AUTO ACCIDENT PROVES FATAL TO LOCAL MAN

Fractured Skull Sustained By J.E. Spurling Who Succumbs In Sanford Hospital

Victim Is Pitched Headlong On Curb

Miss Rosalie Pope Is Driver Of Car That Hit Spurling's Auto

J. E. Spurling, Sanford real estate operator, was dead today following an automobile accident in which he sustained fatal injuries. Suffering from a fractured skull, Mr. Spurling was rushed to the Fernand-Laughton Hospital late yesterday afternoon and expired at 4:30 o'clock this morning without regaining consciousness.

The mishap occurred at Oak and Geneva avenues shortly after 6 o'clock when a Cadillac sedan, driven by Miss Rosalie Pope, collided at the street intersection with the Pierce-Arrow sedan driven by Mr. Spurling. A police investigation revealed that the Spurling machine had been struck on the left rear wheel, the impact sending the Pierce-Arrow skidding against a telephone pole at the northeast corner. Mr. Spurling was pitched from his car heading against the curbside.

Mr. Spurling had just entered Geneva Avenue from the south on Oak Avenue, Miss Pope, traveling east on Geneva, was driving at a moderate speed when the crash occurred, according to police. Miss Pope is said to have told friends that she did not see the other car and it is believed that Mr. Spurling did not note the approach of the machine driven by Miss Pope. The left front door of the Spurling machine was wrenched from its hinges and the crash of the car against the telephone pole sent Mr. Spurling's body hurtling through the window.

Local authorities who investigated the accident, today advanced the theory that Mr. Spurling may have unwittingly contributed to his own death. The manner in which the door was knocked off led the officers to believe that he may have attempted to open the door to jump immediately after the car was struck by the Pope machine. Belief was expressed that the impact with the telephone pole would not have wrenched the door off unless it had been driven from the lock.

Passing motorists rushed Mr. Spurling to the hospital where attending physicians after preliminary examination said his skull was so badly crushed he could not survive. After a fight in which every effort was made to save the victim, Mr. Spurling passed away early this morning. Miss Pope escaped with a sprained ankle, which she believed to have sustained when she

Argentina's Action To Not Delay Peace Efforts Of Group

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Argentina's refusal to accept membership on the Bolivian-Armenian conciliation commission has materially delayed matters and will do so today. The Argentine government, which is expected to file the differences between the two countries, will receive anyway just as soon as Mrs. De Medina, the Bolivian minister-responsible, instructions.

The Bolivian Government authorized the signing of a protocol "with further modifications," the State Department advised today, in a message to Minister Kaufman, of Another neutral South American country will be invited to Argentina. An invitation had been extended to Brazil to join the Pan American Conference. Argentine delegates, however, the present conference, and the commission will be offered to

New York Police Raids On Speakeasies Net Quantity Of Rum In Extensive Drive

"Strong Arm Squad," Acting Under Orders Of New Commissioner Whalen, Bring In Several Loads Of "Bacon"

NEW YORK, Jan. 3 (INS)—Half a dozen trucks and as many more taxicabs all loaded to capacity with confiscated liquor, rolled up to police headquarters early today following raids by Police Commissioner Whalen's men against speakeasies throughout the city. The seized rum was tested and Whalen announced that much of it had been found to contain wood alcohol.

The new "strong arm squad," which had been instrumental in "act like gentlemen at all times" to show no quarter among gangsters and proprietors of crime-speaking "speakeasies," created havoc in a raid on one place, the vintage smoke shop. Chairs were broken and mirrors and glasses were smashed by axe. Twenty-five men and women patrons scattered like rabbits as the raiders reduced the place to a shambles.

The raiders also visited several places on Broadway. They inaugurated a new policy of confiscating all rum found, instead of merely seizing samples. The commissioner said the raid resulted from thousands of letters from women who complained that their husbands and sons were spending most of their time and money at rum emporiums.

COAST LINE HEAD HARSH WILL FACE LAUDS RICH SOIL TRIAL ON JAN. 15 OF THIS COUNTY FOR MURDER OF 2

O. H. Page Tells Club What Shipments Represent In Dollars

An address by O. H. Page, Atlanta Coast Line official, who praised the productivity of Seminole County farm lands and insisted the growth of Sanford with that of the railroad, featured Wednesday's meeting of the Kiwanis Club. Mr. Page was present at the invitation of T. L. Dunns, who had charge of the program.

So closely related are the interests of Sanford and the Coast Line, Mr. Page declared that can was practically indispensable to the growth of the other section of the country in the opinion of Mr. Page, can compare with the Sanfor- Oviedo section in their advantages and prospects for development. The speaker quoted statistics to show the growth in agricultural shipments from this city.

In 1899 Sanford marketed four cars of celery and in 1918 the same had been increased to 1,600. How the output had jumped rapidly in recent years was revealed in figures which showed that 4,000 cars were shipped last season with a predicted output of 7,500 cars for this season. Total shipments of celery and other truck crops together with the citrus output give the county a production of 16,000 to 12,000 cars a year. The value is between six and eight million dollars, the speaker said.

What the Coast Line means to Sanford was shown in other statistics. One third of the Sanford population, the speaker said, represents railroad employees and their families. Demonstrating the extensiveness of local holdings, Mr. Page said his company pays annually $25,000 in taxes to the city and $50,000 to the county and state.

Church Ousts Two Georgia Ministers For Law Infraction

ATLANTA, Jan. 3 (INS)—Two Georgia ministers, one a Presbyterian and the other a Baptist, today stood ousted by their church after allegations were made that they refused to abide by their church's laws.

The Rev. T. J. Pender, former pastor of the Waycross, Ga., Presbyterian Church was removed by the presbytery of Savannah after allegations were brought forth that he violated his ordination vows.

At Jeffersonville, Ga., a controversy between deacons of the Baptist Church and the Rev. W. G. Davis, former pastor of the church resulted in the牧师 being forced to move from his church's pastorate by an ultimatum signed by Circuit Judge R. L. Camp. The pastor, according to the deacons, would not leave, and he refused to move to another town.

It was because of the success of his mission work that an emergency call for $10,000 was made during the past three years. Dr. Pender said and he believes, to many were not in his favor, that missions must be calling or donations will be offered to him.

Dr. Medina, however, said at that time it is probable that the invitation will be accepted.

Louisiana Governor Decides Not To Inter-Returned By Court

Double Hanging Slated Saturday

Women's Clubs, Jurors And Others Send In Pleas For Clemency

FRANKLIN, La., Jan. 3 (INS)—Forty-eight hours before the date set for their execution, the condemned罪犯, Dr. T. D. Drayton, companion to the slayers of the former lambards, earned today that his last hope had flickered away.

There had been no one person who could have saved the condemned罪犯 from the date set which may have been determined by the court. He was Governor Huey P. Long, of Louisiana. He could have spared them their sentence to imprisonment.

However, the governor has already definitely said he will not intervene in the double hanging of the man and woman set for execution on Jan. 15.

Ortiz, 31, a Negro, was arrested on Saturday evening, and Sheriff Charles Gandy, and Drayton, a doctor, were charged with the killing of Mrs. Leona McRae, wife of Frank McRae, a Negro, who was shot to death in a barbershop in Franklin. The doctor and his wife were arrested on suspicion of having killed Mrs. McRae.

A close study of the case, parallel to the famous Grayson-Chesterfield murder, was made by Drayton, who learned of the chief evidence against the doctor, Drayton, and his wife, who turned her back and gazed out of the window at his cell.

It was announced that the two students will be tried separately for the murders of E. H. Meeks and W. C. Smith, Atlanta store clerks. The legal defense for the life of the former McRae, Mrs. McRae, wife, youth will bring together on opposite sides an array of the South's most brilliant legal talents.

Fear Is Felt For Endurance Plane

METROPOLITAN AIRPORT, LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 3 (INS)—Fear that the flying endurance plane, "Queen of the Mark," had been forced down somewhere in the rugged San Fernando Valley were expressed today by army officers here following receipt of an urgent request from the plane's crew for gasoline and the announcement of failure of aircraft to find the big craft. The message was dropped from the endurance plane at 2:30 A. M. and no word has been received from Major Spotts, who was sent to search planes seen near Mountain Man.

AVIATOR LEAVES TO CARRY SERUM TO ARCTIC AREAS

Noted British Ace Answers Mercy Call For Diphtheria Cure

EDMONTON, Alta., Canada, Jan. 3 (INS)—In answer to a call from the vast reaches of the Arctic to come to its aid in saving the lives of the former lambards, Captain Alfred C. May, intend to Edouard aviator and noted air force during the World War, was flying Little Red River today with 20,000 units of antitoxin. One man is already dead, another is dying and the serum is urgently needed to prevent a spread of the disease at the post, which is about 100 miles north of Fort Vermilion and about 500 miles from Edmonton in a direct line.

Captain May was to leave McLean this morning in his commercial plane on the last leg of his trip to the Arctic. He is expected to reach his destination by noon today. The plane took off from the Edmonton and Northern Alberta Aero Club flying field at 12:45 P. M. It is expected to arrive in the afternoon.

The machine is open and in order to prepare the pilot for the arctic cold weather, a specially prepared electrically heated suit had to be manufactured.

In the ordinary course of events about two weeks at least and possibly more would be required to transport the serum to the Arctic. Quick action was required and officials of the aero club were consulted. Captain May, hearing of the plight of the isolated patients in the wilderness of the North, promptly volunteered for the race against death.

However, the governor did consider the case, and for the past few days he has reviewed the voluminous transcript of testimony at their trial and the pardon board hearings. And last night from Justice Renge, the state capital he announced that he had made up his mind and would not interfere with the sentence of the court.

Women's club organization, 11 of the 12 jurors who brought in the hanging verdict, newspaper reporters who covered the LaBrea trial, and individuals in every walk of life, have announced that they will pursue Ortiz, Harsh, Gallogly or whatever they wanted to do.

According to Harsh's alleged police confession, he and Gallogly embarked upon a career of crime while university students here, nearly "for fun." They had planned to commit murder, was not intended what the defense they will pursue.

Unlikely Harsh, Gallogly has steadfastly denied any connection with the condemned罪犯.

Election Expense Will Make Record

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3 (INS)—Any doubt about the Hoover-Brian contest being the most expensive presidential campaign in history was dispelled today when party organizations, large and small, figuratively threw open their financial ledgers for public inspection by filing their reports with the House of Representatives.

The two major parties admit having expended nearly $12,000,000. As politicians reckoned it, however, this is only half the story. When the amounts expended by minor organizations and thousands of individuals—of which there are no official records—are taken into consideration, it is not improbable, they say, that the 1932 election cost in the neighborhood of $25,000,000.

ONE YEAR AGO, The Sanford Atlantic National Bank opened its doors in response to Sanford's need for additional banking service. That this need was real has been shown by the splendid patronage this bank has received and the position it has assumed in the financial and business life of the community.

A bank's service to its customers can extend far beyond the safekeeping of funds or lending of money. If it has information, vision and experience, it can be a silent partner, aiding with its knowledge and resources in extending markets, increasing production and the adjusting of changed conditions. These things this bank has endeavored to do.

Our growth during this first year has been made possible by the smallest depositor as well as the largest. To each and every one of these depositors, we express sincere appreciation.

The following statement of condition indicates our progress since January 3rd, 1928.

Between $10 and $50 in checks and cash were stolen from the cash register by thieves who gained entrance to the establishment through a large hole in the plate glass windows. The robbers are believed to have shattered the glass with a brick and then made their haul. The theft is believed to have occurred around midnight Monday night. No arrests have been made in the case.

Coughs from Flu May Weaken Your System and Lead to Serious Trouble

You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote. It is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the irritated mucous membranes and inhibits germ growth. Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agents for coughs from colds and bronchial irritations. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and stop the irritation, while the creosote gets to work.

When John D. Rockefeller said That in these parous times
The man who means to get ahead Must daily save his dimes, I strove my prospects to increase,
And counted lost the day When one bright, shining ten-cent piece
I had not stowed away.

Although I tried to buy a car And build a new abode, Never dared to broach the jar In which the dimes were stowed.

If I but emuliate John D.,

I always need to say,

Each passing year, perhaps I'll be

A man of wealth some day."

Each evening with a furrowed brow.

These hundred dimes I count And find they total, even now, A very small amount.
Meanwhile—I hear that Henry Ford

Has risen to contend That riches pass by those who have heard.

And comes to those who spend.

No fortune shall I ever reap.

I count my hard-earned all,
And find the tarnished silver next is infinitely small.

It might have brought a rich rewards.

I spent a dime or two; sure to wish that Henry Ford, Had spoken long before.

In An Enviable Position

Those who still cling with reverential respect to the traditions of their fathers and grandfathers, will receive with a great deal of interest the recent announcement that suspenders are still holding their own despite the keenest kind of competition from their ancient rival, the well known belt. How well the suspenders are holding up is reflected in figures supplied by the United States Census Bureau, which announces that during the past twelve months more than one million dozen pairs have been manufactured. In other words, there was a pair of suspenders for every tenth man, woman or child during the past year, and this as the Miami Herald points out is "pretty well for an unfashionable and dying industry."

The subject of suspenders calls to mind the story of a prominent man of past years, who insisted that the "galluses" of yesteryear were the greatest invention known to man. He argued that electricity didn't even compare with the discovery of suspenders, and backed up his judgment with the declaration that all the electrical power in the world couldn't hold up his trousers yet a little fifty-cent pair of galluses could turn the trick.

Despite the insistence of the suspender champions there can be no doubt that galluses are gradually going out. How long it will take for suspenders to become extinct no one can foresee but it seems reasonable to believe that in the not far distant future their usefulness will be confined to keeping up only the trousers of dress suits. In that position they will fill a lofty place, and it seems but a fitting tribute that galluses, in their declining years, should have the honor of working in such a restricted field.

As bosom companion to the man who is attired in formal dress, suspenders will continue to have entree to the most fashionable social functions of the land. One can see the old-time galluses, dressed up in new and gaudy colors, nestling comfortably against their owners, while their fair gloat over their ability to crash in where their hated rivals fear to tread. Indeed, the plight of the suspenders is not so bad. It's better to be a big frog in a little pond than a little frog in a big pond.

Strange Tracks

Speaking of "footprints on the sands of time," what about those dinosaur tracks recently discovered under Sugar Loaf Mountain by Yale paleontologists? There, four hundred feet below the summits, in solid rock, were found fifty enormous footprints of animals that lived a hundred million years ago.

"Announcements of the discoveries," says the New York Herald Tribune, "reveals that, for what is believed to be the first time, fossil vertebrates have been collected from great distances in the earth through extensive tunneling. The Yale work was done in a bore nearly three miles long. Dr. Malcolm R. Thorpe, curator of vertebrate paleontology of Peabody Museum of Yale, and his staff hunted the fossils.

"In the garb of hard-rock miners, with air-drills for tools, they cut the tracks out of solid rocks which the tent-hands penetrated. One slab thus cut weighed 300 pounds. Many of the footprints came from the roof of the bore.

The tunnel crossed for a mile and a half, several layers of rock bearing tracks of dinosaurs and other four-footed reptiles, and probably of amphibians. With scarcely an exception the footprints pointed North and South. Reconstructing the scene of millions of years ago, Dr. Thorpe thought that a river probably flowed from the North and that the animals followed a course parallel to a North and South waterway.

"Most of the tracks recovered were of dinosaurs, ranging from animals as big as large tabby cats to 80-foot beasts. The majority of the dinosaur tracks were of the carnivorous species, those with vulture-like, grasping claws in their toes. Herbivorous species were present.

The footprints ranged from an inch and a half long to about two feet. There were found also fossil fishes, ancestors of the sturgeons, garpikes and bowfins of today. Other fossils were branches of trees, mostly varieties of conifers. The tunnel prints extended by ten miles the known range of dinosaurs in the Connecticut valley and by many thousand years the known duration of existence of several of the species."

THIRTEEN MONTHS TO THE YEAR COLUMBUS GA. ENQUIRER-SUN

The question of a simplification of the calendar is to be discussed in Congress during the post-holiday session. In the meantime, a committee of the League of Nations has had the matter under consideration but finds that the only general interest in Europe in any change is the stabilization of East Asia. And to do this, says the New York Times, involves a change so momentous that all the churches would have to be consulted. It is interesting to note that though America is taking up the proposal to change the calendar, neither England nor America adopted the Gregorian calendar until it had calated 170 years.

Stephen O. Purvis, chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee of the House of Representatives, who favors an international fixed calendar, thirteen months with twenty-eight days each, advised a committee of the Senate to do the same thing in 1928. The committee accepted his suggestion and the bill was introduced into the Senate.

Advantages of the proposed calendar, according to Mr. Purvis, would be that all months would have the same number of working days; Sundays and Sundays are directly comparable; each month would have the same number of weeks; weekly fractions of weeks; month ends being eliminated; shifting of day names to date in every calendar month; and year would be rounded and the time of astronomical date for public holidays would remain the same.

Now that the younger generation has gone back to school after the holidays, the older generation may review its youth again.

Florida's east coast becomes a grandstand this weekend for the attempt of the American Ward Line, backed by the United States Shipping Board, to oust the British Cunard Line from the New York-Havana steamship trade.
The shipping board has allocated to the Ward Line the passenger liner "President Roosevelt" which sails from New York January 6th carrying passengers at a rate cut thirty-five percent below that of the Cunard liner "Caronia" which sails on the same day. The Cunard line declares the shipping board is guilty of an attempted restriction on international trade. It proposes to appeal to the courts.
Meanwhile, however, the Caron and the President Roosevelt become the principal actors in a drama of the high seas whose plot may live in many ways the blues waters off Florida's east coast.

One Christmas present which failed to arrive was the expected award to Secretary of State Kellogg of the annual $25,000 prize offered by the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation for the year's outstanding contribution to world peace. The directors have announced that Mr. Kellogg's famous peace pact renouncing war as an instrument of national policy is too weak and timid an imitation to be worthy of the award. With all respect to these gentlemen it seems to us that Woodrow Wilson himself would have assumed a very different attitude if he were alive.

The Kellogg pact is easily the most stable step of the last year to ward world peace. Its ultimate value will depend on the strength of the international support given it and the courage with which the spirit of it is sustained. This being the case, the directors of the Woodrow Wilson Memorial Foundation have served the cause of peace not at all gratuitously by describing Secretary Kellogg's work as "weak and timid."

Being original is not always giving right or best. Prohibition Commissioner Doran says that Mal. In Almack, the California schoolboy who won $5,000 for an essay on liquor law enforcement, had a far better claim to Mr. Duran's prize for a solution of the prohibition problem than did Major Mills who won it. Almack's solution was a campaign of education to convince the country that prohibition is worth having. Everybody knows that prohibition will not work as it should until public opinion supports it more loyally than it does at present. If Mr.
Durant's prize had been given for a solution of this kind, thousands of entrants in the contest would have been tied for first place. But that does not make it any the less real and only solution.

Owing to a slight miscalculation scientists announce that the age of the earth is not 500,000,000 years as hitherto stated but 900, 000,000 years. The New York stock market has held up remarkably in face of this shocking announcement.

The withering flight of age or a great screen career is suggested in the announcement that Douglass Fairbanks will play the part of Napoleon in a cinema production in this play, as we remember it.
Napoleon is supposed to have been dead ten years.

Elbert H. Gary, who was for many years head of the vast Uni-ited States Steel Corporation, left an estate of only $14,416,072. This seems surprisingly small for a man who founded houses with Carnegie and Schwab. But it represents an income of about a million a year and if you want to pass a delightful hot-fudge statistical evening sit down and try to imagine how you could spend a million a year on current expenses.

Now that the younger generation has gone back to school after the holidays, the older generation may review its youth again.

FLORIDA'S SPLENDID HEALTH RECORD

JACKSONVILLE TIMES-UNION

Florida sunshine is one of the best remedies for almost anything that might afflict the human family and its efficacy in restoring health and reducing the mortality rate is aided by excellent administration of the state and community boards of health, registration systems and the many fine institutions where particular care is given when trouble comes. Florida has assumed a very healthy attitude towards her natural advantages to a great extent, and gives full credit to the wonderful climate for continued health and the very low death rate, but does not neglect anything which would contribute to the full enjoyment of life for home folks and visitors. The various boards of health are always alert to possibilities and take precautions that are sometimes thought unnecessary by the laity; but their work has been effective and continues to advance with every scientific discovery and through continual watchfulness.

Announcement from Tallahassee giving some details of the latest report received from the United States Department of Commerce, show that in 1927, the complete returns showed Florida twenty-fifth in the list of states for number of deaths per 1,000 population in 1927, having reduced two at since 1926. The figures show two thousand fewer deaths for the year just computed, and a percentage of 13.3 against 15.2 in 1926. The highest rate in 1927 was shown for California, New Hampshire and Vermont, and the lowest death rate was established by Idaho.

Mortality statistics are not the most cheerful reading in any ordinary instance, but they can be found quite interesting when the figures indicate a steady decline, and there is good reason for elation improvement in health protective measures. Florida invites the world to come and enjoy her sunshine, and the invitation is accepted by thousands who for one reason or another need the outdoor life that cannot be had in many places.
With all the disadvantages that would thus be suggested in the inflow of invalids and those who are convinced of suffering from overwork the state yet holds an enviable place in the record of states, with a death record but slightly higher than half of all other states. The twenty-fifth position in the list is splendid, and the evidence of improvement in the figures of the past few years is remarkable.

With a large percentage of colored population everywhere showing a higher death rate because of the failure of very many colored people to accept the opportunity which is easily theirs for better care, the Florida figures are even more interesting. When the death rate figures alone are taken the state shows 11.7 per 1,000, which is within a fraction of the registration area figures, these being the low rate for many years.

It is said that Mrs. Chester Mills almost beat her husband out in winning the Duran $25,000 prohibition prize. Trying to prevent their husbands from violating the dry laws ought to give some wives valuable pointers on enforcement.

New York Paper Declares Jack Dempsey Has Agreed To Fight For Championship

States Rickard Will Make Announcement In Short Time And That Dempsey Has Accepted Promoter's Terms

International News Service

Sports Editor

Davis J. Walsh

NEW YORK, Jan. 3.—Jack

Dempsey will return to the ring once more, and for the last time, in a heavyweight championship fight late next summer, it was definitely declared by Ed Frayne in today's New York American. Stating that he had positive information to the effect that the old champion had accepted terms, the author of the article then went on to say that Rickard will make an official announcement of the fact next week, adding that Rickard "already has the statement prepared and ready" and to this particular observation, I prefer to add however, since we are all in the groove telling stories on our authority, I think I'll now tell you what I really can have me believe. That remark—he will fight only against one of the following two men: Jack Sharkey, whom he already has licked; Paulino Uzcudun, whom he thinks he can lick; W. L. (Young) Strubling whom he hopes he can lick; and Tom Heeney, whom he knows he can beat.

That definitely is the program—Jack Dempsey returns to the ring and if I was saying, nobody can go around uttering my name without a crack like that.

"Loughlin, the light heavyweight champion, will not be allowed to enter the ring again. Dempsey has learned that his three-fight losing streak before and after his fight with Sharkey was like a dead weight on the program, so it is the discipline of the fighters that dictates the program, all it depends on is the discipline of the fighters."
