Should Pittman fail to make the grade in the fast New York-Penn League, Fuchs indicated that the Orlando star will be given a chance to make good in a regular on the staff of the Harrisburg club.

Charley Purcell, manager of the Orlando team, said yesterday that Pittman had informed him that he would be out of town for not more than two weeks. He gave no indication as to who would take over the hot corner here while the star is absent, but speculators figure that Red Brown will figure into the deal in some manner.

Fuchs was a catcher on the Rollins baseball team this year. Last year his father supplied the Rollins team with a set of Braves uniforms, and has otherwise shown interest in the development of baseball at Rollins.

Young Pittman has had an enviable record in Central Florida League play as a member of the Winter Park, Sanford, Cocoa, and Orlando teams. He was captain of the University of Florida team this year, and finished high in the batting ranks when the season ended last week.

Pittman batted .328 for Winter Park and Sanford during 18 games of the 1931 season. In 131 times at bat, he scored 43 hits and 16 runs.

Last year Pittman, playing for Sanford and then Cocoa, ended the season with a batting mark of .281 secured in 38 games. Oddly enough he secured 43 hits in 38 games and 153 times at bat last year while in 1931 he secured 43 hits in 131 times at bat.

This year Pittman has appeared in nine games for Orlando. In 37 times at bat he has secured 11 hits, and scored six runs for a batting average of .298. He has one extra base-hit, a triple; has driven in six runs, stolen one base, and made two sacrifice hits.

UMPIRE PALMER SCORED BY YDE OVER DECISION

Case Has No Parallel In His Experience, Says Leesburg Boss

LEESBURG, May 24.—Formal protest of Umpire Palmer's decision in the last half of the ninth inning of Sunday's Central Florida League ball game between Leesburg and Sanford was filed with W. R. Mandelcorn and Peter Schaal, president and secretary respectively of the league yesterday.

Palmer claims that Yde, pitcher for the Leesburg Bruins deliberately attempted to stall the game in the last half of the ninth inning, and sent Newcomb to first base with a count of only two balls and one strike, claiming that this action was the penalty provided for Yde's having delayed the game.

Emil Yde, playing manager of the Bruins against whom Palmer directed his decision stated yesterday, "I have been in organized baseball for some years and have never known an official to make such an un-called for ruling. Under what rule of baseball Palmer thought he was acting is beyond me."

"It has always been my experience that when an umpire feels that a pitcher was deliberately stalling, he called time, warned the pitcher and ordered the game to proceed. Palmer did not call time, nor did he warn me that he thought I was stalling."

"I had no thought of doing so and my only thought was to fill up a hole in the pitcher's mound that had been bothering me and which I had been doing throughout the game."

"Palmer's sending of Newcomb to first base was contrary to all baseball as I know it and such officiating is discouraging to both the players and the fans and does more to hurt the game than does any other phase of poorly executed baseball."

Pres. Mandelcorn said yesterday morning that official notice of the protest had not yet been received and refused to make any comment regarding the matter.

"Thus far I have not received official notice from Leesburg," he said. "I have been advised that a protest would be filed by Mgr. Yde of Leesburg but as yet the controversy is all gossip so far as I am concerned.

"I understand that Umpire Palmer's statement is in the mail but this does not indicate a protest because under the league rules umpires are compelled to advise the president of all disputes or serious difficulties."

The president has dictatorial power in the settling of protested games. He is the sole arbiter and at his discretion may throw out the protest, order the game replayed or forfeit the game.

"Should a protest be filed," said Mandelcorn, "I intend to make a thorough investigation of the entire matter. All interested parties will be given an opportunity to advance their arguments and my decision will be based entirely on a proper interpretation of the rules."

The league opened Apr. 23 and the argument at Sanford last Sunday was the first club squabble.

League Secretary Schaal late yesterday received official notice of Leesburg's protest of the Sanford-Leesburg game of last Sunday, while this morning President Mandelcorn advised Mr. Schaal that he will consult with Manager Barnes, Manager Yde, and Umpire Palmer at various times before tomorrow night. He stated that he probably will give a ruling Friday morning.

Aid Is Being Sought For Local Orchestra
Officials of the Sanford Concert Orchestra who offered their services free to the local public at any time, today were contacting local merchants in an effort to secure financial backing for a series of weekly programs similar to those held in the bandshell some months ago.

Under the plan, the merchant contacted will pay a small sum weekly in return for which his name will be mentioned as a program sponsor. The orchestra expects to begin a series of 15 weekly concerts on Thursday night June 8. Concerts will be played from a bandstand to be constructed on a vacant lot near the Valdez Hotel. Local amateur or professional talent is invited to offer its services at any time.

CULBRETH SIGNS TO PLAY THIRD FOR CELERYFEDS

Former Cocoa Fielder To Wield War Club For Feds On Sunday

Johnnie Culbreth, former Cocoa infielder and one of the smartest baseball players in the Central Florida Baseball League, has been signed to play third base for the Sanford Celeryfeds, it was announced today.

Culbreth, whose name was added to the players' list late yesterday, will not be eligible to play until next Sunday. He replaces Joe Arioli, the Feds' fine young third-sacker who has been called to his home at Rochester, N. Y.

The signing of Culbreth will make an already powerful club fielding ability that is on a par with that of any player in the league available for the Feds.

Culbreth led the Central Florida League in batting during 1931, finishing the season with a mark of .377 in 39 games, knocking out Wally Shannon of Daytona by three points. Last year Culbreth hit .326 in 44 games.

Local club officials, complying with a league ruling that provides that all clubs must cut their roster from 20 to 15 men at the end of the first 30 days of play, late Monday announced the official list as follows:

Joe Barnes, Tige Minor, Roy Harrison, Cal Dennis, Paul Bonner, Bert Maxwell, Joe Arioli, Tete Newcomb, Bert Chapman.

Cocoa and Daytona Beach report no changes in their official list except that Cocoa has dropped Griggs, Brown, McWilliams, McClelland, Florida, Rholeder and Holton while Daytona has dropped Ralph Burnard, brother of the Red Burnard who bats so well.

Orlando has released Bob Crum, Ellis Taylor, Fred Yochum, Frank Crane, and Tom Phillips, and has signed Neill Williamson, Clewiston catcher who has had experience in the Piedmont League and Eddie Alsobach, powerful left-hander from Jacksonville.

Leesburg has released Ralph Pennington, Spurgeon Cherry, Edson Hayes, and Wm. Fisher, and has signed J. D. Cox, who played one game at shortstop for Sanford last year.

The Feds visited DeLand yesterday for an exhibition game won by the Reds in the ninth when Al Leita's single broke a deadlock that had existed since the seventh. Barnes secured four hits in five tries and batted in three of the Feds' five runs.

Guise, B. Leitz, and Owen shared mound duties for the Reds, to strike out 10 Feds, Cal Dennis hurled a good game for the Feds, with Tete Newcomb handling the mitt in place of Bert Chapman.

Tomorrow the Feds will travel to New Smyrna to battle the last-place Crackers. Holt will probably start for the Feds while Monday, May 25, 1933. Today's Special: Let us know together with the Lord, things shall be as white as snow.

The Times-Union comments on a report that is gaining currency. Well, that's better than most of us can do.

"Deducts" are queer birds; they keep Sanford farmers from making any money, and they keep the big rich from having to pay income taxes.

J. F. Morgan pays no income tax, at least not since the depression got going good. But, just because you did, don't get the idea you're richer than he is.

Maybe one of the reasons some of the big rich, objected to the government taxing Al Capone for income tax violation, was because their consciences hurt them.

Senator Whitaker objects to Sholto's use of the "big stick." Since it's the hit dog that howls, the Governor must have been swinging in the Senator's direction.

The head of the American Legion cannot understand why the government's liberty bonds issued during the war are tax exempt. The answer probably is that the government had a hard enough job selling them as it was.

Norman Davis no sooner outlines American foreign policy at Geneva, than Arthur Brisbane writes that the American ambassador-at-large doesn't know what he is talking about. The question seems to be whether Mr. Davis takes orders from Mr. Roosevelt or Mr. Hearst.

They ought to tie a can on that fellow McFadden of Pennsylvania. He's the representative who tried to impeach Hoover, and now he wants to impeach Secretary Woodin and Eugene Black, the new head of the Federal Reserve Board. He's just more at the whole world.

A three percent manufacturing sales tax has finally made its appearance in the Senate. It was introduced early this week by Senator Stewart of Pennsylvania. As Gov. Sholto has promised to veto any sales tax enacted at this time, it is likely that the bill will not even pass the Senate. However, it shows the trend of events and adds to the evidence pressuring future legislation.

The Administration comes pretty close to urging the repeal of the prohibition amendment when Postmaster General Farley, head of the Roosevelt forces, announces that he plans to send a letter to all campaign workers urging them to do all they can to secure the prompt enactment of the repeal law. Very likely hard times and the need for easy public revenues make such action advisable but it seems unfortunate to us that high government officials cannot let nature take its course in this matter. Money seems to be the only thing that counts any more.

The first of President Roosevelt's inflationary powers is being put into effect. The Federal Reserve Board has been authorized to purchase $25,000,000 worth of government bonds with fresh new paper money. The holders of these bonds merely exchange the bonds for currency, in order for you to get any of the new currency, you have to own government bonds. Of course it is expected that the holders of these bonds, once they have exchanged them for currency, will spend the money, thus giving the other fellow a chance to get some of it. So, they will have money, they won't.

Insuring Bank Deposits

One of the provisions of the Glass banking bill, now in the process of enactment in Congress, is the guarantee of bank deposits, or "deposit insurance" as it is perhaps better called. The measure provides for the creation of a Federal Bank Deposit Insurance Corporation, the capital stock of which would be paid for by the government, to the extent of $150,000,000, by the Federal Reserve District Banks, and by the reserve bank members.

A total fund of some two billion dollars would be provided for the purpose of insuring deposits up to $10,000 in full, and larger deposits in lesser amounts, in all member banks of the Federal Reserve System. State banks, unless members of the Reserve System, could not participate in the benefits of the insurance fund. Whatever may be the terminology and technical provisions of the bill, the effect in the public mind would be to put the government squarely behind the deposits of national banks.

As to the advisability of such an undertaking there is a considerable difference of opinion. Bankers generally are opposed to it. State bankers object to its provisions because it leaves them out in the cold or forces them to become members of the Reserve System. Conservative bankers generally are opposed to it because they can see their banks and the government paying for the mistakes of reckless and irresponsible bankers.

Francis H. Sisson, president of the American Bankers' Association, while approving most of the provisions of the Glass bill, puts himself firmly on record as opposed to any law providing for a guarantee of bank deposits. "The insurance plan," he says, "is not different in essential principles from the guarantee-of-deposits schemes that have been tried in eight Western states and invariably failed. Guarantees nowhere gave the public any protection in their deposits, but seriously increased the hazards of being a depositor."

Roger Babson, well known economist and statistical expert, also opposes this feature of the Glass bill. "Guarantee of bank deposits," he says, "would merely perpetuate bad banking. The system penalizes the conservative banker for the benefit of the careless banker. It also makes the government hold the bag for losses of inefficient banking. We should strengthen the banking structure so that failures would be impossible instead of leaving weaknesses which we admit would have to be bolstered up by deposit guarantee."

Even Carter Glass himself, the author of the bill, is opposed to the guarantee feature in principle. He finally consented to incorporate the "insurance plan" into his bill as the least of the evils which had been suggested, and as a bait to help secure the enactment of the bill as a whole. Undoubtedly he sees the weaknesses of the guarantee section but is willing to swallow them for the sake of the beneficial features in other sections of the bill.

According to the American Banker, "Senator Glass, with his tongue in his cheek, has surrendered to this sentiment, because he sees in the deposit guarantee the power to achieve bank unification and aggrandizement of the Federal Reserve System. Guarantee of deposits is actually about as distasteful to the Virginian as flat depreciation of the dollar. But what must be, must be."

"Under the illusion that at last our banking system has discovered the secret of perpetual solvency, we shall in some form or other repeat the mistakes which have brought all forms of guarantee of bank deposits either to repudiation of the obligations they involve, or to fiat currency action to keep the banks open. Not even the United States Treasury can guarantee $5 billion dollars or more of bank deposits and keep solvent."

When Secretary Josephus Daniels issued an order that there would be no more drinking aboard United States war vessels, the action did not make a group of sissies out of the navy personnel. On the contrary, the marksmanship and the efficiency of our gunners improved to the status where the American Navy was second to none in target practice.

Hard drinking has always been a tradition among most navies and among most seafaring men. It is probably the raw air and the frequent severity of the weather that make life at sea so amenable to alcoholic stimulant and have inspired such ditties as "Yo ho, and a bottle of rum". But in one bold stroke Daniels cracked this old tradition in the interest of a better navy.

Now another official order is about to tear down another ancient custom among the men who "go down to the sea in ships". Swearing has been proverbial wherever sailors get together since Columbus set sail for America or Magellan circumnavigated the globe. Whether he deserves it or not the gob has always gotten credit for being a past master in the use of harsh language. Scarcely any reporter of jokes does not have a story about a "cussing" parrot just back from a cruise aboard a ship as mascot.

But the commander-in-chief of the United States Navy has just decreed that profanity and obscenity must cease to be institutions among sailors henceforth. Any sailor found guilty of "cussing" will be subject to disciplinary action, says the order, which applies to the enlisted personnel ashore or afloat.

Thus another tradition has been scrapped, not in the interest of better efficiency but in the interest of decency. Navy men like everyone else do not use profanity because of inherent boorishness but because of habit. Perhaps the admiral's order will help them avoid a practice which they do not particularly care for, but which they find it hard to shun because of its almost universality.

"AGADIR, NOT SARAJEVO"

This is Agadir, not Sarajevo. This is a Herald Tribune dispatch of last Monday quoted a British diplomat as summing up the critical situation in Europe on the eve of the Hitler speech. He meant that there would be no war now, but that the same fatal process was already under way which finally precipitated in 1914 the oft-heralded "general war." Between "the Panther's spring" at Agadir on July 1, 1911, and the coming of that frightful Armageddon there elapsed just three years, almost to a day. The British diplomat, one cannot help feeling, was unduly pessimistic. Yet the temptation (to which others have also yielded) to draw a parallel between the dangerous and unstable history of recent European politics and the long series of "crises" which year after year foreshadowed and themselves promoted the outbreak of the World War is almost irresistible.

The Agadir crisis, which began with the arrival of the German gunboat Panther at that Moroccan port as a protest against the French occupation of the country, was neither the first nor the last of the series; it was not even the gravest. To the amateur of this historical parallel, indeed, it is open to choose almost any point between the formation of the Anglo-French entente in 1904 and the assassination at Sarajevo as that corresponding most closely to the present state of affairs. The entente resulted from a growing fear of Germany. It gave rise in turn to new fears on the part of the Germans, who forced the first Moroccan crisis and the fall of Delcasse in 1905. The Germans had to pay for the diplomatic triumph by accepting a compromise at the Algeiras Conference in 1906; they also paid (though they did not know it) by the beginning of the Anglo-French "military conversations" which so greatly strengthened the entente.

A further result was the completion of the entente by the Anglo-Russian convention in 1907, and a growing fear and tension which played their part in the crisis of 1908, when Austria annexed Bosnia-Herzegovina. The repercussions of that crisis were bitter and far reaching. Immediately, they still further solidified the entente, and helped to promote the British "naval scare" in the spring of 1909, which finally poisoned Anglo-German relations. During 1909 and 1910 the European great powers made some real efforts to extricate themselves from the dreadful fate in which they had become entangled; but with the Agadir crisis in 1911 the efforts failed. That produced Lloyd George's sensational "Mansion House speech" on July 21, 1911; the entente had become almost an alliance, and the following year, as the Germans were re-fusing the Haldane offer of a naval holiday an Anglo-French naval agreement completed the military one, and the "alliance system" had reached its final and most dangerous development.

Two mighty alliances, of almost equal strength and almost equally fearful of their own internal weaknesses, had been created, each as a defense against the other. In October of the same year came the First Balkan war, and in the winter of 1912-13 the most dangerous of all the crises was flowing from it. Even American newspapers—remote from the European scene in those days—were carrying such headlines as: "Great

Pan-American Line Lets Contract For New Super Planes

NEW YORK, May 25.—Young people throughout the United States are swinging into line in the "crusade for a warless world", which is being conducted by the Department of International Justice and Goodwill of the Federal Council of Churches in an effort to bring about permanent world peace. Three things are required of young people under 21 who are willing to contribute their efforts toward the achievement of the goal: To study the peace and war problem; to interview an adult regarding the cause and cure of war, and to write an essay of not more than 800 words on the results of this interview.

To aid them in getting the background necessary for a full understanding of the problem, a pamphlet called "Men Conquer Guns" is being furnished at a small fee. Among the points covered in this pamphlet are disarmament, the Japan-China controversy, the new German situation, the League of Nations, traffic in arms and the relation of the don't parallel altogether and stick to the present facts as they are.

Some of the questions which the interviewers are to ask, according to a "Two-Minute Interview on Disarmament" card with which they are furnished, include: "Why are wars declared?" "Why do nations go to war?" "What steps should be taken by nations to reduce their armaments?"

United States to the world's peace machinery. The formation of study groups in young people's societies, public and private schools, colleges and universities, is urged upon the youthful crusaders.

North Carolina's Legislature Sets Distinctive Record

RALEIGH, N. C.—North Carolina's "new deal" Legislature, which sat from Jan. 4 until May 15 wrestling with financial problems and did not adjourn until it had balanced the state's budget for the coming biennium, gained the distinction of making this the first American commonwealth to provide an eight months' school term for every child within its borders, at every expense.

This was pointed out by Gov. J. C. Ehringhaus, in a message read to both branches during the last hours of the session. While measures were passed which did not meet with the governor's approval, he is the only state executive in the United States without the veto power and, consequently, was powerless to check such measures.

John Barrymore Is Star In Milane Film

Topaze! It's not November's birthstone! Neither is it a South American humming bird little known outside of Webster's Dictionary.

"Topaze" is simply the name of the leading character portrayed by John Barrymore in the dramatic comedy of that name, produced by RKO-Radio Pictures playing at the Milane tonight and Friday.

As the naive and thoughtfully honest French schoolmaster who becomes the dupe of some clever and polished crooks and then avenges them at the own game, John Barrymore is said to have an opportunity for comedy even surpassing his "Man from Blankley" and a chance for characterization equal to anything he has ever done.

As adapted by Benn W. Levy from the French play by Marcel Pagnol, "Topaze" had a successful run on New York's Broadway. It was also a European success. Paris is the story's locale.

Harry d'Arzac, who has proven his genius for directing comedies in many films, notably "Laughing Gas," directed "Topaze." Myra Loy plays the heroine, who is an unusual character as the hero, and others in the cast are Albert Conroy, Luis Alberni, Reginald Mason, Johnny Howland, Jackie Scott, and Frank Becker.

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dufosse are expected to return tonight from DeFuniak Springs where they have been attending graduation exercises at Palmer College. Their son, Frank Dufosse, received his diploma at the exercises.

Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Bolt returned to Howey-in-the-Hills yesterday where they spent the evening with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Lator.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Messer, of Mount Dora, will spend the week-end here with Mrs. Anna Messer and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Baggitt. They will be joined here Sunday by Mrs. Messer's sister Miss Jane Sperry, of Sistersville, W. Va., who will return home with them for several weeks.

The announcement was made at a bridge party given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Schirard for her daughter at their home on West Tenth Street. The wedding will take place Thursday, June 1.

Miss Schirard was born in Palatka but has been living in this city for the past 17 years. She was graduated from Seminole High School in 1920 and later attended Florida State College for Women at Tallahassee where she was a member of the Delta Delta Delta sorority.

He played on the varsity basketball and baseball teams for three years and has been active on the campus during his four years at a school.

Immediately after the arrival of the guests they were ushered into the dining room where they selected tallies hanging by gold colored ribbons from a large bag of golden colored crepe paper. When the tallies were pulled gold-colored paper cats, bearing the announcement of the engagement, were revealed.

During the afternoon bridge games were enjoyed and at a late hour scores were added and prizes awarded. High score prize, a deck of playing cards, went to Mrs. George Knight, Jr., while low score prize, a wooden plaque, was presented to Miss Rose LaVerne Hurt.

At the tea hour the card tables were overlaid with gold colored cloths and refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Truluck, Miss Alma Entzinger, and Miss Schirard. Vases and bowls of yellow and white gladioli were used to adorn the rooms where the guests were entertained.

Memorial Service Is Held For H. S. White

A short memorial service in respect to the memory of the late H. S. White was held in the Court House yesterday morning by members of the Seminole County Bar Association shortly after Judge Hillard B. Smith had opened Circuit Court for the day.

F. R. Wilson offered a resolution on behalf of the Association, in which, after extolling Judge White's abilities as an attorney, citizen, and father, stated: "The Association... extends sympathy to his family in their great bereavement and commends to them for solace the memory of a good father and husband, and an exemplary citizen whose friends join them in grief at his death."

After short talks were made by George A. DeCotte, and J. G. Sharon, Judge Smith ordered that the resolution be spread on the minutes of the court, and the service was concluded when Judge Smith declared court adjourned until 1:30 o'clock out of respect to the memory of Judge White.

Among the members of the Bar Association who attended the service were: George A. DeCotte, J. G. Sharon, G. W. Spender, S. J. Dix, R. W. Ware, W. E. Matien, Counts Johnson, H. M. Watson, J. G. Leonsky, Fred R. Wilson, L. F. Boyle, and E. F. Hoarlander.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Messer, of Mount Dora, will spend the week-end here with Mrs. Anna Messer and Mr. and Mrs. B. H. Baggitt. They will be joined here Sunday by Mrs. Messer's sister Miss Jane Sperry, of Sistersville, W. Va., who will return home with them for several weeks.

when his application to succeed the beloved Judge Charles B. Parkhill now reposes on the governor's desk. You can see the reasons for his activities. He thinks he is carrying favor with the governor and thereby enhance his chance to get a job. But this is merely an ill-contrived notion. The chief executive has wished the big stick in ramming this insipiduous man down the throat of the Senate.

Futch cracked Whitaker in a brief perch that bristled with sarcasm, taunting the Tam-an for his "fabled championing of the principles of Democratic government."

"I am unwilling to concede to my distinguished opponents any corner on the brain power of this Senate," Futch said. "I recall the successful efforts made by this gentleman at the last session in bringing through the Legislature a bill creating an election board for his own city. From what you have heard him say here today, you might imagine the right of suffrage held a high place in his affections. But what did he say to the people of Tampa two years ago?"

"He said: 'I am going to give you a board to control your elections, and I'll name the members of that board to the bill creating it. Furthermore, whether you like it or not, I will make this board self-perpetuating.'"

"So the bill now before the Senate has at least accomplished one purpose. It has increased the respect of this distinguished Tam-an for the principle of most self-government."

Miss Dorothy Stokes will leave Saturday for Cincinnati, Ohio where she will spend the summer months.
