Arrest Made In Fatal Hit, Run Accident

A Sanford woman has been arrested in connection with the fatal hit and run of a Midway man in October.

Charged with vehicular homicide and leaving the scene of an accident with injuries was Jacqueline Martin Harrell, 27, of 148 Bethune Circle. She was arrested at her home Friday. Ms. Harrell was charged in connection with the Oct. 15 death of Lester Bobb Jr., 40, of 3021 E. 21th St.

"I am relieved to know that an arrest was made," said Ella J. Gilmore, Bobb's sister. "That makes me feel much relieved that something has been done about it," she said today.

Bobb was apparently lying in the southbound lane of Sipes Avenue when a northbound vehicle ran over him, then left the scene, according to an FHP report. The incident occurred around 12:30 a.m.

At the time of the incident, family members thought he was just outside the house in the yard.

When contacted after the accident, Ms. Gilmore was surprised there were no witnesses because that road in that area is usually well-traveled that time of night, she said. She also questioned the police accounting of how Bobb was hit — that is, in the road. She suspected foul play was involved and that perhaps he had been shoved into the roadway.

She said her brother had a drinking problem and personal problems stemming from his service in Vietnam but had been working on the drinking problem and was in good humor the night of the accident. That, she said, caused her to think his death was not an accident.

It reportedly took investigators two weeks to locate the suspected vehicle in the accident and more arrest, perhaps of passengers in the vehicle at the time, may be forthcoming.

Her bond was set at $5,000. The investigation was done by Trooper P.C. Wright. —Deane Jordan

Growth Prompts Early Plan

By Karen Talley
 Herald Staff Writer

Sanford planners will collect a vast amount of data during the coming months to complete the city's new comprehensive plan by next summer, nearly three years before its required submission to the state.

Sanford's growth prompted the move for the multi-volume comprehensive plan's early completion. City Manager Frank Faison said.

Plan information will serve as a springboard for the city to develop necessary programs and cost estimates to address citizens' needs, Faison said.

Various studies, input from residents, local governments and agencies, state criteria and the comprehensive plan the city adopted in 1977 are serving as the backbone for the new plan.

City representatives will go into the community this winter and summer to solicit citizen input regarding service provisions and needs. The sessions will be held at locations such as the Sanford Civic Center, Westside Recreation Center, local schools and sites within residential developments. City Planner Jay Marder said.

The new plan will be "keystone for future land use regulations and all development activities in the city," he said.

Already earmarked for plan inclusion are a recently completed water service study and a soon to be completed traffic and parking study of the downtown

Sanford area, Faison said.

A good portion of the plan will also be devoted to the city's wastewater management program, he said.

The city is paying a private consulting firm $20,000 to assist plan preparation. The firm is presently looking into Sanford's population and employment percentages, and will offer future projections, Marder said.

Other planning studies will consider existing and projected land uses and growth patterns, housing, recreation and open space needs, fire and police protection, drainage provisions, recharge areas and inter-governmental coordination of services, Marder said.

As the studies are completed, they will be presented by staff to Sanford commissioners and Planning and Zoning Board members.

Another major aspect of plan preparation involves requests for input and information from local agencies, community organizations and governments, Marder said. This information will also be made available for city commission and P&Z review and in some cases joint-sessions between the P&Z, commissioners and various agencies may be held, he said.

Among these agencies are the Sanford Airport Authority, the city's Community Development Block Grant Committee, Historic Preservation Board, Future Growth Advisory Committee and Scenic Improvement Board.

Santa Claus Comes To Altamonte Springs

By Jane Casselberry
 Herald Staff Writer

On Christmas Eve in Altamonte Springs the arrival of Santa Claus is not heralded by jingling bells and the clatter of hooves, but by the sound of sirens and horns for which the youngsters are listening.

This will be the 13th year the Altamonte Springs firefighters have conducted "Operation Santa" taking the old gent around all the neighborhoods in the city to distribute candy and wish everyone a happy and safe holiday season. It has become a tradition.

Santa will begin his route at approximately 4:30 p.m. and will cover 88 percent of the streets in the city, according to District Commander Jeff Scott, who is program director. He said the exceptions are dead-end streets and, for safety reasons, apartment complexes that are difficult to get in and out of with kids rushing around the fire truck. Residents can come down to the end of the street to see Santa, however.

"We're really proud of it and the community is too. If we ever stopped I don't know what would happen," Scott said. "If we didn't get by it wouldn't be Christmas. The adults look forward to it almost as much as the children. They line the streets in their neighborhoods with lights and candles and sometimes have block parties while they are waiting."

Residents can find out specific route information by calling Fire Station 11 if they live east of Interstate-4 at 830-3838 or Fire Station 12 if they live west of Interstate-4 at 830-3887 beginning this Sunday between 8 a.m. and 9 p.m..

Candy is thrown out to children and adults standing along the curbs as the trucks move at 5 mph down the streets. The only stops, he said, are when there are handicapped youngsters and they get personal treatment.

Off-duty firemen don Santa suits to play the role and it now takes three of them to cover the growing city. Scott says every year there is a long waiting list for those wanting the honor and it's first come, first served. They are chosen by Thanksgiving.

"It's quite a tradition and a real morale booster to the fire department. It helps us get in

State Attorney Denies Wrongdoing

By Deane Jordan
 Herald Staff Writer

No policy changes are in store at the Seminole-Brevard State Attorney's Office in the wake of an investigation into a charge that the office tried to keep from a grand jury the accusation that the Seminole County Commission illegally purchased 2,900 acres of land known as Yankee Lake.

State Attorney Norman Wolfinger said his office did not do anything wrong and there is no need to change his office's policy about how issues should be presented to the grand jury.

"They're absolute liars. I challenge them to a polygraph. I'll take one and I'll pay for theirs," said Grant McEwan, a Casselberry businessman and one of the men who sought action against the county and asked Wolfinger's office to take the issue before the grand jury. He was referring to an assistant state attorney and an investigator who were at a meeting when the issue was discussed at the State Attorney's Office.

"They have absolutely no honor in that office," McEwan said. He said he has not tried to take the issue before a newly-seated grand jury nor will he seek to air his accusation before the statewide grand jury. But, he said, he has not stopped his pursuit of the issue. He declined to discuss what actions he may be taking.

He said one reason why he will not try to have the issue taken before a newly-seated grand jury is because he thinks it is "staked."

"The first five names I looked at were city or county employees," he said. He said that was not the case on the grand jury that began looking into the issue a few weeks before it was to be disbanded. He said having several government employees on the jury is a significant factor against the chance during jury selection.

McEwan and Art Davis, a Sanford developer, accused Wolfinger's office of intentionally refusing to take their complaints of alleged illegal commission acts to the grand jury. They began to separately look into acts of the commission after each was dissatisfied with the way the commission handled their individual development

Ex-Employee Says He Didn't Know Can Was Beer

Man Sues County Over Firing

A 40-year-old man fired from his job with Seminole County for possession of a can of beer has filed suit against the county.

Harry J. Creek, who worked for the county just over a year before being fired Aug. 8, is asking for back pay to the time he was fired and to reverse the county commission's vote to fire him.

A second employee involved in the incident has not contested his firing.

According to the suit, Creek, a tradesman, finished work July 29 and climbed off a roof. On the ground, someone handed him a can of beer. He says in the suit he was handed the can as he walked from a sunlit area into the shade and did not know what the can contained until he went to drink it and smelled beer. He says in the suit that he put the can down and did not drink from it nor touch it again.

Later the same day, however, he was fired for drinking beer on the job.

Creek appealed his firing to the county's Personnel Board which upheld the firing.

The board's decision was upheld on a 3-2 vote by the county commission in November though they amended the charge from abusing alcohol on the job to possession and consumption of beer.

A county policy, adopted in September, 1985, states an employee can be fired for possessing or abusing illegal drugs or alcohol during work hours.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler. No trial date has been set. —Deane Jordan

POLICE IN BRIEF

Unwelcome Guest Kicked Out, Linked To Burglary

Sanford police reported charging a 30-year-old man with trespassing after a homeowner called them to 1305 Olive Ave., to report that someone was inside a locked room that had not been rented and should be vacant.

When police arrived at about 4 p.m. Thursday the property owner, Oscar Redden, kicked open the door to the room and inside police found and arrested Arthur George Tyson, of 615 E. Third St., Sanford.

Tyson had also reportedly been linked by a witness to a burglary at 900 N. 13th St., at about 1:40 a.m. Thursday. The witness had reported seeing the suspect with a rock in hand shortly before a front window of that business was broken with a rock. The same witness reported seeing the suspect flee from that location with his arms full of clothing. Police reported that over $350 worth of clothing was stolen in that burglary.

Tyson had charges of burglary and grand theft added against him in that case. He was being held in lieu of $1,500 bond.

Woman Hit, Chased Out

Olive Grubbs of 401 Palmetto Ave., #2, Sanford, reported to police that she ran from her home with her husband chasing her after he allegedly beat her and pushed her to the ground during an argument at about 10:45 p.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Grubbs fled to a home at 401 Magnolia Ave., where she called police.

At her home at 11:07 p.m. Thursday Johnny Lee Grubbs, 28, of the same address, was charged with battery. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Stolen Golf Cart Brings Jail

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who Thursday was taking a report of a stolen golf cart at Boylan Sales, 1461 #109, Kastner Place, Sanford, was given the name and address of a possible suspect.

That deputy remembered that at about 4:45 p.m. Thursday another deputy had responded to a report of a golf cart being driven recklessly on Bunker Lane, the street where the named suspect lives.

The two deputies went to the home of the suspect, who is a mechanic for Boylan Sales. They reported finding a golf cart there, along with three fuel filters and four golf cart tires. The tires hadn't been reported stolen from Boylan's, but the serial number on the cart matched that of the one stolen and the filters had also been reported stolen, a sheriff's report said. The total value of the items recovered and returned to the victim is about $1,800.

Marion Dale Spain, 24, of 143 Bunker Lane, Sanford, was charged at his home with grand theft at 5:58 p.m. Thursday. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Jan. 5.

Police Say Man Pulled Gun

A 22-year-old Sanford man was charged by Sanford police with aggravated assault after he allegedly pulled and cocked a small caliber handgun during an argument with another man at 1103 W. 10th St., at about 5 p.m. Thursday.

Tony Eugene Russell, of 720 S. Cypress Ave., has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court Jan. 5.

Suspect's Father Calls Police

Altamonte Springs police who took a 26-year-old, apparently intoxicated man into custody after the man's father called police to get the man out of his home at 942 E. Lake Destiny Condos, Altamonte Springs, jailed the man on a possession of marijuana charge.

Police reported finding the pot in the man's pocket when he was searched after being taken into custody under the Myer's Act, which covers alcohol abuse problems.

Thomas Francis Lynch, 26, was arrested at the above address, which is also on his arrest report indicated as his home address, at 3:56 a.m. Thursday. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Robert McKenzie, 48, of 7800 U.S. Highway 17-92 lot 16, Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that $230 worth of jewelry and coins were stolen from his home between Dec. 6 and Tuesday.

About $670 worth of tools including an air compressor, a jack saw and a drill were stolen from the driveway of James Alan Hitchison, of 421 Concord Drive, Longwood, Monday or Tuesday, a sheriff's report said.

Robert M. Ballerino, 26, of 132 Waverly Drive, Fern Park, reported to sheriff's deputies that about $150 worth of tools were stolen from his truck at home Monday or Tuesday.

John T. Reidel, 48, of Winter Springs, owner of a Christmas tree sales lot on U.S. Highway 17-92 at County Road 427, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that 50 Christmas trees with a total value of $750 were stolen from his lot Tuesday. Reidel told deputies the only trees out of his lot that were stolen were ones on consignment from Jack's Trees, of Winter Park. Deputies are investigating the theft.

Deputies have the name of a suspect who may have stolen $412 from the clubhouse of Spanish Trace Apartments, Altamonte Springs, on Monday or Tuesday. The theft was reported by an apartment complex housekeeper.

Rickey D. Ballester, 11, of Longwood, and Keith L. Bolstein, 12, of Apopka, reported to sheriff's deputies that on Dec. 12, while at Teague Middle School in Altamonte Springs, they were chased by two male suspects. While running, the boys dropped their skateboards, one valued at $160 and the other $60. The suspects picked up the skateboards and fled with them.

Pupils Bury Time Capsule

During the last week of October 1986, Mike Coble of Greenwood Lakes Middle School suggested the school plant a time capsule. The very next day the 6th grade class got started.

According to "historians," Eddie Smith and Justin Young of the class, the capsule, buried Friday morning, will be opened in the year 1993 when the youngsters are seniors in high school.

Some of the items buried include a Max Hedron shirt, a Coke can, a Brim coffee can, prices from December 1986, a copy of Forbes magazine, a December 1986 calendar, pictures of the school, articles about "Rameses II", the school publication "Screaming Eagle", undeveloped film of school scenes, salary listings for the period 1986, videotape of school proceedings and teachers, and other items.

These items were compiled by Stephanie Boren, Tami Groberg, Kriasy Farren, Bora Khem and Mia Schweickert.

The sixth grade class worked in committees and got the approval of the principal, Ted Barker, for the project. With money donated by the class, they were able to pay for the caps for the ends of PVC pipe in which the items were buried.

Thanks went to Ernie Morris Sr. for arranging the donation of PVC pipe from South Eastern Municipal Supply.

Kevin Murphy, 11, left, and Ray Downen, 11, lower time capsule into ground at Greenwood Lakes Middle School as other 6th graders watch. The time capsule, suggested by young Mike Coble, will remain buried on the school grounds until the 6th graders are seniors in high school in 1993, when the kids will dig it up again.

Correction

Fight With Police Reported

A man who was reportedly fighting with two other men when Casselberry police arrived at 514 Jupiter Way, Casselberry, at about 1:30 a.m. Thursday, has been charged with battery on a police officer and resisting arrest without violence.

When a policeman was trying to calm the suspect after the fight, the man allegedly shoved the officer and then struggled after being arrested and while being handcuffed.

Michael West Pellett, 24, of the above address, was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Pentagon Wants Space Station Access For SDI

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — In a major policy shift, the Defense Department is acting to ensure access to NASA's space station for military research, a move that could threaten vital international participation in the project, it was reported Friday.

Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine said in its Dec. 22 edition that research requirements for the Strategic Defense Initiative missile defense program are a major factor in the Pentagon's interest in the civilian space station, scheduled for construction in the early 1990s.

The magazine said preliminary agreements between Europe, Canada and Japan say the space station will be used only for peaceful purposes.

Aviation Week said some NASA officials believe the policy shift will generate angry objections from Europe, Canada and Japan even though the space agency earlier told the international partners the Defense Department could be a space station user one day.

'Victim' Admits Hoax

TAMPA (UPI) — A young woman has admitted that her story of being abducted and driven to Gainesville was a hoax, but gun dealers report it won't affect the brisk sale of handguns and Mace to worried parents and husbands.

Police still have a second reported abduction under investigation today, as well as the unsolved murders of three other women in the Tampa area since Nov. 5.

Cindy Lynn O'Steen, 17, who said she was abducted Wednesday night, turned up in Gainesville 125 miles to the north Thursday, the same day Dorrane Oleson, 20, said she was taken from another shopping center and driven 90 miles to Ocala.

Neither woman was hurt.

Late Friday, Hillsborough County Sheriff Walter Heinrich said O'Steen had taken a polygraph test and when confronted with discrepancies, admitted she made up the story of her abduction from a Family Mart Shopping Center parking lot.

Heinrich would not say why O'Steen made up the story, but said she was referred to the Crisis Center for psychiatric counseling.

Teen Named Campaign Manager

DUNEDIN (UPI) — A high school senior who was appointed to manage the re-election campaign of a veteran city council member says he has no long-term political ambitions.

Kevin Scanlon, 16, a six-year student council member and a vigorous campaigner since the age of 10, said he first thought City Commissioner Manuel Koutsourias was bluffing when he offered him the job.

But Koutsourias, a 13-year commission member, announced Scanlon's appointment Thursday.

To residents who might snicker at delegating such responsibility to a teenager, Koutsourias responded, "That's their problem."

He said society tends to focus on the negative instead of the positive in its teenagers.

Graham in Hot Water At Home

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Graham reports he has gotten into some hot water with First Lady Adele Graham for shirking his duties while the family packs to move out of the governor's mansion.

Graham confirmed reports Friday that his wife was steamed because he has left moving chores to her while he flits about making public appearance and taking bows after eight years as governor. He takes the oath as a U.S. senator Jan. 3.

Graham said he simply hates packing.

Among the souvenirs of Graham's tenure at 700 North Adams Street are the renowned spiral notebooks into which he jots memos to himself and the names of citizens he meets. Thirty-six boxes of them, each with 20 or so notebooks.

Right Body Finally Buried

MIAMI (UPI) — Raul Reina has been twice mourned at a cemetery service because his family had buried the body of another earlier in the week.

The family thought they had buried Reina, 31, Wednesday at Graceland Memorial Park. But the following day, Dr. Joseph Davis, chief Dade County medical examiner, telephoned Reina's wife to tell her the body was not her husband's, but one that had lain unclaimed in the morgue for a month.

Elderly Program Proposed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Governor's Committee on Aging reported Friday that Florida must place a $79 million downpayment on a new, "generation-integrated" society or face staggering financial and social costs caring for the nation's largest population of senior citizens.

Former Senate President Phil Lewis, the committee's director, said the $400 million Florida spends on its elderly at present cannot begin to offer the services Florida's burgeoning older population will demand.

By the year 2000, Florida will be home to about 2.4 million senior citizens — about 20 percent of the state's population. Over one-third of those seniors will be over age 85, the committee's annual report predicts.

It now costs about $1 billion each year to take care of their medical problems. The report estimates that cost will hit $3 billion by the year 2000 if Florida continues to place as many seniors in nursing homes as it does now. At present, the state spends 88 percent of its long term health dollars on nursing homes.

Lewis said existing health and support programs that allow the elderly to maintain their private homes have proven substantially less expensive than nursing home care. One of the committee's goals is to make the programs available to half the elderly that could profit by them by 1989.

Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services staff stressed, however, that a primary aim is to change the way Floridians think about the elderly and the aging process itself. They predicted their work would reverberate throughout the nation.

"I'm talking about a gender-integrated society," said Margaret Lynn Duggar, head of the HRS Aging and Adult Services program and an advisor to the committee. "We're designing a new society with new public attitudes about education for the elderly and every aspect of life."

The report calls for a new look at health care plus a recognition that the elderly are already healthier, more energetic and employable than they have ever been before. It notes that persons aged 60 can expect another 20 years of life, saying they deserve and demand meaningful employment, at least on a part-time basis.

"The opportunity to work into one's 70s should represent part of a larger effort to dilute the social and economic structures that lock people into a 'stages of life iron cage,'" the report says.

"People should have the chance to play a number of roles and remain productive as long as they live and their health permits," it continues. "Age alone, no more than sex or race, should not be used to exclude people from pursuing their aspirations and dreams."

A New Look

An architect's rendering shows the new look Sanford's First Union bank will have when renovations are complete sometime in late Spring 1989. In keeping with the wishes of the city's Historic Preservation Board, the bank won't be structurally changed from its early 1920s design, said commercial developer Stanley Sandefur, owner of the building. What will be added are canopies, landscaping and a brick "screening" wall between the parking lot and Park Avenue. In addition, the interior of the top floors of the building are being completely refurbished. Altogether the improvements will cost just under $1 million, Sandefur said. The First Union bank has signed a long-term lease for the ground floor, he said, and upper floor space will be offered for professional offices at prevailing rates. The Historic Board and Sanford's Scenic Improvement Board were very cooperative in the makeover effort, Sandefur said. The building first housed the First National Bank of Sanford, he said.

Cop-Student Romance Leaves Police Embarrassed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Sharon Odell, a new student at Kennedy High School when classes began last September, smoked in the restroom and often prodded her schoolmates to get her drugs.

Shortly after she arrived at Kennedy, she also found a boyfriend — Akili Calhoun, the football team's 6-foot-6, 230-pound star defensive tackle — whose letter jacket she sometimes wore.

Calhoun, 17, was in love for the first time. Because he cared so much, he overlooked Sharon's persistent interest in drugs. He even tried to get her to talk to a narcotics counselor he knew.

But his infatuation turned to bewilderment when the police department's semi-annual school drug buy program ended in December — and he learned that his girlfriend was an undercover cop.

Odell, a rookie Los Angeles police officer in her early 20s whose real name has not been divulged, had been assigned to infiltrate the San Fernando Valley high school campus and identify student drug dealers.

"He was crushed," said Jim Ball, the school's principal. "Don't you remember your first love and how you felt when it ended? He felt used and was totally bewildered."

The mother of the boy, who Ball described as a "campus straight" with no involvement in drugs, has filed a complaint with police officials, who are investigating whether the rookie violated a cardinal rule of law enforcement work.

"We have a long-standing policy against converting on-duty, official contacts to personal, social relationships," said Cmdr. William Booth, a police spokesman.

Neither Calhoun nor Odell were available for comment. Booth said there is no indication that sexual activity was involved in the romance, but added, "I'm sure in future training this will be brought up as a horrible example of what not to do."

Booth insisted that the incident is an isolated case in the 13 years that Los Angeles police have used baby-faced rookie cops posing as students to identify and arrest campus drug dealers.

The 2,700-student Kennedy High School was one of eight schools picked for the 1988 fall semester drug buy program. The fall undercover operation netted 155 alleged drug pushers throughout the district, all but 23 of them students.

Information provided by the police officer posing as Odell resulted in eight arrests at Kennedy, seven of them students. Police have decided not to seek prosecution on any of those cases because of the officer's questionable behavior, Booth said.

The undercover cop, a Juvenile Division officer who has not yet reached her 18-month probationary review, has been placed on inactive status — off-duty but receiving her salary — pending a review of the charges against her.

Following their investigation, police officials could recommend disciplinary action ranging from reprimand to dismissal.

Kennedy High students told the Los Angeles Herald Examiner that the student they knew as Sharon Odell asked constantly how she could get drugs and spent her time out of class smoking in the girls' restroom or with Calhoun.

"They'd hold hands; they'd kiss — they were like a normal couple," student Shannon Soth, 15, said.

Connie Calhoun, Akili's mother, told the newspaper that she had been concerned about her son's romance after finding sexually explicit letters written to her son by his new girlfriend.

"There was something that was seriously wrong. When (Calhoun) had no information to give her and suggested she get help she should have backed off," Mrs. Calhoun said.

Ball, who has worked with police in the School Buy Program for 10 years, said he was taken aback by the cop-student relationship, but still feels the undercover operation is valuable.

"It has an effect on the school," he said. "Those who sell drugs want immunity, but students for the most part don't want narcotics in school."

The drug buy program has been the target of a series of lawsuits by the American Civil Liberties Union, the most recent in November seeking to allow suspected student dealers facing expulsion to claim they were "entrapped" by officers.

ACLU lawyer Joan Howard said the civil rights group is concerned that undercover officers used in the program must be young and therefore are inexperienced. The nature of their school assignments means their targets are often the most vulnerable, she said.

"A sophisticated drug seller is much too smart to get involved with some kid who is loudly and aggressively trying to buy. What you're creating is a lot of publicity for the LAPD and a lot of kids who feel used."

Voyager: 'We're On Our Way Home'

"We're on our way home," Voyager pilot Dick Rutan radioed as he and Jeana Yeager soared out over the Atlantic, emerging from rough skies over Africa that jostled the fliers on their quest to become the first aviators to circle Earth nonstop without refueling.

"You've got two people in the cockpit here bawling like children," Rutan's voice crackled over the radio at mission control in a hangar at Mojave Airport in Southern California. "We're rid of Africa babe, and we're coming home."

With two-thirds of the 24,000-mile voyage under their belts, Rutan and Yeager were flying through clear skies late Friday night with clear sailing on brisk tailwinds ahead. Voyager spokeswoman Chris Russo said.

"They're doing fine," Russo said. "They're in real clear weather with good tailwinds. They're over water now and it looks as though they'll face nothing but good weather for the next day and a half or so."

The ground crew said the long flight over the deserts and stormy mountains of Africa was the worst leg of the trip so far, with rough weather bouncing the pilots around in a cabin the size of a telephone booth.

But over the Atlantic, meteorologist Len Snellman said he saw no storms on the horizon that come close to the ones that battered Voyager in the last two days.

Described as the last great flying adventure, the globe-girdling flight began last Sunday at Edwards Air Force Base in California and was scheduled to last 10 days.

Pre-Paid Legal Plans Attract Middle Class

Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fl. Sunday, Dec. 21, 1986-5A

By Andrea Neal
WASHINGTON (UPI) — In growing numbers, middle-income families are turning to the legal equivalent of the Health Maintenance Organization as one answer to the high cost of lawyers.

These legal HMOs — known officially as prepaid legal insurance plans — have been in existence since 1971, but their popularity has boomed in recent years from an initial constituency of primarily union workers to credit card customers everywhere.

Earlier this year, the McKesson Corp. announced the creation of LawPhone, a legal services plan that gives its 4,000 cardholders almost instant telephone access to a lawyer anywhere in the country for between $95 and $105 a year.

Following the LawPhone debut, the law firm Jacoby & Meyers signed an agreement with Comp-U-Card International to market Legal Advantage in seven market areas, including Philadelphia, Phoenix, New York and Los Angeles. Comp-U-Card is an electronic shopping service. In October, Hyatt Legal Services arranged with Citibank to offer its prepaid service, called LawPlan, to the bank's Visa and MasterCard holders for $10 a month. Senior partner Joel Hyatt says the program, now in 24 states, will be nationwide by spring.

Department stores like Montgomery Ward and distributors like Amway also have gotten into the act, boosting the number of Americans with prepaid legal insurance to between 12 and 15 million, up from 150,000 in 1974.

Alec Schwartz, executive director of the American Prepaid Legal Services Institute, said the plans, while different in principle from HMOs, offer similar benefits — basic legal care for a set fee and specific services for a discount price.

"It's not a question of need," Schwartz said. "The question is, can you save money and time and protect your rights by using a lawyer and the answer is yes — it's like having a lawyer on retainer for less than $100 a year."

The institute was formed in 1976 by the American Bar Association, which viewed prepaid plans as a way of tapping unmet legal needs and wanted to make sure it had a say in their development.

While prices vary, the plans are similar around the country. In exchange for a monthly or annual fee, a client receives unlimited telephone consultation with an attorney. He also gets a few basic services at no extra cost, such as the review of leases and other legal documents or will preparation. If the customer needs to retain an attorney to represent him in a more formal legal action, he usually can do so for a cut rate.

As its name suggests, LawPhone relies primarily on telephone conversations to handle subscriber problems. If necessary, the lawyer will write letters and make phone calls for the client or analyze short documents.

When a case is complex, requiring a trial or the services of a specialized attorney, the LawPhone client will be referred to local law firms that have agreed to represent subscribers at a 25 percent discount.

"Eighty-five percent of the problems we are able to take care of ourselves," says LawPhone founder Stuart Baron. "It's almost like a legal auto club."

Baron says LawPhone's goal is to resolve problems before they become crises requiring expensive solutions. For example, he says, LawPhone might advise an individual with massive debts to try to work out a payment schedule with a credit company and avoid filing bankruptcy.

"Traditionally lawyers don't practice prevention. They practice cure," Baron says. "Lawyer ads say, 'When you want a divorce come see me.' We try to determine, 'Do you really want a divorce?'"

Union members are still the most likely to belong to prepaid legal plans. That's because organized labor took the lead in bargaining for employer-sponsored legal plans on the same terms as medical benefits in the early 1970s.

In 1978, hourly workers at Chrysler obtained legal insurance in their contract. Since then, General Motors, Ford and American Motors have also negotiated legal benefits.

William Bolger, head of the National Resource Center for Consumers of Legal Services, says individual credit card subscriptions represent one of the "hot growth areas" for prepaid legal insurance. But he says such plans tend to be more expensive than group plans made available to employees as a fringe benefit.

'Most people say they only need a lawyer for catastrophic things. We're saying these plans make lawyer services available in a different way so you now have no excuse for not consulting a lawyer before these problems arise.'

Bolger says there are some 5 million Americans enrolled in group plans that require no fee at all, but provide free consultation and discounts on services. The AFL-CIO will sponsor such a plan, to be known as Union Privilege Legal Services, beginning February 1.

Participating lawyers benefit, even though there is no subscription fee, because the plans greatly increase their client base, Bolger says. "It's a tremendous way for lawyers to market their services."

Although commercial marketing by such programs as LawPhone has greatly increased the number of people with legal insurance, there remains an untapped market of some 150 million people — those with too much income to qualify for legal aid but not wealthy enough to hire $100-an-hour attorneys.

Schwartz says legal insurance is a difficult concept to sell because people don't realize they have legal problems. Yet such commonplace occurrences as the purchase of a defective appliance or eviction from a home may require legal solutions.

"The barrier to having this more widespread is people have their own notions of what legal services are for," Schwartz says. "Most people say they only need a lawyer for catastrophic things. We're saying these plans make lawyer services available in a different way so you now have no excuse for not consulting a lawyer before these problems arise."

Two other obstacles have hindered the growth of prepaid plans. Some states consider such plans a form of insurance and subject them to extensive regulation. And under the new tax reform law, there may be less incentive to make legal insurance an employee benefit after 1987.

Like HMOs, which limit a patient's choice of doctors, prepaid legal plans also restrict a subscriber to lawyers participating in the program. Bolger says that is actually a selling point because "ignorance about how to shop for a lawyer and which lawyers are competent is the principal barrier to people seeking legal help in the first place."

While relatively new to the United States, prepaid plans have long been popular in Europe. Most families in Sweden have a legal insurance provision in their homeowner's policy and 60 percent of Germans have legal insurance.

Behind the growth of the plans in this country are the following statistics:

- Thirty-seven percent of the population will run into a problem every year that a lawyer could help solve, but only 10 percent will hire an attorney.

- One-third of all Americans have never talked to a lawyer and another third have consulted a lawyer only once.

- Almost half of all workers have legal or financial problems that cause them to miss time from work.

A speeding ticket is a classic example of a problem most Americans would handle without talking to a lawyer, the majority opting to plead guilty and pay the fine rather than make a court appearance.

However, Schwartz says, advice from a lawyer could be invaluable in such cases. "The lawyer's going to say, 'Go in and plead innocent. Just take time out to go to court and make sure they don't cite you for points so you won't get an insurance rate increase.'"

The lawyer also might tell you to avoid wearing expensive-looking clothes, such as a fur coat, to traffic court, Schwartz says.

Gail Koff, a founding partner at Jacoby & Meyers, says her firm wants Legal Advantage subscribers to consult with lawyers before signing a lease or mortgage, before co-signing on a loan or before filing bankruptcy.

She says Jacoby & Meyers' prepaid plan — which costs $96 a year — complements the firm's existing practice that caters to people who cannot afford traditional law firms.

"It is only really recently where the consumer has been actively searching for these plans," Koff says.

"I think there is greater recognition that people need to have attorneys in a more accessible manner in their life," she says. "When you step back and look at what has happened in our legal system over the last 20 years you see that there is a legal ramification to almost everything."

Baron says even mundane problems, such as a barking dog or a neighbor's tree shedding leaves into a client's yard, can be solved more easily with help from an attorney.

"You have a card in your pocket. When you've got a question, call. I'm going to prevent you from punching out your neighbor," Baron says.

One of the criticisms of prepaid legal plans is that they promote the use of lawyers to solve problems citizens should be able to handle themselves.

But advocates disagree, saying most people do not have the time or resources to become educated in the law and how it works.

"People don't have time to understand the intricacies of divorce law or rights of the credit card holder," Koff says. "What people have to understand is they do have these rights. There are laws that impact them in a very real way."

Some Lawyers Moving Into Shopping Malls

GREENBELT, Md. (UPI) — At the entrance of the Bellway Plaza Mall, a few steps from the theater and around the corner from 100 shops and fast-food joints, is the law office of Douglas Malcolm.

His rates are a bargain compared to the high-priced lawyers of K Street in nearby downtown Washington, D.C. His clients are different too, mostly lower and middle income families needing basic legal services, such as wills and divorces.

"I'm not trying to be flip, but my clients are people who shop in shopping malls," says Malcolm, who is one of a growing number of lawyers leaving Main Street for the nearest shopping center.

Malcolm, a practicing lawyer since 1974, opened his office at the Greenbelt Mall in 1979.

He says his location symbolizes a trend toward making legal services more affordable, but also can discourage potential clients.

"It works both ways," Malcolm says. "It has made it so people are not afraid to come in and see me. Others say 'He can't be that good or he wouldn't be in a mall.'"

Joel Hyatt, founder and senior partner of Hyatt Legal Services, is a big believer in placing law offices where people shop. Of his firm's 200 offices, 190 are in shopping centers or malls.

"The idea is to be convenient and accessible," he says. "We keep them open weekends and evenings."

William Bolger, executive director of the National Resource Center for Consumers of Legal Services, calls the placement of law offices in shopping centers "one noticeable facet of the big change in the legal profession that is making legal services more readily available."

But Bolger adds that the most common location for legal offices will continue to be the suburban office center.

"Some lawyers are moving to shopping malls," he says. "But, in general, the rents are high, it's difficult to convey a professional image and I think most firms prefer smaller professional office buildings, like doctors and dentists and other professionals."

Malcolm says he's willing to battle the image problem and likens himself to a Sears or J.C. Penney.

"There are people who shop only in the finest stores even if they can get the same thing down the street for half price," he says. "But J. C. Penney may sell the same thing as Bloomingdale's."

BUSINESS IN BRIEF

Wash On Wheels To Begin Franchising Operations

George Louser, president of Wash On Wheels, has announced that the company will, by the first of 1987, become a franchisee.

"For 22 years, Wash On Wheels has been a leader in business opportunities for entrepreneurs wanting to begin their own independent business," Louser said. "But after a year of research, we have determined that business today must have a collective and unified program designed to maintain a competitive edge."

There are 750 active WOW operators around the world, according to Louser. These independent businesses will be given the opportunity to be a part of the total franchise program.

Wash On Wheels' headquarters are located at 5401 Bryant Ave. in Sanford and also an office in Gettysburg, Pa.

Receptionists Seminar Slated

"How to be the Best Receptionist" is the topic of a seminar to be held January 28 and 29, 1987 from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Altamonte Springs Hilton and the Harley Hotel, according to Laura Taulbee of West Lake Hospital.

The seminar, co-sponsored by West Lake Hospital and South Seminole Community Hospital, will be the fourth in a series of management programs offered to area physicians and medical office personnel.

Workshop leader Maryann Szostak is an independent management consultant, lecturer and writer. Registration is $95 per person and includes lunch and refreshment breaks. Additional information is available from West Lake Hospital.

United Calls Stromberg Carlson

United Telephone System, Inc., the nation's second largest non-Bell telephone company, has approved Stromberg-Carlson's DCO system for its small and medium sized central office requirements.

According to a United spokesman, the approval follows an extensive evaluation of the offerings of central office switch vendors with a particular focus on United's small and medium sized switching center requirements.

FPRA Elects New Officers

Karen Plunkett of Cardinal Industries, Sanford, has been elected president of the Orlando area chapter of the Florida Public Relations Association. She succeeds David Waldrop, Florida Power Corporation.

Cheryl Werley, Seminole Mental Health Center, was named treasurer of the chapter.

The local group was named the outstanding chapter in Florida by FPRA for the past year. It sponsors an annual roast of a notable individual with the proceeds contributed to the chapters scholarship program at the University of Central Florida. A total of $147,000 has been raised during the past 9 years with $17,000 contributed in 1986.

Huskey Announces Winners

Sally Warren, Realtor/Associate with Huskey Realty's Longwood office, has been awarded a 2-day, all expense paid trip to the Breakers at Palm Beach as the Grand Prize winner in developing the most listings of all associates with the firm. Ms. Warren had 11 listings in the 6 week contest with a total value of $896,000.

Ms. Warren also won a remote control color television set as an office winner.

Week's Business Reviewed

By Donald Gallagher
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — American Telephone & Telegraph Co. announced the largest force reduction in the company's history. Lear Siegler Inc. finally reached a merger agreement and Chase Manhattan Bank lowered its credit card rates.

AT&T Thursday said it plans to lay off about 27,400 employees — 10 percent of its workforce — and take a $3.2 billion charge in the fourth quarter as part of a corporate reorganization.

The $3.2 billion pre-tax fourth-quarter charge covers costs of the layoffs, factory and other "consolidations" and accounting changes.

The charge is expected to reduce fourth-quarter net income by $1.7 billion, or $1.63 a share, the company said, adding that it will cause a loss for the three-month period but should leave a "small profit" for the year.

AT&T Chairman James E. Olson described the layoffs as "painful all around." About 10,900 of the workers who will lose their jobs hold management positions.

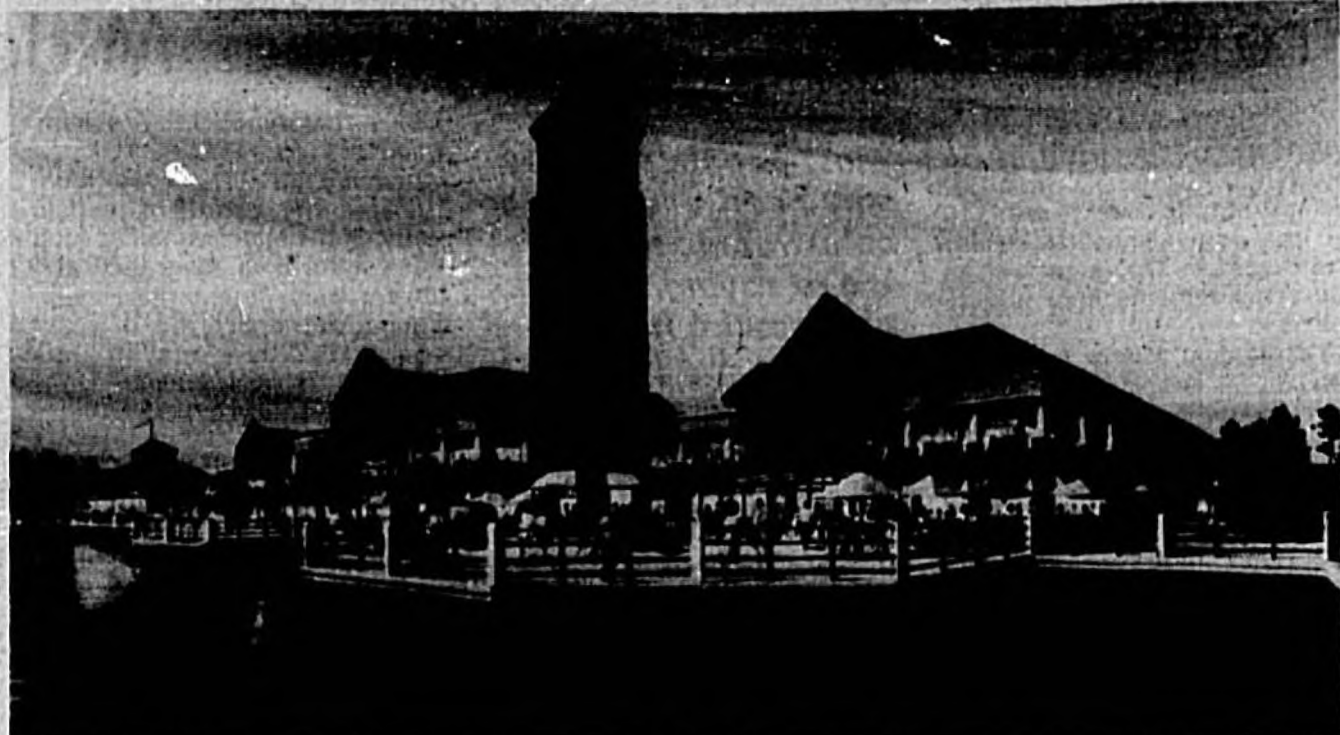

International Business Machines Corp. Thursday said a sweeping retirement program would require the company to take a fourth-quarter charge of $250 million and that the 1987 outlook in its markets was not optimistic.

The $250 million after-tax charge against earnings was announced shortly after the company said that more than 10,000 workers had given notice of their intention to retire under IBM's "1986 Retirement Incentive" program.

IBM said the costs of worldwide retirement programs would hurt 1986 earnings, but should produce "substantial" savings in the last half of 1987.

The company said, however, "it sees no signs of improvement in its general worldwide business climate as 1987 approaches, and cost reduction and resource balancing actions will continue throughout the company."

Gillette Co., which last month paid $588 million to thwart a hostile takeover bid by the Revlon Group, announced Thursday a restructuring plan that will eliminate 2,400 jobs.

Lakeside Shopping

The Shoppes of Heathrow, a 116,000 sq. ft. shopping center, will be built at Heathrow by joint venture partners Heathrow Land and Development Corporation and Thomas Strauss & Associates. Anchor tenant for the center will be a 38,000 sq. ft. Publix Market. The $12 million center will have more than 30 shops, boutiques and restaurants.

Under the restructuring plan, Gillette will incur a $190 million one-time, pretax charge to earnings in the fourth quarter. The charge is expected to result in a "substantial loss" in the fourth quarter, said company spokesman Doug Kenney. However, Gillette expects to post an overall profit for 1986.

Lear Siegler Inc., the California-based conglomerate in the takeover spotlight for the past two months, Wednesday agreed to be acquired by the New York investment firm Forstmann Little & Co. for $2.1 billion.

The agreement came just two days after AFG Partners withdrew its $85-a-share offer for the Santa Monica company with interests in the aerospace and automotive industries.

Texas oilman T. Boone Pickens Jr.'s Mesa Limited Partnership Thursday withdrew its $2 billion bid for Diamond Shamrock Corp. hours after the latter's directors rejected the offer as being inadequate.

Pickens said his company and Alabama businessman John M. Harbert III had made a fair offer but that Diamond Shamrock's board adopted "the standard approach of entrenched management."

Chemical New York Corp. announced Monday it will purchase Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc. for $1.19 billion in cash and securities in one of the largest interstate bank mergers in history.

Chemical's assets of $55.8 billion, combined with Texas Commerce assets of $18.9 billion at Sept. 30, 1986, will create an institution with $74.8 billion, ranking it just about even with J.P. Morgan & Co., which has $74.9 billion in assets, fifth among the nation's banks.

The Texas Legislature in August approved an interstate banking law allowing out-of-state companies to buy Texas banks that are more than five years old. The law takes effect Jan. 1, and Chemical plans to file acquisition papers with federal regulatory agencies Jan. 2.

Chase Manhattan Bank said Thursday it is lowering the rate on its Visa and Mastercard credit cards to 17.5 percent from 19.8 percent. Chase also is reducing the interest in its Chase Visa Premier World Card, representing less than 5 percent of its 4.5 million cardholder accounts, to 16.5 percent.

The $20 annual fee will be eliminated for credit card customers who charge more than $2,400 a year on regular cards and the $65 fee will be waived for charges of more than $5,000 on the premier card.

KLM Royal Dutch Airlines, the Netherlands state carrier, Thursday said it agreed to buy Transworld Corp.'s Hilton International hotel group for $975 million in cash and assumption of $100 million in debt.

The KLM announcement came one day after Transworld said it would sell the hotel subsidiary, which includes 90 Hilton hotels outside the United States, the Vista International hotel chain in this country and the Kahala Hilton hotel in Honolulu.

USX Corp. and the United Steelworkers union Thursday appointed arbitrator Sylvester Garrett to mediate a labor dispute that has idled the No. 1 steelmaker's plants for nearly five months.

"His dialogue will not be binding in any form," said USX spokesman Victor Curtis. "It's just an attempt to facilitate communication between the two disputing parties."

About 22,000 active USW members have been off the job at nine USX plants nationwide since Aug. 1. The union contends the action is a lockout while the company calls it a strike.

Conservative economist Henry Wallich resigned from the Federal Reserve Board because of ill health, the central bank announced Monday.

Wallich's resignation, which had been anticipated in the banking community, gives President Reagan the opportunity to appoint a sixth governor to the Fed's seven-member board.

Wallich, 71, began his career with the Fed 45 years ago at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York. He was named to board in 1974 by President Nixon after a long career in banking, government and academia.

The great tax headache. First Union's great IRA cure.

The new proposed 1987 tax laws might be a headache for some, but you can still get immediate relief with a First Union IRA. Through April 15, you can claim a full $2,000 IRA deduction from your 1986 gross income. (Up to $4,000 for a married couple.) First Union IRA CDs can be opened with as little as $100 and are insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC, so your savings are protected. But if you're a self-directed investor, you may want to use your IRA to purchase stocks, bonds, or other investments. And you pay no taxes on the interest your IRA earns until the money is withdrawn. Which means an IRA is still very valuable to you. And that should give you great relief. For tax relief, talk to a First Union IRA expert. Or call our IRA Hotline at 1-800-551-BANK. Nobody knows the IRA better.

SCHOOLS IN BRIEF

Pine Crest Students Sing At Area Nursing Homes

The Pine Crest PTA chose as its community project for the holiday season to have students sing at three Sanford nursing homes.

Each teacher chose two students from the classroom to participate. Along with chaperones, the students are visiting Lake View Nursing Home, Hill Haven Home, and Good Samaritan Home.

Altogether, the Pine Crest students will spread joy to approximately 216 senior citizens.

Teacher of the Year Sought

Now that nominations for "Teacher of the Year" are over, the process for selection of the 1986-87 Lake Mary High School Teacher of the Year will begin.

The nominees will be reviewed and five sub-finalists shall be selected.

Scholarships Awarded

Also at Lake Mary, Henry King Stanford scholarships awarded by the University of Miami recently went to Matt Barron, Julie DeCastro, John Foley, Greg Fluett and David Nicholson.

To qualify for the scholarships, a student must have had a minimum score of 1200 on the SAT or an ACT score of at least 28. Another requirement is that a student be in the top 10 percent of the graduating class.

Most scholarships provide for 50 percent of the tuition.

Test Scores On The Rise

The Florida Department of Education this month reported that the percentage of students passing the state's basic skills test, SSAT, this year is up at all grade levels and in all subjects.

The test, which measures students' skills in reading, writing and mathematics, was administered in October to students in grades 3, 5 and 8. The greatest percentage increase was on the 5th grade test of reading skills, with the percentage of students passing rising from 85 to 88.

The percentage of students passing the third grade reading test reached 96 percent, the highest passing percentage for any test or grade level.

Free HRS Parenting Classes

The Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is sponsoring a number of free courses in effective parenting, the first one starting Jan. 8, at Valencia Community College. For information, call the Parent Resource Center there at 425-3663. These classes teach parents skills and understandings that may help them manage their families effectively. Topics include communication, discipline techniques, coping with anger, stress and frustration.

Employability Skills Training

Free employability skills training is available at Daytona Beach Community College for economically disadvantaged area residents 55 years of age or older. "Job Assistance for the Older Worker" helps its participants define their jobs preferences and learn interviewing and resume-writing techniques.

Individuals who successfully complete the four-week program will be provided job placement assistance through the Private Industry Council. The DeLand number for information is 427-3472, Ext. 3541.

Longwood Elementary News

Longwood Elementary School students recently elected the following officers in Student Council. Campaign speeches during the contests were broadcast to all classrooms on the school's closed-circuit TV system. The officers are: president, Eric Katuskas; vice president, Brian Ebaugh; secretary, Lauren Campbell, and Sgt. At Arms, Hayes Ginn.

Jackson Heights News

December students of the month were announced at Jackson Heights Middle School. Oviedo resident Rosa Bell, who was described by her teachers as "a joy to have in class," was chosen from the 6th grade. Seventh grader Kassandra Eubanks, also from Oviedo, was selected because she is "always polite, friendly, helpful and considerate." Leslie Geiger won the 8th grade nomination because she is "an excellent student who is helpful, polite and cooperative." She lives in Geneva.

Students Receive Honors

The University of Florida honored Lake Mary student Jasmin Johnson by awarding her a $1,000 scholarship. Miss Johnson intends to enter the university as a pre-medical student sometime during 1987.

Also at Lake Mary, the National Council of Teachers of English has given recognition to Roger DeRosa for exceptional writing.

Scott Lingenfelter, who previously attended LMHS, was also honored by the NCTE.

Entrants were required to submit a previously written story and write an impromptu story in a 90-minute period.

Peer Tutor Program

The Peer Tutor Program at Altamonte Elementary involves regular education students interacting with Profoundly Mentally Handicapped students in a variety of organized activities.

The tutors serve as age-appropriate role models both instructionally and socially for their handicapped peers. Fourth-grade regular education students from Miss Chalone's class assume responsibilities that range from teaching a student a fine motor task to guiding him in cooperative play.

Most importantly, these fourth grade students are aiding the PMH students in the development of their socialization skills in a natural manner. It is in the development of these social skills that the handicapped students will be more accepted into society. Altamonte administrators recently honored the students who are helping their less fortunate peers.

Lakeview Honor Roll

The first quarter honor roll has been released at Lakeview Middle School this week. Of the 175 students earning a position on the honor roll, 130 were included for achieving a 3.0 grade point average with no grade lower than a C. Thirty-five students earned "high honors" for earning a grade point average of 3.4 to 3.99 with no grade lower than a B.

Ten students earning straight As were: Jennifer Brooks, Scott Ferguson, Barry Gipe, Jennifer Hack, Shannon Latimer, Cindi Meriwether, Raquel Nasso, Daniel Penaloza, Lamphay Saysavanh, and Trung Vong.

Cocaine, Body Talk, Suicide, Topics Of Forum

During the week of Dec. 8-12, Team 4 at Tusawilla Middle School sponsored a Fitness and Health Awareness Program. They participated in a variety of activities and heard many speakers who were experts in their fields.

Deputy Klath spoke about

"crack" cocaine, and Ms. Dell Healy made a presentation on body language. Then Walter Hoesa spoke on suicide.

The Grove Counseling Center presented a program on drug rehabilitation, and a squad from the Seminole County Fire Department discussed life-saving techniques. Body Electric did a presentation on aerobics and fitness. Sam Dick of Channel 2 spent an afternoon talking to the students about current health trends and problems. Some of the students were featured on the evening news and Dick presented some of the results of a survey they had completed on health problems.

Other topics included: child abuse, by Deputy Hundley of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department; smoking, by Mrs. Lynn Williams of the American Lung Association; and chemical dependency, by Larry Muse and Ike Jones of Orlando General Hospital.

Activities for the week included making reindeer candy canes as tray favors for patients at Florida Hospital in Altamonte, sampling frozen yogurt, and making posters representing many sports and recreations.

The week ended with the Odd-Olympics in which students competed by teams in various games of skill on the front lawn. At the end of the day, tickets (which had been sold for health drinks and snacks) were drawn for about a hundred prizes, mostly donated by students and parents.

It was a successful week, and Team 4 thanked all the speakers and participants for helping them learn more about health and fitness.

Filling The Air With Music

Music rings through the halls of Red Bug Elementary School in Casselberry as the chorus, band and orff group present a holiday program for students and guests. Director Cheryl Graham is also a teacher and PE teacher. The chorus also performed last week at the Sheraton-Maitland with a rendition of holiday songs. They also recently performed at the Longwood Village Retirement Home.

Meece Testifies North Assured Him Reagan Not Told On Funds

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meece, the man who revealed the Iran-Contra connection to the nation, is the first administration official to say publicly that Lt. Col. Oliver North admitted the operation went on without the president's knowledge.

Meece told reporters Friday that North, the National Security Council deputy fired for his role in the secret scheme, assured him last month that President Reagan knew nothing about the diversion of U.S. arms profits from Iran to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

North also told Meece he was not sure if any of the money — first estimated as much as $30 million — ever reached the Contras, the attorney general said.

New Missiles Cost $65 Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's recommendation to deploy 50 additional MX missiles on railroad cars and mount 500 new smaller long-range missiles on trucks could cost taxpayers as much as $65 billion.

Reagan, trying to shift the country's land-based nuclear arsenal from silos to wheels, announced his major decision Friday as part of a modernization of U.S. strategic nuclear forces.

The 50 new MXs and their rail basing should cost "less than $15 billion," the Air Force said in a statement. Both missile programs, however, could total as much as $65 billion in becoming operational by the early 1990s.

Both missile types would remain on government land in peacetime. But mobility was cited as the chief reason the 10-warhead MX missiles should be placed on six-car trains and 500 one-warhead missiles, known as Midgetmans, should be built to go on trailer trucks hardened against nuclear blast.

Police Arrest Bell Ringer

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — A Salvation Army bell ringer has been charged with misdemeanor theft for allegedly dipping into his kettle, authorities said.

Vincent J. Taylor, 25, Lawrence, was charged in the theft of $26 from the kettle he manned in downtown Lawrence, authorities said.

Taylor was arrested this week when police confronted him and found a marked $20 bill in his possession, Sgt. Don Dalquest said.

He was charged Thursday in Douglas County District Court with theft and misdemeanor marijuana possession. Officers said he was carrying a small bag of marijuana when he was arrested.

Officers began watching Taylor after Salvation Army officials told police they were concerned about the amount of money being received from a kettle Taylor manned in downtown Lawrence, Dalquest said.

A marked $20 bill was dropped into the kettle. Police later confronted Taylor and found he was carrying the marked bill, along with six dollar bills officers believe he stole from the kettle, Dalquest said.

WORLD IN BRIEF

South African Lawmaker Calls For Mandela Release

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Soviet dissident Andrei Sakharov's permitted return to Moscow from internal exile should inspire South Africa to release jailed black nationalist Nelson Mandela, an opposition lawmaker said today.

"It would be a highly positive and imaginative gesture if Pretoria allowed Mandela to be released," Progressive Federal Party law and order specialist Helen Suzman told United Press International.

In Cape Town, police trying to smother anti-government Christmas protests Friday invoked new emergency powers and issued a sweeping regional ban on dissident activity.

Suzman said freeing Mandela, leader of the outlawed African National Congress movement, after he has served 22 years of a life sentence "would be a move acclaimed throughout the world and would immensely improve attitudes in South Africa."

Pakistani Cabinet Resigns

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (UPI) — The entire federal Cabinet resigned today to express its "deep sense of sorrow and grief" over ethnic violence that left more than 180 people dead this week in Pakistan's largest city, an official statement said.

The ministers said they stepped down after an emergency meeting called to discuss restoring law and order to Karachi, wracked by bloodletting between two ethnic groups — the Pathans and Muhajirs.

More than 180 people were killed in four days of street fighting, blamed by Prime Minister Mohammed Khan Junejo and opposition leaders on the emergence of a "drug mafia."

The ministers said their resignations were aimed at enabling the prime minister "to reconstitute his Cabinet to deal with the problem facing the country."

OPEC Reaches Agreement

GENEVA (UPI) — OPEC nations excluding Iraq agreed today to cut production by 7.2 percent in the first half of 1987 in a move designed to raise their oil prices to $18 a barrel.

"For the time being we are married to $18, but we do not mind it to be higher," OPEC President Rilwanu Lukman told a news conference, announcing the agreement.

Lukman, the Nigerian oil minister, brushed aside suggestions the agreement reached at 5 a.m., after 10 days of fierce bargaining, might fall apart as previous accords have done because of cheating by some revenue-hungry nations.

The agreement should push prices from current levels of $14-to-$16 a barrel to $18 a barrel within three or four weeks, he said.

Under the deal, production will fall from some 17.2 million barrels a day at present to 15.8 million barrels a day for six months starting Jan. 1, 1987. Ministers are to set production levels for the rest of the year at their next meeting scheduled for June 25 in Vienna.

Cooperation Pledged Prosecutor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawrence Walsh, the Watergate-style independent prosecutor named to lead an expanded criminal probe of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal, is backed by firm pledges of cooperation from President Reagan and Congress.

Walsh, chosen by a special three-judge federal panel Friday, promptly asked Attorney General Edwin Meece for help from the FBI — and the 74-year-old former federal judge and deputy attorney general from Oklahoma City got it.

Meece, meanwhile, the man who revealed the Iran-Contra connection to the nation, became the first administration official to say publicly that Lt. Col. Oliver North admitted the operation went on without the president's knowledge.

Meece told reporters that North, the National Security Council deputy fired for his role in the scheme, assured him last month that Reagan knew nothing about diversion of U.S. arms profits from Iran to Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Walsh will take over where Meece began last month, yet his independent probe is expected not only to dig deeper into the funding diversion but to study private U.S. efforts to supply the Contras at a time when American military aid to the rebels was prohibited by law.

"I obviously feel it is a great honor," said Walsh, who was sworn in by federal appellate Judge George Mackinnon at the U.S. courthouse in Washington.

Walsh was selected as the nation's seventh special prosecutor under the 1978 Ethics in Government Act, a reform that grew from President Nixon's Watergate scandal. The act requires an independent counsel to investigate possible criminal activity by government officials.

"Mr. Walsh has my promise of complete cooperation and I have instructed all members of my administration to cooperate fully with the investigation in order to ensure full and prompt disclosure," Reagan said Friday.

On Capitol Hill, lawmakers also pledged support to the independent probe even while preparing for their own special investigations that will begin when the 100th Congress convenes Jan. 6, and the House Intelligence Committee chairman praised Meece for his cooperation during two hours of testimony Friday.

Meece, who revealed the Iran-Contra connection to the nation Nov. 25, came out of the private hearing to give a brief account of his Nov. 23 interview of North that unearthened the scheme.

Meece said North assured him of Reagan's distance from the diversion but also said even he was not sure if any money — first estimated by the attorney general at as much as $30 million — ever reached the Contras.

"Nothing I have heard at any time from anybody would give me conclusive proof that money did in fact get to the Contras," Meece told reporters. "I only know that people told me that it was intended that money would be made available."

Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., and a member of the Senate Intelligence Committee, said Friday he believes the diversion amounted to no more than $10 million. "Thirty million dollars is an exaggeration," he declared.

Rep. Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., the Intelligence Committee chairman who will lead the special investigative panel to be formed in the new House, said Meece had been cooperative and candid in his testimony.

The Senate Intelligence Committee wrapped up its work this week, but the House panel will call Richard Secord, a retired Air Force major general linked to the arms sales and the Contra supply efforts, next week.

Secord has invoked his Fifth Amendment right against self-incrimination before the Senate Intelligence Committee, and Hamilton said he was told the former officer plans to invoke it again before his panel.

North also has taken the Fifth Amendment before Congress, as has his former boss, ex-national security adviser John Poindexter.

In other developments:

—The Washington Post reported today that North flew to Cyprus and Beirut Oct. 31 in a failed effort to free all three remaining American hostages held by the pro-Iranian Islamic Jihad. Sources told the Post that North, using the code name "Mr. Good," worked with a contact linked to Iran's government called "Doctor" and was accompanied to Beirut by retired Maj. Gen. Richard Secord.

Two Killed In Explosion

PINEY POINT, Md. (UPI) — A dockside fire and explosion aboard a barge tied up at a petroleum facility killed two people and injured at least one early today, the Coast Guard said.

"They had a barge fire and apparently an explosion," said Lt. Richard Ferraro of the Coast Guard in Baltimore. "Two bodies have been recovered."

The accident happened about 3 a.m. Officials did not immediately know whether the explosion was triggered aboard the dock or the barge, which was believed to be carrying petroleum products.

"We don't know which was which," Ferraro said. "That's something we're investigating."

The barge belonged to Stuart Petroleum, said Ferraro.

Coast Guard officials said they did not know how many people were aboard the barge, or what operations, if any, the vessel was undertaking at the time of the accident.

"As far as I know it was a petroleum product" aboard the barge, Ferraro said.

There were reports crewmen were cleaning out tanks from a recent load of aviation fuel, but no explanation for the explosion.

Piney Point is in southern Maryland, about 15 miles from where the Potomac River empties into the Chesapeake Bay.

Phillip Sellers, who is from Wolfinger's Titusville office, investigated their complaint against Wolfinger's Sanford office. He said the assistant state attorney who heard their complaints said he wouldn't present the issue to the grand jury because there appeared to be no crime committed and that their grievance was of a civil nature.

The men had accused the Seminole County Commission of illegally purchasing the $7.5 million acreage for a regional sewage treatment facility. They also maintained the purchase was part of a larger scheme to enrich elected officials by providing sewer service on or near the officials' property and benefiting a private development at taxpayers' expense.

The men subsequently approached the foreman of the jury this fall who agreed to let them state their case to the full jury. But before that happened the jury asked for a special prosecutor because of the allegation the State Attorney's Office tried to kill the issue.

After the special prosecutor was appointed, some of the complaints the men had were aired before the grand jury but no action was taken by the special prosecutor leading the men and some grand jurors to speculate that he too was "in" on an alleged plan to kill the issue, an accusation that has been denied.

Complicating the issue was the expiration of the grand jury's term Nov. 3, long before they had finished their inquiry. The jury did not receive an extension and the new grand jury has not been presented with the issue, as far as Wolfinger knows.

The Florida Department of Law Enforcement was brought into the case in mid-November after the foreman of the grand jury wrote the governor and said she and other grand jurors believe there may have been a cover-up involved in the issue. FDLE investigators made inquiries about the issue but what stage the investigation is in is not known because the department does not publicly confirm or deny if it is investigating anything.

McEwan said he has learned that FDLE is backing off the issue and assured local officials they won't be investigating the accusations against the county.

The internal report by Sellers to Wolfinger said McEwan and Davis "are firm in their position that they were denied access to the grand jury by assistant state attorney Ralph Eriksson. Eriksson is just as firm in his position that he did not deny access to the grand jury to Davis and McEwan. Ron Seibert (an investigator present at the meeting) does not remember Eriksson denying that access to Davis and McEwan."

"It is and has been the policy... that any citizen who desires to communicate with the grand jury foreman regarding a complaint has that absolute right. Their complaint should be directed to the state attorney, one of his assistants, the court, or to the foreman of the grand jury for the grand jury's attention at the next session. The grand jury can discuss the matter and decide whether or not to hear further evidence."

"Based on this review, there appears to be need for a change in this office's policy regarding access to the grand jury," the report stated.

The staff will also request comments from the Seminole County School Board, and representatives from county government and the city of Lake Mary.

Additional input will be sought from the downtown Sanford merchant's association, the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, the Greater Sanford Development Corporation, the Home Builder's Association of Mid-Florida and the Seminole County Board of Realtors, Marder said.

Once all data has been collected, a draft of the full comprehensive plan will be drawn up and made available for city commission and P&Z review.

Public hearings on the plan will be held by commissioners at city hall in early summer and, contingent on commission approval, the plan will probably be sent to the state Department of Community Affairs by August, Marder said. According to DCA requirements, all Florida municipalities must submit new comp plans by April, 1990.

the spirit," Scott explained. "Once the guys have been Santa and seen the smiles of the children, they want to do it again — they receive a special touch themselves."

The program costs $880 annually. It costs the city $150 for personnel costs and $230 for four-year replacement costs, but the $500 for the candy is made up by donations for "Operation Santa" from developers, businesses and homeowners associations. The city gets a "break" from the candy distributors, Scott said.

The tradition was started by Fire Chief Tom Stegried back in 1973, when one truck went out to deliver treats to the children. The city had a population of approximately 5,000 and the single fire station was manned by a combination of paid and volunteer firefighters.

By 1974 there were two fire stations and two trucks were used to cover the east and west sides of the city.

By 1981 the population had jumped to more than 24,000 and the two units delivering treats were so overtaxed it took 6-8 hours to complete the route. If the truck was called off on an emergency it was sometimes after 10 p.m. when they were out "finishing their Christmas

Arbitration? Morris Says Yes, Raines Says No

Staff And Wire Reports

NEW YORK — Three of the 22 major-league free agents who were offered salary arbitration by their former clubs — pitchers Jack Morris, David Palmer and Bob Forsch — accepted the offers by the Friday midnight deadline but Tim Raines said no to the proposition.

Morris was shunned by four teams in the past week in his bid to leave the Detroit Tigers, and announced his decision in a press conference shortly after midnight. Palmer will submit to arbitration with the St. Louis Cardinals, as will Palmer with the Atlanta Braves, according to Arthur Schack of the Players Association.

Morris, one of this season's most-talented free agents, said he did not want to return to Detroit, but had no success this week in convincing Minnesota, the New York Yankees, California or Philadelphia to accept his proposals.

Raines, a Montreal Expo All-Star left fielder and the National League's batting champion, was one of the 19 players to turn down Friday's arbitration offer.

Raines said earlier this week that he was dissatisfied with the Expos' offer of $4.8 million for three years. Raines made $1.5 million last year and picked up $15,000 more in incentives.

"If the Expos don't sign me by Jan. 8, they won't sign me," Raines said. If a player doesn't re-sign by Jan. 8, he is barred from re-signing with that team until May 1. Since the season will be almost a month old, Raines said he expects to be playing with another team by then.

Baseball

Raines said he doesn't expect any serious negotiating until the Jan. 8 deadline approaches. "It's still 50-50 whether I stay with the Expos or go elsewhere," he said. "But the longer it goes on, the worse it looks for the Expos."

Raines said he wants a three-year contract worth $8 million. He also said he wants Montreal to play the taxes on the contract. Raines said if he and the Expos don't come to an agreement, he is interested in playing for the Atlanta Braves, Los Angeles Dodgers, San Diego Padres, and possibly, the New York Yankees.

Earlier this month, 11 clubs offered one-year contracts to 27 free agents with their salaries to be determined in arbitration. Five of those players had since been signed by their former clubs.

Free agents can sign with other clubs, but since 1985 there have been no major signings by the clubs of players from other teams. The Players Association has charged the owners with conspiring to freeze out free agents and are pursuing the issue in arbitration against the owners' Players Relations Committee.

Among those declining arbitration were pitchers Ron Guidry and Tommy John of the New York Yankees, outfielders Andre Dawson and Raines of Montreal, catchers Lance Parrish of Detroit and Rich Gedman of Boston and second baseman Willie Randolph of the Yankees.

The five free agents who have already signed with their former clubs are Claudell Washington of the Yankees, Darrell Porter of Texas, Mike LaCoss and Harry Spilman of San Francisco and Larry Andersen of Houston.

Henderson, FT Accuracy Boost Tribe

By Mike Andrew
Special to the Herald

Rod Henderson's 18 points and some uncanny team free-throw accuracy led the Sanford's Fighting Seminoles to a 69-52 victory over DeLand Friday night in District 4A-9 prep basketball at Seminole High's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium before 301 fans.

The victory, the second in two nights, lifts the Seminole mark to 6-3. The 'Noles have six days to prepare for their meeting with No. 1 Miami High in the first round of the Ocala Vanguard Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic. Sanford takes on Miami and 6-9 Jose Portillo next Friday at 8 p.m. DeLand dropped to 5-4.

Henderson, a 6-4 senior, scored six of his points in a third-quarter spurt which helped the 'Noles pull away from the feisty Bulldogs.

Seminole faithful have grown to expect that from Henderson, as he averages 17.1 points a game, and is coming off Thursday's 19-point performance against Orlando Oak Ridge. Henderson also ranks highly among the rebound, assists and steal and blocked shot leaders in the county.

Although Henderson's all-around play may be taken for granted, what the followers of 'Noles' hoops aren't used to is the 88.5 percent free-throw shooting they saw Friday night.

Seminole connected on 23 of 26 opportunities from the charity stripe against the 'Dogs. Even more impressive was the fact that Seminole shot a perfect 11 of 11 in the game's final period.

"They were very hot," DeLand coach John Zeoli said. "They didn't miss at all, and anytime you go 11 for 11 in the final quarter it's going to be effective, and it was very effective for them."

"They just put us away at the foul line."

Another pleasant surprise for the 'Noles was an 11-point performance by 6-10 backup center Brad Baird. The lanky senior popped off the bench to turn in his career-best point production.

After jumping out to an early 12-point lead, Seminole appeared to be in control of the game. DeLand, however, refused to fold and scrapped back to 31-31 deadlock at the end of two quarters.

But from the 6:24 mark of the third quarter, when Henderson banged in a 12-footer, it was all Seminole.

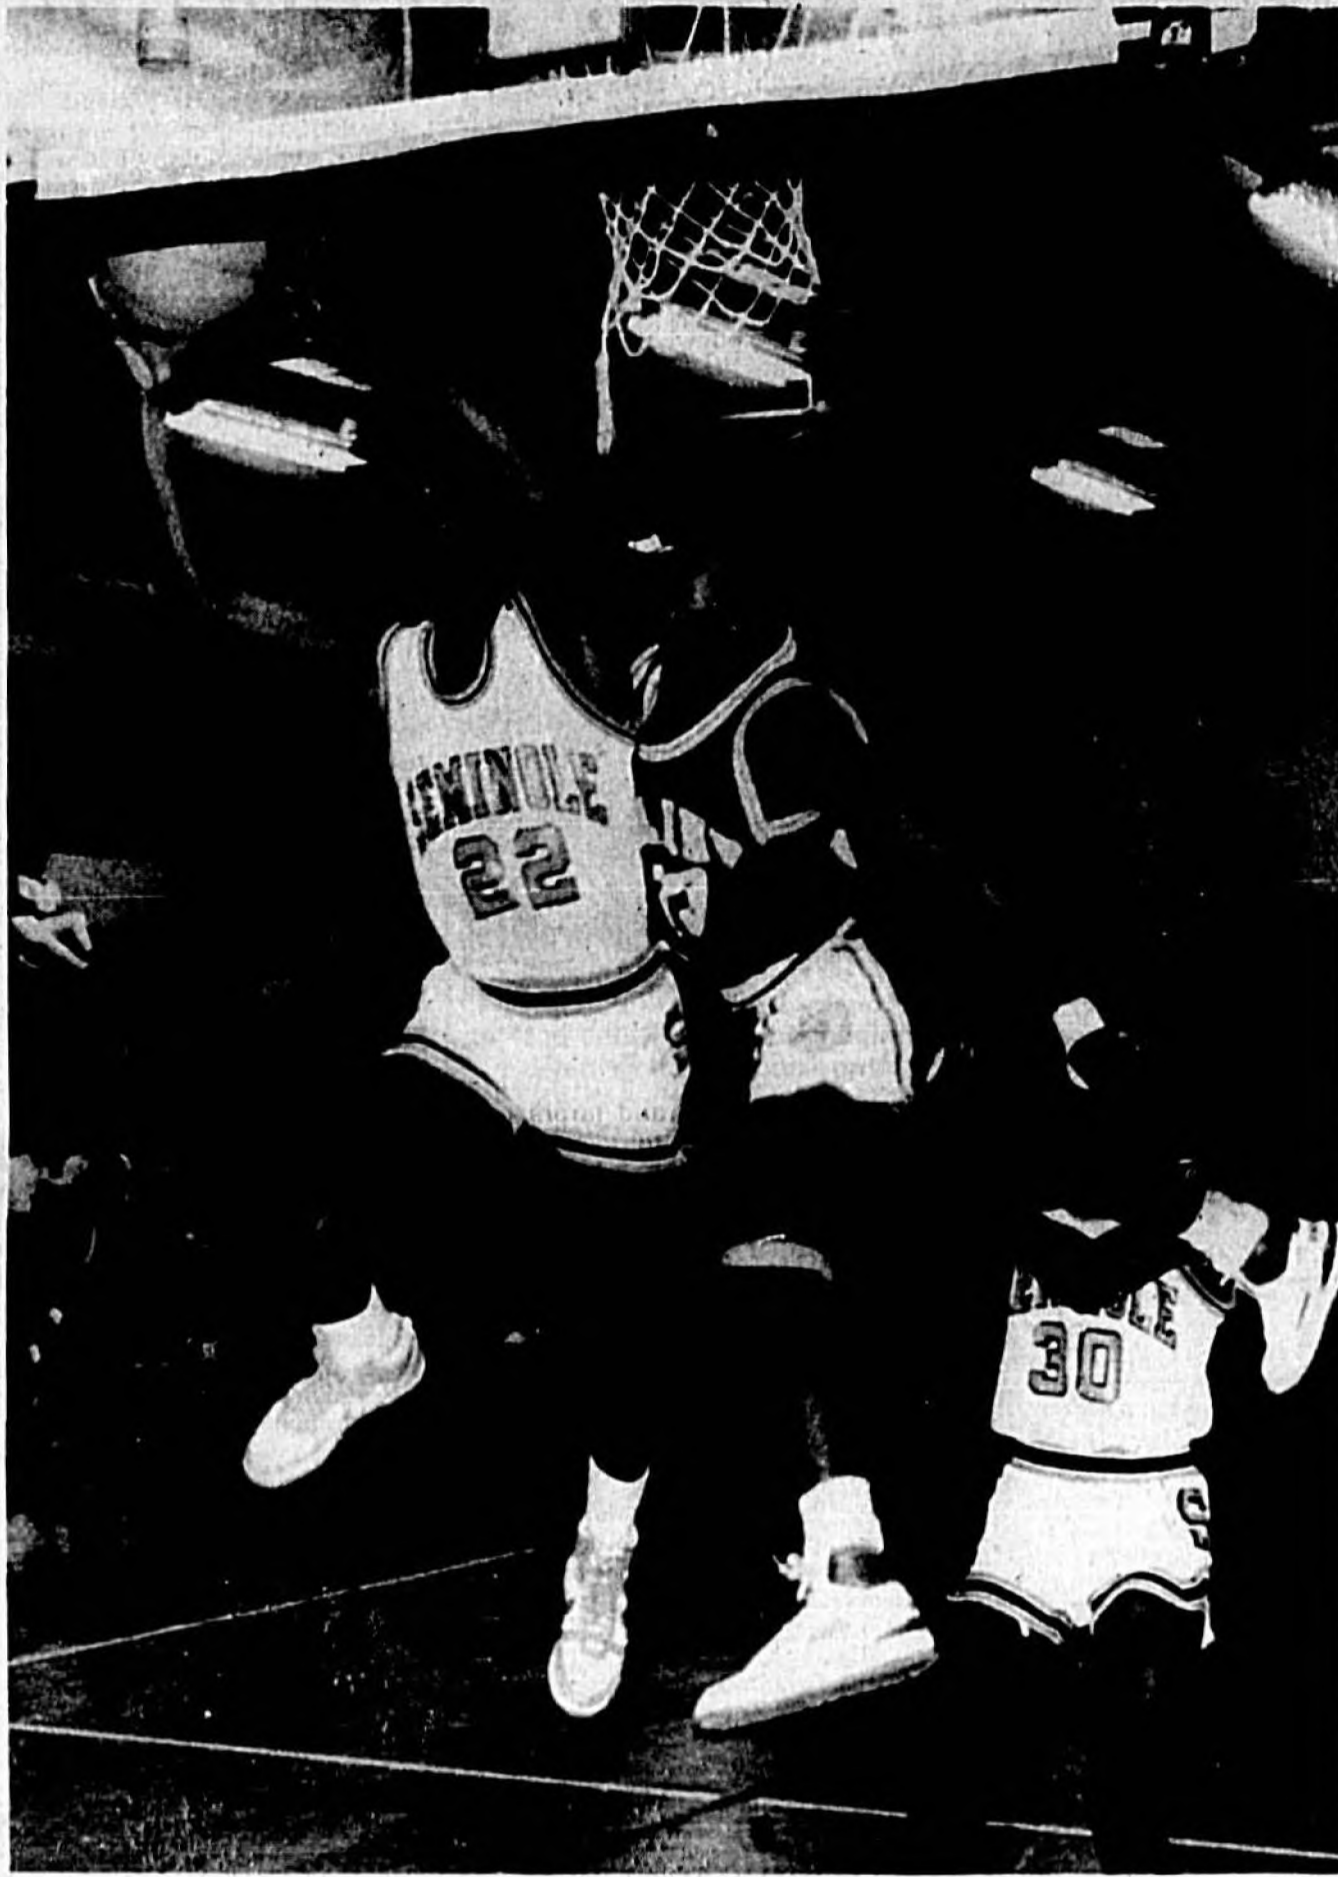

"We played a lot more intense in the second half," Seminole coach Bill Klein said. "We got a lot more rebounds in the second half and played better defense. I think that was the game."

Klein too expects Henderson's point production and said the reason his team has dropped three games (third-ranked Daytona Beach Mainland twice and Port Orange Spruce Creek) this season has nothing to do with offense.

"Scoring is not the problem," Klein said. "Our problem is rebounds and lost possessions. When we stop doing those things, we don't care about scoring. When we rebound, and play defense we win."

Henderson, who is second among county scorers, agreed with Klein about the turnaround in the team. "We're hustling more this year," Henderson said. "And we're playing more defense. That is the things that we have to keep working on."

A key to the Seminole defense late in the game was the play of Craig Walker. While Walker

Rapid Raines, Wise West Orange Move To Finals Of Classic

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

OVIEDO — Jacksonville Raines used its speed to blow past Oviedo, 90-52, and Winter Garden West Orange stuck with its game plan to come away with a 56-49 upset of ninth-ranked Clearwater Countryside in Central Florida Classic semifinal action Friday night at Oviedo High School.

Raines now stands at 8-0 and will meet 5-2 West Orange Saturday night at 8:30. Oviedo and Countryside will hook up in the third-place game at 7 while Lake Howell and Daytona Beach Father Lopez play a 5:30 p.m. consolation game.

Raines went to its strength to subdue a determined Oviedo team. "They came out fired up," Raines coach Willie Dorsey, who picked up his 399th career victory, said. "We stayed with our game plan and wore them down."

Oviedo came out and played right with the Vikings for the first period before being rattled by the size and speed of its opponent. "We came out ready to play," Oviedo Coach Dale Phillips said. "We were intimidated in the second quarter early and could never get back in it from there."

Raines made sure of that, hitting over 60 percent of its shots from the floor and crashing the offensive backboard.

Gary Alexander led the balanced attack with 14 points, Calvin Andrews added 11 more while Herbert Mitchell and Thomas Dow each tallied 10 apiece to pace the Vikings.

Raines used a strong second quarter effort, outscoring Oviedo 28-9, to take a commanding 50-27 halftime lead.

Oviedo could not muster any comeback attempt as Raines ran out to a 61-36 lead early in the third quarter. Alexander paced the scoring for the Vikings with four points which included a dunk with 3:40 left and a tip-in with three minutes remaining. "We went out and played up to our ability tonight," Alexander said. "We just went out and did our best."

Nothing changed in the fourth quarter as the Viking reserves came in and did their part by controlling the final quarter. Oviedo was forced to foul and Raines cashed in hitting 13 of 18 from the charity stripe.

In the nightcap, West Orange played a smart game, clogging the middle and forcing the taller Cougars to fire away from the outside to upend Countryside in its second close victory of the tournament. The Warriors slipped past Auburndale by two points in Wednesday's opener.

West Orange took a seven-point lead into the final quarter and held off a late surge by the Cougars for the win. Leading 41-34 going into the final period Countryside came out and pressed to cut the lead to one point twice but the Warriors came through, hitting their free throws in pressure situations to preserve the victory.

West Orange coach Gregg Robinson, who was a finalist for the Seminole High job several years ago, was delighted with his team's execution. "We came in with a game plan and it worked," Robinson said. "We wanted to make them shoot from the outside by bunching up the middle."

Eddie Pollard had another outstanding game, scoring a game-high 19 points for the Warriors. Terry Henderson added 12 and Derrek Kegler came through big inside with 10 points.

After 6-10 Matt Geiger was hit with two early fouls, Countryside coach Bob Heintz was forced to go to the bench

Montana Passes 49ers To 'Different Kind Of Triumph'

Football

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Montana called returning from career-threatening back surgery and leading the San Francisco 49ers to the NFC West title a "different kind of triumph."

Montana, a two-time Super Bowl Most Valuable Player, completed 23 of 36 passes for 238 yards, two touchdowns and one interception Friday night in leading the 49ers to 24-14, title-clinching triumph over the Los Angeles Rams.

"The feeling of being in a big game like this is impossible to describe," said Montana, who had career-saving back surgery Sept. 15. "The thrill of winning our first Super Bowl is still the best. But coming back from surgery like I did this year, well, this is a different kind of triumph."

The victory means San Francisco will take a week off and Los Angeles travels to Washington to face the Redskins in next weekend's NFC Wild Card game. If Los Angeles wins, San Francisco will play Chicago. If Washington wins, the 49ers will travel to New York to play the Giants.

"If someone beats us, they will be a worthy champion," 49ers Coach Bill

Walsh said. "This had to be our best overall performance of the season."

Los Angeles quarterback Jim Everett played well but struggled in the third quarter, when Tim McKyer intercepted two passes and Ronnie Lott picked off a third.

"I don't think Everett played that well tonight," Rams Coach John Robinson said. "But I think we exposed him to some things that put him in a bad position."

Everett, a rookie, completed 13 of 35 passes for 151 yards and converted only two of 13 third-down situations. Eric Dickerson, who has not gained 100 yards against the 49ers since his rookie season, was held to 68 yards on 18 carries.

"They just had a heck of a good defense," Everett said. "We were out of our system and we couldn't do some of the things we needed to get done. We wanted to throw a little more than we usually do, but we couldn't execute."

San Francisco took a 10-0 lead into the second quarter. Ray Werschling capped a 10-play, 46-yard drive with a 30-yard field goal and Montana fired a 44-yard scoring strike to Jerry Rice, who caught the ball with Nolan Cromwell and Johnnie Johnson draped over his shoulders.

Los Angeles closed the margin to 10-7 early in the second quarter following a Vince Newsome interception of a Montana pass. Dickerson carried the ball the last two plays of the drive, gaining 5 yards then 15 for the score.

However, the 49ers took a 17-7 lead when Joe Cribbs capped a 92-yard, 15-play drive with a 2-yard scoring run.

The 49ers increased their advantage to 24-7 in the third quarter on a 1-yard pass from Montana to tight end Russ Francis, who made an acrobatic, one-handed catch in the end zone. Los Angeles capped the scoring in the fourth quarter when Everett fired a 13-yard scoring strike to Mike Young.

In today's games, the New York Giants and the Denver Broncos can, with victories, assure themselves of the Rivers' 22 Help Assistants Record First Victory

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor
Ann Mallory and Stephanie Glance, Lake Brantley's two assistant coaches, were looking forward to Friday night's girls' prep basketball game with more than the usual nervousness.

Head coach Cindy Frank was sidelined by illness, setting the stage for the debut of the Mallory-Glance braintrust.

"Two heads are better than one, right?" Mallory asked. Friday night they were. Eighteen points better thanks to a big helping hand from Laurie Rivers. The 5-10 senior tossed in a career-high 22 points and snatched nine rebounds as Lake Brantley thrashed Orlando Evans, 58-40, before 101 fans at Lake Brantley High School.

The Lady Patriots pushed their record to 5-4 for the season. They return to action Jan. 6 at Lake Mary.

Mallory was quick to pat Rivers on the back for a stellar effort. "Laurie was very, very good tonight," she said. "She was just killing them inside."

Basketball

Rivers started quickly, scoring 10 first-quarter points as the Lady Pats took a 14-6 lead. Rivers tossed in six more in the second quarter as Brantley widened the gap to 26-14 at intermission.

Mallory said Evans pressed the whole game, but it never got to point guard Tracy Brandenburg. "Tracy did a great job of breaking their press," she said about the flashy sophomore. "They tried to wear her out, but she handled it the whole game. She stayed tough."

Brandenburg finished with 10 points, four assists and one steal.

After intermission, Brantley put the game away with a four-minute spurt which pushed the advantage to 24 points. An 18-6 third-quarter differential put Brantley comfortably ahead, 44-20, entering the final eight minutes.

Helping Rivers on the glass were Susan Asplen with eight caroms and Janice Abaray with seven boards. Asplen also tossed in 10 points as did Jennifer Tufford.

Glance, whose prime role is coaching the junior varsity, watched her JV Pats improve to 3-0 with a 38-31 victory over Evans. Barb Billmyer tossed in 10 points and Krista Kranze added eight for the Baby Pats.

Lyman (3-0), Brantley (4-1) Flex Muscles

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer
Lyman's Lady Greyhounds and Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots showed Friday night that you don't get to be a powerhouse by backing away from a fight.

Both Lyman and Brantley, the top two-seeded teams in the Burger King Girls Soccer Classic, drew tough first-round opponents in 1986 state semifinalists South Plantation and Largo. But, instead of worrying about the draw, the Lady Greyhounds and Lady Patriots just said "bring it on."

Lyman, the three-time defending tournament champion, scored three times in the first half and played tough defense in the second en route to a 3-0 victory over South Plantation at Lyman High.

Earlier in first-round play at Lyman, Lake Brantley built a 3-1 halftime lead and its defense did the rest in a 4-1 victory over Largo.

Lyman, 5-1-3 overall, faces Tarpon Springs Saturday afternoon at 2 at Lyman High. Lake Brantley, 7-0-1 overall, takes on Melbourne in quarterfinal action Saturday at 2 p.m. at Lake Mary High.

Lyman coach Laura Dryden said she was looking forward to the competition and her team rose to the occasion with a big victory.

"The girls really played well together tonight," Dryden said. "They knew they were playing a tough opponent and came through with a fine effort."

The Lady Greyhounds took a 3-0 lead in the first half. Karen Abernethy opened the scoring with a goal on Kerry Musante's assists and Kim Mitchell's unassisted goal made it 2-0. Randi Huddleston gave Lyman a 3-0 cushion with a goal on an assist from Maye Belle Bryant.

Lyman took 26 shots on goal for the game compared to South Plantation's seven. Dryden said goalkeeper Sarah Cobb made a number of crucial saves in recording the shutout.

In Lake Brantley's victory over Largo, Julie DeRusso scored one goal and added to assists to help power the Lady Patriots' offense. Coach Wolfgang Halbig was also estate with the play of his defense led by all-state sweepback Reenie Deaver, stopper Debbie Bray, fullbacks Jennifer Mc Masters and Karen Brown and goalkeeper Wendy Vickery.

"We've been limiting just about everyone we've played four to six shots a game," Halbig said. "That says a lot for the defense. And Wendy (Vickery) has only allowed five goals in eight games."

Lake Brantley's first goal Friday was scored by Cara Marlen on an assist from Jennifer Josephs. Largo came back to tie it but Brantley then tacked on two goals for a 3-1 halftime lead. Colleen Liefert scored the tiebreaker on DeRusso's first assist and DeRusso then fed Beth Schaefer for the Lady Pats' third goal. DeRusso then scored an unassisted goal in the second half.

LAKE HOWELL BLANKS TRINITY
In Friday's first game at Lyman High, Chris Frankenberger scored two goals as Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks shut out Trinity Prep's Lady Saints, 4-0.

Lake Howell, 5-2-1 overall, takes on Lake Mary in quarterfinal action Saturday at 4 at Lake Mary.

The Lady Hawks dominated Trinity with 32 shots on goal compared to the Saints' five and 10 corner kicks compared to Trinity's two. Along with Frankenberger's two goals, Heather Brann and Nicole Compton also scored for the Lady Hawks. Goalkeeper Sherri Raynor made three saves in recording the shutout.

Mary Rips DeLand

Although the odds of a DeLand upset were infinitesimal, Lake Mary's Lady Rams weren't about to let up until they had assured themselves of a victory. The Lady Rams erupted for eight goals in the first half en route to a 10-0 victory in the opening round of the Burger King Girls Soccer Classic Friday night at Lake Mary High.

"I was happy with the way the girls came out aggressively and scored quickly," Lake Mary coach Bill Elisse said. "It gave us a chance to get everyone some tournament experience."

Lake Mary, 6-1-1 overall, advances to Saturday's 4 p.m. quarterfinal match against Lake Howell.

Donna Rohr led the Lake Mary scoring parade Friday night with three goals while Kelley Broen and Crissie Snow pumped in two goals each. Broen also had three assists to run her season total to 11.

Michelle Mattingly, Teresa Gatewood and Brooke Taylor also scored for the Lady Rams Friday night. Kristen Jones added two assists while Snow, Gatewood and Leslie Hobek each had an assist.

Lake Mary took 48 shots on goal compared to two for the Lady Bulldogs. Lake Mary keeper Tammy Scott made two saves in recording her fifth shutout.

SPONGES DROWN BISHOP MOORE
Kenna Leonard and Katrina Reasoner scored two goals each as the Tarpon Springs Lady Sponges made a successful debut in the Burger King Classic with a 5-2 victory over Bishop Moore's Lady Hornets at Lake Mary High.

Tarpon Springs, 4-3-1 for the season, takes on Lyman Saturday at 2 at Lyman. Bishop Moore now stands at 4-4.

Cara Leonard also scored a goal for the Lady Sponges who converted five goals while taking just 10 shots. Chris Geltz and Kristen Adamkiewicz scored for Bishop Moore.

WINDHAM LIFTS WINTER PARK
Gainesville Buchholz held prolific Julie Peters scoreless, but Lee Windham picked up the slack with four goals to lead Winter Park's Lady Wildcats to a 4-3 victory in first-round action at Lake Mary High.

Windham's four goals were the most for any one player in a first round game. While Windham led the offense, goalkeeper Kerry Rizza kept Buchholz from getting the equalizer.

Winter Park advances to the quarterfinals where it will face Vero Beach Saturday at 4 p.m. at Lyman High.

Melbourne Turns Back Tribe Upset Effort In Shootout

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

OVIDO — For 80 minutes Friday night, Seminole High's Lady Seminoles hustled themselves into position to pull off the biggest first-round upset of the Burger King Girls Soccer Classic. But, the Lady Tribe's upset dreams were shattered in just a matter of seconds.

After fighting unbeaten Melbourne to a 1-1 tie at the end of regulation, the game went into a shootout, and then a sudden death shootout before Melbourne finally came away with a 2-1 victory in a first-round thriller before 51 fans at Oviedo High.

"I was really proud of the way the girls played tonight," Seminole coach Suzy Reno said. "They never gave up and they had a chance to beat a very good team in Melbourne."

Seminole, 2-4-2 overall, will now try to come back and win the consolation bracket but will have a tough time in doing so as it played Largo Saturday morning.

Melbourne, 7-0, plays Lake Brantley in winners' bracket play Saturday afternoon. The game will be sort of a homecoming for Melbourne coach Larry Kaskey who was the Lake Brantley mentor last season.

Seminole came out fired up in Friday's game and took a 1-0 lead eight minutes into the match. Vicky "Spuffy" Pakovic made a nice cross on a corner kick to the far post where Melissa Shuckman was there to kick it in.

Melbourne came back two minutes later to tie it when Kelley Barnes put a corner kick in front of the goal and Meredith Heins bodied it in. Melbourne had two excellent chances to add to the lead on long throw ins by Betsy Williamson. Williamson gets a running start, then does a front flip, lands on her feet and hurls the ball 30 to 40 yards.

Seminole's last chance to score in regulation came with 9:25 left in the first half when Cindy Bengue took a free kick from 25 yards out. Bengue made a nice, hard shot but Melbourne keeper Leslie Heins made the save and the teams were tied, 1-1, at the half.

Melbourne was the dominant offensive team in the second half as it took 16 shots compared to zero for the Lady Tribe. The Lady Bulldogs, through, were continually turned away by Seminole keeper Sherri Rumlur and defenders Bengue, Kim Walsh and Jennifer Roberts.

Lee Lifts Lake Howell

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Dougie Lee scored two goals in the first four minutes of play Friday night as Lake Howell claimed a 2-1 victory over Middleburg in the opening round of the Pride of the South Tournament at Jacksonville Forest High.

The Silver Hawks, 6-0-0 overall, advance to Saturday's

Soccer

Melbourne apparently scored the tiebreaker nine minutes into the half but the goal was nullified by an offside call.

The teams then went to penalty kicks with five players from each squad going one on one with the keeper. Both teams made three of the five kicks in the first round with Bengue, Walsh and Shuckman converting for the Lady 'Noles and Vicky Petterra, Karen Erickson and Williamson scored for Melbourne.

With the outcome still not settled, the teams went to sudden death with the first unanswered score being the game winner. Seminole shot first but Rachele Denmark's shot was stopped by Leslie Heins and Meredith Heins then booted in the winner for Melbourne.

VERO BEACH DROPS OVIDO
Oviedo's Lady Lions gave up three first-half goals and could not recover as they dropped a 3-2 decision to Vero Beach's Lady Indians in Friday night's second game at Oviedo High.

Oviedo, 2-3-3 overall, plays Gainesville Buchholz in the consolation bracket while Vero Beach battles Winter Park in the winners' bracket.

Vero Beach took a 1-0 lead 10 minutes into the match when lighting-quick forward Erin Paplin broke loose on the right wing and blasted in a goal.

Oviedo came back with some nice teamwork to tie it at 1-1 with 25:58 left in the first half. Kelly Price worked the ball down the right side and centered to Jill Knutson who passed off to Cathy Bergman and Bergman took two dribbles and kicked the ball just inside the far post.

Vero Beach then struck for two goals in the last 10 minutes of the half. The first came on a penalty kick by Lisa Kahle and the second on Christy Allen's goal from close range on Paplin's assist.

Oviedo got a goal early in the second half as Bergman popped one in from 15 yards out, but the Lady Lions could not work for the equalizer.

Goalkeeper Lori Blackburn and sweepback Doris Arcomone kept Oviedo in the game in the second half by keeping Vero out of the goal. Blackburn made 12 saves in the half while Arcomone ran down a ball that was headed for the goal and cleared it to keep the score at 3-2.

Rebels Erupt For 105, Tarkanian Talks Defense

United Press International
Top-ranked Nevada-Las Vegas scored 105 points Friday night and Coach Jerry Tarkanian talked about defense.

"I thought we played just great the first half," Tarkanian said after the Rebels whipped Ohio University 105-81 in an opening-round game of the Rebel Roundup. "Our press was tremendous and our defense overall was just great."

UNLV's full-court pressure forced the Bobcats into 24 turnovers. The Rebels, 8-0, will face Louisiana Tech, an 82-64 winner over Duquesne, in Saturday's championship game.

"(The loss) had to do with UNLV's pressure," Ohio Coach Billy Hahn said. "It created too many turnovers and we just didn't handle the ball well."

Freddie Banks, with 17 points, and Armon Gilliam, with 16, sparked a 68-point UNLV first half. The Rebels hit 68 percent from the floor in the first 20 minutes. Banks finished with a game-high 22 points and Gilliam added 20. Ohio, 4-5, was led by John Rhodes' 17 points.

In other games involving ranked teams, Washington State whipped No. 16 UCLA 81-73 and No. 20 Kentucky defeated Iowa 75-59 in the opening round of the Kentucky Invitational Tournament.

At Pullman, Wash., Joe Wallace scored a career-high 34 points, including 8 in the final 1:09, to lead Washington State over UCLA in the conference opener for both schools. Reggie Miller scored a game-high 38 points for the Bruins.

At Lexington, Ky., Robert Lock scored 19 points and grabbed a game-high 11 rebounds to pace Kentucky over Iowa. The Wildcats will face Boston University in the tournament final Saturday. The Terriers edged Texas A&M 65-63.

In other games, Southwest Louisiana defeated Idaho State 75-64 and Murray State beat Tennessee-Chattanooga 76-67 in the Bayou Classic at Lafayette, La. Florida whipped Virginia Tech 82-60 and Ohio State stopped Jacksonville 85-74 in the Gator Bowl Tournament at Jacksonville, Fla.

Sixers Play Best 48 Minutes, Bombard Celtics To Snap Skid

United Press International
 After his team trounced arch-rival Boston Friday night, Philadelphia Coach Matt Guokas quickly passed from praising the 76ers to cautioning them.
 "This was our best 48 minutes of the season," Guokas said after Philadelphia broke a four-game losing streak with a 122-100 triumph. "We were consistent in our effort and concentration from the first moment to the last and that's a good sign. But now we have to try to carry this over to every team in the league."
 Philadelphia had seven players in double figures, led by Julius Erving's 24 points. Roy Hinson scored 21 points, Cliff Robinson and Tim McCormick each had 16. Charles Barkley and Maurice Cheeks 15 apiece and Sedale Threatt 11. Barkley's 14 rebounds and 11 assists were both game highs. "After you lose four straight, I was concerned everyone was trying too hard," Guokas said. "That's when you run into trouble. The more you stay together, pass the ball and work together on defense, that's the way you get out of slumps and that's what we did."
 Elsewhere, Detroit routed San Antonio 114-84, Dallas raced past Denver 141-118, Seattle edged Phoenix 108-106, Portland nipped Houston 115-112 and Utah outlasted Cleveland 134-128 in double overtime.

Basketball Available At Crooms

The Sanford Recreation Department and Crooms School of Choice are now offering an open gym for basketball play at Crooms at Peralmon Avenue and 13th Street, SRD spokesman Jeff Monson announced.
 The gym will be available for ages 13 to 17 from 4 p.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday. The same age group will have the gym from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday and 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. on Sunday.
 The gym will be open for ages 18 and up from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Friday. The older group will get the gym from 3 p.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday and 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday.
 For further information, contact Monson at 322-3161, ext. 261.

Gooden Lawyers Throw Curves

ST. PETERSBURG (UPI) — Dwight Gooden's attorneys can also snap off quite a curve.
 With two zealous lawyers deflecting all questions pertaining to the case against him, Gooden held a news conference Friday to wish his supporters a merry Christmas and apologize to neighbors for the disturbance created by his arrest.
 Because of the restraints imposed by Gooden's lawyers, the conference produced no substantive replies by the All-Star pitcher, who walked out of the session after 15 uneventful minutes. Local media, supplemented by several crews from New York, jammed into a room in the building that houses the office of Gooden's agent, Jim Neader.

Anderson's 32 Propel Hatters

DAYTONA BEACH (UPI) — Sophomore Randy Anderson scored 32 points to lead the Stetson Hatters to an 88-68 win Friday night over the Eastern Kentucky Colonels in the opening game of the Hawaiian Tropic basketball tournament at the Ocean Center.
 Georgia topped LaSalle, 82-65, in the second game. Georgia and Stetson meet Saturday night at 9 to decide the title.
 The Hatters led 45-42 at halftime and Eastern Kentucky came back to take a 57-52 lead with 13 minutes remaining.

Hillery Keys Stetson Victory

Sanford's Dee Hillery converted a three-point play with seven seconds remaining to lift Stetson to a 79-77 victory over Eastern Kentucky in the first round of the Lady Hatter Classic at Edmunds Center in DeLand.
 The Lady Hats (6-1) play Wake Forest, an 81-66 winner over Southwestern Louisiana, for the championship today at 4. Wake Forest handed former Central Florida coach Joe Sanchez his 200th coaching victory.
 Hillery, a 6-1 junior, finished with 17 points.

Chrissie And John Split Again

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — Chris Evert Lloyd and her husband, John, have separated for the second time in their eight-year marriage but are not considering a divorce.
 Evert Lloyd, who will be 32 Sunday, is the No. 2-ranked women's tennis player in the world. John Lloyd is a former pro who recently retired from singles play.
 "John and I have been separated for the past three months," Evert Lloyd said Thursday.

Oviedo Scores Early, Topples Lyman, 39-28

By Sam Cook
 Herald Sports Editor
 Oviedo's Lions used pins by Chris Baker (101 pounds) and Kenny Schrupp (115) along with hard-fought decisions by Shawn Dezego (108) and Mike Boyd (122) to build an early lead en route to a 39-28 victory over Lyman's Greyhounds in prep wrestling Friday at Lyman High School.

The victory improved coach John Horn's Lions to 2-4 while Lyman fell to 0-5.

Baker, a freshman, pinned David Mengel in the first match and Dezego erased a 2-0 deficit with a reversal and a near fall for a 5-2 victory over Robin Skrzypek.

"That was the best match of the night," Horn said about Dezego's victory. "There were counters and counter-counters the whole match. They went at each other the whole match."
 Armed with a 9-0 lead, Schrupp pinned Sidney Bolden at 3:58 to push the edge to 15-0 before Danny Chiodo (129) came up with Lyman's first points when major decisioned Anthony Carcara, 11-3.

The teams swapped decisions at 1:35 and 1:42 when Oviedo's

Wrestling

Charlie Vela whipped Brad Beckman, 7-4, and Lyman's Gregg Hunziker blanked Scott Rogers, 4-0. Hunziker used a dump for a 2-0 lead in the first period, then picked up two stalling points for the victory.
 Oviedo put the match on ice when Jene Hartman (159/28), Richard Dickens (170/1-05) and Emery Sneed (188/30) picked up quick sticks.

Lyman's Mike Whitaker, who had an eight-second pin against Apopka Thursday, flattened Mike Lee in 30 seconds Friday. Jimbo Smith won the heavyweight by forfeit. Neither team had an unlimited grappler.

Mayfair's Addison Has Credentials

How Many Teaching Professionals Were Born In Brechin, Scotland?

William "Red" Addison can match golfing credentials with anyone.
 After all, how many PGA teaching pros were born in Scotland?

It was Dec. 10, 1920 when Mr. and Mrs. Addison welcomed their wee lad to their home in Brechin, Scotland. Red, however, did say there is no truth to the rumor that his first playpen was the 18th green at the Scottish Links Country Club.

He didn't have time for that. Before he was 2 years old, the family picked up and moved to America. "The cattleboat was only going one way," Red quipped. "I didn't have a way to get back."

The family landed in Massachusetts and Red learned the game as a caddy. By age 15, he was a caddy-master at the Andover Country Club. Later, he became assistant pro to head professional John Shirkonts. He held that position until 1941 when duty called.

Red enlisted into the Marines for four years where he served at Guadalcanal, New Britain and Pelelieu. The modest veteran received the Purple Heart with Oak Leaf Cluster, among numerous other decorations.

After leaving the service in 1946, he became a teaching pro at Orlando's Dubsdread Country Club. He later opened Pine Hills Country Club on the west side of Orlando.

Rudy Seiler

MAYFAIR COUNTRY CLUB: 322-2531

From there, he moved to the post as general manager at the Clewiston Country Club for three years. Then, it was back to the Orlando area as head professional at the Rolling Hills Country Club in Longwood. He enjoyed his stay at the attractive course next to Palm Springs Drive for 12 years.

After several other stops as pro at numerous clubs in the area, Red settled in at Sanford's Mayfair Country Club six years ago. He is currently the head pro and golf director at Mayfair and still teaches the game occasionally.

His clinic every Saturday morning is sponsored by the Orange County School System. Through it all, Red has been a valued and respected member of the Mayfair professional staff.

Here's a look at last week's tournament results:

 Two strokes off the pace at 65 were the teams of Arnold Palmer-Chris Johnson, Billy Casper-Jan Stephenson, Kim Ferree-Ayako Okamoto and Juli Inkster-Dale Douglass.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you by Ken Rummel
 When was the last time a National Football League team was able to go through a whole season undefeated?...It hasn't happened since 1972. The last NFL team to go undefeated all year was the Miami Dolphins, who finished the 1972 season with a record of 17 wins and no losses.

Do you know who was the youngest man ever to be a head coach in the National Football League?...Answer is Curly Lambeau, who was head coach of the Green Bay Packers at the age of just 21, in the NFL's first year.

Here's an oddity...There was one season when FOUR teams were the national champion of major college football the same year...In 1964, 2 news services voted Alabama as national champ, while the National Football Foundation picked Notre Dame and the Football Writers' Association chose Arkansas.

Flop For The Future? Bucs CAN Win For Losing

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — The game between the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and St. Louis Cardinals, two of the league's worst teams, may not seem too important Sunday, but could prove monumental to the Buccaneers next April 28th.

If Tampa Bay defeats the Cardinals, it could lose its chance for the No. 1 draft choice next year. If the 2-13 Buccaneers finish the season at 2-14, they are ensured the rights to the top pick, most likely Miami quarterback Vinny Testaverde, who won the Heisman Trophy this year.

Tampa Bay is tied with the Indianapolis Colts for the worst record in the NFL but, on the basis of their schedules, the Buccaneers would win the right to the draft's top pick even if both teams finish the season with a loss.

draft pick. But Leeman Bennett, who is 4-27 in his two seasons as Tampa Bay's coach, has other things on his mind.

"I don't care about any of that," the embattled Bennett said of the draft selection. "We're coming to St. Louis with the intentions of winning the football game. We won't be going through the motions.

"We'll line up and give it our best shot. We'll let the chips fall where they may. I would never do less than my best and I would never want my players to do less than their best."

Tampa Bay linebacker Jeff Davis, who leads his team with 125 tackles, agreed.

"I'm a football player and I play to win," Davis said. "I don't play the game to lose. I can't worry about draft choices and all that.

"When you're at this point of the season and at the bottom of the totem pole, all you can do is play the game."

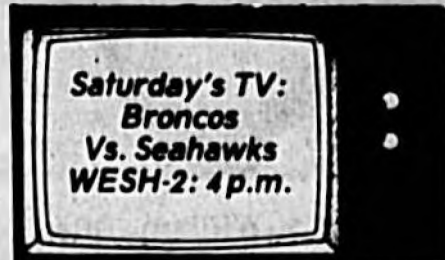

St. Louis, which holds a 3-11-1 mark, could end up with the draft's third pick if it blows the game against Tampa Bay, a 14-point underdog. A win would give the Cardinals the sixth choice in the draft.

Like Bennett, Cardinal coach

Gene Stallings is thinking victory. "We're approaching the game like if we lost, we'd lose a chance to make the playoffs," Stallings said.

WILDER TO MISS FINALE
TAMPA (UPI) — The Tampa Bay Buccaneers placed running back James Wilder on injured reserve Friday with a bad ankle, taking him out of the team's season finale against the Cardinals in St. Louis Sunday.

Seahawks Fight For Post-Season Life Vs. Broncos

SEATTLE (UPI) — The Seahawks will be fighting for their playoff lives Saturday against Denver but Seattle Coach Chuck Knox knows the game also means a lot to the Broncos.

Seattle, 9-6, needs a victory to keep its slim hopes alive for a wild-card spot. A victory would guarantee the Broncos, 11-4, the home field advantage in their first playoff game. Denver has already clinched the AFC West title.

"They have a tremendous record at home (7-1), so playing at home in the playoffs would mean a lot to them," Knox said of the Broncos. "They will play against us as hard as they can."

But more is riding on the outcome for the Seahawks, who don't want their late season charge to fall short.

Seattle, 5-8 on Nov. 16, has won four straight to cke back into the wild-card race. But for the Seahawks to make the playoffs they have to beat Denver, while two of three teams — Cincinnati, Kansas City and New England — must lose their regular-season finales.

Kansas City plays at Pittsburgh and Cincinnati hosts the New York Jets Sunday. New England will be at Miami Monday night.

"It's a must-win situation for us," Knox said. "We have two motivating forces — No. 1 we'd like to make the playoffs and No. 2 we'd like to finish the regular season with a 10-6 record."

Denver has won the last four games between the teams, including two in the Kingdom, considered the noisiest stadium in the NFL.

Broncos Coach Dan Reeves said he expects a tough game, considering the Seahawks' resurgence and their loud fans.

"The Seahawks are playing great again and the Kingdom is one of the toughest places to play in the entire NFL," he said. "Their fans are extremely supportive and loud, and that dome does not allow much sound to escape."

Denver quarterback John Elway said one key to beat the crowd noise is to keep snap counts simple.

"You want to say the least amount of things you can say in there," he said. "Keep it simple."

The game will feature 10 players selected Wednesday to the Pro Bowl — five for Denver and five for Seattle.

Representing the Broncos in the Pro Bowl will be Elway, offensive guard Keith Blahop, defensive end Rulon Jones, linebacker Karl Mecklenberg and safety Dennis Smith. Seattle will be represented by defensive end Jacob Green, linebacker Freddie Young, kick returner Bobby Joe Edmonds, running back Curt Warner and wide receiver Steve Largent.

Warner leads the AFC in rushing with 1,289 yards and has 10 touchdowns. Largent is closing in on yet another NFL record.

Largent, an 11-year veteran from Tulsa, needs just 31 yards in receptions to become the first player in NFL history to have eight 1,000-yard reception seasons. Largent, who has 64 catches for 969 yards and nine TDs this season, currently shares the record of seven with former San Diego Chargers receiver Lance Alworth.

Largent has caught passes in an NFL-record 138 straight games and is the only player in league history to catch at least 50 passes in nine different seasons.

Elway, a dangerous scrambler, is the AFC's top rushing quarterback with 49 carries for 240 yards and one touchdown. He's also thrown for 3,299 yards and 18 touchdowns.

"He's best at creating impromptu plays when he's scrambling," Knox said.

Orange Bowl Bye: Dolphins, Patriots Bring Down Curtain

MIAMI (UPI) — One of professional football's greatest arenas hosts its final act Monday night when the Miami Dolphins play the New England Patriots.

For 21 years, the Orange Bowl has been the home of the Miami Dolphins, the winningest team in football since the 1970 merger. In that time, the Orange Bowl has been the home of one of the best football teams of all time, the 17-0 1972 Dolphins, the second-winningest coach in NFL history, Don Shula, and the highest-rated quarterback in NFL history, Dan Marino.

Players such as Bob Griese, Larry Little, Jake Scott, Nick Bounieotti, Larry Csonka, Mercury Morris, Paul Warfield, Bill Stanfill and Garo Yepremian are just some of the Dolphins that played in the Orange Bowl.

It also hosted the biggest upset in Super Bowl history, the 1969 game where where Joe Namath and the New York Jets shocked the Shula-coached Baltimore Colts 16-7.

That was one of five Super Bowls played in the Orange Bowl. Miami has never played in a Super Bowl at the Orange Bowl, but the Dolphins have compiled a 10-4 home playoff record.

Miami has a 110-37-3 record at home, including a 4-3 mark this year and has an 18-3 record at home on Monday nights.

Built in 1937 for $325,000, the Orange Bowl seats more than 75,000 and also is home to the University of Miami Hurricanes. The Dolphins — who played before 26,776 fans in their first home game in 1966 — are moving to their new stadium in North Dade County next season.

It is one of the playoff games that the Dolphins lost — a 41-38 overtime loss to San Diego on Jan. 2, 1982 — that stands out in Shula's mind as the most memorable game he has been part of in the Orange Bowl.

In that game the Chargers jumped out to a 24-0 first-quarter lead. Backup quarterback Don Strock came off the bench to rally Miami to a 38-31 lead on the first play of the fourth quarter, but the Chargers tied the game up and won it on a Rolfe Benirschke field goal 13:52 into the extra session.

"That game really stands out because I come early and leave late," Shula said. "I've always had the same view from the sidelines, so I don't know about the bad seats."

NFL Playoff Outlook

NFL Playoff Outlook United Press International

NFC East

NY Giants (13-2) — The Giants have clinched the division title. With a victory at home Saturday against Green Bay, the Giants will assure themselves the home field throughout the NFC playoffs. New York will at least host a divisional playoff game Jan. 3 or 4 against either San Francisco or the Rams.

Washington (11-4) — The Redskins will be the home team in the Dec. 28 wild-card game.

NFC Central

Chicago (13-2) — The Bears have clinched the NFC Central. If the Bears win Sunday against Dallas and the Giants lose Saturday to Green Bay, Chicago will have the home field throughout the NFC playoffs. Regardless, Chicago will host a divisional playoff game Jan. 3 or 4.

NFC West

LA Rams (10-5) — The Rams clinched a wild card. They lost a chance to win the division by losing to San Francisco, 24-14, Friday night.

San Francisco (9-5-1) — The 49ers have clinched the division championship with a 24-14 victory over the LA Rams Friday night.

AFC East

New England (10-5) — The Patriots will win the division if they beat Miami Monday night. If the Patriots lose to Miami and two teams from among Cincinnati, Kansas City and Seattle lose, New England would be a wild card. If the Patriots lose to Miami and two or more other AFC teams finish 10-6, not including the Jets, New England does not make the playoffs.

NY Jets (10-5) — The Jets have clinched at least a wild card. They will win the division if New England loses to Miami.

Miami (8-7) — The Dolphins can be a wild card if they beat New England, and Kansas City, the Raiders, Cincinnati and Seattle lose next weekend.

AFC Central

Cleveland (11-4) — The Browns have clinched the division title. If they beat San Diego next Sunday they will play at home throughout the playoffs. Regardless, Cleveland will host a first-round playoff game Jan. 3 or Jan. 4.

Cincinnati (9-6) — The Bengals can earn a wild card if they beat the Jets and Kansas City loses to Pittsburgh, or if Cincinnati and Kansas City win and New England loses to Miami.

AFC West

Denver (11-4) — The Broncos have clinched the division title. They can secure the home field throughout the playoffs if they beat Seattle Saturday and Cleveland loses to San Diego.

Kansas City (9-6) — The Chiefs will clinch a wild card if they beat Pittsburgh Sunday. If they beat Cincinnati, Seattle, Raiders and Miami.

Seattle (9-6) — For the Seahawks to be a wild card they must beat Denver Saturday, and at least two of the following three: Kansas City, Cincinnati and New England must lose.

LA Raiders (8-7) — The Raiders can be a wild card if they defeat Indianapolis Sunday and Seattle, Kansas City and Cincinnati all lose.

Jai-Alai Serves Up Final Week Of Action

The Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton begins its final full week of action Monday. The fronton will close its doors with an evening performance Monday, Dec. 29.

Here's a rundown of the final week: Monday, Dec. 22 — matinee and night performances.

Tuesday, Dec. 23 — night only Christmas Eve — closed Christmas Day — night only Friday, Dec. 26 — matinee and night performances.

Saturday, Dec. 27 — matinee and night performances. Sunday, Dec. 28 — closed. Monday, Dec. 29 — night only. (awards and trophies presented).

At the conclusion of the action on the 29th, the players will be going in several different directions. Some, that are contracted to World Jai-Alai, will head toward Tampa for the opening of the season there. The Tampa fronton begins a new season on Jan. 9.

Others will move up to Quincy for the conclusion of the season at the Big Ben Fronton. And still others will call it a season, and return to their homeland for some rest and relaxation until the season resumes in Orlando next fall.

According to Mutuels Manager Jim "Buzz" Bussard, the economy, and the recent decrease on interest rates on auto loans has had a damaging effect on the season.

"Like most other (parimutuel) posts, we're down a little," Bussard said. "I think the biggest reason is the economy. Last year, we were up as far as handle (total money wagered), but almost everyone else was down. That caught us this year, too."

"The car industry hurt us too, I think," Bussard said. "When they (banks and financing companies) dropped the car loans to 2.9 percent, that had to hurt all retail businesses. For the car industry, it was great. It hurts everyone else, though. Because people just don't have the extra money to spend now. I think overall, besides the slight drop in handle, it's been a successful season."

MOVEMENTS — The following players marked the final adjustments that will be made for the season by Player Manager Atano. Falling from the featured players (A) into the middle class were frontcourters Olea and Echano, along with Javier and Tomas in the backcourt. Demoted from middle levels into the lower class were frontmen Charola and Castro and Oriant and Arana.

The eight players that played well enough over the past ten performances to earn upward mobility included Ricardo, Fausto, Irazabal and Aquire who jumped into the featured class. Ricardo and Fausto up front, while the other two filled the vacancies in the backcourts.

Garay and Edwardo worked into the voids in the middle class, jumping up from the "C" division frontcourters, while Mendi and Laca proved to be the cream of the backcourt crops.

INJURIES — Pardo is still sidelined with back problems and is not expected to return before the conclusion of the season. Only one other player is unavailable going into the weekend, that being Anel who is nursing a sore arm. The injury is apparently affecting his right (throwing) shoulder and, according to Bussard, is questionable whether or not he will return either.

WHO'S HOT? — Arra continues to play well in the later stages of the season. During last week's action, Arra stretched his wins lead by collecting 18 first place finishes. Included was an incredible performance during the Wednesday Matinee, when Arra swept the final five games. He managed a first place in each of the singles games and carried his partners to wins in the doubles matches, sporting No. 1's in games 9-13.

For the week, Garay was second in total wins with 12, but was matched by Irazabal who also had 12.

Top Ten Winners (through Friday): 1. Arra — 138, 2. Arca — 103, 3. Fausto — 101, Ruffino — 101, 5. Galla — 97, Zoraga — 97, 7. Tomas — 96, 8.

Mikel — 91, 9. Corky — 90, Echano — 90.

The top winner in the 12th game (featured singles) is Arra with 26 wins for the season. Arra is also the leader in frontcourt wins for the 13th (featured doubles) game. He has paced all front men with 24 wins, while Anel is tops amongst the backcourters with 13 firsts.

CARRYOVERS — The Pic-Six Jackpot sports $19,581 going into the weekend action while the Twin-Trifecta tempts bettors with $22,054 at the conclusion of Friday's action.

SOCK'S 52 — While the Jai-Alai season winds down, Jerry Collins is cranking up for his 52nd season at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club, near Longwood. Collins, the "Grandfather of Greyhound Racing," opens the chutes Friday, Dec. 26 with an evening performance. The annual Inaugural will be the featured race. SOCK and Jai-Alai will overlap for three dates — Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Reservations may be obtained from SOCK by calling 831-1600.

Television Networks Besech Santa For Christmas Goodies

CHICAGO (UPI) — Santa Claus has been picking up some pretty strange sounds as he merrily prep for his Christmas run next week.

What he is hearing are some requests from the television networks as to what they want for presents underneath the tree next week.

It is more than good ratings and advertising dollars the folks at the major commercial networks and cable companies will be looking toward in Santa's bag of goodies. There are some other things on the wish lists.

Here's a sneak preview as to what they would like gift wrapped on the morning of Dec. 25.

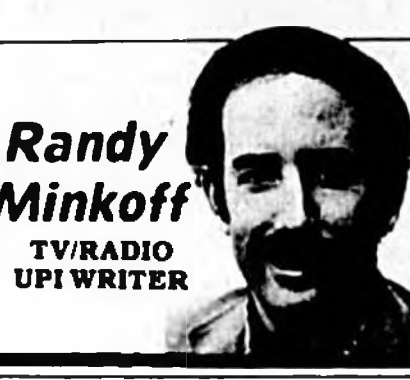

More corporate sponsors for events. The USF&G Sugar Bowl, the Sunbelt Bowl, the Coca Cola NIT Big Apple Classic. These aren't items in the refrigerator. They are the beginning of what the networks hope will be a continued trend toward single corporate sponsorship of events in the coming year.

Single sponsorship makes it easier to sell ads for sports programs. The networks are hoping the beginnings of that trend in the latter half of 1986 carries over during the entire 1987 season.

Games that start and end on time. Ho Ho Ho says the NFL, which has been like Scrooge in having longer and longer games this season. Not only do the games get dull when they surpass the three hour mark, the longer games cause programming nightmares.

CBS can't be thrilled about pushing back its popular "60 Minutes" program toward the 8 p.m. EST mark on Sunday. Local affiliates, particularly in the East and Midwest, aren't thrilled with starting the late news past midnight following marathon night games.

Chandy Minkoff TV/RADIO UPI WRITER

in Los Angeles, New York and Chicago.

Winning teams like the Raiders, Rams, Lakers, Dodgers and Angels; Jets and Giants, Yankees and Mets; and Bears and Bulls are popular items for the networks. The big cities draw the big ratings and the big bucks.

Lower fees for the NFL. The networks don't want to pay those big bucks when the contract is up with the NFL next summer. If Pete Rozelle could just send a gift certificate or a card at the holidays saying the 28 NFL teams won't want as much as they did on Christmas Day five years ago, things would go much smoother come contract time.

Scrooge hasn't seen anything like what the bosses at the networks are talking to like when it comes to talking to their next summer.

Continued rise of popularity of college basketball. This is just about on everyone's holiday shopping list. All three networks, for the first time, are televising a national game of the week on the weekends this year.

ESPN has banked a considerable amount of energy and money on college basketball; so have some of the smaller, regional cable companies.

More outspoken color commentators. They are the ones who make the telecast of a dull game worth watching. They make entertainment out of predictability.

Even if the game is a blowout, listening to a Dick Vitale, John Madden, Al McGuire or Beano Cook can hook the watcher for the rest of the game.

The remaining personalities like those guys don't come over night. Development of more of these types — there's hope in the likes of a Dan Dierdorf or a Paul Maguire — is something all the networks would like to see.

The rest of the weekend fare (all times EST):

West Orange used Pollard's 10 first-quarter points to take a 21-14 lead. The lead was cut to 31-27 at the half.

The Cougars' Matt Brecher brought them back, scoring eight first half points, seven of which came in the second quarter. Geiger led the way for Countryside with 12 points and Brecher added 11 as point guard Bob Heintz chipped in eight.

"It was the same as last night," Heintz said about a hard-fought victory over Gadsdenville Buchholz. "Only we didn't get the breaks and they (West Orange) hit their foul shots."

The Cougars, now 7-1, will take on Oviedo, 7-1, in the consolation bracket.

In the day's opener, Auburndale held off a late comeback surge by Kissimmee Gateway, winning, 60-56, to up its record to 3-2.

John Beverage and Winston Turner led the way for the Bloodhounds with 13 points apiece, Terrance Barber added 12 and Michael Jackson tallied seven.

Reinaldo Cortez led Gateway with a game-high 23 points and Brecher added 11 as point guard Matt Thomas added 10.

White Christmas, Florida Style

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Numb veterans of Northern winters have been known to utter a few unholo words for that dreaded wet and white blanket called snow.

It falls in thick torrents. It blows in blizzards and blasts of icy air that sting the face and redden the nose. It makes people slip and cars slide, often into each other. And it makes the back sore — with each soggy shovelful.

But some sun-kissed folks in south Florida are willing to pay $400 and more just to play in the cold stuff.

"It is very popular," says Doyle Watson of Royal Palm City Ice Inc., a Miami-based firm that rents a machine that gobbles blocks of ice whole and spits out snow.

"It's very exciting. They can play in it, throw snowballs, slide, whatever they want to do it," he said.

The gas-driven machine is 8 feet long and 3 feet high with a plastic hose 15 feet long and 4 inches in diameter sticking out of it.

At winter parties, a worker feeds 300-pound blocks of ice into a maw-like opening. The machine, which is carried to events on the back of a truck, turns patches of south Florida's hot and balmy December into a temporary winter wonderland.

"It grinds it up into little pieces about the size of the tip of your little finger and blows it out," Watson said.

Royal Palm supplies businesses — commercial fishing places, convenience stores, supermarkets — with ice, some of which is crushed by the machine, year-round. The snow-making service is generally offered during the holidays for people who want a white Christmas under the palms.

Royal Palm charges $80 for each ton of ice crushed for snow, with a minimum order of five tons.

"It's just blown out on lawns, driveways, parking lots or wherever they ask for it to be," Watson said.

The machine is rented for "snow parties" sponsored by cities, schools, charities and other businesses who try to bring a hint of the familiar winter scenes to a region where temperatures rarely dip below 40.

Megabank, a Miami-based bank, held a celebration called Miami Ice complete with four tons of man-made snow to help open a branch in South Miami, said manager Carolyn Greaves.

"Christmas is coming and I happen to be a ski buff," she said. "It just seemed like an awfully good idea, for the kids. We were hoping to get some of the Christmas spirit going."

Officials in the city of Hollywood, Fla., hired the company for a children's Christmas gala Dec. 6 at a downtown park that was to include snow made in a sub-tropical breeze amid blooming flowers and swaying palms.

But rain canceled the snow party.

"It was a deluge," said Irene Devin, city recreation superintendent.

That disappointed her. She fondly recalls the city's last snow party about eight years ago. "I just love watching the faces of the kids," she said.

Children who grew up believing in Santa Claus as the jolly man in a red suit who traveled with reindeer through the snow — but had never seen or felt the real thing — got cold and wet for one brief, glorious time, she said.

"They didn't expect to get cold. They didn't expect to get wet. The little ones cried."

She remembers they were a bit confused by the fluffy white mountain about four feet high.

"They really don't know what to do with it. They put it in their mouths."

But when they get acclimated, the scene looks like something in a Currier and Ives print — Florida style.

"They tried to make a snowman. They were throwing it. They were climbing on it."

They were, that is, for about a half-hour. A snow mountain in Florida lasts only about as long as an ice cube in a frying pan.

"Then, they were sitting in puddles," Devin recalled.

Cologne For Little Boys

MIAMI (UPI) — Once there were little boys who wouldn't take baths. Now there are little boys who wear cologne.

At least that is Randy Perini's hope. He has developed Gregors, a cologne for "upwardly mobile 3-to-10-year-olds" that he is marketing to today's well-groomed kindergarten.

And as for the boys who think cologne is for sissies, Perini does not remember it that way. He remembers the treat of wearing his father's Old Spice on special occasions as a child. And research for Gregors, he said, showed that "in every situation children are using their parent's cologne."

Andrew Alvarez, 8, disagreed. He sniffed Gregors, which costs $15.50 for less than an ounce, in a children's clothing department, and held his nose.

"Too strong," he said. "It smells like what my father wears."

Chandler Webber, also 8, belongs to the sissy school of thought, dismissing fellow classmates who might wear cologne.

"I would think they were a sissy, because they would be acting like a girl if they wore perfume that smells like a girl."

The pitchman for the first upscale cologne for boys is Perini's 3-year-old nephew, Gregory Thomas, a suave young man dressed in a "Miami Vice" suit and Italian sandals who leans against a miniature Mercedes Benz 500SL before a sunset over Biscayne Bay in an advertisement for the fragrance.

Gregory, who attends nursery school in suburban Miami Shores, also plays tennis, goes yachting and treats a young lady, appropriately dressed in white lace and pearls, to an ice cream sundae in photographs accompanying the bottle.

Cindy Prather, director of publicity for Burdines, the Florida department store chain where Gregors first appeared recently, says boys who wear cologne are emulating their fathers.

"It's something exclusively designed for kids and they know Daddy can't use it," she said.

The cologne, which Perini describes as a blend of vetiver with a fresh citrus accord of lemon and bergamot and a delicate nuance of lavender, is also sold at I. Magnin of California. Bullocks of Los Angeles, Macy's in Atlanta and Ivey's of North Carolina.

At the Burdines branch in the affluent Miami suburb of Kendall, salesman Jose Lopez says he is selling about six or seven bottles a day, mostly to parents and relatives who are buying the cologne as presents.

Perini admits that he is taking a business gamble with a cologne for boys.

Two New Americans

Geneva artist Benini, who became a naturalized American citizen Monday, holds another new American, by birth six-weeks ago, Richard Carter deTreville. Baby deTreville, the son of Rick and Brenda Carter deTreville of Orlando, was the youngest of about 100 friends who surprised Benini at a Sunday afternoon party celebrating the new new citizenship of this native of Italy. The fete, hosted by Benini's wife Lorraine, was at their Lake Harney home and fireworks and a "God Bless America," singing telegram, plus a balloon bouquet helped mark the occasion. Mrs. deTreville is formerly of Sanford.

Parenting Matters

Celebrate Joys Of Love During Holiday Season

At this time of year our thoughts turn to love and to children as we celebrate Christmas. It is a time to honor the renewed feeling of love and to observe the traditional rituals of sharing. Families participate in the spiritual meaning of the holiday: love and its components — understanding, kindness and patience. Children eagerly anticipate the long-awaited season. For them it is a time of affirmation of a renewed love; a hope that is born again and again each December 25.

However, statistics regarding American children reveal that far too many do not share in this spirit of love. The dilemma is rather numbing when one considers the crime, drugs, academics, attitudes, emotional disturbances and so forth that exist today. Even more disheartening is the growing number of adults who are relinquishing their parenting roles. It is a common and frequent occurrence in Seminole County that the state is requested to take charge of children whom parents generally love but are no longer willing to tolerate.

As our society searches for solutions, additional options are explored. More live-in arrangements are established, and designed programs based on behavior modification techniques are presented. "Tough-Love" is called for in some drug rehabilitation centers. An attorney friend recently suggested to me that whippings in court would be effective. A loud cry for punishment-oriented discipline is always prevalent.

In attempting to assess what has gone wrong, the very basic nature of human development must be addressed. Studies have confirmed that young humans will die if nurturing is withheld. If follows that a negative outcome will also be the disposition for those who do not receive an adequate or appropriate amount of love. What has gone wrong is actually quite simple. Our children do not feel loved. Instead, they feel deprived of consistent positive discipline and unconditional love. How could this be when parents do indeed care for their children?

Parenting Matters

By Mary Mize

My theory is that many parents do not know how to convey their love, nor provide positive discipline. Until we learn to give our young ones what they so desperately need, and what ought to be their heritage, all will suffer.

How do we convince children that we love them? Direct and undivided attention. The child should feel no doubt that he is completely valued, unique, and the most important person in the world in his parents' eyes. The degree to which this specialness is conveyed determines how a child views his world and himself. To build self-esteem translates into spending time alone with children. Finding this crucial time is the single factor which separates the excellent parents from the others. It is the price we must pay for our children to feel cherished.

Providing loving discipline will become easier for the parents who spend time with the children. They will feel more comfortable about their role and come to understand the nature and needs of children. "Discipline" tends to elicit images of parents punishing children. On the contrary, the purpose of discipline should be to guide children for an acceptable behavior and to teach them to make prudent and responsible decisions.

Given a preference, the vast majority of parents would opt to have the best imaginable rapport with their children. Relationships can be altered so that unconditional love is the foundation. The immortal hymn to love in I Corinthians demonstrates love's power. "Love is patient and kind ... love is not ill-mannered, or selfish, or irritable; love does not keep a record of wrongs; ... Love never gives up..."

Riding High

The Sky's The Limit For Sanford's First Mounted Police Patrolman—A Woman

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

"They say there's nothing like a pretty girl on a pretty horse," said Sanford police officer Donna Cameron, Sanford's first mounted police patrolman.

But besides looking sharp in the saddle with her traditional wide-brimmed Moun-tie-style hat and riding pants, Ms. Cameron, who is almost 6-feet tall, said being on horseback makes her 10-foot tall. That gives her an advantage when it comes to spying criminals. And they can also see her, which may make them change their mind about a planned purse snatch or vehicle burglary in downtown Sanford.

Criminals, she said, may think they can outrun a foot patrolman, but they generally know they aren't going to be able to outrun a horse.

Since 32-year-old Ms. Cameron and Traveling Arapaho, "Rappy," her 10-year-old Appolossa gelding, began pounding a beat together Dec. 3, Ms. Cameron, a Sanford police officer for three years, has had the ideal job. They haven't chased any criminals, but have been watching over the elderly downtown, especially on days government checks are issued and cashed.

Ms. Cameron said she's also kept busy by those who need directions and has seen a need to add to her gear the items to write tickets and deal with other traffic related problems.

"I like this because I'm a people person," she said. "I like people and in the car people don't tend to come up to you. With the horse they flock to you. People will speak to you that have never spoken to a police officer."

"They'll say, 'Well, it's about time.' Or, 'When I was a kid in New York we had the police horses up there and I'm so glad to see this here.'" And some people just like to have the opportunity to see a horse, she said.

That is especially true of children. She expects Rappy will be spoiled by the attention he gets. Most children want to pet him and she has to explain that just as in a police patrol car, rides on a police horse are out of the question.

She finds that she is becoming a role model, especially for little girls. She's already heard little girls pledge that they are going to be mounted police officers when they grow up.

Ms. Cameron said she's also going to have to get a program together, because she is being asked to bring Rappy to visit Brownie troops and other children's groups.

Rappy, who had never before been in a situation like his downtown-in-traffic duty, seems to enjoy it. Ms. Cameron said. "He likes the kids. He'll stand like a statue for a child."

He has adapted well to traffic, but still takes a long, hard look at cement trucks and some gear-grinding semis.

On walks to and from the police station, she said, Rappy always gravitates to the fence of a day care center where he has learned he will get petted by youngsters.

One elderly lady "wants to try to feed him everything. Today it was graham crackers. And he won't eat anything he doesn't like, of course," Ms. Cameron said.

"It's like living and working at Disney World," said this competitive trail rider, who bought her first horse when she got her first job as a teenager in Winter Park. But she said she's really anxious for a chance to chase down a criminal.

She has reflective bands for Rappy's feet, which means he could work at night, maybe to patrol shopping malls. They have no set route. "I could just pop up anywhere. The chief (Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett) told me the sky's the limit. I'm trying to stay downtown for now. I think that's a good target area," Ms. Cameron said.

Rappy is Ms. Cameron's own, and he is on loan to the Sanford Police Department until a suitable horse is found for the department to buy, or one is donated. Each work day Ms. Cameron trailers Rappy to and from their DeBary home where she also has another horse and where she raises dogs.

If Ms. Cameron, who began her police work with a 3-year stint as a dispatcher, hadn't become a police officer, she would have probably continued her earlier work as a horse groom and trainer with a special interest in harness racers. If her grades in high school had been better, she said she might have become a veterinarian since she has always loved animals.

The ideal police patrol horse, she said, would be a 16-hand, bay gelding, a Morgan or a quarter horse. "He doesn't have to be purebred, just a big bay horse with a quiet disposition."

She would train the horse. "There are probably some things he's not going to know how to do, but I can teach him," Ms. Cameron said. Ideally within the next year, Sanford police, she said, will have a force of two or three mounted police officers.

The program is being developed as Ms. Cameron works in the field. She's picking up tips from the Orlando Police Department which has had a mounted patrol for several years, she said.

However, none of her fellow Sanford officers have expressed envy over her new position. "I think some of them may be afraid of horses," she said.

Rappy, owned by Ms. Cameron since he was four years old, stepped into the job on a temporary basis with no training needed. His endurance, the ability to work an 8-hour patrol shift, had already been proven, on competitive trail rides of from 25 to 100 miles in Florida national forests.

"That's my sport," Ms. Cameron said. It has also conditioned her to be able to spend her workday in the saddle. She's ready for hot or rainy weather, and said, Rappy too, should take the weather in stride, since he's in good shape.

"Let it rain. We're going to get wet sooner or later," she said.

Area Students To Model In Milan, Italy

Rene Miville, top agent and photographer from New York and Milan, Italy was in Orlando recently at the John Robert Powers Agency (Powers Model Management) looking for new faces to film for the Look Agency, Beatrice Models, Fashion Models, My Models and Why Not Models (the largest agencies in Italy). While in the area, Miville appeared on the Carol Nelson and the Martie Salt television shows. According to Paula Hogue director of John Robert Powers, Altamonte Springs. "The results were amazing; therefore, the agency has re-scheduled Rene for another filming and photo shooting planned for February."

This filming once again will be viewed by each of these agencies in Italy and models accepted will fly to Milan to work in the modeling field. Sharon Hogue, Agency Director of Powers Model Management, states "This is a first for Orlando as well as the United States — what a chance for these models to be promoted directly into the Italian modeling market."

Donna Peele, 16, of Longwood and Vhonda Strickland, 15, of Eustis have been accepted by the Look Agency of Milan. Paul Kopp, who heads this Milan Agency will be flying into Orlando the first week of January for a personal screening/interview with Donna and Vhonda.

Donna, a graduate of John Robert Powers Modelling School in Altamonte Springs, is a junior at Lake Mary High School. Vhonda, also a graduate of John Robert Powers, is a 10th grade honor student at Eustis High School. Donna and Vhonda also plan to compete at the Modeling Association of America International, Inc. convention to be held in New York City in April, 1987 where they will be judged in competitions by all the top modeling agencies of New York and Europe.

weeks on mounted patrol Ms. Cameron said she lost five pounds and she hopes to lose about 20 more.

She did ask for her tradition Mountie hat to keep the sun off her neck and face. And besides it's fun to look the part.

Her 7-year-old daughter Andrea now has something to brag about at school, Ms. Cameron said. The rest of her family also think she has a great job.

For her it's a dream come true. When she knew Harriett was going to initiate the program and she had been tapped to kick it off, "I got so excited I couldn't wait for it to start," Ms. Cameron said.

However, there's more to her patrol with Rappy than pleasant duty and public relations.

"It's a high visibility, extended, foot patrol. I can cover a lot of ground on that horse and see more and hear more than you could just yourself out there walking. People with a problem are more likely to stop me."

And what does Ms. Cameron do when she's off duty? She goes home and rides her other horse. "I could ride all the time, 24 hours a day seven days a week," she said.

Theatre Calls Auditions

Auditions for the Seminole Community College Fine Arts Theatre production of George Bernard Shaw's Arms and the Man will be held in the Fine Arts Theatre Tuesday, Jan. 6 at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday, Jan. 7 at 2:30 and 7:30 p.m.

Roles for seven actors, four males and three females of varying ages will be filled by students and community members. For information contact James A. Packard at the Seminole Community College Fine Arts Theatre, 323-1450 or 843-7001, extension 398. Seminole Community College will be closed from Dec. 19 through Jan. 4.

Production dates are planned for Feb. 18 through Feb. 22.

Cheerleaders Capture First Place In Regional Contest

Lake Mary High School's Varsity Cheerleaders have just returned from the National Cheerleaders Association regional competition in Fort Lauderdale where they captured first place. The girls are particularly thrilled because it is the first cheerleading trophy ever to be won for Lake Mary High School.

"We really worked hard," said Captain Megan Arnold, "we practiced our routines for three months, but it was worth it."

Their faculty sponsor, Mrs. Lisle, added that this win was due in part to organized and intense physical conditioning by the entire team. This extra strength allowed the cheerleaders to perform partner stunts and difficult pyramids.

Judy and Roger Fontenot hosted an Author's Tea on Dec. 3 at their lovely Sweetwater Club home. Guests of honor were Eve Krupinski and Dana Weikel co-authors of Death From Child Abuse and No One Heard.

Christine Crosby, president of Currier-Davis Publishing, introduced the authors and those in attendance who were experts on the horrors of child abuse. Dr. Kay Holt, Director of Child Psychology at Laurel Oaks Hospital, spoke on abuse from a psychological and medical view. Sergeant Beau Taylor, Seminole County Sheriff's Department, explained how cases of child abuse are handled by the law.

Ms. Crosby presented Shirley Schilke a plaque from the H.E.A.T. (Help End Abuse Today) organization for her community service work against child abuse.

Rock Lake Middle School math students again participated in a math-a-thon to benefit St. Jude Children's Research Hospital. Under the direction of eighth grade math teacher, Maria Gerrity, the students raised $9,400.

Fred Adam of Sandy Hill Drive in Longwood is the recipient of a $300 check from Reader's Digest for an anecdote submitted to this magazine. His contribution appears in the December issue under "All In A Day's Work."

As a new middle school, Greenwood Lakes students competed, for their first time, in The National Knowledge Master Open. This contest is a computerized test that challenges students to compete with their peers nationwide in an extraordinary academic effort. Students volunteered and on their first appearance as a school team, placed twelfth in the state of Florida. This team was comprised of mostly eighth graders, but also had some members from the sixth and seventh grade. These Seminole County students were required to answer very difficult questions on all subjects that were sent on a computer disk the day of competition.

Also from Greenwood Lakes, Brea Spertl, a sixth grader, placed second in the 4-H Tropicana Public Speaking Contest. Over 600 Seminole County students were required to present several speeches before a panel of judges.

Attention senior citizens: If Christmas feasting puts on unwanted pounds. Seniorobics is for you. Beginning Jan. 6, the aerobic class will be held from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays at West Lake Hospital's gym. There will be 55 minutes of low-impact aerobic exercise. Included in this is a 10 minute warm-up, 15 minute aerobic session, 25 minute floor workout and a 5 minute cool down period.

Seniorobics is taught by Carol Staack, R. N., a certified aerobic instructor specializing in exercise for seniors. She has taught at area health spas, and is currently a nurse at West Lake Hospital's Senior Adult Unit.

Seniorobics is free of charge. All that is required from you is a medical consent form from your physician to participate. It is a great way to shape up, slim down and feel better. It is a fun exercise. Wheelchair seniors are also invited.

R.S.V.P. to 834-0900 or 260-1900 ext. 102. West Lake Hospital is located at 589 West S.R. 434 in Longwood.

Dana Sorvas of Longwood and a student at Lake Mary High School was one of 99 outstanding students invited to the University of Alabama for its Third Annual Honors Symposium. Students who were chosen for this 1986 symposium had to meet one of several criteria. They must have a 25 or higher ACT score, be an honor scholarship recipient, or be recommended by a high school counselor.

The program included an address by Lee R. Summerlin, Ph.D., professor of chemistry and recipient of UAB's 1986 Ingalls Award for Outstanding Teaching. Dr. Summerlin's talk, "The Inquiring Mind," was followed by a panel discussion featuring UAB students and faculty.

The symposium concluded with a dinner in the Great Hall of University Center with entertainment by Alabama's University Pop Singers.

Aloha, Hawaii, Here Come 5 Superstars From Seminole

By Carol Gentry
Herald Correspondent

Snorkeling in Hanauma Bay, sunbathing on Waikiki Beach, and moonlight sailing in the Pacific Ocean are just a small part of five Seminole County young ladies' Christmas vacation plans.

By being selected as high school Superstar Drill Team or Spiritleader winners, they will take part in the parade, pregame, and halftime festivities of this year's Aloha Bowl in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Lake Marionette members, Missy Jeanneret, Linda Grant, and Bev Schuler; Lake Mary High School cheerleader, Amy Adams; and Sarah Loomas from Seminole High School's dance team. Dazzlers, will be among the 152 girls invited to participate in this event.

Many exciting excursions are planned for them during their stay in Hawaii. A snorkeling trip to Hanauma Bay, tours of Iolani palace and the University of Hawaii, a cruise of Pearl Harbor's "Battleship Memorial Row", the Moana Polynesian Review featuring a view into ancient Polynesian culture, and dining on the ocean in replicas of native voyaging canoes are some adventures the girls will experience.

This trip will not be all leis and luau's. Participants have a rigorous schedule of morning and evening practices in order to learn dances, drills, and cheers. One hundred and fifty two "strangers" have just seven days to perfect routines and become a well-oiled team that will perform before large crowds and a nationwide television audience.

Amy Adams is the only Seminole County Cheerleader to be invited to attend. She will participate as a member of the Aloha Bowl Spiritleaders. Amy received this honor because of her selection as "All-American Cheerleader" by the National Cheerleaders Association. She won this title after a grueling week of competition in August at a NCA cheerleading camp in Wildwood. As a Spiritleader, Amy will cheer throughout the game to elicit enthusiasm from the crowd as well as performing in other events.

Drill and dance team members were chosen from a group of 450 who attended a dance and drill team camp sponsored by the Superstar Organization based in Texas. This camp, held in August at Rollins College, attracted competitors from all 50 states. The highlight of their performance will be a Grand Finale at the conclusion of the 1980's Aloha Bowl halftime show.

These young ladies worked very hard for this honor. Their individual high schools and Seminole County are very proud of their achievements. The Aloha Bowl will be televised in this area on Dec. 27 at 4:00 p.m. by Channel 9 (ABC).

'Little Shop' Has Real Bite

By Robert DiMatteo
LITTLE SHOP OF HORRORS (PG-13) First, a 1960 Roger Corman grade-Z horror flick, then an early-'80s Howard Ashman-Alan Menken off-Broadway musical, this quirky tale of a nerd florist whose man-eating plant brings him fame and customers returns to the screen in musical form. The result is the funniest and liveliest movie musical in a long time. (Not that there's been much competition.) Surprisingly well-directed by Frank Oz (Yoda in "The Empire Strikes Back"), this "Little Shop" is a blend of schlock, kitsch, camp and — the fusing element — early rock 'n' roll romanticism.

The essence of the production is Ellen Greene's delicious performance as the ditzy blonde salesgirl who falls for the nerd florist. Re-creating her off-Broadway triumph, Greene is a bruised, Betty Boop-voiced sex kitten. Her performance is a miraculous union of parody and pathos, beauty and buffoonery. As the nerd, Rick Moranis might be extending the character he played in "Ghostbusters." The ever-growing, carnivorous plant is a special-effects delight created by "animatronics" expert Lyle Conway, and bearing the drop-dead soulful vocal cords of Four Tops singer Levi Stubbs.

When Steve Martin appears as Greene's sadistic dentist/biker boyfriend, the already energetic movie gets a jolt of comic electricity. Martin's scene with Bill Murray (playing a masochist who loves to have his teeth drilled) is the high point of the film — hysterically funny looniness with, shall we say, a real bite to it. GRADE: 3½ stars.

NO MERCY (R) One of those nasty, spiky contemporary thrillers (like "Manhunter" and "8 Million Ways to Die") that are showcases for directorial style and dark, fashionable cinematography. The surprise here is that the director showing his flair for erotic-tinged violence is none other than Richard Pearce, maker of the earnest, homiletic "Country."

Richard Gere, in his best performance since "An Officer and a Gentleman," plays a tough Chicago cop avenging the death of his partner. The trail leads to Louisiana bayou country — and into the arms of the killer's Cajun moll (Kim Basinger, that purveyor of sweaty, pouty sexiness). Jeroen Krabbe makes a scary and kinky nemesis, and the camera work is full of sensuous shadows and seamy surfaces. But the mannered brutality and meanness grow irritating. GRADE: 2 stars.

New Home Videos
DESERT BLOOM (PG) RCA/Columbia Pictures Home Video, $79.95. This 1986 first feature-film by Eugene Corr is heavy on structure and symbolism, with perhaps too-clear ties to the theater and the literary memoir form. But the structure pays off, and the movie — a portrait of a 13-year-old girl and her family in Las Vegas, on the eve of an A-bomb test in the early '50s — has both poetry and power.

Corr sees post-World War II American society and its traumas — the aftereffects of war, anxiety about the bomb, the rising divorce rate and the breakdown of the traditional family — through the eyes of a sensitive and resilient teenager (Annabeth Gish). There are expert performances by Jon Voight, Jolbet Williams and Ellen Barkin, and the period details are apt and witty. GRADE: 3 stars.

THE TRIP TO BOUNTIFUL (PG) Embassy cassette, $79.95. One of playwright/screenwriter Horton Foote's Southern sermons (others include "Tender Mercies" and "Tomorrow"), this late-1985 release earned Geraldine Page a Best Actress Oscar. Page has a field day with the role of Carrie Watts, a hymn-singing old woman with a bad heart who yearns to return to her hometown before she dies. GRADE: 2 stars½.

(Film grading: 4 stars — excellent, 3 stars — good, 2 stars — fair, 1 star — poor).

Parties Celebrate The Holiday Season

There are parties and then, there are more parties. But the Christmas celebration at Manor House was the party of parties.

Host and hostess Don and Jan Bauerle rolled out the red Christmas carpet for their associates and friends last Saturday night. And it was a glittering gala, if there ever was one...Christmas lights twinkling in all directions, lavish decorations, but most of all, hospitality reigned supreme at Manor House, the couple's luxurious mansion in Sanford.

Some exquisite fashions showed up. Jan greeted the guests wearing a gold and black ensemble. Tammy Shoemaker arrived in a gold metallic gown. Gloria Briggs chose a gold top and black pants. Irene Brown wore a white lace frock with a long torso. And there were many others...just beautiful.

Guests "ooohed" and "aahed" as they mingled about the elegantly appointed rooms in the showplace home...shades of Tara from "Gone With the Wind." Although a chill was in the air, the family room, featuring an open bar, opened onto the pool and patio area where guests could eat, drink and be merry in the complete warmth of the ever so festive occasion.

The spacious dining room was the setting for a Christmas buffet spread when guests served themselves from a delicious variety of holiday food items. Other tables held tempting desserts.

were scattered throughout the music room where the guests reveled in luxury.

But that's not all. Big Band Era music was provided by the Starlighters composed of Nick Pfeiffauf, Lee Wheeler, Bill Martin and Paul Holderbaum. According to Wheeler, Jan and Don bid on the Starlighters at a recent auction for Central Florida Zoo. And weren't the revelers glad? In the midst of all the Christmas camaraderie, Don is already absorbed with plans for the American Cancer Society's 125 benefit, which the Bauerles will host again this year. Bravo to Jan and Don.

The Sanford Lions Club met for its Christmas banquet and party at the Cavalier Restaurant. President Phil Cottone presided as the master of ceremonies. Organ music was provided with Lynn and George Francis leading in a sing-along of Christmas carols.

During the evening Cottone presented two awards. Mayor Bettye Smith received the club's Humanitarian Award for her recent stand favoring senior citizens who were ordered evicted from the elder care facilities where they lived by the Code Enforcement Board. Cottone indicated the club members admired the spunk the mayor showed in the interest of the elderly women involved.

"This writer received the club's "Reporter of the Year" award. Lions brought gifts to the party which were delivered to the Christian Sharing Center.

With Christmas behind us next week, Cupid will be right on target in February when Central Florida Regional Hospital and the Sanford Campaign Committee of the American Heart Association host a luncheon and fashion show, "Have a Heart and Swing Into Spring." The event promises to be be extra-special. More information later.

Man Casts No Second Glance At Any Woman Wearing Pants

DEAR ABBY: I do not enjoy looking at women who wear pants — especially the polyester kind. I am an old-fashioned man, who wants to be able to tell the difference between men and women, front or back. Men are not allowed to dress like women in public, but women are allowed to dress like men. This is unfair.

In the first place, very few women look good in pants — and the ones who look the worst in them are the ones who insist on wearing them.

When I date a woman who shows up in slacks, I would not embarrass her by asking her to change. After all, she dresses to please herself, and I have no right to tell her to change to suit me, so I just do not ask her out again. No explanation necessary.

Perhaps other readers also have feelings that should be aired. And how do you feel about it?

AL IN SANTA BARBARA

DEAR AL: You're being both foolish and unfair for summarily writing a woman off without telling her the reason is because she showed up in pants on the first date!

A quality woman would appreciate knowing in order to (a) change, or (b) write you off.

DEAR ABBY: My wife flashed your article on the aggressive male driver under my nose, and you played judge and jury after hearing only her side of it.

Suppose I tell you that my wife is a backseat driver, and for 40 years she has been a nervous wreck in every car she rides in. She claims she is a better driver than me, but she refuses to drive because she's afraid of criticism.

She tells me how fast to drive, what lane to use and when to turn. She always asks me questions such as, "Why is that motorcycle so close to us?" and, "Why is that truck in our lane?" Also, "Why are you speeding?" (I am doing 56 miles an hour in a 55-mile zone.) She keeps turning the air conditioning on and off, while making the windows go up and down.

She's always yelling, "Look out!" "Be careful!" "Watch it!" "Did you see that car?" She is driving me bananas!

Now I ask you, who needs counseling?

HASSLED HUSBAND

DEAR HASSLED: You both should sit down with a family counselor and learn how to fight fair. Be up-front with your backseat driver and let her know before you turn the key that she is not to warn, direct or "help" you drive.

And your wife needs to learn how to relax and control the urge to "help" you.

A 40-year-old habit is not easy to break, but my readers tell me that it can be done, and their only regret is that they didn't start sooner.

DEAR ABBY: When is an in-law out?

My daughter was married and had two children. She divorced the father of her children and married a second time. Meanwhile her first husband married again, too. My daughter had no children with her second husband, whom she divorced after four years to marry another man. She had no children with her third husband either, whom she later divorced.

Last year my daughter died. Am I still a mother-in-law to any of the men my daughter married?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: No. When your daughter ended her marriages, the legal relationship with your sons-in-law ended.

DEAR ABBY: My husband's barber, a 40-year-old divorced woman, has invited my husband to her birthday party — for men only!

I am outraged. What do you think?

HIS WIFE

DEAR WIFE: You are over-reacting out of sheer insecurity. There's safety in numbers, so curb your outrage lest you give them both ideas.

YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 21, 1986

In the year ahead, more than ever before, knowledge and expertise that you have acquired through personal experience will serve you. What you know could make you rich.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't get in your own way today, because Lady Luck might work out something profitable for you. Major changes are ahead for Sagittarius in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Circumstances in general look favorable for you today. All of your activities should run smoothly and give you ample reasons to smile.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You should do quite well in your commercial endeavors today, especially if you are doing business with persons who are born under the signs of Virgo and Capricorn.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your unselfish intentions will inspire you to do nice things for others today. However, when the final results are tallied, you'll be the one who derives the most good.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Someone you know socially could be of considerable help to you today where your career hopes are concerned. He is an older person who has your interests at heart.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you are planning a social activity today, it should turn out to be more fun if you schedule it for the afternoon or evening rather than for the early hours.

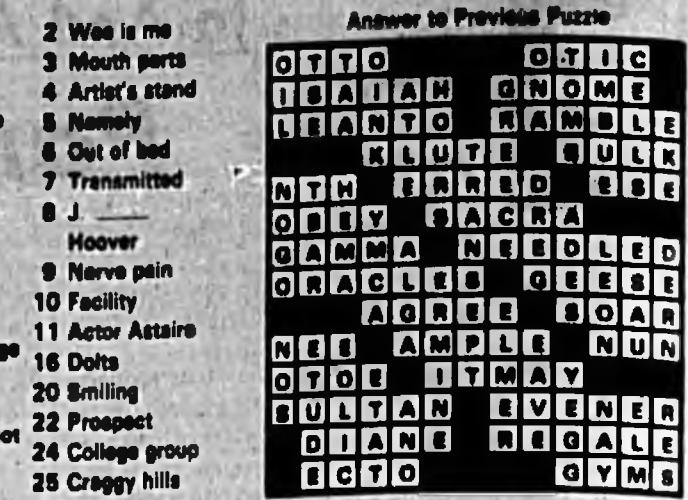

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friend may make some arrangements for you today that have profitable potential. You'd be wise to get on them right away.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, companions will be luckier for you than you are for yourself. Don't put up any barriers if someone wishes to do you a favor.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You will be lucky for yourself as well as for loved ones regarding material needs today. Be sure to capitalize on all possibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Things should work out quite fortunately for you if you follow through on your hunches today, especially in the romance department.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material benefits will be coming your way through a channel that is not presently visible. They will originate from a related source.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A situation in which you are currently involved, over which you don't have total control, is soon going to make a considerable contribution to your popularity.

YOUR BIRTHDAY DECEMBER 22, 1986

Your prospects look very encouraging for the year ahead, provided you don't attempt too many ventures simultaneously. Weed out anything that wastes time or money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You might not be as persevering as you should when following through on your plans today, but don't toss in the towel when confronted by your first obstacle. Major changes are ahead for Capricorns in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Be wary in commercial involvements today if you're offered something on the side for going along with the deal. This type of sweetening could turn sour.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Don't do anything in defiance of your better judgment today, especially where your career is concerned. Ignoring your common sense is asking for problems.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A task you've been dodging because of its difficulty will be just as tough for the person what you have in hand.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a possibility that you might not take as firm a stance as you should on an important issue today. Fence-sitting could generate additional complications.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best not to talk too freely about a confidential matter to a friend who has a problem keeping secrets. Everything you tell her might end up on the newswire.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You're very easily put upon by friends today. Assist where you can, but don't assume responsibilities that they can take care of on their own.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be mindful of your behavior today so you don't alienate allies. Try to keep their interests and needs on a par with your own.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Holding up aces in a no-trump contract is a basic strategy with which all of us are familiar. How about in suit contracts? Although it may not be as easy to see, holding up an ace at the first lead of the suit may be crucial to success. H.W. Kelsey cited this example in a recent publication.

When the king of diamonds was led, declarer could see that he had work to do. He also needed a bit of luck. He decided that diamonds were not likely to split 5-1, so he played low from dummy at trick one. From that point on, he could not be beaten.

He won the diamond continuation with the ace, cashed the ace of clubs and came to his hand with the spade ace. Next he ruffed the jack of clubs and came to his hand with the spade king, happily noting the fall of the queen. He cashed the club king, discarding a heart, and played a heart. There was no problem anymore. Since West had passed as dealer, he could not hold the ace of hearts along with his K-Q-J of diamonds and queen of spades, so declarer played the nine of hearts and East could do no more than cash two heart tricks. The king of hearts was a parking place for the losing diamond, and the contract was made.

Needless to say, if declarer had rushed to take his diamond ace at the first trick, the contract would have had to fail.

Sanford Herald, Sanford, Fl. Sunday, Dec. 21, 1986—9C

Area Churches Schedule Special Christmas Eve Services

• Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Fourth Street and Park Avenue, Sanford, will celebrate a Christmas Eucharist at 7 p.m. Wednesday with a special sermon for young people and music by children. At 10:45 there will be a service featuring the music of Christmas followed by the Christ-Mass at 11:30 p.m. A Parish Christmas Decorating Party will be held at 7 p.m. Tuesday and caroling for shut-ins. There will be no liturgies on Christmas Day, but on Friday, St. Stephen's Day, at 7 p.m., there will be Holy Eucharist with carols.

• The annual Christmas Eve Candlelight Service and observance of the Lord's Supper will be held Wednesday at 6:30 p.m. at Oviedo First Baptist Church, at state roads 426 and 434.

• A Christmas Eve Candlelight Service with a Communion Service will be held at the Sanford Congregational Christian Church, 2401 S. Park Ave., at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday with the Rev. Ed Weber officiating for the Communion portion of the service.

• Community United Methodist Church on U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, will hold Christmas Eve Candlelight Communion services at 6 and 8 p.m. Wednesday. The Chancel Choir will sing at both services and the Children's Chapel Choir will sing at the first service.

• Ascension Lutheran Church, Casselberry, will hold identical candlelight services on Christmas Eve at 7 and 8:30 p.m. and a Christmas Eve Candlelight Communion is scheduled for 11 p.m. On Christmas Day, Thursday, a 10 a.m. service will be conducted. All of these services are open to the public.

• Redeemer Lutheran Church, Sanford, will hold the traditional Christmas Eve Candlelight Service at 8 p.m. on Christmas Eve. Christmas Day Matins is at 10 a.m.

• A Series of Lessons and Carols will be given on Christmas Eve, Wednesday, at First United Methodist Church of Winter Park at 7 and 8:30 p.m. in cooperation with the People for People Concert Series. Music by John Rutter will be performed by the combined church choirs and a 26-piece orchestra. The early service will feature children in the nativity scene. At 11 p.m. the church will celebrate communion in a simple, intimate, peaceful atmosphere.

• The annual Christmas Eve service at First Baptist Church, 1021 New York Ave., Winter Park, will be held at 6 p.m. Wednesday. The service will include carol singing, reading of the Christmas Story and observance of the Lord's Supper.

• Prairie Lake Baptist Church, 415 Ridge Road, Fern Park, will hold a Christmas Eve Candlelight Communion service Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Helpline Counseling Seminar

Central Florida Helpline has announced a new ecumenical Lay Christian Counseling Seminar to begin Thursday, Jan. 22, at Aloma Baptist Church, 2100 N. Semoran Blvd., Casselberry. The seminar is designed to train lay Christian persons in the art of listening and counseling by expressing Christian love through caring, understanding, accepting and helping hurt persons in the community.

The Helpline will become a ministry of crisis intervention and referral to persons in Seminole County as well as Orange, Osceola, and Volusia counties. It is scheduled to open March 15, 1987.

The 50-hour seminar, which will be held in 10 sessions, will cost $50 per person. Pastors, their spouses and full-time church staff will be able to attend free of charge. For more information on the Central Florida Helpline contact Sandra Davis at 657-4489 or write P.O. Box 307, Goldenrod, Fl. 32733.

Carols By Candlelight

A service of carols by candlelight to celebrate the birth of Jesus will be held in the new sanctuary of First Baptist Church, Oviedo, this Sunday at 7:15 p.m.

Grace Choir Sings Cantata

Grace United Methodist Church of Lake Mary will present The Glory of Christmas by Jimmy and Carol Owens this Sunday. The choir will be assisted by members of the congregation in chancel drama and sacred dance.

The service will begin at 10:45 a.m. in the library of Idylwild Elementary School, Villen Road, Sanford. The school is located just off West 25th Street. The choir is under the direction of Ron Williams, the drama is directed by Joan Williams and sacred dance by Cindy Vanzant. Church Pastor William J. Boyer will be the narrator.

Living Nativity

The youth of Ascension Lutheran Church, 351 Ascension Drive, Casselberry, will present "A Living Nativity" this Sunday at 7 p.m. The outdoor performance, including narration, is held by the lake next to the church.

Fireside Discussions

The Baha'is of Seminole County will hold a series of fireside discussions on world peace, unity through diversity, and other aspects of the Baha'i Faith on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. at several area locations. For more information on locations and directions, call Martine Levy at 323-6805.

Christmas Program Set

Sanford Congregational Christian Church, 2401 S. Park Ave., will hold its annual Sunday School Christmas Program this Sunday at 6:30 p.m. A Christ-centered program for all ages will be presented. Santa is scheduled to make a visit.

Christmas Dinner Slated

The Sunday School children of Redeemer Lutheran Church, Sanford, will participate in the worship service this Sunday at 10:30 a.m. Following the service, the annual church Christmas Dinner will be held. Ham will be provided by the church and those attending are asked to bring a salad, vegetable or dessert dish.

'Cradle The King With Praise'

The Adult Choir of Christ United Methodist Church, County Road 427 and Tucker Drive, Sanford, will present Cradle the King with Praise under the direction of Janet Korgan at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday.

'Joseph, The Carpenter'

The Celebration Choir will present the musical drama, Joseph, The Carpenter, this Sunday at 7 p.m. under the Music Ministry of First Baptist Church, 519 Park Ave., Sanford.

Baptists:

Peace Committee Adopts Statements For Reconciliation

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer

After a year-and-a-half of meetings and deliberations, the Southern Baptist Convention's Peace Committee has adopted two statements it believes will provide the foundation for reconciliation in the schismatic 14.4 million-member denomination.

One of the statements deals with theology, the other with denominational politics — the two issues that have bitterly divided the nation's largest Protestant denomination into moderate and fundamentalist camps.

Peace committee Chairman Charles Fuller said the two statements "form the basis for reconciliation" and will be the basis for the committee's report to the convention's Executive Committee when it meets in February.

For nearly a decade the denomination has been the target of a group of well organized fundamentalists who have maintained that moderates in the SBC have adopted a liberal theology with regard to the truthfulness of the Bible.

In addition, the fundamentalists have sought to more closely align the denomination with the religious New Right and to abandon historic Baptist positions on church-state separation by endorsing state-sponsored prayer in the public schools.

The statement on theological reconciliation adopted by the 22-member committee says:

"It is the unanimous conclusion of the Peace Committee that the cause of peace within the Southern Baptist Convention will be greatly enhanced by the affirmation of the whole Bible as being 'not errant in any area of reality.'"

It calls on trustees of the church's boards, agencies and seminaries "to faithfully discharge their responsibility to carefully preserve the doctrinal integrity of our institutions ... and only employ professional staff who believe in the divine inspiration of the whole Bible and that the Bible is 'truth without any mixture of error.'"

In its statement on denominational politics, the Peace Committee said "fairness in the appointive process will contribute to peace."

In recent years, fundamentalists have dominated the convention's presidential election and those presidents have named few fundamentalists to key committees — principally the Committee on Committees and the Committee on Boards — that in turn name trustees and board members for the church's agencies and seminaries.

It called on convention presidents to name committee members "drawn in balanced fashion from the broad spectrum of loyal, cooperative Southern Baptists, representative of the diversity of our denomination."

The Peace Committee also adopted a number of recommendations aimed at cooling tempers and lowering the intensity of political activity among the various factions in the church.

Among the recommendations were calls for the peace committee members — which includes leaders of both the fundamentalist and moderate factions — to abstain from political activity and a call on the leadership of "political constituencies" to abide by the yearlong moratorium on political activity adopted by the denomination at its June 1986 meeting.

Fuller said, however, that adoption of the statements and recommendations does not mean the committee has completed its work on political activity in the church, adding that politics "is now the area where we feel we need to concentrate most in preparing our recommendation to the convention."

Santa Lives, So Does Sun Editorial

Yes, there was a Virginia. And before she died in 1971 at the age of 81, she paid tribute to the virtually forgotten writer for the New York Sun, who penned what may be the world's most famous newspaper editorial.

Back in 1897, Francis Pharellus Church was as unlikely a choice as any to write an answer to 8-year-old Virginia O'Hanlon's question, "Is there a Santa Claus?"

A gruff, no-nonsense type of newspaperman, he had been a war correspondent for The New York Times during the Civil War. He and his wife had no children. As his colleagues recalled, he was unenthused about his assignment.

But Church sat at his desk with Virginia's handwritten letter before him and began to write — never dreaming that the 415 words he wrote would undergo countless reprintings in newspapers and anthologies and be translated into 20 languages.

The editorial he wrote was a reply to a 32-word letter Virginia had written to the Question &

Saints And Sinners

George Plagens

Answer column in the Sun. "Dear Editor," the letter said, "Some of my little friends say there is no Santa Claus. Papa says, 'If you see it in the Sun, it's so.' Please tell me the truth. Is there a Santa Claus?"

In later years, Virginia would tell how she happened to write that letter. She believed in Santa Claus, but when other little boys and girls told her there really was no Santa Claus, she went to her father to ask him.

Her father, a surgeon in New York, was a little evasive on the subject. So she decided to write to the editor of the Sun.

"It was a habit in our family," said Virginia, "that whenever any doubts came up as how to pronounce a word or some question of historical fact was in doubt, we wrote to the Question & Answer column in the Sun."

She now told her father what she proposed to do. The doctor, glad to be relieved of the responsibility to answer his daughter's question himself, said that was a fine idea.

After Virginia put her letter in the mailbox, she went home and waited. No reply appeared. She was getting more disappointed by the day when one afternoon Dr. O'Hanlon called his daughter from his office. "Virginia," he said, as excited as his daughter would be in a moment, "they have printed an answer to your letter."

The Sun editorial with the now famous title, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" began, "Virginia, your little friends are wrong.... Santa Claus exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion, and you know that they abound to give to your life its highest beauty and joy...."

"No Santa Claus? Thank God he lives... A thousand years from now, Virginia, nay, 10 times 10,000 years from now, he will continue to make glad the heart of childhood."

Virginia O'Hanlon and Francis Church never met. He died in 1906, when she was 16. Although the letter was reprinted every Christmas in the Sun until the paper folded in 1949, Church's authorship was little known, as it is today.

Virginia became a teacher and spent her 47-year career in the New York City school system. For several of those years she was a principal of Public School 401 in Brooklyn, a school that held classes in hospitals and institutions for chronically ill children.

The Sun editorial, she said later in her life, became her inspiration as a teacher. "The reassurance which Mr. Church's words brought me," she said, "made me determine that in dealing with children's hopes and ideas, I would try never to disappoint them."

Her life's work would be, in the words of Church editorial, to "make glad the heart of childhood."

'Loud' Street Preachers Acquitted

Special to the Herald
Two Pennsylvania street preachers, arrested for disorderly conduct after a police officer determined their 20-second sermons were "too loud," were acquitted after a judge ruled their speech was protected by the U.S. Constitution.

"We're very pleased with the ruling," said Larry Crain, who successfully defended Timothy Schuler, pastor of the Christian Bible Anabaptist Church near Chambersburg, and church elder David Strode. Crain is a staff attorney with the Rutherford Institute, a Virginia-based nonprofit law firm specializing in the defense of religious freedom.

"The court's decision cleared up any misconception that people can be prosecuted for exercising their constitutional right to free speech merely because some find it annoying," Crain said.

According to Crain, Schuler and Strode were charged with causing "annoyance, public inconvenience, and alarm" while preaching to passing motorists and pedestrians near the Chambersburg town square one Saturday in March. The 20-second sermons, lasting the duration of a red traffic signal, prompted some complaints from nearby residents and business merchants.

During a two-day trial in the Court of Common Pleas last August, arresting police officer George Mayer testified that based on the number of complaints received, he determined that the preachers' voices were "too loud." Mayer added, however, that the men's preaching did not obstruct the traffic flow.

Schuler and Strode both testified that street preaching is part of the Anabaptist doctrine, and its sole purpose is "to lead others to Jesus Christ." On the day of the arrest, Strode said, as many as 100 people gathered to listen to their sermons.

Assistant district attorney Frederic Antoun Jr. argued that the preachers' language, which included such phrases as "allies of Satan" and "ye are damned," constituted "fighting words," which "by their very utterance inflict injury or tend to incite anger."

Crain countered, however, that their sermons were intentionally directed to the masses and not any particular individual, thus avoiding the face-to-face confrontation that the Supreme Court has required for "fighting words."

Schuler testified that while they condemned sinful conduct, it would be "a sin" to judge a person without knowledge. He added that when people misinterpreted his words to be a personal accusation, he apologized.

Crain also argued that while some of the prosecution's witnesses were shocked by the "frankness" of the sermons, "such sensibilities cannot serve as a justification for prohibiting the defendants' speech."

That argument found an advocate in Judge John Keller, who several times during the trial commended Crain's "fine" legal brief submitted earlier. In his November 19 ruling, Keller stated that while the preachers' message may be objectionable to some, most people could avoid the sermons by simply walking away or rolling up the car window. At any rate, he added, the motorist "is a captive for no longer than the length of a stoplight."

Crain believes the court's favorable decision was based largely on the convincing evidence that confirmed the historical tradition of public preaching in America, and specifically in Pennsylvania. During the trial, Crain brought in historian R. J. Rushdoony to testify of the traditionally high regard for public preachers, who were often considered failures unless their voices could be heard for several city blocks.

Quoting from a 1971 Supreme Court decision, Keller stated, "The constitutional right of free expression is a powerful medicine in a society as diverse and populous as ours. It is designed and intended to remove governmental restraints from the arena of public discussion.... That the air may at times seem filled with verbal cacophony is... not a sign of weakness but of strength."

Mission Speaker

Dennis Hale, a Southern Baptist missionary from Oviedo, Spain, and his wife, will be speaking at First Baptist Church of Oviedo (which was named after the Spanish city) this Sunday as part of the annual emphasis on foreign missions. He will preach at the 10:20 a.m. service. Rev. and Mrs. Hale will hold a missions study from 6-7 p.m. On furlough, they have served in Spain for 21 years.

Orlando Boychoir To Sing

The Orlando Deanery Boychoir's annual presentation of "Solemn Evensong with Lessons and Carols" will take place Monday at 8 p.m. at St. James Cathedral on Orange Avenue in downtown Orlando. Admission is free, but an offering will be received.

Christmas Program Set

Sanford Free Methodist Church, 500 W. Fourth St., Sanford, will hold its annual Christmas program on Sunday, Dec. 21 at 6 p.m. featuring Christmas music, readings and praise. This will follow the annual open house at the parsonage from 3-5 p.m. with fellowship and refreshments.

The Church... THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY, OUR NATION!

In the earliest times the lighted candle had a place in man's expression of his religious belief. Light has always symbolized the outreach of the Almighty.

And yet, no candle can express the real joy of Christmas. Worship is our divine gift for revealing our love to God. The prayers and hymns we lift from happy Christian hearts as we gather in Church these are the real Christmas Candles, the glow of a people honored and blessed by the birth of the Christ.

But in the celebration of Christmas the lighted candle has assumed a special significance. Gleaming in the darkness it is like the Star that stood over Bethlehem. Flickering in the wintry air, it is like the tiny infant rocked in his mother's arms. Shining boldly through its wreath, it is like the Master of Mankind beckoning the world into the warmth of His Love.

The Christmas Candle

Black Perspective

Progress In Sanford On Increase

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

Black progress is often measured by individual achievement, but as a segment of the Sanford population, blacks have progressed in terms of being embraced within the city, not separate and equal nor separate and unequal, just citizens receiving what other citizens are receiving.

In the political area, progress is symbolized by the city's first black commissioner.

"We've have come a good ways and there's a good ways to go," said Commissioner Bob Thomas.

Thomas said the progress blacks have seen in the city is taking many forms. The most notable one is in city services, especially the police department.

"For the first time in my lifetime, and I have lived here all my life, I have heard some positive statements from the black community" relative to the operation of the police department.

"It is just a different attitude altogether," he said.

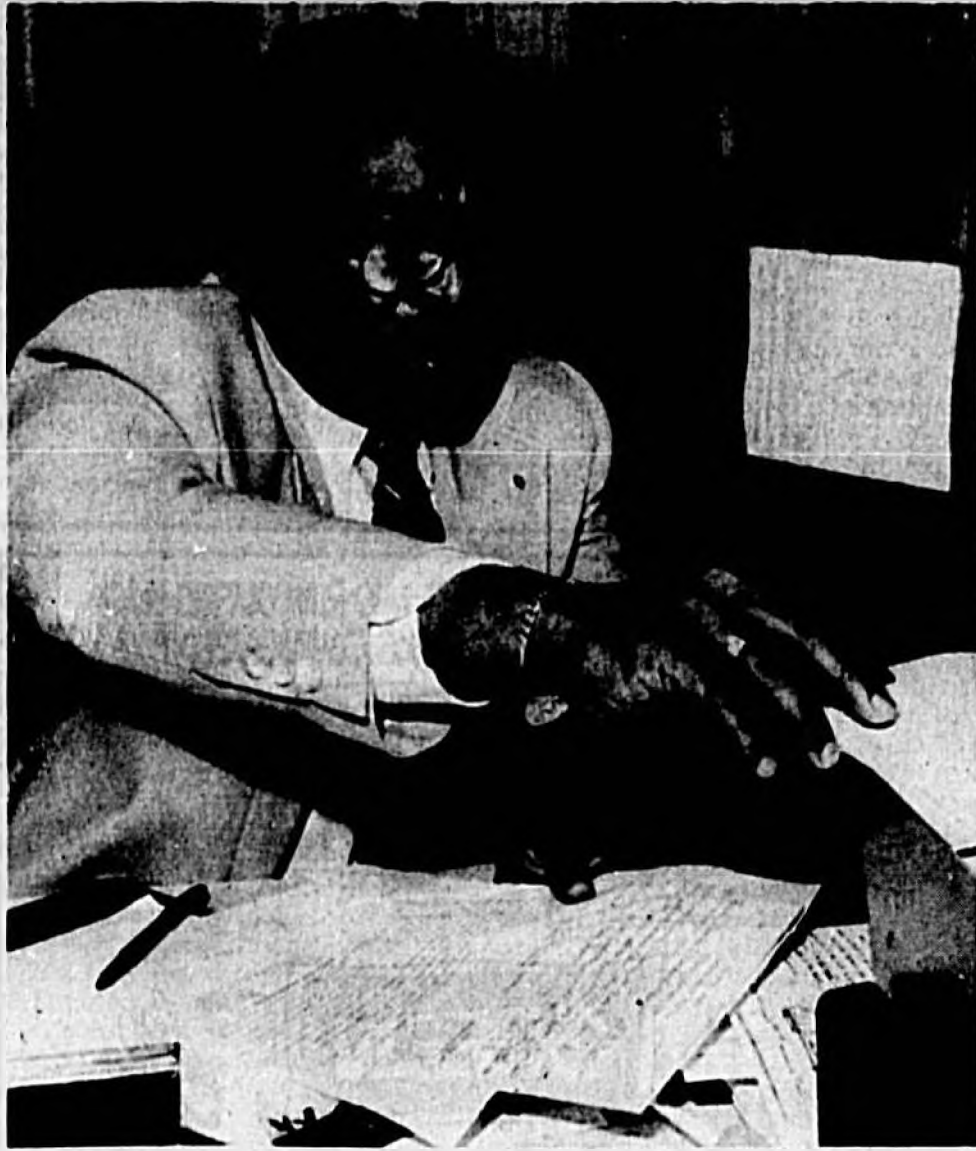

Thomas said the positive attitude shown by the police being one of being more polite and responsive to members of the black community. He said the attitude is also working its way through departments that provide other city services.

Thomas said other examples of progress are the paving of roads in the black community, some in disrepair for years.

"That was unheard of until recently," he said.

But he said perhaps the greatest progress the black community has experienced in recent years is its inclusion in the affairs of the city — no longer considered a separate entity but part of the whole.

"The black community is not aside, but is part of this growing city," said Thomas. He said the black community is beginning to receive consideration and services along with the rest of the city's citizens.

City Commissioner Bob Thomas says Sanford blacks are progressing.

He said he would like to see more black representation in the city government. He also wants to see grants to help provide more low-cost homes so families can move out of the city's housing, which he called a "boiling pot," an area where problems can grow.

But foremost on Thomas' list of progressive things to do is get a pool for the city's youth.

He said he wants to be watching a prestigious sporting event someday and have a swimmer identified as being from Sanford, Florida.

"Many of our young people are not realizing their potential," he said. "A child should not grow up not learning to swim."

He said the city once had two pools, but let them go to ruin after integration became law.

"We could use those facilities now," he said.

But he said, "This city still has a chance to be a model city for a city of its size."

Blacks In Business

Just as city services are being offered to members of the black community there are more members of the black community needing city services.

Changes in recent years have produced more jobs, with more blacks owning homes and having discretionary income. That has also prompted the rise of more black businessmen.

"There were a lot of people who wanted to do a lot of things before, but didn't have enough money," said Herbert Cherry, a black businessman and developer in Sanford.

He said the economic rise of the black community and businessmen is something like an upward spiral, more people have jobs and diversified vocations, thus more money, and they buy better things and have higher expectations.

From a business standpoint, he said, it is easier to get loans now, especially if the business is solid.

He said the economic rise of blacks and their interest in community affairs through voting has also changed the electorate and the posture of all candidates.

"It makes them more conscious of support, and of what they said," he said.

He said the increasing financial abilities of the black community also promotes the striving for higher education.

"People were always concerned about education, but now its higher education," he said. "This is something most parents want for their kids."

Educational Progress

There have been educational advancements, said Dr. Veina Williams, of Seminole Community College, but there are distances to travel, she said.

'Toys' For Congress Kids A Tough Order For Santa

NORTH POLE — This year Santa put off consideration of his requests from the children in Washington until the last minute. It's not that Santa doesn't like children in Washington, it's just that some of their requests are so, well, difficult.

Eventually, though, Santa couldn't postpone it any longer. He sat down with Patch, one of his most trusted elves, and began going through his list.

"Here we go, Chief. Our first request is from little Jimmy Miller."

"Ah, yes, the budget director. He's the one that replaced that nasty little Stockman boy."

"Good grief, I've already given him a four year expansion."

"Right, but it's slowing down. Jimmy just wants a brighter forecast to make his budget numbers look better."

"All right. Put him down for a jar of polish and a rag."

"Got it, Chief. Now, the kids in Congress have a joint request."

"Another balanced budget?"

"Nope. They asked for that last year and got it. Then they decided they didn't like it. What they want now is a picture of a balanced budget that they can admire without having to have the real thing."

"Bah! Humbug! We'll give them a jar of red ink. A very big jar."

"He's that nice little boy that used to be over at the White House. He runs the Treasury now, doesn't he? What could Jimmy want?"

"He says here he wants a new J-curve."

"Say what?"

"A new J-curve. You know, Chief, the idea that when the price of the dollar falls, the trade balance keeps getting worse, like going down a 'J.' Even though the cheaper dollar makes our exports cheaper and stuff from foreigners more expensive, it takes awhile for the old trade balance to start improving — to go up the curve."

"Oh, yes. Didn't we give Jimmy a J-curve last year?"

"Right, but Jimmy says it doesn't work. He says the dollar's been falling for over a year, and the trade balance is still getting worse. He says to please send him a 'J' with a better upturn."

"Hmmm! Santa doesn't like it when little boys and girls tell him his toys don't work. Jimmy ought to look around. Sure, the dollar's fallen relative to a few currencies, but it's been unchanged or higher relative to a lot of others, so it really hasn't changed much at all. Jimmy's going to have to do something about the deficit if he wants his J-curve to work. In fact, you can tell him he can take his J-curve and ..."

"Chief!"

"Sorry, Santa starts to get a little testy sometimes. Put little Jimmy down for a kite that he can go fly. A kite made in China."

"OK. Our next request is from Beryl Sprinkel."

"Who?"

"You know, Chief, Beryl Sprinkel. The president's chief economic adviser."

"Beryl who?"

"C'mon, Chief. Beryl says he'd like a little recognition. He's tired of people introducing him as 'Beryl Sprinkel' and having other people say 'Beryl who?'"

"Beryl Sprinkel?"

"Chief!"

"Okay, Okay. We'll get him a spot on an American Express commercial."

"Right."

"Beryl Sprinkel?"

"Let's do one more tonight, Chief. It's from Ronnie Reagan."

"Little Ronnie. Such a nice boy — he's been having a tough time lately."

"That's right, Chief. He sold some of those war toys and got in a lot of trouble for it, even though he thinks it was a good deal for a good price — he even made a big profit. Anyway, he wants you to get everyone off his back for awhile."

"Santa can't do everything, Patch. Put Ronnie down for a game that will help him out of all this."

"A game, Chief?"

"A game. You know the one. It's called 'Sorry.'"

Hospital Costs Rising, Out Pacing Inflation

By Sarah Fisher Lowe
United Press International

Take an aspirin at home and it costs you less than a penny. Take an aspirin in the hospital and it costs $2.31.

That's a small but glaring example of a major problem facing American hospitals. They pass along a variety of related costs as well as the price of the tablet and the result is mounting costs for consumers or whoever pays their bills.

Hospital costs continued their ever-upward spiral for the first nine months of 1986, rising at more than twice the rate of inflation and contributing to a national health care bill that consumed a record 10.7 percent of the GNP last year.

Yet attempts are being made to rein in these costs, and some of the efforts have produced surprising results.

As insurers turn to insurance plans that pressure hospitals to treat patients more quickly, the shorter hospital stay costs more than it did before. In 1985, hospitals released patients 3 percent sooner yet charged them 7.5 percent more for the stay, a recent study showed.

And although more people are using the less costly out-patient clinics and hospital admissions have dropped, hospital expenditures have gone up.

Despite the increasing number of empty beds, many hospitals flourish. During a 12-month period ending in August, roughly 7,000 hospitals that report to the American Hospital Association said they had almost $8 billion left after all expenses were paid.

"They (hospitals) are making money hand over fist," said Charles Froelicher, a member of the Colorado Health Data Commission, which this year issued its first report on hospital rates in the state. "Hospitals are doing exactly what any red-blooded American would do. As long as no one objects, it's all the traffic will bear."

Hospital administrators and doctors disagree. They say costs outpace inflation only because the American population is aging, more people are uninsured, and new medical technology costs more.

They argue that hospitals are pressured to keep charges down by health maintenance organizations, preferred provider organizations and large third-party payers such as Blue Cross-Blue Shield and Medicare, which set fixed reimbursement rates for certain medical procedures.

"Hospitals have every reason in the world to economize," said James Todd, a senior vice president of the American Medical Association. "Also, you have to ask yourself at what point when you're economizing do you affect quality of care. That's a very serious question."

Hospital administrators point out that hospitals must make a profit to replace equipment and make repairs. During the 12 months ending in August, American Hospital Association figures show that hospitals spent a total of $142 billion to realize $7.8 billion in profits, a profit margin of just 5.2 percent.

The administrators say that charges will continue to go up simply because the patients being admitted now are older and sicker.

"We're developing a hospital system that only cares for most seriously ill," said Todd. "And the most seriously ill are the most expensive."

Nationwide, an average hospital visit cost $3,840 in 1985, compared to $3,571 the year before, with fees increasing in 40 states.

In Denver, the daily room rate at the University of Colorado Medical Center is the highest in the metro area, with an average stay costing $5,978. There, a single aspirin tablet costs $2.31, said spokeswoman Barbara Thrower.

"It costs 1 cent for the aspirin, and the rest is the dispensing fee, pharmacist's time and paperwork," she said.

It's simply a matter of passing along the costs.

But purchasers of care say that too much of that cost is due to a growing number of empty beds, which should produce more competitive prices, but instead simply add to the cost of hospital care. Last year, the national occupancy rate dropped for the third year in a row to 64 percent.

Hospital officials claim that the empty beds are forcing them to offer better deals to attract patients. Employees whose employers buy Humanicare Plus, for example, receive a benefit of lower deductibles if they use Humana hospitals, said Susan Shipley of Humana Inc., which owns 87 hospitals in 22 states.

"We're trying to create a demand and hopefully fill our beds," she said.

Apparently, however, there are simply not enough patients to go around, and hospitals are not consolidating or merging.

"Many hospitals continue operating at 50 percent occupancy because there are a lot of competing services providing out-patient facilities," said Willis Goldbeck, director of the Washington Business Group on Health. "You have a smaller pool of patients being charged for the fixed costs of maintaining those beds. You won't see savings until those (un-

Jammed Landing Gear Forces Air Acrobatics

CAHOKIA, Ill. (UPI) — A flight instructor, turning the controls over to a student pilot, dangled outside a small plane at an altitude of 2,000 feet to manually lower the aircraft's jammed landing gear.

"We had tried everything else," Rich LeComte, 23, said in explaining his feat.

The Dec. 2 incident began as a routine training flight in a four-seat Cessna Cutlass. LeComte and a student, Bill Landre, were practicing raising and lowering the plane's landing gear when part of the gear became stuck in the up position.

LeComte and Landre tried bucking the plane up and down in an unsuccessful effort to jar loose the landing gear.

Officials at St. Louis Downtown-Parks Airport in Cahokia then radioed to LeComte to try lowering the stuck gear by hand, and LeComte, a flight instructor at Parks College for just eight months, agreed to try.

"They said the only way was to somehow reach out there and get it down," he said. "I'd just rather do that than scrape on the ground."

"What I did was strap the seat belt to my arm and reach out and pull the gear. I guess I was hanging out to about my waist."

Set Aside Petty Differences, Men

There's some grumbling over at Sanford City Hall.

Some city employees say they're concerned that the tiff between Commissioner John Mercer and newly-elected commissioner A. A. McClanahan bodes ill for city government.

Mercer, according to Mr. McClanahan, unwisely embarked on what Mr. McClanahan termed a "smear campaign" in his efforts to help incumbent Commissioner Milton Smith get re-elected in District 3. Mr. McClanahan won election in that district handily.

Although Mr. Mercer admits to contacting voters election day urging them to vote for Mr. Smith, he denies some of the specific allegations Mr. McClanahan has leveled against him. Mr. McClanahan claims Mr. Mercer not only promoted Mr. Smith, but also made disparaging remarks about him (Mr. McClanahan). Mr. Mercer said he made no personal attacks against Mr. McClanahan.

Mr. Mercer says he had every right to campaign for Mr. Smith ... that there was nothing illegal about it. We agree.

However, we're not so sure it was the most tactful move politically. To encourage voters to cast a ballot for one candidate over another on the merits of the candidate one is supporting is one thing. To do so while denigrating the other, if indeed that is the case, is quite another matter. Especially if the candidate you're opposing is elected and you've got to work closely with him or her over the next few years.

Now Mr. McClanahan threatens to carry the dispute a bit further.

He says he will make a speech when he's installed Jan. 6 that will contain accusations of unethical and unprofessional conduct, presumably against Mr. Mercer.

Forget it, Mr. McClanahan. And might we suggest Mr. Mercer do the same.

We can think of plenty of issues both can use up their creative skills and energies on to the good of Sanford's citizenry, instead of wasting them on perpetuating petty bickering that can only detract from the bigger goal: that of running the city's affairs.

We don't think Sanford's voters went to the polls in support of their favorite candidate on the basis of how well they can "entertain" us with their antics while engaging in combat on a personal level.

We think the voters want candidates to set aside their personal differences and get on to the business at hand. So does the Sanford Herald. So do, we're sure, other city commissioners who'll have to work with Mr. Mercer and Mr. McClanahan.

We don't expect perfect harmony at the city commission level every time that body convenes. But we do expect professionalism of the highest order as commissioners conduct the city's business.

We trust Mr. Mercer and Mr. McClanahan will take this as fair warning.

BERRY'S WORLD

"What can you suggest for a boss who has lost touch with her workers?"

RUSTY BROWN

Too Few Firms Help Spouse In Job Transfer

When John is transferred from Boston to Peoria, I think the boss should help his wife Joan find a new job.

Now that 60 percent of corporate moves affect dual-career couples, companies should pick up the tab — not only for moving expenses, but also for the cost of the spouse's job search. And that means helping her find a job that is comparable, or better, than the one she has to leave behind.

More than a half-million employees are transferred every year, and it takes its emotional toll on the rest of the family. Especially on the trailing spouse who is most often a woman and the one to abandon a network of friends and professional contacts and face the trauma of an employment hunt in a strange place. No wonder one survey of 150 companies in northeastern Ohio revealed increasing resistance to job transfers.

Such reaction has prompted many firms to offer some kind of relocation services for spouses. Yet the percentage offering help is still too small — 28 percent of 604 major companies covered in a Merrill Lynch report.

Spouse assistance varies from help in resume writing to assessment of the job market in the new community and referrals to specific firms.

One of the most complete services is RESOURCE: Careers in Cleveland, sponsored by 19 major companies, including TRW Inc., Standard Oil Company of Ohio and General Electric Company. The companies pay $3,200 a year for their membership. Each time they refer a spouse of an employee hired or transferred into the city, they pay an additional $600 to $850 for individualized job assistance.

"We've helped several hundred people find jobs in the last five years," says RESOURCE: Careers director Marjorie Shorrock. While 85 percent have been women, Shorrock expects the number of men to increase as more and more women move up to executive jobs. She notes that the agency recently assisted an incoming husband wanting a job in sales after his wife accepted a position at the top-rated Ernst and Whinney accounting firm.

Shorrock says it's important to put newcomers in touch with individuals in similar occupations, as well as professional organizations, so they can begin networking.

The career counseling service (which is not an employment agency) offers job seekers use of a telephone, desk and typewriter in its downtown office, as well as an in-house library of information on Cleveland companies. There are workshops for learning job-search strategy or brushing up on interview skills.

People with many years of experience sometimes find it difficult to learn about highly placed positions. Barbara Fryer Cope, whose husband was transferred to Cleveland from Washington, was a data-processing executive with 23 years in the field. "There is a pyramid effect the higher up you go," she says. "Less jobs at the top and less turnover." RESOURCE: Careers gave her job leads and sent out letters on her behalf. She recalls, "After job interviews, I would stop in for coffee. I had a place to go where people wanted to keep my spirits up." Happily, she was hired as director of planning for Progressive Insurance Companies.

Today's couples think of themselves as an economic unit. Their combined incomes pay for a lifestyle they've come to expect. If half that living standard is lost because of a job transfer, the husband's promotion may boomerang at home. For that reason, the company should promote the well-being of the wife as well, in the new community.

The bottom line is: Move me, move my spouse.

GEORGE McGOVERN

$1,000 Idea Was Right

Reagan has achieved my $1,000 proposal in reverse. In 1972, as the Democratic nominee for president, I proposed that we terminate existing welfare programs, including the personal income tax exemption of $1,000.

I suggested that the Internal Revenue Service simply grant every American a $1,000 tax credit, or "Demogrant."

Those with enough income to pay taxes would apply their $1,000 credit toward their tax obligation. Those with less income would use whatever part of the tax credit was necessary to pay their taxes, and the balance would come to them as a cash income supplement. Those with income below taxing levels would receive the tax credit in the form of cash grants — the so-called negative income tax.

There are several advantages to such a plan:

1. All of this would be processed through the IRS with no need for a huge welfare bureaucracy.

2. It is more equitable because it benefits the working poor, those with dependent children as well as those without income who now are welfare recipients.

3. It does not require a demeaning division of the populace into welfare recipients who receive and the rest of us who pay.

I proposed in 1972 that, whatever the cost of the program, it should be financed by a reformed income tax structure that would close unjustified loopholes and adjusted tax rates to avoid federal deficits. I further proposed a carefully planned defense structure based on the nation's real needs that would save many billions of dollars to help reduce or eliminate the federal deficit, which was then comparatively small.

Curiously enough, President Reagan has now achieved a different kind of $1,000-per-person allocation — the federal deficit.

The budget deficit for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1986, exceeded $220 billion. That means the Reagan administration is now borrowing about $1,000 annually for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Instead of tax adjustments to cover the costs of government, we have had a tax cut since 1981. Instead of welfare reform, we have the same old welfare network. Instead of reductions in military spending through long overdue reform, we have fed an accelerating arms race complete with the MX missile, the B-1 bomber,

JEFFREY HART

Basic Differences

The crisis over the Iran arms and the spin-off of funds to the Nicaraguan resistance has one major thing in common with the Watergate crisis of 1971-73. Both reflect a deep left-right split in the American policy, and a fundamental difference over foreign policy in general and communism in particular.

Clearly, the motivation for using Iranian cash to buy weapons for the Nicaraguans was that at the time Congress was refusing to do so. Committed anti-communists in the administration were unwilling to let the Nicaraguan resistance go down the drain, so they came up with the idea of using the Iranian funds. As a matter of fact, having the Ayatollah's oil money finance an anti-communist campaign in Nicaragua has a certain elegance, not to say a hilarious side. And, whatever else you think of the Ayatollah, he certainly is an anti-communist. Nor is it so clear that a law has been broken. Congress refused to appropriate funds for Nicaragua at the time, but it could scarcely prevent the Ayatollah from paying up.

The fact of the matter is that the left wing of the Democratic Party is very ambiguous in its attitude toward communism. And it often exercises what amounts to a veto over measures inimical to the spread of communism, especially in the Third World. The left wing of the Democratic Party almost killed aid to El Salvador, apparently welcoming a communist takeover, until the gritty Duarte won an overwhelming victory in democratic elections with a huge turnout. Then the Democratic leftists retreated into sullen silence. In El Salvador, the communist guerrillas are now on the defensive everywhere.

The left wing of the Democratic Party is now of course highly protective of the Ortega dictatorship in Nicaragua. In the last Senate vote on aid to the Nicaraguan resistance, Bill Bradley of New Jersey was the only Northern Democrat to vote yes, to his eternal credit. This, of course, eliminated him as a Democratic candidate in 1988, the left exercising a veto over the nomination. The aid bill passed with a majority composed of Republicans and Southern Democrats.

The Watergate affair really began in 1971, when the Nixon White House believed that it would be running against a Democratic ticket headed by the "Lincolnton" Edmund Muskie — then thought to be a plausible candidate. The administration believed, correctly, that under any Democratic administration the effort in South Vietnam would go down the tubes. This belief, I stress, was correct. The White House thus began a program of clandestinely stacking the cards, believing themselves — again correctly — to be engaged in a kind of domestic civil war. When they launched the spoils against the Democrats, they had no idea that Muskie would cry over TV in a New Hampshire snowstorm, and that the Democrats would nominate George McGovern. It would be difficult to think of a weaker candidate in the history of presidential politics. Even lying awake as a boy in Whittier, Calif., and listening to those train whistles, Richard Nixon could never have imagined that he would carry a national election by 49 states to 1. Nixon!

But, in 1972, the spooks, enjoying being spooks, kept on spooking.

During the 1960s, the bi-partisan foreign policy of the 1950s — the anti-communist consensus — collapsed, especially as applied to Third World communism. The left will protect communist regimes. The right will attack them in any way it can. Under conditions of such division, as we see, we are in for surprises.

WILLIAM RUSHER

The Score In Iran Arms Flap

The major forces in the Iran-contra imbroglio — the president, the congressional Democrats and the media — have now all made their early moves, and each has scored at least once.

President Reagan insists that his policy of negotiating for a friendlier Iran and for the return of our hostages in Lebanon was essentially sound, but asserts he was unaware that part of the proceeds of the Iranian arms sale was diverted to the Nicaraguan contras. He concedes that "mistakes" were made, and adds that if crimes were committed, they will be prosecuted.

Unless the president is concealing some important fact, such as his own knowledge of the diversion of money to the contras (which I simply don't believe), his posture as outlined above is eminently defensible. Score one for the president.

The congressional Democrats are realistic enough to know that this controversy isn't going to end up anywhere near impeachment. But they have already managed to land some punishing blows on the president and his party.

The Intelligence Committees of both houses, as well as the House Foreign Affairs Committee, held hearings in early December, at which various of the key players (Poindexter, North, Shultz, etc.) were questioned sternly. Score one for the Democrats.

Moreover, since the attorney general was already investigating whether any crimes had been committed, and a special investigator was about to be appointed to look into that question as well, the attorneys for Poindexter and North rightly counseled their clients to refuse, under the Fifth Amendment, to answer any questions for the moment unless they were granted immunity from prosecution. This the Democrats sorrowfully declined to grant them. There being no way that "taking the Fifth" can look anything but bad, score two for the Democrats.

When Attorney General Meese launched his own investigation of possible crimes committed in the course of the affair, the media complained bitterly that he was too close to the president to be objective, and demanded the appointment of an independent investigator. When Meese then called for the appointment of an independent investigator, the media revived the old term "special prosecutor" for this job and declared (wrongly) that the appointment proved "there must be some crime to prosecute."

JACK ANDERSON

Vietnamese Crime Gangs Go Down Under

By Jack Anderson and Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — The export of criminal techniques from Australia to the United States began in Gold Rush days, when the "Sydney Ducks" were running wild on San Francisco's Barbary Coast. The favor was returned in recent years as motorcycle gangs modeled after the Pagans and Hell's Angels have spread death and drugs across the Australian states.

Now we've learned that Vietnamese gangs similar to those operating in U.S. cities have been infiltrating the underworld Down Under. Details of their operations are contained in an internal report prepared by police officials in Victoria, the populous state on the southeast corner of Australia. Our associate Donald Goldberg has a copy of the report.

The problem has caused growing concern among Australian authorities. There are 86,000 Vietnamese in the country now, and 80,000 more waiting to immigrate.

The report — based on a police investigation called "Operation Bao Ve" (loosely translated as extortion) — describes Vietnamese gang activities dating back to 1982. The first major incident occurred in the summer of that year, when a hotel manager was stabbed by gang members trying to kidnap two sisters from their room.

The record over the next few years included hit-and-run shootings, armed robberies and assassinations. By 1985, it was clear that many local merchants were paying extortion to finance arrested gang members' costly legal fees.

The authorities' first big break came in August of last year, when a courageous Vietnamese shopkeeper told police that gangsters were demanding protection money from her. That opened the floodgates, and other merchants began to come forward.

Two suspects were soon in custody, charged with blackmail, armed robbery and other crimes. But potential witnesses were threatened with retribution if they testified; shop windows were smashed and other acts of intimidation discouraged the witnesses.

Eventually, the police were able to identify three main Vietnamese gangs and their splinter groups in eastern Australia. One piece of information was particularly alarming: Four Vietnamese men tried to purchase military uniforms and insignia. When asked what the material would be used for, one gang member replied that it was for the operation of a training camp.

"Investigations thus far have brought to light a definite and identifiable hierarchy or structure within these individual gangs and also between the gangs," the Victoria report states. "The more senior a gang member becomes, the less actual direct involvement with gang activities occurs."

In a typical operation, teenage gang members of 15 or 16 actually threaten shopkeepers, while their older colleagues wait nearby to add weight to the intimidation. The younger gang members also vandalize stores of uncooperative merchants.

"It is apparent, however," the report continues, "that the offenses involving physical violence, i.e. murder and serious assaults, are performed by the more senior members. The reason for this is to maintain a high level of personal esteem with their followers."

The report sums up the situation this way: "It can be seen from the history of the Vietnamese gangs in Victoria and their associated involvement in criminal activities, coupled with a reluctance of victims to cooperate with authorities, that the task of policing these gangs is an extremely daunting one. The problems we are currently facing are language and culture, similar to those in America."

Academic Freedom Vs. Censorship Tennessee Ruling Contrary To Idea Of Public Schools

By Timothy Dyk

In Tennessee recently a federal judge said parents have the right to opt their children out of parts of the public school curriculum that offend their beliefs. That decision, if sustained on appeal, will profoundly affect the future course of American public education.

In Mozert vs. Hawkins County fundamentalists sued local school officials, claiming that the standard reading textbooks selected by the schools were contrary to the parents' religious beliefs and that requiring their children to use these books violated their constitutional rights. They relied on that part of the First Amendment that prevents the government from "prohibiting the Free Exercise" of religion.

The press has reported, accurately, that the fundamentalists object to a wide variety of classic children's literature including The Wizard of Oz, "Rumpelstiltskin" and The Diary of Anne Frank. The focus on these particular objections, which many view as ridiculous or even humorous, has obscured the far more important underlying issues.

The real point is that the fundamentalists object to the philosophy of public education that is embodied in these books and reflected in accepted methods of teaching reading, as well as other subjects. They object to their children being taught to be imaginative or to play roles in class if this goes beyond their view of scriptural authority. They object to their children being taught that moral questions are ...Fundamentalists object to their children being taught to be imaginative... being taught that moral questions are often complex and that, in a pluralistic society, different individuals may have different views about these issues.

They find unsatisfactory the treatment of a variety of controversial issues that most of us would regard as secular rather than religious. These include disarmament, gun control, one world government, the role of women in society and criticism of the United States government, the free enterprise system, law enforcement officials and the military.

The plaintiffs sincerely believe that these issues are religious and that their religion dictates the answers to these questions. They object to their children being presented with views that are different from their own. They want only books and discussion that are consistent with their religious views. And when the schools touch directly on religion, by describing the beliefs of other religions, such as those of the American Indians, Hinduism, Buddhism or even Catholicism, they object unless these religions are presented as being false religions.

The Supreme Court held in 1925 that parents who object to public schooling for their children have a right to send those children to an approved private or religious school. Parents in Tennessee also have that right by state law. But the school officials maintain that parents do not have the right to pick and choose those parts of the public school curriculum that they find acceptable. They point to the impracticability of periodically excusing students from class when objectionable material is read or discussed. They urge that this disruption to the schools can only be avoided by offering lowest common denominator education — education that offends no one in the school system. The trial court rejected this view, finding that the plaintiffs have the constitutional right to opt out of selected portions of the school curriculum and to sit silently in the school library or cafeteria.

The opinion states that the specific decision is a narrow one applicable only to these parents. However, if these parents are successful, sincerely motivated parents anywhere in the nation would have the right to selectively participate in the public schools' curriculum. The particular Protestant fundamentalists involved in this case are not alone in seeing religious implications in public school teaching. There are hundreds of other religious denominations in the country, many of which have religious views on a wide variety of issues that are dealt with in the public schools.

The system of public education in this country was rooted in a desire to create a common educational experience for the wave of immigrants which came to this country in the late 19th and early 20th centuries. Public education not only taught immigrant students to read and write the English language, it educated them about the political life of the United States, exposed them to individuals with a different heritage, and exposed the existing American population to the diverse viewpoints of its new arrivals. Today public education is more concerned with diversity of religious and cultural values than with diverse national origins. But the goals are still the same. The system still rests on a commitment to create politically aware, thoughtful and responsible citizens and to instill tolerance for diversity by exposing students to a wide variety of views. It is these objections that will be undermined if the plaintiffs in this lawsuit are successful.

The fight in Tennessee is between those who wish to keep diversity in public education and those who object to it. The loss of the existing system of public education would be a loss to all Americans.

Alzheimer's: No Cure Yet

About 2.5 million Americans have Alzheimer's disease, a tragic, incurable illness that destroys lives through progressive mental deterioration.

Its effects are devastating — and reports of "scientific breakthroughs" continually raise false hopes among the families and friends of Alzheimer's victims.

When these "breakthroughs" hit the news, telephone lines start ringing at local Alzheimer's Disease and Related Disorders Association chapters. The calls to ADRDA's toll-free line increase, and some families prepare to remove relatives with Alzheimer's from nursing homes and rush them to the city, research center or hospital where the current "miracle" is happening.

This puts families on an emotional rollercoaster, says Miriam Aronson, a social gerontologist and educational consultant to ADRDA.

"You have to tell them it's not true. It's not a cure, there's a lot of small print — and it's very disappointing to them."

Aronson suggests families select a research center or a physician to act as a trusted advisor throughout the course of the illness.

There also are ways in which families can evaluate "breakthrough" reports for themselves, says Aronson:

Look beyond the word "breakthrough" to determine just what the drug or technology described is supposed to do, she says. "recognizing that, at this point, there is no cure for Alzheimer's disease and that the underlying pathology continues."

Families should get a copy of the researchers' report itself — for example, from a medical journal — and ask themselves some appropriate questions.

If the report is about a wonder drug, see what symptoms the drug is supposed to relieve, for how long — and what these changes mean in "real-life" terms.

"If there are reported changes on a memory test," says Aronson, "and a patient can suddenly remember six numbers when he couldn't before, does that mean he is going to be able to balance a checkbook?"

So stay in touch with your local ADRDA chapter. If there is one in your area, or call the national headquarters (1-800-621-0379). That's where you can get the latest update.

When there is a breakthrough, ADRDA says it will be "on the rooftops shouting it." Otherwise, you should regard these reports as signs of scientific and medical progress — not as sudden, miraculous answers.

Everyday Grinches Would Deny Children Right To Read

By Anthony T. Podesta

This Christmas I look forward to telling my three children, ages two through four, Dr. Seuss' wonderful story, "How the Grinch Stole Christmas!" The unhappy Grinch found so little joy in the holiday season that one year he went into Whoville and stole all the little whos' Christmas presents, their food, even their Christmas trees! But later he discovered the joy of the holidays and returned all the gifts.

I've learned there are other "Everyday Grinches" who try to take away the greatest gift, knowledge, from my children and the children of many other parents. These Grinches usually go by another name, "censors," and they want to ban every book they don't like from our public schools. But, unlike the original Grinch, these Grinches are not about to give the gifts back.

The censors find no joy in reading Pulitzer Prize-winning books like Alice Walker's The Color Purple or Arthur Miller's Death of a Salesman. They think Shakespeare's MacBeth is satanic and Romeo and Juliet is pornographic. One even says Shakespeare encourages drug use.

One Virginia high school's students are fortunate. The Color Purple has been made into a movie; the book is no longer in their library.

John Steinbeck's Depression-era portrayal of Mice and Men, Stephen King's suspense novel The Shining, and Ken Follet's spy thriller Eye of the Needle, all make the censors' book-banning list because they contain "objectionable," "foul," and "sexually explicit" words. And because the Merriam-Webster College Dictionary defines such words, that should be dropped as well.

Ken Kesey's One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest, which examines the lives of persons in mental institutions, is another book the censors are after because it supposedly contains "no literary value." Others say Robert Cormier's lesser-known book The Chocolate War is "trash."

Just who are the censors, these everyday Grinches? The most powerful ones belong to large national groups with local affiliates. They include Pat Robertson's network of political organizations, Phyllis Schlafly's Eagle Forum, Beverly LaHate's Concerned Women for America, and National Association of Christian Educators. Many of the books they try to ban supposedly contain a big bad monster called "secular humanism," which they say eats up kids' minds.

But there are other censors as well. These Grinches say classics such as Harper Lee's To Kill A Mockingbird and Mark Twain's Huckleberry Finn should go because they portray blacks unfavorably.

The censors are not always successful at removing books from schools, of course. But many times, school officials do cave in to their demands, and the mere threat of angering an everyday Grinch often leads to self-censorship.

What's more, the censors are just as infamous for trying to ban from schools: journal writing, sex education classes, drug prevention classes, and history, science, and literature textbooks that expose children to different ideas, nations, and philosophies.

As we look back at the year 1986, we see that censorship is a growth industry in the United States. All the classic works I have mentioned are just a few of the targets the censors tried to remove from the schools during the last year alone. One Virginia high school's students are fortunate. The Color Purple has been made into a movie; the book is no longer in their library.

My kids aren't old enough yet to read all these great books, but I want them to be able to put their noses into them some day. So, this holiday season, I'm going to be my own Grinch! I'm going to round up all the books the everyday Grinches are taking from the schools and save them for my kids.

In the meantime, do your family and friends a favor: buy them a banned book for the holidays. You never know when the Grinch is going to strike.

Students Write Letters To Editor

Editor's note: In celebration of American Education Week last month, Jackson Heights Middle School students were asked to write Letters to the Editor of their favorite newspaper. The following are a selection of those submitted.

School Volunteer Helps

Jackson Heights Middle School has many volunteers and community helpers. One of our volunteers is Mrs. McWhirter. She helps eighth grade students with spelling since many of them have trouble with this required subject.

She is very nice and she helps us tremendously. She works with us until we think we are going to do well on our spelling tests on Friday.

I really appreciate and thank Mrs. McWhirter for all of her time and help to me.

She's an outstanding example of how success happens when school and community work hand in hand.

Parents Needed In PTA

I have recently found out that the Jackson Heights Middle School PTA has 724 members to 1,100 students. You may say that this is a high amount, but think about it: some of the students have both parents in the PTA. This greatly reduces the amount of students represented which does not sound so good to me. I suggest that more parents get involved in their child's education.

David McEachern

Turnout Shows Concern

I feel that the turnout at the Father's Coffee — over 100 parents — and the expected turnout of the Mother's Coffee — again over 100 parents — at Jackson Heights Middle School is wonderful. Most parents had to take time off work to come to Jackson Heights and I think that shows great concern for the children's well-being. I'll admit that there could have been more people, but with people's busy schedules these days, the turnout was exceptional.

This is a good example of the theme of this year's American Education Week — the theme being: School and Your Community.

Dividends Enjoy Work

Many hundreds of people work as Dividends in most schools around the nation. Dividends help students in all kinds of activities, tutoring students who need extra help to typing newsletters.

For the last year, someone I know has been working at Oviedo High School and has fully enjoyed it. She types up schedules and types newsletters and anything else the school needs done.

A dividend works whenever it is convenient for them and may work as many days as he/she likes.

Most people think you must work with rowdy kids all day, but you can choose what you want to do.

I think you should try Dividending. You might like it!

Nation Facing Another Madman's Tricks

I was born in 1912 so far in the backwoods of Tennessee that it took a half a day to ride a jack-ass to the mail box. I became interested in politics at the beginning of the downfall of Hooverism.

I helped the grocery store delivery boy in a one-horse wagon to convince mothers with starving children to accept food baskets made up by neighbors that the food did not come from the government (My how times have changed).

I watched Richard Nixon with his group of thugs take over our great nation — nothing else counted but hunger for power and greed.

I have been in a living hell since 1945 because I am one of the atomic veterans. I worked seven years to help get the 98th Congress to amend Title 38 United States Code with S-1651 and public law 98-542. Then the great bureaucracy and Reagan administration started to circumvent these laws, back to Washington, and we have now the first mandatory law in history to enforce these laws. Thank God!

God works in mysterious and infinite truths. He gave us the leaks at Three Mile Island and especially the Chernobyl disaster to alert the world to how close we are to destroying ourselves.

We are now again facing another madman's tricks and madness for P-O-W-E-R so bad that God, through his merciful wisdom, will have to intercede to solve this problem for this great nation that I love.

Wise Usage Could Curb Health Costs Spiral

Out Of Context

The Sanford Herald article of Dec. 12 regarding United Way "criticism" of the Sanford area's support requires a response from our organization.

I feel that much of my discussion with you was either out of context or misunderstood. Of great concern is the alleged statement that "the United Way has great difficulty in giving large amounts of money to agencies in the Sanford area where the United Way does not raise many dollars." The amount that is raised in any geographical area of the county has absolutely no bearing on the amount of money given to agencies. Agency allocations are based upon (1) availability of money and (2) how critical the services of an agency are in meeting community needs.

It is true that we would look to additional Sanford residences and businesses for increased United Way support; but it is also true that perhaps we have not worked hard enough to increase the interest and participation of more people in that area. We have, in the past, provided the best possible services to residents of all parts of Seminole County and we will continue to do so. We look to those residents of the Sanford area to support us as they can in contributions, in volunteerism or in active support of our agencies.

Still, this is a better country than communist Russia.

What's New In Health

Fewer Women Than Men Quit Smoking

By B.D. Cole
UPI International

The woman is a nurse. She is also director of nursing in the surgical intensive care unit at a major hospital, which — despite what physicians might tell you — means she runs the ICU. A group of us were sitting around the dinner table on a recent Saturday night when she started telling us about her disastrous experience with nicotine chewing gum — the prescription-only concoction for smokers who are trying to quit. The idea is that the gum continues to satisfy your nicotine addiction but protects you from the other hazards of smoking as you are attempting to wean yourself from your habit.

"Ten minutes after I chewed the stuff I thought I was going to die," the woman said. "My heart was pounding out of my chest. I was sweating. I lay down and took my pulse — it was 160! I haven't felt that awful since I first tried to smoke." All the non-smokers at the table — we all were, except the nurse — gave her a look at that remark, but she ignored us and continued.

"You know what the problem is? They don't say anything about dose and body size." The woman, whose picture could be used in dictionaries next to the definition of petite, said that she had taken the same size piece of gum that would be given to her husband, who is almost a foot and a half taller than her and weighs about 100 pounds more. "You'd think they'd tell someone my size to chew half a piece, or a quarter," she said.

She continued: "The stuff tastes awful. Chewing that stuff is like smoking for the first time. Yech!"

Then why, she was asked, would anybody want to smoke? It tastes awful, it makes you feel like you're going to die, and it greatly increases the chances that you will die way ahead of the date set for you by the actuarial tables.

"I know, I know," she said. "I should quit. I will quit after New Year's." Right. And I'll start exercising faithfully on New Year's Day.

Obviously this woman is not alone in her difficulty. A recent study by the federal Centers for Disease Control found that while more smokers are trying to quit, fewer women than men are doing so.

Federal health officials theorize that the anti-smoking message may have gotten through more successfully to men because, in the past, that message has been pitched to men. Women may have erroneously assumed smoking poses less risk to them than it does to men — despite the fact that, for the first time, more women are dying of lung cancer than breast cancer.

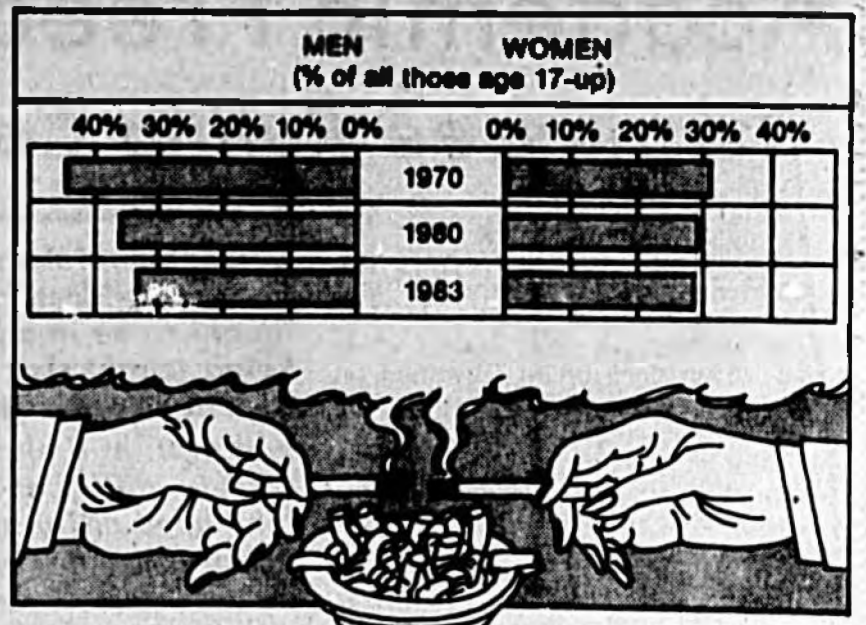

Additionally, CDC officials note, women have been falling for the cigarette ads aimed at them. You know, the ads that show the anorexically slim, fabulously dressed woman, cigarette in hand, posed seductively with a piece of beefcake. The ads that show a woman having a wonderful time beside a mountain stream, breathing in that fresh mountain air, cigarette in hand. Those ads.

There is one thing I have always found puzzling about those ads: Why are the cigarettes never smoking? Why don't the ads that show a group of smokers parrying show the room filled with smoke? Why aren't the heads of models wreathed in smoke? After all, they're ads for smokers. Or are they?

Perhaps the ads are really aimed at people like my friend, the nurse. Maybe she can look at all those full-color photographs of smokers smoking without smoke and convince herself that smoking really isn't all that bad.

Maybe if New Year's rolls around, and she's still smoking, she can try emulating the models in the ads and wave the thing around in her hand unit. That way she could stop smoking, save money, and still not give up cigarettes.

Who's Smoking

The number of men who smoke fell from 43 percent in 1970 to 35 percent in 1983. But the number of women smokers fell far less — from 31 percent in 1970 to 29 percent in 1983, according to the U.S. National Center for Health Statistics.

Elegance Of The Past Aboard Superliner QE2

By Joan Hanauer
UPI Feature Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Queen Elizabeth 2 — the world's only transatlantic liner — is undergoing a $130 million overhaul that will sail her into the 21st century, and at the same time return her to the elegance of an earlier era.

For one thing, the QE2 has made her last Atlantic crossing under steam. When the refurbished ship sails from Southampton, England, on April 29, 1987 she will have an all-diesel electric propulsion plant.

To renew her old opulence, she will have some public rooms restored to their original Dennis Lennon designs. To cater to new tastes, she will provide Jacuzzi's in the swimming pool. VCR's in first-class staterooms and a place where men can rent tuxedos — something that just didn't come up in the heyday of the transatlantic liners.

Passengers who want to sail on the first crossing of what some people at Cunard call the QE3 probably should reserve early — as should passengers who want a bargain.

Cunard promises that 1986 prices will prevail for passengers who make a down payment by Jan. 31, 1987. The old price range was $1,155 to $7,195 one-way, and includes a free one-way economy fare aboard British Airways or a Concorde seat for a bargain $699. The 1987 prices have not been decided.

"The QE2 is already the last of her kind," Ralph M. Bahna, managing director of Cunard Line Limited, said in an interview. "With what she already has and what we are doing now, we expect her to be the most popular ship in the world for a long time to come."

"We are trying very hard to retain the traditions of elegance and service, to retain the ocean liner of the past while building the superliner of the 21st century."

According to Bahna, the QE2 already was the fastest passenger liner afloat, and her new diesels will give her an added three knots. That doesn't seem like much, he said, but it provides added power in case of bad weather or rerouting on transatlantic runs and allows more leeway in scheduling on longer cruises.

In trying to preserve traditions of elegance, Cunard also had to consider the demands of modern passengers.

"In terms of the glitzy ships that are coming out today, the QE2 is very elegant," Bahna said. "But it is not elegant in the old world sense, not like the original Queen Elizabeth and the Queen Mary."

The old Queens had vaulting high ceilings, elaborate chandeliers and miles of wood paneling that today might be considered a fire hazard.

...Costs

der-utilized) hospitals are closed down."

He said he is optimistic that "the market is working, where as it did not before. But it takes many years to shift a $500 billion toy."

The federal government's prospective payment system for Medicare, which establishes a fixed rate of pay for 468 diagnostic related groups, has slowed the rate of increase for Medicare billings, said Dan Waldo, who studies health expenditures for the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Hospitals have incentives to produce care efficiently and can make a profit if they treat a patient for less than the established fee.

But the system, which went into effect two years ago, applies only to Medicare patients — those 65 and over and the disabled. Sixty percent of hospital users are not Medicare users, and many are not represented by a large employer who can negotiate lower charges.

Those patients have been paying for a larger portion of the hospital's charity care and other expenses since the Medicare prospective payment program went into effect.

"There are a lot of insurance companies that still pay charges, and hospitals are in the position to charge those people whatever they want," said Waldo.

In efforts to control costs for non-Medicare users, a half-dozen state Medicaid programs are using a system that applies a fixed payment schedule similar to Medicare's, said Bill Sobaski of the Health Care Finance Administration of Health and Human Services.

And two states, New Jersey and Maryland, have taken the more radical approach of setting prices for all hospital users.

In Maryland, the program has kept the average cost of a hospital admission rising at below the national rate for 10 years in a row, said Dennis Phelps, an assistant chief of the state's Health Services Cost Review Commission.

"In 1976, the cost of Maryland hospitals was 34 percent above the national average. Today, it's about 1 percent below," he said.

The commission adjusts the state's hospital rates annually for inflation. The state has had a large uncompensated care problem, he said. The program builds the cost of that care into rates paid by everyone. Hospitals that were once "dumping grounds" for the uninsured no longer bear the lion's share of the burden.

The Health Insurance Association of America would like to see more states take similar steps to curb charges.

"When the (Medicare prospective payment program) was implemented, we said it was a good first step," said spokeswoman Amy Biderman. "But we wanted it extended to the private sector as well, on the state level."

But hospitals do not like price settings, said American Hospital Association vice president Jack Owen.

"They don't like regulations," he said. "The HMOs and preferred provider organizations don't like it either because they have to pay a higher rate. It does cover indigent care, however, so that's a trade-off."

He said such strict measures are not needed because hospital rate increases are leveling off.

"Now (hospital price increases) are running less than the Consumer Price Index in most things," he said. "But you reach a point where you economize as much as you can, but you've still got a sick and aging population out there."

He admitted there were too many hospital beds, but "it's politically very hard to close a hospital."

He blamed the rising cost of hospital care in part on a growing number of uninsured people in the U.S., now estimated at 40 million. In 1985, uncompensated care accounted for 5.8 percent of in-patient charges.

"Who is going to pay for them?" he asked.

In the past, hospitals were not expected to make a profit, said Peter Weil of the American College of Healthcare Executives, which represents 1,500 hospital administrators.

"Twenty years ago we had a completely different mentality," said Weil. "Trustees were asked personally to cover the cost of paying for health care for the poor."

Today, however, 15 percent of the nation's hospitals are for-profit corporations, and they typically do not admit the uninsured, said Humana Inc. spokeswoman Shipley.

"We treat all emergency cases, but when they are stabilized, they are transferred to whatever hospital is designated as a public care hospital," she said.

Administrators of non-profit hospitals, faced with a growing number of patients who cannot pay, are under more pressure to come up with profitable ventures to subsidize charity care.

Many hospitals are venturing into businesses that have nothing to do with health care. Some have opened hotels using excess-hospital space, or operate a laundry service, said Weil.

"They already have that capital investment in washing machines and dryers," he said. "To get the most out of that, they sell their services to university dorms, restaurants, and others."

Weil said a few hospitals have instituted a bonus system for managers who meet or exceed revenue projections for the year.

"This is just beginning to come into the health-care field," he said.

Former Sanford Resident Pens Family Book

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

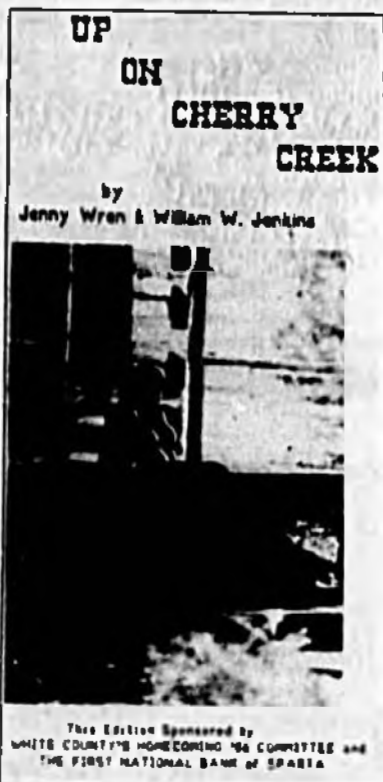

Former Sanford resident Virginia Howard Blaschak, writing under the pen name Jenny Wren, with William W. Jenkins, has completed the first volume of a planned 4-part "Walton's Mountain-type tale" of her family's life in rural Tennessee.

The first volume of the family saga, entitled Up On Cherry Creek, is about the author's mother and father, beginning in 1895 and taking the family history through 1903. The volume is subtitled, The Blossoming Years.

Mrs. Blaschak, 53, said from her Lancing, Tenn., home that she was "the baby" of 12 children and has always been interested in writing and art.

Her daughter, Freda Howard Babinski, who lives in Sanford, said the book is a story of "pure, innocence. Something you would have read 20 years ago. A Walton's Mountain-type tale."

The book has sold 300 copies in Tennessee, Mrs. Blaschak said, and the second volume, The Fruitful Years, will be published in January or February and will cover the years 1903 to 1930. Volume three is to be called The Harvest Years and volume four No Worms In These Tomatoes. Publishing of the first volume was sponsored by White County, Tenn.'s Homecoming '86 committee and the First National Bank of Sparta, Tenn.

The Blossoming Years is illustrated by Mrs. Blaschak's pen and ink drawings.

The hope is, she said, to find a publisher who will print a four segments of the saga in one volume.

The first volume is available in soft cover for $4.50 from Mrs. Babinski at 6700 State Road 46, Sanford.

Co-author Jenkins is an English professor at Cookville College in Cookville, Tenn.

Mrs. Blaschak, who said she is also a painter and once wrote the "menus in verse" for the Hee Haw television show, remembers Sanford, where she lived between 1968 and 1975, as "a beautiful little town where I felt like I was on vacation all the time."

...Progress

In terms of equal access, Dr. Williams said, there is no question that blacks have made progress in recent years. Black students now have opportunities to go to new schools outfitted with quality material and resources. Black students also have access to better-educated teachers, she said.

But, unlike the betterment Thomas referred to with the black community being brought into the life of the city, students, she said, are hampered by an educational system that has lower standards than before.

She said there are a significant number black students finishing the third grade who cannot read well or cipher. That was not a problem in the past, she said, nor were small discipline problems allowed to become large problems.

Dr. Williams said, while these problems also affect other students, though not in the same proportion, there is also the problem of lack of black role models and club involvement. She said there may be less black teachers now than during the time of segregated schools and that black students may have participated in more extracurricular activities in the past.

She said there are too few black principals and head coaches and in other positions of leadership in the educational system today. Despite those problems, she said there has been progress and there is more opportunity, such as the establishing of SCC and the training it provides to meet students needs.

Medical Care

Just as the financial and political aspects of the black community have progressed, so too has health care.

Thelma Mike, administrator of the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford, said more blacks are receiving better health care earlier than they would have in the past.

Illness is diagnosed and treated sooner, she said. The Home, started by her mother 40 years ago, provides "food, shelter, and loving care to the poor, homeless and aged," she said.

"All persons are given the same tender loving care," regardless of who they are," she said.

Serious Christians

Another area of progress is in religious faith, said the Rev. James Hagin, of Sanford.

"I do see some total commitment, more Bible study. I do see some changes in the disciples of Christ," Hagin said.

He said that while there are more black churches, that may or may not be a measure of progress.

"They are just buildings," he said. But he has seen an attitude change in the people.

"I make a point to look at other Christian involvement," said Hagin.

"I think people are a little more serious about being Christians," he said. "There's also a greater interest in Christian education," he said.

He said black and white ministerial groups are also working together, another measure of progress.

He said there have been a lot of attitude changes in Sanford, which, he said, has allowed such an event as the Martin Luther King celebration to be held in Sanford in January.

"Such a thing would have been unheard of a few years ago," he said.

The Good Old Days Were Changing Fast At Christmas 100 Years Ago

By Teresa Klak
On Christmas Eve 1885, traders at the New York Stock Exchange honored a holiday tradition. They celebrated.

"It has always been customary for brokers to descend from their customary dignity on the day before Christmas," reported The New York Times on Christmas Day.

"At the Stock Exchange, there was no set programme of disorder, but a spontaneous outburst of misrule took place early in the day. Whoops and shrieks, such as only members of the Stock Exchange and Comanche Indians can produce, broke out."

Those stock traders in New York who didn't feel like whooping at Christmas could have escaped next door to The Exchange Buffet, America's first self-service (that is, fast-food) restaurant.

It was one of that year's many "firsts." The 1885 inauguration of President Grover Cleveland to his initial term seemed to spark an avalanche of beginnings.

Overseas, Karl-Friedrich Benz had driven the world's first successful gasoline-powered car, reaching a speed of 9 mph. Benz circled in his vehicle at Mannheim, Germany, but it stalled twice before it was stopped by a broken chain. (Later in the year, Benz tried to show off a slightly improved version, but he forgot to steer and smashed into a brick wall.)

It would be three years before shoppers could buy a "motor carriage" — the forerunner of Mercedes-Benz.

But if you need to get around in 1885, you could have tried a "Bicyclette Moderne." This French model, like England's "safety bicycle," had wheels of equal size, making the bicycle suitable for general use.

Since then, of course, it's become one of the most popular Christmas gifts.

Residents of Foxburg, Pa., in 1885 could have cycled to the home of Joseph Mickle Fox to play one of the first rounds of golf in the United States. Fox discovered the game in Scotland and introduced it to America. He created the Foxbrug Country Club, now the oldest in the nation.

If gold wasn't your bag at Christmas, you could have bought a two-horsepower leisure motorboat, produced for the first time by New York's Gas Engine and Power Co.

People whose loved ones couldn't afford to indulge them with a bicycle or a power boat might have found the popular Browning single-shot rifle under the tree.

Even those American families on limited budgets probably savored treats at the Christmas groaning board.

Food was abundant and fresh fruits were available.

Oranges were coming out of Southern California on the Sante Fe railroad; bananas were shipped to Boston from Jamaica in just 10 days. Fresh milk was bottled for the first time; and California began commercial production of figs. The traditional turkey was selling for 12 to 18 cents a pound, but those looking to impress probably had no trouble securing a seafood delicacy for the family feast — the North American lobster catch reached an all-time high of 130 million pounds, and the Maryland oyster catch was nearly 15 million bushels.

The rest of the country may have been luxuriating in their limited holiday free time, but Texas cowboys, for once, had the jump on relaxation — whether they wanted it or not. The Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad had reached the heart of

Christmas carnival at the Stock Exchange

Progress hadn't stopped at the train station: In 1885, Chicago's Home Insurance building became the world's first skyscraper.

Louis Pasteur developed a treatment for rabies; and the first successful appendectomy was performed.

Social progress gave women the chance to earn graduate degrees for the first time at Bryn Mawr College, founded by Dr. Joseph Taylor in 1885.

Twenty years after the Civil War, blacks, too, were making inroads. Bishop Benjamin William Arnett was elected to the Ohio legislature, becoming the first black to represent a predominantly white constituency. In New York,

The Cuban Giants, the first black professional baseball team, was organized. (Pitchers and catchers made $18 per week; infielders, $15; outfielders, $12.)

Had this been your first Christmas, you would've been in good company. Ezra Pound was born in 1885, along with D.H. Lawrence, Sinclair Lewis and Anna Pavlova.

"A Child's Garden of Verses" was written in 1885 by Robert Louis Stevenson; and Richard Burton wrote "The Arabian Nights." The Boston Pope was founded; Karl Marx's "Das Kapital" was published; and Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado" opened at London's Savoy Theatre.

And "King Solomon's Mines" — which is one of the movies of Christmas 1985 — was originally a novel — written by H. Rider Haggard in 1885.

If You're Looking At Dogs And Cats, Check Them Out

Americans own an estimated 50 million dogs and about a like number of cats. The Heinz or mixed-breed mutt noses out purebred snooty types. Plain cats run ahead of fancy ones.

Those looking for a purebred dog should check with a reputable local breeder about the top 10 dogs and other purebreds, the Council says.

—Cocker Spaniel: Lovable, likes kids, tries to please owners. That makes a cocker a perfect family dog. Cockers don't need much exercise, making them attractive to elderly, too. Beautiful long coat requires regular grooming. Long furry ears tend to get dunked in water and food dishes, making a mess.

—Poodle: Easy-going, active, alert and a fast learner. Some miniatures may be too high strung for small kids. Standard or larger version is better bet for families with kids. Poodles don't shed. Neither do they have dog odors. Makes them enjoyable — symptom-free — by people with allergies.

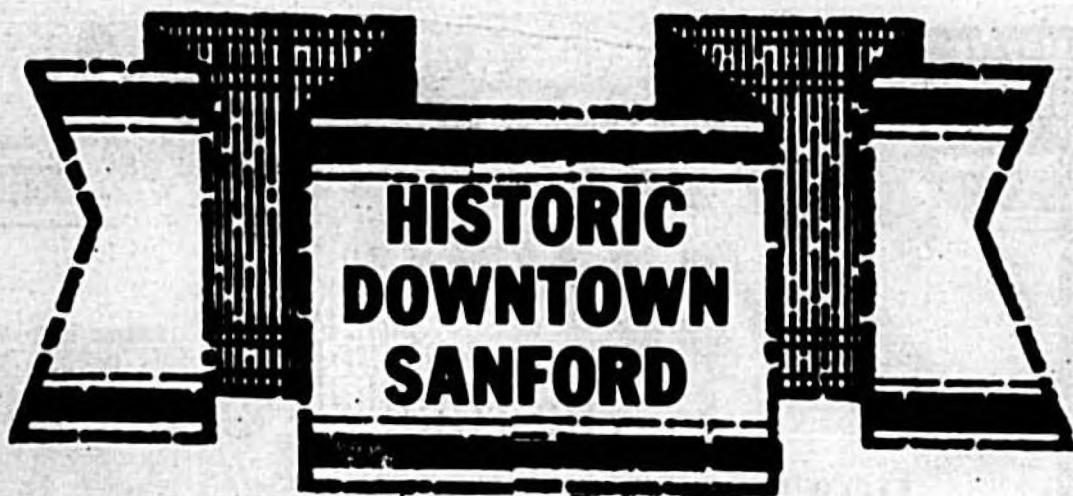

—Labs: Heavy, sturdy, 60 to 75 pounds. Loyal as a cocker but easier to groom. Great speed and drive but gentle and quiet, making labs good housepets. Bright and easy to train. Labs, best suited to suburban and country living, need lots of exercise.

—German shepherd. Excel in obedience training, have terrific temperament and are protective and loving of children. Comfortable living in apartments, though they need regular exercise.

—Miniature Schnauzer. Doesn't require lots of room. Breed is alert, energetic, and fun-loving. In addition to being good watchdog, Schnauzers can remain alone for hours without becoming lonely. Professional grooming recommended.

—Shetland sheepdog. Highly intelligent with a beautiful coat that requires grooming. Good choice for elderly people. This "Lassie" look-alike is sweet, devoted, and makes a good apartment pet. Shelties are somewhat too fragile for very active young kids — the usual kind.

Santa Claus Is Alive And Well On French Riviera

CANET, France (UPI) — Santa Claus has traded his reindeer for suntan lotion and moved to the French Riviera.

Since the Father Christmas museum opened in Canet, a small town on the shores of the Mediterranean, thousands of children of all ages have visited the "museum for childhood" and its collection of toys — some of which date back 4,000 years.

Founder Jean-Claude Baudot not only resembles St. Nick by his whitened hair, rosy cheeks and the twinkling eyes, but has even given Canet a bumper Christmas present: a collection of 3,500 toys, games and dolls gathered over 25 years from garbage cans and flea markets.

"It started in Paris when I found a puppet theater in the garbage," said Baudot, 52, who lives in Paris when he is not in Canet. "I've been collecting ever since."

His collection includes a 4,000-year-old Egyptian doll with moveable arms and legs and an 1870s paper airplane made 20 years before planes actually flew.

"I bought that at a flea market for 10 francs ($1.50)," he said. The old take their place beside futuristic toys and games.

Baudot, who grew up in the Canet area and owns a nearby vineyard, said he conceived of the museum as a way "to give the town an identity."

"I asked the town to build a museum dedicated to childhood," he said. Mayor Jacques Coupet liked the idea and the 20 million franc ($3 million) project was under way.

Canet was chosen because of its "many, many children" and the wide stretch of beach which the museum faces, Baudot said. A 150-foot statue of Santa Claus for the beach is in the works, "like the Statue of Liberty," Baudot said.

The museum took only a year to construct and furnish, and Baudot said 1,000 visitors a day last summer entered exhibits through the "Father Christmas Palace," a hall of mirrors and lights.

Marionettes, circuses and magic objects fill the "World of the Imagination" leading to life-size dolls inhabiting a mansion of games, pictures and puzzles.

A brief visit to "The Real World" of cars, boats and machines is led by an electric train circling the boundaries separating it from the display of artifacts.

The visit ends in the "Room of Anticipation," full of toy inventions and audiovisual "What Ifs."

Baudot also displays what he bills as the "Family Tree of Santa Claus," beginning with pagan gods and Christian saints who were special patrons of children and ending with the introduction of modern Santa Claus by Clement Clarke Moore in his 1822 poem "The Night Before Christmas."

"Santa Claus came from the United States, from New York," Baudot said, although he said the origins of the Christmas gift-giving is a mystery.

Baudot gave his gift in his own mysterious fashion. When the museum opened in May, Father Christmas told the public in a letter that the unseasonal gift was really part of a ransom.

"Jacques Coupet, the mayor of Canet in Roussillon, kidnapped me," wrote the jolly old elf, adding the museum's games, toys and dolls were the ransom. "My friend Jean-Claude Baudot gathered it."

But the liberated St. Nick, comparing the French Riviera to the North Pole, liked it so much that he decided to stay, making his home in the fanciful Santa Claus Museum, the letter said.

Return Of The Christmas Book

Good news! Once again there is a drive to increase literacy in our country. What better time than now to reintroduce the idea of the book as a Christmas gift. The 1986 lists offer a potpourri of titles to fit everyone's taste and budget.

This year the emphasis is on America and its news-makers. A definitive tribute to our time and culture is found in Little Brown & Co.'s

(soon to be a TV special) "Life: The First Fifty Years" ($50), a collection of 4,000 photographs (half in color), accompanied by text detailing important themes of the last five decades. Also from Little Brown, "Kenny Rogers' America: Sights & Insights" gives us a rare glimpse of the popular singer's travels and ideas about our country through his own photographs and thoughtful introductions. Random House also offers a look at our life and times in "I Touch the Future: The Story of Christa McAuliffe" ($16.95). Author Robert T. Hohler, a close family friend, is the reporter who interviewed McAuliffe daily during her NASA training. Also from Random House is Thomas Oliver's "The Real Coke, The Real Story" ($16.95), a historical look at the popular cola beverage from its 1879 creation (containing cocaine) to the advent of Coke Classic.

For baby boomers who wish they could give their own children a blast from their past, Doubleday is offering four books on the lovable clay figure Gumby. Author Jane Hyman has turned these Gumby books into learning tools under the titles "Shapes," "Colors," "Numbers" and "Letters" (all $5.95).

For the cooks on your shopping list, Houghton Mifflin is introducing a See RETURN, page 13 bigger and better sequel to "Carry-Out Cuisine" in "The New Carry-Out Cuisine" ($19.95). With 330 recipes from gourmet shops across America, the author, Phyllis Meras, offers tips and advice on preparation as well as interesting anecdotes about the shops. Another cookbook you won't want to miss is Susan Branch's "Heart of the Home" (Little Brown, $16.95). Simple preparation, fresh foods and the author's beautiful artwork are the key ingredients of her unique book on the art of cooking.

If you're looking for fiction but aren't sure what to buy, Pat Conroy's "The Prince of Tides" (Houghton Mifflin, $19.95) may fit the bill. The author traces the intricacies and complexities of family relationships through the lives of a sister and brother, from World War II through Vietnam. Karleen Koen's first novel, "Through a Glass Darkly" (Random House, $19.95) explores the 18th-century life of a 15-year-old girl who, because of her marriage and the glittering, cynical society around her, is forced to face her own loss of innocence.

Doubleday is offering ballerina Gelsey

Kirkland's autobiography, "Dancing on My Grave" ($17.95), a book about dance, fame and the emotional traumas that can turn dreams into nightmares. Her climb back from the nightmare is an inspiration. Also from Doubleday is the humorous best-seller "More Growing Up Catholic" ($5.95), an affectionate, if somewhat irreverent, look at the lighter side of the Catholic experience. It's written by Jeff Stone. Jane Meara, Maureen Kelly and Richard Davis.

In keeping with satire, Jane Wagner's "The Search for Intelligent Life in the Universe" (Harper & Row, $15.95), based on the smash Broadway hit of the same name, is another of this year's literary hits, with new material and several never-published photographs of Lily Tomlin.

For those who aspire to better personal financial planning, William E. Donoghue's "Lifetime Financial Planner" (Harper & Row, $18.95) is a must. The author combines financial strategy with 1980s problems, such as "Creative Singlehood." An entertaining and informative look at business in the United States is provided by Houghton Mifflin's "The Entrepreneurs: An American Adventure" ($29.95), by Robert Sobel and David B. Sicilia. The book, also a six-part TV miniseries, records the dramatic stories of those who contributed to our society through business.

This year also offers the voices of poet Allen Ginsberg and the late John Lennon. "White Shroud" (Harper & Row, $13.95) is the latest collection of poems from Ginsberg, one of the important voices of our age. Included are works written during his 1984 trip to the People's Republic of China. "Skywriting by Word of Mouth" ($12.95) was written and illustrated by John Lennon and evokes all the humor, imagery and joy that made his original books best-sellers in the '60s.

From Yole To Yule

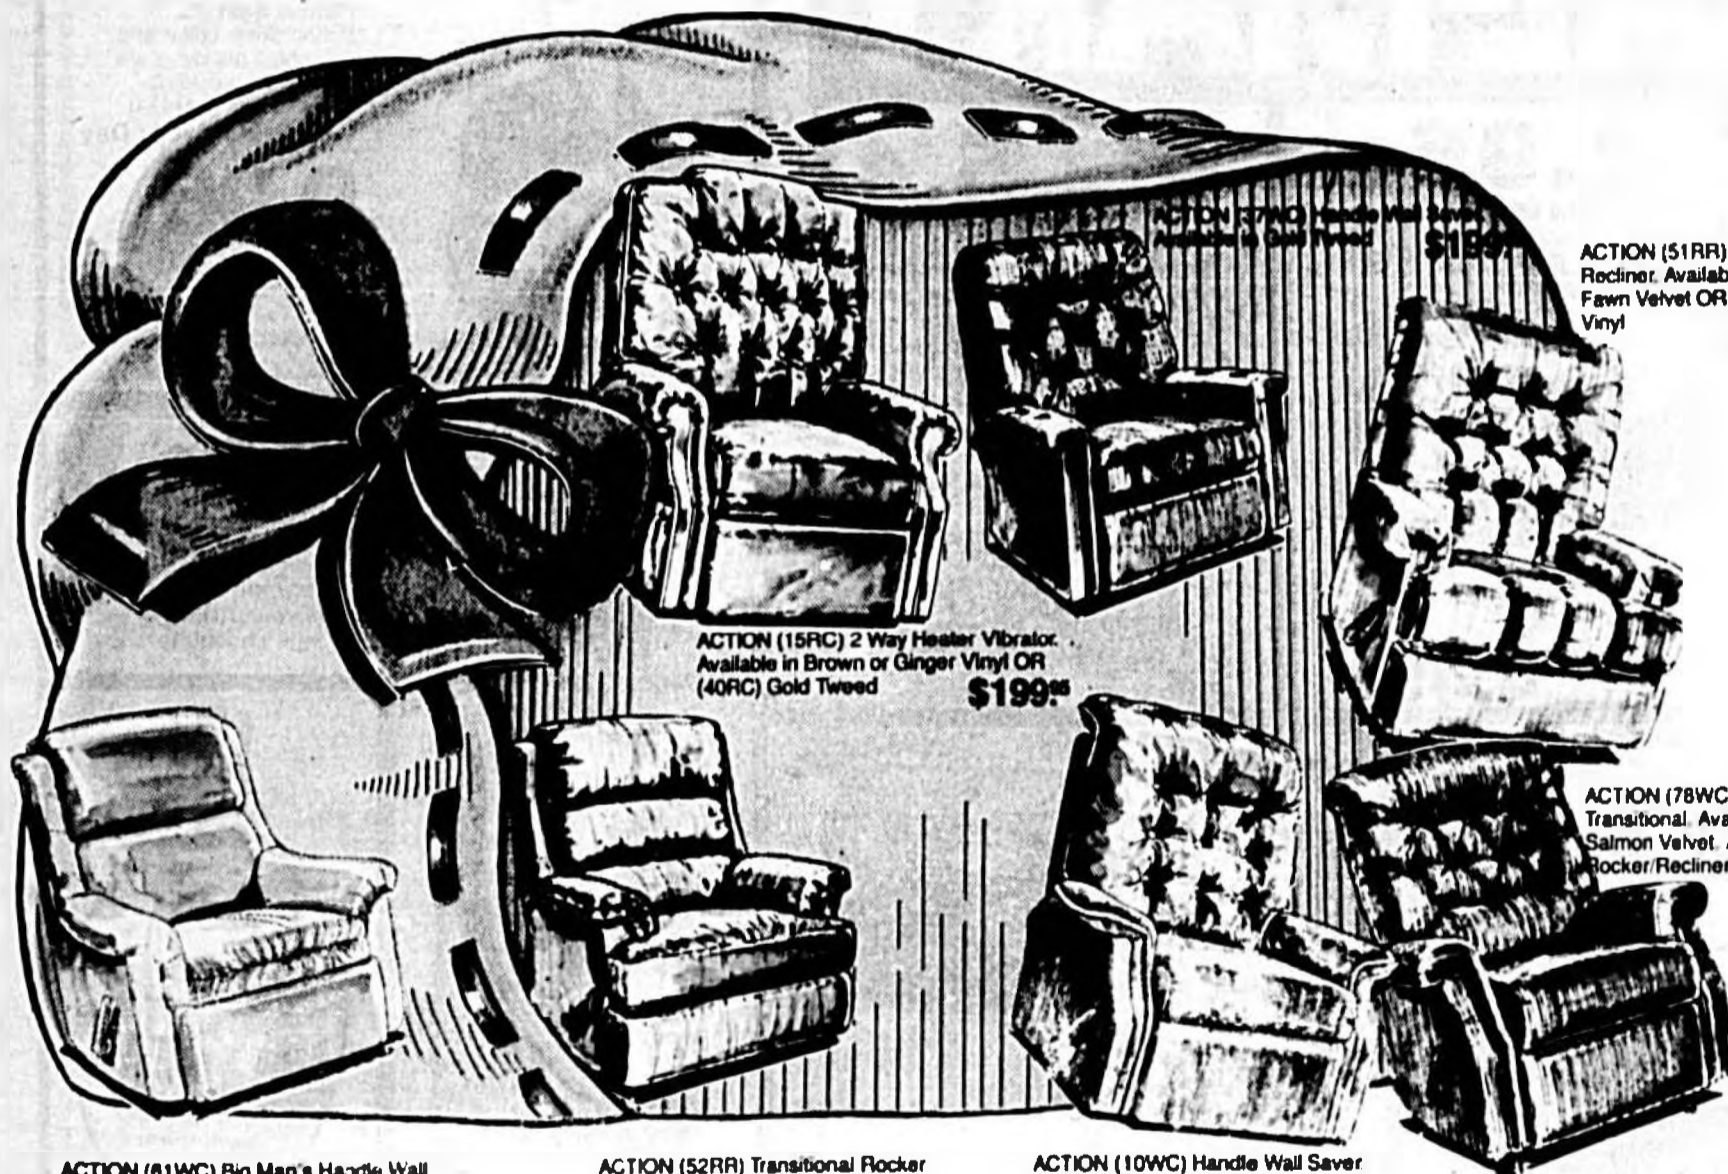

The Persians gave the Yule log its name. It was the custom in Persia to cut down a tree and cut a section from its trunk. The section was round, and marked off into four segments representing the four seasons of the year.

This "calendar" was turned like a wheel and was called a Yole. The log from which it was cut was known as the Yole log.
