

Make Love Lifelong Pursuit

By DAVID POLING
Scholars are still discussing the strategy and tactics employed by Jesus Christ during Holy Week. Without a doubt, he began the drama with a public entrance into Jerusalem on Palm Sunday.

Jay Haley contends in the "Power Tactics of Jesus Christ" that the Nazarene missed the overthrow of the temple and the collapse of Jerusalem by a quirk of history — that Jesus really planned to take over and, if he failed, was not afraid of the cross for he believed in God's ultimate vindication.

This may appear to be a condensed and rather simple version of history, but the essential facts are clear: Jesus believed in the power of the spirit of God over the rule of sword and revolution. Man, the current rage of radicals, must mean a rejection of violence and physical force, if necessary, to correct old wrongs or to withstand new oppressions.

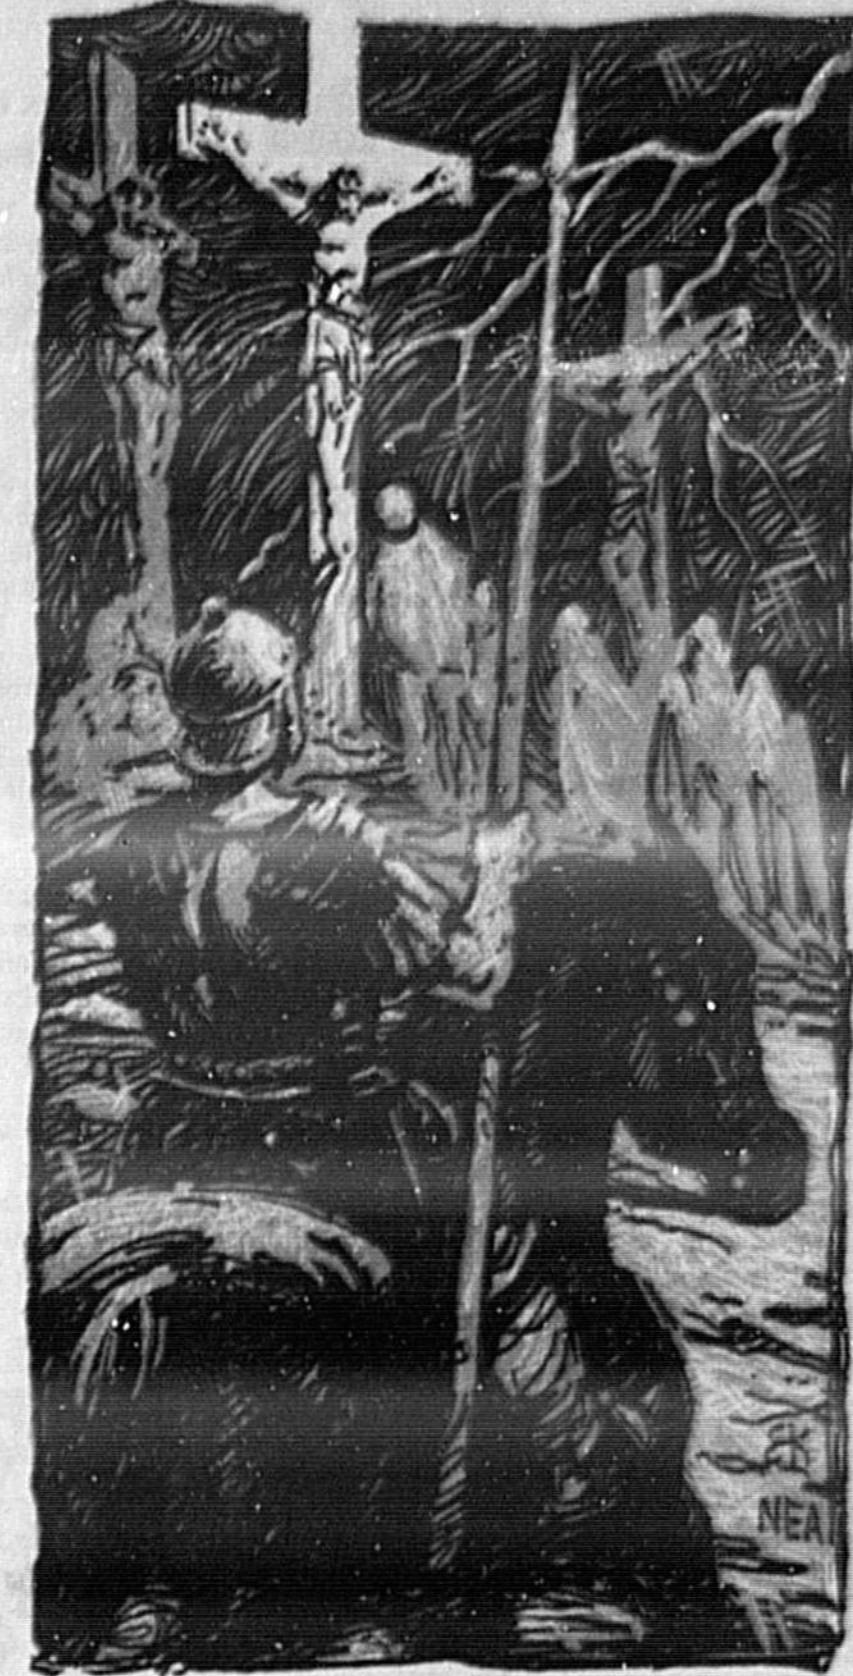

The clenched fist, the up-against-the-wall rhetoric sounds very dramatic when trotted out at a church convention or introduced at a student-faculty meeting. But a longer look at history and a deeper grasp of the Christian way must mean a rejection of violence and violent behavior for the honest followers of Jesus.

Let us never forget that all the options of military force, guerrilla raids, terrorist tactics were known and rejected by Jesus. He lived in a land seething with political and military intrigue. The Roman garrison maintained constant surveillance over his activities and those of his people.

Christians from the very beginning had the nerve to be different, to challenge the old rules of foul play and the ancient standards of raw force and gun barrel diplomacy. And most make the kingdom of God does not come in street bombings or revolutionary slogans but in the patience to make love a lifelong pursuit — knowing that at death, it never ends.

This is the right time and place for the church to have the world aware that it believes in the Gospel and has confidence in the Savior. The Easter message for all time.

And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. — Then said Jesus, Father, forgive them; for they know not what they do. — Luke 23: 33, 34

County Enacts Law For Rock Festivals

By MARION BETHA

Board of Seminole County Commissioners met in special session to approve an ordinance to provide for the control and regulation of groups or gatherings of persons in the open, which would include "rock festivals."

The ordinance relates to musical or entertainment festivals within Seminole County, providing for definitions; requiring the Board of County Commissioners of Seminole County to issue special entertainment permits for the holding of any musical or entertainment festival; setting standards for the issuance of permits; prohibiting operation of any festival for more than eight hours without an intervening 24-hour period; providing that children under the age of 17 years attending such festivals must be accompanied by a parent or guardian; authorizing the setting of fees and providing penalties.

The commission recognizes that it is necessary in the interest of public health and welfare to provide for the control and regulation of groups and gatherings.

Permits for the gatherings shall not be issued unless conditions are met for adequate sanitation facilities and sewage disposal, parking facilities, medical facilities and security and traffic control. Full disclosure also must be made by the promoters to the board of the financial backing of the festival and names of all persons and groups who will perform at said festival. The ordinance further sets forth that anyone in violation shall be prosecuted as having committed a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be punished by a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed 60 days. Application fee for such gatherings has been set by the board at $500.

"We could end the war in 48 hours if we wanted to." "What I can't understand is why, when we actually had the enemy on the run back in '68, this country didn't finish the job then?"

These thoughts were expressed to Herald Associate Editor John A. Spolski on his recent visit to Camp Lejeune North Carolina, when he and 14 others from the state were the guests of the Marine Corps.

The Sanford Herald will present a pictorial review of the visit along with editorial comment by Spolski in Tuesday's edition.

2 Bomb Threats 'False Alarms'

Two Sanford hamburger restaurants last night received 'phoned bomb threats that later proved to be hoaxes. Police teams first checked Burger Inn, 2109 French Avenue, after receiving a call from the establishment at 10:55 p.m., telling of the bomb which had been 'phoned earlier.

The unknown caller told Burger Inn operators to "get all the kids away" as a bomb had been planted and would soon explode. Sgt. Johnnie Parker, Patrolman Daley Smith, Lt. Edward Hayden, William Lykes and Sgt. Tom Deppen, police, checked the building after first clearing out all but employees.

Later at 11:35 p.m., a call was received that there was a mistake, the bomb had been planted at the Burger Chef, also on French Avenue, next Burger Inn. Once again police hurried out to find only several cleanup boys working at the already closed Burger Chef.

Another check disclosed no evidence of a bomb, but the phoned threats received attention especially since a radio report from Florida Highway Patrol of a fire disclosed that a bomb had been tossed in the DeLand downtown area by someone who escaped in a 1959 Ford car.

God Created Life Beyond Death

Easter is the most important day of the year because it confirms our faith in God. It is the day when we believe that God has created life beyond death. It is the day when we believe that God has created life beyond death. It is the day when we believe that God has created life beyond death.

How is it possible to believe that God has created life beyond death? It is possible because we know that God has created life beyond death. It is possible because we know that God has created life beyond death. It is possible because we know that God has created life beyond death.

Jerusalem is the Holy City. For centuries, it has been the center of religious life for the world's great religions. For thousands of years, it represented the city of peace and the city of God's promise.

As the first Christians had been Hebrews and heirs of the Promised Land, they shared the rights of other nations. Until peace is found, this Holy City shall be in the center of the storm, for that is where God has placed it.

College Students Swarming

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—Neither rain, nor polio hassles nor high hotel rates appeared to slow a steady stream of college students in search of Spring sunshine on Florida beaches.

Police Chief A. O. Poltom Thursday predicted 100,000 students would swarm in Daytona's miles of beaches, but that they would be orderly.

"I believe this will be a better behaved bunch of students than we have had in previous years," Poltom said. "I expect no less than 100,000. I base that on a check with motels, hotels and other places that will put the students up for a weekend."

Here Is A Small Drive With Large Meanings

Editorial Comment

Ride along S-46 the few miles that run from I-4 in Seminole County to the Weliva River where Lake County takes over.

This is a try to do so with safety and without the need of close attention to the very bad state of the surface as this is a stretch where, as the beloved hymn states: "... every prospect pleases and only man-made roads are vile!"

For, once more, the concern about the improvement of this section of the neglected S-46 highway has been aroused and now summons again the immediate attention and action by both the county commissioners and the Sanford City Commissioners whose support is certainly very much in order.

We suggest the ride as it is almost impossible to convey the possibilities for growth, and a very nice manner of growth, which this particular area of Seminole County would experience if the road were made safe for travel without seeing for oneself.

However, the fact seems now to be established that the improvement of the two-lane S-46 in this section will take place and that the rights-of-way for four-laning, which is inescapable, are to be secured.

Yet the experience of road plans shows equally plainly that postponement of essential preliminary steps can be endured only if loss of the entire project can be hazarded.

Thus we would urge that there be no let-up, indeed an increase of pressure by our county commissioners, city commissioners and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce if the powers-that-be in the road department show any tendency to forget the urgency.

Re-alignment is not of a small part of the S-46 section to be improved is also a matter which must be settled before the preliminary steps are taken prior to the securing of rights-of-way or letting of contracts.

This is the end of March. Before the close of this budget year in June, all present commitments should be honored to assure their continuance into 1971. Hence the heavy hand of time and the threat to even this small improvement for a neglected and of Seminole County.

Even if this were an ordinary year and our state government in this respect were not expected to be more than a passive participant in the spirit of urgency should be swirling through the commission offices.

But 1970 is not an ordinary year. The State Department of Transportation is about to undergo major changes in leadership. Power will be exerted by a new organization from the very top level.

What all of this implies in connection with the overall road program in Florida or in Central Florida cannot even be guessed. There is one assumption, however, that can safely be made: those who speak out forcefully, who refuse to relax their demand for essential road improvements — and this section of S-46 is certainly one — will be heard.

Of course this road construction is only a very small, but essential start, in the campaign to improve the traffic flow of all of Central Florida by upgrading a logical and valuable major east-west artery by bringing S-46 into a pattern linking two great interstate highways.

Small beginnings often have very large endings. The ability of our county and city leadership to bring about the improvement of S-46, already promised but under a cloud of delay, could well mark a new vigor in this road issue which has hitherto blocked the proper growth and prosperity of Sanford and Seminole!

Strike Subsidy

Unemployment benefits paid to people who are out of work through no fault of their own have served a constructive, humanitarian purpose in helping people over difficult periods of hardship. But do you think unemployment aid programs ought to be used to subsidize strikes?

It has been suggested that one reason the number of strikers lived in states that allow strikers to draw unemployment pay. It is reported New York gave the strikers between seven and eight million dollars. Massachusetts nearly three million, while the Rhode Island figures are unreported but substantial.

Helping a man who is out of work through no fault of his own is one thing. Paying benefits to people who walk off their jobs and stay off on purpose is quite another. It is bad policy to have governmental programs subsidize strikes and promote unemployment claims by the unemployed. — Chattanooga (Tenn.) News-Free Press

Losing Battle

The latest Labor Department statistics shows that in spite of a gain in take-home pay for the average worker of 18 cents per week and a 22-cent boost as a result of the lower income tax surcharge, the Consumer Price Index rose and nullified all the gains.

Which merely proves that ancient adage, "Just when a guy gets to the point where he can make money, someone moves the ends." — Roanoke (Va.) Times

"The Problems of Inflation Have Been Solved!"

Domestic Comment:

Plot On Sihanouk Bad Error

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In 1956, a South Vietnamese diplomat in Phnom Penh, Cambodia, gathered himself up some weapons he had stored in his room, disguised himself in the clothes of a peasant and went out into the streets for an appointment with men who were plotting a coup against Prince Sihanouk.

The diplomat was caught. He had disguised himself carefully. But he had ventured forth to his clandestine meeting driving the official car of the South Vietnamese embassy.

From that day to this, Sihanouk has not trusted Saigon. For the plotter was the personal representative and close associate of President Ngo Dinh Diem, then head of the government of South Vietnam.

This mistrust has been most unfortunate for South Vietnam and for the United States.

Perhaps Sihanouk would have been as suspicious of South Vietnam in any event. For the Cambodians have never felt secure in their kingdom. Thailand, to the west, ruled Cambodia as a province for many years, most recently by one of Sihanouk's own uncles (a Thai). Since Cambodia's independence, Sihanouk has "uncovered" a series of "plots" that prove to him that his Thai relatives were out to displace him.

As this report comes from first-hand knowledge, they weren't. But Sihanouk would not be convinced.

Despite this record of mistrust, an acquaintance of this reporter who was in the South Vietnamese diplomat's room in Phnom Penh shortly before the arrest, is convinced that if it had not been for unfortunate acts of this man, South Vietnam's relations with Cambodia this past decade would have been much closer.

That could have changed the course of the war.

Without Cambodia's rice and imports for their troops, and without the safe haven of their Cambodian sanctuary, the Communist would have had a very rough time indeed in the Delta of South Vietnam, where 40 per cent of the Vietnamese farmers live.

Without the South Vietnamese rice smuggled into Cambodia by Cambodian smugglers, then shipped to the north and back into Viet Cong hands in central Vietnam, the North Vietnamese would have found it almost impossible to feed their invasion troops in much of the area north of Saigon.

Without those absolute Cambodian sanctuaries, the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops would in many places have had no place to hide when heavily pressed by American and South Vietnamese troops.

This is not to say that the Cambodian army could have held off the North Vietnamese. But willing cooperation is one thing, forced co-operation another.

Cambodia could have given South Vietnamese and American troops the right of hot pursuit, which would have destroyed the effectiveness of the Viet Cong.

Cambodia could have agreed to a selective inspection of several other countries, including Pakistan, Hungary and Uganda, left their jobs in the Supreme Court strike.

For one thing, it would create a backlog of unpaired legislation, some of which might even be beneficial. In addition, as long as the president remains on strike he will be nobody around the answer to the "hot line" in case H. ringer.

Jack Eckerd has added more "muscle" to his staff for his campaign for the Republican nomination for Governor, backing the incumbent, Claude R. Kirk Jr.

Bill Murfin, Eckerd's campaign manager, announced that Frank Kovac has joined the Jack Eckerd-for-Governor team. Kovac was finance director for Barry Goldwater's 1964 presidential bid.

Murfin is leaving no stone unturned in his quest for financial backing for the millionaire Eckerd. Area Republicans are receiving in the mail pieces from Murfin for donations of time, talent and dollars.

It tells us he left "Washington and my post with the Nixon Administration to join Jack Eckerd in his Florida campaign for Governor. I wanted you to know why."

"During my term as Republican state chairman, we worked together for a new direction in Florida politics. We worked and we sacrificed because we believed in a cause. We wanted government of, by and for the people — not government of, by and for the politicians."

We told all the people of Florida — The Democrats have governed for 160 years. Give us a chance. We'll be more honest, more responsible and we'll solve the problems.

Florida gave us that chance. We must make good. To keep faith with the people, we must nominate a leader all Republicans can be proud of and all Floridians can follow.

Jack Eckerd is a proven solver. More than that — he is a decent and honorable man. He has purpose and conscience and he will be the people's governor. He cannot be bought by anyone or any group.

Murfin continues then with his plea for assistance in Eckerd's campaign. (By the by, if the reader doesn't know, Eckerd and Murfin are millionaire druggists.)

L. G. Ray Osborne, aiming for the Senate post, touched on shortcoming of the U.S. Supreme Court when he spoke with DeBarry Republicans.

The Young Republican said he believed he is "qualified to represent the people and hoped that he would have the opportunity to prove the Supreme Court could work for the people instead of being merely a battleground for politics."

One last item about Jack Eckerd this week ... and no more for a spell to come. Eckerd had to wait three hours yesterday to officially open his newest drugstore because a building inspector had not yet checked the store's sprinkler system.

Impatient with red tape, Eckerd called Dade County Mayor Chuck Hall to expedite approval. But Hall, a Democrat gubernatorial candidate, wasn't there.

"His office said he was out campaigning," Eckerd said.

Misery Loves Company - Oui!

As the United States fights a simultaneous battle against inflation and a possible recession and suffers the paralyzing effect of a nationwide mail strike, it is not without company.

In France, the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), with a membership of about two million is attempting to upset an agreement signed by four other labor federations aimed at preventing a strike of gas and electricity workers for at least two years.

France is attempting to upset an agreement signed by four other labor federations aimed at preventing a strike of gas and electricity workers for at least two years.

A French complication is that the CGT is Communist-led and the suspicion is that CGT leaders are acting more from political motives than for concern for the membership.

As the administration of President Georges Pompidou attempts to solve its economic problems, revolutionize the French educational system, establish its "New Society" at home and reestablish itself as a power in the Mediterranean, it is beset by troubles on all sides.

As the United States fights a simultaneous battle against inflation and a possible recession and suffers the paralyzing effect of a nationwide mail strike, it is not without company.

In France, the General Confederation of Labor (CGT), with a membership of about two million is attempting to upset an agreement signed by four other labor federations aimed at preventing a strike of gas and electricity workers for at least two years.

A French complication is that the CGT is Communist-led and the suspicion is that CGT leaders are acting more from political motives than for concern for the membership.

In Trial Of Ex-Orange Official Faircloth Accused Of Accepting Bribe

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Grand Jury testimony, accusing Attorney General Earl Faircloth of accepting a $75,000 bribe from cosmetics executive Gleen Turner, was read Thursday at the bribery trial of Herbert Waters.

Waters, a former Orange County investigator, gave the testimony to the county grand jury after his arrest last August on charges of accepting a $10,000 bribe from Turner. Waters' former boss, suspended County Solicitor Colles White, was also charged in the alleged bribe and faces trial at a later date.

The grand jury testimony was read from the witness stand by prosecutor Marvin Mounis Jr. just before the state rested its case against Waters.

In the testimony, Waters quoted Turner as saying, "I gave Earl Faircloth $75,000 to help me, and Colles White can do a lot more good for me."

Connected in Tallahassee Thursday, Faircloth denied the alleged bribe from Turner, as did the cosmetics executive himself.

In the testimony, the former investigator maintained that White had planned from the start to set Turner up for bribery charges. He said White told him this could not be done unless money actually passed hands.

Further in the testimony, Waters said when he reported Turner's alleged statement about the $75,000 bribe to his boss, White replied, "If he already told you

In return for these payments, Waters' testimony went on to state that he had investigated White's office had investigated and endorsed Turner's firm, Roscot Interplanetary Communications, Inc.

Waters said Turner told him that on such terms as the attorney general of Arizona would be worth $200,000 to me."

Life Of A Congressman Is A Happy, Merry One

By DANIEL RAPOPORT
WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Air Force presidential jet headed toward Monte Carlo where the plane's congressional passengers hoped among other things, to gain a new perspective on campus unrest.

With scarcely time for a weather, the senators and representatives temporarily plaid pressing domestic business and turned to the international problems scheduled for discussion at the spring conference of the Inter-Parliamentary Union, described by some cynics as one of the better "junkets" available to members of Congress.

Up for discussion is a 200-page paper written by a Japanese delegate, an American who read it describes it as a "blast."

The U.S. delegation includes Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala.; B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C.; Hugh Scott, R-Pa.; Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn.; Birch Bayh, D-Ind.; Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; and Charles H. Percy, R-Ill. House members were Reps. E. Ross Adair, R-

Ind.; Emilio Q. Daddario, D-Conn.; Alexander Perles, R-N.Y.; Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill.; and Robert McCloy, R-Ill. The congressman will be going at the expense of the government. They will receive a per diem allowance of $50 a day.

Congressional spokesmen said they did not know how many lawmakers were taking their wives. The government does not pay a per diem allowance for the women, but their Air Force transportation is free.

The delegation departed Thursday night from Andrews Air Force Base, Md. The event members of the American delegation are needed at home for a vote, the Air Force is prepared to fly them to Washington at a moment's notice.

Enemy Desperate Due To Food Shortages Huge Yank Force Lambasts N. Vietnamese

By DAVID ROSENZWEIG
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — American troops, tanks, helicopters and fighter planes attacked a North Vietnamese force that may have been trying to slip into Cambodia and killed 88 of them, military sources said today.

The source said the size of the enemy force was not known but it put up stiff resistance in the battle Thursday, which took place in thick jungle three miles from the Cambodian frontier and about 75 miles northwest of Saigon.

Two Americans were killed and 25 wounded, the U.S. Command said. American officers said North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces have been emerging from their hideouts in increasing numbers during the past few weeks, apparently because of drastic food shortages. Last month, U.S. troops uncovered some of the biggest caches of the war in the same area, including about 80 tons of rice. "They seem to be pretty desperate," one officer said. "The only logical place for them to go is back across the border, and that's what they may have been trying to do."

Since the overthrow of Cambodia's chief of state Prince Norodom Sihanouk, March 18, American forces have been instructed to take special precautions against venturing too close to the border.

Thursday's fighting erupted when elements of the 1st Air Cavalry Division ran into part of the enemy force during a sweep. As the shooting escalated, the North Vietnamese opened up with rockets and machine-gun fire. The Americans countered with air and more artillery strikes. Five more North Vietnamese soldiers were killed in the same area today, officers said. No American casualties were reported.

In the air war, the U.S. Command reported today that a number of bombs dropped during a B-52 raid near the Cambodian border in the Mekong delta missed their target and 12

South Vietnamese civilians were wounded, three seriously. An investigation is under way, military authorities said. The command also disclosed the loss of the 19th American aircraft over Laos since March 10 when American headquarters in Saigon began reporting air losses across the border.

Military spokesmen said an Air Force A1 was hit by enemy ground fire while on a combat mission over Laos, crashed across the border in Thailand and was destroyed. The pilot was rescued, but suffered slight injuries, the spokesmen said. U.S. Air Force, Navy, Marine Corps and B-52 aircraft attacked along the Ho Chi Minh trail again Thursday and Air Force planes flew combat support missions for Royal Laotian forces, the command said.

Air Controller's Demands Stem From Frustrations

By VERN HAUGLAND
AP Aviation Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The current air traffic controllers' slowdown is the immediate result of a government-ordered transfer of three Louisiana-based controllers, but the roots of the dispute run much deeper.

At immediate issue is the transfer of the three men from the Baton Rouge, La., control tower by the Federal Aviation Agency.

The Baton Rouge dispute has to be straightened out immediately, says F. Lee Bailey, executive director of the Professional Air Traffic Controllers Organization (PATCO). "Until the positions of the three controllers transferred from their positions there are restored, there can be no negotiations."

But Michael J. Rock, PATCO board chairman, says the slow-downs also stem from frustrations over the FAA's failure to improve working conditions in line with the recommendations of a presidential panel last January.

The panel, headed by an independent air traffic consultant, John J. Corson, concluded that the controllers' primary tool, radar, is inadequate and often outmoded.

The panel also said a shortage of trained manpower has required the FAA to establish working arrangements imposing many controllers work for varying periods of time under great stress and are required to make fast decisions in successive carrying life-and-death consequences.

"The frequent shift changes strain the health of controllers, limit their capacity to perform effectively, and disrupt family living patterns."

Hippies Rolling In

By TOM ALEXANDER
It's termed the "Winter's End Rock Festival" but it looks more like a multi-bath as hundreds of young hippie types, with a small conglomerate of clean cut youths mixed in, converge on the Econ Ranch located 12 miles west of Orlando on Highway 50.

They are coming by foot, by thumb, by motorcycle, by car and by truck to hear the "in" music of today, which supposedly starts at 8 p.m. today. Some 2,000 young music fans were already on hand this morning with smoke from last night's campfires smothering the area.

Whether the three-day festival, billed to get underway this morning and continuing through Sunday, will be staged, however, is being left up to the court in Orlando.

One young girl this morning told this reporter "I didn't hitchhike for nothing from Los Angeles. There better be something happening here or there's going to be a lot of people disappointed!"

Police, sheriff and highway patrol and State Fresh Water Fish and Game personnel were stationed around the entrance to the East Orange County site. Seminole County Chief Investigator J. Q. Galloway was also on hand at the rock festival location, apparently to be of aid to Orange County officials, if needed.

It was learned this morning that Orange County Sheriff Dave Starr has some 200 law enforcement officers available to move in and clear the area or quell any disturbance but everything was "peace and love" at the happening at press time.

The sweet aroma of marijuana could easily be detected by this reporter's nostrils. A bearded youth dressed in dungarees stated, "I've pitched my tent, I've come here to hear music, and I'm not going to bother anybody."

About 5:30 p.m. yesterday, James Brown, owner of the Econ Ranch, filed a suit in U.S. District Court in Orlando for a federal order to have an Orange County ordinance, which prohibits "rock festivals" declared unconstitutional.

Street Lighting Increase Urged

By BILL SCOTT
A survey of Sanford street lighting has been completed by Florida Power and Light Company at the request of the City Commission and the survey proposes changes amounting to an increase of $11,221.80 to the present street lighting budget of $32,238, according to figures released by City Manager W. E. Knowles.

Knowles reported the recommendations are for improving existing lighted areas and does not cover those areas not yet with lights.

If the commission decides to approve the power company's recommendations, the estimated lighting costs will mean a 43½ percent increase in the city's 1970-71 budget for street lighting.

City areas recommended for lighting improvements include: First Street, west of French Avenue, replace 14 lamps with 25 lamps; Second Street, Sanford Avenue to Mellonville Avenue, replace 14 lamps with 25 lamps; New Insecticides May Finish DDT

Amid all the furor over DDT, some word from a University of Florida researcher that "two new insecticides will virtually eliminate the need for this controversial chemical on many crops in the state."

Conservationists are not expected to complain about the new chemicals—Laminate and Gardona—because they are both nonpersistent in the environment. Their availability comes at a time when DDT's future looks more uncertain than ever.

"The use in Florida could be eliminated altogether or reduced by 80% now before the new insecticides," explains Dr. Gerald Greene, assistant entomologist at the university's Central Florida Experiment Station on Colony Avenue. "All heat five hills have been introduced that would either ban DDT and other persistent chemicals entirely, restrict their use to emergency control of pest control, or require the use of substitutes as they become available."

DDT is vulnerable at the federal level, too. Before the passage of the amendment to DDT that may remain on a crop at harvest, were reduced to one part per million (ppm) in 1968 on many crops, including broccoli, brassica sprouts, endive (escarole), cauliflower, potatoes, zucchini, strawberries, and sweet corn, a $20 million-a-year crop and hereafter the largest single user of DDT to fight off the destructive cutworm, remained at 2.5 ppm. But that

Similar tests by Dr. Melvin Jans at the Everglades Experiment Station, Belle Glade, have proven the effectiveness of both chemicals in that area.

Microbes Are Men's Allies

By FRANK J. JASA

County Agricultural Agent Melvin Jans says that the discovery in 1957 that these tiny creatures could sour milk, scientists have been harnessing the power of living microbes to advance our physical and economic well-being.

To recruit these valuable allies, Agricultural Research Service maintains the world's largest assemblage of industrially important microorganisms in its Culture Collection at Peoria, Ill. It now contains over 35,000 species and strains of yeast, fungi, bacteria, and actinomyces deposited by donors around the globe. A kind of microbial bank, the Collection's cultures are drawn upon by ARS scientists and their colleagues in industry and academia.

The Collection also performs vital public services. It serves as a depository for all microorganisms involved in U. S. patent applications. And it provides an internationally recognized identification function because most of its cultures are freeze-dried, sealed in glass ampules, and refrigerated, thus the organisms remain viable for years yet are free of contamination and mutation.

Micro-organisms from the ARS Collection quickly and economically convert agricultural byproducts into antibiotics, vitamins, and processing materials for industry. A few examples include cultures used in producing penicillin, the blood plasma-coagulation fraction, streptomycin, and the chemical flavin (vitamin B2), and industrial alcohol, ARS scientists also developed ways to process these and other fermentation-derived products on a large scale.

Looking ahead, scientists are trying to find new and vital jobs for microbes that can convert hydrocarbons present in processing wastes into protein-rich food for people. Perhaps the most important role for microbes in the near future may be in the fight against pollution because they can help purify water by removing soluble nitrogen and phosphorus. Scientists have already shown that grass-covered bacteria, vitamins, and processing natural systems that cleanse sewage effluent. Indeed, the quality of the nation's water supply may depend substantially on a fuller understanding of how microbes degrade organic wastes.

Yardners Corner

Color Yard Beautiful

By DAVID DEVOLL

Extension Agent

Color your yard beautiful and do it with amaryllis. These flowers can be forced to flower in six to eight weeks in the greenhouse or in the home at any time during the year.

More time may be needed for bulbs growing outdoors to come into flower because of lower or changing temperatures.

Researchers with the state's Agricultural Experiment Stations say amaryllis for forcing should be potted with one-half to two-thirds of the bulb above the soil to bring about early flowering.

Flower failure is one of the biggest problems in growing amaryllis. Some of the causes are drying the bulbs too long; digging them before they are fully mature, or before the lower turn yellow in the fall; allowing the roots above the soil to rot down the manufacture of food and planting in rich soil high in nitrogen or over-fertilizing with a high nitrogen fertilizer.

Hard Boiled Eggs Out; Hard Cook For Easter

By LOUISE GILL

Home Economics Agent

Don't hard boil eggs for Easter. Easter Spring and the egg have been associated for longer than man remembers. Ever before Easter became a holy day all over the world, the egg was associated with Spring for the egg was a symbol of fertility and new life. The Easter rabbit, the Easter Parade, and the egg all developed from pagan Spring festival customs.

Red seems to be the first color used to stain eggs. Red was used in memory of Christ's blood. The custom of rolling colored eggs on grassy slopes originated in medieval England and came of age in Washington in 1840, when Dolly Madison arranged an egg roll for Easter Monday on the Capitol grounds. The egg roll was later moved to the White House lawn.

Food Stamp Plan Under Study

By MAURION HETTRIE

Education of all the ramifications of the Food Stamp program was given yesterday by Lee McCubbin of the state Division of Family Services to the Board of Seminole County Commissioners.

McCubbin discussed the Food Stamp Act of 1964 and stated that operation of the program rests with the state agency, and that only issuance of the coupons may be delegated to the county. McCubbin continued that there is no decrease in welfare aid to participants in the program.

The state official remarked that there are bills in Congress which may make the stamp program more "more attractive," and that two bills have been introduced in the state legislature by Lee Wisniewski of Dale County which will make it mandatory for every county in the state to participate in either a food stamp or food distribution program, which the counties will fund and initiate under state guidelines.

McCubbin presented two alternative programs for implementation of the food stamp program for consideration of the commissioners. One program would place the issuance of the food stamps in the realm of the state agency, and the other would have Seminole County issue the stamps either with existing departments of Family Services or creation of a new department. McCubbin suggested that the Clerk of the Circuit Court's office might be an ideal agency for this function.

McCubbin also mentioned that the issuance stamp might be guarded by residents as a herald of springtime.

When doing eggs, keep the temperature of the dye higher than that of the eggs to prevent chemical reaction between sulfur in the white and iron in the yolk. This discoloration is unattractive but harmless. Cooking eggs at low temperatures and cooking promptly will help prevent it.

Eggs to be hard-cooked should be completely covered in a pan with cold water. Bring the water to simmering and simmer 15-20 minutes. Timing will depend on the degree of doneness you desire and the size of the egg. Do not let the water boil. When the eggs are done, plunge them at once into cold running water and leave there until cool.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My father is very ill and we do not expect him to live more than a couple of months longer. I have a very pretty young girl who I have a straight skirt and there are little gold buttons on the jacket. I plan to wear that to the funeral. I do not have anything suitable in black. My friends say that navy blue is not appropriate for a funeral. Do you think I should wear a black or a dark outfit just for the funeral?

Also, I plan to wear a string of pearls at the viewing and also at the funeral. The pearls are a gift from my father and I am very proud of them. My friends say that pearls are not appropriate for a funeral. I would like your opinion.

We The Women: By Betty Canary

There's been much discussion recently over whether or not housewives should receive pay checks-companions in the form of real money. I suppose a woman would still get to keep all the emotional thrills derived from ironing 600 shirts and emptying eight tons of wet garbage yearly.

We'll have to do a little research and a lot more thinking before deciding if pay checks for housewives is a good idea. The first thing to wonder is where is the money coming from? The government? State or federal? From private industry as part of a husband's salary? Or from his own pocket? Or from his own pocket? Or from his own pocket?

Will every woman get the same amount or will her pay be governed by the type work

DEAR POLLY: I do not offend Mrs. B. T. will not be offended at my suggestion concerning the problem of not wanting guests to help with the dishes. I feel that to be a good hostess one must be a gracious hostess. I believe Mrs. B. T. is being rude by not appreciating her guests' good intentions. Helping to clear the table and do the dishes has always been done by the women as a compliment for a fine meal and the amount of work done by the hostess.

Now to good manners and respect. Seems to me a little humble pie is the order of the day. Please, Mrs. B. T., eat it in the kitchen with the woman and do those dishes. It can be a polite thing, after offering to help, would be to follow the hostess's wishes. POLLY.

DEAR POLLY: Do I need help? I polished my loafers with the polish that came with the shoes and it lipped. Then I tried liquid-type polish and it streaked. They really looked terrible. I took rubbing alcohol and removed the polish. Being afraid the leather might crack, I next applied petroleum jelly to soften them. Now they look even worse. I would appreciate some suggestions. DEAR POLLY: I read the letter from Mrs. B. T. who does not want help from guests with setting the table and doing the dishes. I, too, had that trouble. After we finish supper I like to take the dishes to the kitchen and then wash them after the guests are gone. Some women insist on doing the

New Daytime Serial Scheduled On NBC-TV

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

AP Television-Radio Wire - NBC will launch on Monday a new daytime serial called "Another World-Somerset." This must not be confused with NBC's most popular soap opera, "Another World-Bay City," which until today was just plain "Another World."

It is hard enough to keep the "Another World" serial straight because none seems to give any clue about content. Now "Another World" is about to divide like a cell-cell Parametrium.

"Another World-Somerset" is one type of what television calls a spin-off. This one will relate in various ways to the established serial, including exchanges of characters and, occasionally, interwoven story lines.

This type of program reproduction is hardly new. When "Feyon Place" was its popular hit on ABC as a night-time serial, CBS spun it as "The World of Feyon" off into a new prime-time serial, simply by having the heroine of the day-time soap opera, Lisa Hughes, go to a distant city to make a new life. The show did not do well, and it was only a matter of weeks before Lisa decided she liked life better in her old daytime Oakland.

It's a "Green Acres," when launched several seasons back on CBS, was a sort of double spin-off. Creator Paul Henning had a hit by putting country folk in sophisticated city surroundings - "Beverly Hillsbillies" - so he put the very urban family of "Green Acres" into a country setting. He also made them neighbors of his "Peticoat Junction" family, using some supporting characters in both shows and having the principals

2 Youths Arrested For Obscene Calls

Sanford police have arrested two youths, including a 16-year-old juvenile, for making harassing and obscene telephone calls to a Sanford funeral home.

Detective William Lykens announced today that Jessie D. Mitchell, 17, 508 Myrtle Avenue, and the juvenile had been charged after a tracer had been placed on phone calls coming into Brisson Funeral Home, 905 Laurel Avenue.

Lykens said Brisson had been receiving harassing type calls and a tracer had been connected to the line so authorities could catch the caller.

A recording of the calls, taped as they were made and containing the voices of two youths is among the evidence gathered by Lykens and Detective Ralph Russell in the investigation.

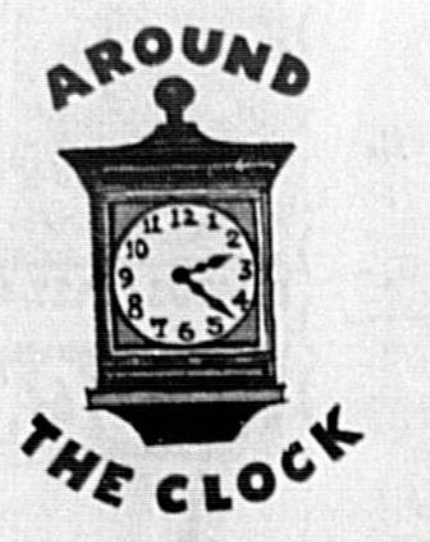

Mitchell has been released after posting $302 bond and the juvenile was remanded to county juvenile authorities, the detective said.

In another case, Detective Tom Deppen has arrested a 34-year-old roofer on a robbery charge.

Eugene Scott Greenleaf, 507 W. 7th Street, Sanford, was arrested Sunday in connection with the Thursday night robbery of C. C. Flowers, 303 Holly Avenue. Greenleaf was jailed in lieu of $3,000 bond in connection with a robbery and shooting at the Flowers home.

Flowers told investigators two men forced their way into his home after posing as salesmen and took $10 cash, a gold watch and a revolver from him in a Thursday night incident.

He said one of the men fired his revolver into the floor and threatened to "blow his head off."

Vintage blamed the present economic conditions of the state for the decision to cease Sanford operations and stressed that no person or group was at fault for the unsuccessful airport situation.

Carden said he was happy that an arrangement had been made whereby the Vintage employees might be retained on the job and additional help hired successor a satisfactory lease, so Manley can begin the re- hiring of the 80 persons formerly employed by our company," Carden advised.

Car Theft Suspect Drowns In Lake

By TOM ALEXANDER
 One of two men believed sought for car theft in Casselberry was discovered this morning floating in Lake Marie, just off Seminola Boulevard, in the Quintuplet chain of lakes in Casselberry.

The body was identified by Casselberry Police Chief Donald Brumley as Alvin R. Smith, 26, of 644 Summerlin Avenue, Orlando. The floating body was discovered at 7:49 a.m. today by a lakeside resident.

According to Brumley, Smith and another man were being sought in the theft of two cars last weekend. Brumley told The Herald that a car was stolen in Winter Park on Sunday morning, March 22.

The men apparently drove the stolen car to Casselberry where it became bogged down in mud in the Lake Howell area. The Casselberry police department received a prowler call at 4:09 a.m. to the Lake Howell area and upon arrival of police units the two men, were seen taking another car from 263 Wiltshire Boulevard. Casselberry police officers John Hendy and Robert Hammell proceeded to chase the car down Winter Park Drive and then east on Seminola Boulevard.

The men apparently turned into a dead-end driveway and hit a pine tree. Both men jumped from the car and ran in separate directions.

Moments after abandoning the auto, a cry for help was heard by a Lake Marie resident but no trace of anyone could be found. Sheriff's divers, and the Casselberry Fire Department searched Lake Marie without success.

Justice of the Peace Thomas Lovett, pronounced Smith dead and his body was taken to Seminole Funeral Home.

Casselberry police are continuing to search for the other man involved in the thefts.

After hearing from each firm, a decision is expected to be made and one company selected for the service.

Also scheduled on the short agenda are reports from the city manager on CATV and bids for a tractor and mower for the airport.

Next regular commission meeting is scheduled for April 12.

County Aide To Be Discussed

By MARION BETHA
 Seminole County Commission face a relatively light agenda at tomorrow's meeting.

It was pointed out that the position would be a benefit to the county in services rendered and that the assistant would not detract from the work and responsibilities of the commissioner, but would do time consuming "leg work" in investigating and appraising various situations.

The road superintendent will make a report regarding Oakland Road in Altamonte Springs, and the Oakland Hills Association will be represented relative to a special lighting district.

The public hearings will see the continuation of the petition to rezone property north of SR 436 and west of Palm Springs Road from A-1 to C-2. The developers of the cross-country shopping center are requesting additional rezoning of 30 acres to 60 acres presently rezoned. Additional space will be utilized for parking and a third department store.

A public hearing will also be held on a request for a special exception to park a trailer in a C-2 commercial zone on property west of Highway 441 at McNeil's Villa.
