At The Capital

By CHARLES McHERRY

TALLAHASSEE, July 8.—After the victory over the "roving snakes" Tuesday, the House was calmer than ever this morning. No fireworks at all. Fifty-nine bills were introduced and several were referred to the committee on the day of the call of the House for this session, that being the flag and tax appropriation bill and tax collection laws.

The committee are functioning and the House should have some work to do about Thursday. It is a hard matter to know just what bills to pass that relate to taxation. Our duty as I see it is to pass as many as possible, and at the same time work no hardships on anyone. This is truly hard to do but of the several evils we hope to meet the lesser.

The Senate seemed to be progressing much faster again Wednesday, as it did on Tuesday, when the House, but the reason is obvious. That is caused by the House practically reorganizing all of its 57 committees into 9 new ones. We have a committee reorganization now that is not so unwieldy, and better. I think the committee reorganization will make much more progress for the House than the old, cumbersome and unmanageable one.

I believe that the reorganization will mean more this session than in either of the other two. It is possible and probable now that we will get through sooner than the 20-day limit. Before we were sure of reorganization, it seemed very doubtful, but many have done now of finishing up in a short time. Our hopes may be shattered if we were to get into any such wrangle as before, but as stated previously, I feel that a piece of deal that has been purged from the members of the House and the committee, so here's hoping for the early completion of our duties.

It is hard to realize that this is a session of the Florida Legislature. It is so different from the others I attended, in many ways, and mostly the difference is for the best interests of the state. Lobbying has not crowded with job seekers, lobbyists and others as before. Generally speaking a different atmosphere prevails in both Houses.

I suppose I will draw the further opposition of many, by my action Wednesday in being a co-sponsor of the same reorganization bill which I was before. I have untold thousands of dollars and really a constructive work for the state. Its passage is doubtful but we are working hard for it. The reduction of the number of circuits was one thing I most desired when I came up here and an still of the same mind.

Another still hot and dry, and all this hot air being circulated around in getting almost unbearable. The House Chamber is on the west side of the Capitol Building and has the evening sun on it in all of its intense heat, and its heat has place. I had in my own afternoon session, but I am very anxious to see through it as necessary to me.

The House is very much interested now as a committee on the subject of the Florida State University. Also the committee on the subject of the Florida State University. The committee on the subject of the Florida State University. The committee on the subject of the Florida State University.

TOKYO BOUND PLANE TAKES GAS IN MID-AIR

Craft Then Heads Out Towards Bering Sea On Long Flight To Japanese Capital

NOME, July 8.—(AP)—Refueling and apparently running smoothly, the monoplane Fort Worth passed over here early today and sped toward the Bering Sea having completed about 2100 miles of a projected 5100 mile non-stop refueling flight from Seattle to Tokyo.

Reg Robbins and H. S. Jones, Texas aviators, were close to schedule as they and the refueling plane headed westward across Bering Strait in the first contact with a refueling plane flown by James Mattern and Nick Greener of Fort Worth. They took aboard 200 gallons of gasoline soon after their arrival over Fairbanks last night. Another refueling will be made when the planes reach Siberia.

Weather reports said no disturbances will be found north of Japan on the plane's course although headwinds may be encountered.

Reginald C. Robbins, a Texan who broadens his "A's" and Harold S. Jones, an oil man who flies as a hobby, started with dawn from Seattle, pointed the nose of their Lockheed-Vega ship toward Fairbanks, Alaska, for the first of two scheduled refuelings in the air, and flew steadily all day.

They were reported passing over Prince George, B. C., shortly before 9:30 A. M. (P.C.T.) from a previous sighting at Soda Creek, B. C. It was calculated that they were flying slightly less than 100 miles an hour, the ideal speed for their fuel-economizing motor that burns only about half as much gasoline per hour as a similar fighter model. From Prince George they had flown across Lake Stuart and the mid-mountain ranges of British Columbia.

Robbins, 28-year-old, drawing Southern who said he was "kidded" into risking his neck in this attempt to win a $25,000 prize, was at the controls of the monoplane Fort Worth as it soared along on the flight that may become an epic.

Jones, an oil man who left Chicago for Texas and a fortune, was the navigator. Laughingly he told friends before they started (Continued on Page Four)

Southern Farmers Cut Cotton Acreage

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Southern cotton farmers, faced by low prices and heavy surpluses, have cut this year's acreage 10 per cent under 1930 plantings.

The agriculture department estimated the area under cultivation on July 1, at 41,491,000 acres as compared with 46,078,000 last year. This, the smallest acreage planted since 1923, is 11.8 per cent less than 1929 planting and 14.9 below the record acreage of 1926.

Private estimators had foreseen a somewhat greater reduction. New Orleans dispatches said and cotton declined nearly 23.25 a bale after the government report was issued.

CROONING SINGER SECRETLY WEDS YOUNG ACTRESS

Rudy Vallee Surprises Friends By Action; To Live In Gotham

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—The marriage of Rudy Vallee, crooner of love ballads, and Miss Fay Webb, of Santa Monica, Calif., on Monday was announced last night at the National Broadcasting company's office.

Vallee and Miss Webb, who is a musical comedy actress, were married secretly at West Orange, N. J., by Judge Herbert L. Phillips. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Webb. Her father is chief of police of Santa Monica, the statement said.

The couple met on the west coast while Vallee was filming his picture, "The Vagabond Lover." The ceremony was performed with only a few friends present. Miss Webb was from California last Friday and visited friends in the New Jersey city while awaiting the marriage.

Vallee recently began an engagement in roof garden of a midtown hotel and has been on the air at all scheduled performances since the wedding.

Few of his friends last night gaged in the roof garden of a hotel who knew of the event. Those who knew of it were mostly callers at his elaborate new apartment in Central Park West, where the couple will make their home. Vallee is reported to have spent a considerable fortune in fitting up the place, which looks eastward over the southern end of Central park.

Vallee has been the target of numerous suits ranging from breach of promise proceedings to actions for recovery of wages by discharged employees.

Recently a Miss Pauline Klomp, 71-year-old worker in a religious order, sued the tenor for $25,000, accusing him of fusing her name in a song over the radio. The suit was dismissed. Vallee's counsel declaring the woman had hallucinations.

The most recent suit brought against Vallee was that of Julius de Vorson, a violinist, who unsuccessfully sought to recover $640 in back wages alleged due him.

A suit for $300,000 for breach of promise brought against Vallee by Agnes O'Loughlin, Broadway show girl, last year, still is pending. Available records show Vallee has vigorously denied the girl's charges.

Will O'Connell, a band leader, sued Vallee for $500,000 for libel in a joint suit brought against the singer, E. F. Dutton & Co., publishers, and the New York Sun. The suit was dismissed in March, 1930.

MISHAP FAILS TO HALT WIVES OF POST, GATTY

2 Women Continue Hop To Home Town Despite Accident That Injured Their Plane

COLUMBUS, July 9.—(AP)—Undeterred by an accident in landing yesterday Mrs. Wiley Post and Mrs. Harold Gatty, wives of the round the world fliers, hopped off for Chickasha, Okla. today. They continued their journey in a sister ship of the Winnie Mae, globe circling plane of their husbands. It flew here from Indianapolis after the plane carrying the women was badly damaged on landing. Post and Gatty left in their own ship shortly afterward.

Flying westward in the Winnie Mae, the plane in which they completed a record breaking round the world flight last Wednesday, Harold Gatty and Wiley Post were delayed here last night when another plane bearing their wives cracked up as it landed at Port Columbus shortly after 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Post, Mrs. Gatty and Pilot Marshall Headle of Los Angeles, narrowly escaped injury when their plane, a sister ship of the Winnie Mae, ground looped, breaking the landing gear and the tip of the left wing.

Headle, chief test pilot of the Lockheed Vega Corporation, expressed belief he damaged a wheel in taking off from Municipal Airport, New York, this afternoon, and that it gave way on the runway here. Airport officials said the plane was flying cross wind before it landed.

Post and Gatty accompanied by F. C. Hall, financial backer of the world flight, brought the Winnie Mae to earth three minutes before the arrival of their wives and were standing near the runway at the time of the accident.

The party had planned only a brief stop here for refueling before flying to St. Louis to spend the night. After inspecting the damaged plane, however, Post and Gatty announced they would remain until morning. Headle said the damaged plane would be sent to the factory for repairs and Hall arranged to have another ship brought here so the fliers' wives may continue their trip by air.

A crowd, on hand to greet the famous fliers, circled the damaged plane and first reports were that the passengers were injured. Post and Gatty together with Hall ran to the ship and aided their wives and Headle from the cockpit. They were shaken up considerably but were unharmed.

It was learned after the crash (Continued on Page Four)

Directed Verdict Ordered In Case Of Two Men For Fish Law Violation

A directed verdict of not guilty was ordered rendered in the case of Jack and Edwin Goodwin, white men brought before Judge James G. Sharon, in County Court, on a charge of having taken fish by means of an unlawful device. The action came yesterday afternoon when County Prosecuting Attorney failed to prove that the net, offered as evidence, was the property of, or the one used by the Goodwin brothers.

A jury, composed of the following, returned the verdict: C. Jay Selby, M. E. Wollard, J. T. McLain, Jr., T. A. Brotherson, W. E. Price, and J. V. James. Witnesses for the county were: A. J. Gunther and J. A. Black, state game wardens, H. J. Tindall, and E. O. Uptogrove.

Eremede Harris, 17-year-old colored boy charged with petit larceny, who pleaded guilty to the charges, was fined $300 and costs or six months in jail. Harris was said to have taken several articles from homes in this section, but the only evidence secured against him was the theft of fifty cents in silver and $1 in currency. He received a fine of $150 in each case.

STATE WILL HAVE PLENTY OF RACE TRACKS SOON 'IF'

Commission Has List Of 51 Applicants, All Being Eligible

TALLAHASSEE, July 9.—(AP)—A two-letter word—"IF"—stands out prominently in the preliminary stage meetings for Florida's winter racing season.

"If" embraces all the things that might happen if the newly appointed State Racing Commission granted permits for every application to operate horse and dog tracks under the State's new racing and pari-mutuel wagering law. If a permit is granted for each application and each application finally led to the construction and operation of a track, Florida truly would be a stamping ground for ponies and puppies.

Fifty-one applications are before the racing commission, 20 for horse tracks and 31 for dog tracks. Two horse tracks and less than half a dozen dog tracks were operated in the State last season.

The applications were filed between the time the racing commission was appointed by Gov. Doyle E. Carlton on June 27, and midnight, July 1, the filing deadline. Nine were received the first day, 19 the second day, and 23 the final day.

Some of the applicants, of course, will be disappointed. It may come early—or late—in the long (Continued on Page Three)

LEGION TOLD TO GIVE UP ALLEGED BASEBALL POOL

Judge Advocate Holds It To Be Lottery In Violation Of U.S. Law

FORT MYERS, July 9.—(Associated Press)—The St. Cloud post of the American Legion has been ordered to stop immediately operation of an alleged baseball pool, James A. Franklin, local attorney and judge advocate of the state department of the legion, said yesterday.

Franklin said he would transmit a legal opinion in writing to state headquarters, holding that the pool is a lottery and a violation of the state laws.

The state department ordered the pool to be stopped at its mid-summer conference in St. Petersburg last week, Franklin said, after he had ruled it was a lottery. He also was asked at that time to prepare a resume of his opinion for information of all posts.

"This pool has been quite widely advertised throughout the state," said Franklin, "and has subjected the American Legion to adverse criticism.

The resume stated the pool was advertised as a legion building drive with tickets costing 25 cents each. Each ticket has teams in the National, American and American association leagues, printed on the back of it, the resume added, numbered from 10 to 24, and has four numbers representing four teams.

Prizes were to be given, the resume continued, to holders of tickets representing the largest total of runs, hits and errors for the combination of teams on the tickets.

"It is clear that the pool, conducted by the St. Cloud post is a lottery," the resume stated, "and as such the members of the post are guilty of violation of the statutes of Florida, and liable to prosecution."

Franklin also said it was brought out at the St. Petersburg conference in a report by Charlie Mill, Miami, national committee man, that the Americanism committee would recommend to the legion at the forthcoming national convention in Detroit, that the national executive committee revoke the charter of any post which leads its name in any gambling interest, which through use of the legion name continues to evade the law.

MARLER SPEAKS AT KIWANIS CLUB LUNCHEON TODAY

Public's Indifference Is Blamed By Pastor For Bad Conditions

The solution of the present period of depression, brought about, according to the Rev. Frank M. Marler, of the First Christian Church of Sanford, by the amazing indifference of a majority of citizens, lies in finding and character who are firmly outspoken in their beliefs.

His talk, concluded another of the series of addresses which, rendered by prominent professional and religious leaders of Sanford, have been features of the weekly luncheons of the Sanford Kiwanis Club for some months.

Rev. Marler's subject was, "Indifference." Our Oriental National University, Wagon, 27th St. San Francisco, has called attention to his words were drawing from a gathering of 30 or more Kiwanians and guests, he gave his hearers point after point which tended to prove his claims that indifference to the better things of life was slowly but surely bringing about the disintegration of America.

Before the Rev. Marler was introduced by Kiwanian F. S. Lamson, who, with Kiwanian J. M. Stinecoper, had charge of the program, H. V. Condit, Orlando Kiwanian. (Continued on Page Four)

Asheville Refuses To Drop Its Suits Against Luke Lea

ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 9.—(AP)—North Carolina and the city of Asheville yesterday refused to drop civil suits against Col. Luke Lea, Tennessee publisher and financier, and two of his associates, unless 10 percent of the amount involved is paid cash in advance.

Luke Lea, Jr., and E. P. Charlet, of Nashville, another associate, are indicted with Colonel Lea in connection with the failure here last year of the Central Bank & Trust company with several millions of dollars in city and county funds deposited.

Representatives of the bank, the city of Asheville and the state bank commission met yesterday to consider a proposal from Colonel Lea that he liquidate his North Carolina indebtedness by a series of regular payments in lieu of the civil actions now pending.

The indebtedness includes approximately $1,300,000 which Colonel Lea and his associates are said to owe the defunct Central Bank & Trust company and the city of Asheville.

Approximately 500 persons were in an audience which lined the lake front in the vicinity of the band-shell last night where a group of Sanford persons presented a short musical program. The following program was presented: Vocal selections by Mrs. Roby Laing; accordion solo by Mrs. R. R. Pippin; vocal selections, Cecelia Truick; piano selections, Miss Elizabeth Clark, and vocal selections by the Southland Creamery colored quartette.

WAGE CUT BILL IS ADOPTED BY UPPER HOUSE

House Considers Measure Proposing Salary Reductions From Five To 25 Percent

TALLAHASSEE, July 9.—(AP)—The Senate today adopted a bill reducing state salaries from 10 to 20 percent while the House debated a measure proposing graded salary reductions from five to 25 percent.

The Senate bill was passed after proponents defeated numerous attempts to alter it by amendment provisions of the bill. The House likewise defeated many proposed amendments to its bill but was unable to reach a final vote before the noon recess.

A general appropriations bill was introduced in the Senate and set for special consideration later today. The House voted for a committee investigation of reports that the board of commissioners of state institutions had entered into an agreement to buy a building in Tallahassee. The resolution condemning such action in face of what was referred to as a need for economy.

The House received a bill to repeal the chain store tax that became a law during the first extraordinary session. A number of other House resolutions, including one to preclude the passage of a general sales tax, were referred to committee action.

Armaments Seen As Big Handicap To Business Revival

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Inter-governmental debts were described last night by Undersecretary Castle of the state department as only one of the deterrents to renewed prosperity, with "unproductive expenditures on armaments" even more important.

In a nationally broadcast address, he predicted the year's holiday on governmental debts would lead to general economic recovery and expressed a hope that it would foster success next year at the Geneva disarmament conference.

Recovery will come, he said, "if the people of this country will stand strongly back of the government in optimism and in that determination to carry through which is one of the characteristics of the American people."

"We hope that by this temporary relief from inter-governmental debts," he continued, "such good feeling, such sense of loyal responsibility to each other, may be engendered among the nations that all may enter the disarmament conference next year determined to succeed."

"It is impossible to put in action at once all the forces of recuperation, but the president felt that this one method of relief might well open the door of hope and thus lead to general economic recovery...."

"There are, of course, and will be rumors of all kinds which must be courageously discounted. The president can not alone carry out this economic upbuilding. That is the duty of all the people of all nations who must attack their problems with courage and optimism."

VICTORY OF MAX IS SEEN AS GREAT BOXING STIMULUS

German Fighter Has Proved Himself To Be Real Champion

CHICAGO, July 6.—(AP)—Max Schmeling's decisive victory over Young Stribling was the biggest stimulant the boxing industry has received since the days when Jack Dempsey built the heavyweight championship into a pot of gold.

Few titleholders had ever been so overwhelmingly picked to lose a fight as was Schmeling up to the time he entered the ring to face Stribling. It was simply because the great majority of fight experts could not make themselves believe that he was a real champion after Schmeling acquired the title on a feat from Jack Sharkey.

But Schmeling proved his class, proved himself a true champion who is going to be mighty tough to dethrone. He displayed stamina, power and perfect physical condition that was almost unbelievable.

It was in his ability to box that Schmeling was a distinct surprise. Before the Stribling battle, Schmeling was regarded as only a tough fellow, capable of assimilating punishment and retaining enough of his strength always dangerous.

The heavyweight situation has been tremendously improved in a financial way by Schmeling's victory. The heavyweight champion is the hub around which the sport revolves and if the public is interested in him, his popularity is reflected in the gate receipts.

1st Inning Onslaught Cinches Contest By Score Of 16 To Six

Remembering the stinging defeat handed them earlier in the season, the Chase diamond ball team jumped on the offerings of Stinson Kinlaw, hurler for the Y. M. C. A. team...

W. Kinlaw, led the Chase batters, getting three hits out of four times up, a single, a double and a triple.

The fielding feature of the game was the lightning double play in the last inning; Whitehead to Kinlaw to Tillis. After the first inning the Y. M. C. A. team played a good game, but the handicap was too great for them to overcome.

Chase's win last night. A crowd, estimated at around 250 to 300 persons witnessed the game.

The writer is attempting to arrange a game here tomorrow night with the Normandeau Sign Shop team, of Orlando, champions of the first half in Orlando.

While the main bout is expected to draw plenty of attention, the semi-final, for eight rounds, will probably be the feature of the evening.

The main preliminary sees Bearcat Lancaster, Orlando, mix it with K. O. Rocky, the scrappy Sanford negro.

Another preliminary will find two Sanford negroes settling a grudge fight of some weeks standing. The card starts at 8:30 o'clock.

COLORED BOXERS READY FOR TILTS AT PARK TONIGHT

Black Primo Carnera Announces Fight Fans By His Great Bulk

Sanford fight fans had their first glimpse of one of the principals in tonight's all-colored fight card at the Municipal Park this afternoon when Black Primo Carnera, the six foot, six inch, 220-pound Miami negro appeared on the down-town streets just long enough to draw considerable speculation as to what he will do to Willie McGee, claimant to the southern colored heavyweight championship, tonight.

Carnera, whose string of victories during the past few months is almost as long as that of the big Italian whose name he has taken, claims that he expects to trouble McGee at all in his fight with McGee tonight. The bout, which will be the headline on a fast card, will be for 10 rounds, and local fans will have an opportunity of seeing one of the only men ever to knock Bob Lawson, colored batter who holds the distinction of being the only man ever to fluster Jack Dempsey, to the canvas.

Lumpkin has 19 straight knockouts to his credit. Princes Albert has not been fighting long enough to run up such an impressive list, but he is said to be young, full of fight, and confident that Lumpkin will go down under his right.

A victory for Prince Albert tonight would boost his stock at least 1,000 per cent, and naturally, he will be out for blood.

The main preliminary sees Bearcat Lancaster, Orlando, mix it with K. O. Rocky, the scrappy Sanford negro. Both fought bare knuckle, and Lancaster earned a decision, although it was booed by the crowd. Rocky was the popular choice, and will enter the ring tonight with practically all the fans back of him.

Another preliminary will find two Sanford negroes settling a grudge fight of some weeks standing. The card starts at 8:30 o'clock.

Fine Weather

Down in St. Petersburg where the sun is unobstructed all year round and where the gulf keys dot the shore line of the West Coast city and provide a retreat from prurient eyes, the midist call in the "backland Kultur", as it is termed in Germany, in finding many converts who daily feel the exhilaration of the rays of Old Sol. Naturally, the beauty of each's individual personality, out in the wild open spaces comes under the law, and it is generally interpreted in an indecent exposure, but it is interesting and rather unusual to learn that the police authorities in St. Petersburg don't think so.

They believe, and rightly enough, that there is nothing indecent about the exposure to the heavens in an effort to capture some of the beneficial benefits from nature's tonic, and to relieve the body subjected to the stress of an unwholesome and unhealthful existence. Their only demand is that the exposure of sun-bathing be confined to groups of the same sex.

In this age when the exigencies of life restrict the proper care of the body, the health of the twentieth century people is a subject of intense interest. It is when man begins to suffer from the effects of "cracking up" long before this time, it is estimated that some people are waking up to the necessity of getting out in the sun. It may be that the medical care will be too answer to many a doctor's feet that a simple sunshine can't stand the strain of present-day life. In this time of degeneration upon its fortunes or individual exposure of sun-bathing. To a nation that is becoming increasingly health-conscious, the appeal of outdoor life, and the benefits in the simple benefits of exposure to the sun is a big attraction and could be developed into one of the greatest magnets for tourists.

After all our winter visitors come to Florida to get the sun. They don't come here to gamble on horses, to drink gin, to attend night clubs, and the city which realizes first that an appeal to health carries more weight than all the hockey and lower forms of amusement will be the one that will receive the greatest permanent benefit.

Fascist Italy

Mussolini's extraordinary control of the people of Italy probably depends a great deal on the treatment of his subjects. The boot-leather nation below the Alps has had its share of despots, but none so thorough as the present ruler. The rulers and dictators and the country seemed to curve in front in other words. Italians like to be controlled by some one with a stick. But, as the Christian Science Monitor points out, they want the stick to be in the hands of a philosophy of government, a philosophy which establishes the individual for the glorification of the state. The philosophy which is the justification of Rome in writing of this the Boston paper says:

It is a favorite pursuit of political historians to trace down the philosophical foundation of Fascism. Essentially a man of action, Benito Mussolini in the first days of his power would probably have dismissed these intellectual researches. He very likely would have said that pre-Fascist Italy had to produce something, anti-democratic in the place of a democracy which had been overcome with political and economic malaise. That this was Fascism was perhaps the very least of his concerns.

But, like other reformers on the political stage, he soon turned to the study of the past. He studied the history of Rome, and he studied the history of the Middle Ages. He studied the history of the Renaissance, and he studied the history of the Industrial Revolution. He studied the history of the French Revolution, and he studied the history of the German Revolution. He studied the history of the Russian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Chinese Revolution. He studied the history of the Japanese Revolution, and he studied the history of the Indian Revolution. He studied the history of the American Revolution, and he studied the history of the Mexican Revolution. He studied the history of the South African Revolution, and he studied the history of the Irish Revolution. He studied the history of the Egyptian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Greek Revolution. He studied the history of the Turkish Revolution, and he studied the history of the Persian Revolution. He studied the history of the Polish Revolution, and he studied the history of the Czech Revolution. He studied the history of the Hungarian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Yugoslav Revolution. He studied the history of the Rumanian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Bulgarian Revolution. He studied the history of the Serbian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Croatian Revolution. He studied the history of the Slovenian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Macedonian Revolution. He studied the history of the Albanian Revolution, and he studied the history of the Greek Revolution.

In other words, the state is absolute. It is so all-important that the individual does not count save for his part in supplying a unit without which the whole could not be formed. After thus doing his duty, he sheds any further significance he can, which is absorbed, together with his liberty, by the state.

Many of the historians trace this super-glorification of the state to Hegel, the philosopher of pre-war Germany. In Hegel's state there was equally no room for free citizens. The state is the realized ethical idea . . . This substantive unity is its own motive and absolute end. . . . This end has the highest right over the individual, whose highest duty it is to be a member of the state. Mussolini in German dress.

Unlike the Bolsheviks, who still toy with the idea of making governments over in their own image, Mussolini is not interested in the spread of Fascism beyond Italy's borders. He grants that absolutism may not be suitable for other peoples. He knows democracies instinctively turn from this. This is the philosophy, not of Hegel, but of James Russell Lowell. All free governments, whatever their name, are in reality governments by public opinion, and it is on the quality of this opinion that their prosperity depends.

Every country, it is said, gets the government it deserves. Should we not better say that every country gets the government suited to its own genius? And is it not possible that even Mussolini must seek support in public opinion? Therefore, the necessity for a Fascist philosophy.

NEW YORK INSIDE OUT

NEW YORK, July 9.—(Associated Press)—The city of New York is in a state of excitement over the prospect of a new landing field for airplanes. It is estimated that the city will lose $100,000,000 a year in revenue if the city does not build a new landing field for airplanes. Bill Sparks of the Sparks Tackle Shop, reports that tarpon fishing is running nicely now, and that several fine catches have been made this week. He states that Monday Dr. J. E. Welsh and R. M. Christ, while out with Fred Guthrie, landed eight silver kings, ranging in weight from 62 to 110 pounds. These fish were caught below the black beacon. Tuesday, Bill says, H. E. Cowling, accompanied by E. I. Kennedy and H. L. Rice, caught two nice tarpon, one of which weighed 85 and the other 125 pounds. These, also, were found below the black beacon. Punta Gorda Herald.

This friend's name is Ferdinand Lundberg and he plays the fiddle and is also a financial expert for the Herald. Tribune. Lundberg got the idea that it would be great to surprise his wife with a dog for a birthday present. She had always spoken admiringly of Irish terriers and so he went to a large dog and cat shop down near the Hudson Tube and selected an Irish terrier puppy. Now, Lundberg knows all about orderly market recessions, but he doesn't know dogs, especially when they are puppies.

Although this was an old respectable pet shop, he thought it best to conceal this lack of knowledge. He entered it at the noon hour, when the only attendant was a new hand, hired to sweep out the bins or cages. The attendant, embarrassed, could not bear to reveal his own non-doggy education. The attendant leaned heavily on the observations of Mr. Lundberg, of the Herald Tribune. It seemed safe enough, as the prices were plainly marked on the cages. As a result, Mr. Lundberg departed happily from the store bearing under his arm a half grown German shepherd, or police dog.

When Mr. Lundberg tried to foist off the creation on his wife as an Irish terrier, there was one dissenting vote. Mrs. Lundberg really knew Irish terriers. It was a dog, and while she didn't know what this dog was, she insisted it was an Irish terrier. Mr. Lundberg stoutly maintained that it was an Irish terrier, citing the testimony of the expert in the pet shop. He fed it some of the birthday cake. But in about a week, the animal had grown a foot and leaved nothing. Lundberg decided that maybe, after all, it was no Irish terrier and took it back, deciding to give up dogs forever.

The manager of the pet shop was there, this time, and he at once identified the object as a silver dog, ill from eating cake. He apologized for the clerk's mistake and offered to trade Mr. Lundberg an Irish terrier for it. Mr. Lundberg said that he and Mrs. Lundberg had decided not to have a dog, after all.

We are now about to solve the mystery of the New Yorker's love for his dog.

"All right," said the manager of the pet shop, "go ahead and see me. I will give you an Irish terrier or any other dog, but no money back. If I started that, I would be ruined, and so would every other dealer in town. Don't you know that nine out of every ten people who buy a dog in New York bring it back within a week with some cock-and-bull story—anything to get rid of it? But we make 'em keep 'em. Or where would the dog business be?"

What we can't understand is why France kept Texas Guinan out but let the mayors in.—American Liberman.

President Hoover fished the Gulf Stream three weeks on a recent vacation, pursuing the elusive sailfish, but last Saturday T. P. Stoddard made that achievement, hooking, playing and landing a 30-pound specimen of that much sought fish off Miami. Mr. Stoddard and L. K. Ledoux were guests of members of the Miami Rod and Reel Club, and Mr. Ledoux' best effort brought a 15-pound dolphin. The sailfish of the Gulf Stream is both a scrappy and beautiful specimen, and many special articles have been written of his colors and gameness all of which Tommy can now endorse from experience.—Clermont Press.

Don't Rasp Your Throat With Harsh Irritants

"Reach for a LUCKY Instead"

What effect have harsh irritants present in all raw tobacco upon the throat? A famous authority, retained by us to study throat irritation, says:

"The tissues above and below the vocal chords and the nasal cavity themselves may become acutely or chronically congested as a result of the inhalation of irritating fumes in the case of chemists for example."

LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process, which includes the use of modern Ultra Violet Rays, expels certain harsh irritants present in all raw tobacco. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds. They are not present in your LUCKY STRIKE. So "Consider your Adam's Apple"—that is your larynx—your voice box—it contains your vocal chords. Don't rasp your throat with harsh irritants. Be careful in your choice of cigarettes. Defective Posts In Five New Cruisers Found During Test

WASHINGTON, July 9.—(AP)—Discovery of defective stern post castings aboard five of the navy's newest cruisers was revealed yesterday.

The defect, first discovered on the Chester, one of the new eight-inch gun, 10,000-ton cruisers during her preliminary trials, was said by the navy department yesterday to have occurred also aboard the Louisville, Chicago, Northampton and Augusta.

Three cruisers so far have proved satisfactory — the Salt Lake City, Pensacola and Houston. Doubt as to whether the cause is faulty casting or the result of faulty designing was expressed by Rear-Admiral Rock, chief of the bureau of construction.

He pointed out as a possible indication that the cause was faulty casting the fact that no trouble has been experienced with the Chester since her stern post was replaced at the builder's expense.

The Northampton is at Norfolk undergoing repairs and the Augusta, Chicago and Louisville will have their stern posts renewed in September.

Navy officials have been mystified by the fact that the same defects have cropped out in the vessels although they were constructed by as many different builders.

Journey between the filling the bid and raising the barrier for the first race some time after December 1.

First, the racing commission may reject some of the bids because they do not comply fully with the filing requirements set by law.

If a bidder secures a permit, there still is room for disappointment, because every permit must be ratified by voters in the county where the track would be located before it can become effective. The permit holder must pay costs of the referendum election, the law provided.

If more than one track is sought for a county, the voters must vote on each permit separately. They may ratify one, and reject another, but failure to approve racing and pari-mutual wagering in the county will void all permits.

If a permit is approved by voters, the holder then would be required to operate the track only on dates set by the racing commission. The State law limits racing in Florida between December 1 and April 1. The maximum time of a horse race meet at a track is 50 days, and for dog tracks 90 days.

Well-informed circles consider the two established tracks, Hialeah Park near Miami, and St. Johns Park, between Jacksonville and St. Augustine, almost certain of continued operation. Racing was conducted at these tracks last year, with the certificate system of wagering in use.

Joseph E. Widener, New York and Miami, heads the Miami Jockey Club which owns Hialeah Park. Widener also heads the Belmont Park track in New York. The Florida Jockey Club, headed by W. D. Gallagher and William V. Dwyer, owns the St. Johns track.

Applications for operation of these tracks were among the first filed.

Your Handwriting And What It Tells

SECRET OF SUCCESS IN SCRIPT

Lowell Thomas, author and lecturer, writes an extraordinary article here.

Except for the capitals, which are large and proud, the handwriting shows reserve. Despite this characteristic, however, there is energy behind the pen. And sparkles in letter "i," revealing a magnetic personality and a lively nature.

The tonal quality of pen strokes here is misleading. Thick pen strokes like these in another hand would reveal materialistic tendencies. But all other signs in this script, particularly in well developed upper loop formations, point the other way, to imagination, ambition and versatility.

In the final analysis these strokes become identified with physical courage. Mr. Thomas, evidently, fears nothing. His self-confidence is superb. He is opinionated too. And once he has made up his mind nothing can stop him. Capitals emphasize self-reliance and masterfulness.

He would be a trying person to live with. Capital "M" reveals this. He is highly individualistic, unsentimental and by no means a city man. Such a vigorous creature, it seems to me, must require lots of elbow room in which to move and do as he pleases. Anything suggestive of restraint is irksome to him. And though he likes people, responsibilities and ties that bind are an infringement upon one's personal liberty to one constituted as Mr. Thomas is.

Love of adventure is in the blood here. He seems to be in perfect good health. He is rather fastidious about his foods, though cosmopolitan in his tastes. Indeed, though the nomadic strain is prominent, broad, tall lower case "i," shows him to be a slave to civilization in this sense: That without ease and comfort he is apt to be irritable.

Otherwise, I see by Mr. Thomas' Enid Woodson, of Lakeland; Jean Jones, Winter Haven; Eleanor Biggers, Marilyn Myers, Jere Stambaugh, of Auburndale.

DAUPHIN OF FRANCE MYSTERY FULLY SOLVED

Madeline Gill Has Documents Bearing on Historical Case

NEW WATER, July 8.—(AP)—The last Dauphin of France, son of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette, did not die in prison in the nineteenth century, as commonly believed, but was taken to Canada by the descendants are living in the country at the present time, Madeline Buchanan Gill said yesterday.

Gill is in possession of a large number of historical documents and photographs, including a number of the belongings of the late Princess Marie Antoinette, whose remains are in litigation in court in France.

Gill said that for years she had studied the mystery of the Dauphin and that her statement is based on records and can be traced to the satisfaction of his- torians.

"The son of the Dauphin, she was raised and educated by Count Calhoun, an American vice-consul of the United States."

"Following is Mrs. Gill's state- ment:

"For the first time since the death of Marie Antoinette who was beheaded in 1793, has the true history of the Dauphin been known.

"According to printed history, Marie Antoinette died in prison, others relate that he was spirited away in a clothes basket and many other possibilities have been recorded.

"The little siren, Countess Calhoun, persuaded her paramour, Harris, to obtain him for her.

"She impersonated the Countess of Josephine, and they were able to intercept him at Naples, but was intercepted by Duc Davary, who took the Dauphin to Chateau de Mautry near Paris. Lewis gave him the chateau and secret whereabouts for the future Louis XVII but he was spirited away by Count Charles Mary Argenteau, who was Archbishop de Tyrn, in- cidental with the pope and a favorite of the king.

"Count Charles was the nephew of Count Florimond de Mercy Argenteau who had been the guardian of Marie Antoinette, her secret ambassador to France from Austria.

"Dressed in clerical garb, the Archbishop with the Dauphin, who had disguised as a girl, fled to Holland. They remained in the home of a family by the name of Von Brienen. From Holland the Dauphin, still disguised as a girl, was brought to Canada by Charlotte Jean Renaud de la Haye de Rion, wife of Duke of Orleans.

"Who called herself Mademoiselle de Rion, he was called Henry de Rion, Count Argenteau came to America on a secret mission and visited John C. Calhoun. Calhoun was acquainted with the fact that the Dauphin was a British officer in Canada under the name of Henry de Rion, and was given in- structions to keep him protected until a battleship called for him.

"Henry de Rion married Mar- garet Hunter, May 28, 1827. He wizian, and Carl H. Galloway, president of the recently created Winter Park Kiwanis Club, ex- tended invitations for the attendance of all Sanford Kiwanians at a "charter night" to be held in Winter Park on July 20.

A short dialogue, offered by T. M. Vickery, and Charles Tew, two Sanford youths, preceded the address of the Rev. Marler, which was in part, as follows:

"Today all over the country we hear some of the best thinkers telling us that our great country that has cost such a great price in the pure blood of our forefathers is in grave danger of going down to ruin. Some say that it is actually tottering, while others say that a long populated with our present people cannot possibly fall. We must remember, however, that countries just as great and power- ful in their time and place have gone down to ruin and utter obli- tion.

"Many suggestions have been put forth as to the reasons for our danger. I personally do not believe that we are as bad off as some would have us believe, but there are many danger signs on every hand that point to ruin, and unless they are heeded nothing on earth can stop us, or save us; I am not an alarmist, but I believe we ought to face the facts.

"If we do fall there is but one thing that can be held responsible and that is the horrible and com- plete apathy and indifference of the people to the real vital things about them.

"Why is there so much graft in almost every department of the government, from our county offices right up into the highest department? Simply because the people are indifferent to their own affairs; they do not vote or punish the offenders and propagators of their faith.

"Why is our nation disgraced in the eyes of the world by the antics and brazen dolags of such men as Capone, Schultz, Malten, and hundreds of others? Simply because of that same indifference which winks an eye at laxity in the offices of sheriffs, judges, and others whose responsibilities are plain but whose actual carry- ing out of those responsibilities is positively ridiculous.

"Why is our social life being looked at with disdain and dis- gust by other nations? Why is it that although polygamy is out- lawed, it is being practiced on every hand, even here in Sanford, by thousand upon thousands of persons, striking at the very roots of family life? Why is it that there is a sweeping across the country a death-dealing cancer of desire for easy divorce which leaves in its wake a husbandless wives, wifeless husbands, and worst of all, parentless children? Why is venereal disease rampant, particularly among our youth, who are being ruined by these diseases and other violations of the social hygiene laws? Simply because of the smug indifference of all of us.

"The present depression is very much on everyone's mind, and in that connection, every reason un- der the sun has been put forward

"If we land on a cake of ice in Siberia it will be my fault."

Lifting their heavily loaded plane with difficulty, the fliers, eager to get away after being de- layed five days, took off into a heavy Pacific dawn at 3:50 (P. S. T.).

As Jones, smiling broadly and predicting he would "have his next meal in Tokyo," stepped into the cockpit, there was a com- motion nearby. Robbins, looking more like a cowboy than an aviator, was having trouble con- vincing a policeman he should be allowed near the ship.

"Man, ah'm going to ride in that ship to Tokyo," exclaimed Robbins, embarrassed, as the policeman shoved him backward.

The policeman apologized. Robbins climbed aboard, and almost before the group realized he was in the cockpit the ship was roll- ing down the runway, wabbling dangerously under its heavy load of 410 gallons of gasoline.

"Tokyo by tomorrow night," shouted Jones as the ship rolled away.

"So long," shouted Robbins. The ship picked up speed slowly as it roared down the long runway and for a moment spec- tators gasped as it appeared. Robbins would not be able to life it in time to clear some trolley wires.

The route Robbins and Jones planned to follow would take them first to Fairbanks then to Nome for the final refueling, thence westward across the ocean and down the Asiatic coast to Tokyo, where a $25,000 prize, offered by a Japanese newspaper for the first non-stop airplane flight from the United States to Japan awaits them.

Jones, to whom Robbins leaves most of the talking, estimated the trip would take about 65 hours. The craft, worth, built more for endurance than for speed, has a cruising speed of approximately 100 miles per hour. It uses only 11.5 to 12.5 gallons of gasoline per hour, in contrast to almost double that amount used by speedier ships of the same de- sign, such as Wiley Post and Har- old Gatty used in their flight around the globe.

The fliers carried only a few sandwiches, prepared for them by the chef of Washington Athletic Club.

"History was in a strange re- volution for Robbins as he piloted the ship on its long and hazardous flight. Once before, in May 1929, he piloted a ship called the Fort Worth on a record set- ting adventure.

With him on that trip, which took him round and round the Fort Worth field and on which he set a record of 172 hours, 23 min- utes and one second of sustained flight, was James Kelly, another young commercial aviator.

For setting the record, which later passed to Dale Jackson and Forrest O'Brien, then to the Hunt- ter brothers, and then back again to Jackson and O'Brien, Kelly and Robbins received $15,000 raised for them by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce while they were in flight.

It was after the 1929 endurance

that two officials of the Lockheed Vega Corporation had planned to accompany the women had changed their plans just before the take off from New York. They were Capt. Carl W. Sawyer, gen- eral manager and Jack Miller, sales manager.

The accident climaxed a day that saw the fliers delayed five hours by unfavorable flying weather. They had arranged to leave New York early this morning, but dense fog over the route westward forced them to wait until 3:23 P. M.

Had the party reached St. Louis last night they would have taken off tomorrow for Chickasha, Okla., where a home town reception had been set for 2 P. M. The rest of the schedule called for a second welcome ceremony in Oklahoma City Friday and another in Tulsa Monday.

After the accident, the Posts and Gattys went to a hotel where they declined to see anyone.

Wealthy Oil Man Put Under Arrest Upon Fraud Charge

NEW YORK, July 9.—(AP)—

Silas W. Newton, wealthy oil man and amateur golfer, was ar- rested yesterday on a charge of defrauding a 74-year-old New Jersey man of his life savings of $25,000.

Newton appeared in the lime- light last week when he made an airplane trip to Toledo to encour- age his friend, George Von Elm, in his playoff with Billie Burke for the United States open golf championship. Von Elm, before starting the first day of the play- off, wired Newton that he "could win if you were here."

Newton arrived shortly after- ward, joined Von Elm in the course, and the business man got- er came from behind to the Burke for the day, although losing on Tuesday in a second 36-hole play- off.

An associate of Newton, the attorney general's office said, in- terested the complainant, Hugo E. Distelhurst of Upper Merionville, N. J., in the stock of the Indiana Southwestern Gas and Utilities Company.

Distelhurst charged the attorney general said, that Newton agreed to sell him 50 shares for a special favor, and said he decided his home to raise the money upon representations that stock in the company would be "very valuable" after completion of a contemplated merger of utilities in Indiana.

that two officials of the Lockheed Vega Corporation had planned to accompany the women had changed their plans just before the take off from New York. They were Capt. Carl W. Sawyer, gen- eral manager and Jack Miller, sales manager.

The accident climaxed a day that saw the fliers delayed five hours by unfavorable flying weather. They had arranged to leave New York early this morning, but dense fog over the route westward forced them to wait until 3:23 P. M.

Had the party reached St. Louis last night they would have taken off tomorrow for Chickasha, Okla., where a home town reception had been set for 2 P. M. The rest of the schedule called for a second welcome ceremony in Oklahoma City Friday and another in Tulsa Monday.

After the accident, the Posts and Gattys went to a hotel where they declined to see anyone.
