Gunter Gets Hot On Tom's Budget

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Instead of making speeches on unemployment, Lt. Gov. Tom Adams should be doing something about it, says State Sen. William Gunter (D-Seminole-Orange). Gunter said that under Adams' administration the Florida Department of Commerce has spent substantially more on bringing new tourists to Florida than on bringing new jobs to the state.

Adams' proposed 1972-73 budget calls for $1.7 million in tourist development funds but only $216,550 in industrial development funds, noted Gunter.

"We need to shift our emphasis to new industry and new employment," he told Adams. Gunter contended Florida tourist trade, particularly with the opening of Walt Disney World, is doing well on its own.

Adams defended his budget request and his past spending as "a balanced program." Oftentimes money spent for tourist development, Adams told Gunter's Senate appropriations subcommittee, "helped in many areas to bring in new business."

But Gunter said he was disturbed by the thought of pumping $1.7 million into tourist development, "when our tourist trade seems to be in pretty good shape."

"The budget request of your department seems to be at odds with the philosophy you've expressed in your speeches," said the lawmaker.

Air Show Slated In Sanford April 2

Acrobatic Club of America air show is expected to highlight an April 2 show at Sanford Airport. Airport Authority Thursday asked J. S. Cleveland, airport manager, to proceed with plans to bring the non-profit club to Sanford.

Cleveland said earlier plans to have the Navy's Blue Angels air team for the show apparently had fixed due to a conflict with Kissimmee's air show.

"The usual procedure is for the club to work with a local service club and split the proceeds derived from the show," Cleveland said.

The acrobatic club show is made up of five solo acts, a dual act, two sky diving demonstrations, two comedy acts in a Piper Cub.

Cleveland stated the club would provide its own publicity, assist local service clubs in selling advertising for the program books, etc., with the club paying for all advertising, promotions, printing, pilot expenses, insurance and miscellaneous expenses except for aviation trade concessions.

Money derived by the acrobatic club will be used to support the club's representatives in the international competition at Marseilles, France.

Cleveland said there is a possibility the air show here will become an annual event.

Lindsay Visits Sanford Saturday Florida Black Vote Is Sought

By JOHN VAN GIESON
 Associated Press Writer
 New York Mayor John Lindsay and Sen. George McGovern fought for Florida's black vote today, with Mississippi civil rights leader Charles Evers on hand to cast his lot with Lindsay.

(Editor's note: Mayor John Lindsay will make a whirlwind visit to Sanford Saturday, greeting voters at 1:30 p.m. until about 2:15 at Sanford P.P.2a.)

In his address at Bethune-Cookman College at Daytona Beach, McGovern struck hard at "racist" lending practices by private banks and the federal government itself.

"One of the things that I do not understand, that I regard as an outright disgrace, is that I have seen and heard repeated reports of banks that are willing to loan a black man $5,000 or $10,000 for a Cadillac, but they won't give him $5,000 to start a new business."

He said he would "shake up" the Small Business Administration — the SBA — which has come to be recognized as the Stop Black Action agency, and make low cost federal loans available.

Evers was defeated last year in his attempt to become the first black ever elected governor of Mississippi.

McGovern and Lindsay set a pattern of making as many contacts with blacks as they could, with the New York mayor scheduled to visit black students, workers or leaders in Tallahassee, Jacksonville, Daytona Beach, Orlando and Delray Beach.

Elsewhere, Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty was threatening a legal attack on Florida's primary law if his name wasn't removed from the list of 19 candidates on the Democratic ballot.

Campaign manager Sam Broderick said in Los Angeles that Yorty was put on the ballot "over his objections because supporters of Edmund Muskie and Hubert H. Humphrey are scared to death of George Wallace and want someone to split the conservative vote."

LAKE MARY VFD RESPONDS TO CALL

Topsy-Turvy sports car was lifted off driver Sandra Lee Sangster, 21, Orlando, by construction workers James T. Gough, James Lewis and R. H. Gobel Thursday afternoon after the vehicle overturned on SR 46 west of Paola and trapped Miss Sangster, Florida Highway Patrol Trooper T. R. McIntyre reported. He stated Cathy Brighton, 19, Orlando and passenger in the car, managed to escape the burning wreckage and summoned the men as they cleared rights of way. Both girls were treated and dismissed at Seminole Memorial Hospital, Trooper McIntyre added.

Winter Springs Water Now Safe

By ANN BILEY
WINTER SPRINGS—Residents of the subdivision of Winter Springs located on Tuskuwilla Road in South Seminole no longer have to boil their drinking water. It is now bacteriologically safe for drinking, Robert Lavel, assistant county sanitarian, announced today.

Lavel inspected the site early this morning with Tom C. Kravitz of Miami, Southern States Utilities president, and Art Duerr, local manager.

They explained to Lavel that the aerator was determined as the source of pollution discovered earlier this week. The aerator was by-passed and the aerator bed with a chlorine solution. The entire unit was secured with a high pressure cleaning unit before being put back into service.

It was further explained all five hydrants were flushed for service for several hours to insure that the mains were cleaned. This procedure will continue.

To prevent a recurrence, the well pump discharge will be chlorinated before it goes to the aerator and a louvers partition will be erected around the

Fred Ellnor Plans Motel At Lake Ada

By BILL SCOTT
 Land engineers, feasibility experts and architects are working on plans for a 120-unit motel to be located on U. S. 17-92, south of Sanford water pumping plant, north of York Sporting Goods and adjoining Lake Ada.

Fred Ellnor, former Sanford automobile dealer, now living in Ormond Beach, has requested commercial zoning for his property, which has been annexed by the city.

Ellnor, in a letter to city officials, indicated a motel, restaurant and lounge would be placed on the approximately four acres.

Sanford Planning and Zoning Board Thursday night voted to recommend to the City Commission that commercial zoning be instituted in the recently annexed area along 17-92, except for three manufacturing plants, which would be zoned industrial.

In another rezoning request, L. W. Lord, Guilford Construction Company president from Orlando, appeared at Thursday night's zoning meeting to ask that property in the Geneva Terrace area near Seminole High School be rezoned to allow for construction of duplex housing in the development on 25th Street.

Lord said that engineering plans have been completed to the point that the development costs would be too high for the land to be used in single family units.

To make the best and highest use of the property, Lord requested rezoning to allow duplexes, patio houses and town house construction on the property.

$300,000 Utilities Construction Begun

By FRED VAN FELT
 Construction of water and sewer systems ... estimated to cost $300,000 overall ... has been started at I-4 Industrial Park, it was reported today by the owner, Dr. J. W. Hickman.

The park covers 200 acres, east of Interstate 4 between SR 45 and U. S. 17-92.

Dr. Hickman said the water plant will provide 300,000 gal. will process 100,000 gallons daily to start, building to a possible three million daily in the future. Lake Monroe Utilities is installing the two plants.

Negotiations are underway, Dr. Hickman said, to provide water and sewer services for the proposed Holiday Inn and its campground on the I-4 and SR 46 intersection and also for the Port of Sanford, just off I-4 and U. S. 17-92.

He said further that the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HED) has requested possible service for the Bookertown community adjacent to the Port of Sanford.

Construction of a 50,000-square-foot warehouse is also underway for speculation purposes.

BULLETIN

John Volpe, U. S. secretary of transportation, and U. S. Sen. Ed Gurney have called a press conference for 10 a.m. Saturday at Walt Disney World on "matters pertaining to Central Florida, especially Seminole County." No further details were available to date except that Volpe, Gurney, Ed Mueller, Florida secretary of transportation, and other officials will make a tour by helicopter of Central Florida, with the view of the impact Walt Disney World has made on existing highways.

Hearing Scheduled

By DONNA ESTES
 A Longwood man will be arraigned before Justice of the Peace Thomas Lovett at 1 p.m. Monday on charges of trespassing and window peeping. Judge Lovett said date for a preliminary hearing on the charges filed against George Farley, of Tullis Avenue, Longwood, by Mrs. Kathleen Jeffers, of North Orlando, will be set at the arraignment.

The "peeping Tom" and trespassing warrants were issued Monday and Farley turned himself in at the sheriff's department Tuesday, posted a $500 bond and was released, according to the sheriff's department. Chief Bachelor said Farley is currently on probation on a window peeping conviction.

Christ's Work

By JAMES C. VAUGHN
Sanford Christian Church

"When Jesus had received the vinegar, he said 'It is finished,' and he bowed his head and gave up his spirit." (John 19:30)

It is strange how, in the face of certain defeat, many times the underdog will win. America has been called "a nation for underdogs"; we like to see them win. At Calvary, Jesus faced certain defeat. He reeled from the force of Satan's attack, as Satan "bruised his heel." At the point at which He uttered the words recorded in John 19:30 (above), He had but a few more moments to live. He asked for a drink and then with triumph in His voice He shouted, "It is finished." In Gethsemane He had drained this God-forsaken cup; now it's drained.

What is finished? More than just the Calvary experience is completed; Christ's whole work and purpose for His earthly ministry was finished. In His work He had moved as if He were following a plan. In fact, when He was only twelve years old, He stated that He was working according to a plan (Luke 2:49). And in John 9:4 He said, "We must work the works of Him who sent me while it is day; the night is coming when no one can work."

Most of us will see things undone, unfinished at our life's end; but Jesus completed all he planned. Never has there been a victory cry equal to that of Jesus: "It is finished!" The verb of this statement is in the past. But note the indefinite pronoun "it." The verb has no subject; therefore we must study the Word of God to find out exactly what was finished.

Was it His suffering that was finished? Yes, but this is too obvious. Jesus didn't have to tell anyone that; He would have asked for liquid just to be able to make such information a part of His life's last statement.

Could He have been referring to the ancient prophecies concerning Himself as finished and fulfilled. Possibly, but this is also quite indefinite because there yet remained other prophecies to be fulfilled, such as the resurrecting and ascending. His earthly ministry finished? True, but this is also too obvious and indefinite. But when we consider the work of salvation, the work of reconciliation and atonement accomplished through the Cross, as being finished, we are touched with the dramatic importance of this moment. We become impressed with the fact that it is by His work that men and God may be brought together again in a holy fellowship.

There is a lesson here for all of us: For the moralist who says, "I need not be a part of the body of Christ, the Church; I'm good enough without it." Or perhaps, "I live a better life than most Christians anyway." Can you not see that you are reverting to a concept of works-salvation, saying that you can save yourself from all the damnable things which nailed the Son of God to the cross? And that the idea that we can earn abundant life makes void the cross of Christ?

There is a lesson here for the secularist who would say, "God and the Bible and all this Calvary cross-talk are of another day. This is the age of science and enlightenment when technology will sooner or later accomplish all that we human beings need." Can't you see that technology has brought us not to the threshold of peace and life but to the brink of self-annihilation? Outer space and this old world shall pass away, but God and His Word shall not pass away.

There is a message here for the Crassard who by well-laid plans and organization would seek to bring the Kingdom of God by human power and wisdom. Hear the Word of the Lord when He says, "The world in its wisdom knew not God" (1 Cor. 1:21); and "Not by might, nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of hosts" (Zech. 4:6).

There is a message here for the young person who out of his disgust and impatience with the institutional Church would seek to "go it on his own." Remember, the Church is divinely instituted. It is Biblically the Body of Christ, and it can be restored to the purity and power that God intended if Christians will allow themselves to be so dominated by God's Word and by His Spirit that they are restored and renewed in Him.

There is a sermon here for the smug, self-satisfied Christian who is in Church every Sunday and is proud of it in the manner of the Pharisee in the temple; My friends, none of us have anything to boast except the death of Christ our Lord, in the work that He accomplished for us at Calvary - restoring us to God and God-likeness.

When Jesus cried, "It is finished," he reminded us that there is no hope for ourselves, or for this world of sin and vice, unless we turn to the fountain of healing and life which flows from Calvary; and unless who have experienced His grace point others to that holy hill from whence comes our help - the hill of Calvary.

There may be gods many and lords many; but there is only one God, and with our sins in His own hand, and carry them far away, so that we might be clean enough to live in the presence of God. Commit your life and your heart to Him today!

Church Union Move 'Not A Pipe Dream'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - A modern era of anti-institutionalism has caused a "failure of nerve" in many church officials about the quest for church reunion, an expert says. But he adds that the goal already is emerging and its attainment seems certain.

"It's not just a pipe dream," says the Rev. Dr. Paul A. Cox Jr., of Princeton, N.J., executive secretary of the Consultation on Church Union - COCU. "There's more momentum for it now than there ever has been."

But much of the impetus, he adds, is now coming from the local scene rather than from denominational centers.

"It's a new kind of pressure that is coming from the grass roots," he says, referring to the growth of cross-denominational coalitions forming among different congregations in many communities.

Interviewed prior to the current observance of the annual week of prayer for Christian unity sponsored by Protestant, Orthodox and Roman Catholic bodies, Dr. Cox said the movement has entered a more realistic stage.

"It has moved past the old style conciliarism of amiability when ministers go together and now is involving broader participation of the laity in the common functional arena," he said.

Dr. Cox, 39, an Alabama-born church historian, left a seminary teaching post at Lexington, Ky., four years ago to administer the project seeking to unite nine American Protestant denominations.

He said the phenomenon has not been systematically surveyed, but recent spot checks covered the most trials held at various least 400 such cross-denominational arrangements in as many communities.

The denominations involved are the Episcopal, United Presbyterian, United Methodist, Presbyterian U.S. (Southern), Christian (Disciples), African Methodist Episcopal, African Methodist Episcopal Zion and Christian Methodist Episcopal churches, and the United Church of Christ.

Construction Starts Feb. 15 Cable TV Plans Aired

Cable television construction will start on Sanford's CATV system on Feb. 15, according to officials of Seminole Cablevision.

At a VIP cocktail party, held at the House of Steak, officials of Seminole Cablevision, a division of the national's second largest cable communications company, American Television and Communications Corporation of Denver, outlined their plans for Sanford and Seminole County's CATV construction.

It also was announced at the affair, attended by Seminole County leaders, that Thomas (Tommy) Alexander will head the Seminole operation. Alexander, a resident of Lake Mary, will be opening offices in Sanford in the near future.

Also on hand was the newly announced co-ordinator of ATC's central Florida total television concept, James A. Hudgens.

Alexander told the group that a main feeder line connecting Sanford with South Seminole and Orlando, Winter Park and Maitland areas will start the project off.

During that time, construction of Sanford's system also will be proceeding with initial customers' hookups expected at the end of April.

Initially customers will receive nine channels, including four local stations, 2, 6, 9, 24 along with channels 3 and 19 from Tampa. Included in this package will be Seminole's total television channel 15, WTVT, which will present eight hours of local originatation daily, including top movie packages and sports.

Along with other features, the two other channels will be a 24-hour news and market preview and a 24-hour weather channel. UPI news and the New York Stock Exchange show are featured on the news and market channel.

As an added feature, cable customers will receive, if they desire, 14 of the state's top 24 hour FM radio stations.

Additional stations will be added in the future as FCC regulations permit. Sanford's system will be a bi-directional tway cable system which allows transmission of signals to and from cable attachments.

The local system also will have a minimum capability of transmitting 20 channels of television viewing.

Also on display at the announcement ceremonies was a Central Florida total television mobile color origination unit van, which is used in non-studio video taping of local programs.

The van and its crew recently covered the week trials held at Seminole High School.

Heading the programming activities for Seminole Cablevision will be Joel Lawrence Efrein, Efrein, a specialist in video production, is regional programming director for ATC.

Also on hand at the presentation was Autin Corryell, Central Florida total television director of engineering. Corryell is considered to be one of the nation's foremost cable television engineers and is in charge of the total system setup and operation.

The immediate expansion of the sports arena. The present $1,000,000 stadium is to be upgraded to accommodate some 50,000 fans.

"I think we should get together next week" - as soon as your stadium authority is set up, and talk about a contract for the 1974 California game," said Graves.

Graves said he's already talked with University president Dr. Stephen O'Connell and coach Doug Dickey, and they're receptive to the idea.

The stadium were ready by 1973. Dickey said he saw no reason why Florida couldn't bring in a game that year.

The Gators are slated to open the 1973 season against Kansas State Sept. 15, and the following Saturday play Southern Mississippi. Both contests are now set for Florida Field. Dickey expressed interest in moving the earlier game.

Cost of expansion of the Orlando football facility has been estimated $3.8 million.

Master of ceremonies will be State Sen. Kenneth Flanole. Mrs. Garneta Swenson and Thomas Speer have been appointed co-chairman of the dinner. James Ryan is ticket chairman and Joseph Bastien is publicity chairman.

A cocktail party at Club Lul from 6:30-8 p.m. will precede the dinner. Tickets are available from Republican headquarters in Altamonte Springs or in Sanford by contacting Ryan.

No. Orlando Slates Hearing Utility Hassle Airing Set

By MARION BETHA
NORTH ORLANDO - Village Council will hold a work session on Monday to attempt to resolve two divergent opinions upon the amendments in the village subdivision ordinance which states that "all water and sewer line systems shall be dedicated to the Village of North Orlando by deed."

The amendment also states that the subdivision developers shall install water and sewer trunk line systems within each policy which will make this economically infeasible. Village Attorney Thomas Freeman shot back that Florida Land had made application for the franchise, in which he projected that this is true but Council is changing it. Freeman still maintained the company requested the contract to serve the area and the village is not forcing it to do anything. Councilman Troy Pland apparently was sympathetic to Reed's argument, noting that it cost the company $500 to increase the capacity of the water and sewer system, $50 to operate, for a $54 revenue.

Freeman interjected that the business aspects of the situation is not the concern of the village. Pland countered that if the system belongs to the city, it is also the city's to maintain.

Developers To Pave Area Deaths

By BILL SCOTT
Sanford Zoning and Planning Board Thursday night voted to recommend to the City Commission that city require developers of homes on unpaved streets to place in escrow an unspecified sum to be applied toward paving the streets.

The action came after Lynn Risner, city building official, said some builders were "getting around" the present ordinance requiring escrowing money for paving if as many as three houses were constructed.

Risner said developers who built just two houses were not covered under the ordinance. "We have 28 miles of unpaved streets in this city, and I feel if a house is constructed on an unpaved street the developers should have to pay something," Risner said.

Under Risner's plan, all city streets could eventually be paved by requiring developers to help pay the cost by holding deposits in escrow.

Florida's Correctional-Confinement Problem

When Florida's Corrections Director Louis Wainwright hung the "No Vacancy" sign on state prisons he did the doors on new inmates but he certainly opened wide the broad, critical and controversial problem of confinement and corrections for a hard look and tough decisions.

This hard look and these tough decisions cannot now be "filed for future action." Gov. Reubin Askew has recognized this in his proposals to the legislature.

What is an absolute "must" is for the legislators to give immediate attention and quick action when the legislature meets in general session next month. Director Wainwright's unprecedented and possible "No Vacancy" sign on the state prison's doors (for a couple of weeks) comes at a time when the Raftord riots are more than a memory, when overcrowding has reached the unbearable point and when the failed growth in Florida has slopped over into the crime department.

County jails are the ones most affected. For them make-do with their present facilities until some lifting of the state embargo is achieved.

Inherent in all such events is the danger that the uniformed and the ill-advised would try to make the uninformant an instance where the ancient controversy which exists between those who want more jails and tougher restraints and those who accept the more informed approach that the best way is to enlarge and modernize the correctional facilities be revived.

After all, as one warden told us when we were specializing in this field: "You must remember our population is only those who broke the law and were caught. Law-breakers who have gotten away with it are the hidden threat. And all will, some day, be on the outside trying to adjust to normal life."

Thus while the construction of larger and more adequate prisons remains as an inescapable burden for the elected officials to bear, the balanced look which would not overlook some of the newer and effective means of rehabilitation, before confinement, as a lessening of the prison population should be employed.

Although there will be a move to increase the number of those placed on parole — scheduled before the drastic Wainwright action, yet this is but a temporary remedy which should not be expected to do more than is humanly possible under the existing correctional complex. Overcrowded prisons should not spur unwise parole.

Convicted law-breakers come out of the courts, where they are routed to commitment or probation. Use of probation has great merit as a theory. In practice, however, intelligent application of this truly correctional means has been ham-strung by inadequate funding and the consequent inability to employ the number and the quality of personnel which allows probation to work satisfactorily.

Thus we come full circle again to the underlying cause for overcrowded prisons, inadequate and ineffective correctional means to the issue of funding.

First must come an honest, balanced and professional appraisal of the needs of Florida in confinement and correctional matters. Then must be the inescapable action of the state legislators to "bite the bullet" and fund the program.

Imprisonment is the costly way for punishment. In some instances it is the only way. Yet to avoid this expensive road and try the path to quick and effective rehabilitation is such common sense that we trust the professionals, the legislators and the executives will try it out.

Eye-Balling Fun

In a rare combination of political circumstances the voters of Seminole County are getting a chance to meet "eyeball-to-eyeball" several of the Democratic hopefuls looking for the top spot on their party's ticket when the national Democratic Nominating convention is held in Miami Beach next summer.

Taking two instances, there are the visits of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota, long-time Democrat with a record of public service that is as long as your arm and Mayor John Lindsay of New York, whose affiliation with the Democrats came a few months ago after a life-time of Republican membership.

When the man from Minnesota, walked and talked and toured Sanford-Seminole last week his impact (and that of his gracious lady, Mrs. Muriel Humphrey) was so refreshing, honest, down-to-earth that many saw and were delighted with what they detected in an experienced mayor, senator and vice president that had been somewhat obscured.

Now that Mayor Lindsay has sandwiched in a stop in Sanford — Daytona Beach and DeLand are before with Orlando afterward — tomorrow, this personally attractive and mentally brilliant New Yorker should be seen to be appreciative.

For he is out to win. With so many hurdles to take within the party — he is not at all welcomed by the traditional powers-that-be — Lindsay's personal and well-organized group that must turn the trick.

Like so many, it will be the shopping plazas that will be the theater for his performance. Sanford Plaza from 1:30 to 2:15 is the place and time his advance men have him walking, talking and shaking hands.

Humphrey is the older, more experienced and time-tested candidate. Lindsay is the newcomer (almost a party outsider). Both are well worth seeing and talking with. The man from Minnesota will be back. So, we guess, will be Lindsay.

Religious Notebook New Church Names Go Mod

By REV. DAVID POLING

New congregations keep springing up in this country and the old names are out of style. It seems that no group worth its salt wants to be tied to Methodist, Church of the Ninth Baptist Fellowship.

Protestants a century ago were very pleased with the names of their churches. The Third Presbyterian, the Fourth Congregational were names that told the world you were growing, expanding and on the move. It was like branch banking, with 10 offices to serve you in the metropolitan area. Numbers are out — so are proper names.

The Reformation was responsible for the flourish of churches, so the Protestants followed suit, unless the name was too long like Melancthon.

When proper names had declined in popularity or over use, places, buildings materials and occupations were favored. Several cities have a Brick Church, so why not a Blacktop Baptist. Central or Paving Stone Pentecostal? New York has the Sea and Land Church; Philadelphia the Old Mariners Chapel and the Valley. Occupations have had meaning to the faith, for here guilds and clans and unions gathered for prayer and fellowship.

With the great rush toward the realm of sports in this land, we should not be surprised to see certain congregations naming their church after a favorite league or game. How does Play-Off Christian Church sound? Or Olympic Orthodox Center?

We smile about different names and titles, but they are many and varied. In Kansas City there is a Country Club Christian and in Dallas a Lawyer's Lane Methodist. With attendance on the decline, a new name might help to recall some members.

The churches that wanted to emphasize their strict financial

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. defense officials are apprehensive that the North Vietnamese armies operating in South Vietnam are soon to record the best American television spectacle they've had since their offensive of 1969.

Most of the informed specialists thus far has centered on Hanoi's buildup of men and material in and near what is called Military Two — a very lightly populated central highlands area with such interior cities as Kon-tum and Pleiku.

Those who want to survive independent of Hanoi are hoping North Vietnam's expected offensives are crippling in human cost, and that Hanoi's wider Vietnamese divisions will not cost to move to the defense of Region Two to the south.

But defense authorities plan to fear that Hanoi's probes near the DMZ might produce breakthroughs which would allow the North Vietnamese to push eastward to Quang Tri, Hue and Da Nang on the populous northern coast.

Here again, U. S. planes and helicopters probably would be brought strongly to bear to try to blunt any such assault, especially if Hanoi openly used the DMZ as a base for transport of men and supplies. But it is conceded this aid might not be enough.

Since the President himself obviously understands all these possible dangers, his announcement of a new $7.9-billion troop pullout is seen as one way of saying there isn't an awful lot of the United States can do any more. South Vietnam's fate is in its own hands.

BERRY'S WORLD

DONNA'S DELIBERATIONS

By Donna Estes

Keneth Brown, elected six weeks ago as mayor of Longwood, is keeping a box score of the 10-point program of campaign promises he made to the people of his city before his election.

The score to date shows four of the promises fulfilled and work begun on four more.

His first promise was the creation of a strong zoning board that the Council would have confidence in and adhere to its recommendations. "The members of the zoning board should be citizens who have the interest of Longwood as their No. 1 goal and a complete comprehensive zoning plan should be drawn for the city."

Last week Brown recommended the appointment of B. H. Jervell, former councilman and zoning board member, to one vacancy and Robert Hammond, draftsman and involved in city activities for some years, to another seat. Board members J. R. Grant, Rev. Jack Lindsay and Tracy Estes were consulted on the advisory board.

In addition, with the CALNO Council of Local Government to prepare a land-use plan for the South Seminole area, a comprehensive zoning ordinance will be relatively easily prepared for Longwood from the plan when completed.

Brown has insisted, in his second promise, that the subdivision ordinance should be rigidly enforced to "a gnat." A mayor, true to his word, has been enforcing it to "a gnat." A developer who ignored a drainage problem, after conferences with the mayor, agreed to correct the problem and another, after discussions with the mayor, agreed to follow detailed procedures in the ordinance.

The water system expansion begun under Brown's former regime is not too far in the future, the mayor said. He first secured an above-ground storage tank, possibly new well and updated aeration system.

Brown has insisted, in his second promise, that the subdivision ordinance should be rigidly enforced to "a gnat." A mayor, true to his word, has been enforcing it to "a gnat." A developer who ignored a drainage problem, after conferences with the mayor, agreed to correct the problem and another, after discussions with the mayor, agreed to follow detailed procedures in the ordinance.

YMCA Site Needed

Brown's hope for donation of 10 acres of land as location of a new YMCA in the city has not been successful as yet. But he said there is the possibility of the city having a special recreation program for the people of the area this summer with the city paying a fee for the service.

The city's redistricting plan, recommended adoption by the mayor, was approved two days following his election. Last week a trash pickup Council committee was named and Councilman William Klovsky of the committee has arranged special trash pickup days at no charge for Feb. 1 through 4. Brown has recommended, in addition to full support be given by the city to the Central Florida Historic Preservation Committee in the society's effort to restore the downtown section of the city to its past splendor.

Brown adds that he is enforcing all ordinances pertaining to junk cars, weeds, dogs and condemned buildings. The mayor has instructed the dog catcher to pick up all dogs that are not under control of their owners.

Longwood's city superintendent, Ralph Fisher, has been ill with the flu for the past week and missed his first days of work since he was employed by the city seven years ago.

Incidentally, City Clerk Omie Shomate has been on the job for 34 years and has not missed a single day due to illness. She is either awfully dedicated or extremely healthy.

Trash Burning Gripe

In North Orlando, some citizens disturbed by almost constant burning of building trash by land developers are talking about forming a committee to the state air and water pollution board. "At times there is a haze over all the village from the burning," one resident remarked. "Something has to be done."

Not putting the onus on any particular governing body — But it takes a brave soul to venture before elected officials at times. In recent weeks persons appearing before the people they put in office have been belittled, embarrassed and insulted. One gets the impression the officials have forgotten that they are to serve the people and not rule them. In addition, a person's problem or request is very important to him even though the mayor or city council may not be able to do anything about it and listen costs nothing. No one is in office forever and someday the shoe might be on the other foot.

Check Your Rumors

Incidentally those rumors going around about certain people planning to run for public office in Longwood this December should be checked out before they are circulated. Remember under the city's districting plan, the only seats on Council open this year are for the central section of the city and the northwest district. The seats of Agnes Weber and Eugene Jaques are eliminated after this year since new Councilmen William Klovsky and Dick Crenshaw reside in them.

My apologies to Dr. Edith Duerr for speculating that she might be replaced as council chairman of Cassberry. Anybody who knows Edith is aware that she is an experienced and capable public servant and well able to accomplish anything she sets out to do. Obviously she set out to continue as chairman of the council and she has.

At the same time, our battling average is still running pretty good. It is predicted in this column Eugene Jaques of Longwood would be elected Council chairman and he was. It was also predicted that Thomas L. Siegfried would be named fire chief of Altamonte Springs and he was. So, underestimating Dr. Duerr was our first blunder of the year and hopefully the ADJUSTMENT, which would take into consideration hardship cases, Kelley advised that Barrett apply for such a hearing.

Barrett went on to say that the van had valuable contents and that other vehicles at the firm parked their vehicles at their homes in the Central Florida area.

Freeman explained that the Board of Adjustment would set up a public hearing for neighbors to express objections, and that in the interim, since Barrett has misunderstood the procedure, he was granted a two-month extension of the police citation.

Councilman W. L. (Bill) Hurt said that he had received numerous complaints from residents concerning Barrett's truck; that he started it at 6 a.m. Hurt said that Barrett did not comply with the municipal ordinance, that the time for removal of the truck from his premises had expired, and that Barrett be ordered to remove it immediately.

Freeman disagreed saying that Barrett had complied with regulations in coming before the council, and at this point Freeman's comments, but Barrett did not respond.

Police Chief Walter Hatcher defended Barrett noting that he told the man to apply for a permit to park the van, and Barrett mistakenly came before council instead of the adjustment board.

Sidewalks, City Map Discussed In Oviedo

By LIZ MATHIEUX

OVIDEO — At a work session on Wednesday night, the City Council of Oviedo gave top priority to work to be done on sidewalks, as designated on the city map, with 100 per cent financing by the city.

Tentatively, there will be no assessments to property owners. The council is further contemplating partitioning several sections of the Memorial Building, also known as city hall for the express purpose of enlarging the office space of the city clerk Nancy Cooper's office due to the rapid growth of the city. Applicants now being interviewed for the position of assistant city clerk and more space would be needed.

Additional space is also needed by the water department which is currently sharing an office with the police department.

Justice of the Peace Charles Pearson to look into prospective building sites while they are still available for a new city hall and/or civic center to be built in the future.

The subdivision ordinances presently in use by the city require that the streets be paved at the time of construction of any contemplated subdivision. The ordinance is being prepared for adoption and will carry various zoning classifications, more especially, Mobile Home zoning, MHI-1 and Agriculture, A-1.

Another work session will be conducted Wednesday, Jan. 26 at which time Charles Spooner, city consulting engineer from the firm of Driver and Spooner in Miami, will be present and the council will turn over plans for several sidewalks, which they are considering under the proposed street improvement program for his inspection.

County In The Dark On New Gas Tax

By MARION BETHEA

Among the matters presented are:

Advertisement from the State Department of Revenue that it has not been able to make long range projections for any of the 67 counties relative to the amount of $477.25 and probable increase in the amount of $1,467.00.

U. S. Is Favorable To Port Of Entry

By BILL SCOTT

The Page employs disclosed a near collision involving a plane containing Gov. Reubin Askew and another aircraft some time ago to illustrate the control tower need.

"A control tower also would change the present flight patterns to keep airplanes away from residential areas," Rathel said.

He indicated Page would be willing to give an additional one per cent per gallon from fuel sales to the tower operation, but stressed that Page could not at present fund the $55,000 a year costs to staff the tower.

Rathel said the fixed base operator is "in the red" as far as the Sanford operation is concerned.

"Without a tower, we cannot have the customs station," Rathel concluded.

On recommendation from Chairman A. K. Shoemaker, Jr., the authority would set a work session with Rathel, Asker, with Joe Baker, Dr. Robert Rosemond and John Fitzpatrick, authority members, to discuss obtaining a tower.

The authority named John S. Bristol and Ralph H. Burke, engineering firms, to jointly undertake use development of a master plan study for the airport.

Court System Revamp Urged By Governor

MIAMI (AP) — Saying defendants are too often "guilty until proved innocent" in municipal courts, Gov. Reubin Askew campaigned Thursday for a proposed reorganization of the state's judicial system.

Using city courts as an example of bad justice, Askew called for passage of an amendment to the state constitution to streamline the judiciary into two levels — circuit and county courts.

The proposal goes to the voters March 10, and, if passed, would abolish municipal and justice of the peace courts among others.

Askew said city court judges have become dependent on police in many cases and justice was not being served.

The governor said he would not campaign as vigorously for the judicial reform as he did for passage of the corporate income tax law.

"I have found it a better part of wisdom to stay close to Tallahassee when the Legislature is in session," Askew said. The session begins Feb. 1.

Askew named a member of the Smith of Barrow to head a citizens committee that will tour the state campaigning for the proposed court reform.

In Jacksonville, Florida Supreme Court Justice Joseph A. Boyd Jr. said that many of the members of the high court backed the judicial reform.

"It's not perfect, but I think it's the best you are going to get," Boyd said.

Bar Association, "I think the changes it makes can be well justified."

Attend Church This Sunday

I am the resurrection and the life; he who believes in me, even if he die, shall live; and whoever lives and believes in me, shall never die.

John 11:25-26

THE NUMBER'S GAME

Here's the population explosion in personal terms. To the proud parents, it's their first child — and they love her! But to the statisticians, who deal only with cold facts, she's just one more person on an already crowded earth.

What a dilemma! We want children, but we want them to face a secure future. When almost no one is optimistic about the present, how can anyone look forward to the future?

Other generations have faced momentous problems. Yes, with God's help, they surmounted them.

And God — if we turn to His Church — will do the same for us!

Nixon's Huge Budget Request Written In A Deep Red Ink

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon handed Congress today a $243.3 billion budget for fiscal 1973 written in deep red ink. He announced two huge deficits—$38.8 billion this fiscal year and $33.5 billion next—and said they will help speed up the nation's economic recovery.

His budget message asked neither for further tax cuts to stimulate the slack economy nor for tax increases to meet the climbing costs of government, although his deficits are the two largest since World War II.

"Deficit spending at this time, like temporary wage and price controls, is strong but necessary medicine," Nixon said. Yet his message slapped repeatedly at the Democratic-controlled Congress for spending more than he had asked.

Revenues will rise "as the new prosperity takes hold," Nixon promised. This trend makes possible the smaller deficit for fiscal 1973, starting next July 1, he said, and "brings us strongly forward to ward our goal of a balanced budget in a time of full employment."

In asking $74.5 billion for defense, Nixon scheduled the first sizable increase in new weapons system spending in years, even while "we move to zero draft calls."

He asked $1.91 billion for space, a bit more than this year but aimed at less lofty exploration goals.

And the President unveiled, as a basic turn in national strategy, a government-splashed drive to speed technological progress, to cut costs, increase productivity and restore competitive leadership to American industry.

'Vietnam Draining Economy'

By HILL SCOTT
New York Mayor John Lindsay, 50-year-old former Republican-now-Democrat, visited Sanford Saturday afternoon on his campaign swing to seek votes to win him the state's Democratic presidential nomination on March 14.

The slim, tall, handsome mayor arrived at The Sanford Herald from DeLand shortly after 2 p.m. and spent almost 30 minutes with The Herald's editorial staff members before heading to the Sanford Plaza shopping center to shake hands with voters eager to meet the man, who might some day be their President.

Accompanied by an entourage of newspaper reporters and campaign workers, Mayor Lindsay seated himself behind the desk usually occupied by Stafford Derby, Herald editorial writer, and after placing a call to Miami, relaxed to answer the inevitable questions from Herald staffers.

"I have no interest in running for the vice presidency" (as had been rumored) was Lindsay's reply to the first query. He indicated the reason for his candidacy is to "change the direction of the country and stop the polarization of the races."

Major issue facing the country is the uncertainty of the voters over jobs, economics and the Vietnam War, Lindsay opined. He stated the war is associated with the economy and is draining "my city by $5 billion a year" to support it.

On a Florida issue, Lindsay said the space shuttle is not a high priority at this time due to the war. "I can use every man now being displaced by the cut-back in the space program in New York's ecology program," was the mayor's solution for finding jobs for engineers and technicians.

Lindsay said he favored the space program but not as long as the country is committed to high military expenditures.

The New Yorker said he was going after all voters in his campaign.

On question of a running mate, should he receive the Democratic nomination, Lindsay said, "The people should have a choice in selecting the vice president."

Hitting at another Democrat, George Wallace, also seeking the party's top spot and rumored to be especially strong in Florida, Lindsay called the Alabama senator "a threat to the country and added . . . everything I have fought for is the opposite of Wallace."

On the pocketbook issue, the mayor said rich people and oil interests are "getting off without paying taxes." He said the remedy is tax reform which will plug the loopholes that allow the rich to prosper without paying taxes.

After leaving The Herald, Lindsay was deluged by shoppers and spectators at the Sanford Plaza.

Mostly young girls and women swarmed around the delirious mayor, who signed a multitude of autographs while answering questions between signatures.

Orlando Critically Wounded

A Sunday shooting at the 436 Club in Altamonte Springs has put an Orlando man in Winter Park Hospital intensive care unit and an Altamonte Springs man has been arrested on assault with intent to commit murder charges.

Daniel Stokes, 558 West Anderson Street, is listed in "critical" condition, a hospital spokesman said, after he was wounded in the chest by a slug fired from a .38 caliber pistol, according to County Det. Sgt. John Wright Jr.

George Watkins Jr., 24, of 301 Salina Drive, is accused of shooting Stokes.

A second suspect has been arrested in the burning a year ago of Meadows Marine, Sanford boat and motor dealership located on the lakefront.

Eddie Booker Williams, 35, Apopka, was arrested after a Circuit Court warrant was served on him at his home.

He was lodged in Orange County jail in lieu of $1,000 bond on arson and breaking and entering charges.

Thomas Russell was the first suspect arrested on arson charges resulting from the burning of the marine dealership.

Russell, 32-year-old Sanford man, is free on $1,000 bond and is awaiting trial.

Two other men are being sought in connection with the burning incident, authorities said.

Highway Session Becomes Political

By JOHN SPOLSKI
"I am delighted to announce that the U.S. Department of Transportation — through our Urban Mass Transportation Administration — has approved a technical studies grant of over $100,000 that will have a significant effect upon future transportation here in the Orlando area."

These were the opening remarks of U.S. Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe as he spoke at a special press conference at Walt Disney World this past Saturday.

The grant, which involves $116,000 in federal funds, is to the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council.

Volpe's announced purpose in making this revelation was "clocked" with a sprinkling of "politics." Also sharing the speakers platform was U.S. Sen. Edward Gurney, who, after the first part of the program was seeded, turned their attention to answering questions from the press relative to the present administration.

"Would he take an active part in Mr. Nixon's campaign?" was the initial inquiry, to which a very definite Volpe response was, "You betcha."

The key issues on which voters would be motivated to cast their ballot were centered around the economy and a decline in the employment rolls, according to Volpe.

When pursued on whether the administration is eliminating the Vietnam War from "motivation," Volpe deferred by stating, "If the electorate takes into consideration that when Mr. Nixon took office we had 400,000 men there and since that time over 300,000 have been returned stateside, the voters definitely would vote in favor of the job which the President has done in this area."

Volpe was apprised of the tremendous impact which Auto-Train has had on the Central Florida area, specifically Sanford, to which he responded that "this is something which Amtrak should have done a long time ago."

Also attending this meeting were Florida's Secretary of Transportation Edward Mueller, and the executive director of the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council, Jack Glitting — both of whom said that they would be in Sanford the latter part of February when the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will host a meeting designed to complete the repaving of SR46 to U.S. 441 at Mt. Dora.

Lindsay Dark Horse In Presidential Race?

By FRED VAN FELT
ORLANDO — Anyone meeting John Lindsay in person very soon will realize he should not be written off this early in the race for the Democratic Party's nomination for president.

His political opponents scoff at him for changing parties; many top news columnists and commentators predict he will make no dent in the forthcoming party primary here in Florida . . . or in any other state.

But the man has a magnetism . . . some may want to use the now common word of charisma. In less than a minute of conversation he gives one "the feeling of a longtime acquaintance."

On ship, if not friendship, he launches right into a conversation as though it had been broken off only hours or minutes before.

This reporter had the privilege of watching the Mayor of New York City "perform" at a small gathering of news people Saturday night, long after the day's campaigning had stopped, here at the Sheraton Motor Inn.

It was not a news conference as such . . . it was a press party.

The advanced guard had said Lindsay would arrive at 9 p.m. At 9:30 he was explained he was tied up at a Jaycee dinner. At 10 we were told he would "be here in a few minutes." He did arrive at 10:30 . . . seems he was made to wait while the Jaycees waded through a long list of awards.

Lindsay's entourage numbered about as many as the press people present . . . at the most, 15 reporters and their spouses.

The Lindsay workers made it a point of "pairing off" with the news people . . . and Lindsay moved quickly and quietly from one group to another, talking a few minutes and moving on.

Everyone looked up to him . . . simply because he was the tallest person in the room. Slim, fifty-ish, some gray, tall and handsome. He should garner most of the distaff vote, if he gets the party nomination.

Lindsay did no politicking as such, and strangely no reporter was heard to ask political questions. Lindsay was a one-man Chamber of Commerce for his city of New York. He talked about the new underground construction, tunnels from here (Continued on Page 2 Col. 1)

Karate Expert

Yamamoto, head man of the school of Yoshukan Karate, and his wife, who are touring the United States from Japan, will be in Sanford Tuesday, together with Mike Foster, of Orlando, top man in Yoshukan in this country.

Yamamoto holds the eighth-degree black belt and Foster the sixth-degree black belt. They will stage a demonstration of Karate for students of Fred Kelley's School of Yoshukan and their relatives at 7 p.m.

This is Yamamoto's second visit to Sanford. He was here last year to stage a demonstration for Kelley's Karate students at Sanford Naval Academy. Kelley is holder of the third-degree black belt.

Casselberry Offers New Bid For Utility

By MARILYN GORDON
CASSELBERRY — Negotiations were resumed between the City of Casselberry and CASSUCO (City of Casselberry and South Seminole Utilities Company) for the purchase of the water and sewer systems.

City Attorney Kenneth McDonough spoke for the city in tendering an offer to purchase for $2 million at a bond period of 30 years at six per cent per year.

The city asked that it be allowed to pay only interest for the first five years. The offer was contingent on several conditions, including a need for additional property adjacent to tract between Howell Park water plant site and SR 436, 200 feet along Melody Lane adjacent to main water plant, two remote well sites 600,000 feet from existing wells at Melody Lane and Howell Park, five acres west of the sewage treatment plant and 20 acres north-west for spreading of effluent.

Attorney for CASSUCO, John Lowndes, speaking for Lester Mandell, major stockholder, pointed out that no property is available at the Howell Park Plant and that the rest does not belong to CASSUCO. It was estimated it would cost between $100,000 and $150,000 to acquire the additional land desired by the city.

The city also wants expansion control, design review and approval between now and the time that title would pass. CASSUCO is in the process of expanding the water system to 12 million gallons capacity.

Lowndes emphasized that the major stockholders would like same assurance that their needs would be met by the utilities in the future with regards to developing property now within the city.

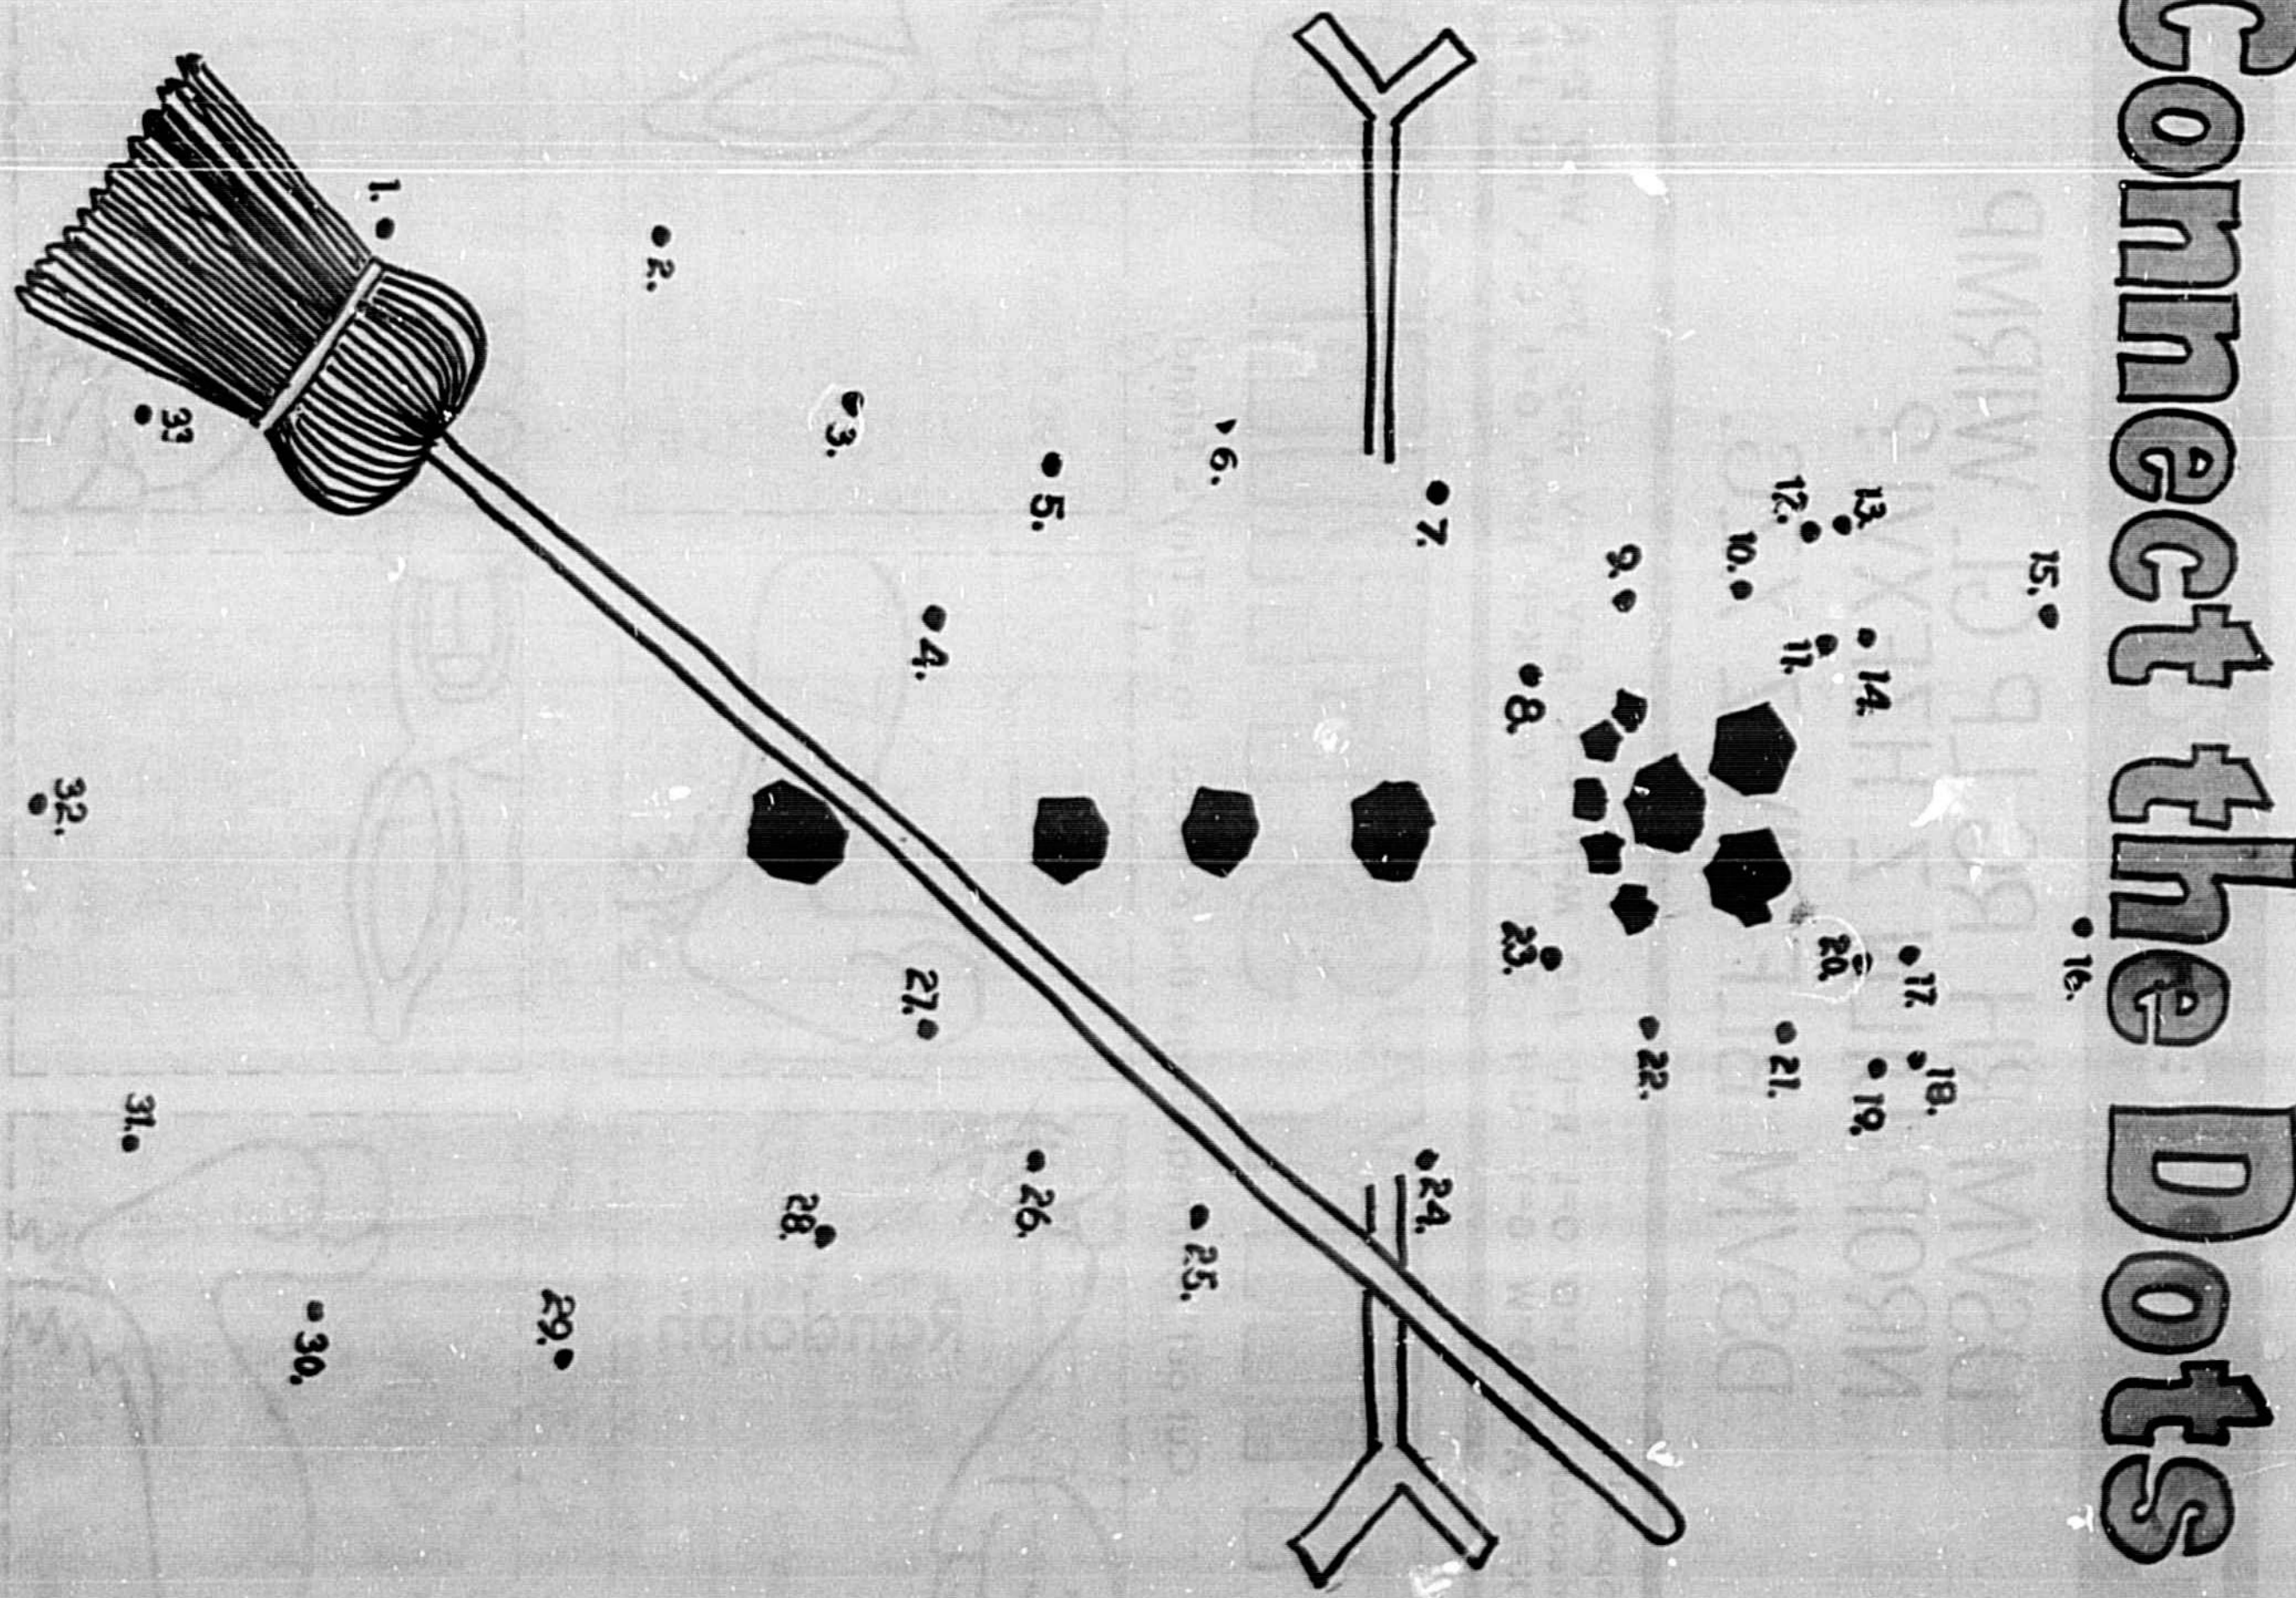

Council Chairman Edith Durr explained that it is the desire of the city to serve all who would fall within city limits and that price stockholders would receive the same rates and services all citizens would be entitled to but should expect no special rate.

Connect the Dots

AROUND THE CLOCK

By JOHN A. SPOLSKI
There's a huge packet of 150 letters in the mails today . . . addressed to Minister Huan Thuy, Delegation of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam, Paris, France . . . And it's from our "badgers" at the Orlando Naval Training Center, as they continue their quest to actively "FREE" the American POWs.

"We're proud to be playing a very small part in their efforts."

HAPPY BIRTHDAY . . . and what a day it's going to be, too! Maggie Zaskary, a patient at the Lakeview Nursing Center, is going to celebrate her 100th birthday this Friday from 2 to 4 p.m., with the invitation mat out for her many friends in this area. And thanks to Jane Miller for calling it to our attention . . .

About tonight's Sanford City Commission Meeting . . . hope that they hold fast to their proposed assessment of $400 for each individual unit which would be built in Sanford. Of this amount, $200 would go for water pollution controls and the other $200 into asphalt improvements.

It's the only logical way which is apparent to play "catch-up" on improving present conditions. It has been projected that there'll be another 6,000 units or approximately 20,000 persons, who'll be moving into Sanford within the next 10 years.

With the present 10 mills cap imposed, how else can the tax base be strengthened, other than by making the newcomers help to "foot the bill"?

Appreciate the note from Representative Bill Fuford, outlining some of the bills which he hopes to introduce at this session.

An especially interested in "regulation of airboats", and "limitation of the number of bills a legislator may introduce."

Attaboy, Bill!

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon urged Congress today to "step up the Treasury" by imposing a rigid ceiling to keep the federal spending within the $146.3 billion requested in his new re-ink budget.
