Commissioners Agree County System Best Solution

Longwood OKs Sewer Hook-Up

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Longwood City Commissioners agreed by consensus to proceed with plans to hook up with the Seminole County sewer system Wednesday night after some solutions were offered to the city's financial dilemma.

The city had been stymied when Sun Trust, which is holding $3 million in water and sewer revenue bonds issued by the city to build the proposed Grant Street treatment plant and pay off $500,000 existing debt associated with the city's utility system, became concerned over the city's ability to repay the loan after it decided to go with the county instead.

The breakthrough came at a workshop Wednesday night to consider the financial feasibility study prepared by the accounting firm of Kane and Shuck on three options: Building its own 600,000 gallons per day sewage treatment plant; going along with the agreement with Seminole County; or adjustments to the agreement with the county.

An offer by St. Laurent Properties, Inc., to put up $5 million in advance to reserve capacity to help the city with the money required up front by the county came as a surprise to most commissioners, but former Mayor Larry Goldberg, who initiated the sewer negotiations with the county, insisted it had been part of the deal all along.

City Finance Director Barry Weeks challenged this saying, "Larry, you should start telling the truth, tell the truth for once in your life." Waller said the offer was "only on a conversational basis" and was never included in the agreement.

The county wants $1,868,750 for the initial purchase of 325,000 gallons of treatment capacity. Longwood is also required to build a master lift station at the estimated cost of $220,000 to pump waste water from the city to the county collection system. The associated transmission pipe line is incorporated in the county's capacity fee. The agreement calls for Longwood to pay $1.50 per 1,000 gallons monthly treatment charges.

Crowd Attacks Police

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Two Sanford policemen who stopped to check on a report of a shot having been fired in the area of Fifth Street and Pecan Avenue at about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday found several groups of men and women outside in that area. Ultimately a crowd of about 100 followed the officers and allegedly threw rocks, bottles and bicycle wheels at them after they arrested one woman who was part of the crowd.

The woman who was later arrested allegedly began harassing police almost as soon as they arrived.

When a police officer shined a flashlight toward one group the woman allegedly threatened the officer in an obscene manner.

The officers parked on Fifth Street and heard a second shot fired in the area. They got out to search the area. They were surrounded and followed by the crowd and the woman who yelled the obscene threat. She allegedly continued to curse and be abusive toward the officers.

When police began to search one man, who had a bulge in one of his pants pockets that police thought might be a weapon, the woman allegedly tried to interfere with the search. She reportedly continued to berate the officers and refused to calm down.

An elderly man complained about her language and actions

Sanford Plans 'Clean Sweep'

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners have pegged March as the city's third annual "Clean-Up Month" and will be out on Saturday the 14th doing their part along U.S. Highway 17-92.

Commissioners' "clean-sweep" will be along the rundown median and side strips that line 17-92 in the 27th Street area.

Their "Clean-Up Month" declaration came in work session Monday. All five elected officers agreed to participate and additional community support from service organizations is also expected, as has been the case in past years.

"We want to raise citizens' consciousness about taking care of the city's appearance," said Mayor Betye Smith, veteran of the last two clean-ups.

"Residents are again urged to clear their trash, junk and debris," and perhaps do a bit extra to enhance their properties, the mayor said.

Commissioners last year were visible along First Street in downtown Sanford to promote Clean-Up month. Their visibility is hoped to foster support for city-wide efforts from all residents, the officials say.

Two recently installed commissioners, A.A. McClanahan and Whitey Eckstein, will join the mayor and Commissioners Bob Thomas and John Mercer for this year's effort.

Assistance from community organizations, as well as civic-minded citizens, is also being sought to make clean-up month a success, commissioners said.

Among those who helped out last year were the city's Kiwanis, Rotary and Garden clubs and Boy and Girl Scout troupes.

United Way Begins Consolidation Efforts

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Officials from the Seminole County United Way will begin a series of meetings Wednesday with representatives of Orange and Osceola counties to determine the best way for consolidating into a single Heart of Florida United Way. The opening discussion will be held in the Longwood office of Seminole County United Way.

They will be trying to come to agreement on the way the campaign will be run and the structure of the organization.

Bob Walko, executive director of the Seminole County United Way, is scheduled to meet today with Joe Weckerle Jr., executive director of the Orange County

United Way organization and Edward Rawa, the associate director, to reach an agreement on the things that need to be done.

Walko said he hopes things will be squared away and approved by the separate entities between May 15 and June 15 so that the new Heart of Florida corporation will start on July 1, but it is possible if they find areas where more work is needed the combined Heart of Florida organization might not start until January. He said Osceola County United Way approves the idea in concept but is not yet as committed as Orlando and Seminole.

He said this year's campaign, which will be headed up in

Seminole by Joseph Vaccaro, director of employee relations at Stromberg Carlson, will hinge a great deal on how they come out of the discussions. Vaccaro, who was deputy campaign chairman in 1986, will have as his deputy chairman this year, Les Sisson, general manager at NCR Corporation. This year's campaign

Property Tax Suggested For Sanford Landscaping

Sanford property owners may be asked by the city to kick-in a few extra dollars a year to enhance and maintain local landscaping.

Establishment of landscaping tax districts could permanently beautify Sanford's entry ways and leave downtown merchants with financial responsibility for preservation of city-installed aesthetics in their area, according to Sanford Planning and Zoning Board Chairman John Morris.

The districts' formation would come through referendums approved by property owners in each of the targeted areas.

They would provide "good, attractive landscaped areas throughout Sanford, paid for by citizens and maintained by the city," Morris said.

Tax district fees would be modest and firm up before referendums were proposed, he said.

Property owners in Kendall, near Miami, pay about $5 a year for city crews to maintain landscaping along their parkways and streets, according to Morris.

Tax district fees would be based on square-footage of properties, with these funds paying for city labor and supplies, he said.

P&Z discussion of the special tax districts will continue in upcoming weeks, with a recommendation then forwarded to city commissioners, who have the authority to set up referendums.

Downtown Sanford and the city's southern entry way on U.S. Highway 17-92 are under initial consideration for possible district designation. While these areas are predominantly surrounded by commercial properties, landscape districts could also be set up on a smaller scale in residential developments, Morris said.

Homeowners could opt to pay the city an annual fee to have crews maintain areas such as the entryways to their developments, Morris said. This maintenance, when presently done, is usually funded with whatever monies are raised by homeowners' associations, he said.

General budget funds cover maintenance in city owned areas, such as the lakefront and Streetscape landscaping in downtown Sanford, Morris said. Downtown merchants could accept financial responsibility for these areas through a referendum.

He also said recent considerations about beautifying Sanford's arterial route entry ways could put taxing districts to "perfect use." The medians in these zones could be landscaped with bushes, flowers and small trees and maintained with the district tax, Morris said.

Initial discussions by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce and the city's Scenic Improvement Board have considered landscaping for Sanford's southern entry point, along U.S. Highway 17-92.

Morris said this tax district could run from Park Avenue south to Lake Mary Boulevard, or beyond. Property owners in the immediate area would be taxed if the district was established.

The Parks and Recreation Department is looking into annual maintenance costs for arterial routes such as Sanford, Park, Mellonville, and French avenues and First and 25th streets, Morris said.

Dr. Spock Changes Mind About Working Mothers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baby doctor Benjamin Spock says complaints from new mothers have caused him to change his mind about how soon they should return to work. Working Mother magazine says.

Spock told the magazine he would modify the advice in his 1968 edition of "Baby and Child Care" to say a mother can go back to work as soon as she needs to.

But the best selling author still says the process should be gradual. "We still don't know what happens to babies under six months of age," he said.

In a more perfect world, one new parent in every family in the United States would have at least four to six months off with pay, the policy already in place in 75 industrialized nations, Spock, 83, noted.

Another psychologist told the magazine the "necessary bare minimum" a mother should stay at home with her infant is four months.

Spock published his famous book in 1946 and it became one of the biggest selling paperbacks in history.

Smith Differs With League

From Staff and Wire Reports

Sanford Mayor Betye Smith feels "local solutions to local problems" is preferable to "strings" that accompany federal government subsidies.

"I'm not for big government hand-outs," Mrs. Smith said, in a statement that includes housing and rental subsidies and apparently differs from views expressed by many of her National League of Cities colleagues.

They say the federal government's top housing priorities should be financial help for renters and rehabilitation of single and multi-family dwellings, according to a report the national league issued this week.

"I don't like to go against my fellow members," Mrs. Smith said today, "but with federal assistance comes federal strings. And as I think about Sanford's housing problems, I see the solutions being found by Sanford folks, not the federal government."

"It's all tax money anyway, and when you accept it through federal subsidies you take away local control," the mayor said.

Mrs. Smith demonstrated her position against federal supplements last year, when voting against submission of an application that secured the city a $650,000 federal grant to rehabilitate deteriorated homes.

Mrs. Smith said she opposed "the massive amount of administrative guidelines" that the city was required to assume in order to receive the grant.

"I feel very strongly about local government control," Mrs. Smith said. "I prefer local answers to local problems and I think city officials and area enterprises and corporations, working together, can solve housing and other problems without the federal government."

Mrs. Smith said the work ethic, with increased job availability

Vogt Warns Of Martinez Plan To Repeal Tax Exemptions

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate President John Vogt has warned the Senate might balk at the cornerstone of Gov. Bob Martinez' proposed a $17.9 billion state budget — a plan to repeal $512 million in sales tax exemptions.

Martinez' budget depends on the repeal of the exemptions and assorted user fee increases. Without them he cannot finance a rollback of the sales tax rate from the current 5 cents to 4.5 cents on the dollar.

House leaders have already signed off on the exemption-rollback package, which would affect fees for lawyers and other professional services. Vogt said senators were worried Florida would lose business to other states if the package is approved.

"I'm not quite ready to jump on the bandwagon and say, 'Let's tax all the services and this is great,'" Vogt said.

Exemptions for medical services and insurance premiums would remain intact.

The budget, which Martinez unveiled Wednesday, would cover fiscal year 1987-88, which begins July

IN BRIEF

Suspect Arrested For Selling Crack Cocaine To Agent

City/County Investigation Bureau agents reported that on Feb. 3 an undercover agent bought $20 worth of crack cocaine from a man he met at the corner of North and Marker streets near Altamonte Springs.

At 1 p.m. Tuesday at County Road 427 and Marker street a suspect was arrested in the case. Charles Otis Griffin, 38, of 706 Marker St., Altamonte Springs, has been charged with possession and sale of cocaine. He was being held in lieu of $2,000 bond.

Two Accused Of Selling Pot

Two Casselberry men who were allegedly involved in the sale of about half a pound of marijuana to City/County Investigation Bureau agents for $530 have been arrested on charges of possession and sale of over 20 grams of marijuana.

Sheriff's deputies reported arresting Michael Eugene Musko, 21, of 1024 Nodding Pines Way, and Douglas Lee Bledsoe, 22, of 698 Sandpine Lane, at Bledsoe's home at 4:50 p.m. Tuesday. They were being held in lieu of $1,000 bond each.

Dropped Match Box Holds Crack

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who saw a man drop what appeared to be a match box before walking away when the deputy approached him outside the Cool Breeze bar, 2341 Sipes Ave., Sanford.

The man was stopped and where the box was dropped the deputy picked it up and found it held several rocks of crack cocaine, a sheriff's report said.

Jimmie Hampton, 25, of 2250 Greenway St., Sanford, was arrested at 11:24 p.m. Tuesday on a charge of possession of cocaine. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Bagged Gun Leads To Arrest

Seminole County sheriff's deputies who responded to a disturbance call at 1433 Aster Court, Winter Park, reported they were met at the door by a crying woman who handed them a paper bag containing a revolver.

She reportedly said, "Please, God, take this away. He'll hurt me." The woman told the deputies her husband had been drinking and had torn up their home. The deputies saw the man inside the home and reported he was yelling. The suspect reportedly struggled with deputies.

Blair Edwin Parrish, 27, of the above address was arrested at his home at 4 a.m. Wednesday on charges of battery on a policeman and resisting arrest with violence. He was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

Steven Karl Nebel, 27, of 2646 Creekview Circle, Oviedo, reported to sheriff's deputies that about $2,000 worth of items including jewelry were stolen from his home Tuesday.

A gold and diamond bracelet valued at $1,150 was stolen from the home of Dawn Rae Jablonski, 39, of 267 Turnpointe Gate, Longwood, Feb. 13, a sheriff's report said.

Clerk Charged In Embezzlement

A woman who made out paychecks at Penn Aluminum International on Jewett Lane in Sanford, has been charged with grand theft, accused by Sanford police of making out paychecks in the names of former employees, forging their names on the endorsements and taking the money for herself.

The woman allegedly told police that since before last Thanksgiving she took from $5,000 to $10,000 by that method. Police said that about 75 checks are possibly involved, with the cashing of three with a combined value of about $600 confirmed.

Mary Frances Smith, 35, of 1803 Holly Ave., Sanford, was arrested at 5 p.m. at the police station. She has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court March 9.

Late Night Intruder Arrested For Burglary

Virgie T. Sacco, 50, of 7320 Fieldcrest Ave., Winter Park, told sheriff's deputy Greg Futch she found an intruder in her living room at about 3 a.m. Wednesday.

The man reportedly said he had come in through an open door, but Ms. Sacco said she saw an open window in the room. She asked the man to leave and after he went outside she locked the door and the window. She told Futch she was sure she had locked the doors before going to bed.

After the man went outside, she awoke another occupant of the home, Ralph W. Coarsey, 54, and they looked outside to see the suspect checking the doors and windows of the home. The suspect allegedly broke a kitchen window. Futch was called to the scene and reported finding the suspect hiding behind a tree in the yard.

Robert Matthew Stanakis, 24, of 373 Norwood Court, Oviedo, was charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling at 4:10 a.m. Wednesday. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

County Agrees To Resod Percolation Pond

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer
Fred Allegro of 1960 Lake Emma Road has a gripe with the county that stems from a $10,000 agreement that his property be used as a drainage basin for Lake Emma Road, completed in March 1985. He wants the easement reversed or the county to condemn and buy his property that he says is ruined.

The county has refused to do anymore than sod the slopes of the pond for his wife's Arabian horses, and Allegro said his next step will be to talk to his attorney about suing the county.

Allegro appeared before the county commission recently to plead his case.

He said Commissioner Bob Sturm approached him three years ago and offered him a deal with the county by which Allegro would get $10,000 and the county could use part of his six acres for a percolation and retention area. The pond would consist of three-quarters of an acre that would retain water up to that of a 25-year downpour.

"The retention area was not completed to plans and last year the pond overflowed three times to dump six inches of water in our driveway," Allegro said. He said the pond caused too much erosion — that it was supposed to have "mowable sides" and instead had "a cliff."

Drivers have been using the road for two years, and he assumed he would have the full use of his property for horse raising by the time the road was complete. But he has been told it will take yet another year for the final seed crop of grass to grow. "I can't use my property the way it was intended to be done (as pastureland). I was assured that I would have a gentle swell. We have suffered damage due to the lack of conformity to the original engineering plans, and I feel that three years is too long to wait."

He asked for some work on his land that would include sodding of the open retention pond that was supposed to have a 10-to-1 slope. And for his two years' loss of the use of his land, he wanted either a cash settlement or a paved driveway. The county has paved other driveways along Lake Emma Road.

"This has been a real insensitivity to a property owner who contributed greatly to the Lake Emma Road project. I feel like I have given more than anyone else on the Lake Emma Road project," he said.

County Engineer Jerry McCollum said everything necessary had been done on the property — that seed and mulch was all that was called for on the pond slopes. He said the agreement had been to pay Allegro $10,000 and Allegro was to do the landscaping.

But Allegro said, due to the "incompletion" of the project, "I could not do my landscaping."

McCollum said the seed planting was working "and the grass is growing," but Allegro argued it was only rye grass. McCollum said there was some slow seeding bahia grass too.

Finally, McCollum agreed although it was unusual, the county could sod the slopes of the pond, but not the base. But Allegro said it wasn't enough.

"I think we should just reverse the easement," he said. "I'll contact my attorney."

Commissioner Bob Sturm moved to resod the slopes, and commission Chairman Fred Streetman seconded. Commissioners Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirchhoff objected but the motion passed 3-2.

City Votes To Vacate Right-Of-Way

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The Longwood City Commission has vacated and abandoned a 28,300 sq-ft. portion of Wildmere Avenue west of Sarah Avenue and it will revert back to the property owner St. Laurent Properties. The firm withdrew its application for vacating the north section of Charles Avenue.

The developer wants the street closed so that a 171,000 sq-ft. warehouse can be built on the property, which adjoins its Florida Central Commerce Park. The Wildmere Avenue portion is the former site of the American Wood Products plant destroyed by fire.

The city commission voted 3-2 for the ordinance with Mayor Ed Myers and Commissioner Lynette Dennis casting the dissenting votes. In making the motion, Commissioner Harvey Smerilson said the right-of-way is completely useless to the city.

Deputy Mayor June Lormann in voting for the ordinance, said "For selfish reasons, I'm against it. I wish things could have been done for the city by St. Laurent that haven't been done, but our attorney has told us we can't do anything else with the property."

Myers said, "I didn't want to vacate the street. I don't like to vacate any city property." Mrs. Dennis said, "I don't think the city should arbitrarily give away city property. Who knows what's in the future?"

The commissioners had hoped to convert the right-of-way to some use, sell it or swap it, but were told by City Attorney Ann Colby they could not legally use it for anything but its legally dedicated purpose.

City staff and the Land Planning Agency had recommended vacating the portion of the streets, since there were no plans to use the right-of-way now or in the future. The section of Wildmere is west of County Road 427 and runs into the railroad tracks. There is also a duplex blocking part of the street.

Ann Sweeting, representing St. Laurent Properties, said she had withdrawn the request for vacating 38,350 sq. ft. of Charles Avenue north of Marvin Avenue, because of the controversy involving that request and in hopes it would facilitate the smaller Wildmere Avenue vacation.

John Morrison, representing the applicant at the Jan. 19 meeting when the ordinance was tabled, told the commissioners that approval would permit better utilization of the property and increase property taxes and result in $10,000 additional income from license fees. He said St. Laurent would loop the water lines which would improve water flow and safety.

Storms Rack West, Plains

By United Press International
Storms rumbling with lightning and thunder today dumped snow over the Southern Rockies of Colorado to New Mexico, pushed into the Plains with wintry weather and sent cold winds into normally balmy Southwest.

"It's not a very major storm right now," said Hugh Crowther of the National Weather Service. "As it gets over the southern Plains it will pick up more moisture from the Gulf of Mexico but how intense it will be I can't say."

Texas and Oklahoma were expected to be hardest hit by the winter storms now over the Southern Rockies and sending cold air into the entire Southwest.

Late Wednesday, the storms had dropped up to 3 inches of snow on the higher elevations of Arizona and sent strong northeast gusts blowing across Southern California. Gale-force winds howled over the central coast of the state and travelers' advisories were posted today for 30-mph winds in parts of southern California.

A frost warning was issued for the San Diego, Calif., area where the temperature may dip to 25 degrees early today.

On the other side of the country, the effects of an ice storm that cut power to 21,000 people in Kentucky Monday gave 50 state National Guard troops unusual duties late Wednesday.

The troops, coming to the aid of thousands of cows whose milking machines were idled by the storm, circulated 18 generators to operate milking machines in rural areas where power was not expected to be restored until Saturday.

Over the Rockies, winter storms lashed the mountains and eastern plains regions of New Mexico today and could bring more than 4 inches of snow.

The storms, sometimes accompanied by thunder and lightning, dumped snow as far north as Colorado and Wyoming late Wednesday, showed Denver with 3 inches of snow and dropped 6 inches on nearby southeast Aurora, Colo.

Heavy snow also fell in northwest Wyoming, where the town of Meeteetse was blanketed with 8 inches of snow in just five hours late Wednesday.

Knowles To Sanford: Adopt Road Impact Fee

Sanford Herald, Sanford, FL. Thursday, Feb. 19, 1987-3A

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

A proposal for Sanford to adopt its own transportation impact fee was made by the city's former manager Monday, just moments after commissioners debated Seminole County's planned transportation impact fee with two county representatives.

A Sanford transportation impact fee is possible, but not within the next two years. City Manager Frank Faison said. It would be charged separately from transportation fees the county is now considering for all municipalities and unincorporated areas. Transportation impact fees are charged developers to cover growth-related road improvements and expansions.

On Monday Pete Knowles, former city manager who now acts as private consultant to developers, said Sanford's adoption of its own transportation impact fee "would be preferable to involuntary requests for contributions" the city makes of developers.

"It would be much better for developers to have it in an impact fee so we know project costs up front," Knowles said.

An impact fee "would be an equitable charge," whereas "the requests for contributions are not," Knowles said.

The "requests" began when Knowles was city manager, according to Faison and Planning and Engineering Director Bill Simmons.

Additionally, staff produced correspondence from Knowles, dated in late 1985, that indicated the clients he represents were not disputing at that time the roadway provisions they were now opposing.

"You agreed to do it with no protest, but now all of a sudden there's a big problem," Simmons said to Knowles.

Knowles said the "problem" was "an exorbitant" quarter million dollar cost for the roadwork now that figures have been firmed up. He said because his client is the first in that particular area of Sanford he is being required to handle its entire transportation system.

This includes road construction, rights-of-way, engineering studies, and drainage, while abutting properties will contribute nothing, "except future impact," Knowles said.

Knowles was speaking for Lennar Homes, which is developing the Carriage Cove mobile park in southern Sanford, behind the Seminole Centre off U.S. Highway 17-92.

According to Knowles the Lennar project, Carriage Cove North, will have a 15 percent impact in the area, while surrounding undeveloped parcels will make up the balance. These sites are zoned multi-family residential, allowing more residences than the single family zoning Carriage Cove is under.

Knowles said.

Mayor Bettye Smith and Commissioner A.A. McClanahan agreed Lennar's paying for a full transportation system would be "unequitable" and staff was directed by the mayor to "work up a creative solution" with Knowles.

After the meeting, Simmons said Lennar homes had only to pave to the nearest access route, as required by city ordinance. As the project progressed, other routes could be installed, as necessary. He said it had been staffs' "understanding" until recently that Knowles' clients planned to install a more comprehensive system at the onset of the project.

Simmons also said there were several reasons why the city was holding off on transportation impact fee studies. The fee studies were requested in April by the city's future growth advisory board, which includes Knowles among its members.

Simmons said budget funds weren't available for the fee study, the city was interested in first seeing what the county's impact fees system would be, and the city also wanted to finish up its new comprehensive plan because data in it addresses traffic projections and patterns. The comp plan is slated for completion this summer.

Police Probe Alleged Theft From Charity

Altamonte Springs police are investigating the allegation that two former employees of an Altamonte Springs charitable organization took $4,900 in checks from the firm for personal use.

The accusation was made by the firm's president.

David Lloyd Mount, president of the Florida Council of Handicapped Organizations, also alleges that personal files, bank and internal revenue statements, three payroll checks totaling $159; nine telephones worth $20 each and $50 worth of office equipment were taken from the firm's Douglas Avenue headquarters by the employees after he fired them Monday.

The allegations were made Monday afternoon.

The $4,900 in checks was drawn without authorization to cover the employees' rent, utility and car repair bills, from Oct. 1 to Feb. 16, according to the report Mount filed with Altamonte Springs police.

Mount said the firm operates through telephone solicitors to raise funds for handicapped children.

Altamonte Springs police have taken documents from the firms' 445 Douglas Ave. headquarters to assist the investigation. Lt. Steve Garver said Wednesday. The documents include bank statements and office records, he said.

According to Mount, the two former employees "ordered" secretary Heather Anne Spanonte to draw $4,900 worth of checks on the firm's account without authorization. Three rent checks for $579 apiece were among the drafts. Mount's report alleges.

The bank account was closed Tuesday and a new one opened in the firm's name, he said.

The firm has been headquartered on Douglas Avenue since December, after opening last July at San Sebastian Square.

New Medical Bill Relieves Elderly

President Reagan has sent Congress a proposal that could remove the specter of financial ruin that confronts thousands of senior citizens who are suffering from catastrophic illnesses. The framework for such legislation already exists in the thoughtful report that was submitted to the White House several months ago by Dr. Otis Bowen, secretary of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

Regrettably, that report is being attacked by powerful conservatives in and out of the Reagan administration. The critics include Attorney General Edwin Meese; James Miller, director of the Office of Management and Budget; Beryl Sprinkel, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers; and Stuart Butler of the Heritage Foundation. They contend that the Bowen plan relies too much on federal involvement and not enough on the private sector.

To the contrary, Bowen's recommendations are consistent with the president's philosophy of protecting the elderly against catastrophic costs with a self-financing program, while prompting greater private-sector participation in providing health care for aged Americans.

Simply stated, Bowen has proposed a voluntary extension of Medicare to cover prolonged hospital stays in return for an annual premium of $59.04 on top of the $214.80 a year now being charged.

The beneficiary's out-of-pocket expenditures would be limited to $2,000 per year. Under current law, there is no such limit. This modest plan wouldn't cost the government a dime, because the premiums collected from a pool of 31 million recipients would cover all of the costs. Meanwhile, Medicare recipients should be willing to pay an additional $4.92 per month for the peace of mind that their life's savings would not be wiped out by the expense of long-term hospitalization.

Such a plan would not freeze out private insurance companies because very few of them provide catastrophic health coverage. Indeed, the federal government could be taking these companies off the hook by enabling them to fine-tune their Medigap policy coverage, where there is considerable room for improvement.

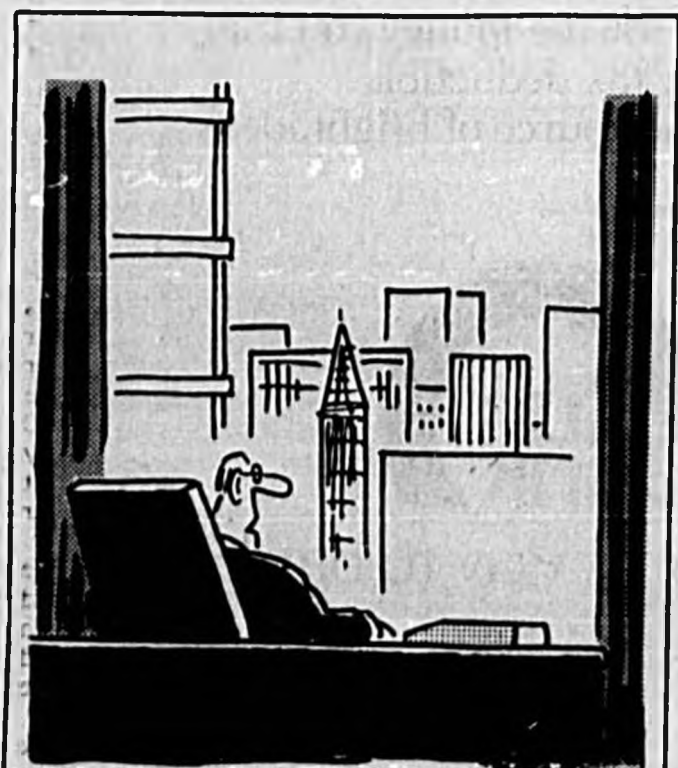

A recent congressional report disclosed that the elderly squander more than $3 billion annually on useless medical-insurance policies, which are supposed to make up the difference between what Medicare pays and the remaining cost to the patient. Medicare currently pays only 48 percent of the average senior citizen's medical expenses. Clearly, the federal government isn't going to pick up a larger share of these costs, given the budgetary constraints of Gramm-Rudman.

The biggest problem facing senior citizens is the staggering cost of long-term confinement in a nursing home. The average annual nursing-home bill is $22,000, none of which is covered by Medicare. Here, then, is a tremendous opportunity for enterprising private insurance companies to provide low-cost coverage for persons during their working years.

The Reagan administration has announced its intention to offer federal workers the option of exchanging some of their federally subsidized life insurance for a health-benefit plan that would provide them with long-term protection. The large number of federal employees would allow a private carrier to offer such a plan at a minimal rate in much the same way that a small increase in the monthly Medicare premium could protect the nation's elderly against catastrophic hospital costs.

To be sure, the problem of nursing-home protection will not be solved in the near future. But the time is right for a congressional consensus on catastrophic health coverage that could spare thousands of senior citizens the crushing burden of long-term hospital bills.

New FBI: Testament To Modernity, Morality

Comparing FBI directors is irresistible.

A panoply of changes by the bureau's fourth director, William Hedgcock Webster, has brought a modernity and morality unknown to its first director, John Edgar Hoover.

A just-published book, "Secrecy and Power: the Life of J. Edgar Hoover," painfully tells the story of a dedicated law-enforcement official's abuse of power.

"Justice is incidental to law and order," Hoover once boasted.

That disdain for constitutional checks and balances created in his compulsion for "fomenting violence and unrest" (according to a Senate report) and attempting to gut the reputation of Martin Luther King Jr.

Racism was a Hoover standby. Some black agents were used as his personal servants.

Fifteen years after Hoover's death, a new FBI has evolved under Webster.

A restored servant of the Constitution, the FBI has become a world model of crime detection and an American model of racial and sexual equality.

"We must combat terrorism without turning ourselves into a police state," Webster said recently.

In an exclusive interview, the ruddy-faced director, who looks more like an avuncular friend than a scourge of criminals, talked about the bureau's work during his nine years and about his coming retirement.

The St. Louis native has eased gracefully into his 62 years. No gray hair. An easy smile crinkles his eyes into a gentleness that belies his sharp, judicial mind.

Concern for civil liberties comes naturally to the former U.S. Court of Appeals judge. So does pride in the bureau's accomplishments.

Was the FBI involved in that spectacular bust of the Colombian drug lord Carlos Lehder Rivas?

He nodded. "But I can't tell you about it," he added with a soft smile.

But he can list some of the more personally satisfying accomplishments after nine years:

"...our work in organized crime (we've gotten cases against some of the top players), our work in public corruption (public integrity as an issue is important), we won all the cases in Abscam, our efforts against terrorism with counter-intelligence."

"Of equal significance," he continued, "is what's going on in Chicago and our undercover techniques used to expose corruption in the judiciary."

Acknowledging that drugs had become "the No. 1 crime," he said that 1,000 of his 9,200 agents were assigned to the drug problem.

Could he use more?

"If we are given 200 more agents, we make more arrests. This means more trials, more prosecutions, more jails and more prisons. The federal prison system is currently overcrowded by 20 percent."

"I want the best law-enforcement agency, and I can't have that if one component of the system is distorted."

The best law-enforcement agency is also one of the most integrated.

During Webster's administration, the number of black agents has doubled.

Women agents have increased from 93 to 702, and the number of Hispanic, Asian and native American agents has doubled.

Skewed Economic Sermon

LONDON — The Right Reverend David Jenkins, Anglican Bishop of Durham, is unorthodox in faith and orthodox in Fabian Socialism of yesteryear. His attaining high office in the Anglican Church has been marked by his lack of adherence to historic concepts of the nature of divinity. His comments on economic matters indicate that he follows the true faith of socialism.

In a recent sermon that attracted international attention, Bishop Jenkins delivered what The Independent, a leading British newspaper, referred to as "a powerful attack on capitalism and the credit markets which support it" — and by implication the government of Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher.

The bishop was outraged that financial whiz-kids in London earn fifty thousand pounds sterling, about $75,000 a year. "If morally and socially outrageous salaries are commanded by some or are held to be required by the system," he said, "then consider whether this is not one more symptom of a system which is becoming morally decadent."

The bishop clearly showed that he meant the capitalist system. It left a trail of losers, he said, including the poor in the Third World.

Bishop Jenkins is one of those modern clergymen who have more interest in the Third World than the next world. His understanding of economics is as confused as his understanding of theology. London is a major financial center. Much of the prosperity of contemporary Britain depends on financial services offered by British firms. British financial organizations cannot compete successfully against Japanese and American firms if British firms pay only low-level salaries to their employees, who must possess exceptional skills and judgment.

Britain needs more high-pay employment to attract business, not fewer jobs in the five-figure range. Bishop Jenkins, however, as The Independent said, is "well known for his Christian socialism." He wants economic leveling, which was attempted after 1945 when the Labor Party was in power. Taxation was confiscatory. It drove talented Britons overseas. British citizens continue to seek jobs abroad because remuneration is too low in many occupations.

To Tax Or Not? You Answer The Question

By Jack Anderson
And Joseph Spear

WASHINGTON — We called upon Budget Director James Miller the other day to discuss the onrushing financial crisis. His office is dominated by a green, 10-foot rubber dragon, which he calls the "deficit dragon." He has made it his quest, he said, to slay the dragon.

Already each man, woman and child in America owes $10,000 as his or her share of the national debt; every newborn baby starts life $10,000 in the red. Unless the federal government's prodigal spending habits are reversed, our children will owe $130,000 apiece as their share of the national debt by the end of the century, and their obligation will jump another $10,000 every year!

This means our children will inherit a bankrupt nation, trillions of dollars in debt, their living standards badly eroded to support us in the lifestyle we've become accustomed to. This is immoral, and our children will hate us for it.

The time has come for us to stop charging our government services and high living standards to our children. We must start paying our own way now before it is too late. If we don't slay the deficit dragon, our

Euphoria Setting In

The euphoria that has overtaken the Democrats since November, when they captured the Senate and the Iran/contras controversy began to unfold, appears to be cresting in a conviction that liberalism is about to make a comeback. That, at any rate, was the recent conclusion of Mayor Joseph Riley of Charleston, S.C., president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

"The continued assault on American domestic policy has ended," he announced happily at the organization's annual mid-winter meeting. "Our programs and our needs and the needs of our cities are not going to be slashed any further." He predicted that mayors would now be able to go on the offensive for the first time since Reagan became president, demanding more funds for their ever-needy burghs.

And at a recent meeting of Democratic state chairmen and the party's national executive committee, Texas Commissioner of Agriculture Jim Hightower — a red-hot liberal who never really cooled off — went even further. Hightower denounced the bankers and the "robber barons" of big business, and called for more federal spending to help farmers, college students, the unemployed and low-income Americans.

The assembled high Democrats loved it. According to one reporter, "Mr. Hightower was surrounded by state party officials requesting a transcript of his remarks and inviting him to speak in their states."

Of course, all this generosity to the voters will have to be paid for with higher taxes — a point that is traditionally ignored in Democratic campaign oratory. But shucks, you can't play poker without a few chips, can you? The Democrats' strategy is obvious: Raise taxes sky-high, on the pretext that this is necessary to reduce that dreadful federal deficit, then earmark about 10 percent of the proceeds for debt reduction and spend the other 90 on "benefits." In Harry Hopkins' immortal words, "Tax and tax, spend and spend, elect and elect."

This swift return of liberalism, less than three months after Democratic fortunes revived, is proof that the call by Gary Hart and others for "new ideas" never really appealed to most Democrats. Their 1980 defeat by Ronald Reagan and his fellow conservative Republicans was hard to bear, and his landslide victory in 1984 over that true-blue liberal Walter Mondale was almost unendurable. But neither experience has sufficed to detach the Democrats from their 55-year allegiance to the belief that big government can be a beneficent father figure to the American people, fulfilling their "needs" with money taxed from... er... corporations. The rich? Somebody.

The irony is that conservatives are probably almost as happy as Jim Hightower to see liberalism coming back. As long as the Democrats were out there casting about for "new ideas," there was always at least a theoretical possibility that they might stumble across a few — thus putting conservatives to the trouble of analyzing and debunking a whole new batch of slogans.

SCIENCE WORLD

Panel: Jupiter Was UFO

By Gayle Young
UPI Science Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The bright white and yellow UFO that a Japanese pilot said appeared near his airliner for 40 minutes last November in the Alaska sky was probably nothing more than Jupiter sparkling in the twilight, according to a professional investigator.

Philip J. Klass, investigating the highly publicized incident for the Committee for the Scientific Investigation of Claims of the Paranormal, said the very bright planet was only 10 degrees above the horizon that Nov. 18 night, making it appear to the pilot to be at roughly his own 35,000 feet altitude.

Mars, slightly lower and 20 degrees to the right of Jupiter, also was visible but not as bright.

The Japan Air Lines pilot, Kenju Terauchi, never reported seeing either planet, according to the report. He only reported to Federal Aviation Administration controllers in Anchorage that he saw a "white and yellow" light.

Klass, who was an editor of Aviation Week & Space Technology magazine for 35 years, said two other pilots received permission that night to deviate their courses toward the JAL flight so they too could see the reported unidentified flying object.

But while both pilots spotted the Japanese plane, neither saw anything else unusual.

"A good 25 percent of all UFOs reported during a recent 15-month period were due to bright planets or stars," said Paul Kurtz, president of the Investigative organization. "It's a common misidentification. It seems to be moving when you're moving."

Kurtz said Americans placed a lot of emphasis on the pilot's sighting because he was a pilot and Japanese.

The initial UFO report from Alaska also included that air controllers detected a "blip" on the radar screen near the JAL airliner that seemed to confirm the pilot's sighting.

Klass said, however, that such "blips" are common in mountainous regions and snow covered terrain because echos of radar beams bouncing off an object are detected on the screen a second time.

increase. But invariably, Congress has found new ways to spend the money. The Grace Commission found $141 billion in waste alone going down the government drain. While some of this waste has been cut, Chairman J. Peter Grace has called on Congress to cut out all the waste before it even thinks about increasing taxes. Some government leaders believe that enough spending can be cut eventually to wipe out the deficit, balance the budget and stabilize the government's finances.

WARNING TO SENIORS: Federal investigators are going after outfits that offer senior citizens — for a price — services that the government provides free. One example of this is a company calling itself the Bureau of Social Security Services, which offers to check an individual's earnings record for a $7 membership fee. The Social Security Administration provides such records at no charge. Rep. Olympia Snowe, R-Maine, has introduced legislation that would require such mail-order offers to state on the envelope's face that the services can be obtained free from Uncle Sam, and to point out that they are unofficial.

Raiders Move To Threshold Of Dream

SCC Bops Central Florida; Battles Valencia For Title

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Basketball

Malcolm Houston, Vance Hall and Darris Gallagher combined for 72 points as Seminole Community College moved within one victory of a place in the state tournament field with a 101-86 victory over Central Florida in the Mid-Florida Conference post-season qualifying tournament before 333 fans at the SCC Health Center Wednesday night.

The Raiders, 28-4, play Valencia tonight at 7:30 for the championship and one of the eight elite spots in the tournament which begins next Thursday at the University of Central Florida, Valencia, 13-14, handled St. Johns River, 94-84, in Wednesday's first game.

Coach David Jones' Matador, the hottest team in the MFC the past two weeks, shocked the Raiders, 81-78, at Orlando on Feb. 3. Houston, who led SCC with 26 points, said the Raiders have not forgotten. "We owe them one," Houston said. "We deserve a spot in the state tournament and we're going to get it Thursday."

The Raiders were clicking on all cylinders Thursday as Efrem Brooks finally passed an "exit test" in an English class and was declared eligible and James Morris, considered lost for the season due to ligament damage, made a miraculous recovery, according to SCC coach Bill Payne.

Central Florida, which played the Raiders a two-point game last Saturday, could not keep pace. SCC built a nine-point lead at halftime, 45-36, and could not get closer than six points in the final 20 minutes.

SCC shot 51 percent and CFCC converted 48 percent but the big difference came at the foul line where the Raiders notched 27 of 36 attempts and the Patriots connected on just 6 of 20. The Raider effectively shackled 6-3 Mike Ford inside, limiting his bull-like thrusts to just 12 points, less than half of his average output the past six games.

Hall, a 6-8 sophomore center, and Claude Jackson, a 6-7 sophomore forward, took turns clogging the middle. Hall finished with 24 points and eight rebounds while Jackson took down a game-high 10 boards and chipped in 10 points.

"We didn't get the calls inside," Central Florida coach Benny Gabbard said. "I just can't reconcile the spread (15 points to two points) from last time to this time. It worked on our brain cells."

While the big men worked on the brain cells in the paint, Darris Gallagher was his usual elusive self outside. Gallagher, a 5-7 sophomore guard, tossed in 22 points and handed out 13 assists. He connected on all nine of his free throws.

Gallagher said a spread offense — initiated with SCC on top, 71-62, with 8:44 to play — demoralized the Patriots. "It was real important to get our point across that we were going to run some clock," the Orlando Edgewater product said. "We got some penetration and hit our outside jumpers."

The Raiders ran 40 seconds off the clock before Dunning fired from the corner. He missed but Houston controlled the board in midair, spun and dropped in the rebound effort for a 73-62 lead.

Darris Gallagher (No. 10) beats Central Florida's Mike Ford on the baseline for a reverse layup in SCC's 101-86 victory Wednesday night. The Raiders play Valencia tonight for the title with the winner earning a trip to the state tournament.

Sophomore Mission: Get Payne A Date With State

The mission was not in their jump shots, rebounds or passing.

It was in their eyes. Sophomores Darris Gallagher, Claude Jackson and Vance Hall, the backbone of 54 Seminole Community College victories over the past two years, said Wednesday night they would not let their coach down. They looked right through you as they vowed to make a date with state for coach Bill Payne.

Despite those 54 victories — and many more the previous three years — the successful SCC coach had yet to pace the sidelines of a Junior College State Basketball Tournament. With Wednesday's 101-86 victory over Central Florida, Payne and his Raiders moved to the threshold of their dream.

A victory tonight over Valencia at the SCC Health Center (7:30 tipoff) will qualify them for one of the elite eight positions of the state tournament which begins next Thursday at the University of Central Florida gym in Orlando.

The sophomores said Wednesday they know how much their coach yearns for that opportunity. Tonight, they plan to make his dream come true.

"We are 40 minutes from state," Gallagher, who totaled 22 points and dished out 13 assists Wednesday, said. "We know it will be no cakewalk Thursday, but we will win it for coach (Payne)."

Jackson, who poured in 10 points and grabbed a game-high 10 rebounds, echoed Gallagher's thoughts. "We want to win this one for the coach," he said. "We know the season will not be complete unless we go to the state tournament."

"We have got a lot of confidence in ourselves now, and we know how hard coach works. We are going to make his dream come true."

Hall, a 6-foot-8 center, who contributed 24 points and eight boards to Wednesday's victory, said a trip to the state tournament will be the reward for two years of hard work under Payne. "I have never been to a state tournament," the St. Petersburg product said. "We all want to go. We will not take Valencia lightly. We are going to play hard for 40 minutes."

Payne, more relaxed than usual following his 28th victory in 32 games, said the state-tournament berth is as important to his players as for himself, and hard-working assistant Dean Smith.

"I think this is my best team," Payne said. "It is just a great bunch of kids. These sophomores have 54 wins. They need a chance to go to state and showcase themselves."

Payne said the Feb. 4 81-78 upset loss to Valencia is fresh in the players' minds. He knows the Matadors will be fired up tonight after knocking off St. Johns Rivers, 94-84, Wednesday. "The underdog is ready to just up and bite again," Payne said. "They are higher than a kite. They want to go to state, too."

The Raiders faced a similar Valencia team two years ago in the post-season playoff tournament. Cleve Williams and Tony Fluker combined for two-thirds of the Matadors' points to deny the Raiders a state trip.

David Jones, Valencia's first-year coach, said the Feb. 4 upset should have no reflection on tonight's game. "Seminole played one of its worst games of the year that night. They were

"And we played one of our best. We're at least 10 points behind talent-wise. If we got faster than 10 miles an hour, we will lose. "We must set the tempo."

Fister's Tips On Soccer Protocol

Friday night at Lake Mary High's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, the Lake Mary boys soccer team will be playing Melbourne's Bulldogs in the 4A-3 Section playoff, with the winner receiving a berth in the 4A State Final Four.

It is the most important game in Lake Mary soccer history and the Rams are counting on a big home crowd (about three times Tuesday's 500 fans would be good) to help push them toward their ultimate goal.

Although this is one of the top areas in the state for soccer, it is not known as a "fans game" because the contest is 80 minutes long and there is little scoring when two good teams play. Also, there are no professional leagues that get enough media exposure for prospective fans to emulate what they see.

Unless you play the game yourself, or have been around it long enough to understand the strategy and intricacies, it may be difficult to sit through an entire game and show a pulse at the same time. Unless you've been a fan for a while, it's sometimes hard to tell whether the noise the person behind you just made was cheering or intestinal rumbling caused by moving gas.

Just because there is little scoring doesn't mean there is nothing to get excited about, though. The prospect of the home team going to the state tournament is reason enough to stand, or sit, or kneel and shout.

And don't be scared away by the cold. For a game of this magnitude the Lake Mary concession stand will be amply stocked with hot chocolate, coffee and hot dogs. If you don't want to consume mass quantities of hot liquids, bring a blanket, an extra jacket or a warm, friendly (preferably living) body.

And, if you want to get into the spirit of the game and back the home team, the following guide of when and when not to cheer may be of some use.

When not to cheer:

When Melbourne's starting lineup is being announced: It may be showing good sportsmanship to applaud for the opponents at this time, but it's better (if possible, without being obscene) to give them a resounding boo and make it as hostile an environment as possible for the visitors.

If Lake Mary has a penalty kick: It is best to stay quiet and let the player taking the all-important PK have total concentration. As soon as the ball splits the pipes, though, scream to your hearts content.

If a Lake Mary player gets a red card: Even if justified in getting the red card, you should never approve when the home team is forced to play at a man disadvantage. Cheering for an ejected player may also get the opposing team even more fired up.

When to cheer:

When Lake Mary's starting lineup is being announced: It's nice for a player to know that the home crowd is behind him from the outset.

Any time a Lake Mary player has the ball: You will probably have laryngitis the next day but if you keep cheering there's a good chance the Rams will keep playing well. If you don't want laryngitis, perpetual hand clapping is acceptable.

If a Lake Mary player gets a yellow card: This means one of the Rams is being either physical or obnoxious enough to get noticed, and to be warned about it and fans should get excited when their players are fired up and playing hard. Of course, one yellow card should be sufficient to get the team and fans fired up.

If a Lake Mary coach gets a yellow card: Usually occurs when a coach is steamed at either an official's blunder or an official's failure to reprimand an opposing player for roughing up a Ram. When a coach sticks up for his players, it's a good time for the fans to get behind the coach and show their approval.

If a Melbourne player gets a red card: A yellow card is acceptable but should a Bulldog get nasty enough to get the red plastic and be ejected, the fans should stand in unison and jeer the perpetrator. If this should occur, Lake Mary would also be playing at a one-player advantage which is all the more reason to get into the match and get behind the home team.

If you've got any school spirit, pride in your son's or daughter's school or just like to watch good athletic competition, Lake Mary is the place to be Friday night. Enjoy.

President: Bosworth Unaware Photo Was Going To Be Used

BROKEN ARROW, Okla. (UPI) — The president of All American Fitness and Racquetball Center says Oklahoma University linebacker Brian Bosworth was not informed before the club used his photo for an advertisement.

The advertising may violate NCAA rules and could make Bosworth ineligible to play a final season with the Sooners.

Jim Benien said Bosworth had agreed to appear at the club as a special, unpaid favor but never agreed to any advertising promotions. The outspoken football player was expected to show up at the Broken Arrow club Saturday to work out and "greet some people."

But Gary Reall, director of advertising for the fitness center, said Bosworth did know about the advertising, including the photos.

MORE TIME TO STUDY

LAUDERDALE LAKES (UPI) — Boyd Anderson High School football coach Ray Buscemi says he is giving up three hours of practice time per week next fall in favor of a study hall.

Buscemi said the plan to give up some X's and O's for the Three R's every Thursday is a result of the NCAA's Proposition 48. The rule went into effect last year and requires prospective college athletes to have a 2.0 grade point average and a 700 Scholastic Aptitude Score or 15 on the American College Test.

"If we still win, it will look great," said Buscemi, whose Cobras were 8-2 last season. "If we go 5-5, people will say I'm crazy, but we'll make a commitment to it."

Officials at the Desert Hospital refused to release any further details on his condition or give the date he was admitted.

Resurgent Raiders Rally Past Polk, 5-4

Baseball

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

In the early going of the 1987 season, a two-run deficit in the top of the ninth inning usually signaled Seminole Community College's Raiders to start packing up the equipment.

Wednesday seemed like another typical afternoon as SCC trailed Polk, 4-2, going into the ninth. Instead of packing it in, though, the Raiders rallied for three runs in the top half of the inning and reliever Rick Skelton retired Polk in order in the bottom half as SCC claimed a 5-4 victory in junior college baseball at Winter Haven.

SCC improved to 3-10 overall with its second win in a row and veteran coach Jack Pantelias hopes there will be plenty more Raider rallies this season. SCC returns to Mid-Florida Conference (1-3) action today at 3 against St. John's River. SCC closes the week with home games Friday (3 p.m.) and Saturday (1 p.m.) against Miami-Dade South.

"We needed a win like that," Pantelias said Wednesday.

In the top of the ninth Wednesday, Oviedo's Frank Torres drew a one-out walk to start the rally and took second on Jimmy Merrick's groundout. Kevin Hill followed with a base hit to send Torres to third and Torres scored on a single off the bat of Chris Gage which chased Polk reliever Rich Rork.

Mark Grayson came on in relief of Rork and uncorked a wild pitch that moved Hill to third and Gage to second. Hill then scored the tying run when the Polk shortstop booted Bill Pelletreau's grounder. After the fielding mishap, Grayson took over the goat horns for Polk as he walked Julio Brookes to load the bases and then issued a free pass to Troy "Killer" Blevins to force in Gage for a 5-4 SCC lead.

After SCC took the lead, Skelton, who came on as the fourth SCC pitcher in the eighth, retired Polk in order in the bottom of the frame for the victory.

SCC Starter Harry Timmons was touched for four runs over five innings and the Raider relievers kept the game close until the last-inning rally. SCC got shutout relief from Tony Ferrebee in the sixth, Mike Bolt in the seventh and Skelton over the last two frames.

Polk took a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the first but SCC tied it in the second when Brian Span and Blevins both walked and Ted Papousek doubled home Span.

Polk put up three runs in the fourth and SCC cut the lead to 4-2 in the sixth when Gage walked, Jeff Fortune singled and Span singled to drive in Gage.

Hannon Lures Fishermen Back To Basics

Never in the history of fishing have bass fishermen had such a bewildering array of lures from which to choose. It seems that every month a different lure is promoted which features a different gimmick different from all other plugs. The latest craze is plugs that dive to depths of over 20 feet.

It is easy for a fisherman to become distracted in a tackle store. With so many bass lures on the market, each offered in a mind-boggling assortment of colors, depth ranges, and sizes, it is difficult for the average bass angler to make up his mind.

Yet, out of the millions of bass lures purchased each year, only a few of these plugs will catch a bass over 10 pounds. Perhaps bass fishermen need to get away from all the glitter and back to a few basic, functional lures.

Doug Hannon, Florida's resident big bass expert, thinks that the average bass angler would be much more successful by fishing a handful of plugs in a realistic manner.

"The key component of realism is movement," Hannon says. "A lure may look realistic on the pegboard at the sporting goods store, but it's how it looks when moving through the water that determines its big-bass effectiveness."

According to Hannon, a successful big bass lure must have an even balance of attracting and triggering qualities. Attracting qualities are those qualities of a lure that draw the bass's attention to it. Triggering qualities are those lure qualities that actually cause the bass to eat, or strike the bait.

If a lure had only attracting qualities, bass would be drawn to it, but would never try to eat it. Likewise, if a lure had only triggering qualities, it would hardly ever catch bass because the bass would never notice its presence or be drawn to it.

Attracting qualities of a lure are dependent upon actual fishing conditions. In murky water, a large lure with high visibility colors would have strong attracting qualities. In clear water, a long, thin lure with natural colors would attract bass.

The triggering qualities of a lure

Jim Shupe

SANFORD HERALD FISHING WRITER

are determined by how the angler "works" the plug. A component of the living action that real forage exhibits depends upon its randomness.

"A baitfish doesn't swim at the same, unvarying rate," Hannon says. "As it cruises a weedline, it might speed up or slow down. If danger threatens, it will try to retreat, not continue swimming merrily on its way."

Successful anglers must make their lures mimic a live baitfish. They should vary their rate of retrieve and at times make their lures appear to be crippled. This natural action triggers the predatory instinct in a bass and the fish will strike the lure.

If they want a big bass, Hannon advises anglers to leave their giant possumbly tackleboxes at home. A bass angler could pack all of Hannon's recommended lures in a lunch bag. You only need a Texas-rigged plastic worm, a Swimmin Worm (made by Burke), a Rapala, a few spinnerbaits, and a jig or two.

According to Hannon, these lures are the most natural, and if fished in a realistic manner, will catch more giant bass than other artificials.

Maybe it's time to return back to the basics of bass fishing by ignoring the hype of the new-style bass lures. Stick to a few proven lures and make them appear to be real.

You may be surprised with a realunker.

***

SHUPE'S SCOOP — Hannon believes that lures that crawl along the bottom, or come into contact with objects, appear more like living prey to a big bass due to their random action. This is one reason why plastic worms and jigs catch more bass over 10 pounds than crankbaits.

Ron Rawlins of Highland Park Fish Camp reports that speck fishing is still slower than expected. Spawning activity should start any day. Big bass are still being caught on wild shiners fished near heavy cover. Many of the bass are running from 5-9 pounds.

Dell Abernethy at Osteen Bridge Fish Camp said that the good fishermen are bringing in nice strings of specks. Bass are slow, but big fish are being caught with regularity. Shad are saving the day for anglers who cannot locate specks or bass. Shad are so thick that the only way you can avoid catching one is to leave your rig out of the water.

Sebastian Inlet is still slow, with only a few bluefish and seatrout being caught. The seatrout are running from 3.5 pounds, and the bluefish are on the small side, from 1.3 pounds.

Captain Jack reports that the hot news offshore is the bottom fishing. Some huge catches of grouper have been made recently, with some of the expert deep jiggers bringing in over 1,000 pounds on some trips. Most of the good grouper are now concentrated on the 27 fathom curve. Use a 12 ounce jig with a strip of amberjack or bonito for the best results. White glow jigs or crab colored jigs have been good producers. The buoy line is still slow, but bluefish, flounder, and sheepshead have been keeping anglers busy inside the Port. Trout and redfish are scattered in the Banana and Indian rivers due to inconsistent water temperatures.

Bluefish and sheepshead have been heading up the lineup at the New Smyrna Jetty. Some of the bluefish have been running to 10 pounds. One that size can really put a bend in your rod. The sheepshead are being caught on live shrimp fished with a small weight on the north side of the north jetty.

Seminole's 3-Run 7th Overhauls Lyman, 8-7

By Scott Bander
Herald Sports Writer

LONGWOOD — Prior to the start of Wednesday night's Lyman Invitational baseball game between Lyman and Seminole, Seminole coach Mike Ferrell said that he expected an exciting game.

"This should be a pretty high-scoring game," Ferrell said. "I'm expecting a heck of a game."

Ferrell got what he expected, and then some. Seminole, 2-0, took advantage of a pair of Lyman errors, rallying for three runs in the bottom of the seventh inning for an 8-7 come-from-behind victory before 99 chilly fans in winners' bracket play of the Lyman Pre-season Baseball Tournament at Lyman High School.

The victory advances Seminole into the championship game which will be held on Friday night at 7. Lyman will take on Leesburg, a 2-1 winner over Titusville Astronaut Wednesday, tonight at 7 for the right to meet Seminole in the championship game.

"I can't tell you how proud I am of these kids," Ferrell said after the game. "They never gave up. We knew that Lyman would score some runs, but these guys just hung right in there. I was very happy with tonight's game."

With Lyman leading, 7-5, going into the bottom of the seventh, Seminole left fielder Joey Corsi followed Alono Galney's strikeout with a single to center. Pitcher Jeff Blake followed with a walk. At this point in the game, Lyman pitcher Ken Oswald, who had worked four innings and given up only two hits, was replaced by Dale Stevens.

Ron Blake then walked to load the bases. James Joyce then hit a routine grounder to Lyman shortstop Darren Boyesen. Boyesen booted the slow grounder, allowing Corsi to score and keep the bases full.

The big play came next when catcher Roy Jensen nubbed a blow roller to Stevens. Stevens threw the ball past catcher Marty Martin, allowing both Jeff and Ron Blake to score for the 8-7 victory.

"We just didn't relax and play at the end of the game," Lyman coach Bob McCullough said. "We can't expect to make those kind of mistakes and still win."

Sophomore right-hander Joyce started the game on the mound for the Seminoles. Joyce pitched the first three innings and gave up three runs on four hits. Jeff Blake relieved in the fourth and pitched the rest of the game. Blake gave up four runs on six hits. Blake was credited with the victory.

"This win felt really good," Blake said. "We got down by a few runs, but we didn't give up. This team has got a lot of guts."

Lyman, 2-2, outhit the Seminoles, 10-4, but left several runners on base.

Lyman senior Sandy Hovis started the game for the Greyhounds but gave up three runs in the first inning on only two hits. Hovis was yanked after the second inning after giving up four walks.

Oswald came up and gave up only two hits, with one of them being a two-run homer, while striking out eight. Stevens absorbed the loss.

Lyman got things going in the top of the first frame. A pair of walks put runners on first and second. Third baseman John Burton came to plate and smacked the first of his two hits:

Seminole coach Mike Ferrell, left, has a word with pitcher Jeff Blake. Blake picked up the victory Wednesday when Seminole rallied for three runs to top Lyman, 8-7.

a run scoring single to left.

Seminole retaliated in the bottom of the inning with three runs. A hit batsman and a walk put runners on first and third. Jeff Blake followed with a double off the left field fence that scored Galney (hit batsman) and moved Corsi (walk) to third. Ron Blake then walked to load the sacks. Jensen then blooped a single to right that plated Corsi and Blake for a 3-1 lead.

Lyman came back with two runs in the top of the third. Center fielder Chris Brock led off with a walk. First baseman Ken Jackson then doubled to right, scoring Brock. Burton followed with a bloop single to left that scored Jackson. Seminole matched Lyman's two runs in the bottom of the third. After Joyce walked, third baseman Gary Derr hit a two-run homer to right field.

Lyman reclaimed the lead in the top of the fourth with three runs. Boyesen led off the inning by walking and stealing second. Chris Radcliff followed with a single that scored Boyesen. The ball eluded Seminole right fielder Derr and rolled all the way to wall allowing Radcliff to advance to third. Radcliff scored on a wild pitch by Blake who picked up the victory.

Lyman extended its lead to 7-5 when Radcliff lined a homer over the center field fence in the sixth inning.

'Frustrated' Schmit Returns To FSU Team

Mike Schmit, two-time Sanford Herald Player of the Year and an all-stater last year for Lake Mary High's state runner-up, said today he will return to the Florida State baseball team Monday.

Schmit, a freshman third baseman, said he quit the team for one day but returned after talking with coach Mike Martin.

"I was a little bit frustrated and felt that I might be wasting a year," Schmit said via telephone from Tallahassee. "But after I thought it over, and considered the options, I asked myself, 'what kind of move can I make?' I decided FSU was the best place for me and I decided to stick it out."

Schmit said Martin told him he could not guarantee any more playing time, but that he should be ready if called on. "I doubt if I will get to play any more unless there is an injury or something," Schmit said. "I haven't been able to pitch because my elbow is still tender."

Schmit batted .373 with five homers and a county-leading 40 runs batted in last year. He was 15-0 on the mound. This year, he has batted just once in seven games.

Florida State, 7-0, picked up Martin's 400th career victory Wednesday with a 7-2 decision over Sanford at Tallahassee.

Daugherty's 33 Push Cavaliers Past Kings

United Press International

Brad Daugherty, overshadowed by more spectacular fellow-rookie Ron Harper this season, displayed the vast talents Wednesday night that convinced Cleveland to make him the first overall draft pick.

Daugherty scored a season-high 33 points and added team highs in rebounds with 12 and assists with 8 to guide the Cavaliers to a 129-119 victory over the Sacramento Kings.

Harper and John "Hot Rod" Williams, also a rookie, scored 29 and 25 points, respectively, for the Cavaliers. When talk turns to the Rookie of the Year, Harper is considered a top candidate. Daugherty has adopted slower to the pro game.

A 7-foot center from North Carolina, Daugherty came to the Cavaliers when the Philadelphia 76ers traded away the rights to the top pick for Roy Hinson. The Philadelphia front office thought Daugherty would be pushed around by more aggressive centers in the NBA.

Sixers 114, Warriors 103

At Philadelphia, Andrew Toney scored a season-high 27 points and Maurice Cheeks added 25 for Philadelphia. The 76ers played without injured Julius Erving, Cliff Robinson, Jeff Ruland and David Wingate. Golden State was led by Joe Barry Carroll with 24 points and Eric Floyd with 21.

Pacers 105, Sonics 88

At Indianapolis, John Long scored 29 points to help Indiana hand the Sonics their seventh straight loss. Dale Ellis scored 24 points and Xavier McDaniel had 17 for Seattle.

Celtics 113, Mavericks 96

At Dallas, Kevin McHale scored 28 points and Danny Ainge contributed 25 to help Boston snap a two-game losing streak. Larry Bird accumulated 16 points, 12 rebounds and 11 assists for his second triple-double of the season. Mark Aguirre hit for 29 points for Dallas.

Hoyas Make Pitt Pay For Insult

United Press International
Pittsburgh's Rod Brooklin committed a reckless freshman mistake Wednesday night, and Georgetown made him and the Panthers suffer for it.

The freshman brazenly insulted Georgetown's Reggie Williams after the first half, and the No. 12 Hoyas responded with a 20-0 run in the second half to earn a 65-52 victory — and sweet revenge — over the No. 8 Panthers.

After scoring 14 first-half points to lead Pitt to a 39-27 lead, Brooklin affronted Williams by shaking his hand and mocking him with "Good game."

"I didn't know why he did it," said Williams, who hit only 3 of 12 first-half shots from the field, but finished with 21 points. "It appealed to our pride."

The Hoyas, who trailed by 14 points early in the second half, held the Panthers scoreless over a stretch of 7:50 to transform a 45-33 deficit into a 53-45 lead with 10:44 left.

"That was an insult to our team for someone to come out and tell Reggie, 'Good game,' at halftime," said Perry McDonald, who scored 19 points. "They were cocky, and we just wanted to come out and play hard. We had no doubt we could beat them."

McDonald scored 10 points during the run, including 8 straight, and Williams had 6 straight points. Pittsburgh missed 7 free throws in the span.

The Hoyas outscored the Panthers 32-7 over the final 17:38 and limited Pittsburgh to 5 of 22 shooting from the field in the second half.

"In the second half, with the crowd and the pressure, our kids just panicked," Pittsburgh Coach Paul Evans said. "It's a snowball effect."

Georgetown, 20-4 overall and 9-4 in the Big East, extended its winning streak to five games. The Hoyas remained in third place in the conference, but pulled within a game of the league-leading Panthers, 21-5 and 10-3, and a half-game behind Syracuse. The Hoyas, who beat Pittsburgh 82-70 Jan. 10, swept the two regular-season meetings between the schools.

SEC: Alabama Wins, Gators Lose

United Press International

There is nothing reserved about Alabama reserve guard James Jackson.

Jackson scored 15 points and teammate Michael Ansley also had 15 Wednesday to lead 11th-ranked Alabama to a 90-69 victory over Mississippi and keep the Crimson Tide in first place in the Southeastern Conference basketball standings.

Alabama improved to 20-4 overall and 13-2 in the SEC, while Mississippi dropped to 14-10 and 7-8.

In other SEC action Wednesday, Tony

White scored a game-high 29 points to power Tennessee to an 81-71 upset of No. 17 Florida and Hubert Henderson sank a 3-point basket with seven seconds left to give Mississippi State a 64-63 victory over Georgia.

White kept up his hot shooting against Florida after turning in a school record 51-point game against Auburn.

Tennessee sank 6-of-6 free throws in the final 1:44 and avoided turnovers to post the upset.

Florida dropped to 21-7, 12-4 in the SEC.

Stocks Open Mixed

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened mixed today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which edged up 0.14 Wednesday, was down 3.94 to 2233.69 shortly after the market opened.

Advances led declines 465-416 among the 1,346 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 11,603,000 shares.

The stock market ended narrowly higher in heavy trading Wednesday as the Dow average eked out another new high, despite pressure from profit takers.

Investors bought heavily on the opening Wednesday, encouraged by Tuesday's performance, when nearly every closely watched market gauge finished at an all-time high. Profit taking trimmed a 20-point, mid-morning advance, and sell programs helped knock the market into the minus column by early afternoon.

However, the wild volatility that many analysts expected did not materialize. Losses were limited by the steady flow of cash from investors who still want to get into equities, they said. The market returned to plus territory by late afternoon.

Dollar And Gold Both On The Rise

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar continued its slow recovery at the opening of major world money markets today. The price of gold strengthened.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar rallied against the Japanese yen in active trading, closing at 154.73, up 1.40 from Wednesday's close of 153.33.

Dealers in Japan said the dollar strengthened following reports that the five major Western nations have agreed to hold a meeting in Paris Saturday and the Bank of Japan will lower the official discount rate Friday.

Japan's chief Cabinet Secretary Masaharu Gotoda said the Paris meeting Saturday would bring together finance ministers and central bankers from the United States, Britain, France, West Germany and Japan, which form the so-called Group of Five.

The session will be followed Sunday by an expanded meeting with Italy and Canada taking part, Gotoda said.

While the Group of Five will discuss measures to stabilize exchange markets, the expanded meeting of seven nations will deal with policy coordination to correct trade imbalances, a major source of friction among the participants, published reports said.

In European trading, the dollar opened higher in Frankfurt at 1.8555 German marks, against Wednesday's close of 1.8258, in Zurich at 1.568 Swiss francs, against 1.5512 and in Paris at 6.1885 French francs, against 6.056.

The dollar gained in Brussels, opening at 38.925 Belgian francs, against Wednesday's close of 38.27, in Amsterdam at 2.0985 Dutch guilders, against 2.0680 and in Milan at 1,317.50 lire, against 1,300.25.

GNP Holds Steady For Year

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A $12 billion swing in business inventories forced the government today to cut its estimate of growth in the real gross national product to 1.3 percent in the final quarter of 1986, but the GNP for the year held steady at 2.5 percent.

The old estimate, announced last month, was 1.7 percent growth after inflation.

The reduction did not change the government's estimate that the nation's inflation-adjusted output of goods and services rose 2.5 percent during all of 1986.

But no upward revision is bad news for the Reagan administration. Its proposed budget for fiscal 1988 assumed 2.7 percent growth last year.

The difference means government revenues will fall several billion dollars shorter than previously expected — further feeding the federal budget deficit.

The 1.3 percent real growth from October through December last year was the worst such increase since the second quarter of 1986, when it rose 0.6 percent.

would be willing to hook into the system rather than build its own treatment facility in Florida Central Commerce Park, but it would depend on the price per gallon. She said they would pay $7.75 per gallon to reserve the capacity which is $2 more than the city has to pay the county under the agreement. "We would give the city or the bank a letter of intent as soon as we know the price," Ms. Sweeting said. "We could build our own plant for $1 million so we can't spend $1.5 million to hook up with the county."

She said St. Laurent could build a 100,000 gallon capacity plant for $500,000 on their own property and would use a spray irrigation system to dispose of effluent within the park. St. Laurent would also be willing to build a lift station and bear the expense of boring under the highway for the sewer line.

Ms. Sweeting said, "We don't want to be in the sewer business either, we wanted to go with the county all along." She said that 40 of the 46 lots in the commerce park have already been sold and the businesses are on temporary septic tanks.

Another problem the bank has with the sewer agreement is that it extends for 10 years, but the city has 11 years to pay back the loan. Jim Bible, Seminole County director of environmental services, told the commission Monday night the county has no problem with extending the terms of the agreement. But as for giving the city lower rates as suggested by Commissioner June Lormann, Bible said, "the county has other wholesale customers like Longwood and we can't offer different rates to you that we wouldn't offer someone else. It appears the numbers are getting really close on the costs of the two programs and as best as we can, we would like to work with you."

Commissioner Harvey Smerilson said, "We are looking at rate structures that are definitely not feasible for building a plant. When you really scrub the numbers we have no option but to go with the county. The difficulty comes during 1988-1991 years until we can get over the initial hump. It would be nice if we could defer some of the money so we could pay back as we start getting hookup fees, etc."

City Administrator Ron Waller said, "The city needs at least the money to build the transmission lines which will cost $450,000. The contract calls for paying the county $1.8 million upfront, but we could get over the hump if we could find somewhere in between."

Bible said something might be worked out on six months payment and other items could be explored.

Mrs. Lormann said, "Time is of the essence and I think we should go on with it. If necessary call a special meeting."

Ron Shuck, who presented the report, said he was speaking as a resident of Longwood when he suggested, since the county was asked to make some concession and St. Laurent had made its offer, the city go back to Sun Bank and ask them to amend the bond issue. "It is not in the best interest of the bond holder if the city has to charge rates that are so high they price themselves out of business," he said. "It would only be fair they make compromises also."

The city staffers are scheduled to get together with accountants, the bank, and the county to work out details to make it possible to contract with the county for sewage treatment at the Greenwood Lakes facility.

is set to kick off on Sept. 22.

Walko said the July 1 date would be too late to change the structure of individual campaigns this year, but there would probably be some combining of companies which operate in Orange as well as Seminole. The Seminole County campaign workers will operate mostly as they always do for the first year, Walko said.

It has been proposed that after merging into a single Heart of Florida United Way the county organizations will be known as "Seminole Division" and "Orange Division." Multi-county companies would probably be in a "Metro Division," Walko said.

The second year would conceivably see a major change, Walko said, but Seminole board serving as an advisory committee making recommendations on the needs in this county to be approved by the Heart of Florida Board. The Seminole Executive Committee would be represented on the Heart of Florida Board.

He said of the 12 members now on the Orange County board, four are residents of Seminole County. Seminole County will still have its own office possibly to be known as the Seminole Service Center of Heart of Florida United Way. Walko said with the main office at Loch Haven Park, he hopes to be able to move the Seminole office back to the Lake Mary or Sanford area.

The Orange County United Way has a $6.5 million goal as compared to Seminole's $650,000 and a much higher per capita giving than we do here, Walko said. Funds raised in the combined campaign would go into one center and be allocated to the various agencies. Walko believes Seminole will benefit from the change and there will be a fairer distribution to the people of all three counties.

New Seminole United Way officers 1987 include John Knapp, director of operations for Telex Computer Products, Inc., chairman of the executive committee; Roy Raker, CPA with Riles, Raker & Co., president of the board of directors; Al Stimac, manufacturing manager with Stromberg-Carlson and last year's United Way campaign chairman, vice president; Susan Moore, executive director for Central Florida Community Clinic, vice president; Thomas McDowell, program coordinator for Seminole County Schools, secretary; Rick Wollner, CPA with Riles, Raker & Co., treasurer.

New members named to the board of directors of Seminole United Way include Sisson, Vaccaro, Wollner, David Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce; Elaine Kirchner, staff development specialist with Travenol; David Knickerbocker of Oviedo Realty; and Richard McRae, vice president of finance for United Telephone Systems.

working more "clean enterprise" in Sanford, is preferable to rental assistance from the federal government.

The city, she said, "continues working to foster a positive economic climate. This gives all an opportunity to make it; to have a good job and salary so that no subsidies are necessary."

In a report titled "A Time to Build Up," the national league identified concerns from a survey of 444 cities and towns that was timed to coincide with the start of Senate subcommittee hearings on federal housing assistance.

"For many Americans, finding shelter has become more urgent, more difficult, more costly and more frustrating," Mayor Mike Roark of Charleston, W.Va., said in remarks accompanying the survey. "These needs are not isolated. They exist in all parts of the nation, in communities large and small."

Roark said the league's 65-page report, "documents an urgent need."

and at that point police told her she was under arrest. The woman ran and was caught by police after a one block chase. She allegedly struggled and hit one officer on the arm.

As she was being forced to a police car members of the crowd began throwing things at police.

The suspect was put in the car and police left the scene with her without making additional arrests, or locating the gunman.

Arrested was Willettine Rivers, 19, of 8 Higgins Terrace, Sanford. She was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond on charges of breach of peace, resisting arrest without violence and inciting to riot.

Arthurene and Walter Cook will be honored by friends at Open House at their new home, 431 S. Elliott Ave., Sanford. Friends are invited to call between 2 and 5 p.m. on Sunday, March 1. The couple request "no gifts, please."

Lori A. Dunn, M.D. Favorit Repeat Vows

Lori Ann Dunn, Sanford, and Michael Darrin Favorit, Long Beach, Calif., were married Dec. 20 at Central Baptist Church, Sanford. The Rev. Freddie Smith, church pastor, was the officiating clergyman for the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Dunn Jr., Sanford, and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald A. Dunn Sr., Geneva. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Favorit, The Dalles, Ore.

Organist was Shirley Grieme with Emily Owen singing the bridal couple's favorite selections.

Escorted to the altar by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the radiant bride chose for her vows an exquisite gown of satin and lace, fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The fitted basque bodice, lavishly embellished with seed pearls, featured a high neck, sheer yoke defined with schiffli lace, and puffed satin and sheer sleeves accented with lace and pearls. Schiffli lace encircled the hemline of the full satin skirt which gracefully cascaded into a flowing cathedral train. A spray of pearls and Alencon lace held her fingertip veil of imported illusion. She carried a white cascade of roses, mini-carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath.

Sharrn Dunn attended her niece as matron of honor. She wore a red satin gown fashioned with large puffed sleeves, dropped waistline and a V-neckline in the back enhanced with a large bow. Her headpiece was a double pouf of red illusion, small silk flowers and a spray of pearls. She carried a bouquet of red and white mini carnations, baby's breath and red picot streamers.

Ashley and Amanda Dunn, cousins of the bride, were flower girls. They wore matching gowns of red satin, carried baskets of rose petals and wore halos that matched the flowers carried by the honor attendant.

Ring bearer was Alex Dunn, also cousin of the bride. Steve Horzynek The Dalles, Ore., served the bridegroom as best man. Serving as ushers were Donald Dunn, brother of the bride, and Richard Dunn, the bride's uncle.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dunn chose a dusty rose taffeta gown featuring a lace bodice complemented with a corsage of pink roses and mini carnations. Mrs. Favorit, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink satin gown with a corsage of pink mini carnations and roses.

The reception was held at the Holiday Inn at I-4. Assisting were Mary Cameron, Evelyn Tindel and Becky Meadors.

Following a wedding trip to

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Darrin Favorit

the East coast the bridegroom departed for sea duty aboard the USS Ogden in the Pacific. When he returns the couple will be making their home in Long Beach, Calif. Out-of-town guests were from Oregon, Pensacola and Orlando.

State Of Date Nate's Pate Arouses Woman's Curiosity

DEAR ABBY: I am a single, professional, working woman in my early 30s. Several months ago I met a wonderful young man who I think is falling in love with me. I'll call him Nate. He's intelligent, interesting, well-educated, good-looking and considerate. We've been dating regularly, and he's been very open and honest with me about every aspect of his life.

Recently I learned from a long-time friend of Nate's that he started wearing a hairpiece shortly before I met him. He has never indicated to me that he is wearing a hairpiece and I would never let on that I know, but do you think if he would hide something like this, he might be hiding something more important?

Should I confront Nate with what I know, and if so, how?
WONDERING IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR WONDERING: Don't confront him. And please don't assume that he might be hiding something more important. Some men are very sensitive about their baldness, which has nothing to do with "deception" and everything to do with their own perception of themselves.

Eric Hoffer once said: "We do not mind having our hair ruffled, but we will not tolerate any familiarity with the toupee which covers our baldness."

Your advice: "Don't stop giving to charities of your choice because of those who dun you to death with high pressure tactics" is excellent, but I might add, consumers should check with their local Better Business Bureaus to determine the reliability and reputation of the charity. Our records show that in many cases, anywhere from 40 cents to 90 cents out of every dollar raised goes to pay professional fund-raisers, leaving very little for the charity.

EDWARD F. HESSEL JR., PRESIDENT, B.B.B. INC., LOUISVILLE, KY.

DEAR MR. HESSEL: I agree.

Dear Abby

every giver is entitled to know how much of his dollar will go for fund-raising, but it's important to realize that in many cases (telethons, for example) a charity must spend big money in order to raise big money — in which case, it's worth it.

But, I recommend that before giving, one should ask for an accounting of that charity's administrative costs. Every legitimate charity will make those figures available.

CONFIDENTIAL TO FURIOUS IN FORT LAUDERDALE: My response to

Mr. Barrett's letter about what an unborn child would miss had to be one of the most misunderstood columns I have ever written. For the record: I am not pro-abortion — I am pro-choice. When "Hurting In Fort Worth" wrote that she and her husband had agreed to have no children and she became accidentally pregnant, her husband, knowing that she was opposed to abortion on religious and moral grounds, insisted that she have an abortion. I advised her: "If you have to choose between your husband and the baby, choose the baby." I did not encourage her to have an abortion.

I received a barrage of critical mail from a few supportive letters. I maintain that every child should be a wanted child, and God help the child born into a family that does not want him, cannot provide for him and resents his presence.

Alzheimer's Disease Has Biochemical Basis

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT - I am convinced that sitting under a hot dryer in a beauty salon for 45 or 60 minutes slowly cooks the brain and causes Alzheimer's disease. What do you think?

DEAR READER - Experts believe that Alzheimer's disease has a complex biochemical basis. If your hair-dryer theory were correct, I'd expect to see many more women than men with Alzheimer's. This isn't the case. Also, the amount of heat required to permeate the skull, thus affecting the brain, would be unbearably uncomfortable. Rather than causing Alzheimer's, the heat from hair dryers is far more likely to cause hair and scalp problems.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my new Health Report on ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE. Others who would like a copy should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT - What precautions should I take now that I am one month past my delivery date? My doctor has made no comment other than, "It looks like twins."

DEAR READER - That sort of flip comment really has no place in good obstetrical care.

To begin with, normal gestation is 38 to 40 weeks. An infant born after the 42nd week of pregnancy runs the risk of post-maturity syndrome: low blood sugar, low blood potassium, unstable body temperature, seizures and damage to the nervous system. Most obstetricians begin to think about inducing labor or performing a Caesarean section if normal labor has not begun by the 42nd week. The longer the baby exceeds the 42-week limit, the greater the chances of neonatal complications. If you are four weeks beyond your delivery date, your baby may be in trouble.

Second, no reputable obstetrician would simply say that "it looks like twins." Sonography, a harmless sound-wave test, will clearly show whether you have a single baby or twins. The echo-gram will also show whether you are at term and should be delivered.

Of course, your estimated date of delivery may have been incorrect in the first place; you may not actually be beyond 40 weeks. Again, the sonogram will confirm how pregnant you are.

Ask your obstetrician about this and, if necessary, obtain another opinion.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby Today's deceptive trump lead takes us back 20 years to a Paris tournament where Cino del Duca was on lead against French expert Marcel Peeters. After the opponents' long-winded bidding exercise, del Duca felt that North and South would have at least nine trumps between them. Because their cue-bids had indicated both first- and second-round control of spades, the lead of that suit was not promising. And the lead of a diamond might simply trap one of his partner's honors. Since he held out little chance of making a trick with his club queen anyway, West led the small club.

That would cross your mind would be for West to have led away from the club queen. South played low from dummy and won the 10 with his king. With full confidence South crossed to the ace of spades and led a club to his eight. When West won the queen and exited with a spade, the slam had evaporated. The slam contract was certainly reasonable - it only needed the club queen to come down. A word about the bidding: When the prospective slam contract is in clubs or diamonds, it's best to avoid Blackwood, since showing the number of aces can put you beyond your safe playing level. Here the bidding methods were fine, but they could not overcome del Duca's diabolical lead.

South Africa Denounced In Human Rights Report

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department today issued its annual assessment of international human rights, denouncing abuse in South Africa, hailing a return to democracy in the Philippines and applauding a "spectacular shift" in Latin America.

The department also decried "major human rights abuses" in Nicaragua and, though citing progress in the Soviet Union, berated the Kremlin for trying to "terrorize" the people of Afghanistan into submitting to its puppet regime.

In an introduction to the 1,356-page report covering 167 countries, Richard Schifter, assistant secretary of state for human rights, spoke of a "close correlation between the existence of a democratic form of government and respect for the integrity of the person."

Schifter praised "further consolidation of democratic rule throughout Latin America" in 1986, noting the return of civilian government to Guatemala and the end of 29 years of dictatorship by the Duvalier family in Haiti.

"Only a handful of countries in the Western hemisphere remain under dictatorial rule and practice the human rights deprivations with which dictatorships are associated," Schifter said. "The spectacular shift to democracy throughout Latin America during the last five years is most gratifying to all those committed to the cause of human rights."

But the department also cited a "continuation of bleak and stultifying dictatorial rule in a great many other countries."

The report cited significant abuses by Nicaragua's Sandinista government as one exception to the generally favorable Latin American trend, blaming the Marxist regime for holding as many as 10,000 political prisoners and saying many of them are tortured.

Allegations of widespread human rights violations by the U.S.-backed Contra rebels were noted, but the report reached no conclusion about the politically unfavorable charges. It accused the Sandinistas of having a "deliberate policy of transporting civilians in military convoys, which are key (rebel) targets."

In El Salvador, where the United States supports a government under attack by leftist insurgents, the report cited steady improvement in the conduct of military and security forces and said right-wing death squads claimed no killings.

Polish Sanctions Likely To Be Lifted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House ceremony for Polish-American leaders today was seen as the logical opportunity for President Reagan to lift U.S. economic sanctions remaining against Poland since its 1981 imposition of martial law.

"(It's) a very wise move, one that will help stimulate the Polish economy," declared Chicago Alderman Roman Pucinski, one of the ethnic leaders invited to the ceremony in the Rose Garden today.

Though White House officials said Wednesday the plans were not final, they expected Reagan to sign documents at the ceremony to lift the remaining U.S. sanctions, restoring Poland's most-favored-nation trading status and erasing a ban on official U.S. credits to the Warsaw government.

The State Department had begun reviewing the penalties after Poland's leader, Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski, acted in September to free all political prisoners.

Removal of the sanctions was then recommended by Deputy Secretary of State John Whitehead upon his return from a visit to Poland last month in which he met with Jaruzelski, Roman Catholic Cardinal Jozef Glomp and Solidarity labor movement founder Lech Walesa.

State Department counselor Edward Derwinski, a former congressman from Chicago and a liaison to the Polish-American community, said in an interview Wednesday the sanctions were being lifted "to help the people of Poland."

"Over the last year or two, the Polish government has mellowed internally," Derwinski said, noting Glomp, Walesa and Pope John Paul II "have all expressed the view that the U.S. sanctions have outlived their usefulness."

Restoring Poland's favored trading status, which it enjoyed for 22 years before the suspension, is expected to boost exports to the United States by lowering tariffs on products such as vodka and ham. Polish exports to the United States have dropped from $450 million in 1980 to $250 million in 1985.

Fire Ant Killer Available

Amdro fire ant killer will be available at the Seminole Soil and Water Conservation District office in Big Tree Park on Gen. J.C. Hutchison Parkway 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday as long as it lasts for $5 per one-pound bag. For more information call 831-1622.

In 1986.

In Chile, it said fundamental political freedoms were "severely restricted" by the military government and cited reliable reports of prisoner torture, but was relatively mild in its criticism.

One of the report's harshest assessments was applied to South Africa, where it cited a "major deterioration of human rights" and "major retrogression" in 1986 despite some reforms of the apartheid system of racial segregation.

"Notwithstanding the reforms, race still remains the fundamental basis for organization of South African society. Discriminatory laws and practices remain woven throughout the fabric of South African life," the report said.

It cited estimates that the white minority government in Pretoria has detained 20,000 people under its state of emergency and cited "ample evidence" that black-on-black violence was instigated by "covert government agents."

But the department also noted the African National Congress, the outlawed main black opposition group, proclaimed 1986 a year of "intensified armed struggle" and pointed to ANC responsibility for acts of urban terrorism.

Back in the positive column, the report lauded "the return of the Philippines to the democratic fold" with the February 1986 ouster of the "authoritarian regime" of U.S.-backed President Ferdinand Marcos.

President Corazon Aquino, it said, "has moved to restore the rule of law and respect for human rights" in the Pacific nation, "dramatically demonstrated by the release of over 600 political detainees and establishment of a presidential commission on human rights."

The report was written before Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev released more than 140 political dissidents earlier this month, but it cited the December release of Andrei Sakharov and Yelena Bonner and early releases from labor camps of other prominent dissidents as evidence of "positive performance in resolving divided family cases" was significantly better than in previous years. It said, but "pervasive" government interference in personal lives continues and Soviet Jews still are subjected to "harassment by official Soviet propaganda."

IN BRIEF

Iran Arms Status: Israeli Cooperation, Reagan Confusion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Leaders of congressional committees say there is no more confusion on whether Israel will answer questions in the Iran-Contra scandal, but a presidential commission reportedly has learned of confusion by President Reagan on whether he approved Israel's first shipment of U.S. arms to Iran.

Leaders of the select congressional panels probing the scandal revealed after meeting Wednesday with Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir that officials of his nation would answer written questions about their role in the matter and would provide chronologies of related contacts and "financial transactions."

Confusion over the first Israeli arms shipment, however, drew new life from a report today in the Los Angeles Times that Reagan made conflicting statements about whether he authorized it during two interviews with the three-member Tower Commission he appointed to review his National Security Council staff.

Quoting sources inside and outside of the White House, the newspaper said the president first told the panel led by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, that he had approved the shipment in August 1985. That statement Jan. 26 contradicted congressional testimony by Regan and backed up the testimony of McFarlane.

Last week, in his second private session with the panel, Reagan said that after a lengthy discussion with Regan he had concluded he was mistaken — that he indeed had not authorized the shipment, the newspaper said.

Committee To Delay Gates Vote

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Intelligence Committee intends to delay its vote on the nomination of Robert Gates as CIA director until it reviews the Tower Commission report on the role of National Security Council in the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

Committee Chairman David Boren, D-Okla., said Wednesday the panel plans to recall Gates in a private session after it sees the report of the three-member commission set up by President Reagan to review operations of the NSC staff.

As a result, the committee may not vote until March on whether Gates, 43, the acting CIA director, is qualified to become the nation's youngest spy chief in history. The full Senate then must confirm the nomination.

Panel Votes No Contra Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee may have won only a hollow immediate victory from its largely partisan vote to challenge President Reagan and cut off all U.S. aid to the Nicaraguan Contra rebels.

Even Democrats who led the effort Wednesday to kill any new aid and the final $40 million installment of a $100 million aid package passed last year agreed with their Republican foes that the measure has little chance of succeeding.

Pope Faces Religious Tension During United States Tour

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope John Paul II will face anger in San Francisco's homosexual community and visit a Bible Belt state that is only 2 percent Catholic on his tour of the United States this September.

Some church officials fear trouble when the pope stops in San Francisco, where the large and militant homosexual community is outraged over the Vatican view of homosexuality as a "moral evil."

The city is widely viewed as the riskiest stop on the papal tour, with Vatican sources fearing anti-pope demonstrations similar to protests that marred his 1985 trip to the Netherlands. San Francisco's homosexual community remains angry over the Vatican's Oct. 30, 1986 document on homosexuality, which bluntly calls homosexual behavior "an intrinsic moral evil," "self-indulgent," and "disordered."

The city originally was the final stop on the pope's trip, but church officials added Detroit to the schedule when fears arose about San Francisco.

Another church source said Detroit's 800,000 Polish-Americans, who are predominantly Catholic, might be a welcome sight to the pontiff "after seeing San Francisco."

'Ivan's' Death Disputed

JERUSALEM (UPI) — A Holocaust expert today dismissed reports that Nazi death camp guard "Ivan the Terrible" was killed in 1943 as "wishful thinking" but acknowledged he made no special effort to verify the reports.

The testimony by Yitzhak Arad, director of Israel's Holocaust museum, came on the fourth day of the war crimes trial for retired U.S. autoworker John Demjanjuk, 66, who is accused of being "Ivan the Terrible."

Demjanjuk, who was stripped of his U.S. citizenship and extradited to Israel last year, has said he is a victim of mistaken identity. On trial for his life, the Ukrainian-born Demjanjuk has insisted he never was a guard in a Nazi death camp.

Yoram Sheftel, a Tel Aviv lawyer and defense co-counsel with American lawyer Mark O'Connor, hammered away at Arad's testimony in an attempt to establish that the guard known as "Ivan the Terrible" died in a 1943 inmate uprising in the Treblinka death camp in Nazi-occupied Poland.

Fishing Boat Nets U.S. Submarine

LONDON (UPI) — A U.S. submarine towing a communications buoy became entangled in the nets of an Irish fishing boat, dragging the small craft backward across the Irish Sea for three hours.

The 10-mile nightmare ended Wednesday when a Royal Navy helicopter flew to the scene and apparently communicated with the submarine, which suddenly stopped, allowing the four crewmen of the Summer Morn to cut the net's wire hawsers.

"I feared for the safety of the vessel and my crew," said Eric Culley, 51, captain of the 65-foot trawler.

"We were dragged backward for about 3 1/2 hours. When the Sea King helicopter arrived, the submarine stopped," he said. "We were stationary for awhile. Then the submarine lurched forward."

"We cut the net," he said.

Jumblatt Says Stop Fighting

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Leftist militiamen backed by armor captured the government television station from Shilte Amal gunmen today despite Syrian warnings to end the four days of fighting for control of west Beirut that has killed at least 170 people.

Druze militia leader Walid Jumblatt, in a statement broadcast by his Voice of the Mountain radio station, called on his supporters to stop fighting and cooperate with the Syrians.

But Amal militia leader Nabih Berri, in a message from Damascus, Syria, to his men in Moslem west Beirut, said, "It is a battle against Islam ... and I call on my men to remain steadfast because the victory is ours."

Shortly after Berri's message was broadcast by local radio stations, "people rushed to the Amal offices in the southern suburbs (of Beirut) as part of a general mobilization," Amal spokesman Tarek Ibrahim said.

Police and hospital sources said at least 170 people have been killed and more than 325 others wounded in the running street-to-street tank battles between Amal and a combined force of Druze, communist and other leftist militias.

With no immediate signs of a cease-fire, Lebanese House Speaker Hussein Al Hussein called on Syrian President Hafez Assad to intervene and end the bloodbath.

"I do not see a way out of this crisis except through an official security instrument backed by active Syrian forces, which can help stop this breakdown and rid Beirut of this nightmare," Hussein said.

Druze and communist militias using Soviet-made T-54 tanks captured the Amal-controlled station today, the only one in Moslem west Beirut and a vital communications link, after a round of heavy fighting that began late Wednesday, sources said.

Although the Moslem factions are united against the Christians in the civil war in Lebanon, their alliance has often been split by such factional fighting as the latest bloodletting that began Monday night.

A joint patrol of Syrian troops, Lebanese army units and militiamen from the warring factions tried again to stop the fighting, police said. A similar patrol was fired upon Wednesday and withdrew.

It was the bloodiest combat in Lebanon's 12-year-old civil war since Moslem militias seized control of west Beirut and Amal seized the television station in three days of fighting that erupted Feb. 6, 1984.

State-owned Beirut radio, still under the control of Moslem Shilte army units, reported that cease-fire efforts were under way.

Education Minister Selim Hoss called on the government of pro-Syrian Prime Minister Rashid Karami to resign.

"We have all failed as a Cabinet and as a government. We are all bankrupt and we must all go," said Hoss, a Moslem.

The fighting erupted Monday between Amal and the Lebanese Communist Party, which opposes Amal's siege of Beirut's Palestinian refugee camps. Militiamen from the Druze Progressive Socialist Party and other leftist militiamen quickly sided with the communists.

Amal, Lebanon's mainstream Shilte militia, lifted a four-month siege of southern Beirut's Burj Al Barajneh refugee camp Wednesday, allowing 300 women to leave, buy food and medicine, then return.

In Damascus, Lebanon's Moslem militia leaders met with Syrian Vice President Abdel Halim Khaddam late Wednesday in a bid to agree to halt the battles between the nominally allied forces.

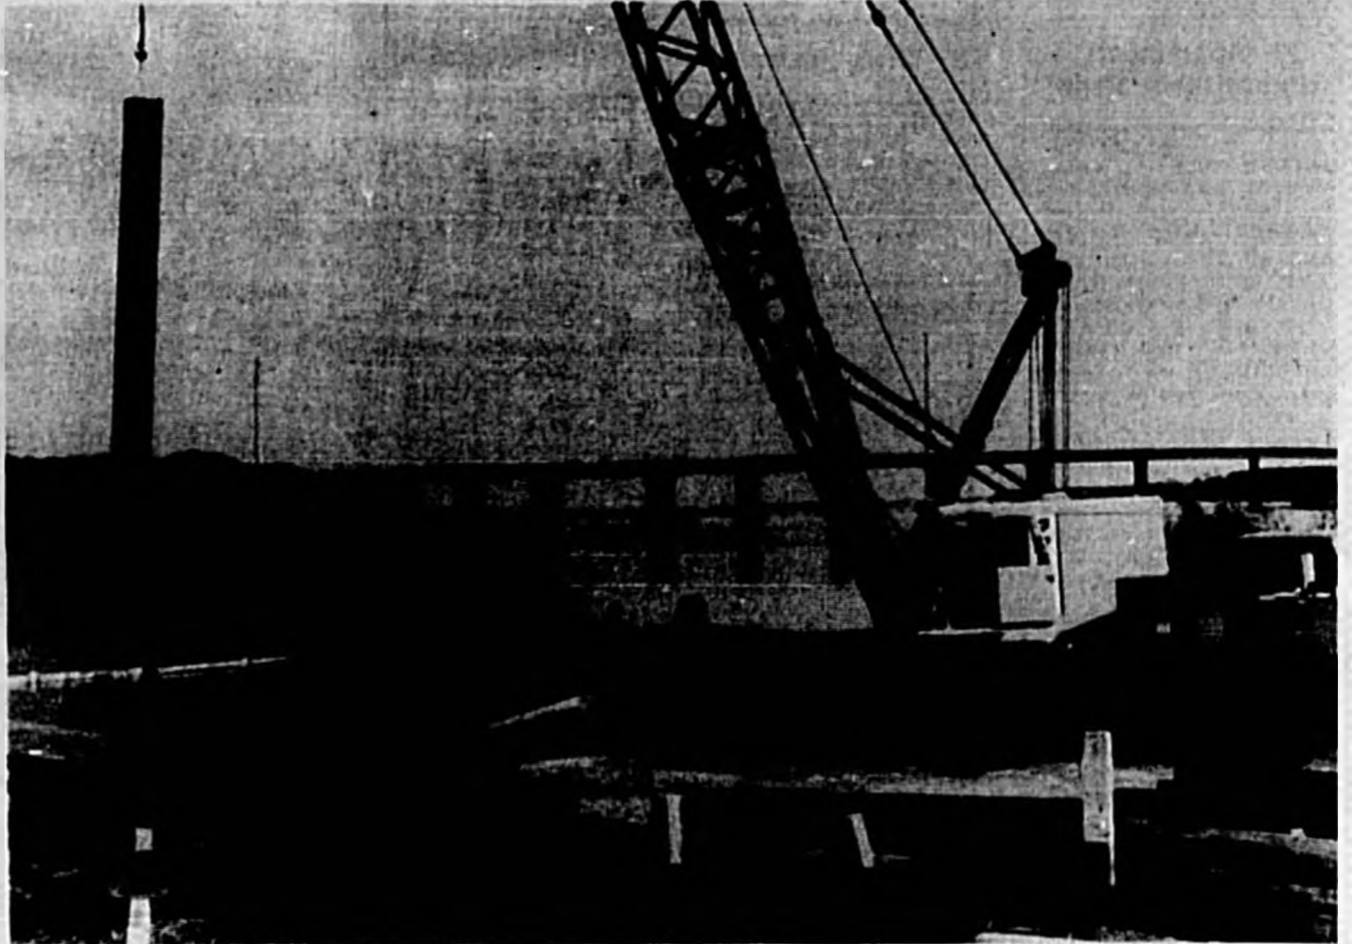

"I will not let the participants leave the meeting unless they agree on a cease-fire in west Beirut," Khaddam told the officials, according to Voice of Lebanon radio, a Christian broadcast.

However, the fighting worsened when Syria announced it would not stand for more violence and sent in troops.

Indulgence Seen In Gourmet Foods

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — Shoppers with sophisticated palates and a tendency to splurge a little every now and then have boosted the gourmet foods industry into a brisk $8.5 billion business, an industry spokesman said Monday.

"The last indulgence is what you eat. If people can't afford to eat out in a restaurant, they will still buy gourmet food in a

One Dead In Avalanche

BRECKENRIDGE, Colo. (UPI) — A massive avalanche that a witness said was triggered by two skiers in an out-of-bounds area roared down a mountain, killing one skier and burying as many as three others under tons of snow.

The threat of another avalanche halted the search for survivors at about 9:30 p.m. Wednesday, and authorities said they would resume searching at daylight.

About 200 volunteers using probes and specially trained dogs found the body of a male skier at 5:30 p.m. Wednesday, about three hours after the avalanche on Peak 7 of the Breckenridge ski area. The volunteers were replaced about 8 p.m. by 30 fresh searchers and two fresh dogs before the effort was suspended.

John Webster, a volunteer who helped dig the dead skier from about 4 feet of snow, said efforts to revive him failed. The victim's identity was withheld pending notification of relatives.

"He was completely blue. There was no air pocket. There was no pulse," Webster said. There was some confusion Wednesday night as to the number of skiers buried by the avalanche. Summit County sheriff's spokesman Ron Milhorn said, "Right now, we're looking at a total of four," including the one body recovered.

Doctors said it is possible for people to survive for days under snow if they survive the impact of the avalanche. But officials said they doubted anyone would be found alive.

"We have every hope the people will be rescued safely,"

Undersheriff Gary Lindstrom said. "But as the minutes go by, that becomes less of a possibility."

Lindstrom said officers described the avalanche as 20 to 30 feet deep. Witnesses said it was a half-mile wide and roared from the mountaintop "in a tremendous cloud of snow."

Milhorn said there have been many avalanches in the Breckenridge area "the past couple of weeks, both natural and triggered."

Milhorn said the cause of Wednesday's avalanche had not been determined. A witness, however, said two people were skiing out of bounds at the top of Peak 7 when the avalanche started.

"The guys on the ridge started it," Webster said. "They yelled to the four guys but they didn't hear them. Those four got caught right against the wall."

Officials said they did not know the identities of the missing skiers. Witnesses said they are believed to be men in their 20s from Breckenridge.

Avalanche conditions were said to be moderate Wednesday, but the avalanche was not a surprise to officials who monitor them.

"This is the time of the year when they occur," said Hunter Holloway of the Colorado Search and Rescue Board. "Avalanche conditions are dangerous because of the warmer weather we've been having."

"The snow pack goes from snow flakes to ice crystals. With severe changes of temperature like you get with warm days and cold nights, the layers of ice crystals within the snow pack become like ball bearings. Any increase of pressure, whether from skier or additional snowfall, will fracture loose bonds between ice crystals and down it goes."

The out-of-bounds area was clearly marked. Breckenridge ski area spokesman Gary Dutmers said the area was roped off and marked by a sign that says:

"Back-country skiing outside this rope is extremely dangerous. Avalanche paths exist all across Peak 7. Avalanches are unpredictable and can occur at any time of the season."

"If you are injured in any way or buried by an avalanche while skiing the back country, be reminded that rescue by the Summit County sheriff may be slow and costly. ... Rescuers will not enter an unsafe area to effect a rescue."

Witnesses said the avalanche plowed away the snow in its path and left a scar of dirt for 800 yards down Peak 7.

Dr. Jim Winkler, the emergency room director at Porter Medical Center in the Denver suburb of Englewood, said people "can survive under the snow for days if they survive the initial crush of the snow."

"Suffocation is initially the biggest danger. Later on, if you survive that, there's always a chance of hypothermia. But the hypothermia actually is a protective mechanism because it lowers the body temperature," he said.

There have been dozens of avalanches in Colorado this winter, and four people were killed in the San Juan mountains near Telluride in southwestern Colorado.
