Access to documents mulled

SANFORD - With assistance from Congressman Bill McCollum, R-Winter Park, gressman Bill McCollum, R-Winter Park, Seminole County residents may be able to refer to thousands of federal government publications covering a range of topics from gardening to gourmet cooking by September.

And residents will be able follow what their congressmen said or wish they said.

Seminole County commissioners will decide on April 25 whether to spend over $108,600 this year to have the county library system established as a federal depository. McCollum is assisting the county to receive the depository designation which could make the county only one of 13 public libraries in the state to receive one of 13 public libraries in the state to receive the documents free from the federal govern-

Commissioners were pleased with the oppor-tunity to apply for the depository status when presented with the proposal last week (4-10). Only two libraries in each congressional district may be appointed by the local congressman.

Thatcher orders investigation

SHEFFIELD, England - A grim Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher inspected the Hillsborough stadium where 94 people were killed in the crush of a surging crowd, and announced an official investigation into Britain's worst soccer disaster.

"One should not make a judgment on what would inevitably be partial evidence," Thatcher said Sunday, one day after the tragedy. "The public inquiry will find all the facts and the home secretary will make a statement tomorrow (Monday),

Police said 94 people, including a 10-year-old boy, were crushed to death when thousands of fans pressed into a crowded standing section for Liverpool supporters.

Governments meet state rule

By LAURA SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Seminole County cities are working against a deadline to comply with a state law requiring a countyoperated recycling program.

CALNO, or the Seminole County council of local governments, is reviewing an interlocal agreement between Seminole County and its seven municipalities to cooperate on a plan reducing the amount of solid waste dumped in the Osceola landfill by 30 percent over five years. That agreement, reviewed by the council at a meeting last week, is a prerequisite for a grant the county needs to implement the waste management program.

The grant application — including the agreement between cities - is due in Florida Department of Environmental Regulations (DER) by mid-May, said Sherry Newkirk, county recycling coordinator.

Last year the Florida legislature passed a bill mandating counties to implement recycling programs for newspaper, aluminum and plastics. The county must have a plan for action by the state July 1 deadline.

Cindy Wright, deputy director of Seminole County environmental services, said the Osceola landfill near Geneva is projected to meet its capacity within 30 years. A multimaterials recycling program, which should be in full swing by January 1990, could extend the life of the 1,200-acre landfili by 50 years, she said.

More than half of Florida garbage could be put to use through recycling of paper, glass and aluminum, according to a DER study.

Telephone terrorists operate here

By SUGAN LODGE Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Local lawmen regularly receive reports of harassing, threatening or obscene tele-phone calls but three callers — who have terrorized their victims with one-time calls — go far beyond the

One of these callers, a man who poses as a telephone repairman and orders women to perform sex acts on themselves and then tells them to put valuables in a bag and place the bag outside their houses, has been operating in Central Florida since the late 1970's, Seminole County sheriff's Sgt. Greg Barnett sald.

The second caller, a man who poses as a medical doctor who orders girls, whose ages range from 11 to 19 years, to perform sexual acts on themselves under the guisa of a self-medical-exam, has also plaqued the area for several years. That caller has personal information on the victims, which makes some believe he is authentic, investigators said.

The third caller is fairly new on the scene. Since early January. Seminole County sheriff's investigator Dan Prast has probed numerous reports by local women who said they have been called by an extortionist who poses as a policeman. Lawmen in area cities and in Orange and Volusia countles are investigating cases involving the same caller. The two other callers operate in those counties and cities too.

Barnett said these callers can be separated from copycat callers, because of specific things each routinely says to victims. Things copycats don't know are part of the terrorists' games.

The "doctor" caller and the "telephone repairman" primarily inflict psychological damage to their victims. However, in one case a couple of years ago, an Altamonte Springs woman, under orders of from the "repairman," performed sex acts on herself, then dressed in a bathing suit and went to the Altamonte

Dixons still partners after 65 years

Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Zeke and Irene Dixon celebrated their 65th wedding anniversary last week - or maybe observed is a better work because there was no big celebration.

After 65 years of marriage, Dixon says he and his wife as still partners, as they have been through 20 years of working in the celery fleids and raising six children in a fleid worker's shanty, and 45 years of being is business for themselves.

Dixon was II years old when his family moved from Orange to what is now Seminole County, and spent his childhood working on his father's farm. Bitterness still creeps into his voice when he mys he didn't inherit his father's piece of land because his father didn't like the girl Zeke married in 1924.

Zeke was 19 and his bride was 16. and the newly-married couple didn't have a place to live. "We lived in an

But then, Otto Schmael, a Sanford contractor, bought five acres on Jewett Lane to begin a farming operation and he needed someone to do the farm work. Schmael told Dixon to come and see him. "He said if I could plow as straight a furrow as my father. I could have the job and he'd build me a shanty on the property to live in." Dixon says.

Dixon demonstrated his plowing skills behind a team of mules and got the job. He stayed there for 20 years, as the celery farm expanded from five to 100 acres, and the six Dixon children were born in the shanty. Mrs. Dixon says one addition was built for the expanding family.

When World War II began, Dixon received his draft notice, and says "I was ready to go." But Schmael told him to take Irene and go talk to the draft board because he'd made a mistake on the board's questionnaire.

'Crank' may replace 'crack'

MIAMI — A drug that packs the punch of ocurre but costs less has arrived in south Florida, and one drug expert says the illicit substance could trigger a massive abuse problem.

The drug, formally known as methamphetamine, is commonly called crank.

"Crank is the drug that has the most promise of becoming a massive abuse problem in Florida and across the country." James Hall, the executive director of Up Front, a drug information center, told The Miami Herald.

Use of the drug, which is also known as go, crystal meth and sip, has grown rapidly around the nation, Hall said. "Beginning in December we've started hearing about it on drug hot lines here in Miami," he said.

Hall said some callers on the center's drug hot line say crank is better than cocaine because its effect lasts longer and it is

"When cocaine started out it was just in the elite in this area like crank is today, said Sgt. Tom Hunker of the Miami Beach Police narcotics unit. "Methamphetamine is just in its infancy around here."

The drug was created in the 1940s as a cure for obesity and mental disorders. The substance, which is commonly taken in powder form, made its way into the illegal drug scene in the 1960s.

But the popularity of methamphetamine has surged recently, according to Hall and the Florida Drug Information Center, which acts as a clearinghouse for information on drugs.

The number of methamphetamine labaraided by federal drug agents is also on the rise, from 184 in 1981 to 816 last year. according to the Drug Enforcement Administration. Only a half dozen such labs have been found in Florida.

"It is still less than I percent of what we see, so it is difficult to guage the problem," said Bill Davis, a special agent supervisor at the Florida Department of Law Enforcement. 'But the price, availability and trafficking patterns are all the same as cocaine, so we have to take action now." State Rep. Luis Rojas, R-Hialeah, has proposed legislation that would require ubers and producers of three chemicals used as a base for crank to register those chemicals when quantities exceed one

The chemicals are phenylacetic acid, acetic anhydride and sodium acetate.

Similar bills have been adopted in California and Oregon.

"I'd put down I had six children, but hadn't named them," he says. "The board questioned me and Irene we gave them the children's names and they said I was more valuable to the government supporting my children than as a soldier," he says.

The war also brought higher wages, and Dixon says Schmael told him if he had to pay $5 a day to his workers, he'd those down the farming operation. Dixon, who was earning $12 a week, was a little apprehensive about Schmael satatement.

One summer, when farming operations were alow, he worked for two weeks at the naval air base in Sanford. "That was big money." he says. He made 50 mts an hour, working 10-hour days. But after two weeks Schmael esked him to come back to the farm, and he did.

However, in 1944, Dixon had $200 saved and decided he wanted a place of his own. "I went to Otto and saked if he would deed the sharty I lived on to me. He said he could't do that, cut that piece of land out of the farm, but to look around for another piece of land I liked, and he'd help be buy it."

Dixon found some land in Goldsboro that he wanted, it was about two acres of a former celery farm that had gone broke and was being sold off in lots.

wasn't a house on it, it sense. I never applied for the wasn't worth buying. When Dixlicense and that was the last piece of land, Schmael advised him to ask for an un-to-detailed abstract. The real estate salesman wanted him to ask for an up-to-date abstract and Schmael would check it to make sure there were no liens against IL

"I brought the abstract to him in about three days and he wrote me out a check for $175," Schmael says, Dixon bought the land, and with the $200 he had saved, bought the lot next to his, which sold for $190.

gathered used lumber from buildings being demolished, and built himself a two-story house. The flooring came from a box factory in Kissimmer and Mrs. Dixon says the floor boards are all lengths, ranging from two feet to 20 feet.

The Dixons still live in the house, located behind 1910 W.

"People who saw me build my house asked me to build them one and I went into the house-building business." Dixon re-lates. Over the next two years, he built 18 simple houses, charg-ing his customers $400 each for

So, in 1946, he had to decide what to do to make a living. "I decided I'd do what I knew how to best - grow food," he says.

He rented some additional land, to bring his total to 15 acres, got a losn for a car and when that was paid for in four payments over two years, got another loan for a tractor and paid for it the same way,

He sold his produce through brokers at the state market, dealing with Kastner Produce for 13 years.

The business was, and remains, a partnership between Dixon and his wife. "She does the picking and washing, and delivers the produce" he says.

But, he says, labor got too expensive. "I was making a lot of money, but after I paid my help, there wasn't much left over. I decided being big wasn't so good." He cut back to his own two acres, and has been raising vegetables on that acreage ever since. For the last few years he has sold most of his produce to Jan's Produce stand on French Avenue, Mrs. Dixon says the stand labels her yellow crookneck squash "Mrs. Dix-on's" because quatemers know, that the Dixon squash is clean; and of good quality.

The Dixons grow produce year 'round. He notes that there isn't as much demand for greens as there used to be, so they are not his main crop enymore. But he raises a variety of produce — string and pole beans, yellow crookneck squash, zuchini, okra, mustard greens strawberries. and blue berries, black berries, persimmon, and even a variety of apple developed in Israel.

All the Dixon children finished high school, and two daughters recently retired after 30 years of teaching school - one in Baltimore and one in Eustis.

Both have master's degrees. One son retired after 20 years in the Air Force and is a television repairman in Ohio. Two more sons live in houses built on the land their father bought in 1944.

Still slim and wiry, Dixon says he and his wife aren't able to do all the work that they used to. "It's my mind. I think quick and it makes me move. I'm going all day," he says, but adds that his doctor has told him to slow down. He thinks he may have to hire some help to take care of his vegetables, but if he can't find suitable employees, he says he'll just let some of his land go fallow.

"I never expected to live this long," he says. "All I need is friends and freedom, and I have plenty of both, but can never have enough."

McCollum seeks federal center here

SANFORD - With assistance from Congressman Bill Mc-Collum, R.Winter Park, Seminole County residents may be able to refer to thousands of federal government publications covering a range of topics from gardening to gourmet cooking by September.

And residents will be able follow what their congressmen said or wish they said.

Seminole County commissioners will decide on April 28 whether to spend over $108,000 this year to have the county library system established as a federal depository. McCollum is saisting the county to receive the depository designation which could make the county only one of 13 public libraries in the state to receive the documents free from the federal

"I think this would be a real feather in our caps and a real service for our residents," said county commissioner Fred Streetman.

The $108,000 will be spent to remodel a room in the central county library in Casselberry to house the publications, expected to number 100,000 or more in five years. Three librarians will also be hired to oversee the collection with the money. Their combined annual salary and benefits will cost the county about $67,000 each year.

County librarians say the collection would be a boon to the services they provide to residents. Casselberry reference librarians said they receive up to 700 calls a day for information. They say the federal documents would help them answer be-

The Record is somewhat unique in record-keeping because congressman can have speeches published in the Record they never made before Congress or they can change wording of speeches they did make.

Glenn Turner's castle gutted by suspicious fire

CASSELBERRY - Seminole County fire inspectors this morning were able to enter Glenn Turner's castle for the first time since the structure was gutted by fire at about 5 a.m.

Financier Glenn Turner, who is imprisoned in Arizona on fraud charges after a 1987 conviction, built the castle in the early 1970's. It was still incomplete at the time of the fire.

There was another fire at the castle in April of last year. The castle has been a draw for youths who have marred its walls with grafitti, Schenk said, The damage by the earlier fire wasn't as severe at Sunday's damage. The floors and roof of the building collapsed in Sunday's fire.

Schenk said that several explosions were heard in the western wing of the castle during the fire. Fifty-five gallon drums of cleaning fluid may have caused those explosions, he said. But that hadn't been confirmed.

The castle was not insured.

A spring to forget

When basebull's Opening Day arrived April 3, it didn't come a moment too soon. Despite warm days in Arizona and cloudless akies in Florida, spring has scuffed true baseball fans' sensibilities as roughly as an emery board.

The biggest irritation of March was watching what's happening to spring training itself, that gentle idy'll of yesteryear. Once upon a time, it was a slow and low-key pleasure, a few lasy weeks during which fams could walk along the practice field, eyeing the mokies in drifts, or move through the standard rookies in drills, or move through the stands at the tiny spring ballpurks, spending an inning behind first base, then shifting out to the left-field line to get a look at the kid lefty in the bullpen.

Now, spring training, victim of its own mystique, has become a mob scene and plaything of the real estate developers and tourist industry. The Cube and Mets sold out every home exhibition game weeks in advance, and scalpers worked the parking lots. The Royals, lured by cheap land and fancy new digs, train and play in the Florida amusement park, where sun-starved vacationers spend the morning on the roller doaster and the afternoon packed shoulder-to-shoulder in the stands, just as they would back home. A pleasure popularized has ceased to be much of a pleasure.

On top of that disappointment, there was the dispiriting tabloid interest in Wade Boggs' sex life and Pete Rose's betting on the po-(and maybe — tell us it ain't so, Pete — on baseball itself). Scandal obscured aimost all else. That's too bad, because behind the scandals there were things to savor.

There was the arrival of the new baseball commissioner. A. Bartlett Clamatti, who brings to the game a deep appreciation of its subtlety and the lively wit. (Pressed this spring by the II.S. Gerale with the lively with the II.S. Gerale with the lively with the II.S. Gerale with the lively with the II.S. Gerale with the II.S. Ger spring by the U.S. Senate committee over the pace of baseball's expansion, Giamatti re-plied: "I'm strongly in favor of expansion. I favor three senators per state.") There was the meteoric rise of Ken Griffey Jr., who became the first player ever to join his father in the major leagues, and the storybook performance of Jim Abbott, the pitcher born with one hand, who made the Angels rotation this spring without a stop in the minors at all.

The promise of Opening Day is that the irritating incuraions that reality made on the rituals of spring will now fall away, leaving fans at last to contemplate beseball's higher and better things.

Star Wars comes to Earth

In the same week that President Bush and Congress agreed to remove the Contras as the central totem of U.S. Central American policy, Defense Secretary Dick Chency moved to exorcise another specter of Reganism. Star Wars had been "frankly oversold," Cheney said the other day, and the possibility of a leak-proof shield against Soviet nuclear missiles is "an extremely remote proposition."

By saying aloud what most defense experts have long considered obvious, Cheney has freed the debate over strategic defense to concentrate at last on real issues.

States nervously await redistricting

BIG CHIMNEY, W.Vs. — West Virginia now is entitled to four seats in the U.S. House of Representatives, but within a few years that allocation will be reduced to three seats. Therein lies a complex tale of political life and death.

The decennial census will be conducted one year from now, and in early 1991 most state legislatures will begin the task of reshaping the country's 435 House districts to conform with population shifts. Those changes must be in place in time for the elections in late 1992.

Although virtually all of those districts will

Although virtually all of those districts will have to be reconfigured, nowhere is the delicate operation more challenging than in the 16 to 18 states that, preliminary estimates suggest, will experience a net gain or loss of seats.

By far the biggest winner will be California, where the expected pickup of five or six seats will bring the size of its House delegation to 50 or 51 — the largest of any state in the nation's history. (During the 1930s and 1940s, New York established the existing state record with a 45-member delegation, the same size that California has now.)

All of the other increases will probably also be in the Sun Belt South and West, with gains of four seats in Texas, three in Florida, two or one each in Arisona and Georgia, one in Virginia and possibly one in North Carolina.

All of the decreases will likely be in the Northeast and Midwest, with losses of three seats in New York; three or two in Pennsylvania; two aplece in Illinois. Ohio and Michigan; one each in Massachusetts, West Virginia, Wiaconstn. lows and Kansas, and possibly one in Montana.

The prospect of redistricting makes especially important the outcome of next year's contests to fill governorships and the slightly more than 7,400 seats in the 50 state legislatures. Those to be elected will make the decisions that can launch or de-atroy political ca-Republicans now the three populous Sun Belt states that will gain the most House seats — California, Texas and Florida — but all have gubernatorial elections scheduled for 1990. As a result, the GOP is on the defensive - even though the areas that have sustained population losses during the 1980s are generally Democratic, and the regions that have experienced population gains are heavily Republican.

Indeed, even if the Republicans win all of the 1990s contests in the 16 to 18 newly created scats, they would not come close to gaining control of the House of Representatives, where they now are outnumbered 260-174 by the Democrats. Here in West Virginia, the anguish of redistricting will be confined to the Democratic Party because all four of the state's U.S. House seats are occupied by members of that party—but the lack of partisan division will not make the struggle any less intense.

Likely candidates for elimination based on population losses are the 1st District in the northern panhandle and the 4th District in the secutions are larged solution desired.

Misery becomes a market

BOSTON — They are advertising babies in the newspaper. Not real babies but, rather, the hope, the wish, the longing for babies. Advertisers call that sort of pitch, "selling the

The ad features a photograph of a fuzzy newborn with a subliminal stork in the blanket. This baby picture carries a simple headline: "Before you let go of the dream, talk to us.

The tone of the message that follows is far, far more seductive than scientific. This is how it reads: "There's no other perfume like it, the smell of a newborn: a milk-scent, warm-scent, cuddle essence.

"Her skin a kind of new velvet. Toes more wrinked than cabbage, yet roselike. Tender, soft, totally trusting; a blessing all your own.
"That dream might still come true for you.

New techniques can resolve man infertility problems, including some that were previously considered hopeless."

Lest you become hopelessly lost in the cabbage patch of prose, I will cut through the cuddly come-on. The business being pushed here is a new fertility clinic.

Enter through our doors, it implies, and ye shall be able to finally experimee the velvet-skinned, wrinkled-toed, bleasing that has cluded you. "Many formerly childless couples have become parents or parents-to-be by letting the experience of our staff enrich their lives rather than giving up the dream of childbirth." We will satisfy your desire for this product.

As I read and reread this ad, I do not know what I find most offensive. The marketing of babies? The shameless pitch to such a vulnerable group of potential "buyers" as the infertile and sometimes desperate couple? Or the abuse of sentiment without a single hard statistic about success and failure, to cut the cloying sweetness?

Ever since the barrier that prevented professions from selling their skills like cookware went down before the FTC. I have been wary of the expanding medical hucksterism. Open any magazine, especially on the West Coast, and you can see ads directed at consumers rather than patients.

Liposuction, breast enhancement, face lifts are all best-sellers. One doctor in San Franciaco advertises his expertise, saying that he has made "dozens of television appearances." Another Californian sends out a free brochure of full-color before and after photos. Choose

It is not just the marginal medicine men who hang their shingles in an ad. Hospitals, often fighting for patients nowadays, go in pursuit of bottom-line builders. "We Mend Broken Hearts: Very Successfully" boasts one center for heart by-pass surgery. Another brags about being "a safe place to have your baby."

I am not alone in my concern about ads that lead or mislead the public into uncertain medical byways. Lawrence Nelson, who has co-authored a paper on the ethics of health-care marketing, worries that, "Patienta are becoming commodities. To me that's very unsettl-ing. I don't think the same kind of marketplace values should pervade health care."

But however offensive the pushing of such expensive procedures as lasers and magneticresource imaging in for-profit hospitals, there is something much more appalling about this infertility market. The ad that I quoted from may be among the most exploitative, but it is hardly the only one beamed at babies.

There are 2.4 million infertile couples in America. The new therapies from gamete-intrafallopian transfer to in-vitro fertilization gives them new hope - and also new chances for disappointments. The number of American clinics offering IVF has grown to 169. But of the ads I have seen, not one gives the odds of having a baby. One ad displays a pregnant women. Another, more discreet, says their parent company (that is the only way to describe it) has produced 363 bables to date.

I do not know what I find

most offensive |

At the very best clinics, however, the odds are only one in five or one in aix of taking home a baby. Each attempt at IVF costs between $4,000 and $6,000. There is a point at which it is fair to sak whether it is ethical to advertise in ways that heighten the expectation for something that they may not be able to deliver.

Surely the mik-scented, cuddle-essence, roaclike baby ad - no loaded diaper here crosses that line. As Dr. Kathleen Nolan, a bloethicist at the Hastings Institute, says cautiously: "It seems wrong to play upon the pain of infertility in order to sell fertility services."

Yes, it does. And yes, finally, it also seems wrong, deeply wrong, to imply that a baby is a product like a pair of gloves or a hat that can be purchased - if you just go to the right

Drug users top the most wanted list

WASHINGTON - The nation's police chiefs have put a dangerous new criminal at the top of their most wanted list - the individual drug user, America's public enemy No. 1.

He or she is without a doubt among the most dangerous of criminals — any of 25 million Americans who poison themselves with mind-twisting chemicals.

These faceless druggles spread through the nation like a virus, injecting their anonymous children, contaminating their neighborhoods, unraveling the social fabric. They are at once victims of the drugs that control them and victimizers of the rest of society.

The habits of drug busers finance, the multi-billion-dollar. cartels whose illegal operations un-dermine law enforcement, spawn rampant crime and take a terrible toll in wrecked lives. Drugs have turned our inner cities into Beirut-like battlegrounds.

Not even the nation's capital is safe. Rival drug pushers are engaged in warfare with assault rifles in the shadow of Capitol Hill. The emergency room of the Washington Hospital Center has been turned into a besieged battlefield MASH unit for treating casualties.

the police al-ready face superior fire-power and are losing control of the streets

In some urban neighborhoods, the police aiready face superior firepower and are losing control of the streets. No matter how much money the taxpayers spend on increased police protection, the drug dealers waging their turi battles will always have more money. And that points the finger directly at those who finance the carnage — drug users. The police chiefs warn that the killing will continue as long as there are people willing to shell out money for illegal pills and powders.

The National Association of Police Chiefs has formed a national drug task force and assigned top priority to reducing drug use. The task force has asked local police chiefs to concentrate on keeping drugs out of the achools. They hope to form drug-free zones around every school in America.

That will require the cooperation of city officials, community leaders and school boards, who wil all be asked to endorse extra penalties on drug dealers caught on school grounds. The police, in turn, will tighten enforcement around the achoois and encourage drug-awareness classes inside the schools. The task force has developed a comprehensive drug-awareness curriculum called "Going Straight."

The task force has also joined with the National Football League to promote drugfree sports and develop better role models with a program called "Champions Against

At the enforcement level, the police chiefs have arranged with a long-standing program called WE TIP (We Turn in Pushers) to establish a national hot line. People can use the hot line to report drug activities in their neighborhoods. For their safety, callers are asked not to reveal their identities. The toll-free hot line number is 1-800-73-CRIME.

U.S. Gov't. Approves Patent Claims for New Diet Pill

BEVERLY HILLS, CA (Special)-An amazing new weight loss pill called "fat-magnet" has recently been developed and perfected by two prominent doctors at a world famous hospital in Los Angeles that reportedly "guaran-tees" you steady fat loss and calorie reduction by simply taking their tested and proven new pill.

The U.S. government has just approved the doctors claims for a hard-to-get patent that confirms "there has never been anything like their fat-bonding pill process before." It is a totally new major scientific breakthrough and is revolutionizing the weight loss industry.
You Can "Eat Normally"

Best of all, "you can continue to eat your favorite foods and you don't have to change your normal eating habits. You can start losing fat and reduce calories from the very first day, until you achieve the ideal weight you desire without exercising".

Flushes Flat Out of Body

The new pill is appropriately called the "fat-magnet" pill because it breaks into the unantil of manual and manual actions. into thousands of particles, each acting like a tiny magnet, "attracting" and trapping many times its size in undisessed fat particles. Then, all the trapped at and calories are naturally "flushed" right out of your body because they cannot be absorbed.

Within 2 days you should notice a change in the color of your stool, caused by the fat particles being eliminated.

"Automatically" Lose Fat

According to one of the inventors, Dr.

William Shell, heart specialist and associate professor of medicine at UCLA medical school, "the new fatbonding process is a "lazy way" to lose weight because the pills alone "automatically" reduce calories by eliminating dietary fat. It is 100% safe and not a drug."

The fat-magnet pills are already sweeping the country with glowing reports of weight loss from formerly overweight people in all walks of life who are now alimner, trimmer and more attractive again.

Now Available to the Public

If you are trying to lose 20, 50, 100 pounds or more, you can order your supply of these "no-risk" highly successful list-magnet pills directly from the doctors' exclusive manufacturer only (includes optional calorie-reduction plan for even better results). Send $20 for a 90 pill supply (+$3 handling), or $35 for a 100 pill supply (+$3 handling), to: Fat-Magnet, 9016 Wilshire Blvd., Dept. W248, Beverly Hills, CA 90211. 37.6 percent of Florida garbage, glass and ceramics make up 12.8 percent, plastics account for 4.2 percent and aluminum accounts for just under two percent. A mandatory recycling program for those materials is expected to reduce the garbage load by 30 percent.

The state law making recycling man-datory provides nearly $32 million in funds to help counties implement programs. Seminole County is eligible for a $403,327 grant based on $1.51 per capita and a $66,489 base grant to cover administrative costs. Under the proposed distribution of those grants, Sanford would receive a total of $51,518, or nearly 11 percent of the grants. Of the cities, Altamonte Springs would take the largest share with 963,132 or 13 percent. The county would retain 51 percent, or $241,103, to operate a recycling program in unincorporated

About 20 percent of the grant funds will be used to educate Seminole County residents about the importance of recycling and the state law. The county is preparing a newsletter for all county households and advertising campaigns for radio and television.

In the proposed interlocal agreement, the county would be responsible for building transfer stations - or receiving sites for solid waste to be recycled. Cities will be responsible for getting the materials to those stations. Seminole County would be responsible for operating truck scales to weigh the materials.

Newkirk has told a countywide recycling task force that start-up costs would be high, with containers running at $5 each. How soon a city's program could take to break even depends on whether the city operates its own service or contracts it out, she said.

Newkirk said several county residents have volunteered to help.

Mall. There she left $10,000 worth of jewelry on the front seat of her car, before entering the mail to await further instructions. Eventually she returned to her car and found the jewelry missing. Barnett said that's the only case he knows of where the "repairman" actually stole items from his victim.

That caller pretends he is watching the victim and he has information on members of her family, and makes threats against them. Barnett said he doesn't believe the caller is watching the victim, and is not prepared to carry out the threats. Although that man tells his victims he has disabled their phone, Barnett said, victims try too quickly to break the connection and call for help. The telephone company, he said, has told him there is a few seconds delay before a telephone connection is broken, and that is why the victim can't free the line and call for help immediately.

The tie up of the line is not the work of the caller, but is part of the routine operation of phone systems, he said. After hanging up the phone the victim should wait a minute or go to another location to call in a report of the usually don't buy his story and hang up on him, Barnett said.

Barnett has not investigated any reports in these cases of the girls being physically harmed. However, Sanford police have investigated one case in which the caller ordered the girl to get a knife. She did and was awaiting further instructions when her mother arrived home and terminated the call.

The caller who poses as a policeman, has found his scam women and tells them he is a policeman who has just arrested their spouse on a narcotics charge. The victim is told that the husband won't be jailed if the woman delivers money and or other valuables to a specific location. Sometimes, an accomplice in the background poses as the husband and beg the wife for help while sobbing.

The caller knows the name of the victim and her husband's name and description, Prast said. It is believed that he puts his victims under surveillance after picking their names out of a phonebook, or newspaper birth announcements or real estate sales report. In these case, Prast said, both the name of the husband and the wife have been published.

Many who have received these calls have not responded as ordered, because they knew their spouse had not been arrested. Some, however, have not confirmed the location of their spouse and the fact that he had not been arrested. In several of those cases the victims have been directed to a series of telephone booths in busy shopping centers. From there they were instructed where and when to leave money for the extortionist. One Sanford woman was ordered to drive to Volusia County and leave her car for the conmrn. She hitchhiked back to Sanford and then reported the scam to police.

Prant said the fake police caller controls the conversation and within 30 seconds of receiving the call the victim should be able to determine if the caller is a real police officer. The fake policeman's procedure is in no way similar the practice of legitimate police who have actually made an arrest, investigators said. He becomes irrate when questioned by victims. If such a call is received, Prast said, a call to a police agency should be made to determine if it is a legitimate call, and to report the attempted extortion. The victim should also call her husband to determine if he is safe, before she takes any other action. In one Seminole County case a woman left the fake policeman

$30,000 worth of jewelry and $20,000 cash in a phonebooth. In a Maitland case, despite having read about a similar Seminole County incident, a woman followed the caller's instructions and left $5,000 in a phonebooth for the caller. without determining beforehand if her husband had been arrested

Media attention to the three scams, Prast mid, has warned many potential victims not to follow the callers' instructions, to hang up on them and notify authorities.

Prast speculated that those who do follow the fake policeman's instructions may be recreational users of narcotics, who believe their husband might have been arrested on a narcotics charge. He mid that hasn't been established in any of his cases, but it is a possible explanation for the victims' compliance without their trying to confirm the "arrest" through a real police agency.

Haggling ahead for 1990 budget

WASHINGTON - Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady conceded there is still work to be done in nailing down specific details within the fiscal 1990 spending plan, while congressional leaders predicted a long, hard fight ahead.

President Bush and congressional leaders say the new budget accord would cut the estimated federal deficit for fiscal 1990, beginning Oct. 1, to $99.4 billion, just under the $100 billion deficit reduction target mandated by the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings balanced budget law.

While Brady acknowledged Sunday there was still "plenty of work to be done," he cited the upturn in the stock market Friday - attributed by analysts more to the release of the latest statistics on inflation — as a sign of favorable reaction from Wall Street.

"I don't want to promise the moon about this ... hudget summit that was announced Friday." he told NBC's "Meet the Press." "But I'm heartened that interest rates did go down Friday afternoon.'

But Senate budget committee chairman Jim Sasser, D-Tenn., predicted that "in the final analysis" the deficit will exceed the agreed-upon $99.4 billion target by at least $2

Transplant problems linked to genetics

WASHINGTON — The poor success rate of kidney transplants among blacks suggests the problem may partly stem from genetic incompatibility between black and white recipients and donors, a leading transplant surgeon says.

Complicated by the scarcity of donors among blacks, the assertion by Dr. Clive Callender, director of Howard University Hospital's transplant center, could be grave news for blacks with end-stage renal disease or kidney failure.

At the recent Second International Symposium on Renal Disease at Howard University, Callender said statistics indicate the success rate for black kidney transplant patients is 10 percent to 20 percent below that of whites.

In the past, some medical experts have blamed the high rate of kidney rejection among black transplant recipients on their failure to follow dictary and medication guidelines.

But Callender offered a different explanation. "Blacks as a group are more diverse in their immunogenetic makeup," Callender said. "The likelihood of compatibility is

Deranged man kills wife, kids

United Prese International

SANTA ROSA, Calif. - A "clearly deranged" man accused of killing his wife, two of his daughters and four other people cluded a massive manhunt, and the sheriff said he assumes there will be a "very serious encounter" with police when they

The object of the manhunt was Ramon Salcido, 28, described as a gun-toting, hot-tempered winery worker who police say slashed the throats of his three little daughters, threw them over a cliff at a landfill and left them to die. Two of the girls were dead when a man found them Saturday while scavanging for auto parts, but 2-year-old Carmina Saicido was still alive and was recovering Sunday following surgery to repair her wounds. Police said she told them her father had attacked the

"He's just a psychopath." Sonoma County Sheriff Dick Michaelsen said after the girls were found. "I can't imagine an individual who would do this."

Carmina was under poince guard at Petaluma Valley Hospital and in stable condition. She spent a "comfortable night," hugging stuffed animals and surrounded by toys that have flooded in from concerned people, a hospital spokeswoman said Sunday.

"He's trying to get away." the sheriff told an impromptu news conference Sunday. "I envision a very serious encounter with law enforcement when we locate him."

Michaelsen said he was "very optimistic" Salcido would be found. "I just don't think he's going to be able to move very far without being seen. People are very aware."

But he said there were no new leads in the manhunt, which included roadblocks and helicopters, although there had been

"hundreds of calls." Investigators said the burly, black-haired, 5-foot-8 Salcido is heavily armed and may be headed for his native Mexico.

Carmina's sisters. Theresa, 1, and Sofia, 4. were the last known victims in a killing spree that began Friday at a Glen Ellen winery when Salcido allegedly shot and killed his boss and wounded a co-worker.

Police say he then drove to his home in Boyes Hot Springs, killed his wife, Angelia, and abducted the three girls. He then went a dozen miles to Cotati, where the suspect's mother-in-law, Marian Louis Richards, 47 and her two daughters, Ruth, 12, and Marie, 8, were killed. The two girls were also raped, police said.

The shaken owner of the small winery that employed Salcido said Sunday he likely would have been killed too if he hadn't been out of town during the bloody spree.

more cult-victims found in grave

United Press International

MATAMOROS, Mexico - Authorities said drug rings operating along the U.S.-Mexico border, where one group is blamed for 15 grisly killings, have increasingly turned to the occult to keep followers in line.

Police Sunday found the bodies of two men slain for double crossing a notorious drug-smuggling cult that authorities say is responsible for the ritualistic killings of 13 other people.

Mexican and U.S. authorities, meanwhile, intensified the manhunt for a couple believed to be the leaders of the gang who have been sought since April 9, when the bodies were discovered buried on a ranch near the U.S.-Mexican border.

Texas Department of Public Safety drug Investigator Steve Baggs, who has monitored cult criminal activity for six years, said it appears the number of incidents involving drug rings in increasing. with most occurring in the past year.

"Drugs and black magic are made for each other." Baggs said. He said the unusual power a cult leader holds over his members creates unexpected problems for law enforcement.

"They truly believe the leader has power over them after death," Baggs said. "So they're not afraid of law officers or dying. That's something we really have to think about.

The bodies of two men were found Sunday in shallow graves on a ranch two miles from the Rancho Santa Elena, where the first 13 bodies were found. But unlike the earlier victims, they were not killed in quasi-religious ceremonies. Cameron County Sheriff's Lt. George Gavito said.

The men, identified as Moises Castillo Vazquez and Hector de la Fuente, both of Matamoros, evidently were killed by drug ring members not involved in the human sacrifices at the border ranch 20 miles west of Matamoros. The men had "ripped off some dope and were killed for that reason," Gavito said.

U.S. authorities have issued a nationwide all-points bulletin for the alleged leaders of the drug-smuggling cult, Adolfo De Jesus Constanzo, 26, and Sara Aldrete Villarreal, 24. Their gang already has been blamed for the mutilation slayings of the 13 people found buried at the Rancho Santa Elena.

Authorities also combed the grounds of a third ranch called Los Leones, 30 miles south of Matamoros, but Gavito said nothing had been found there.

Kemp: drug conviction means eviction

WASHINGTON - Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp says he will give directors of public housing projects the authority to kick out tenants convicted of drug-related crimes.

Kemp said in a statement Sunday that he will notify public housing authorities this week that leases must include "an explicit provision that allows termination of tenancy" if a tenant or member of the tenant's household is convicted of illegal drug use, trafficking or drug-related crimes.

Kemp also said he will notify public housing directors they may use federal housing improvement funds for anti-drug security measures, such as lighting and hiring staff for drug education and referral programs. HUD spokesman Jack Flynn said the measures were approved by Congress last year under the Anti-Drug Abuse Act. A spokesman for the American Civil Liberties Union said the group has few qualms with the idea as long as the tenant has been convicted of drug trafficking or use and as long as due process is served. But he said enforcers of the plan may use it to target anyone merely suspected of drug activity.

Instructions.

In February, Kemp said he sent letters to the nation's 3,000 public housing authorities asking them to take part in a voluntary survey to see what can be done to help erase the presence of drugs and drug trafficking from the public housing properties. From the more than 1,000 directors who replied, Kemp said, it is clear "that law-abiding residents in public housing want to be freed from the plague of drug dealers and drug abusers. and the criminal activities they tion and outreach efforts.

Texas improved its major-league leading record to 10-1 and the Rangers are 5-0 against the Tigers.

The game was not only ugly (10 walks and one hit batter by Texas pitchers, seven walks plus two hit batters by Detroit's), it was long.

It lasted four hours and seven minutes - a club record for both teams. Detroit's previous longest game was 3:59 set last year and Texas' record was 3:48 set in 1986 and tied April 7.

Rainey wins at Monterey

MONTEREY, Calif. - Wayne Rainey won Sunday's World Championship 500cc motorcyle race at Laguna Seca in a race marred by a freak accident that left Bubba Shobert critically Shobert, three-time U.S. champion from Carmel Valley, Calif., already had finished ninth and was riding at a reduced speed alongside Eddie Lawson in a cool-down lap when the accident occurred.

Lawson, who finished third, and Shobert were talking as they rode and Shobert apparently did not see that Kevin Magee had nearly stopped ahead of him with a stalled motorcycle. Shobert looked up the instant he ran squarely into

Magee.
The accident left wreckage strewn across the surface and both riders were removed to ambulance to the Monterey Community Hospi-tal. Magee suffered a broken ankle and Shobert, who was reported to be conscious while he was airlifted to the San Jose Medical Center for further treatment, was listed in critical condition with a head injury.

Lake Mary, Oviedo share SAC weightlifting crown

From staff reports

LAKE MARY - Next stop, the state meet.

On Saturday at Lake Mary High School, the Seminole Athletic Conference conducted its weightlifting championship meet with an eye on qualifying athletes for the state championship meets next weekend.

In a very tight meet, the host Rams of Lake Mary and the Oviedo

Lions both won their first team SAC title. Unfortunately, they had to tie to do it as both squads totaled 42 sport, finished third with 37 points.

"The meet went very smooth," said Lake Mary coach and tourna-ment director Bill McDaniel. "It was a good competition. It took just four went very smooth."

As McDaniel explained the competition, each lifter has a maximum of three lifts that he may attempt in the bench press and three in the clean and jerk. The total of the greatest weights he lifts successfully in the bench press and clean and jerk is his score.

After a competitor successfully points. DeLand, once the confer- makes a lift at a given weight (the ence's dominate school im the athletes can choose at which weight they want to make their first attempt), the second second lift must be at weight a minimum of 10 pounds heavier than his first. Should he lift that weight, the third hours and that's unusual. But it must be a minimum of five pounds

Once all the lifts are complete, the totals determine the places with the top six receiving team points.

Predictably, Lake Mary and Oviedo also had the same number of individual champions, three. For the Rams, Michael Armato (165pound class), Ray Williams (198) and Carlos Smith (220) all finished first while Alex Carras (123), Jim Loman (181) and Michael Lee (Heavyweight) led the Lions.

DeLand also had a pair of individ-ual champions in Ken Mahaffey (114) and Michael Gibson (148). For fifth place Seminole, Tom Mathia grabbed the title at 132 pounds.

And since they're both only juniors, they have two more state meets to decide who's the best.

Butler, who's best effort this season is 48-10, agrees with Moore. But he does say that having Moore around keeps him working hard.

"He pushes me," said Butler with a small smile. "Whatever he jumps, I always try to jump better than he did. I can't let him beat me."

SANFORD - Sophomore righthander Charlie Bynum threw a seven-hitter as the Raiders of Seminole Community College defeated arch-rival Valencia Community College 9-1 in Mid-Florida Conference baseball action at Raider Field Friday afternoon.

Even though he misses the start of track season due to basketball,

Seminole junior Robert Moore still is

Bynum struck out seven and walked seven as the Raiders got the second straight excellent pitching performance of the week (Jim Waring had thrown a shutout Tuesday).

The win increased Seminole's record to 10-23 overall and 5-12 in the conference. Even though the schedule said this was the last game of the season, the Raiders still have seven rained-out conference games to make up. The loss dropped Valencia to 15-15 overall and 8-11 in the conference.

Freshman center fielder Steve Roberts led the way, going 3-for-5 with a home run, two runs scored. and three runs batted in.

Others who contributed for Seminole were Teddy Craig (3-for-4 and a run scored), Bret Rutzebeck (two singles and a run scored). Dan Peters (two rbi and a single). David Leugers (a hit, run scored, and rbi). Ted Lamar (a hit and two runs scored), Byron Overstreet (an rbi) and Dale Stevens and Kevin Monahan (each with a run scored).

For Valencia, Cruz was 2-for-2 with three walks and Daley was 2-for-4 with two doubles and scored the only Matador run. Pressler got the run batted in with a sqeeze bunt in the fifth.

The Raiders put the game away early as they exploded for six runs in the bottom of the first. After Leugers walked, Lamar eached on an error and Stevens walked to load the bases, Overstreet hit a sacrifice fly to score Leugers. Lamar scored and Stevens moved to third when the throw from the outfield got Roberts then scored Stevens with a single. Rutzebeck singled and advanced to second as Roberts moved to third. Roberts scored when Monahan's fly was dropped in center for an error and Peters drove in the final two runs of the inning with a single to left.

After that Seminole, turned the game over to Bynum and the defense as the Raiders finished off their best week of the season.

Starting toward state

Lake Brantley's Kristen Longmire will be looking to follow up her championship at No. 1 singles in the Seminole Athletic Conference tournament with a district title. Longmire and the rest of the 4A boys and girls tennis players in the county will be playing in the district tournament starting today at Sanlando Park.

Packer chairman of the board Olejniczak, 80, dies

United Press International

GREEN BAY, Wis. — Dominic Olejniczak, the chairman of the board of the Green Bay Packers, has died from complications from a series of strokes. He was 80. Olejniczak died Saturday night at his Green Bay home. He served the Packers' organization as president longer than any other man and ended a 24-year tenure in 1982

'He was the sort of man who had a good feel for the public," said Judge Robert Parins, who replaced Olejniczak as team president. "He had a finger on the public pulse. He got on so well with Olejniczak served as mayor of Green Bay from 1945-55. He was elected to the Packer board of directors in 1950 at a time the team was facing bankruptcy and was forced to stage a public stock drive to survive.

A total of $118,000 was raised, enabling the Packers to remain in the NFL following a financially debilitating struggle with the All-American Football Conference.

My father was most proud of he building of the new stadium and the hiring of Vince Lombardi," said Thomas Olejniczak.

Olejniczak worked for the construction of a new facility to replace an aging, all-wooden-seat City Stadium. The construction of the new stadium began after it was approved in a citywide referendum in 1956, and it was ready for the 1957 season.

He became president of the Packers on April 28, 1958. The Packers had not had a winning record in 10 years and had finished the previous season with a 1-10-1 record.

One year later, Olejniczak hired Lombardi as head coach and general manager of the Packers. Lombardi had been in charge of the Giants

The Packers went on to have their most successful year. Under Lombardi the club won five NFL championships in a seven-year span See Packers, Page 2B

Now attention is turned to the state meets for those who quali-fied. To qualify for the state meet, you must make or surpass the qualifying weight total for your weight class.

For example, the qualifying weight total for the heavyweights is 560 pounds. That means Lee, second place finisher Christopher Coleman of DeLand and third place finisher Gary Blocker of Lake Howell all qualified for the state meet.

The 4A state championship meet is scheduled for Spruce Creek High School while Seminole and Oviedo will com-pete in the 3A in state championships at another site. According to McDaniel, the 4A state meet will begin with weigh-ins at 8 a.m., the actual competition starting around 11 a.m.

Is pro soccer back for good?

When it comes to professional, I'm a hopeless romantic. Or as Neil Simon so aptly put it in his film "California Suite:"" I'm worse than that, I'm a hopeful

On Sunday night, Vicki (my wife) and I continued a tradition that's so far seen us through our marriage and the courtship that preceded it - we went to the first game of the new professional soccer season. The only thing that's changed is the Orlando Lions are the home team instead of the Tampa Bay Rowdies.

Pro soccer holds a special place in my heart. My first job after graduating from The University of Tampa was in the Rowdies' front office. On the night that Vicki and I got married, we went to a Rowdies' game before going on our honeymoon (the Rowdies lost to Fort Lauderdale in a shootout).

So when the North American Soccer League sunk under the weight of its own fiscal foolishness, I was saddened. At its heyday, the NASL was a thriving league showcasing some of the world's great players. But it grew quicker than its fan base did and the league died on the vine. Now we have the American Soccer League, a new and improved version of the NASL. If you look close enough, you will recognize some of the names from the defunct league. ASL chairman Clive Toye was a prominent individual in the

This time around, though, it seems Toye and the NASL holdovers have learned from the harsh lessons of their previous failure. Strict financial guidelines and expansion pro-cedures are being followed. You could almost call the ASL "NASL Light."

And it looks like the efforts are going to pay off. This year, the ASL champion will meet the champion of the Western Soccer

League in a national pro soccer championship game, the first step toward a merger between the two leagues in 1992. With the World Cup scheduled to be played in the United States in 1994, these cautiously positive steps are encouraging. especially for soccer heads like myself. There are other reasons for the optimistic outlook. As a story on the United States national team in last week's Sports Illustrated pointed out, we are only now starting to see the fruits of the labor of the NASL.

All those clinics, all those educational programs that were so integral a part of the NASL marketing strategy has produced a generation of pretty good soccer players. And while the rest of us of this "soccer generation" aren't skilled enough to play the sport any more, we've matured into the ticket-buying public.

These factors and the growing realization that if we're actually going to be the world champions in something, it's time we start playing a sport the rest of the world plays all contribute to the rebirth of pro soccer.

It's like welcoming back an old friend.

"We try to help each other out when we jump," said Moore. "This year at the state meet, we want to go 1-2."

Actually, Butler and Moore want to sweep the top three spots. The dynamic duo has taken on an apprentice, sopho-more Henry Williams.

"He's started to jump with us," said Butler. "So far, he's jumped 44 feet, but we think we can have him jumping about 47 feet by the state meet."
Moore agrees. "He has a ways

For Brauman, Butler and Moore present something of an unusual problem. With the Seminole Athketic Conference meet this Friday and the district meet next week. Brauman must decide how he wants to use the pair's abilities.

"The problem is that I'd like to use them in other events, but that would take away from their triple jumping," explained Brauman. "I have to make a decision within the next two weeks. Do I spread them out so we can win the district or do I let them go after the triple jump?"

If called upon, Butler could score points for Seminole in the long jump and 100 meter dash as well as run a leg of the 440 relay while Moore can also run the 100 meter dash, do the long jump and run in the 440 as well as throw the shot.

What compounds the problem is that if Butler or Moore do compete and place at districts. then they would be required to compete in those events at the regional meet.

Brauman also knows that if he allows Butler and Moore to concentrate on the one event, then a possible state record isn't out of the realm of possibility (50-1 is the current 3A mark). "They're capable of it," he said.

And to think they're both just

Herpes sufferers are better safe than sorry

DEAR ABBY: I commend you for addressing the topic of genital herpes in your column. However, you recently provided some advice that is incorrect and potentially dangerous. You stated that "If there are no symptoms, sores or active lesions, your partner is not infectious." This is clearly not true, and heeding this advice could result in couples disregarding precautions necessary to avoid transmission of genital herpes to the uninfected partner.

,While asymptomatic intervals carry a decreased risk of transmission, infected persons are still capable of transmitting the virus. In fact, more than half of the infected sex partners discussed in one journal article denied having symptoms they recognized as herpes at the time they transmitted infection.

When symptoms or sores are present, sexual contact with the involved area should be avoided completely. Because of the risk of asymptomatic transmission, condoms should be used with each sexual act. Bluntly put: there is always some risk, although condoms will serve to

Thrifty means nifty to decorator

By DAVINA BURCH Herald correspondent

SANFORD - Interior decorating does not always require a big budget, as Rosa Rawlings has proven.

The 14-year Sanford resident said she has a taste for the unique. Her home on McKay Boulevard is adorned with many fanciful decorations, even though she only allots herself a small amount to spend on that

The theme of her formal living room-the room she has put the most work into-centers around her French Provincial style furniture. She recently has had the two winged-back chairs and a couch reupholstered in a solid cream fabric. The collec table and two matching end tables are dark oak in color and perfectly accentuate the other pieces.

Rawlings said she acquired all three of the tables for $150 when they were on sale at JC Penny's. "Everything I get 'r on sale; I don't buy anything unless it is a bargain," Rawlings emphasized.

Also from JC Penny's is the Oriental rug of green and gold hues on which the furniture

Mint green drapes with sheer laces, hanging over the one window in the room, were sewn by Rawlings. She enrolled in a sewing class specifically for learning to make these.

Throw pillows, crafted by Rawlings to match the drapes, are arranged on the couch.

Between the two chairs, a white, two-tiered macrame and glass table is suspended. This was a gift from a friend.

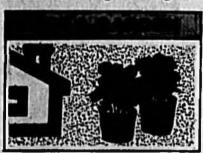

On the bottom tier of this table rests a year-round inspiration—a nativity scene Rawlings won for hosting a Christmas Around the World party.

To give the illusion of size, marbled mirror tiles have been adfixed to the wall opposite the window. A grandfather clock stands majestically against the wall just in from the foyer.

Two large lamps with shim-mering crystalline teardrops provide lighting to the room. Matching the gilt and crystal-like lamps in style are the extremely ornate wall hangings and mirror, also framed in gilt. These items were purchased at flea markets.

Most of the Items contained in a curio beside the couch were purchased at the Sanford Flea Market. Predominant are jadelike bird statuettes, which are Rawlings' favorite because of their "soft" color.

Statuettes, in pairs, are among Rawlings' collections. On each end table are one of a matching Oriental couple about two feet in height. This jade-colored pair cost her only $7 at a flea market.

Also paired are $15 frolicking girl and boy statues, in cream and pink and intricately de-

Capimonte, the product of Italcraft Imports, Inc., completes the look in this living area. These delicate, ceramic ornaments generally have a rose or floral design, are pink and are imported from Italy. Rawlings has many of the pieces, among these a large swan, pitchers, vases and three rosebud bric-a-brac.

The dining area of the Rawlings home in also decorated in a showcase manner.

Three special pieces crowd into the room and inspire a feeling of antiquity, Acquired from a used furniture store no longer in business, the china cabinet, buffet, and dining table and chairs, have similar dark walnut veneer finishes.

The buffet is about six feet in length with a lace dolly draped over it for protection. Atop the doily, is a swan-like Italcraft piece and on the wall above hang two gilt framed mirrors. Also on the buffet are several crystal dishes Rawlings won.

"I won over $200 in merchandise when I hosted a crystal party at my house," Rawlings said.

Her china cabinet displays many of the pieces she won. Her favorite set in the cabinet is a tea set (bought at a flea market), unique in that each cup and the pot are perched on four delicate legs.

"I still want to add some new carpeting," she said to hen furnishings. "I'm going wait until there's a really good sale."

Even the busiest firemen can care for viburnum hedges

Those of you that travel past the corner of Lake Mary Boulevard and Markham Woods Road have probably noticed the beautiful viburnum that surround the fire station on the corner. You might be interested to know that the firemen there maintain the property as a part of their workday.

Chief Bill Coburn and Fireman Tom Braceland take pride in both their job and the maintenance of their grounds. Of the 11 fire stations in Seminole County. the Lake Mary station is re-sponsible for facilities maintenance of all the other stations. Lake Mary firemen write specifications, develop bids and select contractors.

"We are responsible for the inspections of all commercial establishments in our area in addition to a paramedic unit, which is advanced life support for cardiac, trauma or other emergency situation. We also handle hazardous material. Our men are constantly furthering their training. Being a fireman is involvement in many areas today," Coburn said,

It is a wonder that these men have time to take such good care of the landscape around the stationi These firemen do everything right in viburnum care. They fertilize the hedges twice a year, spring and fall, with a long-acting fertilizer. Their irrigation system waters on a regular achedule, putting out approxi-mately an inch of water per week.

The viburnum are in a suitable location-well-drained with a three- to four-inch layer of mulch. They are in full sun to partial shade, but none are in

off the Air

heavy shade.

If you look closely at their hedges, you will notice a rounded shape that is broad at the base and narrows at the top. Upon closer inspection, you will see lots of new growth coming off the main branches. These firemen don't wait until the growth gets out of hand to prune. They have a beautiful, full hedge with leaves all the way to the ground.

Two common species of viburnum are grown in our area: . suspensum and V. odoratissimum. Suspensum usually grows about six to eight feet while odoratissimum can grow as high as 25 feet. Odoratissimum can be trained to become a small specimen tree in your landscape. Suspensum is more adapted and maintained as a hedge.

The foliage of the viburnum is evergreen, but can be freezedamaged by unusually cold temperatures, like those we had at the end of February. Generally. viburnum is very cold-hardy and can withstand temperatures of 20°F. Unfortunately, the viburnum is not very tolerant of salty areas and should not be planted in coastal areas or areas where salt water is a problem.

Viburnum has few problems in the landscape. Spider mites can be a real enemy, and the vibumum occasionally will get aphids, scale or whitefly.

"The viburnum at the fire station had a problem with mites last year, which we promptly aprayed," Coburn said. Most garden pesticides like Malathion or Diazinon will take care of the scale, aphids and whiteflies. Liquid dish soap or Safer's Insecticidal Soap will take care of spider mites, but you need to spray more than once five to seven days apart.

Coburn said people have stopped at the station to ask about the care of the viburnum hedge, since it always looks so well maintained. If you want to

Chinese leader mourned

BELJING - More than 1,000 Chinese students chanting "Long live democracy" marched in Beijing's main square Monday in an emotional requiem after the death of former Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang.

It appeared to be the biggest student demonstration since the nationwide campus protests more than two years ago that led to the ouster of Hu, then one of China's more liberal leaders, as general secretary of the Communist

Hu, once heir apparent to senior leader Deng Xiaoping, suffered a massive heart attack Saturday morning and died at age 73. His death has stirred Chinese students into an outpouring of grief mixed with calls for greater political freedom and praise for Hu as symbolizing their aspira-

About 500 students from Beijing's Politics and Law University organized the march into Tiananmen Square, the rambling central plaza overlooked by a huge portrait of Mao Tse-tung. Their ranks quickly swelled to more than 1,000 as other students joined.

The procession was led by a huge floral wreath, carried on a cart, bearing the Chinese characters:

Eternal glory to Hu Yaobang." As the students marched around the aquare, they sang the Chinese national anthem and the

Internationale, the socialist anthem. "Long live democracy," they chanted, "Long live freedom. Long live the May 4th Movement," referring to a nationalistic student movement in 1919 that called for democracy in China and whose 70th anniversary will be commemorated Crowds of spectators stood by as did police, who kept a low profile despite earlier warnings that such marches would not be tolerated. It was not immediately known whether the students had a permit for the march, but traffic guards were clearing a path for the marchers.

"Whoever is good to the people will be missed," observed a middle-aged Chinese man watching

The students then crowded around the Monument to the People's Heroes at the center of the square, placing half a dozen wreaths on it and milling about.

Hu's death has stirred Chinese campuses more than at any time since protests in late 1986 and early 1967 calling for greater democracy rocked the country. Hu fell from power in January 1987 in the political backlash, that followed the protests. He was blamed for their spread.

Rebel advisor will be tried

KABUL: Afghanistan - Authorities said a Kuwaiti military adviser to Afghan guerrilias will be put on trial, and reported rebel blockades of the overland lifeline to the Soviet border stalled hundreds of trucks with supplies for Kabul for a third day.

Mohammad Nabi Amani, a spokesman for the Soviet-backed government in Kabul, also reported continued fighting Sunday around the southern city of Kandahar and the eastern towns of Khost and Jalalabad near Pakistan.

Amani said government counterattacks since Saturday had left 95 rebels dead, but that only one soldier was wounded.

He also said the Afghan government would try on unspecified charges in open court Monday a Kuwaiti who had been providing military assistance to Afghan rebel groups armed by the United States, China and numerous Arab nations. Amani said the Kuwaiti, whose identity was not released, was captured in January after being wounded in a firefight with soldiers. A second Kuwaiti adviser was killed, Amani said.

It was not yet clear whether the Kuwaitis were acting independently or on behalf of their government.

The government of President Najibuliah has long charged that hardline groups in the badly fragmented seven-party Moslem rebel alliance have been aided by military advisers from Arab nations wishing to see a fundamentalist lalamic government in Afghanistan.

There has been no independent confirmation of the claim, but an estimated 200 fundamentalists from Arab nations are fighting with the Pakistan-based rebels.

Kabul also contends that Pakistani troops are assisting the rebeis in their 6-week-old seige of Jalalabad aimed at capturing the strategic eastern garrison town for the seat of a new government.

Actress tours Sudan

United Press Improprience

NAIROBI, Kenya - Actress Audrey Hepburn issued an emotional plea for peace in Sudan, where she completed a four-day tour of camps housing thousands of people left homeless and hungry by the nation's 5-year-old civil war.

"It is hard to articulate what I have seen, you feel so much pain," the Dutch-born actress told reporters during a brief stopover in Nairobi before she returns to Europe.

"I take, with me so many images," she said.
"Images of newcomers staggering into the camps with absolutely nothing left at ail, so emaciated.
All this ways to be left to their souls.

What I have seen in the last few days are not the ravages of a natural calemity." Hepburn said.
"They are the horrors of a man-made disaster, a war, and there is a man-made solution, peace. That is what those heart-breakingly affectionate

The United Nations estimates 250,000 people tarved to death in southern Sudan last year starved to death in southern Sudan la because of the war and another 100,000 would die this year unless the massive U.N.-backed relief effort, which began April 1, can proceed

Hepburn, the UNICEF goodwill ambassador, spent the last four days visiting the Sudanese capital, Khartourn, and camps for the displaced civilians at Musiad in west-central Sudan and at the rebel-held town of Kapoeta, 50 miles north of the Kenya border.

In Mugiad, she said, she was told 13 people died of thirst the night before she arrived and that water is desperately needed.

In Kapoeia, ahe added, a growing number of people "are a step away from death" in spite of the remarkable efforts of a private Norwegian group that has been trucking in food from Kenya since last year.

"After what I have seen, I dare not think of all the camps that are inaccessible," she said.

U.N. officials, whose efforts have been ham-pered by political and logistical problems, say some 29,000 tons of food have reached those in need since January, largely thanks to private
