Fritz to speak at meeting

SANFORD - Downtown merchants will hear an update on the progress of the Main Street Program Tuesday. The plan will be the subject of discussion at the regular meeting of the Sanford Historic Downtown Waterfront Associa-

Nell Fritz will be the featured speaker. He was hired in January as interim director of the project, now called the Sanford Main Street

Fritz plans to go into detail on the four major elements of the Main Street Program, which include organization, promotion, design and economic restructiving.

"Standing committee chairpersons have already been selected, and each of them are now seeking volunteers to help move the program ahead," according to Chris Cranlas, cochairman of SHDWA and the Main Street group.

Fritz's role is to do research and prepare application papers to be submitted this summer. requesting that Sanford be officially included in the Florida Main Street program. Acceptance would eventually provide the city with guidance by historic development experts, and some financial assistance.

Tuesday's meeting is open to the general public. It is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m., at First Street Gallery, 203 E. First Street, in downtown Sanford.

Lotto jackpot rolls to $70 million

TALLAHASSEE - Florida Lottery officials and retailers are looking for a rush of out-of-state buyers and higher individual ticket sales since the Lotto jackpot rolled to an estimated $70 million Sunday.

"We expect that line to go out the door," said a Tallahassee Publix grocery store clerk named Sara, who didn't want her last name used.

There was no grand prize winner in the Saturday night drawing, boosting a $40 million jackpot even higher. The $70 million is the highest Florida Lotto jackpot since $89.78 million was paid out in October 1991.

The jackpot estimate could grow even larger this week, since the grand prize is based on weekly ticket sales. As sales grow during the week, lottery officials can adjust the payout estimate even higher.

"A $70 million Lotto jackpot may also attract the attention of the many out-of-state visitors in Florida during this peak tourist season," said Lottery director Marcia Mann.

The numbers drawn Saturday night were 18-28-30-31-44-46. Though there was no Jackpot winner, more than 618,000 players will get smaller prizes for holding three, four or five winning numbers.

Computer records show 580 players with five of six winning numbers, receiving $1,644.50 each. The 30,310 players with four winning numbers get $75.50 each, while the 588,283 players with three winning numbers get $5

SSI payments rise

Children's benefits drastically increased

By SANDRA ELLIOTT Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD-The number of Seminole County. residents receiving Supplemental Security Income (SSI) payments is up since 1990 by 485 individuals but there has not been a massive increase of participants.

Angelo Intravio, manager of the Social Security office in Sanford, which tracks the SSI program. said there were a total of 2,553 SSI recipients in 1991, 314 of them children. During 1990, there were 2,068 SSI recipients, 222 were children. Statistics are only available through 1991.

SSI monthly payments in Seminole County average $263 per individual. Intravia said the monthly SSI payments total $671,000 for Seminole County.

During the last three years, the number of children getting federal disability benefits has drastically increased, and the total SSI budget has ballooned from $12.5 billion to $23.4 billion. The major reason for the growing number of children on the disability rolls was a 1990 class action suit filed in California on behalf of children who were turned down for SSI benefits. The U.S.

Supreme Court ruled the government should throw out regulations making it more difficult for children than adults to qualify for SSI benefits. As a result of that ruling, Darryl Mull, public information officer for the Atlanta area office of

Social Security, said the agency had to go back and review the SSI applications of 452,000 children who had previously been rejected for benefits under the program.

Intravia said there were very few cases in Seminole County which had to be rendowed under the court ruling. However, the ruling resulted in a significant amount of work for the SSI workers in Orange County, he said. According to a story by the Associated Press, there are currently 635,938 low-income children on SSI nationwide. Some of those children were born prematurely or exposed to crack, alcohol or the AIDS virus while in the womb. The monthly payments to children went from $106 million in December 1989 to nearly $343 million in January 1993, according to the AP story. That total includes some retroactive payments reguired by the Supreme Court's decision.

Mull said although he is not downplaying the seriousness of children exposed to drugs or the HIV virus, they account for only two or three See SSI, page 5A

Primera development is not dead, just napping through litigation

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY - The Primera development is not dead. It is napping however, pending the resolution of several legal problems.

Primera is located on 194 acres of land at the northeast intersection of Interstate 4 and Lake Mary Boulevard. Although many plans have been submitted to the city, no improvements have been made for the past two years.

City Planner Matt West explained. "It is to be a combination commercial/office park handling retail

West said the most recent plans call for 709,000 square feet of commercial buildings. 1,368,000 square feet of office space, a 112,000 square foot wellness center, and a 500 room hotel. During this past Lake Mary City Commission meeting. Miranda Fitzgerald, with Gateway Development of Orlando, and Dikes Everett, council to Barnett Bank, gave the commissioners an overview of the project.

Gateway is the present developer and Barnett is supplying the financing.

'Right now we are still in litigation," Everett said. "We have been working on the foreclosure of the land since 1991, in a battle against the Insurance Commissioner of the State of North Carolina."
He continued, "We hope to obtain a final judgement on the foreclosure based on approval of an appeal we recently received. Then we are awaiting a 5th District Court rehearing and we are optomistic that we'll eventually get the mortgage foreclosed." Fitzgerald commented, "We can now see the light at the end of the tunnel."

In preparation for a resumption of the development, she requested commission approval to construct a small sales office, of the manufacturedbuilding type, near the entrance. "We will eventually have to do this anyway," she said, "but if we have it now, we can maintain our DRI permits."

The high winds, expected to continue for the next 24 hours, blew down trees and branches and left several communities without electricity. Areas served by electrical pumps were left without water supply.

The winds caused the cancellation of American Airlines flight 645 to New York and affected Air Jamaica's flight schedules. It also prevented fishermen in some areas from going to sea, blew down banana plante and reported camaged a bridge.

Clinton on offensive

WASHINGTON - Former House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill used to live by one central political maxim: All politics

President Bill Clinton must have listened.

Faced with a potential public relations disaster when his Department of Defense recommended that 31 major military installations be closed - including four in Florida - Clinton went on the offensive.

The president invited print and broadcast journalists from Florida, California and Connecticut to the White House for a chance to ask questions Saturday about the base closings and to pitch his $20 billion plan to convert bases and defense factories into civilian uses.

"We have now got an aggressive and a well-funded program ... to try to make sure that we find jobs and economic opportunities for the people and the communities involved." Clinton said as he faced repeated questions about the impact of the cuts. "So I don't feel under seige. I wanted to do this today."

For Florida, Clinton did one better: he used the opportunity to announce a major long-term rebuilding program for hurricane-shattered South Florida, which happens to include the same Homestead Air Force Base he promised to re-open during the campaign. Homestead, it turns out, is on the Defense Department chopping block. But Clinton now says $76 million will be spent to rebuild its airstrip and control tower so it can operate. Eventually, the president said the base could have some dual civilian-military use.

Similar messages were tailored to California and Connecticut journalists, many of whom are unaccustomed to the grand trappings of the White House and might be willing to give Clinton the benefit of the doubt. And the president ensured heavy TV time and headlines in those states that he might be unable to secure on CNN or the networks.

Jeff Eller, Clinton's director of media affairs, rejected the notion that the president was trying to sidestep the national

GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba - Haltian migrants, detained here because of the AIDS virus, threw rocks at military personnel and burned down 12 wooden camp houses during a weekend disturbance, the Navy said.

Thirty Haitians were taken to the brig at Guantanamo Naval Base after Saturday's disturbance, Lt. Cdr. Gordon Hume, a Navy spokesman for the U.S. Atlantic Command in Norfolk, Va., which oversees the Haitian camp, said Sunday.

"The atmosphere down there has changed over the last month." Hume said in a telephone interview from Norfolk.

There are a number of frustrated people down there. ... They are certainly not where they want to be."

The Haitians, who number 252 men, women and children. have been detained at the base in Cuba for more than a year. Although they have received preliminary approval for political refuser states, the United States has refused to allow them into the country because 213 have tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS. The others are related to those with the virus.

Hume said none of the refugees were hurt in the disturbance but seven military personnel received minor injuries from thrown rocks. The camp has 47 barracks-style

Pensacola women seeking abortions last week after Gunn's slaying were referred to clinics in nearby Mary Esther or in Tallahassee, Mobile, Ala., and Montgomery, Ala.

Michael F. Griffin, a Pensacola chemical plant worker, remained in the Escambia County Jail without bond on an open count of murder. Police say he admitted killing Gunn and was waiting to be arrested outside the clinic when officers arrived.

State Attorney Curtis Golden said a grand jury, perhaps as early as this week, would decide whether to indict Griffin. He said he expected a first-degree murder indictment and if that is the case would seek the death penalty.

On Sunday, some area ministers urged their congregations to pray for Gunn's family and some for Griffin's as well, but others shied away from the "I don't think that has been

The Rev. Ted Traylor of Olive Baptist Church mentioned Gunn's slaying in his Sunday bulletin and asked prayers for his family.

"While our church is committed to pro-life, we do not condone and we condemn taking the life of Dr. Gunn," he said.

The physician was buried amid a snow storm Saturday in Winchester, Tenn., his grandparents' hometown.

County sign law still inconsistent

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — As Seminole County commissioners continue their review of their sign-height imposition on business owners, any effort to seek a consistent sign scheme throughout the county appears to be on hold.

"It was mentioned at the last work session." said county planning director Tony Van-Derworp. "We kind of want the board to deal with this before we pour more acid in the vat."

Last October, county commissioners set aside their Dec. 1, 1992 requirement to impose the 15-foot limit on unincorporated businesses until they review the impacts to staff and those sign owners: Another tentatively scheduled for April

Three of the commissioners have said they favor a delay or removal of the mandate except when signs or changed. Two commissioners say they'd stick joining with the county to adopt the Lake Mary Boulevard "gate-way" regulations in 1989. They granted businesses to 1998 to lower their signs, six years longer than the county requirement. Casselberry and Oviedo councilmen have also set 15-foot limits and granted their city's sign owners until 1997 to lower them, according to county research.

The remaining four cities don't require their signs to be lowered until the sign ownership changes or some change is made to the sign itself. Altamonte Springs has a 20-foot maximum limit and Sanford, Longwood and Winter Springs each have a 5-foot limit. County staff found Longwood has had their restric-tion since 1984, but never ch-

MIAMI - David Leahy's office is having a problem with Tuesday's precedent-setting election. which promises to turn the white-dominated county commission into a more representative board dominated by Hispanics and blacks. It's too quiet.

"It's almost like there is not going be an election ... because it's so quiet," said Leahy, Dade County's election supervisor since 1981.

Voters aren't calling with questions or requests for absentee ballots, and the regis-tration books didn't soar with residents clamoring to vote in the election, Leahy said.

"The problem is just getting the word out to the electorate on why there is an election and getting the electorate informed so they will come out and vote," Leahy said.

His office mailed more than 400,000 brochures in hopes voters would show interest in the special election.

Instead, federal officials sued the county, saying it violated the U.S. Voting Rights Act because the brochures weren't also published in Spanish. A federal judge agreed, and ruled Saturday that the county had to take several steps to ensure Spanish voters had access to the pamphlet.

United Telephone of Florida has taken a very firm stand against those who carelessly cut our underground cables again and again. Our reasoning for taking this position however, is simple. If a cable coming into your area is damaged, you lose service. This is not only an inconvenience, it is a public safety hazard and causes an economic hardship for many customers.

So, on behalf of our customers, United Telephone of Florida is clearly stating that it will no longer tolerate careless excavating near telephone cables or equipment. There is no excuse. All it takes is one call to 1-800-542-0088 at least 48 hours before excavation begins and United will locate its underground cables accurately, promptly and without charge. In the future, when a United cable is cut, we will take prompt legal action when necessary to recover the cost of repairing facilities. In appropriate cases, such as blatant, repeated carelessness, United will also seek punitive damages as well as injunctions to prevent further cuts. Furthermore, United Telephone will support customers who pursue litigation to recover damages resulting from the loss of communications service caused by a cable cut by providing witnesses and documentary evidence concerning the cable cut.

Sure, cable cuts are an inconvenience for phone companies. But, more importantly, they can put our customers in perilous situations. And that's something we will not allow.

An apple for

It is encouraging to have teachers honored for their achievements. The Seminole County school district recently paid tribute to Wayne Prongello of South Seminole Middle School in Casselberry. He was named top teacher in Seminole County for 1992/93.

Two others were named as runners-up; Rebecca Dean, a second grade teacher at Goldsboro Elementary School, and Art Woodruff, a physics and journalism teacher at Seminole High School.

The three were selected from among 46 entries submitted throughout the school district.

Frongello will now go on to represent the district in the state contest later this spring.

People place their children's education in the hands of many teachers during the school years. It ultimately molds their lives and determines their future. It requires a great deal of trust on the part of parents, and much responsibility by teachers.

. Teachers are required to spend a specific amount of time in their classrooms. Many others however, go far beyond what is expected of them. The job can even be carried into their home, with frequent phone calls regarding homework or other student concerns.

Teachers are even involved in their profession in their private lives. Parents and children may encounter them while shopping or relaxing, and the teacher's demeanor is expected to be maintained.

Selecting teaching as a career is a lifetime committment. Parents should not only be grateful, but instill in their children that teachers should be shown due respect and

We urge parents and students to extend the 43 others who were nominated. Extend the appreciation to others as well. The majority are doing an outstanding job. They all deserve thanks.

Politics: Eternal hope

Spring training is here. Hope springs eternal in baseball and in politics. In many cases the star in spring training finds he can't hit the curve ball and is sent back to the minors. The spring training baseball scouting report on potential Republican candidates for Governor follows:

Jeb Bush — Good bloodlines. Had chance to learn game from the sidelines by running dad's campaign for president. Only one to relate to Hispanic players because of his ability to speak the language. Jeb will start fast but may find former admirers of his play are not around now that President Bush is out of office. Knowledge of issues and staying power in question.

Ken Conner - The only rookie on the scene. Looked on by some scouts as one issue hitter (abortion). Has a number of admirers throughout the state who will work hard although in the distinct minority. The question is can he handle other issues and broaden his base of support. Good with people, and no matter how tough it looks, may be in there to the end.

Ander Creashaw — A veteran minor league player. Selected as MVP of the Florida League for 1993 (President, Florida Senate). The area of North Florida in which he has played lacks Republican voters, so home support is soft in primary elections. Scouts from all sides will watch his play in the Florida Senate. All agree his performance over the next few months will make or break his jump to the majors.

Tem Gallagner — Hitting 500 in statewide races.

Hard worker, good competitor, who knows and likes the game; has shown exceptional ability in the minors to raise money. Use of money for TV rated high. Organizational ability at grass roots level is suspect. Will probably avoid spring training and wait towards the end of the season to play in

Jim Smith - Good winning record in minors (4 statewide wins). Knows game, issues and is respected. Statewide supporters have large bank accounts. A slow starter who tends to miss spring training events such as the Republican State Convention. Tough competitor once the first ball is pitched. Rumors are out that Smith could jump to the Independent league, but most acouts disagree.

years ago, Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas declared, in his usual uncompromising manner, "TV and radio stand in the same protected position under the First Amendment as do newspapers and magazines."

Douglas was very much in the minority on the court and among the public. Since the Radio Act of 1927, the content of broadcasting has been regulated "in the public interest" - for example, to assure fair presentation of both sides of controversial issues. And to prevent listeners and viewers — especially unsupervised children — from being assaulted by "indecency."

Last December, for instance, the Federal

Communications Commission Imposed a $600,000 fine on the infinite Communications of p. for the exultantly "indecent" language of Howard Stern, who is heard on four of Infinity's radio stations. The FCC defines "indecency" as 'language that describes sexual and excretory activities and organs in patently offensive

But, according to Timothy Dyk, a Washington attorney specializing in defending — and trying to expand — the rights of broadcasters, "One can look through all the various FCC rulings that say

'indecency' has been violated and there is no consistent, coherent pattern which would permit a station to know in the future whether it has broken the rule or not. This "indecency" criterion for government punishment of speech was validated by the Supreme Court in 1978 (FCC v. Pacifica Foundation). In one of his most biting dissents. Justice William Brennan, speaking of the fragile sensibilities" of his brethren, added:

"It is only an acute ethnocentric myopia that enables the court to approve the censorship of communications solely because of the words they contain.

The words found so unpalatable may be the stuff of everyday conversations

The words found so un-palatable may be the stuff of everyday conversations in some, if not many, of the innumerable subcultures that comprise this nation."

As for the endangered children, Brennan noted that the "court, for the first time, allows government to prevent minors from gaining access to materials that are not obscene and are therefore protected, as to them."

"Indecency" on the airwaves has become the FCC's main weapon against broadcasters. The Fairness Doctrine used to chill some broadcasters from programming anything condefinition of "fairness." But that doctrine was based on the scarcity principle — there being so few channels that government had to provide access for diverse views. But now there isn't a hamlet in the nation that doesn't have more radio and television channels than newspapers.

In 1985, the FCC itself declared the Fairness Doctrine in violation of the First Amendment, and it was laid aside in 1987.

Restraint needed after bombing

The devastating explosion at the World Trade Center in New York City was not. unfortunately, a shocking surprise. It occurred after more than two decades of international terrorism had made bombings, hijackings and the random murder of innocent civilians a commonplace on the evening news. It came after Beirut, once noted for its civilized charm. had been torn asunder by terrorism and raised to the quasi-respectability of civil war. It brought home to the United States what has become sickeningly familiar to Great Britain, previously the quintessential symbol of decorous law and order, from London to

Largely because the fact of terrorist assaults is so commonplace, the bombing in Manhattan need not have an enduring effect on the nation's psyche. While we would all be considerably better off without the incessant speculation that has jammed the newspapers and cluttered the airwaves, even that babble has testified more to the near-banality of the event in today's world than to its unique

The FBI's breakthrough in indentifying and arresting a suspect last week came just in time. Ignorance about the indentity of the criminals and the nature of the bomb had fed. rather than deterred, the mass media's worst instincts. Abhorring a vacuum, they have filled it with experts - self-styled and real - advancing theories of rare ingenuity and flimsy substance. Rarely have so many hobby-horses been ridden with such abandon. The theorizing about the unknown was in marked contrast to the concrete facts that were known. Seven levels of concrete and steel at the base of the World Trade Center were reduced to a huge crater when the bomb went off on Feb. 26. Five or more people were killed. Several hundred were injured. And 50,000 people at work in the two towering buildings were imperiled by a blast that was clearly intended to kill and maim far more human

The material effects are obvious. The 350 businesses that have been housed in the Trade Center will lose upwards of a billion dollars in revenue and relocation costs. City, state and federal authorities will spend millions of dollars sifting through the wreckage for evidence and tracking down the perpetrators. It will cost tens of millions of dollars, or more, to repair the damage and improve the electrical and accurity systems whose defective design was exposed by the bombing.

The psychological effects are less tangible but no less real. For the thousands of men. women and children who were temporarily trapped in their offices, on elevators and in the stairwells high above ground, recurrent nightmares will be the least of their problem. For some, lifetime trauma is guaranteed. For others, wariness about the safety of their environment will almost surely give way to fear. A year hence, it will be instructive to see how many of the World Trade Center's daytime residents quit and sought employment elsewhere.

But there are no signs of national hysteria

As noted earlier, we have become sophisticates in the matter of terrorism. It is a reality. enlarged somewhat in popular fiction. television dramas and movies, but familiar to virtually everyone as a fact of modern life. Having watched Europeans and Israelis and

The bombing in Manhattan need not have an enduring effect on the nation's psyche.

Turks and countless others wrestle terrorism to no better than a draw for so long, most of us know that there are no easy answers to its infection. We are not going to be stampeded into police state reaction merely because of one bloody act.

However, if the bombing in downtown New York turns out to have been a declaration of war, the consequences for civil liberty could be severe. Metal detectors and other forms of acreening put into place in American airports after hijacking became fashionable could become as familiar in commercial buildings as they are in executive branch departments in Washington today. The temptation to mount a witch hunt might be irresistible to officeholders looking for a popular issue. We Americans have done worse with less pretext in the past.

That is why restraint should be the order of the day while the investigation goes forward. restraint by the press no less than by those whose voices command the press's attention. The president has shown the way in that regard, as have various other officials such as Secretary of State Warren Christopher. Their example should be heeded, most particularly by the gatekeepers of television. Further, let us hope that those with the responsibility for such things are working even now on plans to contain the inevitable consequences if the World Trade Center bombing is only the first of

Light shed on mysterious list

WASHINGTON - Sen. Trent Lott, R-Miss., has had second thoughts about his showdown with Budget Director Leon Panetta over his once-secret "list" of $216 billion in "pain-free" budget cuts.

"Now that it's become an issue maybe I should have used another word (such as) relatively painless," Lott told us in a phone interview two days after we published details of the list in a column last week.

'You all are focusing on an unplanned moment instead of focusing on the great big pro-blems of the Clinton package, the tax increases, the fact that his own numbers don't add up. What's the interest in this one incident?"

Lott has been serving as the unof-ficial Republican at-tack dog, a job that has included hunting for skeletons in the closets of Cabinet appointees. Though he called it an 'unplanned moment,' the Panetta hearing gave Lott another forum in which to peddle the GOP's no-taxes, no-pain prescription. Lott declared he had "in my pocket a list of $216 billion in painless budget cuts that just about everybody would agree with, including you. I'd be glad to provide (it) to you."

serving as the unofficial attack dog.

Republican

But Lott seemed caught off-guard when Panetta — who's been telling Republicans to "put up or shut up" — called his bluff: "Let me have that list. I want to see those painless cuts." Lott folded the paper and returned it to his jacket pocket, leaving many with a case of Joe McCarthy deja vu. "Do you know what happened on this thing?" Lott explained. "I walked into a budget committee one Friday morning, and they (Democrats) were saying that they couldn't come up with any more spending cuts. I just happened to be working on this list. It was not by design (when) I pulled it out and said look, here's a list of basically painless cuts. I had no idea the thing was going to become the big focus it did." Lott didn't want his list to become the target for Democratic criticism, and that's why he sought to keep secret the details.

"Clinton is the president, and he has this great big majority in both houses," Lott said. "We felt it was unfair for people to say show us yours (spending cut lists) now because then that would become the target, and time would be spent saying well you can't do this and you can't do that, and attacking our plan.

So long as Lott doesn't accept Panetta's put-up-or-shut-up challenge, he can avoid having to answer to angry constituents whose benefits are chopped.

Lott's "pain-free" list would entail the dismantling of entitlement programs serving the poor, the needy and the middle class. The one-page document reflects the fact that about 85 percent of the cuts are earmarked for entitlements, with the balance, or about $32 billion, coming from a grab bag of other programs including "unused Amtrak routes," payments to "international anti-consumer organizations," a Pentagon civilian hiring freeze and the budgets of the executive and legislative branches of government.

Lott would ax $184 billion over the next five years by "capping" the growth of non-Social Security mandatory spending, allowing increases for new beneficiaries and cost-of-living adjustments only.

Also on the cutting block would be such programs as Medicaid, Medicare, food stamps, child nutrition programs, Aid for Families With Dependent Children, unemployment compensation, civil-service retirement, military retirement and disability. veterans' benefits, student loans and farm price-support programs.

'Crack cocaine and AIDS children are only a small percentage of the total cases receiving SSI payments," Mull said. Children exposed to alcohol before birth can be born prematurely and with multiple disabilities, he added. Fetal exposure to alcohol is more of a contributing factor to the growing number of children who are disabled than AIDS or crack.

In addition to reviewing cases which were rejected before the court decision, Mull said the agency is doing a better job of seeking out individuals who might qualify for the SSI program. New eligibility rules consider not only a child's medical condition, but the effect those conditions have on his or her ability to walk, eat, dress oneself and perform other daily activities.

Disabled adults still get the bulk of SSI benefits. Benefits to the aged went from $286 million in December 1989 to $340 million in January 1993, while benefits to adults with disabilities grew from $868 million to $1.25 billion for the same period, according to AP.

A trip to Africa

Children learn kindness through African folklore

By SARABECCA ROSIER Herald columnist

William Peoples' 4th grade class at Lake Mary Elementary presented a classroom play in conjunction with an area of study the class is involved in.

The students in Peoples' class have been wearing "special buttons" pinned to their clothing for several weeks. In the beginning, the buttons were blank and everyone who saw the students on campus asked what they meant. No one was to tell ?? until all the ground rules and foundation for their purpose was understood by the class. Eventually the buttons had the word C.A.R.E. which means Communicating And Receiving

Parents were invited to be a part of one specific day of the lesson. Peoples explained to the parents that the goals was "making each child know they were somebody." Each students was asked to "say one kind word a day to make someone else feel good," according to Peoples. The play was put on to convey this to them. The children began noticing that not only were they kinder to each other, but when together with other students in school. they noticed more often when one child was unkind to another, and didn't like the feeling it conveyed. Peoples said he "demands excellence from his students and they come through. If a test is poor quality and I know that student has ability to do better. they take it over again." he said. "I almost always write a little encouraging note on their papers and the children know I want them to make an "A" for themselves as well as for me." This was also a part of the CARE program. "It really works and the students treat others in the classroom well and it shows," he said "No child falls through the cracks in my class; if they "stimble, Entels the strup."

story "Why Mosquitos Buzz in She returned to find one baby People's Ears." This tale was set in an African village, around a campfire.

The play goes like this: A youngster asks an elder, "Why does a mosquito buzz in people's ears?"

The elder responds with this

A mosquito saw an iguana and said he saw a yam so big, it was enormous. The iguana was grumpy and didn't want to hear about the yam so he puts sticks in his ears and couldn't hear the python who was disturbed by his unfriendly friend, the iguana, and slithered into the rabbit's hole and scared the rabbit who ran out and alarmed the crow whose duty it was to alarm animals. The monkey heard the erow and helped spread the alarm by leaping through the tree-tops. The monkey landed on a dead limb that snapped off and he fell into an owl's nest killing one of the baby owlets. Mother dead and all the animals told her the monkey killed the owlet. Mother owl was so sad she would not hoot to wake the sun so the day could hart. The night lasted so long the animals thought it would never end. So king lion called a meeting. Mother owl did not come and the antelope was sent to fetch her. All the animals told the king the monkey killed the owlet and monkey was called before the king lion. He said he heard the crow and the crow said he saw the rabbit running who said she ran because the python entered her hole and the python told the king it was the iguana and the iguana who still had sticks in his ears. The king pulled out the sticks and the iguana told about the mosquito and the mosquito was called before the king and it was decided he was the culprit. All the animals wanted the mosquito punished. Because the mosquito had a guilty conHerald Photo by Barabecca Rosler buzzing in people's ears. The room was set up with plants from all over the school for their jungle setting and students brought many stuffed animals. They made costumes themselves of all the animals mentioned in the story. There was an orange paper fire, a watering hole and the owlet nest of hay. Both the Principal Sherrill Casey and Assistant Principal Joann Beckner were there to observe. The entire class participated. Peoples was the king lion and narrator and some students ran the VCR.

Aside from the moral to this story the students also learned that America is divided into states while Africa is divided into different countries. They were also able to name the seven continents of Africa, North America, Asia, Australia, South America. Europe and Antarctica. The children learned that to go to the West Coast of Africa from Lake Mary would take a long derstand same." The play is owl was still hunting for food for science, that is the reason to this time and would be 4,000 miles

Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber recognizes businesses and members contributions

Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce held its "Annual Awards and Appreciation Banquet" at Doro's International Restaurant in Lake Mary.

A buffet dinner of a round roast, Chicken Cacciatori, vegetable medley, new potatoes, broccoli and Chicken Tortellini was the fare for the evening followed by bread pudding and coffee or tea.

The introduction was made by the Chamber's Executive Director Diane Parker along with 1992 President John Siegel, who together, presented the awards.

After the awards, Diane Parker presented a tribute to John Siegel, 1992 president. The trib-ute was in the form of a calendar and slide presentation of John Siegel's life narrated by Diane Parker. Where and how they managed to obtain the baby pictures through his school years and marriage to Robin up-to-date and put them together in this tribute, remains a secret, but it certainly was a funny, serious and enjoyable slice of life.

The guest speakers were Sandy Scheingold and Linda Draeger of "Artistic Formations." After an introduction about their interior design firm located at 1635 Bridgewater Drive in Heathrow by Sandy Scheingold, she brought up her assistant Linda Draeger who told of "decorating" for a client who wanted to decorate an entire great room around a single piece of pottery that she loved, al-though she hated the color.

While Draeger was speaking she was also demonstrating a similar pottery vase and now she changed the color of the pottery using fleck-stone paint. She then proceeded to demonstrate a creative flower arrangement with a tall and sleek style.

Draeger said it was fun being creative and working with clients' favorite pieces of art or furniture and that an old or outdated piece could be brought into today's look or design by changing texture, color and

Sonics shut down Magic

ORLANDO - Shawn Kemp had 27 points and 12 rebounds, and the Scattle SuperSonies held the Orlando Magic to 14 points in the fourth quarter for a 105-97 victory Sunday night.

Gary Payton added 18 points for the Sonies and Ricky Pierce made two clutch jump shots down the stretch as Seattle finished a five-game road trip with a 2-3 record. The loss was the fifth in seven games for the Magic, which went cold after shooting 73 percent in the opening quarter.

Shaquille O'Neal led Orlando with 29 points. But he got little help from his teammates in the final period when he had nine points.

Nick Anderson had 26 points for Orlando -17 in the first quarter - and Scott Skiles finished with 13. O'Neal scored 19 points in the second half, but was limited to eight rebounds while Scattle center Michael Cage grabbed 10.

AROUND THE STATE

Ex-Raider helps FSU win

TALLAHASSEE - Mickey Lopez scored on a bases-loaded walk to former Seminole Commumity College player Jack Niles in the 10th inning as Florida State edged North Carolina 4-3 Sunday in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

Tom Hawkins, the sixth North Carolina pitcher, walked Niles on a 3-1 pitch. Brian Willman (0-1) recorded the loss for North Carolina (9-5, 0-2).

Pitcher Phil Olson (2-1) earned the win for Florida State (15-3, 2-0).

North Carolina took a 2-0 lead after six tunings on a solo home run by Chris Cox in the fifth and Mitch Jones' RBI single in the sixth.

Florida State fied the score 3-3 in the ninth on a Mike Martin single.

David Boone was 3-for-5 for North Carolina

Gators trip Hurricanes

CORAL GABLES - Brian Duva scored on a grounder and Rick Britton on a wild pitch in the 10th inning as Florida beat Miami 4-3.

Florida starter Rob Bonanno (4-1) scattered eight hits and struck out 12 in nine innings for Florida (11-9). He left in the 10th when hit by a line drive off the bat of Miami's Mike Metealle.

Metcalfe's hit sparked a late rally by Mlami (12-10). But reliever Darren McClelland, after allowing a Dave Berg single to plate Metcalle. pitched the last two outs for his second save. Fadul Arrieta (1-2) took the loss for Mianit.

Steve Dailey hit a two-run homer in the eighth off Miami starter Kenny Henderson for Florida. Henderson struck out 11 and had given up only two hits before Dailey's homer

AROUND THE WORLD

Jets ground Lightning

WINNIPEG, Manitoba - Teemu Selanne moved closer to breaking the NHL record for most points by a rookle, scoring his 60th and 61st goals to lead the Winnipeg Jets to a 3-1 win over the Tampa Bay Lightning on Sunday.

Sclanne, who has already broken Mike Bossy's rookie record of 53 goals, raised his points total to 104, five short of Peter Stasny's mark of 109.

Selanne connected on his first two scoring chances against the Lightning, putting the dets ahead 2-0 by 12:32;

Keith Tkachuk scored the other Winnipeg goal into an empty net.

Danton Cole scored for Tampa Bay.

The win moved the Jets (30-33-6) into third place in the Smythe Division, one point ahead of idle Los Angeles. The Kings' games over the weekend, in Buffalo on Sunday and Philadelphia on Saturday, were postponed because of a severe snow storm.

Locals get blown away

Storm results in cancellations, reschedulings

By DEAN SMITH Herald Sports Writer

SANFORD - "Blow out" is a term used in sports to describe a game in which one team beats another by a prohibitive margin. But nothing could compare to the "blow out" that Mother Nature threw this weekend.

The deadly winter storm that moved through the area Friday night and Saturday did not produce any flooding or much damage to local athletic facilities, but the strong winds made play virtually impossible and every event involving local schools except the Knights of Columbus track meet in Ocala was cancelled.

Among the contests lost Saturday in Seminole County was the dedication of the new press box/concession stand and district baseball game at the Seminole High School baseball field; varsity and junior varsity baseball games at Lyman High School; and the Mid-Florida Conference junior college baseball game at Seminole Community College.

Other cancelled events involving county teams were the Lake Mary-Oak Ridge baseball game in Orlando: the junior college softball tournament in Ft. Lauderdale featuring Seminole Community College; and the North Marion softball tournament in which Oviedo and Seminole high schools

The only reported damage to a complex in the complex was that of a light pole being knocked down at the Oviedo High School baseball field.

Three games were scheduled to be played at the Oviedo complex this week. Wednesday with Lyman, Thursday with Deltona, and Friday with Lake Mary. The only confirmed change was the move of Friday night's game to the University of Central Florida baseball field in Orlando starting

The dedication of the press box/concession stand (as well as the new home club house behind the third base dugout) at Seminole High School has been moved to this Saturday, March 20, at 11 a.m. According to head coach Mike Powers, the dedication ceremonies will be followed at noon by the district matchup with Leesburg that was also cancelled Saturday.

Lake Mary head baseball coach Alan Tuttle reported that the game that was scheduled to be played at Oak Ridge Saturday will be rescheduled as soon as both teams check their schedules to find and open date.

Seminote Community College assistant baseball coach Lefty Renaud said that the scheduled game with Orlando's Valencia Community College will be made up on Wednesday. March 24, at 3 p.m. at Raider Field.

Oviedo head softball coach Greg Register said the he was informed at 5:45 a.m. Saturday that the North Marion Tournament had been called off, but that every effort was being made to reschedule the event for a later date.

Seminole Community College will have a chance to climb up the Mid-Florida Conference baseball standings this week with three conference games on the schedule. On Tuesday, the Raiders travel to Lake City Community College. If next year was last year, then Seminole County would have had two teams in the high school football state playoffs.

According to a report Saturday, the Florida High School Activities Association has approved a proposal to expand the playoffs in football and boys' and girls' basketball to include the district runners-up.

In football, the district championship is decided by head-to-head competition during the regular season. District tournaments follow the regular season in every other

From Staff Reports

OCALA - As difficult as it may be to believe, the Lake Mary High School boys' track team actually ventured northwest to Ocala for the 20th annual Knights of Columbus meet at Ocala-Forest High School on Saturday.

The Rams made the trip into the storm-ravaged area worth their by winning the team championship. outscoring runner-up Mainland 92.70.

Rounding out the team standings were Bradford (65). Ocala-Forest (56), Newberry (48), Ocala-St. John Lutheran (14), and Leesburg (0).

"I called the coach at Forest High School at about 8:30 p.m. Friday night to see if the meet had been cancelled because of the weather.' said Lake Mary coach Willie Calloway. "He replied that the meet was still on. He said that they might push it back an hour or two, but the meet definitely was on.

"I was surprised, but not as surprised as our athletes and their parents when I called and told them the meet was still on. It was cold and damp and windy."

Lake Mary used its superior depth to claim the team title. While the Rams only won two events, they scored in 14 of the 15 events contested (the pole vault was cancelled due to the dangerously windy conditions) and had two or more athletes score in 11 events.

The only event in which Lake Mary was shutout was the 120-yard high hurdles.

Leading the Rams was Terrel White, who won the shot put with a throw of 51 feet, 9 inches, and finished third in the discus with an effort of 122 feet, 11 inches-

Lake Mary's other win came in the mile relay (4 x 440), where Johan Alingren, Thomas Watson. Mike Heinzman, and Aren Cook combined to run a time of 3:40.3.

Almgren and Cook also finished second and third, respectively, an the 330-yard intermediate hundles at 42.09 and 44.6;

Rationale behind expanded playoffs unclear

I'm confused (and you can just keep your rude comments to your-According to Article 2 of the Florida High School Activities Association By-Laws, the aim of the FHSAA shall be "to promote, direct, supervise, and regulate all interscholastic activities for high school students . . . to establish, maintain, and enforce such regulations as may be necessary to assure that all such activities shall be part of and contribute towards the entire educational program . . . to safeguard the physical, mental, and moral welfare of high school students and protect them from exploitation.

This is the same FHSAA that agreed at its spring meeting in-Tallahassee this weekend to expand the state playoffs in football and boys' and girls' basketball.

There are several things about this that puzzle me: Is this action consistent with the association's aim? If it is, then why just expandthe playoffs in these three sports? And why does it make any sense competitively for football but not in-

TONY DeSORMIER

Let's look at the last first. Football is an animal unto itself, not that it's more important, but because its physical demands limit teams to one game a week, 10 games a season. Every school that championship has to play all the single-elimination format of the other schools in its district, the team - playoffs to play another game, with the best record against district opponents earning the district championship and a beith in the playoffs.

What that does is add an unadvance to the playoffs, some of mission price of those games at $3 that pressure should be dissipated.

Basketball doesn't have that avenue of rationalization available to it. The FHSAA adds eight more games because its state playoffs actually begin with district tournaments that include every school in the state. Once the regular season is over. every team starts this second season with a clean slate.

Also, most teams prepare for the district tournaments by scheduling at least one game with every district opponent during the regular season. an option not available in football.

To summarize, advancing the district runners-up to the state playoffs in football means expanding the field in each class from 16 to 32 teams. In basketball, it means letting 16 (earns (per class) that wishes to compete for the state have already lost a game in the

> Why would the FHSAA do this? Money

That may sound terribly cymeal. but examine the situation. In baskethall, 25 percent of the gross healthy "all or none" pressure to receipts from regional and sectional every district game a team plays. By advancing district runners-up.

per class. Considering that the FHSAA has decided to go to six enrollment classes in boys' basketball and five classes in girls, that means an additional 88 games to generate funds for the FHSAA treasury.

On top of that, the expenses of these games are to be "borne by the home team" (quoted directly from the FHSAA Contest Regulations handbook for fall and winter sports). not by the association.

It can only be supposed that the reason the FHSAA has not made this change in policy manifest in all sports (i.e. baseball, boys' and girls' soccer, softball) is that they wouldn't provide the same financial windfall as football and basketball (traditionally the best-attended sports). The money taken in by the FHSAA would then be used in the adminstration of its many programs, which include a variety of non-athletic activities as well. In this light, it seems a painless way to raise funds while giving coaches. players, and fans more of what they want. It's still uncomfortbaly confusing.

James Davis scored in both the shot put and discus, finishing sixth in both events. He threw the shot 40 feet, 3½ inches and the discus 118 feet, 7 inches. Joe Hilley took third in the shot put (40 feet, 11 inches).

Chris Taylor, Rich Heinzman, and Alex Bohne scored in both the two-mile and mile runs. Taylor was second in the two-mile (11:01) and third in the mile (4:42.8). Heinzman finished fifth in both the mile (5:11) and two-mile (11:50) while Bohne came in sixth in both the mile (5:17) and (wo-mile (12:05). Lake Mary runners also finished fourth (Jeremy Baxter, 2:21), fifth (Chas Milanovich, 2:22), and sixth (Aren Schreiber, 2:50) in the 880-yard run.

Otis Wellon claimed third in the 100meter dash with a time of 11.4 seconds. In the 220-yard dash. Terrel Jackson placed fifth (25.7 seconds) and Jimmy Newberry claimed sixth (26.1 seconds). Newberry also took sixth in the high jump, clearing 5 feet. 8 inches.

Thomas Watson finished second in the high jump (5 feet, 10 inches) and second in the long jump (19 feet, 11% inches). Mike Boyd placed fourth in the high jump (5 feet. 8 inches) and sixth in the triple jump (33 feet, 9 inches).

Thomas Gilchrest jumped 35 feet, 4 inches to finish third in the triple jump and 16 feet, 11 inches to come in sixth in the long jump. Chip Richardson was third in the long jump with an effort of 17 feet. 10 inches. Adrian Karaturovic's leap of 33 feet. 11 inches was good for fifth in the triple jump.

football added lustre.

In the 440-yard dash, Mike Heinzman placed third (55.8 seconds) and Wayne Hairston took sixth (59.1 seconds).

The quartet of Terrel Jackson. Wellon. Glichrest, and Dwayne Greene took second in the 440 relay (4 x 110 yards) with a time of 46.9 seconds, three-tenths of a second off of the first place time.

Later this week, the Rams will host the Lake Mary Invitational on Saturday.

"(Including the runners-up in the state playoffs) takes away from what district title has meant and what it should be." said Almon. "To me, I've always like the aspect in football that you have to win them (district games) all, so i guess i'm against

"A lot of times, the district comes down to one game. Some good teams do stay home and that's too bad. But usually, the best team wins that ballgame any way. To win the state championship, you have to be lucky and good." Almon also questioned the fiscal wisdom of the decision. "It's getting more teams involved, which will cost more money," he said. "There'll be twice as many teams traveling."

Spring is in the air

Colorful azaleas continue to bloom until April

Azaleas are one of spring's most beautiful announcements. Many start blooming in February and some will continue to bloom through early April. Colors include white, pink, red, salmon, light purple and violet. This is a good time to shop for new plants since you can see the color of the flowers.

Azaleas will grow and flower well in Central Florida under certain conditions. Azaleas perform best if given partial shade; plants in full sun or dense shade don't grow or bloom as well. Well-drained soils with plenty of organic matter is best. When planting azaleas in sandy soil. prepare the entire area with may be pot bound. There are mixed reviews compost or peat moss to increase soil's on whether or not to loosen a tight root amendments to the individual planting hole success when slicing through the outer is no longer recommended.

The soil pH in our area is naturally acidic. This is ideal for azaleas which grow best in solls with a pH range of 4.5 to 5.5. Unfortunately, during construction, lime and mortar may get mixed into the soil and raise the soil pH to a higher level. The result will be a yellowing of the newest leaves. These symptoms occur most commonly in plantings along the concrete foundation of the home or next to concrete sidewalks and drives. Avoid planting in these locations or be prepared for yellow leaves each year.

network of roots near the soil surface. Because the roots are near the surface. azaleas need frequent irrigation. It is best to group azaleas together and irrigate separately from more drought tolerant plants. This will avoid overwatering other landscape plants which can survive longer between waterings.

Azaleas from the nursery are usually grown in a peat-type soil mix and the plants water holding ability. Adding organic system. Local gardeners have had good layer of roots, then loosening the mass before planting. Water the plant well before planting to wet the roots - a dunk in a bucket of mild soapy water will soak a really dry root system. Add water to the hole during planting. This settles loose soil around the roots and avoids air pockets which cause roots to dry out. Apply a 2 to 3 inch layer of natural mulch, taking care to pull it several inches from the stems. New plants will need a close watch to be sure the original root ball does not dry out. "Water the root ball" 2 to 3 times a week at first, Azalcas are shallow rooted and have a fine then after the plants develop a more extensive root system, but back to once every 10 to 14 days. Established plants in the shade rarely need irrigation; watch for wilting of the leaves. Care now and during the summer can determine how well azaleas bloom next spring; prune the tips of branches soon after they stop blooming. New shoots will form just behind the pruning cut, resulting in a more compact plant. New flower buds form at the shoot tips over the summer, therefore, do your trimming by early July. If you wait too long, you won't get any flowers next

Once the new growth has matured or hardened off, you can start new plants from cuttings. Trim off four to six-inch shoot tips. Dip the cut end into a rooting powder and stick the cuttings one inch deep into a pot of moist media. Use vermiculite or a mixture of equal parts peat and perlite. Mist the leaves and put the container in a reused clear plastic bag such as the ones newspapers come in. Close up the top of the bag to hold in moisture. Live cuttings will remain green.

After six weeks, you can begin to leave the bag open for part of the day. Within three months, the cuttings should develop a root system the size of a golf ball and be ready for transplanting into a larger pot. Wait until next spring to set into the landscape.

Monitor weekly for disease and insect pests and hand pick or trim affected portions when practical. Before choosing a pesticide for control, consult the Agriculture Center for proper identification of the problem - spraying a fungicide to control spider mites will be a waste of money and time and won't solve the problem.. The misuse of pesticides also has the potential to contaminate our fragile environment - use all pesticides wisely!

Whether you buy or buy your azaleas from a local garden center or grow your own from cuttings, azaleas add a spectacular display of color to the landscape, though often brief, that is not easily matched by other plants.

He who laughs like crazy, rarely is

DEAR ABBY: The letter from the lady who was offended by the jocular use of the term 'brain dead" started me thinking of the myriad terms that are considered insensitive — at least in some contexts.

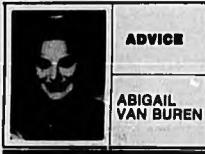

I concluded that there are very few - if any things said in jest that would not be offensive to someone, somewhere at some time. Likewise, who among us is completely without at least one sensitive spot?

I wonder if a society that personalizes everything isn't in danger of becoming humorless. For example: I happen to be bald. I really wish I weren't, but there is a lot of good, clean humor on the subject of bald men. I can live with that. If we lose the ability to laugh at ourselves, can insanity be far behind? Putting it another way, the person who laughs like crazy, rarely is.

We know that God has a sense of humor, as witnessed by the existence of the human race. Didn't I read somewhere that God ereated man in his own

FRANK WILSON, A.K.A. "CHROMEDOME," DALLAS DEAR FRANK, A.K.A. 'CHROMEDOME": The ability to laugh at one's self is indeed admirable, but everything is relative. Had you found yourself permanently bald at age 21, you may not have been able to see the humor in baldness. And I would be the last to fault you.

In addition, to imply that the creation of man is God's joke evokes no laughter from me. More to the point, "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn!" (Robert

DEAR ABBY: A relative by marriage has offered to do a painting for a family member who has recently purchased a new home. This person has been painting as a hobby, but by no stretch of the imagination can she be considered an artist. The relationship between these two has been cordial, but not close. The thought of having a large amateur painting on the wall of her new home has caused an obvious problem. It seems that no matter what the family suggests as a solution, someone is bound to be hurt. It looks like the reluctant recipient is stuck. Please, Abby, pass the word to other want-to-be artists to refrain from offering original "art" to anyone who has not expressed a sincere desire to own a piece.

STUCK IN LA JOLLA DEAR STUCK: I'll pass the word, but I can't guarantee a solution to this sticky wicket. However, the recipient of unwanted amateur art need not be stuck to display it simply because it has been offered. A polite, but firm refusal - "Oh, I couldn't allow you to do that: besides. I have more paintings than places to hang them" could prevent a sea of trouble later.

Or, the recipient could graciously accept the painting. hang it somewhere in her home for a while — then take it down.

DEAR READERS: This is too good to keep to myself; it's from The New York Times Sunday magazine. Letters to the Editor: "I gloried in your coverage of our governor. We are all very proud of Ann Richards.

'When I heard her speak to a group of Houston women as she was campaigning. I remarked to a tall, handsome young man who stood next to me: 'You could diagram her every sentence; her rhetoric is flawless."

"It should be," he said. 'She was an English teacher for several years. I'm her son and her chauffeur, and she keeps my driving and grammar under constant surveillance.

Pneumonia can cause scarring of lungs

DEAR DR. GOTT: I follow your DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a red column daily and need your advice. I've been told by my doctor that I have old granulomatous pulmonary discase in my right lower lung and that it is caused by having pneumonia. I'm 37 and have never had pneumonia. Further, he didn't recommend any type of treatment. Would you please give me some advice?

DEAR READER: Pneumonia. infection in the lung, can cause scarring, as will infection in any other part of the body. Granulomatous pulmonary disease simply means that old scars and areas of inflammation are visible by X-ray in a part of your

Your doctor is correct that these relatively inconsequential findings often reflect a previous lung infection. Perhaps, in childhood, you had a brief bout of "pleurisy" or a respiratory inflammation that wasn't diagnosed as pneumonia because years ago doctors were 28 information not as aggressive in diagnosing pneumonia; patients -- especially children - were put to bed and given aspirin and liquids while the infection ran its course. Thus, you could have had pneumonia and not known it.

Of course, there is a possibility that your granulomatous disease could represent an ongoing, indolent infection with an affliction such as tuberculosis. However 18 unlikely this is, your doctor should probably test you for TB (with a skin test) and check any sputum for bacterial growth. At the very least, he should X-ray you again in several months to make sure that the lung condition is not progressing.

If your abnormal X-ray findings are stable and you are not experiencing symptoms (such as fever, cough, night sweats, chest pain, weight loss, or breath-lessness), I agree that treatment is not indicated. For any sign of active infection, however, you should receive antibiotics or other similar therapy.
