory like the heath Of summer, full of sunshine and flowers, A grief and gladness in the atmosphere."

A Trans-Florida Railroad

Crossing the peninsula of Florida across the lower half has long been the dream of promoters who saw that sooner or later the time is coming when such a railroad will be built.

The Tampa, Atlantic and Gulf seems to be about to get across, and will gain all the advantages sought by others. There is no doubt that the railroad across Florida connecting the port at Tampa with either Fort Lauderdale or some other place lower down would be of incalculable service in developing south Florida and would at once become a revenue producer.

CONFERS WITH GROWERS

THE NEW LEAGUE UNDER TENNEY WILL FORCE REDUCTION OF EXPRESS RATES ON FRUITS AND VEGETABLES

That the Florida Growers' and Shippers' League is to become an important factor in affairs concerning the welfare of the growers of Florida is apparent in the fact that Mr. Quirk, representing the Interstate Commerce Commission, will be in Orlando tomorrow for a conference with Mr. S. Lloyd Tenney, general manager of the league, in regard to the increased express rates which are ordered effective February 1st.

Mr. Quirk is coming to Orlando at the request of Mr. Tenney, who called the attention of the commission to the fact that the increase applies to fruits and vegetables while a reduction was ordered on general commodity shipments.

In any event, it is Mr. Tenney's object to secure a stay of the order until a hearing can be given by the commission for its representatives, and this is understood to be the purpose of Mr. Quirk's visit.

The fire was fanned by a strong wind which gave it such a start that little could be done to check its progress. The water front was threatened and the entire city might have been wiped out but for the fact that the wind was blowing in a direction which did not tend to spread the flames inland.
