County May Up Health Clinics To Four Monthly

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

County Commissioners Tuesday may order resumption of four monthly medical clinics at the Seminole County Health Department which were halted after Health Director Dr. Harold Bickler resigned August 1978.

As a result of a workshop attended by commissioners, Director of Human Services Terry Todd, other county staff members and Larry Costner, of the Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, last week, Todd is recommending the board re-institute the clinics.

Since the health director's resignation only one monthly clinic has been held at the health facility in Longwood and care provided as needed for one patient at the Sanford-based department.

Todd in an issue paper to the commissioners said not all patients who had been enrolled in the clinics were screened for indigency and new enrollments in the clinics were suspended in October pending county commission consideration.

"Treatment for patients already enrolled has continued but has waned," he said.

Todd said approximately 15 patients can be served in each of four monthly clinics within budgeted funds and staffing allowances. He said if new patients were again admitted and the caseload built gradually to the rate of four clinics per month, a total of 60 monthly patient visits could be handled.

The Acting Health Department Director, Dr. William Fowler, would attend the clinics and be paid with unpaid health director salary funds, Todd said.

The human services director is also urging that payment for prescription drugs be authorized. This is necessary, he said, until the already approved building renovation at the Sanford Health Department is completed to provide creation of a pharmacy area.

New patients would be screened for financial eligibility by the county welfare department. An exception is that any tuberculosis patient could be seen at the discretion of the public health director, as necessary.

Todd also reported to the commissioners that state funding of $6,250 requested to matching local funds has been received for school health programs.

But a program cannot be worked out with the school system for use in the public schools of the funds, Todd said. He said at present vision and hearing screening in the public schools appears to be handled satisfactorily by the school board.

He said there is a serious gap in vision and hearing screening in the private schools of the county. There is no resource providing this screening in the 25 private schools serving about 700 kindergarten and first grade children, he said, proposing the health department use the funds to permit screening of this group on a pilot basis.

Of the 25 private schools, he said, most are preschool centers which also offer elementary education to small groups of children. Among the remainder, he said, are larger church-sponsored schools offering scholarships to indigent pupils.

As children with possible hearing and vision problems are identified, he said, they will be referred for further evaluation and therapy to the school board which has more extensive testing equipment and trained specialist staff available and is required by law to follow up these children.

No Rights, Lefts Left, Thief Stuck

Robert Crankleton, 22, of 228 Spanish Trace Drive, Altamonte Springs, may have some friends who feel he has a lot of soul, but thieves who took two sample cases from his van Sunday, probably think he is a heel.

Crankleton's van was parked in his driveway Sunday, when the thieves made their unannounced visit, according to Seminole County Sheriff's reports.

The thieves made off with two sample cases, containing about $2,000 worth of merchandise. One of the containers held an unopened number 4 shi jackets, according to the reports.

No doubt the shi jackets can be put to use or sold. However, the contents of the second case may prove a problem to unload; it contained 48 left shoes.

Khomeini Taps His Top Man

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today appointed elder statesman Mehdi Basargan as prime minister of his new provisional government charged with ultimately establishing a "pure" Islamic state in Iran.

The ayatollah told a new conference the 73-year-old Basargan, former director of the National Iranian Oil Co., will announce other members of his new provisional government shortly.

Basargan has been the "honest broker" of Iranian politics for the past few weeks, acting as intermediary between Khomeini and Prime Minister Shapur Bakhtiar and trying to arrange a compromise between the two men to head off a threatened civil war.

The former university lecturer, respected by both sides as well as army generals, had been widely tipped for the post for many weeks.

Basargan was trained as a businessman and a university professor after receiving an engineering degree in Paris and early in his political life he became a member of the opposition National Front. He was also for a time director of the prestigious National Iranian Oil Co.

A dedicated and deeply religious man, he ran afoul of Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi in 1962 and was arrested for his activities against the regime.

...And Then

A special scholarship fund administered by the family has been established for John Decker II at Flagship Bank of Seminole. Donations may be mailed to Box 1771, Sanford, or left with a bank teller at any of the bank's three locations.

Flags in Sanford will be flown at half-staff Wednesday, day of Mother Wilson's funeral, City Manager Warren E. Knowles said today.

The weekly luncheon meeting of the Sanford Kiwanis Club has been rescheduled from Wednesday to Thursday at noon at the civic center to make room for Mother Wilson's funeral.

Farmers, Cops Battle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Police using teargas andillycotebbers clashed with angry farmers in a massive traffic jam today as the demonstrators trilled into town to 2,000 tractors and pickup trucks to press Congress for higher crop prices. (Earlier story, Page 3A).

Sniffling Teng Heads Home

SEATTLE (UPI) — Chinese Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping, weary and nursing a slight cold, today ended a dazzling eight-day tour of America in which East met West and perhaps tinkered with the world's balance of power.

Doctors had ordered him to bed prior to his departure at about 1 p.m.

During Teng's last full day in the United States Sunday, he met privately with former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., exchanged toasts at a businessmen's luncheon and found out firsthand how Boeing parts together the 747 jumbo jet China has purchased.

Teng, 74, shook off the fatigue of his whirlwind week, smiling broadly, clapping and waving to his audience. The only outward sign of the wear and tear of his tour was an occasional sneeze and slight case of the sniffles.

In a diplomatic development, Teng told Jackson Sunday that China would soon announce a liberal immigration policy for its citizens — a requirement if China is to gain "most favored nation" trade status with the United States.

Teng was guided through the largest building in the world, Boeing's 747 assembly plant in northern Everett, in a golf cart driven by Boeing Board Chairman T.A. Wilson, and he got a mini-ship to try to interest him in further sales beyond the 747 million in jets and spare parts which China has already bought.

More than 200 demonstrators paraded outside his hotel and burned a 10-minute rally with Teng's face and a Coca-Cola bottle for a trophy — symbolic of Coca-Cola's recent grant of rights to sell its products in China.

In return, whether knowingly or not, Teng ordered a Coca-Cola drink at a private reception Sunday night.

The Soviet Union, in its first direct reaction to Teng Hsiao-ping's trip to the United States, today claimed he used it as a platform to slander the Soviet Union "in the presence of officials, congressmen and the press. It appears that it is exactly anti-Sovietism that in the hands of common interests and identical views referred to in the U.S.-China communiqué." Pravda the official Communist party newspaper, said.

After Teng: Soviet World Isolation?

SEATTLE (UPI) — Vice Premier Teng Hsiao-ping's U.S. visit may have launched the United States and China into a remarkable new relationship that could leave the Soviet Union in a more isolated international position.

Such a development, reinforced by bridge-building efforts of the two countries over the next decade, could result in a major realignment of power among the world's nations to the benefit of the United States and the detriment of Russia.

But no one can predict for sure that this will happen, and the way to more intimate ties between Washington and Peking is strewn with pitfalls.

During his eight-day cross-country tour, Teng made some remarkable public statements which if consolidated and carried out should result in an important strengthening of ties.

—To Congress, Teng said Peking sought a peaceful solution to the problem of reunifying Taiwan to the mainland and thereby ending the 30-year civil war.

—To U.S. businessmen, Teng declared that China will spend "scores of billions of dollars" abroad to purchase American products and technological know-how. This could result in a major level of trade.

The Carter administration has tried to make it clear to the Soviet Union that the U.S. China rapprochement is not aimed against the Soviet Union, and U.S. officials have said on numerous occasions that the United States will not sell military hardware to China.

But Soviet diplomats are deeply suspicious for several reasons. The United States has made clear that it will not necessarily object to its Western allies supplying military equipment to China. The Russians are suspicious, too, because during his May visit to Peking, Zhiglav

Analysis

Brzezinski authorized his aide, Dr. Samuel Huntington of the National Security Council, to brief Chinese officials on a secret administration survey of the strategic situation and U.S. military strength.

But the new beginning in relations with China could deteriorate suddenly for a number of reasons: —No one is quite sure how solid Teng's position is with other leaders in Peking. —China's communist ideology could become the focus of strong differences with the United States. The next immediate area for trouble would be in the field of human rights which China is considered by many to be primitive.

Hearst's Paper: Patty Conviction 'Offense To Justice'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The conviction of Patricia Hearst on bank robbery charges was "an offense to justice," the San Francisco Examiner says in its first editorial since the conviction.

Randolph A. Hearst, Patricia's father, is president of the Examiner.

The editorial published Sunday said President Carter "did the fair and praiseworthy thing" in releasing Miss Hearst from prison after she had served 22 months of her 7-year sentence. She had been convicted by a federal jury of participating in the Symbionese Liberation Army's robbery of a San Francisco bank.

"Her conviction in the first place was, we thought, appalling," the newspaper said. "And the Justice Department was, in effect, admits as much, a long while after the fact."

"We cannot imagine how a jury could have heard all that happened and then decided there were no extenuating circumstances that raised reasonable doubt as to her guilt. We think she was made to pay an unjust price because of who she was — a child of billionaire — rather than because of anything she did, and that she was made to pay also as an unrequited gesture against a generation of unrest, of which she was chosen as a symbol in a pathetic mistake of perception."

The newspaper went on to say that Miss Hearst's ordeal was "a warning to justice" in "a subcategory of justice, without any precise parallel in American history. The victim was made to bear the punishment for the crime of her victimization. No one really believes, we think, that the gentle young woman who was kidnapped in 1974 ever would have been charged with any crime, but for the trauma inflicted on her by that terrible experience."

HEW Secretary Joseph Califano has said hospital costs constitute 68 percent of all health costs, and the increase are continuing.

Won't Just Watch Hospital Costs Rise, He Warns

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Barry Bosworth, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, said today the administration will not sit idly by as hospital costs rise indefinitely and watch hospital costs increase.

Bosworth, addressing the annual meeting of the American Hospital Association, stressed President Carter's desire to bring health care costs down voluntarily. But he said mandatory controls would have to follow if the voluntary plan fails.

Drawing a comparison of hospital costs and those of the nation's economy, Bosworth called the administration's 9.7 percent goal for annual cost increases in the hospital industry "a very realistic goal."

"I personally believe it can be done voluntarily," he said. "We cannot continue, decade after decade, to have an increasing proportion" of the nation's money going for hospital care, Bosworth said.

He said the nation will have to undergo "a pause" in economic expansion and the hospital industry will have to go along with it like everyone else.

The association was also scheduled to hear a critic of the Carter plan, Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan.

This week, Dole plans to introduce a cost-containment bill he is co-sponsoring with Sen. Herman Goldwater, D-Ga. The legislation would hold down Medicare and Medicaid costs by using an average price formula to reward hospitals that save money.

NATION IN BRIEF

5th N.J. Tenement Fire Kills 4 Kids; Total: 38

NEWARK, N.J. (UPI) — Five people, including four children, were killed Sunday night in a suspicious fire that raged through a condemned, city-owned tenement that authorities said had been the target of arson threats. A sixth victim was feared buried in the rubble.

The blaze brings to five the number of serious fires in the northern New Jersey area over the past month, with at least 58 fatalities. The victims — believed to members of the same family — were not immediately identified.

Lobbying Farmers in Capital

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Farmers, who have lunched across half the nation in caravans of nearly 2,000 tractors and campers, converged on the nation's capital today to lobby for higher farm prices. The second annual American Agriculture Movement tractorcade began three weeks ago when tractors set out from mid-continent, picking up others along the way.

GOP: No Balanced Budget

EASTON, Md. (UPI) — Two days of debate proved the leaders of the Republican Party could agree on cutting taxes, passing the Equal Rights Amendment and getting tough with the Russians — but not on balancing the budget. The 100 GOP leaders divided sharply on whether to amend the Constitution to provide a balanced federal budget.

3 More Shuttles In New Pact

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Rockwell International, the current space shuttle contractor, will have its contract renewed today for construction of three more of the spacecraft industry sources say. President Carter was to announce the award to Rockwell that would amount to $1.96 billion, half of which would go to subcontractors. Rockwell built the first test space shuttle, the Enterprise, and the orbiter scheduled for launch from the cape Nov. 9.

U.S. May Try Flood Again

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Justice Department officials, convinced that only a fluke prevented conviction of Rep. Daniel Flood, are seriously considering again prosecuting the 75-year-old congressman on sweeping bribery charges. "The jury convicted Dan Flood and one guy decided he shouldn't go to jail because is old," said one official familiar with the case that ended in a mistrial Saturday.

Civic and political leaders from across Georgia called on legislators to approve the amendment when the 1979 session reconvened today.

Traveling Florida Author Jailed In Credit Card Fraud

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (UPI) — A Florida man planning to write a book about his travels in 48 states may get the book thrown at him in 20 of them, Rutherford County authorities said today.

Gregory Preston McBride Akers, 22, of Miami was being held in Rutherford County jail today without bond, charged with fraudulent use of expired and revoked credit cards.

Detective Don Gandy of the Rutherford County Sheriff's office said a National Crime Information Center computer check indicated the widely traveled Florida man is wanted in at least 20 states.

"This case is so complex, all the charges from all the states will probably take the rest of the week to determine," Gandy said.

The detective said he plans to check with the FBI today for additional information concerning several aliases and Social Security numbers the suspect said he has used since the past 5 1/2 years.

Akers allegedly used invalid cards to buy gas at several Rutherford County businesses in early December. Police said 50 stolen checks from a motel in Florida were found on Akers when he was arrested and he would probably be charged today with four counts of bad checks.

Gandy said an informant told officers Gandy would be meeting a close friend at the airport and the informant had provided an unmistakable description — a resemblance to the late comedian Freddie Prince.

"I just saw him playing a guitar machine," Gandy said. "The informant said he looked like Freddie Prince, which he does, so I knew it was him." Gandy, a county vice squad officer and an airport security guard, arrested Akers Saturday night.

The detective said Akers drove to Metro Airport in a car rented recently in Las Vegas. "There will probably be charges from Nevada for that," Gandy said.

Gandy said Akers is wanted for such alleged violations as using automatic bank cards to defraud banks, writing bad checks for airline tickets and then cashing in the tickets and checks.

Akers told reporters he planned to write a book about his exploits in 48 states.

Deregulation Of Trucking

Last year, Congress and the Carter administration won deserved plaudits for deregulating the airline industry, an act which increased competition, lowered air fares and boosted industry profits.

Where the airlines were split on the question of deregulation, trucking companies growl fast on the protected routes and rates granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission are unified in opposition to deregulation.

Given the presence of both trucking companies and Teamsters in virtually every congressional district, the pressure to maintain the status quo will be fearsome.

Not will the arm twisting be limited to Capitol Hill. The Teamsters have reportedly threatened to retaliate against the White House for its support of deregulation by ignoring the president's wage guidelines when new contracts are negotiated with truckers this year.

But a reasonable estimate is that of Stanford University professor Thomas G. Moore, who puts the annual cost of up to $3 billion.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's a very cynical business, says a former employee of a firm that specializes in providing consulting services to the federal government.

"That's probably just as well, because the people who write the reports usually are bright, quick-study generalists who don't know a bloody thing about the subject."

"In addition, consulting firms know that if they're not critical of what a department or agency is doing, they're never going to get another contract from that source."

"The Department of Housing and Urban Development, he reports, paid almost $100,000 to a private firm to serve as the department's agent in processing of monthly status reports received from major research contractors."

VIEWPOINT A Message Posterity Remembers

As coincidence, it could not have been more apt. The last day in public office for George C. Wallace came on the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.

Through most of that turbulent period, Wallace's was the most influential voice in opposition. In later years, he has said that his position was misconstrued, that his years-long campaign against desegregation was not motivated by racial animosity but by opposition to big government dictating to the individual in matters essentially the individual's own concern.

There was and is no question as to King's position, or the impact of his message. It came through loud and clear, challenging the justifications of the individual whites toward a transformation of society that is still in progress.

"It is that sort of message that posterity remembers."

Recent public attacks on the energy czar by Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., and Ted Kennedy, D-Mass., lend at least tacit support to Dr. King's campaign.

It is that sort of message that posterity remembers.

Deregulation Of Trucking

Last year, Congress and the Carter administration won deserved plaudits for deregulating the airline industry, an act which increased competition, lowered air fares and boosted industry profits.

This year, the trucking industry is targeted for similar liberation.

But, while the case for deregulating the truckers is no less compelling than that for the airlines, dragging the protected motor carriers into a free market promises to be far tougher.

Where the airlines were split on the question of deregulation, trucking companies grown fat on the protected routes and rates granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission are unified in opposition to deregulation.

And the politically potent Teamsters union is also fighting deregulation because of the restraining influence competition would have on wages.

Given the presence of both trucking companies and Teamsters in virtually every congressional district, the pressure to maintain the status quo will be fearsome.

Nor will the arm twisting be limited to Capitol Hill. The Teamsters have reportedly threatened to retaliate against the White House for its support of deregulation by ignoring the president's wage guidelines when new contracts are negotiated with truckers this year.

The question is whether Mr. Carter and Congress can withstand the heat long enough to dismantle a regulatory structure that benefits the few at the expense of the many.

The many in this case are consumers who pick up the tab for the excessive truck transportation costs that result from the ICC's wasteful regulatory policies. Empty trucks trundle back and forth across the country burning up fuel and hiking overall operating costs because of senseless ICC rules against two-way hauling.

The trucking companies fix shipping rates, legally, with only a rare objection from the commission's hopelessly swamped staff.

And, through the permits it grants for protected hauling routes, the ICC effectively limits both competition and entry of new trucking companies.

How much these regulatory policies cost the public is subject to debate.

But a reasonable estimate is that of Stanford University professor Thomas G. Moore, who puts the annual cost at up to $3 billion.

That kind of money should light fires under every consumer group in the country.

In this year, Washington began regulating the trucking industry during the 1930s to forestall the rise of a predatory monopoly carrier and to protect the railroads.

The 16,000 trucking companies now in operation are adequate defense against any monopoly, save one imposed by Washington.

And, irony of ironies, Washington's clumsy efforts to regulate the railroads have long since driven most of them to paucity.

Regulating the truckers won't save the railroads. But rail carriers might save themselves if only Washington would permit them to set their own freight rates and abandon unprofitable operations.

As for the trucking industry, deregulation would reward the most efficient operators while offering shippers the advantages of a competitive marketplace in which to shop for carriers.

We think most truckers, like the deregulated airlines, would find competition a boon rather than a burden.

Around

The Clock

By MAX ERKILTIAN

This is not really an "Around The Clock" column. This is an open letter to those who employ me and testimony that the forces of good and evil are sometimes cruel.

It all started quietly. The plan was to get a nice lunch and be back at the office on time.

Two of my partners in misfortune and I left at about the noon hour. Our first task was the cashing of our paychecks so we would have enough to buy food.

At the speedy quick bank drive-up windows we encountered a short line being served by a teller with time to spare. The poor woman moved as if in the grips of arthritis.

I became fearful we might have a longer than anticipated wait to cash our checks when I overheard someone in the car in front of us talking about changing their voter registration to reflect their permanent residence to that of the bank.

"Perhaps we should forget the swank restaurant we had planned on and head for the speedy quick restaurant where the service beats the check-cashing to the table," one of my confederates suggested.

The rest of us agreed.

Finally we got our checks cashed and were on our way. Nothing could stop us now, right? Wrong.

As we breezed down the road with the wind in our faces and thoughts of yummy food in our minds, my eye suddenly caught sight of a strange mechanical contraption between the driver and myself.

It was a strange tubular device I had only seen one place before — the drive-in bank.

We turned around sheepishly to return to the bank. Retracing our steps, we were once again on the way.

Finally we reached the restaurant famous for its speedy quick service. However, in observance of Third Blood Week, the help moved as if they were in pain.

Everything seemed to go wrong. An egg salad sandwich was delayed due to wind. It seems the gusts were so strong the poor fowl laid the same egg three times before the cook got to it.

I would like to conclude this piece with a pleasant thought, letting everyone know things turned out okay, but they didn't.

ANGLE-WALTERS What Value Here?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — It's a very cynical business, says a former employee of a firm that specializes in providing consulting services to the federal government.

"In fact, it's the most dishonest business in which I've ever worked."

The available evidence suggests that management consulting, as practiced in this capital, is indeed cynical and intellectually dishonest. But it's also highly profitable, seemingly impervious to criticism and growing at a phenomenal rate.

The project managers — the "experts" to departments and agencies in the form of research, analysis and evaluation of government activities and policies. In some cases, they have been given complete operational control of federal programs.

In practice, the consultants' advice is usually dispensed in massive reports that seldom contain anything useful. Explains a former author of those reports, who asks his identity remain confidential:

"The project managers — the government people who award the consulting contracts — never seem to know what they want. They also never seem to know what they've done in the past."

"There were projects where our firm was the fourth or fifth consultant hired to evaluate a program. The first thing we noticed was that none of the earlier studies had produced any results."

"That's probably just as well, because the people who write the reports usually are bloody quick-study generalists who don't know a thing about the subject."

"In addition, consulting firms know that if they're too critical of what a department or agency is doing, they're never going to get another contract from that department."

Writing in the current issue of Policy Review, a quarterly publication of the Heritage Foundation, Washington journalist Donald Lacroix cites evidence that almost $2 billion per year in public funds is being paid to government consultants.

Although consultants are a financial burden for the tax payers, they're a boon to bureaucrats who can evade personnel ceilings while still engaging in empire-building, because outside advisers are not carried on government payrolls.

In addition, cautious government employees can postpone making difficult decisions on the grounds that the problem is under intensive review — a process that can be dragged out for several years.

Consultants can even be hired to monitor or review the work of other consultants. One such example is cited in a 1977 book, "Government for Sale," written by John D. Hershey.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development, he reports, had almost $300,000 to a private firm to serve as the government's agent in "presenting of monthly status reports received from major research contractors."

One oversight associated involves a federal department that several years ago received from a consultant a list of 200 names of "highly qualified" persons. Rather than read that intelligible jargon, the department awarded another consultant a new contract to summarize the original report.

As for the trucking industry, deregulation would reward the most efficient operators while offering shippers the advantages of a competitive marketplace in which to shop for carriers.

We think most truckers, like the deregulated airlines, would find competition a boon rather than a burden.

Support The Guard

I would like to reply to the article "Job and Military Pay for Government Aides" that appeared in your paper Jan. 26.

As I understand the law, the dual payment (civilian pay and military pay for annual training periods) is required only for Florida National Guardsmen. This requirement is contained in state statute.

Federal law requires that reservists be given only a non-paid military leave to attend training and they receive their entitled vacation the employee would have as a civilian. It does not require employers to pay a salary during his military leave.

I believe the state statute to be a good law. As your article pointed out, it was established in the WW II era as an inducement to join the national guard. The need for such incentive to join the Guard is justified in today's times just as it was in the WWII period.

The "Volunteer Army" everyone is talking about includes the national guard and Army reserves. These are not national organizations. These personnel cannot be treated as "government aides" who do not rate special consideration by local and state government.

I believe it would be in the best interests of the city and county and the troops that will be on line in the event of a national emergency, that the people are the ones that the Guard support. The people should support the Guard.

VIEWPOINT A Message Posterity Remembers

By DON GRAYFF

As coincidence, it could not have been more apt.

The last day in public office for George C. Wallace came on the birthday of Martin Luther King Jr.

Both Wallace and King played major roles in the shaping of recent American history. Both were merely men, flawed as we all are. But both — through force of personality, choice of position and the accidents of human affairs — became larger than life representations of contending social forces of their times. Their essential difference was that one looked to the future and the other to the past. One said "I have a dream," the other vowed "segregation forever."

Wallace, if not the best example as governor of Alabama listening to his successor promise "all Alabamians a new beginning free from racism and discrimination." There was irony not only in the message and the timing but in the setting of the swearing-in ceremony, only a short distance from the Montgomery church from which King a quarter of a century ago launched a civil rights movement that was to change the nation's conscience and change its way of life.

Through most of that turbulent period, Wallace was the most influential voice in opposition to the civil rights movement. His position was misconstrued, that his years-long campaign against desegregation was not motivated by racial animosity but by opposition to government dictating to the individual in matters concerning the individual's own concerns, that he himself was not "racist" anyone or any group.

Perhaps, it may well be that he was misunderstood, as he so often charged, by the media. But if not, his long and bitter interest in personally setting the record straight at the time. Distortion in news columns and by television cameras may have been beyond his control. But few exposed in person to his rhetoric could have come away doubting that at the very least he was and probably became intelligent.

There was and is no question as to King's position, or the impact of his message. It came through loud and clear, challenging the justification of injustice by whatever authority and moving both black and white toward a transformation of society that is still in progress. His concept of a broader freedom was color blind, it applied to all Americans.

There is currently a movement underway, with wide support including that of President Carter, to designate King's birthday a national holiday. Such a tribute may be deserved and appropriate, but it is not essential. Martin Luther King's name is already written large and indelibly in American history.

That of George Wallace, three times governor of Alabama and three times a serious presidential candidate, very likely will be a name.

We should expect to see history and uncertainty, discouraging to some, but to others, King demanded the best from an era, a challenge to the largeness of spirit of which we are capable and through which a society progresses.

It is that sort of message that posterity remembers.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Running back Elijah Pitts and receiver Carroll Dale, who played on the Green Bay Super Bowl team, feel those old Packer teams would be able to play with the best of football teams today.

They were enshrined Saturday in the Packer Hall of Fame and were asked how the old Packer teams of the "Glory Years" would fare against a team like the current NFL champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

"I think we would have taken care of them," said Dale.

"Pitts was more cautious in his assessment: 'I'll can say is that it would be tough on the old Packer because we would be playing with yesterday's athletes. And athletes have improved tremendously in the last 10 or 11 years,' he said.

Only Dramatic 24 Hour Moment Is At Finish Line

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Veteran driver Hurley Hayward, "flat-out" racer Larry Ongais and department store heir Ted Field joined forces in a turbo Porsche Sunday to win the 24 Hours of Daytona endurance race by a wide margin.

But the victory was not without a last-minute, heart-thumping finale, when smoke began streaming from the turbo and Ongais brought the car to a stop about 500 feet short of the finish line.

However, Ongais, 36, of Costa Mesa, Calif., known as an early leader who seldom finishes, never shut down his motor and, with less than a minute to go, he limped across the finish line at 20 miles an hour, then veered off to the infield.

"I was standing in the pits," said co-driver Hayward, who won his fourth 24 Hours of Daytona Sunday. "Denny came on the radio and said his turbo got backed up. Our crew chief (Allister MacNeil) told him to wait on the track."

It was one of the few dramatic moments in a race which saw the turbo Porches' chief challenger, Ferrari, withdraw early because of problems with new French-made tires.

The blowout of the right rear tire of a Ferrari being driven by J.P. Delaney produced the only major accident in the race.

Bits and pieces of Delaney's car were strewn over the east end of the track, but the driver was unhurt.

JMS Ferrari team manager Jean Marc Smaadja later decided to withdraw both of his entries, citing the possible danger to his drivers' lives as his reason.

The Field-owned Porsche, first grabbed the lead in the fifth hour of the race from the other Porsche driven by Rolf Stommelen, of West Germany.

The Hayward-Ongais-Field trio then held the lead for the rest of the race, except for a short time in the seventh hour when a Porsche driven by actor Paul Newman spurted into the lead.

Then, one by one, the chief competitors of the Woodward-Ongais-Field team fell by the wayside. The Stommelen car withdrew because of mechanical problems; the Porsche developed valve problems while it was running third and had to withdraw.

The race, won by a Ferrari-Daytona driver was a Ferrari-Daytona driven by Tony Adamowicz and John Morton; Bruce Canepa, Greg Pickett and Monte Shelton, in a Porsche, were third (57 laps behind); fourth were Don and Bill Whittington in a Porsche (62); and the Japanese team of Yoshimi Kadoyama, Yojiro Terada and Takashi Yorino was fifth in a Mazda (67) to the race.

Only Dramatic 24 Hour Moment Is At Finish Line

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Veteran driver Hurley Hayward, "flat-out" racer Larry Ongais and department store heir Ted Field joined forces in a turbo Porsche Sunday to win the 24 Hours of Daytona endurance race by a wide margin.

But the victory was not without a last-minute, heart-thumping finale, when smoke began streaming from the turbo and Ongais brought the car to a stop about 500 feet short of the finish line.

However, Ongais, 36, of Costa Mesa, Calif., known as an early leader who seldom finishes, never shut down his motor and, with less than a minute to go, he limped across the finish line at 20 miles an hour, then veered off to the infield.

"I was standing in the pits," said co-driver Hayward, who won his fourth 24 Hours of Daytona Sunday. "Denny came on the radio and said his turbo got backed up. Our crew chief (Allister MacNeil) told him to wait on the track."

It was one of the few dramatic moments in a race which saw the turbo Porches' chief challenger, Ferrari, withdraw early because of problems with new French-made tires.

The blowout of the right rear tire of a Ferrari being driven by J.P. Delaney produced the only major accident in the race.

Bits and pieces of Delaney's car were strewn over the east end of the track, but the driver was unhurt.

JMS Ferrari team manager Jean Marc Smaadja later decided to withdraw both of his entries, citing the possible danger to his drivers' lives as his reason.

The Field-owned Porsche, first grabbed the lead in the fifth hour of the race from the other Porsche driven by Rolf Stommelen, of West Germany.

The Hayward-Ongais-Field trio then held the lead for the rest of the race, except for a short time in the seventh hour when a Porsche driven by actor Paul Newman spurted into the lead.

Then, one by one, the chief competitors of the Woodward-Ongais-Field team fell by the wayside. The Stommelen car withdrew because of mechanical problems; the Porsche developed valve problems while it was running third and had to withdraw.

Thompson Paces West All-Stars

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — Dave Thompson paced the West All-Stars basketball team with 26 points and 11 rebounds as the team won 100-94 over the East All-Stars.

The magnificent man with the flying machine of a body scored 25 points Sunday and was named Most Valuable Player after his West team defeated the East, 124-129, in the 28th NBA All-Star game.

The 6-foot-4 guard of the Denver Nuggets scored eight of his points during a critical four-minute span late in the fourth quarter of the game, attended by an All-Star game record crowd of 17,745 that was also the largest crowd ever to see a basketball game in Michigan.

Thompson, who scored nine points to lead the West to a 36-27 lead in the first quarter, hit from outside and then did his trademark act inside to help the West win the lead in the series to 19-11.

Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers, the game's high scorer with 29 points, kept a 49-24 third quarter that put the East back in the lead, 47-42.

Thompson hit a basket with the fourth quarter "Dr. J" had scored 14 third-quarter points to bring the East back from an 80-66 halftime deficit to trail by just 40-39, entering the final 12 minutes of play.

Erving was switched back to guard by Coach Dick Motta of the East.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — Lon Hinkle almost rode an emotional roller coaster to oblivion, but in the end, just like in the best tradition of the American soccer player, he came out on top.

"I may have had a longer or tougher day in my career," he said, after sinking a 12-foot birdie putt of the third extra hole Sunday to win the $90,000 Bing World National Pro-Am.

"If I did I can't remember when." "I may have had a longer or tougher day in my career," he said, after sinking a 12-foot birdie putt of the third extra hole Sunday to win the $90,000 Bing World National Pro-Am.

Hayes and Bean each won $26,400, while Leonard Thompson and Brad Bryant, who tied for third, each won $13,200.

Hinkle started the final round of the prestige tournament with a 6-iron lead on Mark Hayes and an 8-iron advantage over Andy Bean, but after taking bogeys on the first, sixth, eighth and eighth holes at Pebble Beach, suddenly he no longer was the leader.

That's because Hayes, playing one group ahead of him, had bogeyed the second hole, but he had a stroke advantage.

On the next hole, Hayes missed to go two-up. Hinkle birdied from all distances inside of 165 feet.

A bogey at 174, when Hinkle had a 6-iron lead of 165 feet, Hayes took a stroke and a tie for the lead.

Monday later, Bean birdied the 17th and that made it a two-up lead.

Hayes and Bean tied for the 18th hole, but Hayes made a bogey and the 18th, thus making a 3-iron lead.

In And Around Altamonte Springs Merrill Park Dedicated In Mel Schwartz' Memory

A 20-acre park at Spring Oaks was dedicated in memory of the late Mel Schwartz, a man who loved his city and gave unselfishly of his time in community endeavors.

JOAN MADISON Altamonte Correspondent 531-7218

The dedication of Merrill Park was "very beautiful" tribute paid to her late husband, says Fran (Mel) Schwartz was his legal name, although he preferred to be called the less formal, Mel). The city was considering naming a street for him, relates Fran, an employe of the Police Department; however, she's happy he decided on the park as "it's a more fitting memorial for him."

"It's very fitting it was done at the location it was," says Fran, explaining that the Schwartz' lived in Spring Oaks at the time of his death. "My husband was very active and did what he could for the community. He loved the area," Fran recalls.

Attending the Sunday afternoon dedication ceremony were daughter Randi, County Commissioners Bill Kirkhoff and Sandra Glenn, City Commissioners Delores Vickers and Lee Constantine, Sally and Hat Hattaway, June and Harry Reynolds, Dave and Jane Richards, Lt. Berry and Donna Cook, Officer Edna Abel, Ernest Perkins, Pat Fernandez, and Ben Fletcher, president of the Spring Oaks Home Owners Association.

Also Mayor Norman Floyd, who presided at the ceremony and "said some very loving words," and Maurice Marshall, who "read a beautiful passage about a man's good deeds and the things he left behind."

After the ceremony, City Attorney Joe Davis joined the others at Fran's Heathstone Village condo for a reception.

Congratulations to new officers of the St. Mary Magdalen Youth Group — President Chloey, Vice-President Tom Chen, Treasurer Cynthia Duco; Corresponding Secretary Barb Gooley; and Recording Secretary Dennis Cagne.

The new officers will be installed at 8:30 p.m. Mass on Feb. 11, with a reception immediately following the service.

Artist Anita Mengel proudly announces the opening of Anita's Gallery Studio at 89 Highway 17-92 in Conservatory. The artist, who has been teaching line classes in her home, plans to use part of the studio for teaching teens and adults on Tuesdays from 4 to 6 p.m., and a class of basic sketching and drawing on Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 12:30 a.m.

"I'm planning to have classes of local artists, and a corner of students' art," she says.

Interviewers Don't Ask Some Questions

DEAR ABBY: Your answer to K in Pontiac had to be your biggest blunder in 1978. K, a young married woman, was asked during a job interview, "Do you plan to start a family in the near future?" K was flabbergasted. She then asked you, Dear Abby, the great orator, "Is that a proper question to ask a female applicant, or am I getting all shook up about a legitimate request for information?"

Dear Abby

DEAR JOAN: Thanks for a letter that is helpful not only to my readers — but also to this writer. Do you have any objection if we check with your former employer for references? Abby, please print this. I am sure many of your readers will find it helpful.

Dear Joan

DEAR JOAN: I did set the record straight in my column of Jan. 18, but I'm still being assailed by a host of mail. There's a lesson to be learned here that which is logical is not always legal. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the woman who was asked in a job interview if she planned to have a baby in the future; it is unlawful for a job interviewer to ask that question. The following are some do's and don'ts for questions during employment interviews. Bear in mind that some questions may not be asked prior to hiring because the law forbids them. Other questions, while not forbidden by law, might later be the basis for legal action. Questions that should not be asked:
What is your age?
What is your date of birth?
Do you have children? If so, something to do."
"When I see the kids with stars in their eyes when they see what they can do in a short while — it makes it all worthwhile," she says.
Speaking of creativity, Loretta Wright, volunteer art teacher at Enclave Estates, has a neat recipe for Bread Dough, which is almost like Pia Dough. It's messy to mix up, she says, but once it's done the kids love it.
First, take a bit of stale white bread and cut the crust off. Break the slices up in a bowl.
Add about 1/2 to 3/4 cup of white glue (Elmer's is good); put in a squirt about 2 tablespoons of Ivory liquid detergent, or a fabric softener; and 2-3 teaspoons of glycerine (which can be purchased at a drug store. Mix well. (Glycerine on your hands helps.)
Put in plastic bag and refrigerate overnight.
Now all that's left to do is to knead paint (any tubed acrylic paint will do) into dough, and you have a nice soft dough for your children to work with. It makes a big ball, says Loretta, and a little goes a long way. It also keeps well.

Surrogate Mothering The Hows And Whys

DEAR DR. LAMB—I was watching the Mike Douglas show and heard a discussion on surrogate mothers. Mike Douglas interviewed a couple and the wife was sterile. A girlfriend of the wife then became the surrogate mother. As I understood it, the sperm cells from the husband were used to cause the other woman to get pregnant. She bore the child, and then the child belonged to the married couple.

My question is: whose child is this really? I mean, won't the child be half like the mother who birthed it rather than half like the mother who raised it? DEAR READER—Yes, you're right. Genetics isn't very much concerned with social arrangements. A child born because of the union of an egg (ovum and sperm cell) has the genetic characteristics of the woman who produced the ovum and the father who produced the sperm cell. It doesn't matter whether this union is induced in a test tube by artificial insemination or by the natural sex act. The end result, genetically, is the same.

After that, it doesn't matter if the child is adopted by entirely different parents or who raises the child; it will have no real influences on the genetic origins of the child. In the situation you describe, even though the woman who bore the child was not the wife, she is genetically the mother, whether or not the man's wife is the legal mother. The same thing would apply to any surrogate mother. All children that she births, as a result of her ova, are all half hers, genetically. DEAR DR. LAMB—My 22-year-old son has recently been diagnosed as having a mild form of mononucleosis. Can you tell me something about it? What is it

East rises with the ace." The probability that West will hold the diamond king has increased to a high probability to a certainty. So when East leads back a diamond, South goes right up with his ace and leads a second spade. West wins and continues spades. South ruffs. Alan: "Now South is home. It doesn't matter how he plays the second diamond because after West takes his king he has to give South a ruff and discard."

Fagan To DEA; City PD Harmony Cited As Reason

A move to separate Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler from Capt. Charles Fagan to bring about harmony within the police department reportedly will include permitting Fagan to join a federal task force based in Orlando. That move, city administration sources said today, will cost the city of Sanford about $36,000 a year. Just how soon Capt. Fagan will be assigned to the task force, called the federal Drug Enforcement Task Force (DEA) in Orlando, remained uncertain today. The head of that DEA task force said he expected to meet with the police chief today to work out the re-assignment details. The DEA supervisor, Don Hopper, confirmed he has been asked to accept Fagan into the task force, but added only after certain routine administrative problems associated with getting Fagan deputized as a federal officer are concluded will he know for certain when Fagan will make the move. However, local law officers assigned to the federal task force by mutual agreement between a city and that agency, continue to be paid by the municipality. Fagan would be the second Sanford law enforcement officer

CAPT. CHARLES FAGAN

His Transfer Backed By City Officials

By TOM GIORDANO Herald Managing Editor

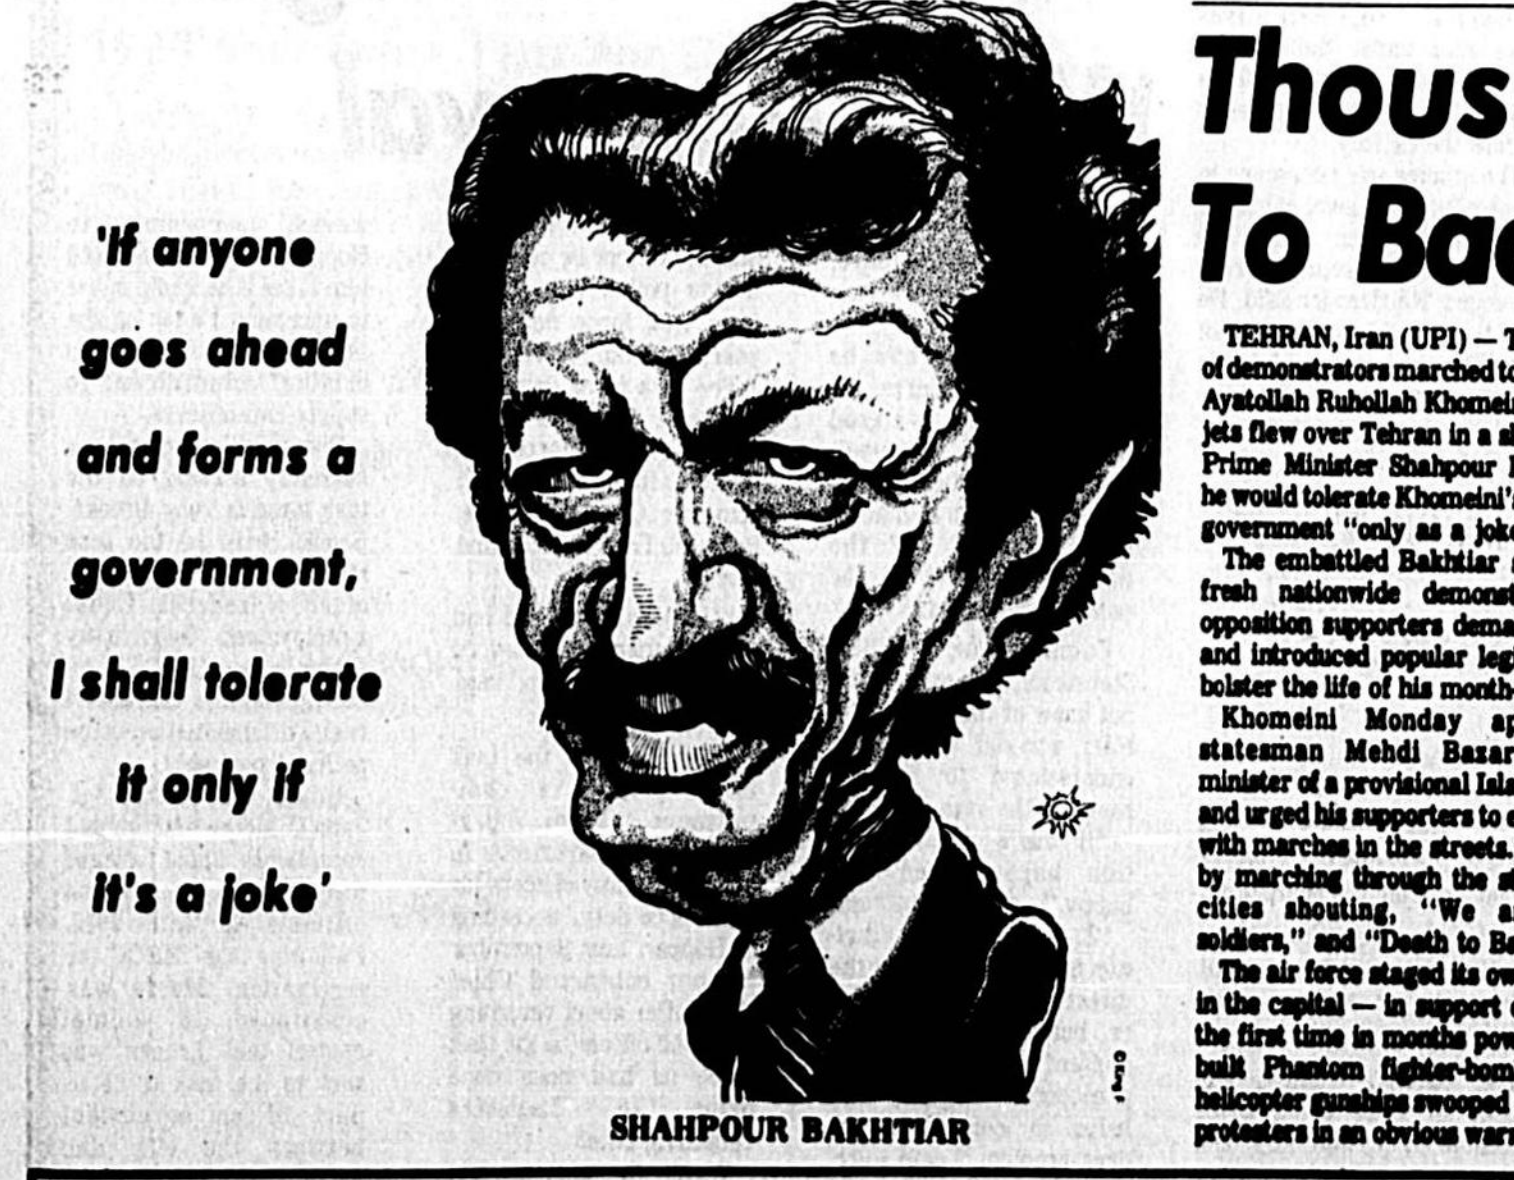

DEAR READER—Infectious mononucleosis is caused by a virus and commonly affects young, healthy people. You shouldn't take it as an indication that your son isn't basically in good health. The symptoms include a severe sore throat, fever and enlarged lymph nodes. The spleen, which in some ways is a very large lymph gland just underneath the left margin of the ribs, may enlarge and become tender. Your son should avoid athletics and physical activity, particularly contact sports. Why? Because the spleen is more likely to rupture with a mild injury. Once he is over the acute illness, he doesn't need to worry about that either. The illness with fever usually lasts one to three weeks. Many patients do complain of fatigue for variable lengths of time after the acute illness is over. You can expect your healthy, energetic son to make a total recovery in a relatively short period of time.

Double-Tax: City Cops A 'Luxury?'

Can the solution to the double-taxation feud that has been brewing between the county and city governments in Seminole County for years be found in dialogue? Or is the only solution partial or complete consolidation at least of services with no answer available short of that? A variety of opinions was heard at the workshop of the county commission Monday

County Lukewarm On Private SMH

If Seminole Memorial Hospital's Board of Trustees wanted a firm commitment or endorsement from the county commission on the proposed switch from a publicly operated to a privately operated medical facility for the purpose of floating bonds for expansion, it didn't get it Monday. Despite prodding from County Administrator Roger Neiswender to take a stand at least philosophically to the

SHAPUR BAKHTIAR

Thousands March To Back Khomeini

TEHRAN, Iran (UPI) — Tens of thousands of demonstrators marched today in support of Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini while air force jets flew over Tehran in a show of force. But Prime Minister Shapur Bakhtiar warned he would tolerate Khomeini's new provisional government "only as a job."

The embattled Bakhtiar shrugged off the fresh nationwide demonstrations by the opposition supporters demanding his ouster and introduced popular legislation to try to bolster the life of his month-old government. Khomeini Monday appointed elder statesman Mehdi Bazargan as prime minister of a provisional Islamic government and urged his supporters to endorse the move with marches in the streets. They responded by marching through the streets of Iranian cities shouting, "We are Khomeini's soldiers," and "Death to Bakhtiar."

Mothers' Voices Can't Lift Babies From Coma

NAPLES, Italy (UPI) — Villagers scrubbed the streets in and around Naples today, hoping to prevent the spread of the "black disease" that has killed at least 10 babies in the last year in southern Italy. Doctors, admitting they do not have a cure for the virus, widely taped playing tape recordings of mothers' voices in an effort to rouse stricken infants from the comatose state from which they do not recover. The virus has been concentrated in slum areas around Naples, and has become a political issue. Doctors at Catanzaro Monday ordered an autopsy on a 7-month-old child who died at Catanzaro in Calabria — in the "toe" of Italy — and another post-mortem was being carried out on a 6-month-old baby that died at Avellino, south of Naples. Most of the deaths have occurred at Santobene Hospital in Naples. Doctors believe the disease is "vaccinia virus," isolated by Prof. Robert Chanock, of the Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases at Bethesda, Md. But though they believe they know the cause, doctors frankly admit there is no cure. No vaccine has yet been developed against the virus and doctors are relying on traditional methods normally used for respiratory problems — strict isolation, artificial respiration and frequent blood analyses. The children, mostly from the slums of Naples and the foothills of Mount Vesuvius, usually develop a coma of varying length and die. Attempts to rouse the infants with tape recordings of their mothers' voices have been unsuccessful. The multiple deaths have become a political issue, with the Communist administration of Naples saying that had the Christian Democratic government in Rome done something to clear the slums, the risk of contagion would have been reduced. One Communist parliamentarian has pointed out that infant mortality in the Vesuvius area is 50 percent higher than in the rest of Italy, about on a par with the Philippines. Respiratory infant deaths are being reported from Taranto, Bari, Salerno and Potenza as well as in Avellino and Catanzaro, all well removed from the previously infected area. Villagers in the Naples area are scrubbing down the streets and walls of their houses in a desperate effort to bring about reasonably hygienic conditions.
