Cubs clinch NL East title

Chicago clinched the National League East title Tuesday night with a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos, but they had a little help.

The Cubs fell to the Expos Monday but St. Louis, the only team that had a chance to catch Chicago during the final week, lost back-to-back games to the lowly Pirates to help Chicago to its second division title this decade.

The San Francisco Giants, already assured of at least a tie for the NL West title, can clinch the division tonight. Then it's on to the playoffs next week for both teams.

Prodigal Dolphin reports

The Miami Dolphins would be a pretty good football team if they can get all their players in town.

Mark Clayton held out until after the first game of the season and first-round draft pick Sammie Smith missed the entire pre-season before remembering where he was supposed to report.

On Tuesday, another prodigal Dolphin wandered into camp, linebacker Mark Brown. But he's not happy about it.

Cop killer gets the chair

A Tallahassee jury has recommended that a convicted cop-killer be put to death in Florida's electric chair and the judge presiding over the case agrees.

The murderer is a Maryland prison escapee who the jury says fired the two fatal shots that killed officer Ernest Ponce De Leon last July during a shootout in a coin laundry parking lot.

Time off for parents approved

TALLAHASSEE — The Florida Cabinet Tuesday approved a proposal from state Education Commissioner Betty Castor, who wants to make sure state employees are allowed time off from work to participate in their children's education.

Castor said that as Florida's largest employer, state government must assume a leadership role in making sure state employees are given the time off to participate in activities at their children's schools.

Castor's recommendations include the broader use of half-time and 4-time positions, giving parents administrative leave time to visit school, additional child care facilities at state agencies, and employer-provided stress management and parental skills classes.

Police search for rapist

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A police search continues today for a rapist who attacked a 58-year-old Maison Blanche employee in a public restroom at that store at about 11:20 a.m. Tuesday.

Police spokesman Jeff Hawkins said today the store is offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrests and conviction of the rapist. A tipster might also receive an additional $1,000 by reporting information to the CrimeLine hotline, he said.

Meanwhile, the store has beefed up security and, Hawkins said, police are advising women to be cautious but "go about their normal daily activities. We advise them to use common sense safety practices."

The victim told police the rapist was lurking outside the restroom and followed her in. He was armed with a knife which he used to threaten the victim. She was raped and the suspect fled.

The suspected rapist is a black male in his 20s. At the time of the attack he was wearing a navy blue shirt with white stripes and black, possibly stone-washed pants, Hawkins said.

People in Seminole County and elsewhere in Central Florida are among those pitching in to help clean up the disastrous aftermath of Hurricane Hugo in the Charleston, South Carolina area.

Florida Power Corporation is sending line crews from all over the state, including DeLand, to assist in the cleanup efforts.

"We're sending 125 workers and four supervisors," public relations specialist Rick Janka said this morning. He added that the supervisors will be taking notes on the organizational efforts in Charleston.

"We want to learn from this disaster," Janka said. "We want to know what to do when a hurricane hits Florida. It's coming soon."

Janka, who said that crews will be in the disaster area for several weeks, noted that it is not unusual for utility companies to band together to help in crisis situations. "We're just wrapping up our relief efforts in Puerto Rico," he said.

Florida Power and Light Company has also sent work crews to assist Duke Power Company and South Carolina Electric and Gas Company in the restoration of power to the SANFORD — Television personality Willard Scott will be telling the country about Sanford's St. Lucia festival, if members of the festival committee have their way.

Edie Smith, heading the promotions effort for the city's first St. Lucia festival, said at a festival committee meeting this morning she has written the Today show weatherman requesting him to air details about the festival of Swedish culture, to be held Dec. 7 through Dec. 9.

St. Lucia is celebrated in Sweden during the yuletide season. Because Sanford was settled partly by Swedish immigrants, the Future of Sanford Committee chose to model the

Anti-abortion bills unveiled

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Husbands could win the right to be informed if their wives are seeking abortions under legislation included in a package of bills unveiled Tuesday by anti-abortion lawmakers.

The package, unveiled during a news conference, provides the first details of abortion restrictions that Gov. Bob Martinez wants taken up during a special session of the Legislature he called for Oct. 10-13.

Spokesmen for anti-abortion organizations including the Florida Catholic Conference, Florida Right to Life and their allies in the Legislature said they conferred with administration officials on four bills that would enact the governor's recommendations.

The four bills would ban abortions after 20 weeks if state-mandated tests show the fetus is viable, unless the mother's life is in danger or the pregnancy is the product of rape or incest; ban public financial support for abortion; toughen clinic regulations; and require doctors to tell women about fetal development and alternatives to abortion.

Martinez is expected to endorse the bills, a spokesman for the governor said.

"These are the outlines of the four points of the governor's program, which he endorses subject to technical changes the Legislature may enact," said

Poll shows little support among state legislators for abortion restrictions

From staff and wire reports

TALLAHASSEE — Most state legislators, including three from Seminole County, do not support the increased abortion restrictions proposed by Gov. Bob Martinez for consideration at an October special session, according to a poll published Monday.

Only 41 of the 120 Florida house members and seven of the 40 state senators would go on record supporting more restrictive abortion laws, according to the poll conducted by The Miami Herald.

In separate interviews with the three Seminole County local legislators, their views remained unchanged.

Sen. W.W. "Bud" Gardner and Representatives Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs and Frank Stone, R-Casselberry prefer to wait until the U.S. Supreme Court decides three abortion

LAKE MARY — Greenwood Lakes Middle School principal Ted Barker will be traveling today to Washington, D.C. He will be accompanied by superintendent of schools Robert Hughes and Ann Neiswender, chairman of the Seminole County School Board.

Barker's school, 801 Lake Park Dr., was chosen as one of only 218 National Secondary Schools of Excellence. He, Hughes and Neiswender will be guests of President George Bush at the White House on Thursday afternoon.

They will also be honored by the Florida congressional and senate delegations on Friday.

"I'm thrilled with the opportunity," Barker said, while looking over the two-day agenda for the first time.

Greenwood Lakes received notice of their honor in May, but the details of the awards ceremony were not revealed until this week.

Supt. Hughes said that he is proud of Greenwood Lakes' achievements.

"I think we can be proud of the work being done by the school and the community," he said.

Hughes added that Seminole County schools have now been among the top winners three of seven years of the competition. Past winners have been Jackson Heights and Teague middle schools. "I don't think any other district has been so well represented," Hughes said.

U.S. Secretary of Education Lauro Cavazos, who will speak to the representatives of the winning schools at the White House, said that the schools chosen for the honor were "examples of what's right with American education."

Cavazos also said that in the representative schools, community involvement is strong, expectations are high and good ideas are at work in the classroom.

Barker is quick to point out that community involvement is one of the keys to success at Greenwood Lakes.

"We have very active parents," said Barker, "who are involved in all aspects of the school."

Barker also attributes their success to the school's ability to meet the special needs of all their students, including programs for the Trainably Mentally Handicapped (TMH) and the Knowledge Master program for gifted students.

Barker said that he can't wait to get to the White House to represent his school in front of the nation.

"I'm so proud of what we've been able to accomplish here at Greenwood Lakes," Barker said.

Barker will receive a specially-designed flag, representing the school's excellence, from Pres. Bush.

Memorial

Friends and former classmates of Shane D. Stanley, 18, and Patrick D. MacFarland, 19, have made a memorial of flowers and school memorabilia at the site on Markham Woods Road where the two were killed early Saturday morning. The two Lake Mary High School alumni were killed when their pickup truck left the road and struck a tree at high speed.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Cop killer sentenced to death

United Press International

TALLHASSEE - A Maryland prison escapee was sentenced to death Tuesday for the first-degree murder of a Tallahassee police officer during a gun battle last year.

Clarence Jones declared his innocence during a brief sentencing hearing in the July 8, 1988, murder of Officer Ernest Ponce De Leon, 40, the first officer slain in the history of the city's police force.

"I would like to say that I'm sorry they think that I'm the man who killed Officer Ponce De Leon," Jones said. "I did not kill Officer Ponce De Leon."

But a jury had determined Monday that Jones, 34, fired the two fatal shots to the officer's heart and recommended that he be put to death in Florida's electric chair.

Circuit Judge Phil Padovano said he felt bound to follow the jury's 11-1 vote. Padovano also followed the jury's recommendation in imposing a life sentence on Irvin Griffin Jr., 38, as an accomplice in the slaying.

The gunfight erupted in a coin laundry parking lot 14 days after Jones, Griffin and fellow inmate Henry Goins escaped from prison in Maryland.

Ponce De Leon and a fellow officer had responded to a report of a suspicious vehicle in the parking lot. His last words were calling in the tag number of the stolen vehicle.

Goins had earlier pleaded guilty to second-degree murder and drew a 30-year sentence. Prosecutors permitted the plea because testimony indicated Goins was wounded before he could fire his gun.

Defense lawyer Cliff Davis had argued Jones is mentally retarded, suffered abuse as a child and was already under a death sentence. He has tested positive for HIV, the virus that causes AIDS.

"His sentence was already pronounced from a higher authority and will probably be carried out," Davis said.

Bank robbery suspect arrested

PORT MYERS - A 31-year-old Tampa man surrendered to FBI agents in Fort Myers Tuesday to face federal bank robbery charges in Tampa.

Errol Deahay Sampson is charged with robbing a First Florida Bank office in Tampa Sept. 7, and is a suspect in the Sept. 13 robbery of the Commerce Bank of Tampa and the attempted robbery Sept. 21 of First Federal Savings and Loan in Fort Myers.

Robert W. Butler, special agent in charge of the Tampa FBI office, said Sampson showed up at the Salvation Army facility in Fort Myers Sunday night, and was referred to the Rev. Carr Braselton, who handles some of the overflow from the center. Sampson stayed with Braselton until arrangements were made for his surrender.

Woman jailed for daughter's starvation

MILTON - A Face woman who pleaded guilty six months ago to starving her 4-year-old daughter to exorcise demons was sentenced Tuesday to seven years in prison.

Judge George Lowery sentenced Darlene Jackson, 33, to seven years in prison for third-degree murder and five years in prison for child abuse in the 1988 death of Kimberly McZinc.

The sentences will run concurrently and will be followed by eight years probation, Lowery said. Jackson will be credited for 804 days already served behind bars.

Jackson, who changed her plea during her trial in March, was accused of keeping food from her daughter to drive away demons. The child weighed 25 pounds when she died, about half what would be considered normal.

Two arrested in real estate fraud

TAMPA - Two men have been arrested, one in California and one in Massachusetts, on federal charges they schemed to defraud investors by falsely representing themselves as principals in various real estate investments.

The FBI said Tuesday its agents had arrested Souren Sarafian, 63, Monday at Fairfield, Calif., where he is employed as a real estate salesman, and Anthony Liveo Ventresca, 42, Friday.

Voters may head to polls to decide on prayer ban

United Press International

PALATKA - Putnam County voters could end up heading for the polls to decide whether they want to challenge the recent federal court ruling banning prayers before high school sporting events.

After more than two hours of discussion Monday night, the Putnam County School Board instructed its attorney to research how such a referendum should be worded.

The ballot would ask taxpayers if they are willing to spend county school money for a court fight against the ruling. One official said the earliest the question could be on the ballot would be in November of 1990.

"The issue here is not whether God is interested in the outcome of the football game," said Harry Varnadoe, pastor of the Francis Baptist Church. "I think the issue here is the right of the people, the majority of the people, to do what they feel is right."

In January, a federal appeals court in Atlanta ruled in a Georgia case that prayers before high school events are an impermissible promotion of religion. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the ruling, upholding the appeals court.

Since then, many school districts - including Putnam County - have opted for a moment of silence instead of a prayer. An exception has been Taylor County, which has decided to ignore the court order and wait to see if someone complains about the prayers locally.

Putnam County School Board member Ray Reed, who is pushing for the referendum, said the moment of silence should be continued.

Storm damage not as bad feared in Jacksonville

United Press International

JACKSONVILLE - Damage from a weak tropical storm that did not appear to be as bad as originally feared, Jacksonville Mayor Terry Thornton has downgraded the city's emergency plan to a "heavy-up effort" of improvements to the city's stormwater drainage system.

The storm dumped as much as 17.5 inches of rain on parts of the city Sunday, resulting in tree deaths and water damage to about 100 houses and businesses.

Thornton, who issued the order to cancel the city's emergency plan, said he plans to explore whether the government might programs are available to

He also said he will continue banking money to build low-income housing. Thornton said he will continue to monitor the storm damage and may call for a city-wide cleanup if the damage is worse than expected.

Sunday's storm was the first to hit Jacksonville since the city's new stormwater drainage system was installed in 1987.

"The magnitude of this storm is not as bad as we feared," Thornton said. "The city never designs for this storm."

Thornton's call for a spending program to improve the city's stormwater drainage system is part of a larger plan to improve the city's infrastructure.

cases during the session beginning next month before considering any changes to Florida's laws. Stone believes the state should not make decisions for a mother while Gardner and Grizzle favor some restrictions on abortions.

The survey indicates slim support for two of Martinez's most-outrageous proposals.

Three of 23 senators responding and 27 House members said they would support a bill that would require a woman to wait before performing an abortion in late pregnancy.

Four senators and 21 House members said they would support a ban on abortions in public hospitals. A few more said they would support a sweeping ban on abortions.

Some lawmakers said they would support a bill that would place stricter regulations on clinics.

"I believe it's gonna be a lost cause, this session," Panhandle Rep. Sam Mitchell, House speaker pro-tem, told the Herald.

Martinez called the special session for Oct. 10-13, planning to set new limits for abortion. But, he said he realizes it may be difficult to get the proposals past committees and onto the floor for full vote.

"It would be a tragedy if the liberals who control the House committees in particular deny the members of the House and of course the members of the Senate the opportunity to cast a vote," Martinez said.

But lawmakers who are in the majority said the abortion restriction issue does not divide along the lines of conservative and liberal, or Republican and Democrat.

"It's really a personal thing," said Rep. Dennis Jones, R-Treasure Island. "We want to do the right thing. And the right thing is nothing."

Mitchell, D-Vernon, a conservative inclined to be "pro-life," said the abortion decision is best left to women.

"When I was raised, my momma would tell you 'Once you conceive a kid, you ought to raise that kid,'" Mitchell said. "But in fact, this ain't the day my mamma lived in.... Today, there are too many extenuating circumstances."

The abortion issue was raised in Florida after a July 3 U.S. Supreme Court ruling on a case from Missouri that said the state's attempts to restrict abortions are permissible. The decision does not allow states to prohibit abortions.

Although Martinez personally favors banning most abortions, he said he would like the results of the special session to mirror the restrictions in Missouri.

That state's law bans abortion in public hospitals, outlaws government financing on abortion and requires doctors to test the viability of a fetus outside the womb before allowing an abortion after 20 weeks of pregnancy.

Martinez also wants more strict regulation of abortion clinics.

Former college football player kills girlfriend, self

MIAMI - A letter carrier was shot and killed in a post office parking lot Tuesday by her boyfriend, a former University of Miami football player, who then committed suicide.

The double shooting occurred at 7:05 a.m. in the employee parking lot of the South Miami Post Office, which was not yet open to customers.

The gunman, Lucious Delegal, 28, of Miami, shot and killed letter carrier Regina Washington, 34, a few minutes after she drove into the lot, then shot himself, police said.

The woman died at the scene and Delegal was flown to Jackson Memorial Hospital, where he died at 8:40 a.m. of massive head injuries, a hospital spokesman said.

Delegal was a 6-foot-2, 203-pound defensive back for the University of Miami and played on the Hurricane's 1983 national championship team. In 1981 and 1982 he played at Bethune-Cookman before transferring to Miami.

"The person we knew was a very likable person, not the type of person you would expect to have this tragedy associated with his name," said UM spokesman Rich Dalrymple.

Homicide detectives said Delegal was Washington's boyfriend, and the couple had been having some problems with their relationship.

"The only thing that we know is that the couple had been having some domestic-related problems and it appears that the female was trying to break off the relationship," detective Lizette Williams said.

Postal Inspector Susan Nathan confirmed that Washington was a postal employee. "It is known that a postal employee was shot, and the person that did it shot himself," she said.

The post office remained closed to customers Tuesday and the flag outside was lowered to half-staff. A U.S. Postal Service spokeswoman said mail delivery was suspended Tuesday on some south Miami routes because of the shooting.

festival after Swedish St. Lucia celebrations.

Promotion of the festival through television, newspapers, magazines and a brochure will be escalated when the festival committee receives an $11,000 grant from the Seminole County Tourism Development Council, one of a handful of grants awarded in the first round of tourism-tax generated monies.

Dave Parr, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce executive director, said today part of the TDC grant will be available by Oct. 1 to promote the festival. The balance of the grant would be available to the festival committee by the end of next month, he said.

The festival committee met today to discuss plans for a candlelight tour, an eight-kilometer road race, a folk opera about Sanford's black history and a number of other events.

Herb Stenstrom, honorary chairperson of the festival, said, "A few years ago, the first suggestion to have senior olympics was made in this room (at the chamber).... Everyone realized that it had a great deal of potential. I think this festival has the same kind of potential."

Gil Madere, president of the Downtown Merchants Association, announced his group will hold a fundraiser for the St. Lucia festival aboard the Grand Romance Oct. 15. Tickets for the event are $15.75 apiece.

A number of free workshops, including one this week in Fort Mellon Park for woodcarvers, have been scheduled to help decorate the city for the festival. An instructional workshop on costume-making will be held Saturday at 9 a.m. at the chamber office, 400 E. First St. A session on landscaping for the festival will be Oct. 7 at 1 p.m. at the agricultural center, U.S. 17-92 at County Home Road.

Kay Bartholomew, co-chairperson of the festival, said the group is looking for volunteers to help plan and work the event. Chairpersons for the logistics, concessions and development committees are still needed, she said.

The next meeting of the festival committee will be Oct. 11 at 5:30 p.m. at the chamber office.

POLICE BRIEFS

Accused thief arrested at bank

LAKE MARY — A man who allegedly tried to cash a stolen and forged check was arrested at Sun Bank by Lake Mary police in that city at about 1:50 p.m. Tuesday.

Police report the suspect, Russel Kevin Card, 30, of 172 Humphrey Road, Lake Mary, allegedly had the car of the victim at the time of his arrest. Card was charged with grand theft auto, uttering a forgery and petty theft.

The victim, Hubert Pearce, 54, of 625 Longwood Lake Mary Road, Lake Mary, had reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies Tuesday that his car, his checks and a video recorder had been stolen from his house. He had named a possible suspect, deputies reported. Bond for Card is $2,000.

Shoplifting suspect arrested in attacks

SANFORD — Two managers of Scotty's, U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford, reported to police they were attacked by a suspected shoplifter when they tried to detain the man at about 2 p.m. Monday at the store.

One manager was knocked down and the other said the suspect brandished a knife against him.

Police report capturing a suspect on 11th Street. At about 2:16 p.m. Monday police charged Johnie Emanuel Tanner, 38, 1100 S. Willow St., Sanford, with aggravated assault and battery in the case. Bond is $3,000.

Cash reportedly stolen was spent

SANFORD — A woman accused of stealing $2,800 from the pocket of a neighbor while a guest in his house Saturday, reportedly told Seminole County sheriff's deputies she had spent all but $200 of the money by the time she was arrested at 2:15 p.m. Monday.

Lisa Louise Sullivan, 32, of trailer 10, 3814 Eider Springs Circle, Sanford, was charged with grand theft in the case. She is accused of stealing the cash from Robert Wilson Jones, of trailer 21, at the same address. Sullivan reportedly told deputies she used most of the cash to buy food, clothing, a television and compact discs on Saturday and Sunday. Bond is $1,000.

Two arrested on DUI charges

SANFORD — The following persons face a charge of driving under the influence in Seminole County:

• Louis Pacella Jr., 20, 1740 Sunwood Drive, Longwood, was arrested at 10:15 a.m. Monday after he allegedly fled the scene of an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood. He was captured hiding in a Longwood Business on Milwee Drive and is also charged with leaving the scene of an accident with injury.

• Thomas Paul Gallagher, 31, 628 Eastwood Court, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 7:44 p.m. Monday on Greenbriar Street in Altamonte Springs after police reportedly saw his truck on State Road 436 allegedly tailgate another vehicle at a speed of about 55 mph. Police said Gallagher was blowing the horn of his vehicle as he tailgated the other car.

Man arrested on sex charge

SANFORD — A 30-year-old man who allegedly exposed his sexual organs and performed a sex act as he stood on a porch on Yale Drive, in view of a 18-year-old girl and an 18-year-old woman, has been arrested.

Sanford police charged Emanuel Johnson, of 148 Carver Ave., Sanford, with lewd and lascivious assault on a child after the victims called police to the scene. Johnson, who reportedly had fled, was captured on Academy Avenue and arrested at about 9:40 a.m. Tuesday. Bond is $10,000.

Firefighter bitten

CASSELBERRY — Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported that a man who was being assisted by county firefighters after he reportedly had "taken too many pills" at the Lake Nithryya Food Store, allegedly bit a firefighter.

That led to a charge of battery on a firefighter along with resisting without violence against the man identified as John Doe, address unknown.

The suspect was arrested at the store at 1495 U.S. Highway 17-92, rural Casselberry, at 7:42 p.m. Tuesday.

Publix gives boost to schools

By VICKI BOONER
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — In a time when computer literacy is almost as essential as the traditional "Three R's," not every school can afford enough computers to properly teach all their students.

This week, Publix Supermarkets begins a program, called Apples for the Students, designed to address the need for computer equipment and training in our schools.

"We recognize that many students are graduating into work environments and colleges where they are not prepared to use the essential computer equipment," Bill Schroter, Publix vice president of public relations, said. "We want to deliver $2 million worth of Apple computers to schools across the state."

Publix stores will begin issuing special yellow register tapes tomorrow. Schools, through parents, clubs and teachers, will collect these special tapes. The amounts spent on each tape will be added and when a certain amount is reached, schools may redeem the tapes for Apple computer equipment and software.

"For example," Schroter said, "if a school collects $25,000 worth of Publix purchases, they can buy some software packages. For $125,000 they can get an Apple IIc color system."

School, said she didn't think it would be very difficult to collect the required amounts to buy some equipment. "We have to get the word out to the community beyond the school," Coleman said. "But there are a lot of people who shop at Publix."

Coleman added that participation in the program was not an endorsement of Publix, though she did say she was very pleased that they were offering the opportunity for the schools.

"We haven't set any goals for ourselves yet," she said. "This is a six month program. We'll see how it goes the first month, then we'll see where we want to go with it."

While it is a six month program, with tapes being distributed until March 28, 1990, Schroter said schools can send in their collections as soon as they decide what they want and have collected enough. They can expect delivery within six weeks of placing their order.

"Local Apple dealers will install the equipment in the schools and issue standard warranties," Schroter said.

Schroter explained that they chose to use Apple computers because that brand was most commonly used by schools that already had systems in place. Most Seminole County schools have Apple computers already in place in their labs.

"Apple also makes a very large assortment of educational software packages," Schroter added.

Publix president Mark Hollis said his company chose to help the schools because the cost of the equipment was often too much for a school or school district to handle. He added that students need the knowledge that they can gain through computer literacy.

"Children are the hope for the future," Hollis said.

This list is complete through Sept. 15, 1989.

Save the children first

It's almost impossible for most Americans to imagine the nightmare world of little Dooney Waters, the 6-year-old whose life in a crack house caught the attention of President Bush. "No child in America should have to live like this," the president said in his nationally televised address.

To read Dooney's story, which ran in the Washington Post recently, is to get some sense of the horror that moved the president — and some sense of the horrific crisis this nation faces. It's also to understand the absolute imperative we face to save our children, beginning at the earliest possible age.

Dooney lived with his mother in an apartment complex in a Maryland suburb of Washington D.C. The apartment was a roach-infested crack house where people dropped by at all hours of the day and night to buy and use drugs. Dooney's teachers sent sandwiches home with him because they knew that's all he would have to eat; he had to hide behind the bed when he was ready to eat so no one would steal his sandwich. He wet the bed at night, he told Post writer Michele Norris, because people were "yelling and doing drugs and stuff."

Dooney's 33-year-old mother described herself as a "slave to cocaine." Dooney bore scars on his shoulder after being burned by boiling water; a woman had tossed the water at Dooney's mother because of a drug dispute. His right palm was stung when his 13-year-old half-brother handed him a soft-drink can that had been used to heat cocaine on the stove. His half-brother was shot one night — "cause of drugs," Dooney said.

Teachers told the Post's Norris that Dooney often begged to go home with them, or to spend the night in school. "I don't sleep at home," he said. "I go to school every morning without the help of adults or alarm clocks."

Norris writes that before he slammed the door behind him, he said: "Ain't this a terrible day?"

Dooney's terrible days mercifully came to an end last spring. He moved in with his father, a recovering addict, and then with a family friend. Dooney's teachers told Norris he seems happier and is trying hard in school. Dooney's mother is living in a halfway house for recovering addicts.

Dooney has a chance, but other Dooney's are out there, still suffering in every large American city. The crisis grows as thousands of fetally exposed babies are born every year; they are affected for life. Older children, like Dooney, are not only neglected; they are abused by crack-crazed parents.

What happens if we don't — or can't — rescue these children? A recent study funded by the Honeywell Foundation of Minneapolis focuses 20 million dysfunctional adults in this country. Big-city schools face the more imminent danger of being overwhelmed by these children and their difficulties. Thousands less fortunate than Dooney will continue to suffer and die.

Nothing in 'basket trade' for public

Macy's doesn't tell Gimbel's. General Motors doesn't like Ralph Nader. And the Securities and Exchange Commission feels the same way about Richard Ney.

The current controversies over junk bonds and the New York Stock Exchange proposals for "basket trading" outline why the SEC holds a "minimum of high regard" for Ney. Ney, a former movie star (remember "Mrs. Miniver"?), and Nader have never met. But they share a moral commonality as two of America's most tireless crusaders for honesty, disclosure and accountability to consumers.

Their styles could not be more contrasting. In appearance, Nader is a kind of shaggy dog who has a Spartan lifestyle. Ney is quintessentially elegant in attire, drives a Rolls-Royce and lives the good life on his Southern California estate. But just as Nader wants to protect automobile buyers, Ney is trying to protect the small investors who occasionally get shortchanged by big institutional investors and exchange specialists. The latter often manipulate the stock market to their personal financial advantage and to the detriment of small investors.

Ney has gone from Hollywood's Vine Street to New York City's Wall Street and become a millionaire several times over as an investment adviser. But what sticks in the collective craws of the SEC and NYSE is Ney's analytical knowledge of and precedence about the stock market. His Ney Report predicted the 1967 crash that began that August.

Ney has recommended that the average investor stay as far away as possible from junk bonds. The bonds' current mercurial uncertainty would seem to vindicate his judgment. He also strongly opposes the New York Stock Exchange's "basket" proposal for big investors. "The 'basket trade' is principally a device to enable exchange insiders to unload big blocks of stocks at market-rally highs and without the public distributions," he explains. Under the proposal "basket" transactions would not go over the tickertape, so small investors would be making decisions without the benefit of crucial information.

The two biggest beneficiaries of the basket trade are exchange specialists and institutional investors. Small investors who have no inside knowledge of such big trades will, as usual, be "at the mercy of stock exchange, which will rise above at least one-eighth of a point before it can be sold short," Ney explains. "It's another example of the stock exchange acting like a giant sales organization for special fee-paying institutional accounts and exchange-insider specialists instead of an auction system."

To critics who claim that the NYSE specialists don't have that much power (according to one report, they lost $166.7 million after the October 1967 crash), Ney says he can prove they made millions. "I'll put up $35,000 if they'll open their books to disclosure by my accountants," he says.

SEC has reservations about it, but because of a civil war within the stock market's ranks, the 400-member Alliance of Floor Brokers agrees with Ney that the basket product could cause an erosion of confidence.

Stay as far away as possible from junk bonds.

Europe threatens ban on U.S. dairy products

WASHINGTON — Europe knocked the American beef industry on its rump last winter with a ban on beef injected with growth hormones. Now Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yeutter is pulling strings to stop a similar ban on American dairy products.

Yeutter wrote a private letter to Ray MacSharry, a commissioner of the European Community — the union of European nations. In it, Yeutter comes off as the cheerleader for Bovine Somatotropin (BST), a man-made hormone that is injected into cows to boost their milk output.

MacSharry has suggested a temporary ban on BST in Europe, but the last thing Yeutter needs is another hormone ban.

The Food and Drug Administration is still testing BST, and it is only used on a limited number of cows as part of the testing. The milk from those cows is marketed. Some U.S. supermarket chains have banned BST products and the jury is still out on its safety.

But Yeutter is doing his best to paint BST as the next best thing to the tractor. In fact, at a meeting in Vermont earlier this month, he said BST is to the dairy farmer what the tractor is to the grain farmer.

In his letter to MacSharry, Yeutter warned that a European ban on BST would be seen as a follow-up to the controversial beef hormone ban, and as a trade barrier. His subtle, yet influential plug for BST ignores the controversy swirling around the hormone. Yeutter wrote to MacSharry, "To the best of my knowledge, there is no scientific evidence to suggest that BST poses any kind of health threat to consumers."

Why should there be any scientific evidence? There have been no scientific studies on the effect of BST milk on humans. The research done by its manufacturers as part of the FDA approval process has concentrated only on the effect of BST on cows, and even that is still in doubt.

Sources in the FDA told our associate Tim Warner that the agency's review of BST has been less than stellar. Confidential studies conducted by scientists hired by the companies that produce BST raise serious concerns about the health impact on cows.

Why then would Yeutter go to bat for BST in Europe? His spokeswoman said Yeutter didn't want Europe to fan the controversy over BST in the middle of the FDA approval process.

Yeutter is asking MacSharry not to form an opinion about BST until after the FDA decides if the hormone is good or bad. Yet, at the same time, Yeutter is beating the drum for BST. He is telling Europeans, in essence, to allow BST to be used there when it has not been approved for widespread use here and when the effect on humans is unknown.

Health impacts aside, there are economic consequences to weigh also. Rep. Peter Smith, R-Vt., has suggested a three-year moratorium on BST so Congress can restructure the national dairy program. The high production that BST promises could radically skew the American dairy market, drive prices down and put small farmers out of business.

But Yeutter appears more concerned now about boosting the production of cows. "We just cannot, and should not, stop technological progress in this world," Yeutter wrote to MacSharry.

It looks to us that Yeutter is saying, we cannot and should not let anything stand in the way of selling American agricultural products overseas no matter what we put in them.

There have been no scientific studies on the effect of BST milk on humans.

Help seen for the Democrats

WASHINGTON — It was hardly a slick media event, by the standards of 1989 public relations. A lecture was set up in the library of Eleanor Roosevelt High School in Greenbelt, Md. A dozen Democrats of some renown gathered in a semicircle and, one by one, spoke their pieces about the party's commitment to education.

They presented a set of six goals — each of them unexceptional — which they said could serve as a "benchmark" when President Bush meets with the nation's governors in his own "education summit" this week. Let's pledge our bipartisan efforts, said this obviously partisan group, to making Head Start available to all preschoolers who can benefit from it, to cutting dropouts and illiteracy, to improving students' competence in math, science and languages, to recruiting more and better teachers. And then let's hold ourselves accountable for reaching these goals.

It was hardly controversial, but it let the Democrats put their stamp on an issue Bush is trying to take away from them. And, with Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell of Maine, House Majority Leader Dick Gephardt of Missouri and Gov. Bill Clinton of Arkansas as the principal spokesmen, the Democrats managed for once to sound both united and persuasive on a subject of broad national concern.

Without going into the gory details, let me just say that it took an unbelievable amount of backstage effort to get those dozen people (the lead trio was backed by congressional committee chairmen, other legislators and governors) to sign off on a statement of common goals and to show up for the news conference.

The reason for the difficulty is that the Democratic Party has no mechanism for speaking as a party; it has no policy voice. The Greenbelt scene was a minor triumph, representing the first time in the 14 months since they gathered in their Atlanta convention hall that you could clearly say: This is where the Democrats stand. But it was a one-time event.

The lack of a policy voice is one of the chronic problems for the out-party in America. In a parliamentary system like Great Britain's, the opposition party has a "shadow cabinet," whose members not only sit on the front bench in Parliament and debate policy with their Cabinet opposites, but turn up constantly on the radio and TV talk shows telling the public where their party stands.

When Britain's Labor Party lost for the third straight time in 1987, its leader Neil Kinnock invited party officials at all levels to review Labor's message. The process, just now ending, has led Labor to dump some damaging policies like an advocacy of unilateral disarmament and has won the party new credibility with the voters.

The Democrats have lost three in a row, too.

But they have no machinery for asking themselves where they went wrong or figuring out what they might say differently. They do not even have a policy voice.

Party chairman Ronald H. Brown recognizes the vacuum, and has begun speaking out more forcefully on issues from the defense budget to abortion. But he is one voice among many, often saying contradictory things.

Last week, Brown said the Democrats should "draw a line in the dust" and fight Bush's proposal to cut capital-gains taxes. But the chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee speaks and votes for the capital-gains cut. The chairman of the Way and Means Committee is for it one day, against it the next. The Speaker of the House is against it, but says in the next breath he expects to lose. And the Senate Democrats are promoting their own alternative which Brown says he finds only marginally less offensive than the capital-gains cut.

No wonder people wonder where the Democrats stand.

Oddly enough, the Democrats once figured out a way to deal with this built-in weakness for the opposition party. But they've apparently forgotten how they did it. After they had lost twice to Dwight D. Eisenhower, national chairman Paul M. Butler in 1957 announced the formation of the Democratic Advisory Council. It brought together some of the notable figures of the Democratic past, including Adlai Stevenson, Dean Acheson, Averell Harriman and Mrs. Roosevelt, along with some of the smart young Democrats who would, after 1960, staff the Kennedy and Johnson administrations.

Butler invited the Democratic congressional leaders to participate, but when Sam Rayburn and Lyndon Johnson, jealous of their prerogatives, said no, he did not let it stop him. The Advisory Council, at its increasingly frequent weekend meetings, began shaping the party agenda for the 1960 campaign.

What Mitchell, Gephardt and Clinton did last week was an admirable exercise in party public relations. But once a year is not enough to define the party.

The Democratic Party has no mechanism for speaking as a party; it has no policy voice.

Longwood, union ratify pact

By SANDRA SOUCHANNE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — After eight months of closed-door negotiations, the International Union of Operating Engineers (IUOE) Local 673 has ratified a contract with the city.

The agreement means workers will receive an approximate 6 percent pay hike including a 4.5 percent cost of living increase and a 1.75 percent merit raise.

City Administrator Michael Abels announced the agreement at the commission meeting Monday, saying that vacation and holiday privileges remained the same, but some reductions were made in sick leave and workers' compensation.

Under the contract, the amount of sick leave an employee can sell back to the city has been cut. According to Personnel Director Lois Martin, the city had bought back unused sick leave hours at 75 percent of the worker's hourly wage. This has been reduced to 25 percent, and is an employee option.

Also, workers cannot collect more than 40 hours of compensatory time during the year. Anything above that will be paid overtime. Historically, compensatory time was unlimited, according to Martin.

The employee must now supplement workman's compensation with available leave but can petition a committee to reinstate those hours, Martin said. The city used to supplement workman's compensation for the first 30 days.

The contract affects 46 city employees, including equipment operators, meter readers, maintenance workers, mechanics, account clerks, secretaries, building assistants, and other blue- and white-collar workers.

Last November, these employees voted at separate elections to be represented by the IUOE Local 673 which is under the umbrella of the American Federation Labor — Council of Industrial Organization (AFL-CIO).

The new contract will be in effect Oct. 1 through Sept. 30, 1990.

Abels said the city is continuing its negotiations with the Longwood Professional Firefighters Association Local 3163, which represents 23 firefighters. "The ball is in their court to request a reopening of negotiations," Martin said.

The firefighters rejected the same contract Local 673 accepted. They have been involved in negotiations with the city since July.

residents of the Charleston area.

They have sent 156 workers and 75 vehicles to South Carolina. Plans call for the 44 crews to stay as long as it takes to restore electrical service to the residents.

But even with electrical power, people in Charleston need food and water to maintain themselves for the long rebuilding time to come.

Winn Dixie Supermarkets in Seminole and Orange counties hope to send about 20 truckloads of bottled water to be distributed at three Charleston stores and one store in Summerville, S.C.

Roger Casterline of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at Lake Mary High School is heading up a food drive in the Sanford and Lake Mary areas.

"We had originally intended for this to be a collection from Lake Mary High School students," Casterline said, "but we think other people in the community will be helping too."

Collection carts will be sent up in front of the main entrance to the school tomorrow from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. and Friday morning from 7 to 8 a.m.

"In greatest demand are non-perishable foods," he said. Also needed are baby food, baby formula, blankets and diapers. Casterline added that some students have already brought some donations to school and have put them in his office.

"I've got quite a few things in here," he said this morning.

A truck hired by FCA will transport food directly to South Carolina leaving from the school at 8 a.m. Friday morning.

Casterline said he felt the response to the food drive would be good. "We have a very charitable community," he said.

Bills

Peter Dunbar, a top aide to Martinez.

He said Martinez would study three other bills to create a state center to promote adoption as an alternative to abortion; to require reports from clinics on the number of abortions performed, the disposition of the fetal remains and medical complications; and to require notification of husbands who are the fathers of fetuses about to be aborted.

The husband notification bill would not give men power to block abortions, but might encourage men to seek court injunctions to block abortions they oppose, said Sen. Dick Langley, R-Clermont, the sponsor.

"The current status of the law has relegated the husband to a mere inquirer, a mere breeder, if you will. He's been made an object of procreation with no other standing or rights," said Ken Connor, president of Florida Right to Life.

A majority of House members and senators have said in polls that they do not support the governor's proposals. The measures appeared headed for defeat in committee.

One possible exception is the clinic regulation bill, which would subject the clinics — but not doctors' offices where abortions are performed — to the same regulations currently imposed upon ambulatory surgery centers.

Man convicted of drug sale

By BRAD GUSTON
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Miami man accused of selling cocaine out of a Sanford motel last December, faces up to 30 years in prison as a result of the conviction by a Seminole County Circuit Court jury Tuesday afternoon.

William Stroud, 23, was convicted of trafficking in cocaine and conspiracy to traffic in the drug.

Stroud was arrested at the motel, along with several teenagers who prosecutor Tom Hastings said Stroud was using to find him customers for his cocaine.

One of the teenagers arrested, Brian Webb, 17, testified Tuesday that he unwittingly brought an undercover agent to the motel last Dec. 21 after the agent said he was interested in buying 2 ounces of cocaine. Webb is now serving a three-year prison term as a result of the drug deal.

The undercover agent was fitted with a hidden microphone and alerted waiting Seminole County Sheriff's deputies by a code word when the deal was made. The deputies then raided the room and discovered 9 ounces of powdered cocaine and an ounce and a half of crack cocaine.

Other teens arrested in the case were turned over to juvenile authorities.

Europeans aid pledged to Poland

BRUSSELS — Delegates from 24 western nations who have pledged to support economic reforms in Poland and Hungary warmly greeted a European Community plan to provide at least $600 million in financial aid next year.

The executive commission plan provides for $230 million from the EC's 1990 budget, calls on the 12 EC member states to put up another $110 million and asks the 12 non-members to match the effort with $330 million.

A conference official said by the end of the one-day meeting Tuesday, several countries had committed a total of $135.6 million. There were indications from others that the amount put forward by the commission would be exceeded handily, the official said.

The meeting was the second gathering of the 24 non-communist nations since the heads of seven major industrialized nations met in July to ask the commission to coordinate Western assistance for reform in Poland and Hungary.

Mubarak pushes Palestinian peace

CAIRO, Egypt — Egypt's President Hosni Mubarak departed today for France and the United States to drum up support for his 10-point peace plan calling for Israeli-Palestinian talks and elections in the Israeli-occupied territories.

Mubarak, fresh from talks with the Arab Cooperation Council and Palestine Liberation Organization leader Yasser Arafat in North Yemen, was scheduled to hold talks Thursday with French President Francois Mitterrand.

The Egyptian leader later flies to New York to address the U.N. General Assembly in his capacity as chairman of the 51-nation Organization of African Unity.

Pope asks Moslems to let Lebanon live

VATICAN CITY — Pope John Paul II, in an unprecedented direct appeal to all followers of Islam, called on Moslems to "unite your efforts with those who demand for Lebanon the right to live."

At the same time Tuesday, the pope published an Apostolic Letter to all bishops of the Catholic Church calling on them to show "fraternal solidarity with our brothers and sisters in Lebanon, who continue to be the victims of merciless violence which no cause can justify."

Troops seek gunmen

United Press International

CAPAS, Philippines — Government troops today hunted the suspected communist guerrillas who gunned down two American civilian technicians in a terrorist act U.S. Vice President Dan Quayle called "despicable."

A U.S. Air Force spokesman at nearby Clark Air Base identified the slain Americans as Donald Buchner, 44, of Elizabeth, N.J., and William Thompson, 45, whose hometown was not disclosed.

Local police authorities said six unidentified men armed with M-16 and M-14 automatic rifles aboard a jeep and a dump truck blocked the car Buchner and Thompson were driving at Sitio Tambo, 5 miles from the Camp O'Donnell communications station where the Americans were assigned.

Investigators found 60 bullet shells at the ambush site and the getaway jeep was recovered Wednesday morning at the nearby town of Bamban, authorities said.

Buchner and Thompson were employed by Ford Aerospace Corp., a defense department contractor, and were assigned to Camp O'Donnell in the town of Capas 60 miles north of Manila.

The men had retired from the Air Force and were hired by Ford Aerospace in 1987 to keep track of performance by pilots practicing simulated bombing runs at Clark's Crowe Valley training range, the Air Force spokesman said.

Chevrolet expects its 1990 sales to decline

UPI report

DETROIT — The Chevrolet division of General Motors Corp. said it hopes to sell 2.9 million cars and trucks during 1990 by challenging everyone from economy import carmakers to exotic automakers like Ferrari.

Despite the aggressive marketing, which will focus on specific products throughout the division instead of highlighting the overall brand, general manager J.C. Perkins acknowledged that Chevrolet's sales for 1990 should decline from about 2.95 million vehicles in 1989.

"We are riding with the industry," he said, noting that overall U.S. vehicle sales are expected to decline this year to just under 15 million units, from 15.8 million sales in 1988.

However he said Chevrolet, which is GM's largest division and accounts for 55 percent of its total sales, is intent on raising its share of the U.S. car market to 15 percent next year, from about 14 percent for 1989.

Chevrolet announced at its new-model preview a string of 1990 products priced from just under $6,000 for the subcompact Metro, to $58,995 for the Corvette ZR-1 — GM's fastest and most expensive car ever.

It is also offering an industry first aimed at families with young children — "Scotchguard" protected interiors on all its passenger cars.

Chevrolet also vowed to recapture its truck-sales leadership from Ford Motor Co. in 1990 by introducing a series of new models, including a plastic-bodied Lumina minivan which will start at $13,995. Two new versions of its mid-sized Astro van also will be offered — an extended length and all-wheel-drive model.

Chevrolet last had truck leadership in 1985, but Ford may not give it up so easily next year.

Chevrolet hopes to recapture the truck market from Ford with its Lumina minivan.

"We're not in the habit of letting them win," one Ford manager said.

Chevrolet also is intent on getting its Geo division in shape after a tenuous start that left buyers confused between the overall brand name and the specific products sold under the Geo name. Geo was formed a year ago to lure "import committed" buyers into Chevrolet showrooms.

Chevrolet will instead attempt to highlight through its 1990 advertising the specific Geo products instead of the brand name. Those products are all built through partnerships with Japanese carmakers and currently include the Metro minicar, Prizm subcompact, and Tracker sport utility vehicle.

A new small sports coupe called the Storm, imported from Isuzu in Japan, will be added to the Geo line for 1990 with a base price of $10,390.

Chevrolet's new ZR-1 sports coupe, which is more than a year late coming to market, is to be powered by a 32-valve V8 engine jointly developed by GM and British carmaker Lotus. Rated at 370 horsepower at 5,800 rpm, its propels the Corvette from zero to 60 mph in 4.3 seconds.

Perkins said the 1990-model run of just over 3,000 ZR-1s already is sold out, and that Chevrolet may raise annual output for 1991 if it has adequate supplies of the engine, which is built by Mercury Marine in Stillwater, Okla.

Other new models for 1990 include a Lumina coupe version of the all-new front-drive mid-sized sedan introduced last spring.

Toyota's 4Runner now offered in a four-door

By JAN A. SVERINA
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT — Toyota has broadened the appeal of its 4Runner sport/utility vehicle for 1990 by adding two more doors and making it more carlike than ever.

The 4Runner's wide range of models — an even dozen in all — underscores the growing popularity of the nation's sport/utility vehicle market, which has grown to more than 1 million sales a year as buyers increasingly trade their cars for these "passenger trucks."

Toyota, like several other carmakers, now is offering four-door versions of those vehicles to combine the passenger access of a station wagon with the ruggedness of a truck.

The extra doors also allow import carmakers to skirt the stiff 25 percent import duty imposed on their two-door trucks. Earlier this year, the U.S. government exempted the four-door models from those tariffs.

Toyota's 1990 4Runner, now on sale, has an all new body atop the same steel perimeter frame that can be fitted with either two-wheel-drive (2WD) or four-wheel-drive (4WD).

The two-door version features an integral roof instead of the detachable fiberglass one used previously. A massive chrome grille gives the higher-priced 4Runners models an aggressive look, while a wraparound chrome bumper brings up the rear.

The four-door version's profile is more like a station wagon, one which would fade right into a suburban parking lot if it were not for its high ride height and four massive blackwall radials.

A 116-horsepower 2.4-liter four-cylinder engine is standard. Optional is a 3.0-liter V6, which generates 190 hp at 4,800 rpm and 180 foot-pounds of torque at 3,400 rpm. Both have a five-speed manual gearbox as standard, with a four-speed automatic offered at extra cost.

Environmental Protection Agency estimates range from 18 mpg to 21 mpg, depending on conditions.

The 4Runner starts at $15,548 for the four-door, 2WD model with the basic drivetrain. At the top is the four-door 4WD SR5 model, which begins at $19,238 when powered by the V6 and automatic.

Evaluated was the version Toyota believes will be one of its best-sellers — a four-door, 4WD SR5 with the V6, 5-speed manual.

As tested, it cost $21,637, including a $335 destination fee. Major options to its $17,998 base price included a $730 "Power package" that covers electric windows, locks and mirrors, sun roof ($700), upgraded interior ($440), AM-FM cassette stereo ($330) and cruise control ($290).

Nowhere does the the 4Runner's interior say truck, except for the 4WD shift lever, its softly sculpted dashboard and door panels look as if they were lifted from a well-appointed sedan, with nicely textured plastics and ribbed cloth inserts.

The 4Runner's instrumentation is complete and legible — except that the adjustable steering wheel blocks the speedometer and tachometer when in its lowest position. All the usual power seats now found in many small trucks are offered, even a compact disc player.

The front seats are fully adjustable and supportive, while the rear one accommodates two adults in comfort, or can be folded to increase cargo space to 78.3 cubic feet.

Its rear door harkens back to the design used by American wagons for decades but rarely seen now. The window retracts electrically into the door, which lowers like a tailgate. Most vans or trucks now use a hatchback or side-hinged design.

The 4Runner rides a 103.3-inch wheelbase and has an eerily silent ride. It is so well insulated with the windows up and air conditioning on that one has trouble remembering to shift into fifth gear the first few times.

It weighs a hefty 4,080 pounds, more than any other truck in its class. No wonder its highway ride is so smooth as its massive 31x10.5R radials on 15-inch wheels soak up the bumps through a 4-link coil spring suspension.

But it leans severely during abrupt lane changes or emergency maneuvers, making it feel as if the vehicle were shod with four giant marshmallows instead of tires. Unpaved, washboard surface roads keep its rear end hopping.

Once in the rough and shifted into low gear, the 4Runner becomes a capable off-roader. Its V6 and 4WD layout, proected by damage plates, have plenty of torque to negotiate steep grades.

Toyota expects to sell about 50,000 4Runners during its first full year, with the four-door versions to account for 85 percent of sales.

Jaguar offers new lower-priced sedan

UPI report

DETROIT — Jaguar Cars Inc., in an effort to meet new competition from Japanese automakers and expand its U.S. sales in 1990, said it will offer a sedan model priced below the $40,000 mark.

The U.S. marketer of the British luxury carmaker will offer its XJS without some amenities like an electric sun roof, self-leveling suspension and certain interior trim for $39,700.

Jaguar hopes the new model — which is $3,900 less than its most inexpensive 1989-model sedan — will allow it increase its U.S. sales from between 20,000 and 25,000 predicted for this year to between 23,000 and 25,000 units for 1990.

"The new model will allow more people to enjoy a Jaguar, and allow us to achieve better productivity," said company spokesman Tom McDonald prior to a model preview.

"Our research tells us that if we came in with a car below $40,000 people would buy it," he said, adding he did not think the pricing moves would taint Jaguar's image as a luxury carmaker.

McDonald, who said the under-$40,000 price is "set" for 1990, said the new sedan model allows Jaguar to "compete head to head" with new Japanese entries like Toyota's Lexus and Nissan's Infiniti divisions, are now starting to sell luxury sedans priced between $23,000 and $46,000.

Ford hopes to keep its Escort at the top of the best-seller lists in 1990.

Reformulated gasoline pushed by auto makers

UPI report

DETROIT — The nation's top automakers are cooperating to develop a reformulated gasoline instead of having to change to methanol as an alternative fuel under President Bush's clean air proposal, an industry publication said. Top executives of General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co. and Chrysler Corp. already have signed documents committing their resources to a joint program to develop a gasoline that would meet the clean air goals as outlined in Bush's proposal now before Congress.

Automotive News said.

Reformulated gasoline would also most likely be more expensive, offer fewer miles to the gallon, and create cold start driveability problems, the publication said.

Americans are leasing more

UPI report

Whatever their pocketbooks can afford, Americans are leasing cars for both personal and business use in increasing numbers, reports Runzheimer International.

Figures available indicate that about 22 percent of all new BMWs are leased, and about 35 percent of new Mercedes in major metropolitan areas on both the East and West coasts.

Five years ago, 475,000 Americans leased their cars, compared to 900,000 last year, the management consulting firm reported.

Based on a three-year, closed-end lease, a Mercedes 300E costs about $7,740 a year; a Ford Escort LX, $2,500; a Jeep Cherokee, $5,520; a Buick Park Avenue, $5,064; and a Ford Thunderbird, $4,380.

reported First American Leasing of Atlanta, which supplied the information to Runzheimer.

"Of course, buying a car is still the economical choice over the life of the car," said Larry Snyder, executive vice president of Runzheimer's transportation division. "At the end of a lease you walk away. If you own the car, it has residual value and you can trade for a newer model."

Why do people choose to lease? "No down payment, lower monthly payments and convenience," said Snyder.

With a closed-end lease, where the leasing company determines a fixed price for the residual value of the car at the end of the lease, you also have an "end-of-lease purchase option," based on normal driving conditions, he said.

Trucks, vans make big news for 1990

UPI report

DETROIT — Some of the biggest news to come out of Detroit for 1990 has to do with trucks, not cars.

Industry leader General Motors Corp. has launched a triple-pronged assault on Chrysler Corp. with a trio of plastic-bodied minivans, which the federal government considers trucks, although as passenger vehicles they have steadily been replacing cars.

GM's first front-drive passenger vans ever, sold under the Chevrolet Lumina, Pontiac Transport and Oldsmobile Silhouette names, are intended to weaken Chrysler's stronghold of the minivan market held since 1984.

All three GM versions share the same body shell, which has a massive, sloped windshield and sliding door on the passenger side. Industry pundits say GM is now in the look-alike van business, after being chastised for building look-alike cars during the late 1980s.

But GM insists future models will be more distinctly styled from each other.

For 1990, all versions share a 3.1 liter V6 engine coupled with a 3-speed automatic — essentially the same drivetrain used in GM's intermediate cars. A 4-speed automatic with overdrive is planned for 1991.

Base prices range from $15,996 for the Lumina to $18,225 for the Transport SE, meaning fully loaded versions will easily hit $20,000.

Chrysler, which will not redesign its Caravan and Voyager minivans until the 1991 model year, seems unconcerned about its new competition, saying its models have more interior room and are more efficiently designed for carrying people.

Also new from GM are the long-awaited four-door versions of its mid-sized, front-drive coupes introduced for 1988 — the Buick Regal, Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme and Pontiac Grand Prix.

The three sedans, to carry the same names as the two-door models, are expected to outsell the coupe models by a wide margin and help bolster GM's sagging market share.

Chevrolet, which first introduced its sedan version under its new Lumina vehicle family in mid-1988 as an early 1990 model, will offer a coupe version of that car.

A convertible version of its Beretta coupe is also new, as is the Storm, a Japanese sports coupe sold through its Geo small car line.

But the big news at Chevrolet is the Corvette ZR-1, heralded as the most powerful and sophisticated sports car on the planet. At $65,000, it is also the most expensive U.S. production car ever built, but all 3,000 models for 1990 are already sold.

About a year late because of production problems, the ZR-1 is powered by a 33-valve, 5.7 liter V8 producing about 375 horsepower, jointly developed by GM and its partner Lotus.

One the pricey end of the market, Cadillac will be the first U.S. nameplate to introduce traction control on its Allante roadster, whose price was cut to $90,900 to spur sales.

Similar to anti-skid brakes which reduce wheel lock during hard braking, traction control eliminates wheel spin.

Women mechanics make inroads

UPI report

America's love affair with the automobile has mostly been man and machine. Women, however, are making inroads in an industry long dominated by the opposite sex.

Women mechanics, although few in number, have discovered the excellent wages and job satisfaction. On a more lucrative level, several women now run auto dealerships.

As consumers, women purchased 4.5 million cars in 1988, spending more than $90 million.

Still, the industry doesn't take women seriously enough, says Marianne Howatson, publisher of Self magazine.

"Half of cars bought today are bought by women," she said. "Yet the automotive industry does not market to them. Last year, $600 million was spent in print advertising by the auto industry and less than 5 percent of that was spent in women's magazines."

Family Circle magazine, in an attempt to lure advertising, started presenting an annual award for the best family car.

A survey by J.D. Power and Associates of Agoura Hills, Calif., shows that women are the primary decision makers in 45 percent of all new cars purchased in the United States. The firm predicts that figure will reach 51 percent by 1991.

"Women who are primary maintainers of automobiles in their households are more involved in the entire purchase process than are men," the firm reports. Women also service their cars more often than men, an average 3.8 times a year.

At the Mill Valley International Car Repair shop in Marin County, Calif., manager Gayle Stewart can make a quick diagnosis of just about any car problem although she's had no formal training.

"I started as a bookkeeper and one thing led to another," said Stewart. "It's like anything else, if you're around the business long enough, you learn it. A lot of it is just common sense."

Stewart admits running a car shop is a new field for women, but she sees opportunities.

Japan competes with German luxury

By PETER BOHN
Road & Track

Call them "car wars." Or better yet, "luxury-car wars." There's no official date when the hostilities began. But an opening salvo came when Honda announced plans to create a completely new line of pricey, high-end cars we know as Acura.

Now come salvo No. 2 and No. 3, from Toyota and Nissan. This year both Japanese automakers are following Honda's lead with luxury-car divisions of their own — Lexus and Infiniti, respectively.

Toyota and Nissan are squarely aiming their newest and best guns at the world's pre-eminent luxury-car makers, West Germany's BMW and Mercedes-Benz. And in the United States, the world's most lucrative automobile market, the two Japanese automakers couldn't have timed their assault for a more devastating effect.

The German cars have been burdened with particularly exorbitant price tags since the dollar's plunge three years ago. Thanks in part to the company's relatively new 735 and 750 models, BMW so far is managing to hold its ground in the United States. But mighty Mercedes is already retreating: sales have plunged 18 percent this year, on top of a 7.4 percent fall last year.

With Lexus and Infiniti on the battlefield, there promises to be a blood bath between the Japanese and German automakers. But are the Japanese cars truly up to their challenge?

To find out, Road & Track's editor-in-chief, John Dinkel, recently tested a new Infiniti Q45 and a BMW 735i back-to-back for the magazine's September issue.

"Imagine a BMW 735i pumped up about two inches in every significant dimension except height, which is identical for both cars.

BMW's 12-cylinder 850i sports coupe is getting competition from Japan.

Change of gasoline can help stop noises

UPI report

Many drivers will turn to a tune up when their car's engine starts making those annoying little noises, like knocks and pings, or begins to stall, but such problems can be remedied in a much less expensive way, a survey says.

The random telephone survey, conducted for Chevron Corp. by the market research firm R.H. Bruskin Associates, showed that most drivers cited a tune up as the solution to minor engine problems, Chevron said.

Of the 1,000 people contacted between June 23 and June 25 for the survey, 806 who own or lease a car completed the interviews.

About half of the drivers said they had experienced one or more performance problems with their cars; 33 percent said their cars stumbled or hesitated; 26 percent said their cars stalled; and 27 percent said they heard knocks and pings.

Of those surveyed, 56 percent said they would get a tune up; 35 percent said they would start using a gasoline with higher octane, and 26 percent said they would change the oil when their cars started running poorly.

Chevron said using gasoline with higher levels of octane can take care of knocks and pings, and quality additives designed to eliminate deposits can eliminate other problems.

Chevron blamed many of the driving problems, such as stalling, on today's sensitive fuel-injected engines, which can develop problems in just a few thousand miles because of carbon deposits.

"They (engines) are designed to have better fuel economy and produce fewer emissions," said Ron Klakis, manager of the fuels division for Chevron Research Co.

"But compared with engines using traditional carburetors, the new port-injected engines are less able to tolerate anything which impedes the flow of fuel, like a microscopic buildup of carbon deposits."

In the past several years, gasoline companies have introduced higher-grade gasolines designed to eliminate many performance problems.

Even so, Klakis said tune ups, higher octane and clean oil often do not address the real problem — deposits. Gasolines that contain deposit-control additives, or separate bottled additives that can be poured in the tank by themselves, could be the quickest way to smooth driving, he said.

The survey also found that young people are most likely to buy expensive grades of gasoline with additives: 39 percent of drivers between 18 and 35 said they frequently or occasionally chose gasolines with additives or bought bottled additives, compared with 30 percent of the older drivers a s u r v e y e d.

Competition intensifies among the auto makers

UPI report

DETROIT — A new decade has dawned on Detroit's automakers, one that will make the brutal sales wars with import carmakers during the 1980s seem like a friendly game of tug o'war across a small pond.

As the 1980s unfolded, General Motors Corp., Ford Motor Co., Chrysler Corp. and American Motors Corp. commanded nearly 77 percent of the U.S. car market — but they were posting industry record losses.

Although the Big Three steered to financial health during the latter half of the decade — AMC was absorbed by Chrysler in 1987 — their share of the total car market has since dwindled to 62 percent, excluding import models sold by them.

During this time, nearly every foreign carmaker discovered the road to salvation lay on this side of the pond, right here in the lucrative U.S. market. They also discovered that building cars on American soil would blunt a groundswell of protectionist sentiment.

Volkswagen had already pioneered the first U.S. assembly plant by an import automaker in 1978, only to abandon it in 1988 under unrelenting competition from Japanese firms.

By 1982, Honda was building cars in Ohio. A year later, Nissan was building trucks in Tennessee, and more were on the way. No longer was it a market share battle among the nation's Big Three, and no longer was the competition across the water.

But U.S. carmakers were already admitting defeat in the small car market by forging alliances with the Japanese to become more than their distributors.

In 1984, industry leader GM joined with Toyota to build cars in California. Ford, which had been drowning in the red ink of economic recession, joined hands with Mazda, and by 1987 had built an assembly plant southwest of Detroit to produce Ford and Mazda cars.

Chrysler, which began the 1980s by begging Uncle Sam for its life, became equal partners with Mitsubishi in a venture that began building cars for both automakers in 1988.

That same year, Toyota completed its own sprawling assembly complex in Kentucky, while Subaru and Isuzu are about to begin building cars and trucks in Indiana.

Those transplant cars, along with imports, are forecast to gain a market share from 33 percent in 1980 to 36 percent in 2000, as they grow larger and more expensive and nibble further into the Big Three's business.

Suggestions for when your car needs repair

By PETER BOON Road & Track

Judging from my mail, an awful lot of car owners are only slightly less terrified of visiting an auto repair shop than they are of going to a tax audit. Many women especially are fearful of having their purses and psyches pillaged and plundered by chauvinistic mechanics.

And with good reason; fixing today's complicated cars can be a mysterious business, ripe with opportunities for thievery. Let me offer a few suggestions that should make you feel less vulnerable, no matter what your gender.

If your car is under warranty, you're pretty much married to an authorized dealer for service. But if you receive lousy service from say, the Chevy dealer who sold you your Camaro, there's no reason you can't divorce him and go across town to another authorized Chevy dealer for service. All dealers must honor a manufacturer's warranty whether or not they originally sold the car.

Once your car is out of warranty, you have a couple of other options. You can take your car to an independent mechanic, or to a specialist who only works on specific components — radiators, brakes, mufflers, and so on.

Independent mechanics and specialists often charge less than dealers. But before you turn any of them loose on your car, try to determine if they have a working knowledge of your kind of car, can quickly obtain the correct parts, and have any diagnostic equipment necessary to repair the complex electronic gadgets found in many models now.

How do you find a competent, trustworthy mechanic? There's a certain amount of trial and error involved. But recommendations are your best bet — from friends or strangers. If you see somebody in the shopping mall parking lot with a car like yours, ask them where they go for service. In addition, mechanics often know the scoop on other mechanics in town: if you buy a Chevy and know a good Toyota mechanic, ask him to recommend someone who works on Chevys.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Henderson's blast clinches tie

OAKLAND, Calif. — Dave Henderson ripped a two-run homer in the eighth inning Tuesday night, lifting Oakland to a 4-3 victory over the Rangers and guaranteeing the Athletics at least one for the American League West title.

Oakland can successfully defend its American League West title Wednesday night with a victory over Texas. The Athletics can also clinch if California defeats Kansas City.

With the game tied 2-2, Walt Weiss led off the eighth with a hit off Mike Jefferson, 9-6. Hard-charging third baseman Dean Palmer threw the ball into right field, allowing Weiss to advance to third. Gary Melke relayed and induced Rickey Henderson to ground out.

Dave Henderson followed by ripping a 1-0 fastball over the left-field wall. It was Henderson's 15th homer of the year.

Elsewhere in the American League, Boston belted New York 9-5, Detroit ripped Toronto 1-3, Milwaukee blasted Baltimore 7-3, Minnesota chubbed Chicago 7-1, Seattle got by Cleveland 3-2, and Kansas City shut out California 4-0.

BOXING

Holyfield prepared for Stewart

NEW YORK — Evander Holyfield, the top-rated heavyweight contender, has no interest in the fact that his next challenger, Max Stewart, has begun his career with 24 knockouts in 24 fights.

Stewart's handlers have made much of the fact that their fighter has eclipsed the 19 knockouts champion Mike Tyson registered to start his career. As far as Holyfield is concerned, anyone is welcome to whatever marks Tyson set on the way up. All Holyfield wants is Tyson's undisputed title.

With that goal in mind — Tyson has chosen to fight Carl "The Truth" Williams and Donovan "Razor" Ruddock — Holyfield agreed to fight Stewart Nov. 4 at Atlantic City, N.J.

Promoter Dan Duva bills the Holyfield-Stewart bout "The Challenge to Tyson" and held a news conference Tuesday in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn where Tyson grew up.

BASKETBALL

Cavs sign free agent Mokeski

CLEVELAND — The Cleveland Cavaliers, looking to shore up their frontcourt with Larry Nance sidelined until December, announced the signing Tuesday of unrestricted free agent Paul Mokeski of the Milwaukee Bucks to a one-year contract with an option for two more years.

Terms of the contract were not announced but reports in local newspapers had said the Cavs offered the 7-foot, 250-pound Mokeski a two-year deal worth $1 million. Mokeski, 32, earned $375,000 last year with the Milwaukee Bucks.

"With Larry Nance out, we need big people," said Cleveland General Manager Wayne Embury. "I know what Paul can do because he played in Milwaukee when I was general manager there. I know if he plays as little as five minutes a game, he will play at 200 percent."

Mokeski played 51 games with the team in 1982. Last season, used primarily as a backup to Jack Sikma, Mokeski averaged 2.2 points and 2.5 rebounds per game.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Dodgers put Giants on hold

LOS ANGELES — Rookie Ramon Martinez fired a four-hitter over 8 2-3 innings and drove in a run Tuesday night, helping the Los Angeles Dodgers once again thwart San Francisco's bid to clinch the NL West title with a 2-1 triumph over the Giants.

With second-place San Diego clinging to life with a 3-1 victory over Cincinnati, San Francisco — which is assured of finishing in at least a tie for first — still needs a victory or a Padre loss to wrap up the division. The Giants own a four-game lead with four to play — one against Los Angeles and three at San Diego.

Eddie Murray snapped a 1-1 tie in the sixth, grounding into a double play against Kelly Downs, 4-7, to score Willie Randolph from third base.

In other National League play Pittsburgh ripped St. Louis 4-1, New York blanked Philadelphia 3-0, Chicago edged Montreal 3-2, Houston topped Atlanta 3-2, and San Diego trimmed Cincinnati 3-1.

Cubs clinch NL East

United Press International

CHICAGO — Joy abounded in Wrigleyville Tuesday night as thousands of the hard-core Cubs fans took to the streets to celebrate their team's clinching of the National League East championship.

Seconds after Mitch Williams hit the final strike that gave the Cubs a 3-2 victory over the Montreal Expos, thousands of jubilant fans began to march Wrigley Field.

Within five minutes, the police estimate of the crowd soared from 1,000 to more than 10,000. Officers were forced to give up efforts at crowd control and just stood back, despite the hundreds of tactical officers and a half-dozen equestrian units deployed in anticipation of the wild celebration.

Belmont Area Deputy Chief John Walsh Jr. said police would not interfere with the raucous celebration as long as no damage was done.

"It's a happy crowd," Walsh said. "We're here to have fun."

A man dressed as Batman standing on a nearby roof and fans hanging from utility poles led the crowd in a deafening chant of "We want Ersen, we want Ersen."

The roar of the crowd intensified as the marquee outside Wrigley Field flashed "CUBS WIN 'NL EAST LEAGUE CHAMPIONS'."

The pungent smells of cigars and stale champagne permeated the air as the remnants of fireworks created a smoky trail in the sky over the ballpark.

Both the fans and players agreed this win was sweeter than 1984 when the Cubs last won the NL East, because it was unexpected.

"Everybody knows what happened in '84, but this year is different," said fan Terri Benzenist as champagne flowed down her face.

I have a Cubs logo tattooed on my butt and I bleed Cubs blue blood," said Mike Baker, a 34-year-old marketing executive from Chicago. "You know they haven't been in the World Series for 44 years. Absolutely, this is the year God is clearly a Cubstan."

The Cubs have not played in a World Series since 1945, when they were beaten by Detroit and have not won one since 1908. This year, the Cubs compiled a 92-3 mark in the exhibition season and preseason predictions had the team finishing well off the pace.

"This is the greatest thing that has ever happened to me in the world," Cubs Manager Don Zimmer said from the locker room in Montreal.

"This is unbelievable. I think I can appreciate a little bit more the second time around," said second baseman Ryne Sandberg, one of only three players still with the team from the 1983 squad. "We've done something special."

Frosh-soph crowns go to Rams, Hawks

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — The annual Seminole Athletic Conference cross-country meet turned out to be much like the varsity results of the past two weeks as Lake Mary's boys and Lake Howell's girls walked away with the titles.

Lake Mary's boys were led by a two-runners that finished in the top three, while the Lake Howell girls placed three runners in the top four to top the field.

This was a sweet win, Lake Mary coach Willie Calloway said. "This is only the beginning, and it's a sweet beginning."

D.J. Lewis led the Rams as he was the individual champion, finishing over a minute in front of his nearest opponent with a time of 19:18.6. David Yurick was third at 17:31.3 while Steve Platt placed 11th at 18:45.7 and Chris Hurd 14th at 19:00.5.

Last year, we were so close and it slipped away from us," Calloway said. "It's a tribute to the team of what they accomplished today."

Lake Mary finished with 29 points to edge Lake Howell's 35 and Lake Brantley's 36. Oviedo had 54 and Lyman 91. DeLand had no team score and Seminole did not show.

Lake Howell was led by Jason Letarte, who ran neck-and-neck with Yurick the entire race and nipped him at the line to take second place with a time of 17:30.9. Rob Pautenus was next for the Silver Hawks in fifth place with a time of 18:02.2. Ben Wann finished in 12th place at 18:50.3 with Rob Kasher placing 16th at 19:13.6.

Lake Brantley placed three runners in the top 10 led by Mike Capelli's fourth place finish at 17:59.4. Wes Iler was sixth with an 18:06.6 clocking as Jeff Donner was seventh at 18:08.1. Matt Egelstein rounded out the Brantley scoring with a 19th place finish at 19:35.3.

The girls' meet saw the Lake Howell "Pack Attack" muscle its way to the title. The Silver Hawks bunched runners at the front of the race and knocked everyone out of contention.

"We won and we learned something," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammonree said. "It's nice when

Lake Mary girls rebound with romp

From staff reports

SANFORD — Lake Mary bounced back after a poor performance on Monday to whip Seminole Athletic Conference rival Seminole 15-3, 15-4 Tuesday night in girls' prep volleyball action at Seminole High School.

Lake Mary improved to 12-5 with the win and 4-1 in the conference, a game behind Oviedo. The Rams will return to action Thursday at home against Lyman, Seminole, which fell to 2-6 overall and 1-3 in the SAC, will travel to Kissimmee Gateway today.

"It's incredible the difference in the way we played," Lake Mary coach Cindy Henry said. "Yesterday we couldn't do anything right and tonight we played like we did last week."

The Rams were unstoppable last week as they posted four wins, two in conference action and two others against some of the state's stronger teams.

"The difference is that we played our game tonight," Henry said. "Seminole struggled a little but that didn't stop us from attacking. We had good hitting, passing and setting."

Lake Mary again used a team effort to open the Tribe, who lost their third straight match.

Sophomore Tara Calvin paced Lake Mary with her timely hitting as Tammy Scott and Dena Morasch both adding strong outside hitting. Terri Peters had a nice all-around game with Melissa Mau and Lori Leckie both doing a nice job setting up the Ram hitters.

"We stayed with it tonight," Henry said. "When we play like this, we're a good team. When we play other people's game, our hitting goes down and we don't attack like we should. That's when we get beat."

Dolphins' Brown ends holdout

United Press International

MIAMI — Linebacker Mark Brown ended his holdout bitterly Monday, charging the Miami Dolphins with holding an "economic knife" to his throat to force him to join the team.

The terms and length of the contract he signed were not disclosed, but it was believed to be for only one year.

Brown, a 7-year starter at both inside and outside linebacker, indicated he could hold out no longer because he was being hurt too badly financially.

"It was economics, basically, and I love to play football," he said. "It's hard to sit out when your teammates and friends are playing. I don't think the Dolphins handled the situation fairly."

"I am not happy at all, but that's part of football and I have to deal with that."

Brown is the third player to sign of the four Dolphins whose holdouts lasted into the regular season.

Rookie running back Sammie Smith signed Sept. 18 and veteran wide receiver Mark Clayton came into camp unsigned the following day. Clayton signed a contract Friday that placed him among the highest-paid receivers in the NFL.

John Ollerahl, a Pro Bowl veteran in his fourth season, is still holding out. Unlike Brown

Michigan State 'scars' Erickson

United Press International

MIAMI — Miami Hurricanes' Coach Dennis Erickson said Tuesday he is scared by the Michigan State Spartans, but then he admits he is scared most of the time.

He said he woke up Sunday morning "more gunned up than I have been this year. Maybe that was caused by fear."

Asked if he was still scared Monday, he said, "Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, I've been scared all my life."

The cause of all that fear is Michigan State, which Saturday will present Erickson's Hurricanes with his first real test of the year.

The Hurricanes have teed off on inferior foes for three games, knocking off Wisconsin, California and Missouri.

Michigan State went to the Gator Bowl last year, losing to Georgia. They are 1-1 this year but the loss was handed out Saturday by No. 1, Notre Dame.

NFL reinstates 11 suspended for steroid use

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — The National Football League Tuesday reinstated 11 players, including Philadelphia Eagles guard Ron Solt and Chicago Bears defensive back Bobby Douglass, who had been suspended for violating the league's drug policy.

The 11 were among 13 players who were suspended on Aug. 29 for the use of anabolic steroids and were eligible to return to practice immediately, although their teams received a one-week roster exemption for them.

Other players reinstated were Sean Doctor and Tom Doctor of the Buffalo Bills, Matt Jaworski of the Chicago Bears, Keith Uecker of the Green Bay Packers, Mark Mraz of the Los Angeles Raiders, Vince Amoa and Bobby Riley of the New York Jets and Keith Henderson and Rollin Putzier of the San Francisco 49ers.

The NFL said a decision on Mike Arley of the Green Bay Packers was pending. He was the last player in this group to be tested a second time.

IN BRIEF

Volunteers sought to visit homebound

The Federation of Senior Citizens of Seminole County is hosting a coffee on Friday, Sept. 29, at 10 a.m. at the group's new office, 636 Florida Central Parkway, Longwood. All those interested in sharing three or four hours a week with a homebound senior citizen are invited.

The program will consist of a discussion with a geriatric mental health counselor, an overview of the volunteer respite program and refreshments. Call Edith or Karen at 831-1631 for reservations.

VFW post to celebrate anniversary

On Friday, Sept. 29, VFW Post 5405 and its Ladies Auxiliary will celebrate the seventh anniversary of the present post home at 420 N. Edgemon Ave., Winter Springs. A special dinner and dance will begin at the post at 6 p.m. Cost for the Swiss steak dinner will be $5. For more information, call 327-3151.

Benefit dancing to be square, round, line

A benefit dance will be sponsored by the Hoedowners Square Dance Club on Saturday, Sept. 30, from 7:30-10:30 p.m. at the Caselberry Senior Center, 200 N. Triplet Lake Drive, in Secret Lake Park.

Benefiting the center's building fund, the dance will offer square dancing, round dancing and line dancing. Early rounds will begin at 7 p.m. Cost is $3 per person. Refreshments will be served, and door prizes will be given.

For more information, call Louise Stimunek at 767-5411 or Terry Louder at 869-4804.

Toastmasters to meet

Daybreakers Toastmasters, which originally met for breakfast, now meet each Thursday at 7 p.m. at Shoney's Restaurant in Sanford. No reservations are needed. For more information, call Dot Waller, president, at 323-3165.

East-West Kiwanis to gather

East-West Sanford Kiwanis Club meets Thursday at 6 p.m. at Friendship Lodge, Seventh and Locust.

Autumn brings back appetite for soups

Good soup once meant huge pots of many ingredients simmering on the stove and resulted in days of leftovers for all but the largest of families. Most lifestyles today are not conducive to that kind of soup-making; however, we need not forgo the pleasures of homemade soup. With some adaptation we can prepare many old-fashioned favorites.

Here's a quick soup that is low in calories. Serve with saled or sandwich.

CREAMY MUSHROOM SOUP

1 1/2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/4 pound mushrooms, coarsely chopped
1 small onion, coarsely chopped
1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon instant chicken bouillon
1/4 teaspoon thyme leaves
Salt and pepper to taste

Combine all ingredients except milk in a 2-quart casserole dish. Microwave on 100 percent power 3-5 minutes or until onions are transparent and mixture thickens. Stir several times during the cooking to blend flour and bouillon. Gradually stir in milk.
Microwave (100 percent) 2-3 minutes, stirring after each minute. Whirl soup in a blender or food processor until smooth.

A favorite on restaurant menus most Fridays is clam chowder. You can prepare this New England soup quickly in the microwave.

NEW ENGLAND CLAM CHOWDER

5 slices raw bacon
1 1/2 cups potatoes, peeled and cubed
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup light cream (half-and-half)
1/2 teaspoon pepper
1 8-ounce can minced clams and juice
1/4 cup minced onions
1/4 cup milk
1 teaspoon salt

Microwave bacon in a 2-quart casserole dish, covered with a paper towel, on 100 percent power 3-4 minutes, or until crisp. Remove the cooked bacon, crumble and set aside. Drain the liquid from the clams and add to the bacon drippings. Set clams aside.

Add potatoes and onions to the casserole dish, cover, microwave on 100 percent power 6-8 minutes, or until vegetables are tender. Stir several times. Blend flour into vegetables. Gradually stir in milk until smooth.

Microwave, uncovered, 3-4 minutes, or until thickened and bubbly. Stir in cream, salt, pepper and clams. Microwave (100 percent power) 3-4 minutes, or until heated. Garnish with the crumbled bacon.

Use leftover ham or start with ham hocks for this flavorful.

OLD-FASHIONED SPLIT PEA SOUP

1 pound green split peas
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
3 carrots, grated
1 tablespoon chicken bouillon
1 teaspoon salt
8 cups water
2 ham hocks
1 medium onion, finely chopped
1 teaspoon garlic
Place 6 cups water in a 3- to 4-quart casserole dish and microwave on 100 percent power until boiling (10-12 minutes). Rinse and drain split peas; add to the boiling water. Add the remaining ingredients and microwave on 50 percent power, 90 minutes, or until the peas are soft.

Remove ham hocks and cut meat into bite-size pieces. Blend the rest of the ingredients in the blender until smooth. Add ham pieces and serve.

An import from France has become a standard in many restaurants. Served piping hot with a green salad and crusty bread, this dish rounds out a filling, low-calorie meal.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 cups hot water
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 slices thin bread, toasted
4 teaspoons Parmesan cheese
1 large onion, sliced and separated into rings
3 teaspoons instant beef bouillon granules
Pepper
4 ounces shredded mozzarella cheese

Combine butter and onion in 2-quart casserole dish. Cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 8-11 minutes or until onions are translucent and tender, stirring once or twice.

Add water, bouillon, Worcestershire sauce and pepper. Re-cover. Microwave on 100 percent power 6-8 minutes or until boiling. Reduce power to 50 percent. Microwave 5 minutes.

Divide soup into 4 individual casserole dishes. Top each with 1/2 slice toasted bread and 2 tablespoons mozzarella. Sprinkle with Parmesan. Place dishes in microwave oven. Microwave on 100 percent power 2-3 minutes, or until cheese melts.

LONGWOOD — Our Cook of the Week grew up in Loretta Lynn country, and like the singing star, was "born a coal miner's daughter."

Valena Harah, of Longwood, grew up in Letcher County, southeastern Kentucky, not far from the Virginia border. While her father worked the coal mines, her mother worked the fields of their farm. Harah learned household chores at an early age.

"I came from a family of 10 children, so I had to learn to cook," she said. She was fourth in line and the oldest girl. "We raised big crops and my mother worked in the fields. I learned to take care of the kids and have dinner and supper ready for her, or at least have it on, when she came home."

Harah's mother taught her to cook when Harah was around 10 years old. "I learned on a wood stove," she said. "My favorite thing then was baking cakes."

She recalls liking to experiment, especially with food coloring. "When I was 12 years old, I made a green cake. My father held his throat when he ate it, saying, 'Ugh, I'm poisoned!' because green was associated with poison. I remember that vividly."

Today she enjoys cooking in general, but dessert-making is still her favorite. "My forte is sweets," she said. "I collect and I'll try all kinds of recipes, but I like sweets best. My family enjoys them, too."

Her collection is so immense, one wonders if she really knows what is in the numerous boxes and files bulging with recipes. But she knows, she said firmly, "and I use them. Even my husband uses them. He's a great cookie baker."

Harah believes in baking from scratch. Mixes, especially for cookies, just do not taste the same, she said.

The cooking experience Harah got in her early years has paid off. Today, she can whip up a meal—a big meal—in no time flat, she said. Time is important. She is a learning resources teacher at Lakeview Middle School in Sanford, sponsors the Junior Beta Club (an honors club) at the school, and is also involved in a variety of outside interests and hobbies.

Harah has a quick-cooking routine down pat: her microwave oven and pressure cooker figure heavily in the plan. She uses the microwave to thaw meats and cook them halfway, then she finishes up in the pressure cooker or conventional oven. Cooking time is substantially reduced and the foods taste just as if they were baked completely in the oven. Barbecue is especially good made in this fashion, she said, with the sauce made stove-top and then added later.

Harah and her husband, Don, enjoy the same profession: He teaches gifted and honors biology at Lyman High School in Longwood. The couple have been married for 18 years.

Don is an Ohio native, and the Harahs lived in Cincinnati following their marriage. Over the years they vacationed in Florida several times and visited a friend of Don in Sanford. Finally, the lure of warm weather and sunshine was irresistible, and the couple moved to Longwood in February of 1981.

For the past five years, they have been the legal guardians of Valena Ronder, the daughter of a deceased friend, and Harah's namesake. Valena, 14, is in eighth grade at Greenwood Lakes Middle School in Lake Mary.

Harah has an insatiable curiosity and an interest in life that keeps her busy continually. She loves to travel. In 1973, she and Don toured Europe for six weeks with a student group, and in 1975, they camped their way across the western United States and into Washington. A similar trip took them up the eastern coast of the United States and into Nova Scotia in 1976. In 1980, they toured Alaska, again camping out of the back of a Toyota truck.

Harah enjoys sewing, crocheting and crafts. A cake-decorating class and piano lessons will keep her occupied for some time to come. She is an avid reader of both books and magazines. "I could never be bored," she said. "There's too much to read!" She also has written a collection of poetry that she might make into a book someday, when time allows.

Her philosophy reveals more than a passing reflection on the meaning of life. "I think we are all here for some purpose. I don't think life is just random. I look at life as a school and we all have our lessons to learn, and when we return to where we came from we'll have to give an account of whether we did the best that we can do. I think most people do the best that they can do. We all have different experiences and for me to judge you by my experience would be wrong, because your lesson might be different from the lesson I'm having to learn."

Valena Harah kills two birds with one recipe. In preparing her Cinnamon Rolls recipe, she often divides the dough, making half into cinnamon rolls and half into biscuits.

A few of the recipes from Harah's large collection follow. She lists the Hungarian Coffee Cake and the Lemon Squares as her family's favorites. She usually divides the dough of her Cinnamon Rolls recipe, and makes half into cinnamon rolls and the other half into biscuits.

HUNGARIAN COFFEE CAKE

1 cup scalded milk, cooled somewhat
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup sugar
1/4 cup butter
1 package yeast
1/4 cup warm water
1 egg
3 1/2 cups flour

Mix scalded milk, salt, sugar and butter. Dissolve yeast in warm water and add to milk mixture. Add egg and mix. Beat in flour a little at a time. Do not knead. Place dough in a greased bowl and let rise until doubled in bulk (which will take a couple of hours in a warm place).

Combine:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cinnamon
1 cup chopped nuts
Melt 1/2 cup butter. Pinch off pieces of dough, drop in melted butter and roll in sugar mixture. Place in layers in a greased tube pan. Cover and let double in size again. Bake at 375°F for 1 1/2 hours. Makes 6-8 servings.

LEMON SQUARES

2 1/2 cups all-purpose flour, divided
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
1 cup butter or margarine
4 eggs
2 cups sugar
1/4 cup lemon juice
Confectioner's sugar for topping

Preheat oven to 350°F. In a medium bowl, sift together 2 cups flour and 1/2 cup confectioner's sugar. Cut in butter or margarine with a pastry blender or two knives until mixture resembles coarse meal. Press mixture into bottom and sides of a lightly greased 13-by-9-by-2-inch baking pan.

Bake 20-25 minutes or until lightly browned. Remove from oven and set aside.

Meanwhile, in a large bowl, beat eggs until lemon-colored. Gradually beat in sugar, lemon juice and remaining 1/2 cup of flour. Pour into browned crust. Bake 15 minutes longer or until done. Let cool completely and lightly sprinkle with confectioner's sugar. Cut into bars in pan. Makes 12-13-inch squares.

WEDDING CAKES (COOKIES)

1 cup butter
1/2 cup confectioner's sugar
2 1/4 cups flour
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/4 cup chopped nuts
Confectioner's sugar for topping

Cream butter and sugar; add remaining ingredients and mix well. Refrigerate dough for several hours. Form into balls 1 inch in diameter and bake at 400°F on an ungreased cookie sheet. Bake until set. Cookies should be cream-colored, not brown; begin to check cookies after 10 minutes of baking time.

Roll in powdered sugar. Makes 30 cookies.

CINNAMON ROLLS

1. Mix:
2 1/2 cups slightly warm water
2 packages yeast
1/4 cup oil
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg

Add in 5/4 to 6 cups bread flour or all-purpose flour, 1 cup at a time. Pour onto floured board and knead slightly. Place in oiled bowl to let rise. When doubled in size, punch down and roll into 1/4-inch-thick rectangle.

2. Mix:
1 cup sugar
2 tablespoons cinnamon
1/4 cup raisins (optional)

Sprinkle on top of dough. Melt 1 stick margarine and pour over dough and sugar mixture. Roll up jelly-roll fashion and cut into 1/2-inch slices. Let rise. Bake in 375°F-400°F oven for 12-15 minutes. Let cool.

3. See with:
1 stick margarine, melted

1 teaspoon vanilla
2 cups powdered sugar
Mix together and drizzle over top of rolls. Makes 20-24 rolls.

*To make yeast rolls, use step 1 only, cut dough into biscuits, let rise and bake for 12-15 minutes in 375°F-400°F oven.

FAST CREAM OF POTATO SOUP

3 cups hot water
1 package Betty Crocker creamed potatoes mix
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

2 cups milk
Pour water into 3-quart microwave-proof casserole dish. Cover tightly and microwave to boiling on high 6 1/2 to 7 minutes. Stir in potato mix as well as included sauce mix, onions, margarine, salt and pepper. Cover tightly and microwave on high 13 minutes; stir in milk. Cover and microwave until potatoes are tender, 4 to 6 minutes longer. Stir. Makes 6 servings.

CHERRY COBBLER

1 can Comstock cherry pie filling
1 cup self-rising flour
1/4 cup sugar
1 egg
1/2 cup chopped pecans
Salt to taste
1 stick melted butter or margarine

Place pie filling in bottom of a 9-inch pan. Mix flour, sugar, egg, pecans and salt. Stir in margarine. Drop flour mixture onto cherry filling and spread to cover. Bake at 350°F-400°F for 30 minutes. Makes 6-8 servings.

It's never too late for sexual abuse victims to be helped

DEAR ABBY: When I was 4 or 5 years old, I was sexually abused by my stepfather. I told my mother, but she wouldn't believe me. This went on until I was 9 years old. After that, he went to some kind of sanitarium. I never really knew what kind of place it was, but I do remember that he was locked up.

I am reading so much about child molestation now, but in those days it was all hush-hush. I'm married now and have grown children, but I have always had terrible hangups about sex and never could be the kind of partner I should have been. I thank God every day for the understanding, patient man who married me. I never told him how repulsed I was by the touch of a man—even a decent one such as himself.

You keep telling people who have been molested as children to tell someone—anyone. I wish I had! You always say in your column, "Get counseling and join a support group. It will do you a world of good."

Is it too late for me? I'm 49 years old.

NIGHTMARES IN INDIANA

DEAR NIGHTMARES: It's never too late to get counseling and join a support group. Write to: Survivors of Incest Anonymous Inc., P.O. Box 21817, Baltimore, Md. 21222-6817. Be sure to enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for the address of the nearest support group. Please go. You have nothing to lose but your nightmares. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is that I have absolutely no sense of direction. Every time I drive to a new place, I allow myself 30 minutes to get lost because I know I'll need it. I am so accustomed to getting lost, I no longer find it distressing. I just go back and try it again.

I have been lost within a few blocks of where I'm going so I keep driving around until I find my way. Usually when I'm absolutely sure I'm going the right way, I'm wrong.

My husband insists that I get lost all the time because I'm just too lazy to make the effort to remember. This is the only thing we ever argue about. I told him that a sense of direction is something a person is born with—like the ability to sing or compose music. Some people have it and others don't. If I'm wrong, please tell me.

WRONG-WAY HUSBANDS

DEAR WRONG WAY: No one is born with a "sense of direction." Your husband is right—it's simply a matter of paying attention to where you are and deciding how to get to where you're going. But first you must care enough to chart your course, and then concentrate on staying on it.

By allowing yourself time to get lost, you are setting yourself up to get lost. Obviously, getting lost is not a problem to you, but it can be an inconvenience to others. Try harder.

DEAR ABBY: My daughter, who is a grown woman, has a boyfriend she likes very much, except for one thing—when he eats he talks with food in his mouth! She says this bothers her so much she can hardly stand it, but she doesn't know him well enough—nor does she have the guts—to tell him.

She is just about ready to give him up for that reason. He is really a wonderful man and I would hate to see her give him up. I thought maybe if you'd print this, it may get to him—or someone else who needs some lessons in good manners.

DEAR SOMEONE: I'll try:

Cook

PASTA SALAD

- 1 pound thin spaghetti, cooked and drained
  - 1 package Good Seasons Zesty Italian Dressing mix
  - 1 medium red onion, chopped
  - 1 green pepper, chopped
  - 1 red pepper, chopped
  - 1/4 of an 8-ounce bottle of McCormick's Salad Supreme, or 4-6 ounces of bottled Caesar's salad dressing
  - 1/2 cup black olives
  - 1/2 cup fresh mushrooms, sliced
  - 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder
  - 1/2 teaspoon celery seeds
  - Oregano to taste
- Mix all ingredients and marinate overnight. Makes 6-8 servings.

LAYERED PECAN PIE

- 1 8-ounce package cream cheese
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 cup sugar
- 1 egg

- 1 teaspoon vanilla
  - 1 unbaked 9-inch pastry shell
  - 1 1/4 cup chopped pecans
- Combine cream cheese, sugar and salt; beat until smooth. Add egg and vanilla and beat until combined. Spoon into pastry shell and sprinkle with pecans.
- Combine:
3 eggs
1 cup light corn syrup
1/4 cup sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
- Beat well and pour over pecans. Bake at 375°F for 35-40 minutes, or until set. Makes 8 servings.

PINEAPPLE GELATIN DESSERT

- 1 package plain gelatin
- 1 cup milk
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs, separated
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar

- 1 cup crushed pineapple
  - 16 graham crackers
- Dissolve plain gelatin in milk and let stand 30 minutes. Add sugar and 2 egg yolks to gelatin mixture and cook over low heat until mixture is a thin custard. Let cool.
- Beat 2 egg whites and cream of tartar; add to the custard. Fold in crushed pineapple. Crush graham crackers fine and put half of them in the bottom of a 9-by-12-inch dish. Add the custard mixture and sprinkle the remaining graham crackers on top. Chill and serve. Makes 6-8 servings.

Get a second opinion before having surgery

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 73-year-old female with emphysema, heart failure, hypoglycemia, hiatal hernia and hypothyroidism. My cardiologist wants to do an operation on the artery in my neck. How dangerous is this procedure, and how much recuperation is necessary?

Your mother is taking quite a collection of drugs for heart disease, high cholesterol and gout. Several of these medications have been reported to cause mental deterioration in elderly patients. Lanoxin (purified digitalis), quinidine (to regulate the pulse) and allopurinol (for gout) may produce dementia in some patients. I suggest you question the doctor about your mother's mental state and the role that the medicine may be playing.

DEAR READER: Without knowing what operation your cardiologist recommends, I can't assess the benefits and risks of the procedure. However, because of your emphysema and heart disease, you are certainly at high risk for serious complications from anesthesia. You will want to be absolutely sure the operation is necessary before consenting to it.

Why not obtain a second opinion? You certainly could benefit from another perspective. The advice given by a qualified consultant would enable you to make an informed decision about surgery. To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "An Informed Approach To Surgery." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91389, Cleveland, OH 44101-3389. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My mother has suffered from confusion and memory loss for several years, yet her doctor never mentioned Alzheimer's disease. Could Lanoxin, Dyazide, quinidine, dipyridamole, Lopid and allopurinol contribute to her problem?

DEAR READER: Confusion and memory loss are associated with many diseases, including Alzheimer's disease, a disabling deterioration of mental functioning, for which no cause has been found. However, doctors tend to forget that medicines may also produce mental changes, which may be indistinguishable from the dementia caused by diseases.

By James Jacoby
To do a complete job of counting the hand, sometimes you have to dig a little. West led the king of spades. East overtook with the ace and returned a spade. When West played a third spade, declarer ruffed in dummy with the 10 of diamonds. Next declarer played the queen and jack of diamonds. Everyone followed, so West had started with six spades and two diamonds. South cashed dummy's A-K of clubs, discarding a heart, and ruffed a club. West followed to the third club. At this point, it was known that West could not hold more than two hearts, so the right play in any event was to play East, the hand with greater length in hearts, for the queen. But declarer decided to really count out the hand. He played a diamond to dummy's king and ruffed dummy's last club with his ace of diamonds. When West followed, showing that he originally held four clubs, it was a sure thing to play to dummy's king of hearts and back to his jack. Lesson: Declarer did more than was necessary. When he played to the king of diamonds and ruffed the last club, he was placing himself in a losing position if West had started with only three clubs. That would make it possible for West to hold Q-x of hearts. It would still be the right percentage play to finesse against East for the queen, but remember, declarer is now out of trumps. If he loses to a doubton heart queen in the West hand, he will go down an extra trick, since West will have a good spade to cash.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 26, 1989

Small things will have a way of adding up beneficially for you in the year ahead. Step by step and line by line you might even surprise yourself regarding what you'll be able to achieve and accumulate.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your intuition is likely to be more accurate than usual today, so if you get a persistent hunch about something, it will prove wise to heed your inner voice. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you to understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, P.O. Box 91438, Cleveland, OH 44101-3438.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) Don't pass up any opportunities today that give you a chance to socialize with friends. Something advantageous could develop from discussions with pals.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In career situations today, it looks like you'll be able to come up with some bright ideas that could put you a few paces ahead of your competition. Don't be afraid to test what you conceive.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Treat all of your experiences philosophically today, even the good and the bad. This will enable you to properly cope with anything that might develop.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Keep in mind that a small profit is always better than none. You won't be disappointed today if your expectations are in line with what you are legitimately entitled.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Instead of side stepping difficult decisions today, face them courageously. Being indecisive or wicky-wacky are the only things that can defeat you.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Instead of merely doing only what is expected of you today, exert yourself and do a bit more. You're industriousness will not go unnoticed with the boss.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) You'll be an enjoyable person to be around today, because you're not apt to take yourself or circumstances too seriously.

Your demeanor will encourage others to do likewise.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have any disagreements with your mate today, do not be overly insistent upon getting the last word in. Instead, let the matter drop so that it does not grow into something more serious.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your skills as a sales person will be very effective today. It shouldn't be too hard for you to come away with the order, regardless of how tough your prospect is to sell.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In business or financial matters today small, but essential points that others may overlook won't escape your attention. This will give you an edge in your dealings.

VERGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In roles where you must exercise your authority today, underlings won't mind doing your bidding because what you'll ask of them will be voiced as a request rather than a command.
