Who Benefitted?

In considering the work of the late lamented Legislature, it is well to remember that the counties which profited most by it were the counties large in area and small in population. Seminole, in spite of its restricted area, was helped to some extent because of its small population. Other counties more densely inhabited were, to borrow an expression from Captain Kidd, looted. This situation is clearly set forth in an editorial in the Tampa Times replying to expressions of the Ocala Star.

"It is asserted by the Ocala Star," says the Tampa Times, "that the Legislature has made it possible for county commissioners to make very substantial reductions in their annual budgets, provided they will pass on to the taxpayers the tax relief that has been granted at Tallahassee. The reference is to the portion of the gasoline tax allocated to the counties. That depends.

"It depends upon whether a county is in a group of seven Florida counties, or in a larger group of 60; depends upon whether what the Legislature has done makes a county pay gasoline tax money to be contributed to other counties or whether it enables a county to have delivered into its treasury through state agencies, gasoline tax money collected in other counties.

"So far as Hillsborough county is concerned the tax relief that has been granted at Tallahassee relieves her of some $368,500 paid by her and which she received last year; this being divided among 60 other counties in large and small sums. Six more counties—Dade, Duval, Orange, Palm Beach, Pinellas and Polk—are in the same boat as Hillsborough, figures only varying.

"There were two kinds of relief granted at Tallahassee. In this particular, only counties got one brand of relief and seven the other. If in Hillsborough county the commissioners should pass on to the taxpayers precisely the relief Tallahassee has provided in this instance they will exact $368,500 more money from the pockets of the people. From that may the Lord deliver us. More, if exactly what Tallahassee has done in this regard is done by the Hillsborough county commissioners this extra $368,500 will be distributed among the 60 counties which are the beneficiaries of gasoline taxes paid in the other seven under the latest Tallahassee allocation of such funds to the counties.

"The people of Hillsborough county need and demand tax relief. They will hold those in charge of county affairs to account if it is not given them. What has been done in Tallahassee adds $368,500 to their tax load. And it is not fair."

Hats Off!

The average man does not object to removing his hat in the presence of a lady. In fact, the chances are, he probably enjoys it, particularly in the South on a warm day. But he does hesitate to take his hat off if by so doing he is apt to have it crushed or otherwise damaged. So it is that the custom of removing one's hat in an elevator is becoming passe.

In the City of Charlotte, N. C., a campaign against lifting hats in elevators, particularly crowded elevators recently got under way when the following sign was posted in a downtown office building: "Men are asked to please keep their hats on. Removing hats reduces elevator capacity and creates confusion. Thinking women will welcome this. It offers no disrespect and adds to their comfort."

In the opinion of the Miami Daily News, "The sign sums up the situation well. Had it originated anywhere except in the South of traditional chivalry, it might have passed almost unnoticed. As it is, the shout which goes up is heard as far away as New York. The opinions of Irvin Cobb and other prominent southerners are solicited. Most of them are inclined to be jocular about it. One of them points out that the custom isn't strictly southern, since the North had elevators long before.

"With a few exceptions, the consensus seems to be that the practice is a silly nuisance. A woman says that women, even feminists, like it. Those who think it ought to be abolished haven't the courage themselves to take the individual step. Such followers of the crowd are the majority of us that the strongest conviction flinches at the first-hand profession of an unpopular faith. Some differentiate between the residential atmosphere of hotels and apartments and the rush of office buildings. A veteran elevator magnate says, "It's a man's own business."

"Custom dies hard, and it is unlikely that this one will soon be regulated by common sense. Even though there is no room any longer for so much that was pleasant out our most spacious past," as the New York Herald Tribune observes, men are likely to go on getting their hats smashed and causing general inconvenience merely to simulate the gallantry of the other fellow which is no more genuine than their own. If etiquette calls for doffing of the hat in the elevator, why not in the street car, the department store, every enclosed space? If we are going to carry chivalry to this extreme, we should be consistent about it.

THE "FILIBUSTERS"
NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE

A peculiar story, with a strongly sensational flavor to it, is reported from Atlantic City. Five Cuban gentlemen and an American have been discovered surrounded by a cloud of rumor and the atmosphere of desperate conspiracy; No charge was made against them and they were released, but the authorities at first believed that they had stumbled on five genuine filibusters. There are tales of recruits being offered $500 a head in New York to fight for Cuban liberty, of a motorboat anchored mysteriously in the inlet waiting to take aboard her surreptitious "passengers" at dead of night, and then sailing without lights to keep a rendezvous some miles at sea with a filibustering steamer bound with an "expedition" to Cuban beaches. There have been other stories of the same kind. Not long ago a trunk was opened here and found to contain uniforms, medical supplies and weapons allegedly for Cuba.

The mere suggestion that that celebrated tribe is not dead puts a breath of romance into the newspaper page. They were always romantic—or seemed to be, at any rate. An aura of palm-fringed beaches and moonlight landings hung about their secret enterprises; they were always accompanied by mysterious boys full of rifles and handbills, and Amer-

Miami Is Cited In Committee Report On Police Methods

 Miami is cited in a report of the committee on police methods of the New York bar, placed before a special investigation conducted in 15 cities.

New York it said the third degree is widely and brutally employed. Boston drew high praise as keeping "the third degree and related types of brutality at a minimum."

Although the practice of hooding men incommunicado, without access to counsel, was reported frequent in Cincinnati, there was to be little of the third degree in Cleveland, however, it was described as "prevalent," with relay questioning, loss of sleep and deprivation of food being used as well as physical torture.

In Chicago the employment of brutal methods of obtaining confessions was said to be "entirely at home." Beatings with various instruments were reported common.

Despite strict statutes forbidding inhumanity in Los Angeles, the report said, investigation indicated "third degree practices are a serious evil." It is many of the police haveved strongly in them.

In San Francisco, it was said, brutal methods were employed in cases given little newspaper prominence, making the practice "common."

At Miami, Fla., in 1929, the report asserted, a prisoner named Deuterle, accused of murder, was chained to the floor of a cell infested with mosquitoes and later subjected to a prolonged grilling with the scarp of his dead wife at his feet. He confessed, and the conviction was reversed in court.

In Jacksonville, it was said, spasmodic instances of third degree occur, particularly in cases involving negroes. Although there had been charges elsewhere in the state of beatings with hose and threats with pistol, it was said, these charges never were proved in court. The report added that "third degree methods are winked at by chiefs of police if used against hard-boiled criminals; that several district attorneys make no effort to stop the third degree."

It was said that Georgia had a statute forbidding the third degree and no other specific cases were mentioned.

In a brief mention of Mississippi, the opinion was expressed that the third degree "is not frequent."

Later, the report recited that in the 1926 Mississippi case of a negro named Whip, the sheriff at the county jail at Belzoni had him beaten by a fellow prisoner and then confined to a solitary cell for three days until he con-unexpected results. Cuba, at the moment, is confronted with some serious problems, but they are not the sort which can be solved by expeditionaries and gun-running captains.

ferred to murder. The sheriff testified it was the usual practice to "initiate" new prisoners by having them whipped. The conviction was reversed.

Both cases cited by the report of the "water cure" occurred in Mississippi. At Clarkdale, in 1925, the sheriff testified he entered the jail one night to find a negro tied to the floor while several men poured water into his mouth. He was nearly strangled. To escape he signed a confession that the bloody clothes of the several defendants were white. The report said one of the men was spotted at the trial but was later exonerated.

At Holly Hill, in 1927, the report said, 12 armed white men applied similar treatment to an innocent negro farm hand, 18 years old. After confining to murdering a white storekeeper, he added, the negro was forced to tell where the money stolen was hidden. The pile concealed at last, the money was never found. His conviction was reversed on an appeals court.

Brief mention was made of the case of an aged negro named Rollins at Birmingham in 1922

RUM BOAT CAUGHT

BALTIMORE, Aug. 11.—(A.P.)—Six sacks of liquor were fished from Chesapeake bay yesterday by customs officers and the operator of the N-422, a 30-foot motor launch, arrested and charged with smuggling. The officers said that while near quarantine they saw seven sacks passed to the launch from the Norwegian freighter Verno. The launch fled and as the officers neared the craft the sacks were tossed overboard.

 present in every tobacco leaf

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip, as well as a powerful spraying solution for fruits, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

HOPE DECLINES FOR LOCATING LOST AIRMAN

It was believed that the plane was on the sea, expressed by aviation officials at Bergen and told where it was said the plane would be carried by wind and drift toward Denmark.

What was believed to be the last definite report from the plane was received at it on Sunday, saying the craft was flying near Stavanger, on the Norwegian coast, and expected to reach Copenhagen in mid-afternoon. Later on Sunday night and again at 7 A. M. yesterday the Copenhagen Navy Yard reported overhearing mysterious wireless telephone signals which might have come from Cramer.

If Cramer passed Stavanger, as believed, the range of search would be confined to a comparatively small area and the chances of safety for the flier would be increased, because their course from that point lay along the coast, where they might land safely in a storm. The greatest peril presumably would be in the fact that they might have been carried out to sea.

Cramer and Parquette were flying from Detroit to Copenhagen by way of Bergen. They completed the most dangerous part of their flight to Greenland and then to Ireland without incident, but later encountered a series of misfortunes which delayed them. The plane was forced down between Iceland and the Faroe Islands, but the sea was calm and repairs were made to permit them to continue. Storms again interrupted their flight from the Faroe Islands to Norway, but after two halts they were able to continue. It had been difficult however, to maintain communication with their planes.

Cramer had attempted the flight twice before, once with Bert Hassell from Rockford, Ill., and once in the "Unlin Bowler" from Chicago. Both flights failed.

state, with the exception of 1920, when they were exceeded by 121,000 tons, or 16 percent. In comparison with 1929, the figure indicate increases in quantity and value of 82 and 94 percent, respectively. The total amount of phosphate rock exported from Florida in 1930 (1,173,861 tons), constituted 36.1 percent of the total marketed production of this state and indicated an increase of 62 percent over 1929. The total marketed production for consumption in the United States (2,012,110 long tons) increased 43 percent in quantity, as compared with 1929.

Of the total marketed production for domestic consumption, 91.1 percent was used in the manufacture of superphosphate, compared with 88.9 percent for this purpose in 1929.

A detachment of 1,000 soldiers was sent to Pinar del Rio Sunday to quell disturbances. The soldiers from Guantanamo, Havana, and Bahama, Arica, closed major of Matanzas suburbs and taken command of about 100 soldiers there. Police yesterday arrested Adolfo Fernandez, Arica secretary.

Although no accurate figures were available, it was estimated that 50 or more persons had been arrested.

A proclamation issued by the military chief of Havana yesterday afternoon denied "status under martial law. All rebels except the leaders are given until 12 o'clock tonight to give up their arms and receive pardons.

No group of more than three will be permitted to gather and no one may enter or leave cities after 7 o'clock at night without special passes.

Senate Committee Confers Upon Its Answer To Cannon

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—(A. P.)—Members of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee conferred here yesterday on their answer to the court proceedings brought by Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, challenging the committee's authority to inquire into his use of anti-Smith campaign funds in 1928.

Pending further conference, Senator Nye, Republican of North Dakota, committee chairman, withheld announcement of the course to be pursued. A reply to Cannon's suit must be made Wednesday.

It was emphasized by Senator Nye that he will take no action unless a quorum of the committee of five members is together. However, he also indicated a determination, barring legal action, to proceed with the committee's inquiry.

"I'm glad we have a Telephone again"

A number of people who gave up their telephones during the stress of the past twelve months have told us that this proved to be false economy and they have had their service restored. Those who have not had their service reinstated, and those who may be hesitating about having a telephone of their own, are reminded that telephone service is no longer regarded as an expense, but is considered a necessary home convenience and economy.

No other money you spend can bring you more actual value. Thousands of telephone subscribers know the truth of this. They do not consider their telephone statement as a "bill," but rather as a reminder of pleasant living and broadened opportunities.

Those who have previously enjoyed telephone service appreciate it more than ever. New subscribers wonder how they ever did without it.

Telephone service costs so little and the advantages are so many that it really doesn't pay to try to do without it.
