ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 20-year-old girl away at college. I have an older brother in graduate school.

My mother, who was 52, died very suddenly and even though we didn't get along very well, I was very upset by her death. She and my father, who is 53, didn't exactly have the ideal marriage and I'm sure they stayed together because of my

Last night my father phoned to tell me that he was dating a 38year-old woman who was working for him, and it could be "serious." Abby, my mother has been dead only six months! Don't you think out of respect to her memory he could have waited for at least a year before dating?

I talked to my brother about it and he didn't see anything I told my father that as long as he was seeing this woman I wanted nothing more to do with him. He seemed to think I was What do you think is the proper amount of time to start dating after a spouse's death? Was I wrong to sever my relationship with

DEAR CONFUSED: The amount of time one waits before 'dating" has nothing to do with respect. The time to show respect is while the mate is living. And yes, I think you were wrong to sever your relationship with your father.

DEAR ABBY: This is for that woman who is marrying the same man for the fourth time and says, "We can't live with each other and we can't live without each other."

Listen, you kids, make up your minds that neither one of you is going to change the other. If you insist on being married again and again, it's time you realized that your love is really greater than your differences.

A sudden coronary could take your mate from you in a few seconds, and then you'd cry your eyes out wishing you had a chance to say all those sweet and lovely things you should have said when you were together. That's what happened to me. Get wise to yourselves, and live!

UNCLE GEORGE IN SANBORN, LA. DEAR UNCLE GEORGE: That should shake up a few young DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, I glanced at my husband while he was brushing his teeth, and I noticed that he was using MY tooth-

I asked him where his own toothbrush was, and he said he Then I asked him to please never use my toothbrush again.

That's when he got angry and said it bugged him that I should object to sharing the same toothbrush. Well, Abby, maybe other couples don't mind sharing cothbrush, but the very thought of it repels me.

My husband says I am ridiculous to feel this way, so I am writing to ask how you feel about it.

Stripper Denies 'Wrecking' Mills' Career

Herald Women's Editor

Fanne Foxe:

"Mr. Mills did what he did because he want to. I don't feel personally responsible for wrecking his career." Argentine-born stripper Fanne Foxe, dabbing touches of scarlet polish on her nails in her Club Juana dressing room Thursday night, defended her part in the nationallypublicized Tidal Basin incident linking her name with that of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, (D-Ark.)

"I'm sorry if I hurt him," Miss Foxe continued, "but I didn't ask him to do what he did. I just happened to be the girl around at the time." Mills entered a hospital several days ago, complaining of exhaustion, and on Tuesday House Speaker Carl Albert said Mills had decided not to seek a new term as chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee. Granting an interview on condition no questions be asked about her arrest late Wednesday night on indecent exposure charges and brief sojourn in Seminole County Jail, Miss Foxe said she has no hard feelings about the publicity given her relationship with Mills, nor has it embarrassed her.

About that relationship, she has nothing to say "We're just good friends," is her stock response at the mention of Mills' name. She says it as automatically as a wind-up doll. She is also "good friends" with Mills' wife, although she admits they haven't seen much of one another "since all this happened." Her association with the congressman and headlinemaking leap into the Washington Tidal Basin after the automobile in which they were travelling was stopped by police several weeks ago, may not have embarrassed Miss Foxe personally. However, she is upset by the em-

whom show any interest in following their mother's career. One daughter is at present at Miss Foxe's home in Virginia, the other visiting relatives in Argentina. She also has a foster daughter. Of her own feelings she said, "I am very emotional and I get hurt very easily. "I'm a nice person, really, and

I try to please. I can't say no to a favor and if people keep asking, I give in to them in the end." She seems a "nice" enough person, talking to her. She also seems bewildered, a little out of her depth amid the flood of publicity she is receiving, and rather more shaken by her scrape with the law Wednesday night than either

On stage, in her slightly accented voice, she commented jokingly, "You heard about my tour of the county jail last night? It was real nice - you know - they showed me around and all that?" But back in the dressing room she indicated her life was happier as a little-known stripper in an obscure Washington nightclub. "I felt alright in the beginning," she said, "but as I become more famous and the offers become higher priced, I don't feel like a person any more. To the agencies, the club owners, I'm just a machine, a money-

Nevertheless, her brush with the police apparently sparked the fuse of the "Argentine Firecracker," for her performance Thursday night was by far the most explosive since she arrived in Seminole County at the beginning of the week, according to all reports. "She's come alive," commented one young woman in the near-capacity crowd clustered round the nightclub stage. "She's much better tonight than last night."

Nor was the rest of the crowd disappointed, including

Food Planned For Poor Nations

After some initial squabbling the World Food Conference ended its Rome deliberations on a constructive note, planning to meet the needs of food-poor nations with a new international effort. The agreements were in direct response to warnings from U.S. administrative officials that the United States of America simply does not have the surplus productive capacity to meet all of the food needs of the world and that worldwide cooperation and help are needed to prevent famine and shor-

The proposed new World Food Council, designed to coordinate and oversee global food supplies and demands, could become an effective force in identifying famines and in locating grain reserves to forestall starvation.

Other general agreements to set up world grain stockpiles and an agriculture development were not fleshed out with specific commitments. The United States, for example, is expected to supply a third of the 10 million-ton grain reserve, but it was not spelled out what other nations are expected to do. Also cash contributions to establish a development fund intended to increase world food production - especially among the developing nations - is less certain. Delegates very properly looked to the oil-rich Arab nations for financial help, but they made no commitments.

Typically, the Soviet Union and Communist China failed to endorse the final agreements Otherwise, a start, however modest, has been made toward recognizing that the world food problem is just that, an issue that falls on the shoulders of all nations.

Charity Purpose

An estimated 250,000 Americans went hungry on Thursday of the week preceding Thanksgiving.

According to the sponsors of a "Fast for World Harvest," at least that many people around the country participated in the idea of fasting for one day and sending the money they would have spent on food to be distributed to relief projects around the

The willingness of ordinary Americans to make sacrifices to help alleviate the world food shortage illustrated by this response is something that will not be lost on the promoters of schemes less worthy than the one-day fast.

Americans are famously generous givers, and especially at this time of year they are besieged from all sides by pleas for donations from a lost of organizations, most of them quite on the level, others less so.

But even many of the legitimate charities have a serious problem of "fiscal friction." Too often, too much of the funds they collect goes for promotional and administrative costs and too little eventually trickles down to those they purport to serve.

If Americans have an obligation to help those less fortunate than themselves, at home or abroad, they also have an obligation to make sure that help goes where they want it to go.

They should hesitate before responding to that hearttouching plea that comes in the mail long enough to check on the authenticity and the past record of the requesting organization, either through their newspaper, Better Business Bureau or local

FEA Dusts Off Gasoline Rationing Plan

WASHINGTON - The Federal Energy Administration has prepared an ingenious credit-card system for rationing gas. It would be simpler than issuing gas coupons and fairer than raising prices across the board.

The plan, rejected by ex-President Nixon probably will be presented to President Ford this Draft documents, intended for the eyes of FEA officials only, describe how the plan would

"Gasoline allocation cards similar to credit cards would be issued to all vehicle owners and other drivers . . .," declares one document. "Each card would contain the person's name, his signature, his driver's license number of the car or cars he drives. "The card would be given to the service of gas buying trends, which should improve the station attendant when a gasoline purchase is made. The attendant would check the card against the license number (and) run the card through an imprinting machine (along with) the amount of gasoline purchased." The motorist would pay for the gas just as he does now, Explains the document: "The imprinter would make three copies. One would be given to the motorist, a second ... retained by the service station and the third . . . mailed to the state motor vehicle department.

"The state copy would be read by an optical character machine. . . The amount purchased allotment, he would be assessed a fee, say 20 cents a gallon, for the excess gas. The surplus would be calculated automatically and a bill would be sent to the motorist.

The money from this excess usage would finance the estimated $131 million it would cost to operate the plan. Even if the credit-card system cost twice the estimate, states one FEA survey, "the $262 million would be far less than the coupon program cost (of) $1.4 billion."

The credit cards would also be harder conterfeit than gas coupons, thus preventing a giant black market operation. Motorists who welched on their bills would have the vital cards lifted or cancelled. Another advantage: The credit-card system would give the government a far better account

An FEA spokesman confirmed that the plan, known as "Program for Allocation at Retail," is about to be restudied. It may come up at the energy summit meeting scheduled by the White House at Camp David on Dec. 14-15.

Footnete: Another proposal still under study, we have learned, would seek to hold down gas consumption by raising gasoline taxes. To ease the burden on the poor, part of the money would be returned to those on low and fixed incomes. COUGH SYRUPS: Wintertime hacking and sniffling may be better for you than the fast, fast,

Now I want to assure that such speculation isn't worth two drachmas. You may remember that back in 1974 there were similar concerns voiced when our Arab brothers first began to buy real estate in the state then known as South

This kind of rumor-mongering was and still is ridiculous, as I was saying just today in a discussion with Senator Hamari-Rabad of North New Kuwait.

It was charged by some that I did this out of purely political motives, to attract campaign contributions and curry favor with our Middle Eastern allies. But as I pointed out in my speech to the Rose Bowl champions from New Yemen State University last January, I was just trying to indicate my feelings of compassion and understanding with other world peoples and chose Russian medical scientists reported the the Arab name more or less at random, though I did ask the U.N. to take a vote on what kind of

OLLY'S POINTERS Rain Stain Is

Major Problem By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY - One night I left my sliding glass doors open. Rain came in on an end table with a lamp on it. I dried the table and then set the lamp back on it not realizing the felt on the lamp bottom was damp. The felt dye stained the table. I wonder if someone could tell me how to remove this stain? -- MRS.A.H. DEAR POLLY - My Pet Peeve is with leaking milk cartons. I can understand an occasional one but I have been averaging one

DEAR POLLY - I would like for Mrs.A.L. to know that I have found that wax shoe polish of the proper color does a fine job of removing scratches from furniture and puts on a nice finish. I also find this good for paneled walls and wood floors. Apply with a clott or cotton swab and polish well with another cloth. - leaking one out of every four cartons. -- MRS.S.N.

DEAR POLLY - So many of the readers like J.N. seem plagued with that problem of pet odors. I have cured some beauties with a good STRONG solution of plain old baking soda in water. The only trick is to be sure that all the soda dissolves and that the solution sinks in as deeply as the original odor producer.

Also when coming home from the beach with sand-covered legs and fee! a big problem is practically eliminated if you have along a can of baby powder. Shake a healthy amount of powder on the kids' feet and legs and you can brush the sand off in seconds and even put their shoes on. Sure helps keep the car clean. - J.L.

DEAR POLLY - To keep the children from wasting expensive recious sugar put it in a king-size shaker and let them shake it on their cereal, etc. No spilling. Less is used to say nothing of the shaker being easier for them to handle. - PAT.

DEAR POLLY - The best way I have found to get rid of a lingering odor in baby's diaper pail is to use a crystal-type toilet bowl deodorant. The pail smells nicer. This is usually less expensive than the diaper pail deodorants found at the store and that do not work as well either. This type deodorant works wonders on garbage pails. -- MRS.R.L.H.

DEAR POLLY - The rod in my closet was set so close to the shelf above that taking clothes off the hangers was a lot of trouble until I had my husband make some small wood blocks that we slipped under the corners of the shelf. They raised the shelf Manayough so the Adagers now slip on and off easily. - MKS.C.B.S.

Grid Championships On Line

AP Sports Writer

Two college football championships will be decided Saturday in the Camellia Bowl and NAIA finals while other teams will be shooting for prestige alone in the Liberty Bowl and Blue-Gray game which follow. Delaware and Central Michigan, teams with formidable air and ground power, meet in the Camellia Bowl in Sacramento, Calif., to decide the NCAA college division

In Kingsville, Tex., Henderson State, with one of the best small college defenses in the country, will attempt to bottle up Texas A&I's explosive offense in the NAIA championship game.

The two contests kick off a busy period of post-season competition that will include Monday's Liberty Bowl game in College Park, Md., between Tennessee and Maryland and the annual Blue-Gray classic in Montgomery, Ala., pitting college football stars from the north

Both Delaware and Central Michigan have 1,000-yard running backs, with the Blue Hens boasting two - Nate Beasley and Vern Roberts. The Chippewas from Central Michigan are powered on the ground by Walt Hodges. Both teams have quarterbacks with good arms and Central Michigan's do-everything player is Mike Franckowiak, one of the nation's best passers. Franckowiak has completed 70 passes - 47 to Matt Means for 1,076 yards and nine touchdowns. He also rushed for 457 yards and handled Central Michigan's punting and place-kicking chores.

Bill Zwaan, who has thrown for 1,524 yards and 13 touchdowns, leads the Delaware offense. Of his 100 pass completions, 45 have been to Bill Cubit. The Blue Hens and Chippewas, each once-beaten, arrived at this championship game after a series of playoff games involving eight teams. This is the second year that the NCAA has used playoffs to pick a small college

Little Man Excells As Stetson Wins, 68-66

Herald Sports Editor

Friday, Dec. 13, 1974-1B

SPORTS

DeLAND - The Stetson Hatters are certainly big with a ront line which measures 6-7, 6-8 and 6-9, but head Cozch Glenn

. Wilkes knows he can't forget the little man. He expects scoring and rebounding from his tall trio, and he received it as Otis Johnson finished with 26 points and 13 rebounds but one must include little 5-9 substitute Buzzy O'Connell, who came off the bench in the second half and with his steals and ball handling assured the Hatters their third win over visiting Western Kentucky 68-66, Thursday, before over 4,000 enthusiastic fans at the new Stetson Fieldhouse.

Although the Hatters never trailed, the score was tied at 66 apiece in the closing seconds, but the turning point may have come with the score at 54-50 with Stetson on top with four

Just prior to that point, Stetson's fine 6-7 forward Billy Seitz ouled out, and the momentum appeared to be turning toward Western, as guard Chuck Rawlings stole a pass and appeared headed for easy lay-up to bring Western within two points. But out of nowhere, the ever hustling O'Connell stole the ball from Rawlings, and made a picture perfect pass to Fred Ross at the other end of the court for a basket, which bought the crowd to its feet and most certainly added new life to the Hatters offense.

From there the Hatters seemed to have assured themselves a victory, holding a 58-50 lead, but 6-5 center Mike Odemns of Western took over. The powerfully built senior, who finished with 18 points, quickly added 10 in the final four minutes, mostly from offensive rebounds and with 2:93 remaining in the game, the Hatters found themselves tied at 66. Stetson's Billy Williams then hit a jumper for the lead. The Hatters then got the ball again and Johnson was fouled, but failed to convert.

Western then missed a field goal attempt and O'Connell found himself with the ball with only 12 seconds remaining, but his pass hit the referee and went out of bounds.

Western, trying desperately to get the ball to its leading scorer Johnny Britt for the tying basket, failed as point guard Calvin Wade lost the ball at the final second without even at-

In a somewhat quiet Stetson lockerroom after the wild game, O'Connell explained that he would rather start, but realizes he's the best ball handler on the team, and he's expected to control the ball in close games even if it means coming

When asked how he felt when his pass went astray with 12 seconds remaining. "The referee got in my way when I lost the ball, but all I could think of they are going to tie the game up," explained O'Connell.

With the win, the Hatters now stand at 3-1 against strong competition, and Wilkes explained after the game, he's so glad to be 3-1 at this point considering his team is still guilty of numerous errors." The way we've played at times, we are lucky it's not 0-4," said Wilkes.

Although the Hatters outrebounded Western 40-32, Wilkes said his team must rebound to win. "We are an inside team we depend on our big men," said the Stetson coach, "we can't make it with our outside shooting."

Johnson led all scores with 26 points, followed by Seitz with 14. Western was led by Odemns with 18 and Rawlings with 16. The Hatters return to the friendly confines of Edmunds Center, Dec. 20, hosting Fairleigh Dickinson University of New

Area Leaders Optimistic on Economy

Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's 6.3 per cent unemployment rate has dimmed the optimism of local leaders that 1975 will bring an upturn in the economy, both nationally and in the Central Florida

The economic situation has not stopped Seminole's young people from continuing their college educations or from getting Seminole Junior College in the midst of its pre-registration period for the quarter beginning in January is seeing an 18 per cent increase in enrollment applications. Thirty-six per cent more marriage licenses have been issued at the Seminole County courthouse so far this month than during the nationally, by the end of the year, to levels seen the first of 1974. Gib Edmonds, vice president of First Federal Savings and Loan of Seminole County at Sanford, says his institution has been experiencing a net savings inflow for the past two months. "When money comes back in, that means loans can be made," he said. Joseph R. Masek, a Longwood builder, foresees an upturn in the construction industry in the Spring, noting that building is usually down in November and December even during good times because builders usually assess their tax situations at that time Now is the time to build, Masek said, because costs of materials are down as much as 50 per cent to 1972 level. He said during peak prices last summer, plywood sold at about $185 to $225 per 1,000 and now can be bought for $125 per 1,000. near Oviedo, predicts building permit applications will increase, Studs that sold at peak for $1.25 are now 40 to 45 cents. Masek also predicts the discount rate on mortgages will be reduced and a urnaround will be seen in the stock market.

An official at the Florida State Employment Service center in Orlando, said the view is generally held that the employment situation has hit bottom and will begin the climb upward right after the first of the new year. The Seminole County building office notes building permits and new construction dollar values during the first three quarters of his year compared with the same period of 1973, declined But officials at the courthouse office say contractors are taking smaller jobs to hold onto established work crews for the industry

While new home building has declined, a larger percentage of emodeling and additions to older homes is being seen and the narket remains steady in the mobile home field Realtor Julian Stenstrom said the federal government recently made several efforts to pump money into the construction and insurance on bank savings accounts to $40,000. Stenstrom said his real estate office did a turn-around in November and business started up again. "We had a pretty good

November, almost like the old days," he said. He added emphasis in buys in the housing markets has shifted at his office from new homes to existing homes. I strongly believe if we can get the home construction business

He pointed out over 5,000 different items are used in building every new home, providing jobs for many people.

High unemployment rate or not, Seminole County propert owners are paying their taxes. Tax Collector Troy Ray, whose esponsibilities include collecting taxes for all the governmental units in the county, said he had expected a dip of 10 per cent in tax payments, but this has not come to pass.

"Instead, tax payments are running neck and neck with las

She said she's doing it for 'someone who's very dear to me and to you, too." "Wilbur Mills," she said with wet eyes, "is that Miss Foxe interrupted

She said she'll go to the island of Caracoa in the West Indies for several weeks to rest and decide what to do. Earlier in the evening, she admitted that, "if it wasn't me, it would have been someone else."

Jerry Brandt, Miss Foxe's manager, said she was overwhelmed by all the pressure that had been on her since her wellpublicized escapade with Rep. Mills, (D-Arkansas), near the Washington, D.C. Brandt said that while Fanne may be retiring from the stage, her career is by no means over. "We still have a Mike Douglas show to do in Miami in a few weeks," he said. "Then there are other things too, like a book that she might be writing." Brandt, who said that he had managed many performers, including Sonny and Cher and Carly Simon, joked that it was "back to construction," for him. While Miss Foxe, nude reporters hastily scribbled "It looks like a press club meeting," one reporter Miss Foxe also said that she wouldn't tell who had proposed marriage to her, "because I'm not marrying him anyway. But it's not Wilbur Mills," she said. It has been reported on radio earlier in the week that Mills had called Miss Foxe at the club and proposed to her. While Fanne would not admit to the alleged proposal, she did say that the Arkansas congressman had called her "several times" at the club to ask how she was. Miss Foxe, who was introduced by Club Juana entertainment director Lee Bernard as, "the highest paid exotic dancer in the world," was reportedly receiving $15,000 a week for her thrice nightly 25 minute exotic strip show.

She had been performing since Monday in Casselberry and had been scheduled for another week. She said that Saturday night would mark her last show.
