'Zip Code' In Effect Today On All Mail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Post Office Department put into effect today its program to give every mailing address a number. The new system is called "zip code" and is designed to help speed mail deliveries.

The department planned to mail 78 million cards to every mailbox in the country. The card informs the addressee of his five-digit "zip code" number and provides a brief explanation of the system.

The Post-Office Department wants everyone to put the number after the name of his city and state when writing his return address. The number also should be used in addressing mail to persons who have included it in their return addresses.

"Zip code," or some improvement program, has been invented for the day when all letters will be pre-sorted by machines. The Post Office Department said that it is easier to develop a machine which reads numbers because there are less variations of numerals than there are of letters.

Two Top Measures Face Lawmakers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress went into the second half of the year today with the outlook for legislation action confined largely to two major issues—civil rights and a tax cut.

More and more members are agreed that nothing much will be done before adjournment late this year except in the

NAACP Opens 'Most Vital' Convention

CHICAGO (UPI) — The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, longtime leader and symbol of the battle for civil rights, opened perhaps the most significant convention of its 54-year history today.

From 1,600 to 2,000 delegates will spend six days planning new programs and tactics for advancing the cause of racial integration and equal rights.

JFK In Rome, Confers With Italy's Leaders

ROME (UPI) — Roman crowds, lined five deep at some spots, cheered President Kennedy and scuffled with police for a closer look today as he drove through the Eternal City on the first day of a visit that will include a historic meeting with Pope Paul VI.

Kennedy conferred with Italian President Antonio Segni and Premier Giovanni Leone shortly after he arrived in Rome from Milan after spending the night at a Lake Como resort in northern Italy.

Drowned Youth's Rites Wednesday

Funeral services for Robert Jerry Arndt Jr., 19, of Oviedo, who was drowned Saturday, will be conducted by Rev. Stephen M. Tuhy at 2 p.m. Wednesday at St. Luke's Lutheran Church, Slavia. Burial will be in the church cemetery.

Arndt, active in 4-H work in the Oviedo area, was attending a church picnic Saturday afternoon at Little Lake Georgia.

Sheriff J. L. Hobby reported that at about 4 p.m. Arndt went out alone in a boat and that it soon was noticed he was in the boat. It was presumed a ski-tow line had fouled on his propeller and the youth fell from the boat in attempting to free it.

Murder Suspect Faces Court

Nelson Moore, Negro, of 1104 1/2 Locust Avenue, facing a charge of first degree murder, was to be arraigned this afternoon before County Judge Vernon Mize. Moore is being held in county jail without bond.

Police Chief Roy Williams said today that Lula Gaines, Negro, 77, also of 1104 1/2 Locust Avenue died at 11:30 a.m. Sunday as the result of a blow on the head. She died at Orange Memorial Hospital, Orlando.

Water Problem Reported Worse

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall said Sunday that the nation's water conservation problem is becoming increasingly serious because rivers have been turned into sewers.

Udall said on a radio-televised program that increased industrialization coupled with expanding population had made water "one of the really serious natural resource problems" of the United States.

It Costs More Today
Florida's dig out extra tax pennies

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — If you didn't buy it before today, you lost money on the deal. The price just went up.

Floridians started digging for extra tax pennies today and those coppers will amount to an estimated $160 million in state revenue over the next two years.

Be it an automobile, a fishing rod, a carton of smokes, or whatever, it'll cost Floridians more than in the past.

The recent legislature raised taxes on such popular items as cigarettes and whisky during the past months and spread Florida's three per cent sales tax to cover most items bought in stores.

The purpose is to raise state income over the next biennium to meet a record of $987 million in spending until the legislature meets two years hence.

Most of the new taxes, including a three-cent-a-pack cigarette tax on smokes, went into effect today. The beer, wine and whisky tax doesn't go into effect until Aug. 1, however.

One of the boosts which will be felt more than all of the others—even the cigarette tax—is a five per cent wholesale tax on sporting goods to help finance Gov. Farris Bryant's land recreation program. If the wholesalers have to dig, then some of the burden is going to be passed onto the retailers and thence to the customer.

Experts have estimated that the average cost to families in taxes will be about $50 a year.

Others who will be hit by the new taxes will be sports fan who like to go watch the ball game, or go to the race tracks.

Taxes have been set on admission to sporting events, racing and jai-alai frontons.

The new taxes even touch airplane owners by putting a sales tax on gasoline used in airplanes. It also puts a bigger levy on sale of industrial machinery, taxes appliance and like repair bills and rental housing.

The law puts the sales tax were added to voter registration and extends it effect on all apartment rentals from six months to a full year.

Key Witness Draws Crowd At Airport

LONDON (UPI) — An 18-year-old playgirl—key witness in Britain's sex and security scandal—drew a crowd of hundreds at London Airport today.

Airlines personnel, travelers and tourists gathered for a look at Marilyn Manly Rice-Davis when she arrived for a holiday flight to Majorca.

Her flight was delayed 30 minutes while she posed for news photographers and tourists.

Some of them thought she was royalty as she was escorted to her plane by airport police.

"Who is this nice young lady?" an unidentified American tourist asked.

"I'm notorious," Miss Rice-Davis replied. "I shall go down in history as another Lady Hamilton"—the mistress of Lord Nelson.

Miss Rice-Davis is a friend of Christine Keeler whose relations with War Minister John Profumo resulted in his resignation.

'One Kiss' Helps Win Miss Florida Title

SARASOTA (UPI) — Curvy Flora Jo Chandonnet of Miami who says she boned up on her voice lessons "madly," is the new Miss Florida of 1968.

Miss Chandonnet, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Ostrin, of North Miami, sang and smiled her way to the title here Saturday night in her second attempt at winning the coveted award.

She is the winner of a $1,000 scholarship and the right to represent Florida in the Miss America Pageant at Atlantic City this summer. She said after winning the title, she would use the scholarship money to finish training as a dental technician.

The pretty brunette, who shows big dimples when she smiles and sports 34-24-34 credentials, says she was "more mature" this year than when she finished third in last year's contest.

In addition to her impressive rendition of "One Kiss" as her talent in the finals, Miss Chandonnet won preliminary titles in the bathing suit and evening gown divisions.

She also told judges, in answer to one of the questions asked of all five finalists from the field of 40, that if she had a choice of whom she would like to go to the moon with the first time she goes:

Longwood Hall Is Discussed

The Longwood City Council, meeting in adjourned session Friday night, passed a city ordinance relating to the state increase in cigarette taxes and continued discussion on plans for the new city hall which are expected to be completed and approved within the month.

In other business, Mayor A. R. Lormann announced that Longwood would be ringing the church bells on Independence Day in compliance with Gov. Farris Bryant's request to all cities in the state.

This month's meeting of the council, which normally would be held on Thursday, was postponed until July 11.

NAS Will 'See' 200-Mile Storms

Aerologists at Sanford Naval Air Station will soon be able to "see" thunderstorms and other weather disturbances at distances of 200 miles.

Their "eyes" in this case will be a long-range weather-tracking radar which is being installed atop a 65-foot tower near the NAS maintenance hangar. Cost of the project, including the radar equipment, is about $50,000.

This includes the cost of transporting the support tower from Miami's Master's Field, a now defunct Marine air station which is the current site of Dade County Junior College.

The tower was recently hoisted upright by a mobile crane with 100-foot boom. Officials in the NAS public works department expect the new weather tower to be operational in early July.

Sherkade Construction Company, of Yonkers, N. Y., is primary contractor for the project. The radar set was manufactured by the Curtis-Wright Company.

The new system will enable NAS aerologists to track the development of thunderstorms day or night.

Kids On Trips

CHICAGO (UPI) — On long vacation trips with the children stop at least every two hours and let the children run a minute or two, the American Academy of Pediatrics suggests.

The Academy also liked the idea of trying to make an easy "500 miles a day" during an auto trip with children. "Three hundred to 350 miles a day is sufficient," the Academy explained.

Charles Kampf Installed As Civitan Head

Retiring president Joe Denison of Civitans, reporting a "most successful year," turned the gavel over to incoming leader Charles Kampf at the club's annual banquet at Lake Monroe Inn.

Past president John Brunley served as installing officer, charging the new officers with the duties of their station. Assuming the office of president-elect was Robert Brisson; Tom Price, vice president; Clyde Long, secretary, and William Klinefelter, treasurer.

New directors of the organization will be Dr. A. W. Woodall, John Brunley and William Slayton.

In relinquishing his position, Denison called attention to the Civitan's fruitcake sale, during the Christmas season when over 4,000 pounds were sold, with a contribution of $500 being made to the Little Red Schoolhouse.

He called the bathing beauty contest which the club sponsored for the Semi-Centennial, "one of our most enjoyable and successful projects to date," and urged that it be continued.

Denison noted that the Civitan-sponsored Babe Ruth baseball team was last year's city champions.

In accepting the gavel, new President Charles Kampf reminded the club that they are a service organization and suggested that "our aim for the next year be greater expenditures of ourselves and our time in service to the community as well as financial expenditure."

In closing, the entire assembly of Civitans, wives and guests read the impressive Civitan creed in unison.

After dinner and installation ceremonies, the club was entertained by a three-piece combo formed by members of the organization, including Bill Klinefelter, Mel Young and Bill Slayton.

He was born in Floyd County, Ga., Sept. 5, 1895 and made his home in Rome, Ga., for 50 years before coming to Sanford 10 years ago. He resided at 507 Park Ave.

Mr. Johnson is survived by his wife, Mrs. Lydia Johnson of Sanford; three daughters, Mrs. Ray Blanton, Sanford; Mrs. E. C. Johnson of Florida City; Mrs. John L. Carter of Cedarport, Ga.; one son, Leroy Johnson of Rome, ten grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Medicare

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The average per capita expenditure for medical care of persons 65 or over during 1967 was $315, two and one-half times the $128 average for persons under 65, reports Donald P. Kent, director of the Office of Aging.

Figured another way: approximately 20 per cent of all expenditures made for personal health services in the United States in '67 went for the care of the nine per cent of the population aged 65 and over.

Art Collection Brings $3 Million

LONDON (UPI) — Free-spending bidders paid a world record of nearly $3 million

Kid Stuff

HOUSTON, Tex. (NEA) — Hal Woodshick gives a large share of the credit for his success to Rusty Staub, the Houston Colt .45' 19-year-old recruit first baseman-outfielder.

Woodshick, veteran pitcher, relates that he was throwing with Staub before an exhibition game in the spring and noticed that the kid was "throwing some pitch that looked good." The left-hander inquired about it and was told, "It's my slider."

Woodshick took a close-up look at Staub's grip and abandoned his former slider in favor of the new discovery. "I now have the best slider I ever had," he says.

for a collection of French Impressionist paintings kept out of sight by their reclusive owner during the past 40 years.

Scottish charities will receive the proceeds — after taxes — of the $2,912,052 auction sales of 17 paintings and one bust from the collection of the late William A. Gargill, a Scottish oil and shipping magnate.

Gargill, who died last year without heirs, lived as a recluse and permitted few persons to see the collection he had put together at bargain prices in the early 1920s.

Sotheby's Galleries were jammed for the record auction, which exceeded the previous high total of $2.2 million for a modern art collection. That price also was paid at Sotheby's, for seven Impressionist paintings of the Erwin Goldschmidt collection auctioned in 1958.

"Danseuse Basculant," a pastel ballet scene by Degas, brought the top price of $244,000. The 26-by-14 inch work had been exhibited only three times since it was painted in about 1879.

Some of the collection's highly touted paintings failed to arouse the expected interest among the choosy bidders. A Cezanne landscape thought capable of bringing $250,000 sold for $106,000.

A Degas oil of ballet dancers brought $134,000 instead of the predicted $280,000.

Reds' Ties Seen Doomed

MOSCOW (UPI) — Relations between Russia and Communist China were at a new low today. The coming Communist "peace" talks appeared doomed to failure.

In the light of increasingly violent declarations and actions on both sides in recent days, Western diplomats here forecast a deadlock at best on the showdown negotiations that could decide the future of the entire Communist movement.

Whether this would lead to a formal split among the world's Communist parties into Peking and Moscow factions remained unclear.

The Peking regime announced Sunday night it would send its negotiating team to Moscow as scheduled, but emphasized the team had instructions to hold firm on the key ideological and political issues separating the two Communist giants. The talks are to begin Friday.

The Central Committee of the Chinese Communist party in a statement broadcast by the official New China News Agency on the 42nd birthday of the party, said recent Soviet actions were "highly regrettable."

The statement renewed China's condemnation of Nikita Khrushchev's dual co-existence policy, a factor in the quarrel. Chinese take a more militant line toward the West, who not exclude nuclear war as a means of spreading communism.

China also protested that Russians raised a Communist party quarrel to the detriment of relations with other Communist states. Chinese diplomats and students in Moscow they distributed in a June 14 Chinese newspaper a strongly attacking Khrushchev's policies.

Reform Needed

The transfer of power from a retiring president to a newcomer, especially if a change of party is involved, has become one of the most complex, cumbersome tasks of U. S. democracy.

Many persons caught up in the takeover by Dwight Eisenhower in 1953 or President Kennedy in 1961 will testify to the great difficulties.

The November-January transition is a gray, never-never land in which the world looks to the new president, who does not yet know his job, and largely by-passes the incumbent, who does know the work.

Any circumstances which materially added to this seemingly inevitable confusion might by fact seriously increase the peril inherent in the change-over. Passed-up authority does not suit an age when maximum national danger can arise on an instant.

Yet this would appear to be a probable consequence of any presidential election which failed to yield an electoral majority for one candidate or another and thereby threw the decision into the House of Representatives—as prescribed by the Constitution.

Even though summoned immediately, as the law demands, such a session might be days in achieving a result. In the meantime the nation, and the world, would be stewing in doubt.

Decision by the House is the stated intent of those states such as Alabama, Georgia and Mississippi, which have authorized the choosing of unpledged electors in presidential voting.

If they and some other states should pursue this course, thereby subtracting a substantial number of electoral votes from the totals available to the declared party nominees, the result could be to hand the House the decision.

This almost happened in the Truman-Dewey contest of 1948. It could occur in a close 1964 election.

It is a good bet, however, that the American people would let it happen only once. The likely turmoil in the House, especially if the nation or the world were in some sort of crisis, would give a huge push to preventive electoral college reform.

Such reform is under study right now by Sen. Estes Kefauver's Committee on Constitutional Amendments.

But the sense of urgency is lacking. A wide variety of plans clamor for attention. There is no evident consensus for any single one.

Some observers feel that at most Congress might endorse a plan to eliminate the electors as persons but retain electoral votes. This would destroy the prospect of independent action by electors.

The electoral votes in each state would go wholly to the candidate gaining a plurality there. There would be no division of a state's electoral vote according to the proportions of the November popular vote, or by congressional districts, as some have urged.

Yet even this simple reform may look like a long step to a country which has not to date felt the paralysis of an inconclusive election.

Franco Raises Ante

When the United States and Spain negotiated their 1953 agreement on U. S. naval and air bases in Spain, both sides won important benefits.

The United States won a valuable forward base against Communist aggression and Spain a much-needed economic shot in the arm plus a start toward re-entry into the family of nations.

Now, amid considerable secrecy but with some of the facts known, they are approaching a re-negotiation of the agreement which expires in September.

Both sides seek certain gains. A somewhat similar agreement with Portugal on the Azores already has expired, with negotiations at present reported deadlocked but by no means abandoned.

Both the Spanish and the Portuguese agreements bear heavily on U. S. strategic planning, especially since President Charles de Gaulle's snub of the Atlantic Alliance, the gain in Communist voting strength in Italy and U. S. hopes for a mixed-nation naval force based on the nuclear-tipped Polaris missile.

All of these conditions would seem to be cards in Generalissimo Francisco Franco's hands.

There are indications the Spanish asking price is not cheap.

The 1953 agreement gave the United States the use of three air bases by the Strategic Air Command, the big naval base at Rota and other installations including naval depots, radar sites and a pipeline system.

There is evidence now that to make the Rota base available to NATO submarines carrying nuclear ballistic missiles.

In return, Franco wants either Spanish membership in NATO or, at the least, closer political ties with the United States.

Spanish membership in NATO has in the past been adamantly opposed by the low countries, Denmark and Norway and, to a lesser degree, by Britain.

Spain also wants an increase in economic aid which since 1953 has totaled more than a billion dollars, plus modern military equipment including rockets and missiles.

On its part, the United States would prefer that the agreement continue much as it is and to wait as long as possible to determine how Europe's strategic and political alignments finally are to work out.

It further has warned Spain that, because of the unfavorable outflow of U. S. gold, free military aid to Spain will have to stop. That, instead, she will expect Spain to spend some $250 million of her own money on new equipment.

Worry Clinic

CASE P-479: Once upon a time a Foolish King was called upon by a couple of confidence men.

They said they were royal tailors and promised to weave a regal robe that would make all other kings envious.

So this Foolish King gave them a contract. The tailors really had no fabric at all, but just made believe they were weaving a wonderful, shimmering cloth.

So the king's subjects decided they dare not say what they really thought. As a result, they praised the gossamer fabric and exclaimed about it in superlatives.

Meanwhile, his courtiers likewise raved about the wonderful cloth. Consequently, the Foolish King himself felt he also must praise its lovely colors and texture.

For the entire kingdom had been sold a bill of false goods by the pair of scheming tailors. It was nation-wide hood-winkery!

Finally, as the king paraded in this royal robe, a child saw him and cried out: "Why, the king's naked! He doesn't have any clothes on!"

Applied to current problems in the U.S.A., isn't it time somebody cried out: "This constant deficit spending is a farce! So let's discharge 1,000,000 bureaucrats and thus cut back to a sensible budget!"

We have been taught for many years to expect constantly rising taxes. But nobody seems to have had the guts or the simple horse sense to state the answer, which is to lop off expenses!

At present, there are over 2,500,000 civilian employees of Uncle Sam, not to mention three million in military service.

We had only 500,000 bureaucrats in 1928. And our present 1963 population hasn't even doubled since then!

But suppose we allow a tripling of bureaucrats for us taxpayers to finance since 1928.

That still means Uncle Sam should discharge well over 1,000,000 needless bureaucrats!

"Efficiency engineering" is one of the things I cover in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

Although this is the most widely adopted textbook in its field, with over 1,000 college classroom adoptions, the tax-eaters in Washington apparently never studied that textbook!

"But, Dr. Crane," somebody may protest, "if we fired 1,000,000 bureaucrats, wouldn't we deprive our citizens of many welfare advances?"

Probably not, for inefficiency in government is notorious. Three private business employees can usually do what five government bureaucrats now perform.

Besides, if we taxpayers can't afford to furnish Uncle

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — New York City's experience with its Commission on Inter-group Relations — COIR — offers pointed case histories on how efforts to foster and achieve integration work out.

New York is the most polyglot city in the world with a population of over eight million. It has Jewish, Negro, Puerto Rican and many European minorities whose complex problems make the racial relationships of most American communities simple by comparison. In addition, New York is headquarters for the United Nations, where representatives from many of the 100 countries have found they are not always welcome as neighbors or in restaurants and other public places.

Dr. Alfred J. Marrow, COIR's first director and author of the new, award-winning book, "Changing Patterns in Prejudice," found that many of the problems tackled by his group and other welfare agencies did not always work out as planned.

New York State's housing integration law, for instance, has not ended segregation. But since its passage, the law has given formerly restricted minorities added self-respect. Dr. Marrow explained it this way in an interview:

"It enabled a colored mother to tell her wondering children, 'Yes, we can live anywhere we want to. It's just that Daddy can't get a job that pays enough money for us to move into a better flat.' That satisfies childish pride on one point, though it raises another problem."

What frequently happened when colored families moved into integrated housing developments, says Marrow, is that the whites simply moved out. What had been solidly white apartments soon became solidly Negro or Puerto Rican.

The idea of reserving some of the apartments for white families was suggested, to force mixing. But this was rejected by the minority groups which didn't want mixing by plan or quota.

"People of the same ethnic background like to live near each other," explains Marrow. "So there are voluntary segregated communities all over New York. They are ghettos, because the people who inhabit them can get out if they want to. Compulsory integration to a kind of check-board pattern isn't what these groups want. First, they want better housing.

"Harlem Negroes don't necessarily want to live with whites. They want to live with other Negroes. Even the most successful, higher class Negroes who call themselves 'middle class' — doctors, lawyers, professional people and businessmen — want to continue living in Harlem where their patients, clients and customers live. They don't want to move to Westchester."

Viewed in this light, integration may not cause the complete revolution in living standards some people have feared.

The question of integrated education is something else. "The problem is how to accelerate the Supreme Court mandate for 'deliberate speed' in integration," Marrow believes.

One thing that has to be done is give Negro children better teaching services until they catch up. This means more exposure to culture. It means smaller classes.

Says Marrow: "That means more money. New York City estimated that cutting average class size by one child on 40 and 90. No medical and giving remedial courses with other aids for third more per child."

Most states and local communities can't meet these costs. It is therefore likely that any year of birth to Central toward faster school improvement will put increased pressure on Fort Worth 4, Texas.

on the drive for more aid to the states for school education. Other likely development, says Marrow, is the possibility of more school segregation developing voluntarily, whether integration is imposed by law or order. This happened in Baltimore, which through what was considered a model school integration plan. The whites simply stayed in Baltimore, which would lower educational averages.

Don't confuse what can be done by law, warns Marrow, with what can be done by force.

Volunteers Urged To Work Together

By Mona Grinstead
North Orlando men attending last Wednesday's second meeting of the newly organized Volunteer Fire Dept. were urged by Chief Bill Hahn not to let past experiences, religion, politics or personal feelings enter into their affiliation with the department.

"In times of emergency we should all work together without regard to any personal feelings or past incidents," he reminded the group.

Hahn, who presided at the meeting, went on to suggest that immediate arrangements be made to begin training activities which help could be secured from the State Fire College at Ocala, from the Florida Forestry Service and from other area volunteer organizations.

It was decided that a membership of at least 15 men should be secured before officers are elected either for the firemen's association or for the department. Goal for the active firemen is 25 men. Decision on the amount of dues also will be voted upon when the desired number of members is obtained.

Henry Ward volunteered to complete wiring for the siren and lights on the new fire truck which Hahn said also needs a hard suction hose. It was announced that Ward's daughter, Miss Pat Rottler, will represent the North Orlando volunteers in the Miss Flame of Seminole County Beauty Contest to be held July 4 at the Longwood Fiesta.

It also was announced that the department would provide a standby crew for next Thursday's celebration in the village.

The next meeting of the re-activated organization was set for Monday, July 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the Community Area.

NORTH ORLANDO'S new fire truck, which came equipped with an 800-gallon tank and 20-foot extension ladder, was bought from the Union Park Fire Dept. for a total price of $400. With the addition of a pump, estimated at $325, the truck will be complete and ready for action.

Kennedy, Mac Agree On Strategy For Test Ban Talks At Moscow

LONDON (UPI)—President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan have approved a three-way strategy for the nuclear test ban negotiations in Moscow later this month, diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said the two Western leaders worked out a set of instructions for their special envoys during their weekend summit meeting here.

A joint communique issued at the conclusion of the talks Sunday also noted that Kennedy and Macmillan, as expected, failed to reach accord on the U. S.-sponsored multinational nuclear force for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO). They decided to set the question aside because of British reluctance to join at this time.

The communique underlined that there is no "rift" on the nuclear force plan, which West Germany has approved fully but which France rejects. British officials have questions about the plan's feasibility and the cost.

Spray Service Held Sunday

Funeral services for Mrs. Ola Mae Spray, 60, of Cowan-Moughton Terrace, were held at 3 p.m. Sunday at Gramkow Funeral Home in Sanford with Rev. P. D. Stephens of Gadsden, Ala., officiating. Burial was in Sylvan Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Spray, who died at Seminole Memorial Hospital Friday evening, came here from Pensacola in 1961. She was a seamstress at Pierra Manufacturing Co. and was a member of the missionary Baptist Church.

She is survived by her husband, Albert H. Spray, of Sanford; four daughters, Mrs. Betty Jean Stanford of Paula, Mrs. Mae E. Bailey of Mobile, Ala., Mrs. Iva Tindall of Okeechobee and Mrs. Olean Lawson of Talladega, Ala.; a son, Albert Spray Jr. of Altamonte Springs; 16 grandchildren; two brothers, Leslie Mitchell of Mobile and Robert Earl Mitchell of Tuscaloosa, Ala.; two sisters, Mrs. Jessie McGhee of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Lela Tarwater of Sylacauga, Ala.

They are calcium, phosphorus, magnesium, sodium, potassium, chlorine, sulphur, iron, copper, manganese, zinc, iodine and cobalt.

Pope Crowned At Rites

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI was crowned spiritual leader of the World's Roman Catholics Sunday in a centuries-old ceremony in crowded St. Peter's Square.

He then delivered a sermon in nine different languages, aiming some of his remarks at Catholics behind the Iron Curtain, and pledging to defend the church against internal errors and external threats.

POPE PAUL VI

Bright searchlights and flickering torches lit the vast square as the triple-tiered papal crown, decked in gold, silver and jewels, was placed on the pontiff's head.

It was the first time in 5 centuries that a Pope was crowned in the square instead of inside the St. Peter's Basilica.

The 250,000 persons who viewed the three-hour ceremony on a hot summer evening broke into loud applause and wild cheering when the Pope was carried back to the Vatican Palace on his gestatorial chair.

The pontiff opened his homily, or sermon, in Latin and then turned to his native Italian, reaffirming his intention to resume the Vatican Council.

He asked God "that this great event confirm faith in the church, freshen its moral energies, strengthen and make its form better fit to the requirements of the time."

He then spoke in French, English, German, Spanish, Portuguese, Polish and Russian, vowing to "defend the Holy Church from the errors of doctrine and customs, which inside and outside of its boundaries are threatening its integrity and shadowing its beauty."

Picture Hanging Not Simple Job

By Myrtle Wilson

Home Demonstration Agent The simple job of hanging pictures has stumped homemakers for many years. It may sound like an easy job, but there's more to picture hanging than just driving a nail in the wall.

Look at the pictures in your home—are they too high? Are they grouped nicely with the other furnishings? Is there too much space around them? Do they tilt forward as they hang on the wall? Does the hanging wire show above the top of the frame?

Check to see how much slack there is in the wire. A little slack keeps the picture from moving, but too much causes the wire to show above the frame. A picture may be hung correctly, but if it doesn't suit the room, the purpose is lost. So choose pictures that not only go well together but blend with the room also. And be careful when you're grouping pictures—don't use too many. Group pictures of the same shape together—side-by-side or one over the other.

Make sure the pictures you've selected are the right size for the place you want to hang them. Never stair-step except over stairs. And have bottoms, tops, or center lines of all pictures in a group on the same level. Remember, a few well-chosen pictures are fine, but poorly selected ones are worse than none at all.

The shade can be made of bamboo for a natural wood effect. Or, if you prefer white, you can use a plastic or canvas shade. Some of the newer printed shades are nice. They can be used to add color and interest to your kitchen decor. Although originally recommended to make work easier for handicapped homemakers, the use of shades instead of doors on cabinets is an idea any homemaker might use to advantage.

Soiled, ragged curtains should never be thrown away. The roughness of the curtain is excellent for wiping away paint remover when you are refinishing furniture. Modern living and prosperity may have abolished the old-fashioned rag bag but not its filling—the bill when a certain kind of rag is needed in a hurry. Why not start one? It is easy, inexpensive and always handy.

GRIP TIP Screws will have a firmer hold in the wood if you dip them in paint or glue before you use them.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 30, married and nothing special to look at. I've been called the "wholesome" type. Last week my husband and I were playing bridge in the home of another couple. My husband went out to our car to get something, and the other woman went into the kitchen and, without warning, the husband grabbed me, held me close and tried to kiss me! I was shocked, but managed to cover up without making a scene. I thought I made it plain that I did not go in for that sort of thing. Last night we four went to a movie. While walking down the dark aisle, I felt someone pinch me—but good! I thought it was my husband at first, but soon discovered it was this man again. I did not invite these advances and don't like it. How can I let him know how I feel without hurting his wife?

THE WHOLESOME TYPE

DEAR WHOLESOME: He knows how you FEEL—you have to let him know how you THINK. When you tell him about 20 seconds alone with him tell him if he doesn't cut out the monkey business you'll tell his wife. And if your husband is bigger than he is—tell him you'll tell your husband.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my 17-year-old son went to a doctor because of a skin condition. He is supposed to go again next week, but he refuses. My husband finally got it out of him. It seems that the doctor wanted him to have a lamp treatment. He had to lie under some lamps for about ten minutes without any clothes on at all. The nurse was in the room the whole time. He was terribly embarrassed by this because the nurse was about 25. So that's why he refuses to go back. I think we should call the doctor and ask him if he can't give the treatment himself from now on. My husband says our son is just being stubborn and we should make him go. He said the doctor will think we are crazy if we call and ask him to change the way he does things in his office. We three have been fighting over this all week. What do you think?

A YOUNG MAN'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Call the doctor and explain. He'll understand.

DEAR ABBY: Re that paperboy who signed himself DISGUSTED WITH PEOPLE because some took newspapers from his honor rack and dropped buttons, paper clips and slugs into the slot instead of money: You appealed to the public to be honest on the grounds that it's the paperboy who's getting cheated—not the newspaper company, is it less reprehensible to cheat the newspaper company than it is to cheat the newsboy?

Every day juries return unfair verdicts against large corporations and insured defendants because the "big boys" can afford to pay. The public should keep two things in mind: (1) The moral issue is the same whether the victim is rich or poor. (2) The "little man" will eventually pick up the tab, either in higher consumer costs or in increased insurance rates.

CONCERNED

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ME": You are mistaken. If you want advice through this column, it is NOT necessary to sign your name. (Use "Worried", "Upset", or "Just Me".) But those who want a personal reply should sign their names and addresses (which will be strictly confidential). How else could my reply reach you?

Highlights

7:30-8:30 p.m. NBC. Monday Night at the Movies. "Hell and High Water," starring Richard Widmark, David Wayne and Bella Darvi (color) (rerun). This is a welcome chiller since much of it takes place in the Arctic regions. It is also suspenseful involving the possibility of World War III. More realism however, in a production that deals with a plot to explode a nuclear device in Korea. The idea is to blame the U. S. and ignite an international holocaust. Widmark stars as a retired naval officer asked to lead a private mission aboard a salvaged Japanese submarine to thwart the plotters in their Arctic stronghold. Cameron Mitchell and Gene Evans are featured. 7:30-8:30 p.m. ABC. The Dakotas. "Requiem at Dancer's Hill." (rerun). There's some fast and exciting action in this one that amply fills the vacancy made by a thinly disguised plot. A civilian posse captures its quarry and executes him. Marshal Ragan investigates the crime of the dead man, then does a little sleuthing into the life of the man who led the posse and gave the mob incentive for their "Justice." Dick Foran guests with regulars Larry Ward, Jack Elam, Chad Everett and Michael Greene. 8:30-9 p.m. CBS. The Lucy Show. (rerun). Lucy is in top form in this rerun, putting the whole family to work to impress her new boy friend (Frank Aletter) with her musical background, which is nonexistent. For her friend's benefit, she throws a birthday party for Wolfgang A. Mozart. Daughter Chris sings an aria and son Jerry dances in a boy's ballet outfit.

the importance of money

There are many yardsticks for measuring success. But one that everybody understands is good hard dollars and cents.

When we use dollar volume to compare advertising media, two facts stand out clearly:

- More advertising dollars are invested in daily newspapers each year than in television, magazines, radio and outdoor combined.
- Newspapers continue to grow in importance. Since 1949, newspaper advertising volume has increased by $17 billion—which is more than the total advertising volume of TV today.

As national income rises, as the education level of the public rises, as purchasing power rises, as dollar volume of goods and services rises, newspapers prosper because they become more needed by more people.

When it's time to pay out good dollars, advertisers who know the importance of money put theirs on the best buy—daily newspapers.

A player who uses Blackwood takes full charge of the hand with one exception. That exception occurs when he follows up his bid of four no-trump with a further bid of five no-trump.

The five no-trump bid guarantees that the partnership holds all the aces and if partner can now see 13 sure tricks there is no reason for him to stay out of the grand slam.

He also can put the grand slam in no-trump if he can count to 13 without using ruffing power. A no-trump contract is always safer than one in a suit.

North's hand illustrates these points thoroughly.

When his partner bids four no-trump North just shows his one ace, but when South follows up with five no-trump North takes full charge. He counts four spade tricks, one heart, two diamonds and six clubs for a total of 13 and bids the grand slam. Furthermore, he bids it in no-trump. South may have some other high cards besides his three aces and even though North holds good spades there just may be a loser in that suit. This happens to be the case. If North bids seven spades he will be complaining about his bad luck, but he will also have made that bad luck himself.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millett

What is a "good" hostess? She is a composite of many things. But the following are basic if she really is to qualify:

She takes the time to make each new arrival feel that now he has arrived, the party can really get under way. Without seeming to flutter, she is aware of her guests' comfort, noticing immediately when a glass should be refilled, a light softened, an ash tray provided, etc.

Some time during the evening she gets in a little personal conversation with each guest. She manages this by not allowing herself to be caught in any group for any length of time. She gives the impression of enjoying her own party—and taking her duties easily and calmly.

She isn't the noisiest one at her own party—but hits a happy medium so that the gayer guests can feel she is going along with them, and the more quiet guests can feel she hasn't deserted them.

She doesn't oversell anything, so that guests have to eat too much or drink too much or play games they don't want to play, just to satisfy their hostess.

She doesn't give orders, but uses more subtle means to get her guests to do as she wants them to.

She puts sincerity into her "Do you have to go so soon?" instead of just saying the words in Polly Parrot fashion. She waits until the last guest is out of sight before starting in to "straighten up"—unlike the hostess who barely lets her last guests get to the front door before she starts gathering up glasses, straightening chairs, etc.

She gives out as much warmth when she tells the last guest goodby as when she greeted the first guest to arrive.

That's a good hostess.

Summer Vacations Ease Educational Pressures

By David Nydick (UPI Education Specialist)

Parents and children presently are making plans for the summer vacation. One decision concerns the continuation of academic activities versus relaxation and recreational activities. The answer depends upon the needs of the individual.

The majority of children probably should have a vacation away from educational pressures. They have worked hard during the year meeting the demands of the school program. They will appreciate the opportunity to live without the tight routines of a school schedule. This does not mean complete chaos but does mean a relaxed plan.

Naturally there are many ways to spend a summer away from academic pressures. The choice should involve the child's interests, abilities and age.

Although most students will spend their vacation away from rigid routines, there are many special situations to be considered. Careful evaluation should be given to decisions which might involve studies during the summer. College students sometimes want to attend summer classes in order to graduate early. If this is for monetary reasons, they should think about earning money at a summer job which could help pay winter expenses. Besides the money, they will be gaining valuable experience and a change of pace.

Special seminars in which college students travel and study abroad can be desirable. There is value in activities of this nature where students gain first hand experience and pursue their specific interests.

Secondary school students who have to make up courses may have very little choice. In such cases the school often requires attendance for part of the summer. At the elementary level, you will not find very many regular summer school programs. Most plans are for individual or small group tutoring. Some students with psychological or physical problems may benefit from programs of this nature. This matter should be discussed with the professional responsible for guiding your child.

Some individuals, regardless of level, require a constant rigid structure, stopping during the summer months might be destructive. The summer is a time for a child to have fun and build experiences other than in the academic subjects. Enjoyable courses in which a child has a specific interest can be included in summer plans.
