Girl loses hand in blast

INDIANAPOLIS — Hospital officials said Tuesday there was little hope of reattaching the hand of a 5-year-old girl who was seriously injured by a bomb blast inside a K-Mart department store.

Erin Bower, of Indianapolis, also suffered facial and stomach shrapnel injuries, plus damage to her left eye, when the bomb exploded after she touched the box containing it, police said.

The force of the blast severed the girl's hand, said Methodist Hospital spokeswoman Carole Hohn, and surgeons were not optimistic that it could be saved.

"It doesn't look like reattachment is possible," Hohn said. "It didn't look promising when she went into surgery."

Bower's mother was slightly hurt by the explosion, and was treated and released. No one else was hurt in the explosion, including Bower's father and younger sister, who also were in the store at the time.

Prince plans mansion in Aspen

ASPEN, Colo. — A Saudi Arabian prince plans to build a mansion on a mesa outside this glitzy mecca for the rich and famous so large it would dwarf the county airport.

Prince Bandar bin Sultan bin Abdel Aziz, 39, has submitted plans to the Pitkin County planning office for a 43,000-square foot home on Star Mesa that is nearly double the size of the largest home in the county. Bandar is the nephew of King Fahd of Saudi Arabia and his country's ambassador to the United States.

In comparison, the Pitkin County airport, where numerous private jets can be seen every day, is only 36,000 square feet.

The Aspen real estate community was speechless when asked what a home that size might cost. But, based on the estimated cost of the previous largest home in the Aspen area built a few years ago, it could approach $50 million.

Copter crashes in escape try

MIAMI — A helicopter pilot's attempt to free a millionaire drug smuggler from the Metropolitan Correctional Center apparently failed because other prisoners eager to escape grabbed onto the aircraft and caused it to crash, officials said.

The small, two-seat helicopter failed to clear a prison wall and crashed back into the exercise yard Monday, injuring the prisoner, Benjamin Kramer, and the pilot, Charlie Clayton Stevens. Both were hospitalized in serious condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

Gator hunt ends in jail

State wildlife officer Jesse Baker confiscated these three dead alligators as evidence.

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Two Sanford men accused of illegally killing three alligators were arrested here early today.

State Wildlife Officer Jesse Baker charged the two with alligator poaching, carrying a concealed firearm and the use of a firearm in commission of a felony.

Baker said he's seeing more signs of gator poaching since the legalized month-long hunt by licensed hunters last September that opened a market for gator products, which in Florida had been virtually off limits for 26 years.

Arrested in this case are Richard John Nixie, 23, of 5079 Ohio Ave., and Donald Harrison Jenkins, 24, of 4963 Woodruff Springs Road. They were arrested at the U.S. Highway 17-92 boat ramp, west of Sanford at the county line, after Seminole County sheriff's deputies spotted three dead alligators in their truck and called Baker to the scene. Bond for Jenkins is $3,000. Nixie's bond is $7,000.

The gators range in size from 4 to 7 feet long. They were killed by shots from a 44-magnum pistol, Baker said.

Sheriff's deputies confronted the two men and found the gators after they checked on another suspicious vehicle in the area and determined it was occupied by campers.

Mayor takes polygraph test

Hardy says he and commission members have all been cleared

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — Polygraph tests given to Mayor Hank Hardy have proved him innocent of allegations by former Mayor David Gunter that he and other commissioners violated the Florida Sunshine Law, he said at the Longwood commission meeting last night.

Hardy said it was his idea to take the test and with the advice of his attorney, Gary E. Shader, he was given the polygraph exam on April 14 by Mark Euler, president of Insight Polygraphic and Investigatory Services Inc., Orlando.

Euler is a licensed polygrapher who has served as a consultant to Orange and Osceola sheriff's offices since 1972 and specializes in "white collar crime." Euler announced at last night's meeting that Hardy showed no signs of lying during the test in which he answered six questions. "Therefore, Mayor Hank Hardy may be cleared of said allegations at this time," Euler said.

The accusations originated at a commission meeting two weeks ago when Gunter came to the stand and said commissioners held clandestine meetings to discuss matters on the agenda during the time that he served as mayor last year. Gunter

Architect gets a little help from local playground pros

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN

SANFORD — Attached to the architect's sketchings for the playground at Park on Park was Goldsboro Elementary student Candice Brown's crayon drawing.

Both drawings, on display last night for a public meeting at the Sanford Civic Center, contained some of the same elements.

That was, in fact, the point of Design Day.

Rachel Wagner, New York playground architect, met with children from Midway, Hamilton and Idyllwild elementary schools yesterday to determine what elements they wanted in the playground. She began sketching yesterday morning, and presented the finished product at a public meeting last night.

"The children knew an awful lot about design," Wagner said. "Now it's their job to find 1,000 volunteers to build the playground."

Volunteers of all ages will begin work on playground construction Nov. 1, and will complete the project in five days, Wagner said.

She emphasized that everyone in the community is needed, regardless of age or building skills. "We don't use two-by-fours and two-by-sixes...We use little boards and big boards."

Herald names new directors in advertising and circulation

SANFORD — New advertising and circulation directors have been named at the Sanford Herald.

Laura Sollien is in charge of all advertising and Bill Degen is responsible for circulation.

Sollien, 35, a resident of the Sanford area for the past five years, worked in advertising sales at the Herald from 1985 to 1987. Most recently, she was special projects coordinator for the Deland Penny-saver and a sales representative for the Daytona Beach News Journal.

She and her husband Bob have two boys. Sollien originally is from Hoosick Falls, N.Y. and graduated with a B.A. in Psychology from the State University of N.Y. at Plattsburgh.

Degen is a native of Davenport, Iowa, and is a graduate of St. Ambrose University there.

He and his wife, Cindy, live in Lake Mary and are members of All Souls Parish.

Escape foiled, chopper crashes

Panel may limit ammunition clips

TALLAHASSEE — Legislators who say they may not have the votes to ban assault weapons in Florida turned their attention Monday to limiting the size of ammunition clips for semiautomatic weapons.

House Criminal Justice committee members have been trying to find a balance between protecting the public from criminals using military-style assault weapons and infringing on legitimate gun ownership. On Monday, a subcommittee delayed voting on a bill banning certain guns to study the idea of restricting cartridge clips.

Committee chairman Ron Silver, D-Miami, said a limit on clip size may be the most stringent measure lawmakers are willing to pass. Silver said he would like to limit gun clips to five bullets, which is already the limit for weapons used for hunting in Florida forests.

"Five, that's the same number we are limited to as far as shooting deer or other animals," Silver said.

Silver said most legislators want to do something about the problem of assault weapons, but even on the committee, support for banning particular weapons was "tenuous."

"If (limiting clip size) at least limits the amount of firepower that you can have in rapid succession," Silver said. "It certainly wouldn't make a difference to the first five people who get it, but it certainly would make a difference afterwards."

Financier indicted on drug charges

JACKSONVILLE — Fugitive financier Robert Lee Vesco was indicted by a federal grand jury Monday on charges of conspiring with Medellin Cartel leader Carlos Lehder to smuggle cocaine into this country.

Vesco, 55, who currently lives in Cuba, and John Lee Moller, 44, formerly of Fort Lauderdale, were named in an indictment that supersedes an indictment returned last month. The new indictment included the 30 people charged earlier, including Lehder and a close associate of Bahamian Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling.

"These charges against two additional defendants constitute another important step in our efforts to combat organized drug importation into the United States," U.S. Attorney Robert W. Genzman said in a prepared statement.

Genzman said the federal investigation that led to the indictment was continuing.

The indictment alleged Vesco assisted Lehder by arranging for planes carrying cocaine to fly through Cuban airspace in late 1984.

Lehder was convicted last year in Jacksonville of cocaine smuggling and is serving life in prison.

Judge gives Eastern's fate more time

NEW YORK — Eastern Airlines and its creditors Monday were ordered to report soon on how they propose to get the carrier flying again, and Eastern's parent said the plan would not include selling the strike-bound airline.

Eastern's creditors committee, appointed last month by a U.S. bankruptcy court trustee, and lawyers for Eastern said they needed more time to explore alternative courses of action.

U.S. Bankruptcy Judge Burton Lifland, who is overseeing the airline's reorganization, agreed with the request and ordered a progress report to be given to him Friday. He scheduled a hearing for April 24.

Following Lifland's ruling, Texas Air Corp., Eastern's Houston-based parent company, issued a statement saying it would no longer pursue its sale of Eastern.

With the collapse of the efforts to sell Eastern to Peter Ueberroth for $464 million, Texas Air said it decided "further sale efforts are unlikely to be successful, and in fact, would be counterproductive."

Texas Air blamed the Ueberroth deal's collapse on "unreasonable and unworkable" union demands and said its board supported Eastern management's desire to reorganize the company.

Panel votes to keep primary runoff

TALLAHASSEE — A House panel overwhelmingly rejected legislation Monday that would have eliminated primary runoff elections in Florida.

The Ethics and Elections committee also voted down a measure to move the date of the first primary from Labor Day back to the third week in August.

Florida is one of only eight states that holds a second primary if no single candidate takes more than 50 percent of the vote in the first party primary. According to bill sponsor Rep. James Hargrett, D-Tampa, the system is archaic, expensive and unnecessary.

"The second primary is a relic of the past, a holdover from the days when Florida did not have a bona fide two-party system," Hargrett told the committee.

"Today Florida does have a bona fide two-party system, and there is no need to continue paying this expense," he said. "You're talking about a $5 million bill the people of Florida have to pay without much benefit."

MIAMI — A helicopter pilot's attempt to free a millionaire drug smuggler from the Metropolitan Correctional Center apparently failed because other prisoners eager to escape grabbed onto the aircraft and caused it to crash, officials said.

The small, two-seat helicopter failed to clear a prison wall and crashed back into the exercise yard Monday, injuring the prisoner, Benjamin Kramer, and the pilot, Charlie Clayton Stevens. Both were hospitalized in serious condition at Jackson Memorial Hospital.

The Bell G-47 helicopter

dipped into the prison exercise yard shortly after 10 a.m. Monday as prisoners were on the recreation field. "It hovered about 2 or 3 feet off the ground," said Charles Davis, an executive assistant to the prison's warden.

Kramer, a burly 6-foot-2 powerboat racer who weighs 250 pounds, then jumped aboard, Marshals said. Kramer was convicted of running a nationwide marijuana importing and distribution ring.

Other inmates apparently tried to scramble aboard the helicopter, clinging to the skis and possibly overloading it. "It didn't have enough power to lift off with any additional passengers," Davis said.

Stevens lost control when he tried to take off, and the helicopter crashed into a 14-foot fence, Davis said. Portions of the fence were thrown 50 feet and the helicopter's rotary blade broke off.

Kramer suffered a broken right leg and Stevens broke both legs and facial bones. No one else was injured.

The helicopter had been based at Tamiami Airport, about two miles from the prison, for the past month or so, according to an official there who requested anonymity, Davis said. Federal officials suspect Stevens, of Gold Beach, Ore., took off from that airport.

Other Tamiami pilots said they had seen Stevens at the airport recently and that he appeared to have little helicopter experience.

Airport patrolman Rich Fieger said he was perplexed by Stevens' choice of helicopters for such a risky mission. "In my opinion, that would not be the kind of bird to use," he said. "That's an observation helicopter. It's no workhorse. It's a light-duty, slow-moving machine."

Kramer, 34, was convicted of heading a nationwide marijuana importing and distribution ring.

said he was present when meetings were held with Hardy and commissioners Richard Bullington and Ted Poelking in commissioners' homes and at restaurants after meetings. After Gunter made the accusation, he asked that the entire commission resign.

The commissioners denied the charges and Hardy said Gunter was "sore" about losing the election last November.

Hardy said last night he took the test on his own, paying the $150 cost out of his own pocket.

"I wanted to do it. As far as I'm concerned, each and every member was cleared," Hardy said.

According to approved polygraph procedures, Hardy was asked the test questions two separate times. During the test, Hardy denied holding clandestine meetings with Poelking, Bullington and Gunter at his house or anywhere to discuss agenda items. He also denied meeting at a restaurant with two or more commissioners to discuss agenda items and said he did not "intentionally or knowingly" violate the Florida Sunshine Law.

Hardy said the other commissioners were not aware he took the test and no other commissioner has done the same.

"According to Kuffner, Hardy showed no 'physiological reactions normally indicative of deception noted in the relevant test questions."

In a separate incident at the meeting, when Attorney Michael A. Kramer took the stand to ask for a conditional use for Q-Bar, a pool hall and restaurant, City Attorney Richard S. Taylor Jr. told the commissioners it was a "conflict of interest." Taylor also said it was a conflict of interest for former city attorney Kramer to represent ousted commissioner Carol Odom in a federal lawsuit against the city.

Taylor asked the commission whether they wanted to disqualify Kramer from representing Odom if The Florida Bar determined it was a conflict of interest.

The commission decided unanimously not to waive the Florida Bar's decision if they consider Kramer's representation of Odom a conflict.

Odom was removed from the commission in February, several weeks after she was sworn in, after the majority of the commissioners said she had violated the charter by interfering in city business. Odom sued the city, Hardy, Poelking, Bullington and Taylor in U.S. District Court asking for "compensatory and punitive" damages for the emotional stress and public embarrassment caused her, and for not allowing her a public hearing or an attorney to defend her.

Taylor said when Kramer served as city attorney, he "acted on behalf of the city concerning interference of city business."

"Now he's acting concerning the very same issue," Taylor said.

Kramer said, on his own initiative, he communicated with the Florida Bar Association Ethics Division, and it was in agreement that there was no conflict of interest in representing Odom. Kramer told the commissioners there was no need to ask for a waiver of that decision.

"This is my reputation that's been slandered here. I do not ask for a waiver. There's no need to waive it. Sir, that's a cheap shot at me," Kramer told Taylor.

After the meeting, Kramer said he was "surprised at the poor taste of the attorney (Taylor)."

"It's nothing but a personal attack on me. In our profession we are advocates for justice and freedom. We fight our clients' battles. Carol Odom has the right for the attorney of her choice. The mayor and city attorney once before tried to interfere with her right to have an attorney. I see this as nothing more than a desperate move in an otherwise weak case," Kramer said.

Taylor, during his report later in the meeting, told the commissioners that there is insurance to cover "compensatory damages," which Odom is asking for in her suit. Taylor also said he will make a motion to dismiss the punitive damages asked for in the suit.

square feet at Ninth Street and Park Avenue, will be built with donated materials and labor. The city Scenic Improvement Board, who completed landscaping of the one-acre park in February, is sponsoring the playground project.

Wagner said the playground will include a race car, a ship, a Space Shuttle model, a castle, a mirror maze, an elevator shaft and other elements requested by the children. One section will have wheelchair access off Oak Street.

Conventional playgrounds have been built on grass, which weathers away to mud and rocks, Wagner said. But the playground at Park on Park will be built on a nine-inch riverstone or sand base to cushion a child's fall.

Wagner called teeter-totters and see-saws "the two most dangerous pieces of playground equipment." The Sanford playground will be built from tires and enough lumber to build five houses — but without metal, she said.

SIB member Joyce Malone said, "I was surprised. I guess I was a little skeptical and I expected her to have 20 canned drawings when she came. But she really took everything the kids told her and worked it into the plan."

The playground will cost the community about $50,000, Wagner said, and its worth will be valued at $150,000.

The Sanford Rotary Club has offered to match up to $25,000 in the SIB fundraising drive.

At the meeting last night, SIB took volunteers for these committees for the construction project: tools, purchased materials, donated materials, public relations, children's committee, fundraising, childcare and food.

SIB is conducting a recycling drive to help fund the project. Anyone wishing to participate in the drive should take donated materials to Kokomo Kid Recycling on West First Street.

Construction of a playground designed by the Ithaca, New York architects will begin Wednesday in Orange City.

Southeast to buy branches in Orlando

UPI report

MIAMI — Southeast Banking Corp. said Monday it will double its market presence in the fast-growing Orlando area with the purchase of 13 branch offices from American Pioneer Savings Bank.

Southeast signed a letter of intent to acquire the branches for $50 million in preferred stock and a subordinated note — or roughly what it would cost to build new branches, said Ida Roberts, a spokeswoman for Southeast.

The branch offices will add $285 million in additional deposits and $300 million in selected assets to Southeast.

Both Southeast and American Pioneer said about 60 percent of the portfolio held by the branches consists of commercial loans. However, the branches technically operate as thrifts.

"We hope to operate them as banks," Roberts said. "If not, we are going to fold them into our existing thrift operation." Southeast acquired First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Jacksonville last year.

American Pioneer Inc., which reported a net loss of $11.2 million, or $2.59 per share, for 1988 on Monday, said the sale will improve the thrift's financial strength and capital position.

American Pioneer expects to realize a gain of $35 million to $39 million from the sale. Regulatory capital will exceed 5 percent upon conclusion of the deal, the thrift said.

The acquisition, which is subject to negotiation of a definitive agreement as well as regulatory approval, will give Southeast 15 offices in Orange County, up from seven, and eight offices in Seminole County, up from four. Southeast will also gain a foothold in Lake County.

One man knifed, another jailed

MIDWAY — A man who allegedly stabbed another several times during an argument in Midway Sunday afternoon has been jailed on a charge of aggravated battery.

Ward Curtis Stewart, 40, of 2186 Sipes Ave., was arrested at 2331 Sipes Ave., at 2:18 p.m. That was the scene of the stabbing, Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported. The victim, who was not named in the arrest report, told deputies Stewart reached into the victim's pants pocket before they began arguing and fighting on the porch. The victim was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital. Bond for Stewart is $5,000.

Man accused of stealing album, gun

OVIEDO — A man who allegedly stole a photo album and a gun from the house of Tammy VanCleave, 20, of 358 King St., Oviedo, on Friday, was arrested at his house Sunday night by Oviedo police.

Police said they found the photo album at the suspect's house. He had reportedly made threats via phone against VanCleave.

Robert Potchen, 32, of 21 Lawn St., Oviedo, is charged with armed burglary in the case. Bond is $5,000.

Accused gunman charged in assault

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A man who allegedly put a handgun to the heads of two men at the Ramada Inn on Douglas Avenue, Altamonte Springs, during a dispute over a woman, is charged with armed burglary and aggravated assault.

Altamonte Springs police arrested Ralph E. Bowen Jr., 24, of 920 Orient Ave., B. Altamonte Springs, at 2:25 a.m. Sunday, after he allegedly forced entry to the victims' inn rooms, where his former girlfriend was with one of the victims.

After the attack, Bowen fled, but was found by police and returned to the scene where he was arrested. Bond is $9,000.

Stop for soda brings alarm

CASSELBERRY — A man who reportedly told Casseberry police he entered a business in that city through a window at about midnight Sunday was charged with burglary after police found him in woods behind the business. He said he entered the building because he saw a soft drink machine inside and he wanted a drink.

Christopher William Berry, 44, of 101 Mosswood Lane, Winter Springs, was captured outside of Advanced Communications, 1481 Seminole Blvd. Police responded to the sounding of a burglary alarm at that location and their investigation led to the arrest of Berry. Bond is $1,000.

Man arrested after fruit stolen

Johnny Willard Daniels, 29, of W. Eight Street, Sanford, was charged with burglary and theft after it was determined the fruit was stolen from the produce stand.

Clean hands bring arrest

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Police thought Raymond J. Basta's hands were too clean for him to have been cleaning up at Chef Tony's Restaurant, when they found him outside the back door of that location on State Road 436, Altamonte Springs, at about 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

Basta, 42, of 123 Forest Ave., Altamonte Springs, reportedly told police he was cleaning at the restaurant. But they said his hands seemed too clean to have been handling garbage as he reportedly claimed. They also found two boards at his feet, which appeared to have been used to try to pry open the door of that restaurant.

The manager was contacted and reportedly said Basta was a former worker who did not have business at the restaurant. Basta was charged with attempted burglary. Bond is $1,000.

Minimum living area requirements remain

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
 Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Leave it like it is. That's what the city commission decided yesterday about an ordinance establishing minimum living area requirements, bringing to an end a debate between homeowners and developers.

At a city commission workshop yesterday, the commission decided to adopt an ordinance establishing minimum living area requirements at 900 square feet for SR-1 zoning, 1,200 square feet for SR-1A and 1,500 square feet for SR-1AA.

Those requirements were on city books until December, when the commission adopted a land development regulation plan that omitted the single family home requirements.

In January, the commission adopted an emergency ordinance to set requirements in place. That ordinance lowered SR-1 requirements to 700 square feet. Last month the commission extended the emergency ordinance, and passed on first reading an ordinance making those requirements permanent.

The commission was scheduled to hear second reading of the permanent ordinance at a meeting last week. Instead, the commission heard arguments from homeowners who fear lower requirements will reduce the value of their homes, and from a developer who said he wants to build affordable housing.

Yesterday the commission decided to allow for a conditional use of 700 square feet for some SR-1 lots. The commissioners recommended city staff determine qualifications for the conditional use.

Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning, suggested the commission either require a formula to determine conditional use qualifications or hold a public hearing for individual requests.

Commissioner A.A. Mc-

Clanahan, who had defended the reduction in requirements, said yesterday, "It has been 900 or less...for all these years and there's never been a problem with it."

"We need to go ahead and get this on the books," he said.

The ordinance is scheduled for second reading May 8.

Lawmakers quarrel over advocate

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Legislators pushing for a consumer advocate on insurance issues clashed Monday with Department of Insurance representatives who said such an advocate is unneeded and would be wasteful.

Lawmakers backing House Bill 855 and representatives of Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher have fought over the proposal before. They met Monday in a fruitless attempt to iron out their differences.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Peter Deutsch, D-Tamarac, would create a special insurance council similar to the Public Counsel representing consumers on utility rate increases before the Public Service Commission.

The insurance council would be employed by the Legislature and represent auto and health insurance owners at rate hearings before the insurance commissioner.

Spokesmen for Gallagher argued the insurance commissioner is already responsible for representing consumers. But Deutsch and Commerce committee chairman Rep. Art Simon, D-Miami, said the commissioner's primary duty is to rule on rate disputes, so he is in a poor position to be an advocate for consumers.

Simon noted that if the commissioner rejects a rate increase sought by an insurance company, the company can appeal to the courts.

Slow justice

It's been nearly four years since the mutilated body of U.S. Drug Enforcement Agent Enrique Camarena Salazar was found in a shallow grave on a remote ranch 60 miles southeast of Guadalajara, Mexico. Reliable evidence suggests that Mr. Camarena's kidnapping, torture and murder were masterminded by Rafael Caro Quintero, reputed to be the head of one of Mexico's five largest drug families. After many delays, the wheels of justice are about to catch up with this notorious drug kingpin.

According to Carlos del Rio, chief justice of the Mexican Supreme Court, a verdict should be handed down by midyear in the murder trial of Caro Quintero and three of his henchmen. The four thugs are currently residing in Mexico City's Northern Prison, and their lawyers apparently have run out of legal appeals to delay the decision much longer.

Because there is no death penalty in Mexico, Caro Quintero, if convicted, could receive a maximum of 40 years in prison. He already faces 34 years behind bars for numerous charges unrelated to the Camarena case.

These developments are putting to rest widespread doubts that this vicious criminal would ever be brought to justice.

Although the Mexican federal police considered Caro Quintero a prime suspect in Mr. Camarena's murder, he was permitted to flee to Costa Rica four years ago after bribing the regional police commander who headed the investigation. Even after he was captured and incarcerated, he was treated more like a visiting dignitary than a dangerous felon. His prison cell is said to resemble a hotel suite, complete with room service and a telephone from which he conducts his business. This is a travesty.

The Mexican government, which has repeatedly declared its intention to crack down on murderous drug dealers, can do just that by making an example of Rafael Caro Quintero provided he is convicted.

India missile concern

At a time when the big powers are cutting back on weapons and manpower, it is sad that India has developed a missile capable of carrying nuclear weapons 1,500 miles.

The appearance of the Indian missile, called the Agni, is a reminder of how weapons of mass destruction are spreading to Third World countries even as the United States, the Soviet Union and China cut back their nuclear and conventional arms.

It is generally believed that Pakistan, like India, has everything it needs to produce nuclear weapons. Recent revelations from West Germany indicate that much of the technology necessary for building such weapons in Pakistan was imported from West German firms.

By building missiles capable of carrying nuclear missiles, India is bound to upset Pakistan and China. How unfortunate it would be if the Pakistanis stepped up their weapons production in response.

A nightmare situation is already developing in the Middle East, where Israel has nuclear weapons capacity, Iraq is reportedly seeking it and both are developing long-range missiles capable of delivering the weapons. To make matters worse, Iraq, Iran, Egypt and Libya are all building chemical or biological weapons.

These countries, as well as India and Pakistan, should be focusing on their social and economic problems instead of engaging in a useless and dangerous arms race.

Airports compete for hub status

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — In earlier years, Birmingham's civic leaders, like their counterparts throughout the nation, might have yearned for improved highways to serve their region, or for more corporations to locate in their city. Now, however, what they most want is hub airport status.

"We must look to the skies for our future," says Alabama Gov. Guy Hunt, reflecting the sentiments of political officials and business executives in cities and states everywhere in the country. But the supply of potential airport hubs far exceeds the demand.

The hub-and-spoke system of airline operations emerged as an industry standard following enactment of the Airline Deregulation Act of 1978. But Delta Airlines had established the country's first major hub, in the South, long before passage of that federal law.

At a time when other air carriers relied heavily on linear routes, Delta recognized the efficiencies and economies of flying passengers from communities across the South into Atlanta. Its flights radiated from that hub like the spokes of a bicycle wheel. Delta passengers would change planes and fly out of Atlanta to complete their trip.

For other airlines, establishing hub-and-spoke networks was difficult prior to deregulation because every route change had to be approved by the federal government — a process that took years. After deregulation, however, route structures were changed drastically and dozens of cities were designated as hubs by various airlines.

The cities that already were dominant in their respective regions — including New York, Chicago, Dallas, Denver and Los Angeles — were logical candidates for hub status. But other cities also qualified when the airlines discovered they had first-rate, but under-utilized, airports. Among them were Salt Lake City, Minneapolis, Milwaukee, Baltimore and even relatively small Dayton, Ohio.

More than 40 cities now have been designated as hubs, a classification that not only provides an immediate increase in airline spending and employment, but also has a far broader synergistic effect. Perhaps most important: The availability of fast and frequent airline service to multiple destinations can be a crucial factor when a corporation is deciding where to locate a facility.

But the period of rapid hub growth has come and gone. Here in the South, for example, the cities already selected as hubs include Charlotte and Raleigh-Durham, N.C.; Memphis and Nashville, Tenn.; Atlanta and Miami. To the west, there are other hubs in St. Louis, Houston and Dallas. Birmingham is literally surrounded by hubs. It must also compete with other cities that are constantly imploring the airlines for hub status.

Birmingham's airport is good, but it has both major and minor deficiencies. Its bathrooms are awkwardly located, for example, requiring men and women seeking to use them to first subject themselves to a security check.

Undeterred by such not-ready-for-prime-time episodes, airport officials here plan to spend $125 million in the next 15 years, including $47 million in the next three years.

Birmingham's airport is good

Moving toward colorblind politics

WASHINGTON — Julian C. Dixon is about to become a national figure — despite himself. As chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct (the so-called Ethics Committee), the Los Angeles congressman is in the hot seat as the investigation of House Speaker Jim Wright (D-Texas) nears its climax.

Dixon, a six-term Democrat, has shunned television interview programs and press conferences. So it will come as a surprise to most Americans to discover — as they soon will — that the man in charge of this supremely sensitive political assignment is black.

Within the House, however, it's no mystery why Dixon is where he is. Though relatively light in seniority, he is one of the most trusted and widely admired members of the House, among people of both parties and both races.

Dixon is a fascinating example of the emerging alternative style of black leadership: A person who makes his way not by the militance of his advocacy of civil rights or other racially linked issues, but on the basis of personal and intellectual qualities which cross racial and ideological division and make him an effective bridge-builder.

Other examples that come readily to mind include Gen. Colin L. Powell, the last head of the National Security Council in the Reagan administration; Los Angeles mayor Tom Bradley; Ron H. Brown, new chairman of the Democratic National Committee; and Rep. William H. Gray II of Philadelphia, chairman of the House Democratic caucus.

The emergence of these men in roles traditionally reserved for whites is itself a sign of the maturation of American politics. But it is particularly important at a time when so much attention is focused on the continuing racial polarization of our society.

Accounts of last week's Chicago mayoral election all emphasized the racial split in the voting. Exit polls showed the winner, Cook County state's attorney Richard M. Daley, received 90 percent of the white vote, while his main opponent, black Alderman Timothy C. Evans, won 95 percent of the black vote.

Jesse L. Jackson, the chief supporter of Evans, cited the results as further proof of his contention that the principle of racial reciprocity is mostly honored in the breach in this society. There's certainly a kernel of truth in that observation, uncomfortable as it may be to acknowledge it. But it's not the whole truth, as the careers of men like Dixon remind us. For all the shortcomings, American society and its political system have evolved to the point that some members of a minority race can be accepted and indeed welcomed in positions of exceptional sensitivity and significance on a colorblind basis.

No one reaches a position like Dixon's entirely by accident. The community from which he comes, the district he represented first in the California Assembly and now in Congress, is itself a rare example of integrated diversity.

On the west side of Los Angeles, between the Coliseum and the airport, it is a stable mixture of whites, blacks, Asians and Hispanics. When I interviewed Dixon ten years ago for a book on emerging young political leaders, one of the first things he said was that his "is a district where they really believe good neighbors come in all colors. They are very proud of their integration pattern."

Coming from that kind of community, Dixon has never played purely "black" politics, though he has headed the Congressional Black Caucus. An ally of the "Waxman/Berman" machine, headed by two Jewish congressmen and their partners in Los Angeles and Sacramento, his politics always have bridged racial lines.

Beyond the bent his district gives, Dixon has personal qualities that make him ideal for sensitive assignments like the investigation of Wright. Although at age 50 he is clearly a member of the television generation of politicians, he avoids the limelight as assiduously as most of his contemporaries seek it.

He has a reputation for being conscientious in his workmanship, calm in demeanor and committed to fairness in process. The Ethics Committee is unique in being equally balanced between the parties. On one crucial question — the decision that it will release the full investigative report on Wright's activities — Dixon already has demonstrated his independence from partisan pressures and his ability to forge a consensus.

The Wright case will be infinitely tougher to handle, but the trust in Dixon expressed by both the Speaker's defenders and his most ardent critics speaks volumes about Dixon's character and reputation.

It's a healthy antidote to all the talk and evidence of racial polarization in the United States.

No one reaches a position like Dixon's entirely by accident

More U.S. aid to Jordan is crucial

AMMAN, Jordan — No American visiting an Arab family in the Hashemite Kingdom of Jordan ever leaves hungry. An Arab table set for guests makes Thanksgiving dinner look like an appetizer. In the ancient Arab tradition of hospitality, it is a moral imperative to treat guests well.

Yet in this capital city, possibly the most hospitable in the Arab Middle East, it is clear that the feast of two oil-rich decades is over.

Not that the hospitality is withheld or the food less plentiful, but the talk is of making do with less.

When Jordan's King Hussein comes to Washington, D.C., this week, he will be in the mood to talk of making do with more aid from the United States. It is time for the Bush administration to lay out a bigger spread for its longtime Arab friend.

Jordan received only $20 million in aid from the United States last year, compared to the $3 billion that annually goes to Egypt. Hussein paid back to the United States more than $20 million in interest on military debt last year. The piddling U.S. aid is unbefitting for the most loyal Arab ally America has had since the 1950s.

Jordan has no oil to speak of and only phosphate to boast of as a natural resource. It has depended on the kindness of its oil-rich neighbors. Unfortunately, King Hussein has painfully learned that he cannot run a country on their promises.

A visitor to Amman, a city of 1.2 million, would not guess that its people have fallen on hard times. There is a construction boom of white limestone houses on the hills where Bedouins still graze goats and sheep. Traffic bustles and merchants hawk their wares with no air of desperation.

Amman's facade of prosperity today has its roots in the Baghdad Summit of 1978. Arab leaders at that summit felt that Egypt had strayed from the fold by talking to Israel. The other Arab nations promised aid to the frontline states sharing a border with Israel. Jordan was supposed to get $1.2 billion a year for 10 years.

Libya's Moammar Gadhafi reneged almost immediately. Algeria paid only two installments. Iraq stopped payments after three years because of its costly war with Iran. Qatar, Kuwait and the United Arab Emirates came up with only a fraction of their original commitment. Only Saudi Arabia paid in full — $360 million a year.

One adviser to Hussein told us, "We borrowed money according to these promises that were made. But only half of the full $12 billion was paid. And now all the loans we made to build up our infrastructure are coming due and the money isn't there."

Jordan's most important source of revenue — taxes sent home by the 300,000 Jordanians working in the oil-rich states — has dropped steadily with the drop in oil prices.

Last summer, Hussein cut the national budget. Imports are severely restricted and heavily taxed. The once-stable Jordanian currency, the dinar, has been allowed to devalue. Prime Minister Zaid Rifai, who inherited the economic problem but has been blamed for it, is expected to resign soon.

The king is likely to be optimistic in Washington. "We are good survivalists. It is not the end of the world," one royal aide told us. But his aides are also predicting that he and his entourage will take care to point out how miserly the U.S. aid is at a time Jordan needs help.

Richard Conner on Sept. 11 after Conner drove into Wallace's driveway in rural Geneva. The driveway is posted with several "no trespassing" signs.

Thomas Hastings, assistant state attorney who prosecuted the case, told the jury that Rev. Conner, pastor of the United Methodist Church of Geneva, was calling on members of the church's nominating committee that afternoon and had planned to call on Patricia Hoyt, whose home is next to Wallace's. Thomas said Conner evidently either drove into the Wallace driveway by mistake, or to ask directions.

Thomas and Wallace's attorney, Cheney Mason, agreed that a .44 magnum revolver in Wallace's hand discharged into Conner's abdomen as the minister approached the Wallace house.

Wallace testified that he didn't know who had driven into his driveway, so he came out of the house with the gun. He testified that the gun accidentally discharged when Conner walked in to the end of the barrel. People at the Hoyt residence heard the shot and called the sheriff's department. Wallace was arrested after a deputy found Conner's body slumped in the front seat of his car in Wallace's driveway. An autopsy showed he had bled to death.

Two guilty in illegal steroid manufacturing

United Press International

MIAMI — Two men pleaded guilty Monday to charges of operating illegal steroid manufacturing laboratories, including one federal investigator described as the largest such lab ever discovered in the United States.

Justin Rogers Routt and Clark Scott Daniels were charged with illegally manufacturing and distributing counterfeit anabolic steroids, distributing real anabolic steroids without a prescription, conspiracy and mail fraud.

Both were released on $100,000 bond and a judge scheduled sentencing for early June.

Baker said the suspects' boat, which had been loaded into the back of their pickup truck, was covered with blood. There was a 44-magnum pistol on the backseat of the boat. Deputies told Baker they found a 44-caliber pistol and a .25-caliber pistol in the suspects' truck.

While being booked into the Seminole County jail, Nixie reportedly told Baker he had shot all three alligators with the Ruger 44-magnum pistol. He reportedly said that Jenkins had not fired any shots.

Baker reported the gators are believed to have been harvested near riverfront property leased by a Mr. Dunn. All were taken within one-quarter-mile of each other. Nixie reportedly said Jenkins operated the boat and he wore a headlamp and directed Jenkins to the location of the gators.

Nixie, according to his statement, said he and Jenkins left the 17-92 boat ramp at about 8:30 p.m. Monday to head north on the St. Johns River and start their hunt.

Nixie said he planned to eat the gators and was not going to sell them, according to Baker.

We Make Loans For Smiles, Hugs And Cheers.

At NCNB National Bank, we realize that borrowing money can mean as much an emotional investment as a financial one. So when we loan you money for braces, we see it as helping to create a priceless smile. We understand that the long-term reward of a college education can't be measured in dollars and cents. And that the investment you make in a marriage will continue long after the wedding bills have been paid. You see, it's all in the way you choose to look at things.

And at NCNB, we'll really make an extra effort to see things your way. We'll work to come up with a monthly payment schedule that suits your terms, not ours. And to give you an interest rate that is competitively low. So whatever your borrowing needs, stop by any NCNB office. Or call 1-800-283-NCNB to arrange an appointment with the loan officer nearest you. We'd like to loan you money for things you can't put a price on.

North trial coming to an end

WASHINGTON — The prosecution at Oliver North's trial, making closing arguments to the jury today, summarized its accusations that the ex-White House aide committed 12 felonies in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Prosecutor John Kecker, who has led the government's case since the trial started Feb. 21, offered his argument that North, among other things, lied to Congress, accepted an illegal gift and destroyed official documents.

But defense lawyer Brendan Sullivan was expected to argue that North merely followed orders from White House superiors and did not know his actions were illegal.

After the lawyers summarized their cases, U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell was to give the jury legal instructions and then sequester panel members for their deliberations, which should start by Thursday.

Since testimony in North's trial started, the lawyers have presented 50 witnesses and more than 325 exhibits in the case. Early on, Gesell admonished the lawyers to exercise some control over the number exhibits: "If this jury is like any other I've seen in the 20 years I've been at this court, they will read every single piece of paper we put in front of them."

The white-haired judge, 78, a veteran of the Watergate trials, has treated the jury with supreme deference, and he frequently complimented the members for taking their civic duty seriously.

Alaska angered at Exxon cleanup plan

VALDEZ, Alaska — Exxon's long-awaited plan to clean up spilled oil from some of the world's most beautiful waterways and beaches is too little, too late, state and federal officials said.

Exxon, according to a draft of the cleanup plan obtained by United Press International, wants to hire 4,000 local workers and begin cleaning the beaches by April 22, hoping to repair damage from America's worst oil spill before the weather turns stormy at the end of September.

"You can't buy back three weeks. That's the time Exxon has lost," Dennis Keleo, commissioner, Alaska's Department of Environmental Conservation, said Monday. "And it's going to take at least another three weeks before Exxon gets its program in motion."

"Frankly, its ability to deliver on a September deadline is pretty optimistic to say the least," Keleo said.

State officials were particularly angered that the plan included only beach cleanup and failed to address skimming millions of gallons of oil from the surface of scenic waterways and how to dispose of what is picked up.

"We've got tons and tons of oily gunk our crews are bringing in," Keleo said, "but there's no plan to get rid of it."

Coast Guard Commandant Adm. Paul Yost, ordered to the site by President Bush, said time was crucial because "the oil is weathering rapidly."

"It's forming into tar balls and covering areas that are getting hard to reach," Yost said. "It's our intention to measure whether Exxon stays on target."

Based on the draft, crews would have to work at the rate of more than 2 miles per day to finish the job on time.

NRC restarts nuclear plants

WASHINGTON — The Nuclear Regulatory Commission approved restart of a nuclear plant in Pennsylvania and signaled its intent to authorize full-power operation of New York's Shoreham plant despite an agreement to shut it down.

By a 3-0 vote, the NRC voted Monday to permit reactivation of Philadelphia Electric Co.'s Peach Bottom plant near Lancaster, Pa., which was shut down by the NRC on March 31, 1987, after federal inspectors discovered reactor control room operators sleeping during a late-night shift.

In approving the restart, NRC Chairman Lando Zech admonished Philadelphia Electric executives — and all other U.S. utilities — to make sure the industry was never embarrassed by such complacency again.

"The commission would hope you would never again become complacent and allow the plant to degrade to the condition at the time of the shutdown," Zech said. "I hope it is a lesson learned not only by your utility but by all other utilities in the country."

At a separate hearing, the NRC staff recommended the NRC commissioners end years of wrangling over the Shoreham plant on Long Island and grant the facility a full-power operating license — even though the plant's owner has reached an unprecedented agreement with state and local officials to shut it.

The agreement would make Shoreham the first completed nuclear plant in the nation to close without ever producing electricity for ratepayers.

Zech said final NRC approval for Shoreham operations could come as soon as Thursday. But the chairman of the Long Island Lighting Co., the plant's owner, said the utility still intended to carry out the agreement to hand the plant over to New York officials for dismantling.

Four winners in biggest lottery prize

CHICAGO — Dan Dixon and his family will be traveling first class now that the engineer holds one of four winning tickets in Illinois' record $69 million Lotto jackpot.

Dixon, 38, and his wife, Mary Ann, bought their winning ticket last Friday at the White Hen convenience store in Lisle. The winning numbers were 3, 14, 32, 40, 46 and 54.

Also claiming their share in the jackpot were members of the B.R. Miller Partnership, Monmouth, Ill., made up of Ron Miller, 36, of Little York; Barb Miller, 35, of Stafford, Texas, and Scott Miller, 29, of Chandler, Ariz.

Two other winning ticket holders have yet to be identified. One of the outstanding tickets was bought in the Chicago area and the other in southern Illinois.

Each of the winning tickets is worth $17.5 million to be paid out over 20 years, or $864,000 a year.

The grand prize topped the North American record Friday when lottery officials bumped the jackpot from $55 million to $62 million. The largest previous North American jackpot was California's $61.98 million payoff that went to three groups last October.

SANTA ROSA, Calif. — The immigrant wine bottler accused of the savage slayings of his wife, two little daughters and four other people left a note in his bloodied car asking God to forgive him for a rampage he said "his law made me do."

The FBI joined the search Monday for suspected mass killer Ramon Salcido, 28, because authorities fear he may be headed for his native Mexico.

But Sonoma County Sheriff Dick Michaelson said he believes Salcido is still in the San Francisco Bay Area. "Laying low ... waiting for the media attention to ease up so he can make his escape."

"Anybody who happens on his path is in extreme danger," Michaelson said.

Helicopters criss-crossed the skies over Northern California's scenic wine country looking for Salcido, who is accused of shooting his wife and his winery supervisor to death, wounding a co-worker, hacking his mother-in-law and two of her daughters to death, and slashing the throats of his three little girls, two of whom died.

Welfare regulations announced

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Health Secretary Louis Sullivan proposed today regulations for states to implement education, job training and work programs that are the cornerstone of a landmark welfare reform law enacted last year.

Sullivan said publication of the regulations to implement the Job Opportunities and Basic Skills Training program in the Federal Register marks "a turning point for our nation's welfare system." He added the JOBS rule is only the first of several required to carry out the new law.

The JOBS program, the centerpiece of the law estimated to cost $3.3 billion over the next five years, is to provide education and job training to recipients of Aid to Families with Dependent Children, the nation's principal welfare program that serves 11 million persons — mainly single women and their children.

The key objective is to move longtime welfare recipients off public assistance. Department of Health and Human Services officials estimate the JOBS provisions will help some 130,000 families, or 438,000 individuals, to leave welfare rolls over a five-year period.

"Americans across the political spectrum are now convinced of the need, not merely to offer financial support, but equally important to help people lift themselves out of dependency and poverty," Sullivan said.

Targeted by the regulations are never-married teenage mothers who have not completed high school, and those who have been on welfare for 36 of the last 60 months. Their children must be over age 3.

States must provide high school or equivalent education, basic and remedial education and various vocational services, including job development, placement and followup. States also must provide child care and medical benefits for a year after a welfare recipient has taken a job and left the rolls.

The JOBS program must be enacted by Oct. 1, 1990. But officials said states can implement the program as early as July 1 and receive the additional federal fundings.

Wright wants charges resolved quickly

United Press International

WASHINGTON — Speaker Jim Wright, accused by the House ethics committee of violating House rules, says he is confident he can prove his innocence and wants the matter resolved as soon as possible.

The committee announced Monday it was filing a "statement of alleged violations," charging five counts of misconduct involving 69 specific instances.

The charges — basically involving financial disclosure requirements and limits on outside income — concern Wright's dealings with Fort Worth businessman George Mallick and with the sale of one of Wright's books.

The committee's unanimous decision sets the stage for a trial-like hearing that could lead to a recommendation that the full House impose some form of punishment on Wright, D-Texas.

A member of the Republican leadership suggested Wright, a 34-year House veteran, temporarily relinquish his post until the case is resolved, but Wright insisted he had done no wrong.

"In my heart I have not violated any of the rules of that institution (the Congress). I love that institution just as I love this country," Wright, 66, said.

Under rules of the panel, Wright has 21 days in which to answer the accusations, and the committee would have another 30 days to respond to any motions he might make. Wright, however, sent the committee a letter saying he wants to speed up the process.

"I want the earliest possible opportunity to get this resolved decisively and definitively and get it behind us," he later told reporters.

Committee Chairman Julian Dixon, D-Calif., at a news conference to announce the committee's findings, said any arrangement to expedite the hearing process would be worked out between the committee's special counsel, Richard Phelan, and Wright's lawyer, William Oldaker.

Dixon also stressed that the allegations have not been proven. "At this point, we have only determined there is reason to believe that violations occurred," Dixon said.

In the hearing stage, the charges would have to be proven by "clear and convincing evidence" in order for the committee to recommend punishment.

The rules provide for the committee, acting as judge and jury, to hold a "disciplinary hearing" where the committee staff will attempt to prove the accusations against Wright. If the panel then finds Wright guilty of any of the charges, it would recommend the full House impose punishment.

The House can accept, reject or modify the committee's recommendations.

Oldaker told reporters, "We feel confident we can win before the committee."

The panel said the $18,000-a-year salary paid Wright's wife, Betty, for working for an investment firm jointly owned by the Wrights and Mallick, their longtime friend and business associate, amounted to a gift that had to be reported on House financial disclosure forms.

The total value of the salary and the Wrights' use of a car and condominium were valued at nearly $145,000 over a 10-year period. The panel also said there was reason to believe Mallick had an interest in legislation before the House.

In addition to the financial arrangements with Mallick, the committee also said seven cases of bulk sales of Wright's book, "Reflections of A Public Man," — in which Wright received an unusually high royalty — "demonstrated an overall scheme to avoid the House outside earned income limit because honorarium payments were re-characterized as royalties."

The accusations come following a nine-month investigation conducted for the panel by Phelan, a Chicago lawyer who served as an outside counsel.

The speaker's supporters quickly rallied. Assistant House Democratic leader Tony Coelho, D-Calif., said, "I remain confident that the speaker will be cleared and remain speaker as long as he wishes."

But Rep. Robert Walker, R-Pa., the House GOP's chief deputy whip, said Wright should "step aside temporarily while the matters are dealt with."

Rep. James Traficant, D-Ohio, charged that Republicans "are not attacking Jim Wright today, they are taking a broadside at the entire Democratic Party." He said "party lines are being drawn in indelible ink" on the Wright issue.

House Republican leader Bob Michel of Illinois called on all members "to exercise extraordinary restraint and patience until final action has been taken."

Ship sinks; 2 missing

United Press International

NEW YORK — Two merchant vessels searched through the night for signs of two crewmen last seen boarding a life raft after their British-registered cargo ship loaded with 33,000 tons of cement capsized and sank in foul weather in the Atlantic.

Two Coast Guard planes and a Navy plane were to join the search at dawn today, said Lt. Matt Glomb of the Coast Guard station on Governor's Island in New York Harbor, where the rescue effort was being coordinated.

A merchant ship rescued 23 other crew members, including the ship's captain, in a life raft about 4 p.m. Monday, some seven hours after Coast Guard radios picked up "Mayday" signals from the 500-foot cargo ship Star of Alexandria.

"We're searching for the second life raft, which presumably contains the two missing crewmen," Glomb said. "They were seen getting into the raft," he said.

The merchant ships were hoping to spot flares from the raft or to draw flares by their presence during the night, he said.

Officials were still investigating what caused the Star of Alexandria to capsize in stormy seas about 400 miles southeast of Cape Cod, Mass.

When two Coast Guard planes, a Falcon jet and a four-engine turbo-prop C-130, were sent to the scene Monday morning, the pilot of the jet reported seeing the ship listing badly and sinking as the crew abandoned it for life rafts.

"She was going down, and going down fast," said Coast Guard Petty Officer Randy Midgett.

The pilot of the C-130 first reported spotting two life rafts near the sinking ship and counted 12 survivors in one of the rafts, which were buffeted by winds howling at more than 40 mph and 7- to 10-foot ocean swells.

But the merchant ship that joined the search while en route to England, the Raven Scraig, found most of the crew and the ship's captain in a life boat about 4 p.m., Glomb said. "There was one pickup of 23 people from one life boat," he said.

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Greenwell feeling at home now

Mike Greenwell, whose Fenway Park exploits helped catapult him to second place in American League MVP balloting last season, finally found his stroke at Fenway this season.

Greenwell clubbed a two-run home run to trigger a five-run eighth inning Monday, leading the Boston Red Sox to a 6-4 victory over the Baltimore Orioles.

Greenwell hit .331 at Fenway Park last year and led the Red Sox with 12 homers and 66 RBI at home, but was just 5 for 23 in the first six games of Boston's opening homestand.

"I wasn't seeing the ball that well here this first week," Greenwell said. "It was kind of odd because I usually see the ball very well here."

In other American League games, New York clubbed Toronto 7-2, California blanked Chicago 3-0, Milwaukee upended Texas 8-1 and Seattle thumped Oakland 7-2.

NHL PLAYOFFS

Canadiens blessed once more

The hockey gods at the Montreal Forum, who have bestowed 23 Stanley Cups on the Canadiens, blessed their tenants Monday night.

Montreal was held to eight shots through two periods but scored on two of them en route to a 3-2 triumph over the Boston Bruins in the opener of their Stanley Cup quarterfinal.

Rookie Mike Keane scored the go-ahead goal at 18:37 of the second period and Claude Lemieux the winner 46 seconds into the third to carry the Canadiens, who were outshot 28-15.

In the other Wales Conference semifinal, Pittsburgh rallied for three goals to beat Philadelphia 4-3. The Campbell Conference semifinals begin Tuesday, featuring Los Angeles at Calgary, and Chicago at St. Louis.

BASKETBALL

Gamble paying off for Celtics

The Boston Celtics took a gamble after the Hornets failed to end the result has come back to hurt Charlotte.

Kevin Gamble, a 6-foot-5 guard out of Iowa, was leading the Continental Basketball Association in scoring when he signed with the Celtics as a free agent in December. He has taken full advantage of recent increased playing time due to the injury to starter Dennis Johnson.

Johnson went out last Thursday with a sprained left ankle. In his absence, Gamble has scored 45 points in two games as a starter, including 25 Monday night in Boston's 113-108 overtime victory at Charlotte.

Gamble had extra incentive against Charlotte. The Hornets cut Gamble in a summer free-agent camp last June.

Elsewhere, Chicago nipped New York 104-100, Houston held off San Antonio 99-91, Phoenix demolished Sacramento 140-85, Utah downed the Los Angeles Clippers 108-102 and Seattle outlasted Golden State 116-109 in overtime.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Mets answer wake-up call

On Sunday, New York Mets' Manager Davey Johnson issued an emphatic wake-up call to his troops. During a closed-door meeting, Johnson told the Mets to turn it on.

On Monday, it looked as if the team got the message loud and clear.

The Mets exploded for back-to-back-to-back homers in the third inning against the visiting Philadelphia Phillies, overwhelming loser Don Carman in a 5-2 victory.

Darryl Strawberry, Kevin McReynolds and Keith Hernandez teamed up to deliver consecutive solo blasts within four pitches to stun the Phillies and provide support for Sid Fernandez, who was making his first start of the season.

Elsewhere in the National League, Montreal nipped Chicago 2-1, St. Louis downed Pittsburgh 4-2, Cincinnati tripped Los Angeles 3-2 and San Francisco buried San Diego 9-0.

The agony of the feet

Mekonnen, Kristiansen win Boston Marathon

United Press International

BOSTON — Abebe Mekonnen of Ethiopia ended his duel with Juma Ikangaa of Tanzania by surging ahead in the 25th mile Monday to win the 93rd Boston Marathon in a time of 2 hours, 9 minutes and 6 seconds.

Mekonnen, 25, becomes the second African in two years to win the world's oldest marathon. Ibrahim Hussein of Kenya won last year, edging Ikangaa by one second. Until 1988, an African had never won the Hopkinton-to-Boston race.

Norway's Ingrid Kristiansen, 33, heavily favored to capture the women's crown for a second time, won easily with a time of 2:24:33, third-best in Boston Marathon history.

Marguerite Buist of New Zealand was second in the women's division at 2:29:03, followed by Kim Jones of Spokane, Wash., at 2:29:34.

Joan Benoit Samuelson of Freeport, Maine, the 1984 Olympic champion and two-time Boston winner, was ninth in 2:37:51.

The triumph was Kristiansen's 12th in 20 marathons. She won in Boston in 1986 in a time of 2:24:55.

Mekonnen and Kristiansen each won $45,000. The total purse was $313,500.

For the second consecutive year, Ikangaa was second and Ireland's John Treacy was third. Ikangaa finished at 2:09:54 and Treacy at 2:10:23. Hussein finished fourth, at 2:12:40.

Mekonnen said he was confident that Ikangaa could not put forth the necessary kick. "He's a good runner but he has no strong finish," said Mekonnen through an interpreter. "So I stayed with him until the end."

The Ethiopian said he was comfortable dueling Ikangaa. "If there were others (in a pack at the lead) I would not have done this, but I knew Ikangaa," he said.

He said that if Treacy had stayed with the leaders during the first half, "he would have won the race."

Rams go to Prom for win over Mainland

By MARK BLYTHE
 Herald sports writer

LAKE MARY — Curt Prom threw four hitless innings before settling for a three-hitter and the Rams pushed across two runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to pull out a narrow 2-1 win over Daytona Beach Mainland Monday night at Lake Mary.

Improving to 17-8 with the win, Lake Mary will next host Lake Brantley in a big Seminole Athletic Conference matchup Wednesday night. The Buccaneers fell to 12-9 overall and will return to action Thursday at Seabreeze.

"We just had great pitching and a little bit of luck," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "Curt (Prom) kept them off balance most of the night. He didn't throw too many curves. He just worked his fastball up and down."

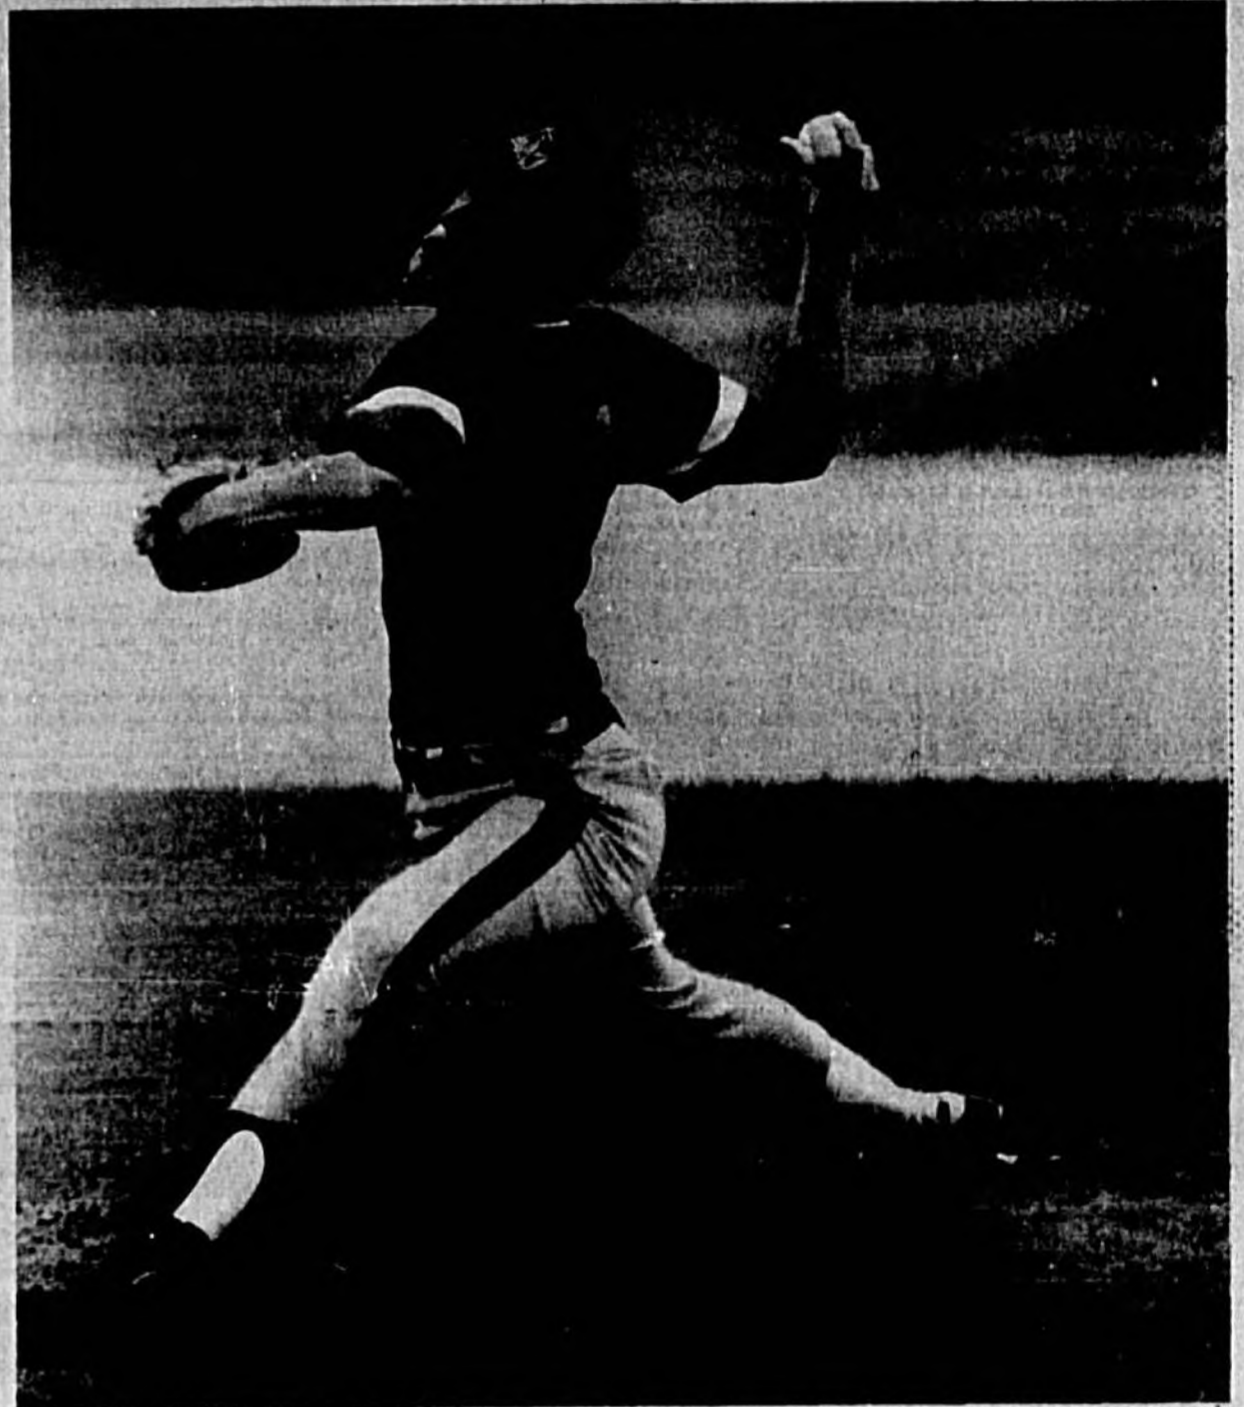

The teams were locked in a defensive battle as neither team could get any type of rally going. Prom kept Mainland off base in the first inning with a flyout and two strike outs. Prom finished the night with seven strikeouts while hitting one batter and walking none.

The Bucs managed to get a runner to third in the top of the third inning when Chris Hartfield led the inning off by being hit by a pitch. A passed ball moved Hartfield to second before Doug Powell grounded out to third. Brian Marion then dropped down a sacrifice bunt before Scott Holt whiffed to get the Rams out of the inning.

Lake Mary pressured in the bottom of the fourth inning as Shane Stuffle led off with a single. Derek Wolfe then flew out to left before Greg James ripped a double to right center to place runners on second and third. Neil James then struckout before Alex Birle hit a squibbler in front of the plate that he kicked while in play and was called out to end the threat.

The Rams finally broke the ice in the fifth inning as, with one out, Scottie Conklin walked and Aaron Iatarola followed with a ringing single to right that sent Conklin to third. Iatarola then came up with a heads up play as he took second on the attempt to put Conklin out at third.

Jason Sewell then hit a sharp shot to third that handcuffed Marion and went for an error

Lake Mary's Curt Prom, who leads Seminole County pitchers with a .19 earned run average, took a no-hitter into the fifth inning against Mainland on Monday, but had to settle for a three-hitter as the Rams scored a 2-1 win.

Lions rally in seventh

From staff reports

Oviedo put together a tremendous comeback in the bottom of the seventh inning to claim a 5-4 victory over Evans Monday afternoon at Oviedo High School.

The Lions improved to 11-13 with the victory and will return to action Wednesday at Lake Howell. Evans fell to 12-11 overall.

"It was an incredible comeback," Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell said. "We hit the ball hard all night and they finally started to drop in the seventh inning."

The Trojans opened the scoring in the top of the third inning when Jason McDonald opened the frame with an infield single. Kenny Gordon then sacrificed McDonald to second and after the second out Danny Diehl doubled to right centerfield to bring in McDonald and give Evans a 1-0 lead.

Evans then seemingly put the game away in the top of the sixth when it plated three more runs as Diehl led things off by reaching on an error. After a sacrifice and a ground out Ron Barringer singled in Diehl. Julio Alvarez then doubled to score another run followed by a Scott Hager double that brought in Alvarez and increased the lead to 4-0.

The game, though, was far from over as the Lions came back with a vengeance in the bottom of the seventh to snag the victory away from Evans.

"We hung tough," Ferrell said. "We kept our heads up and had

Couts hits for cycle in Loch Lowe win

From staff reports

OVIDO — Missy Couts set a school record by becoming the first player in Loch Lowe Prep history to hit for the cycle as she led the Loch Lowe girls' softball team to its fourth consecutive victory Monday.

Couts finished with 5 hits in 5 at bats, driving in six runs, as Loch Lowe claimed a 19-6 victory over Orangewood Christian at Red Bug Park. Hitting for the cycle means hitting a single, double, triple and home run in one game.

Loch Lowe improved to 9-9 and will have its final home game Thursday at Red Bug against Calvary Christian before its final game season game Friday at Daytona Beach Warner Christian.

Debbie Schmidt was the winning pitcher and evened her record with her performance.

Kris Leagued was 3-for-3 with a triple and two doubles with one RBI as Dana Mulligan (3-for-4) and Erica Livingston (2-for-3) each drove in four runs.

"We had 22 hits today and we've been hitting well lately," Loch Lowe coach Tina McFerren said. "I'm real pleased with the hitting and hope it continues over our final two games and into the district tournament."

allowing Conklin to score and Iatarola to move to third. Stuffed then blasted a shot to deep right that was caught at the wall and Iatarola raced in with the second run of the inning giving Lake Mary a 2-0 lead.

The Bucs came right back, though, and scored their only run in the top of the sixth inning. Holt led off the inning with a single to right and went to second on an error on the play. After an out Scott Skillern singled and placed runners on first and third before David Sherbert hit a grounder to Conklin at second. Conklin went to shortstop Sewell for the force at second but the throw to first was late and Holt scored to trim the lead to 2-1.

Prom managed to get a flyout to end the inning and put Mainland down in order in the final inning to pick up the victory.

Lake Mary will hope its strong pitching and good defense will continue Wednesday night against Brantley, one of the teams that the Rams have a half game lead on in the SAC.

"Brantley will be very tough to beat again," Tuttle said. "They're playing really well tonight. I just hope Alex (Birie) can keep them off balance again."

positive attitudes throughout the game. When our hits finally started to fall everyone got into the act.

John Williams opened the final inning with a single for the Lions and scored on Chet Tulp's triple. Stan Merrell then walked to place runners on the corners before pinch hitter Jody Spelman connected on a bloop single that scored Tulp and left runners on first and second.

"After Spelman's hit they brought in their ace pitcher (Donnie) Brewer," Ferrell said. "We just stayed with it, though, and came up with the big hits."

Mike Verne kept the rally going with a bunt that went for a hit to load the bases. After consecutive strikeouts, Micah Kinnaird ripped a two-strike pitch to right center for a double to even the game.

Freshman Kevin Twigg then stepped to the plate and fouled off the first pitch before hitting a soft liner to shallow center that fell right in front of the Trojans Barringer and allowed Verne to score and the Lions to win.

"I'm really proud of the way we came back," Ferrell said. "We never gave up and that's a strong sign to see with the district tournament coming up."

Mekonnen said the Boston victory was important but could not equal an Olympic triumph.

"The Boston Marathon is one of the historic marathons, a big marathon," he said. "I'm very happy to have won it, but I don't consider it the Olympic Games."

Mekonnen, winner of the 1988 Tokyo Marathon, said Boston has "the same finish as in Tokyo, but the course is very difficult. It's downhill and uphill. It's very different from Tokyo."

"It was fine weather for a marathon today — very fine," Mekonnen said of the high-60s temperatures and clear skies, conditions much warmer than most runners prefer.

The winning time was well off the 2-07:51 course record set by Australia's Rob de Castella in 1986.

"The relationship of the action to the disaster on the terrace shortly afterwards is clearly a central question to be investigated," Hurd said.

LONDON — The government urged the abolition of standing-room-only terraces in stadiums and the introduction of identity cards as safeguards against unruly soccer fans, blamed by police for Britain's worst sports tragedy.

The recommendations Monday by Home Secretary Douglas Hurd were made in Parliament after a meeting with Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher regarding Saturday's stadium stampede in Sheffield that has killed 95 people.

Hurd, the top official in charge of domestic affairs, said the government will pursue a plan requiring fans attending soccer games to carry an identity card that would be matched against police records, despite objections the scheme would cause more crowding outside stadiums. Crowding outside led to the disaster Saturday at the Hillsborough stadium in Sheffield, 150 miles north of London.

"The government believes that the future of football in this country lies in a national membership scheme in designated grounds and now it seems also in providing all-seated accommodation at major football clubs," Hurd told the House of Commons.

W/RADIO

The government argues that requiring each spectator to have a seat would prevent fans from packing into small spaces, but generations of English soccer fans have stood in standing-room bleachers known as terraces, enjoying the sway and spirit of the chanting crush, and any move to eliminate them is expected to meet strong resistance.

Hurd did not disclose details of an official investigation under way, but said the probe focused on a decision to allow thousands of fans into an overcrowded standing area.

Police have been criticized for opening a 16-foot gate to relieve pressure from fans pushing to get into a semifinal playoff match Saturday afternoon of the English Football Association between Liverpool and Nottingham Forest.

Ninety-five people were killed or fatally injured and about 170 others were hurt when thousands of fans surged through a tunnel into the crowded standing section for Liverpool supporters. Those inside were crushed against a spike-topped steel railing and fences designed to keep spectators off the playing field.

Prince Charles and Princess Diana and Liverpool soccer players visited survivors at the hospitals Monday. Officials said some of those still hospitalized were in critical condition and several had brain damage from oxygen deprivation.

The incident was the second major soccer stadium melee involving the Liverpool team in four years.

Police Federation spokesman Paul Middup struck back at criticism of police handling of the crowd, saying unruly fans were to blame.

"How do you control a mass of bodies? What do you do with people who will run under the bellies of police horses and force barriers?"

"If people cannot behave themselves and cannot be sensible and if you cannot have a football match without ruining the lives of others around, why should people have to put up with that?"

"I am proud of the job they did," Middup said of police. "Yet all my people can see from newspapers and on television is that it was their fault. That is just not so, and it is grossly unfair. They were faced with a situation for which no amount of training could prepare them."

Hurd described the situation outside the stadium as the match began Saturday but declined to blame anyone for the melee.

It was the boldest challenge to the government in four days of campus unrest that began with mourning for the death of former Communist Party chief Hu Yaobang.
 Grief over the death of the reform-minded Hu has now taken on strong political overtones, with pro-democracy demonstrations reported in Beijing and Shanghai.
 "We need a government, not a dictatorship," shouted a speaker to the students gathered at the Great Hall of the People in Beijing's central Tiananmen Square, site of the continuing student rallies.
 The rallies are the biggest political demonstrations since the nationwide campus protests more than two years ago that led to a conservative backlash and the ouster of Hu as general secretary of the Communist Party.
 By late afternoon, nearly 5,000 students from a half-dozen Beijing colleges had joined the marathon rally, some carrying floral wreaths to a national monument in the square. Thousands of ordinary Chinese also marched with them in sympathy.
 Many began a sit-in in the front parking lot of the massive Great Hall, the seat of the National People's Congress, China's parliament, where student representatives presented a list of demands to NPC officials who met with them during the morning.
 "We'll stay until we get a response," a student speaker said.
 The demands included free speech, lifting of restrictions on demonstrations and higher pay for intellectuals.

The staff at Med Care, Jim Mims (left), Linda Colley, Annette Coyne, Anne Nordman, and Brian Colley, are here to provide you with all your home health care needs.

Med Care begins tenth year of providing health care products

Med Care has recently moved to a new location at 1700 W. 1st Street. As they begin their tenth year of selling home health care products, owner Ann Nordman and her son, manager James Mims, pride themselves on their service to their customers who rent and buy a plethora of durable medical equipment and surgical supplies.

Med Care has everything from gauze and bandages to hospital beds, oxygen and wheel chairs. They have supplies for diabetics, including blood glucose monitors by Accu-Check.

They also have three wheeled scooters (electric wheelchairs) available.

A family-owned business, Med Care is very much a people-oriented operation. They are always sure to accentuate the importance of each customer and his or her individual situation.

Customer service representatives Linda and Brian Colley and Annette Coyne help make the business transactions more pleasant. In addition, Ann, Jim and Annette are certified fitters for orthotic braces and supports.

Med Care bills third party insurance and Medicare directly to leave their patrons free to concentrate on their recuperation or assisting a loved one on the road to recovery.

They have special sales every week and encourage everyone to stop by or call them at 322-8855 to find out about the specials.

Currently, they are offering a three-wheeled electric scooter, valued at $1,500, as the grand prize in the drawing they will be having to celebrate their grand opening at the new location.

Medical matters could stand some laughter

DEAR DR. GOTT: What has happened to humor in medicine? With all the stress on doctors, I would think that they — and their patients — could stand a little light-hearted therapy.

DEAR READER: Although being sick is no fun, there is much humor in medicine; doctors and patients can be amusing. Dr. Joseph Wasseraug, writing in the magazine Medical World News, recently bemoaned the dearth of humor in medicine. For Dr. Wasseraug and the patients who relish the leaving of laughter in medical care, I recommend the following book: "Kill as Few Patients as Possible," by Oscar London, M.D. It's a series of essays that is sure to delight doctor and patient alike.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm taking Tegretol for TMJ and Tic Douloureux. Is this appropriate treatment?

DEAR READER: Temporomandibular joint (or TMJ), dysfunction is caused by an abnormality of jaw movement where the mandible (jaw bone) articulates with the cheek. The disorder causes a clicking or popping when opening the mouth, facial tenderness and headache. It is usually treated by dental specialists and may require surgery for correction.

Tic douloureux (trigeminal neuralgia) is a disease of one of the facial nerves that produces bouts of excruciating pain. The cause is unknown. Tegretol is usually an effective treatment for this — but not for TMJ problems. Are you sure you have both conditions? (The pain of one can mimic the other.)

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Consumer Tips on Medicines." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What would cause a person with epilepsy to have seizures always around the time of her period? I was told to increase my Tegretol, but otherwise my neurologist has no comment.

DEAR READER: Epilepsy is a disorder of electrical activity in the brain, marked by periodic and random bursts of electricity that cause seizures. In most cases, the cause is unknown.

Some patients with epilepsy experience individual patterns of seizures related to stress, fatigue and variations in body chemis-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The key to achieving a proper endplay is to eliminate the defenders' safe exit cards before thrusting the right defender on lead. Timing also is crucial.

West's lead of the king promised the queen, and that was all the information South needed to make six diamonds. When declarer won the first trick with his spade ace, he could not immediately draw trumps. Instead he played the ace of diamonds, cashed the K-A of hearts and ruffed a heart. Next a diamond went to dummy's jack, and the last heart was ruffed. That properly set the stage. All that was left was for declarer to get off lead with his remaining spade. West won the trick and had a choice of leading into South's A-Q of clubs or playing another spade. Since a spade would allow South to discard a club from dummy while ruffing in his hand, there was no way to stop the slam.

This deal is interesting in that the same strategy would work even if East had all three of the outstanding trumps. Declarer plays the same way with the same result, but of course he cannot draw more than two rounds of trumps. Tomorrow we will have an example of an endplay achieved while a trump remains in a defender's hand.

HOROSCOPE

YOUR BIRTHDAY

April 19, 1989

Don't be discouraged in the year ahead if your big plans are inhibited by a few early snags. These obstacles can be overcome and you can open a path to success.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) In career situations today do not bank too heavily upon people who have proven to be lukewarm allies. These are the individuals who could prove to be your stiffest opposition. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-34-28. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Duties and responsibilities that you leave unattended today will weigh heavily on your mind. Instead of being plagued by guilt, do what's expected of you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You may be better off today passing up a social arrangement where you'll have to cater to a big shot's wife or clients you don't appreciate. Your presence isn't apt to be missed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If entertaining at home today, don't put your guests in an awkward position where they have to arbitrate a domestic squabble. It could ruin the affair.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Usually you are courteous and thoughtful in dealing with people from all walks of life. Today, however, you might treat subordinates in a demeaning manner.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be careful today that you do not get involved in something where you have to risk a lot in order to gain a little. Gambles that are structured in this way may not be worth the returns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a possibility a family member might resurrect an old problem today that will cause dissension in the household. Do your best to bury it quickly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Someone who tends to gossip may tell you something today about a mutual friend that is detrimental to this person's reputation. Subdue inclinations to pass it on until the facts are verified.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Unless you are careful today there is a chance that the folly of a friend could end up costing you money. Don't let an undisciplined person make any financial commitments for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) In order to achieve two important objectives today, you will have to divest yourself of wishy-washy tactics. Success will be dependent upon boldness, focus and tenacity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) There's a possibility that you haven't learned the lesson you should have from a painful past experience. Today you might make a similar type of mistake.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is not a good day to seek favors to help further your ambitions. If you are granted what you request, chances are it will have strings attached.
