County buys M-16s; decides not to adopt fireworks ban, yet

By Russ White
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SEMINOLE COUNTY - This week's sign that the Apocalypse is upon us, Seminole County commissioners debated on Tuesday why they should put M-16 rifles in the hands of sheriff's deputies and take away 4th of July sparklers from 4-year-olds.

Item wisely was put off to a rainy day. A request by Sheriff Don Eslinger for $8,700 to buy M-16 rifles led to a testy exchange with Commissioner Grant Maloy, who said he feared Eslinger was trying to assemble a "Rambo unit" rather than community law enforcement agency. The board voted, 4-1, to approve Eslinger's request.

SANFORD - Reports of a whale in Lake Monroe were just a little exaggerated. There were however 2 manatees...shall we say...frolicking off shore in front of Ft.

Mellon Park Tuesday morning. Passersby on their way to work or out for a morning stroll did a double take as they tried to determine what was appearing and disappearing in the water just a few yards off the wall. The pair appeared undisturbed as people took a break from their morning routines to gather along the shore and by boat.

"It's nice to have a good thing to bring the community out to see instead of a natural disaster," said Cathy Wichman. Wichman grew up in Orange Park near Hammering out a pay raise for elected officials

By Nick Pfeiffel
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - A proposed ordinance regarding a pay raise for the mayor and city commissioners was ready for first reading at Monday night's Sanford City Commission meeting. There were a number of blank spaces however, most prominently, the amount of money they would be paid. That portion of the ordinance was left blank, with plans to fill it in later.

The proposal however, didn't get off the ground. While it had previously been determined (by the commissioners) that the present salaries were too low, no one had given consideration to expenses, which are included in the commissioners' pay.

City Manager Bill Simmons told the commissioners that the amount approved for expenses, such as travel pay and others, has not been changed since 1974.

At the present time, the position of mayor in Sanford pays $3,000 while commissioners receive $3,000 per year. Figures previously determined by the city staff show, in 10 cities with similar populations, the annual average salary is $9,000 for mayors and over $7,000 for commissioners.

There has been no open discussion regarding what salary level may be considered for Sanford leaders. The how and when to enact salary increases remains a point of confusion however. Commissioners are prohibited by city charter from voting on pay raises for themselves. Therefore any raise would not be effective until an election. But only those who are elected or re-elected could obtain an increase, leaving those whose terms had not ended, receiving less pay than the others.

When the matter, including the blank spaces for a salary level, was brought up for a vote during the regular commission meeting, it was tabled. Although the title of the ordinance is "Compensation of City Commission and Mayor; Expense Money," the expenses were not included.

The matter is now to go back for further study by the city.

City board dives in to back pool at school

By Nick Pfeiffel
HERALD STAFF WRITER

SANFORD - A proposal to build a swimming pool at Seminole High School, in a cooperative effort between the school board and city, was thwarted in a public referendum several years ago. Now, the plans are back in the forefront.

In 1991, the Sanford City Commission moved to allocate $500,000 toward construction of a swimming pool at SHS, with the Seminole County School Board to pay a similar amount. The pool was to have been built on school property and used by the school during normal hours. It would be available for the public and city recreation on off-school hours, weekends and summer vacations.

In a public referendum however, the citizens of Sanford defeated the proposal.

In January of this year, the matter came back for consideration when the School Board announced its intention to ob-

Is the county really safe in its arms?

Today would be a nice one for Seminole County Sheriff Don Eslinger and County Commissioner Grant Maloy to reach an arms agreement.

There were fireworks at the Commissioners meeting on Tuesday when the sheriff and the commissioner had conflicting ideas about the purchase of M-16 rifles.

Maloy said he was against the sheriff arming his deputies with the weaponry of a South American military force.

"I'd prefer something more like Sherlock Holmes' force," Maloy said.

At this, Eslinger was not pleased.

"I don't appreciate that one bit," Eslinger snapped. "We've had M-16s since the 1970s. They're part of law enforcement today. We're not some South American military force."

The other 4 county commissioners agreed with Eslinger, awarding the sheriff $8,700 to purchase new M-16s and ammunition.

No one could recall the last time the sheriff and a commissioner had as terse an exchange.

"He went ballistic," Maloy said.

Rumor quashed

SANFORD - Sanford Mayor Larry Dale reports he has had a number of citizens ask him if it was permissible, during the city's present watering restrictions, to wash one's car on private property, providing it was parked on the lawn at the time.

"I don't know where that started," Dale said during Monday's commission work session, "but there is no truth to it. People are asked to follow all of our watering restrictions, which specifically say car washing on private property is prohibited. Be a coastie."

In the midst of the worst brush fire crisis in more than 50 years, the most serious focus at this meeting and at those throughout the state, was on controlling and reducing these fires.

"We can't go out and stop every 4-year-old with a sparkler," Seminole County Public Safety Director Ken Roberts told the commissioners, "but we have to make everyone aware of the dangers that exist. The slightest mistake could be disastrous. Do we want to roll the dice?"

Many Seminole residents called the County Services Building on Wednesday morning to protest the decision by the board not to have an outright ban as most other neighboring counties had adopted. An aide to the county chairman was busy talking to protesters from the second she came to the office.

The Board voted, 3-2, to authorize the procurement and refurbishment of two military helicopters that will cost $375,000 to be scrapped and made into one multi-use helicopter to be shared by the sheriff's office and the fire/rescue department. The ship could carry 13 deputies (with their M16s) or 23 firefighters and their equipment. It can also carry as much as 500 gallons of water.

"If we had this ship earlier, we could have contained the brush fires in Geneva," Roberts said. "This is a good deal. We get the helicopters for free from the California Division of Forestry. These things cost $3 million to $4 million apiece."

Commissioner Daryl McLain said that the $375,000 was "a small price to pay" for the capabilities the county will receive. "We can assist our neighbors and prevent worse tragedies," he said.

Ealinger was pleased, too, that his deputies would be using the copter when it arrives late this year. It was the M-18 issue and Maloy's failure to see the need that riled him. The sheriff referred to the ugly incident a few years ago in Palm Bay when a couple of police officers were killed and said the M-16s were part of any modern law enforcement agency's weaponry.

There was less controversy when the Board voted 5-0 to clarify its adult entertainment code that calls for nude dancers to perform on a platform away from clients.

"Remarkably, we first had to spend an hour and a half haggling about road humps," Maloy said. The humps are going to be removed from Holliday Avenue in the northwest section of the county. Again, there was a public safety aspect of the decision. Emergency vehicles must slow down to a crawl to negotiate the 10 humps on Holliday.

Horses were also on the menu, the horses of the Cross Seminole Trail. Seems the neighbors are not very happy about the riders who share into their yards and swimming pools. A little more privacy, they've asked. The commissioners discussed an alternative trail and some new vegetation. H - Silver Away.

Jacksonville and she missed seeing the manatees that regularly visited the area.

She still recalls her first encounter when she came nose to nose with an unusual looking creature as she peered over the end of the dock. Started at first, her curiosity soon got the better of her. "I don't know how anyone could mistake that for a mermaid," remarks Wichman referring to tales of manatees being mistaken for mermaids by sailors who had been out to sea for long periods of time.

"The St. Johns River is a perfect habitat for them", explains Save the Manatee Club Staff Biologist Patti Thompson. According to Thompson a sub-population of manatees lives along the St. Johns River year round.

Manatees are gentle, slow moving mammals. They can live for over 60 years, and grow up to 12 feet long and weigh up to 2,000 pounds. Manatees mate and bear young throughout the year. "It is not a rare occurrence, but it is a rare sight for people to observe manatees mating," said Thompson.

All man/manatee encounters are not as pleasant as Tuesday morning's romp. The body of a manatee was found June 7 in a state designated, year-round slow speed zone at the High Banks boat ramp in Volusia County. The manatee had been hit so hard the boat's propeller had slashed through his back into his abdominal cavity.

The dead manatee was an adoptee in the Save The Manatee Club's manatee adoption program. His name was Shane. He was born in 1981. His mother, Emma, is also an SMC adoptee. Shane was a regular winter visitor to Blue Spring State Park in Orange City. Boomer, Shane's brother was killed by a boat in 1984 in the St. Johns River in Putnam County.

There are currently 27 manatees in the SMC adoption program. For more information about manatees or the adoption program call Save the Manatee Club at (407) 539-0090.

The way we were: Literary Florida focus: Sanford, 1947

I recently found a copy of the July 1947 issue of "Literary Florida" in the Sanford Museum. It is in booklet format and advertises itself on the cover as Florida's Foremost National Monthly Magazine. The cover also states that this is the Sanford issue and a birdseye view of the city is pictured.

The magazine was published in Tampa by E.S. Johnson, publisher. This was volume 4, number 8 and its cost was 25 cents.

There are four pages of Sanford scenes which include the Tourist Center (originally the USO, now the Chamber of Commerce), Municipal Pier and Blandshell, Monkey Island, Chase and Company Celery Packing and Precooling Plant, Actress Wendy Barre at the Mayfair Inn swimming pool, and The Frenchman's Bay, one of a fleet of boats that was to soon operate on the St. Johns from Sanford.

were available as was an excellent golf course.

Another leisure time activity that Mr. Touhy mentioned was baseball spring training games. He claimed that there were unsurpassed facilities here and that baseball devotees flocked here for the pre-season games. In addition to training for the professional clubs, there was a baseball school for rookies and a noted school for umpires.

Seminole County Club which was later renamed Mayfair Country Club.

The property was a part of the 20,000 acre tract that Joseph Finegan bought in 1849 for $40.00. Sixty acres of this land was transferred to General Henry Sanford in 1870; he then sold it to Charles Emory of Boston three years later.

The new owner developed it by setting out orange trees and clearing the surrounding area. He built a substantial home and the major portion of the present clubhouse is the converted residence.

Emory's son, a retired naval officer, is credited with the planting of the majestic magnolia trees and double row of moss covered oaks which form the canopy over Country Club Road.

For three generations, the Emorys used the estate as a refuge from Boston winters and then sold it to A.W. Ransford. This New Englander lost interest in his Florida holdings and the property quickly deteriorated.

The city of Sanford bought the property in 1921. Soon a well planned 18 hole golf course skirted the orange groves and wound through the pines. It wasn't long before it zoomed into national favor, but then plummeted and lay dormant for years.

The city had again revived the golf course recently and it had blossomed; its fairways and greens hummed again with activity.

There was a competent professional instructor and a well stocked pro shop.

Sanford Activity Accountant

George Touhy wrote this article which told mainly of activities for tourists. He claimed that Sanford and Seminole County made every effort to make tourists feel welcome and a part of the community.

There was a full time director of Tourist Activities and the social life of these seasonal visitors was centered in the Tourist Center, located in the corner of Fort Mellon Park.

A Tourist Club was formed each year complete with officers. Each Monday night a program was provided with such entertainment as music by local artists, talented students or faculty members from Rollins and Stetson. Sometimes there were movies, informative talks or quiz programs.

On Thursday afternoons a Tea was arranged by the director. Games were played such as bridge, Chinese Checkers, bingo, checkers and Pinochle.

In addition to these organized events, the building was open every day and one could drop in for games, reading or visiting in a comfortable setting.

Picnic suppers were held often and shuffleboard had long been very popular as had horse shoe pitching. Tennis courts

Sanford's Delightful Inn

During the previous year, activity at the Mayfair Inn was greater than in any time in its history, according to the writer of this article. The hotel had been completely renovated and the result was capacity business during the winter months.

The Sanford Bath and Tennis Club had been formed by the hotel management with the hotel as its headquarters. Members enjoyed privileges of the swimming pool, tennis courts and all other recreation facilities of the establishment.

All of this was the work of Lind Weber, a newcomer to Sanford, who was general manager of the Inn. He was 36, married and the father of two sons. Mr. Weber was a seasoned hotel man who had previously managed the Ionic Vedra Inn. He had also been affiliated with several hotels in Massachusetts.

[My first real introduction to the Mayfair Inn came at about time time. I remember taking a ballet class from Marjorie Cogburn Tepalc one summer in the ballroom; I was about 10 years old. And I enjoyed the pool many afternoons with Rosemary Garner whose parents, Dr. and Mrs. Wade Garner, were members of the Bath and Tennis Club.]

tain a COBO community block grant with which to pay for its share. The grant was not approved.

Additionally, school boards in Florida have now been prohibited by the state from using funding for this type of capital improvements.

During Monday's commission work session, Seminole High School Principal Gretchen Schapker told the commissioners the need for the pool is still there. "Let's not let this project die," she said, "Let's keep it alive."

Her main purpose for addressing the commission was to encourage them not to ignore the previous commitment of $500,000 toward the pool construction. She said the Seminole High Boosters Club was committed to raise as much additional money as possible, after all other funding sources had proved futile.

Although the original cost was projected to be approximately $1.2 million, a re-examination has indicated the pool might now be built for considerably less. If, as an example, the pool size would be smaller, from a planned 100 meter size to 25 meters.

"We might be able to get some local people to donate services or materials," said Commissioner Whitley Eckstein. "But as far as I'm concerned, we should have at least a 50 meter pool." He said the pool, along with the hotel and conference center at Fort Mellon Park, could prove to be the new attractions for the city of Sanford. "Eventually, the city could be known for these features," he added.

Diane Kramer with the school system said perhaps the school board might consider donating the land (3 1/2 acres) to the city, and have the city recreation department handle the operation and maintenance (O&M).

"This would prove to be extremely valuable," added Eckstein. "It would give us the opportunity to have every kid have swimming lessons."

"I was the only vote against this the last time it came up," commented Commissioner Brady Leaward, "but now I'm re-thinking it and am coming around. I just want to know what we would be spending this half million for, and where the money would come from."

Mayor Dale said the money would probably be taken out of reserves. He instructed the city manager and finance director to investigate the possible funding and come back to the commission with ideas.

While Schapker predicted the pool might be built now for about $750,000, others involved in the project use a figure of $800,000 for the 25 meter size.

The pool would be an outdoor facility, which school officials estimated would be approximately 50 percent utilized by the school and 50 percent by the community. It would be complete with a bath house, but depending on the size, increasing it from 25 to 50 meters, it was explained that HRS had additional requirements, and would cost more based on such a proposed increase.

While the commissioners generally voiced approval of continuing the $500,000 investment, they agreed that the 50 meter size would be the most practical.

Renovation of Lake Panasoffkee gets boost

SANFORD - A dream for renovating Lake Panasoffkee took a giant step toward reality last week on the front steps of the Sumter County Courthouse with the introduction of a new seven-member Lake Panasoffkee Restoration Council.

Created during the 1998 Legislative session in Tallahassee the Council is charged with developing a blueprint for renewing a lake that, historically, has been a favorite for anglers seeking largemouth bass, bluegills and shellcrackers.

Council members and local fish camp owner Jim Veal predicts several lake restoration projects will soon be recommended.

For starters, Veal thinks a heavily vegetated eastern shoreline of 4,800-acre Lake Panasoffkee in Sumter County will be cleared back to its original timberline, thus restoring feeder creek water flow.

Other recommendations on the immediate horizon will include a suction dredge to remove an alarming buildup of bottom silt, especially around Shell and Grassy Points, prime bream bedding areas.

"Additional silt removal from numerous natural springs scattered about the lake will restore flow and improve water quality," Veal said.

Veal, John Springstead, Billy Merritt, Jim Wade, David Hanson, George Buhmeyer and Bill Davis have all accepted Council appointments.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) has targeted nearly two dozen lakes throughout the state for "fast track renovation" to meet its objectives of making the water bodies more "angler friendly." Lake Panasoffkee is the latest to make this list.

In addition to the GFC, other state agencies contributing to the Lake Panasoffkee effort will include the Department of Environmental Protection, the Southwest Florida Water Management District, and the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

State Senator Citrus Brown-Walke and State Representative Everett Kelly were credited with being "prime movers" in getting the Lake Panasoffkee Restoration Council bill passed this year in the Florida Legislature.

Also hailed for his vital role in the Council's inception was Jamie Adams, former Sumter County Sheriff and most recent appointee to the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission's five-member board.

FISHING FORECAST

Bass fishing will be slow until this fall. Fish early and late at night for best results. The Puzzle Lake area will have fast action due to low water levels. All fish are forced out into the main channel. Bream and catfish will be hitting in the deep bends.

Expect good catch and release snook action at Sebastian Inlet with fish to 20 pounds. Large live shrimp or small baitfish will attract sure strikes. Flounder, trout and a few redfish are also present.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports fair offshore action. King mackerel are the most reliable species, and can be found on Pelican Flats and BA Reef. Wahoo and dolphin are scattered. Tripletail are in the buoy line and can be found around the smaller buoys marking dredge lines. Inside the Port, flounder are making a strong showing. Trout and redfish are on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Flounder and sheepshead are the main attraction at Ponce Inlet. Also expect drum, redfish, jack crevalle and ladyfish. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon.

Sunniland gets eighth straight win, clinches Women's Spring title

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - Sunniland Corporation quickly took care of any doubt about the championship as it rolled to a 6-0 lead and coasted to a 13-5 victory over the Eagles to clinch the crown of the Sanford Recreation Department Women's Spring Slow Pitch Softball League at Pinhurst Park Tuesday night.

Sunniland Corporation, which entered the night's action needing to win one of its last two games or have the Sharks lose one of their last two games, took a lead it would not relinquish in the bottom of the first inning on RBI from Teresa Pickett, Tammy Bailey and Sue Bagley.

The champions then tacked three more runs onto the lead in the second inning before the Eagles made things interesting by scoring three runs in the fifth inning to close to within 7-4.

But Sunniland Corporation refused to give the Sharks any hope, putting the game out of reach by scoring six runs in the sixth inning.

In the second game of the evening, Curt's Alleycats claimed their second straight upset, scoring 12 runs in the top of the first inning and building a 10-5 lead in the top of the third inning before cruising to a 10-12 triumph over Vaughan Incorporated.

Vaughan Incorporated scored three runs in each of the fifth and seventh innings to make things interesting.

The third game of the night between the Sharks and W.D. Associates was postponed because several members of the Sharks live in a fire evacuation area.

With Tuesday's results Sunniland Corporation is now 8-1 and leads the Sharks (5-3), the Eagles and Vaughan Incorporated (both 4-5), Curt's Alleycats (3-6) and W.D. Associates see Women, Page 28

Herman Collins' respect as an umpire has made him a fixture at Babe Ruth Baseball Tournaments around Seminole County.

Umpiring a labor of love for Collins

By Jeff Bertolotto
ASSISTANT SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Umpiring can be a thankless job. You get yelled at a lot, you lose a lot of weight, and no one gives you credit at the end of a good game.

Herman Collins has been through all of that. Last Saturday alone, he lost nine pounds under the sweltering heat at Sanford's Fort Mellon Park, umpiring four Babe Ruth Baseball Tournament games. In fact, he went through five different shirts over the four-game stretch.

Collins has been an umpire in Seminole County for four years after working in California for over a decade.

For people like Collins, it's a labor of love. They certainly don't do it for the money.

"If it was about money, I'd be living under a bridge," Collins said.

Collins works most of his games at Eastmont Park in Altamonte Springs, home of the Bambino champions. With his experience, he is often called upon by other county leagues and was a fixture at Sanford all of last week.

He started playing baseball when he was a kid and learned to love the Los Angeles Dodgers. His most famous Dodgers like Tom LaSorda, Muzey Wills, Wes Please see Collins, Page 28

Sanford Christian Church scored 10 runs in the third inning to take a 15-12 lead and the two teams then traded the lead every half inning before Beer :30 scored three runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to take the lead for good and held on for a 23-22 victory.

Kempke Music Service got off to a slow start, trailing MJG 2-0 until scoring four runs in the third inning. That got the Kempke Music Service offense going as it scored 16 runs in the next and ended up winning 20-4.

In the other game, Maronda Homes scored eight runs in the top of the first inning never looked back in whipping the Seminole Scoop 22-2.

B Bee's back on top at Lake Mary

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - B Bee's Home Cooking regained sole possession of first place in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks and Recreation Men's Spring Wednesday Night Slow Pitch Softball League with an impressive display of offense and defense at the Lake Mary Sports Complex last Wednesday.

B Bee's Home Cooking scored eight runs in the first inning and seven runs in the second inning and held Seminole Power Sports to only four hits in winning 31-1.

Celeste Industries, which entered the night tied with B Bee's, looked good in the opening game of the evening taking a 6-0 lead and going on to outscore Jernigan Properties 13-0.

But Celeste Industries ran into a hot Blue Haven Pools team in the second game and the two traded the lead several times before Celeste Industries took an 8-5 lead entering the sixth, and what turned out to be final, inning.

Blue Haven rallied in the bottom of the sixth inning for four runs, and a 9-8 victory, with a two out, two-run double by John Keelan capping the rally.

B Bee's Home Cooking is now 4-0 and leads Celeste Industries (4-1), Blue Haven Pools (3-2), Jernigan Properties (1-4) and Seminole Power Sports (0-5).

Collins

Parker and Walter Alston as well as the major league's first black umpire, Emmitt Ashford.

Collins' father owned a bar in Los Angeles that was frequented by several of the Dodgers and Collins developed a love for the game.

"I remember there were about 10 of us that would sneak into Dodger Stadium," Collins said. "Security would see us after we got off the bus, so we'd break in 10 different directions so they couldn't catch us all at the same time. It was a lot of fun but we all thought it was normal."

Collins also had a promising baseball career in front of him until, he admitted, there were some bad choices.

"Let's put it this way," Collins said. "I wasn't the best of characters. I didn't fit in with the major league's etiquette. But I have no regrets. If I was meant to play professionally, I would have."

So, instead, he turned his attention towards the kids who, he said, got him back into baseball. As a youngster, Collins played against future major leaguers like George Brett and Scott McGregor, so he's always had a soft spot for the kids.

"The only way I knew to get back into baseball was through umpiring," Collins said. "I just love the game."

He's gotten the same response in return. Collins has grown into one of the most respected umpires in Seminole County, working over 80 game a year and rarely being involved in serious incidents.

"The best description of an umpire is when you walk off the field, no one says a thing about how you did," Collins said.

Collins' next major assignment will be the 13-year-old tournament in Altamonte Springs early next month. He'll again have to deal with the heat and, he admits, some of the parents.

That's where Collins said an umpire's biggest problem lies. Not with the players or coaches, most of whom know what to expect, but with the parents.

He said he understands that, for most of the parents, it's one of a few opportunities to spend quality time with their children, but some of them do get carried away.

As far as coaches, they know there are certain lines that better not be crossed. The kids and coaches know there will be no profanity of any kind with the penalty being automatic ejection. There are other things that bother Collins sometimes that he really can't do much about.

"The only time I get angry is when the coaches take the fun out of the game for the kids," Collins said. "They get too into the game and they kill rallies and take the fun out of the game with all their computer printouts and clipboards. They kill the chance for kids to learn the basic skills of baseball. They never get taught the heart of the game."

Collins also said that too many coaches are not positive in their approach to the game and only stress the negative.

In the past four years, Collins has seen them all come and go. He's seen some he said he knows are destined for stardom and some who let other obstacles get in their way.

"The best player I've ever seen was a kid at Eastmont Park who was 13," he said. "The kid was a natural. He had the best fastball, then he got into drugs. The kid could have gone as far as he wanted."

Fortunately, most of them don't turn out like that. Seminole County has lately seen a rash of players to professional ball. Collins remembers seeing names like the Brett brothers, Darryl Strawberry and Eric Davis become major league superstars.

Now he is seeing the next generation.

People

Northerners lick chops over southern meal

One of the most diverse varieties of regional cooking is southern cooking. Southern regional cooking encompasses a vast variety of cuisine ranging from Maryland crabcakes, Virginia hama, Tex-Mex to Cajun. The list is limitless and so are the tastes. The large geographic area that is considered the "south" has a number of local cuisines. The above list names only a few examples. Each local area has been influenced by both locally available products and cultural cooking techniques brought by settlers to the region.

The French, Spanish, Caribbean, European and African cultures have each influenced the foods of their local area. The seasonings and cooking methods of these cultures when used in combination with southern products produce some truly world class dishes.

There is no one meal that can begin to explore the varieties available in southern cooking. Some great cookbooks are out there that examine different facets of southern fare. Believe me the variety could easily last you a life time of different meals.

The following dinner is one that my northern friends automatically associate with the south. I hope you enjoy it as much as my guests do. The following recipes will serve 6 people.

Tip of the Week:
We are lucky enough to live in an area that raises produce locally. There are many produce markets, roadside stands and produce suppliers in and around the greater Sanford area.

When it comes to veggies, the fresher the better. The longer they are out of the garden the lower the quality of the taste. Always buy the freshest you can get. Never settle for older produce. It's a waste of money. Support your local farmer and buy local.

Ignoring junk mail may cost credit card holder

DEAR ABBY: Certain credit-card companies have adopted a practice that you and your readers need to be made aware of. An advertiser sent me some junk mail sponsored by a credit card that I owned. It concerned a 50 percent discount in green fees at selected golf courses. Since it was junk mail, I glanced at it and threw it out.

About a month later, a charge that I didn't recognize appeared on my credit-card statement. I called the credit-card company to have it removed from my bill. It turned out to be from the advertiser who had sent the junk mail about saving money at certain golf courses. The credit-card representative then informed me that this company had an agreement with them that since means acceptance. In other words, somewhere in the small print in the junk mail, it stated that if I chose not to accept this offer I'd have to notify them; otherwise my credit card would automatically be

DEAR ABBY: I think this practice is sleazy, immoral and should be illegal. Please warn your readers that they must thoroughly read all junk mail sponsored or endorsed by credit-card companies.

DISGUSTED IN CALIFORNIA

DEAR DISGUSTED: I, too, think the practice should be illegal. But until it is, you're absolutely right. The only protection a credit-card holder has is to carefully scrutinize mailings that have been authorized by their credit-card company. The only alternative would be to cancel the card and find a company that doesn't use these tactics.

DEAR ABBY: It may seem unfair for a fourth-grade boy to be shunned by the boys in his new neighborhood, but I see another course of action for his mother to take that might provide a possible solution. At this child's age, it is important for his parents to become acquainted with his potential playmates and their parents. Why not suggest to the mother who wrote you that the neighbor parents take the initiative and invite the neighbor boys to come to his home to play?

I am the mother of five (now seven) children, who are less than seven years apart in age. After school, playtime at our home (or elsewhere) had rules and limits for the children's safety and my sanity.

Shortly after moving to Texas, our youngest, "Betsy," who was in the third grade, asked if she could accept an invitation to play at "Danna's" house. Danna didn't live in our immediate neighborhood and I didn't know her parents, so I suggested that Danna come to our home to play. I phoned her mother, who insisted that the girls play there. The invitations happened several times before both of us admitted that we were just cautious about unfamiliar households.

I don't remember who went to which house first, but Danna and Betsy became good friends - and my husband and I have enjoyed having Danna's family.

The mother of the new kid on the block is herself new on the block, and she should be willing (even eager) to become better acquainted with her neighbors.

TEXAS GRANNY

DEAR TEXAS GRANNY: Thank you for sharing your experience with that young man's mother, as well as any other parent whose child is in the same situation. If the problem can be resolved as simply as this mother wanting and to other parents in the neighborhood, this case your letter will encourage her to do so.

DEAR ABBY: I was recently asked to be a bridesmaid in a friend's wedding. Flattered, I gladly accepted. When I was told that the dress she selected would cost me $200, I was shocked. I told the bride that I couldn't afford to spend that much for a dress, but I would be happy to go shopping with her to find something less expensive. When she informed me that changing the dress was not an option, I told her that I would be unable to participate in the wedding.

She did not protest my decision, or try to come up with an alternate solution such as paying for half of the dress. Instead, she asked another girl to take my place in the wedding.

Abby, this has been bothering me for weeks. I feel like she owes a dress over her friendship with me. Am I overreacting? What do you think?

OUTSIDER IN OREGON

DEAR OUTSIDER: Obviously it was more important for your friend to have the bridesmaid dresses that she preferred than to have you as a bridesmaid.

Are you overreacting? Only if you let this end your friendship. The bride was insensitive to your financial situation, but refusing you from an obligation to be in a wedding you couldn't afford to participate in is not an issue great enough to lose a friendship over.

Tracking down an elusive extract

DEAR DR. GOTT: Following your column on using horse-chestnut extract for chronic edema (swelling) of the legs, our company (Nature's Herbs) received hundreds of calls and letters about the product. Please be advised that we do not sell our products directly to the public. Such products are marketed through retail health-food stores throughout the country.

DR. GOTT

sure that he is a member of your health maintenance organization. You can look him up in your book of medical providers, call the MMO or talk directly with his office staff.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my "Health Report - Medical Specialist." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10155. Be sure to mention the title.

If you would like to write to Dr. Gott, send your letter to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10155.

You would be doing your readers (and our customer service department) a big favor if you directed them to their local health-food retailers. Nonetheless, we appreciate your endorsement.

DEAR READER: I'm sorry for any inconvenience that you or my readers suffered. Apparently, horse-chestnut extract is not uniformly available through the retail outlets you mentioned, so I thought I'd go to the source.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In several of your columns, you have advised patients with difficult problems to see "super-specialists." How does the average patient find a super-specialist and how does he get connected?

DEAR READER: The most satisfactory method is through a referral by your primary care physician. All of us doctors in primary care have a wide range of specialists to whom we can — and do — refer patients with difficult health problems. If you're not getting anywhere with your family practitioner, it is entirely ethical and appropriate for you to request a referral. While some doctors may be put off by this tactic, most of us welcome help with challenging cases. This is simply good patient care and, as an added advantage, enables us to learn in the process.

Of course, you are free to self-referral. As a general rule, most super-specialists are on staff at large teaching hospitals. So, if your PCP is reluctant to suggest a second opinion, you can telephone such a hospital to discover the name of a specialist who meets your needs. Finally, word-of-mouth is another resource. Ask around your community for a specialist who has a successful track record.

Again, I believe that the smoothest route is to work through your primary care physician. If he refuses or seems hesitant, maybe it's time to change to another, more aggressive PCP.

One word of warning: Managed care has made referrals a nasty game. If you seek help from a specialist outside your plan, you will be stuck with a big out-of-pocket expense. Therefore, before seeing such a specialist, make

Which lead to make

By Phillip Alder

Henry Brooks Adams, an American historian, wrote, "The difference is slight, to the influence of an author, whether he is read by five hundred readers, or by five hundred thousand; if he can attract the five hundred, he reaches the five hundred thousand."

A reader from Fort Pierce, Fla., who requested anonymity, sent me this deal. He had been West, on lead against four spades, and asked what he should have selected as his lead. Well, what would have been your choice?

unrelated, but what else could he do? West led the club queen. South was in the dummy and played a diamond, which West won. West switched to a trump, but it was too late. South was in the dummy and lost another diamond trick to West. South came a second trump, but declarer got two diamond ruffs in the dummy. His 10 winners were four spades, two hearts, two clubs and two diamond ruffs.

"Was the club queen such a bad lead?" my correspondent asked. True, it was superficially attractive and, I suppose, might not have been fatal on a different layout. However, with his strong diamonds over South's first-bid suit, West should have led a trump. And he should have kept leading trumps every time he won a diamond trick. Then South would have obtained only one diamond ruff and finished one down. He would have lost one heart and three diamond tricks.

A gratifying, productive year could be in the offing for you. There may be interesting developments that will improve conditions in areas where disappointment once prevailed.

...selecting your earning capacity will begin to make changes for the better today in ways you may be unaware of.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You can get work you've been brushing aside. Sifted today if you put your mind to it. Tomorrow you might not feel quite so industrious.

ACQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) It isn't likely you'll be upgraded by others today — your popularity is coming to a high peak, and your demeanor will attract admirers.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) If you have the time and inclination, this is a good day to go bargain hunting — especially if you're looking for an unusual household item.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) The ability to think on your feet is your greatest asset today. You'll make smart moves while others are still pondering the issue.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) Financial conditions look favorable today, but don't invest it: your most profitable opportunities will be engineered by someone else.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Hopes, dreams and wishes could play larger roles than usual in matters of personal importance today. When you see the signals, take positive action and aim for the best.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't waste your time and talents on mundane objectives today; you're likely to be far more fortunate if you strive for targets of true significance. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) There are strong chances that things could work out better than you anticipate today. Whatever you do, don't let your faith waver.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A condition

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Harmony can be restored in a relationship that's been unsteady lately. It's up to you to offer the olive branch.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Something special is afoot where work is concerned today. When it's revealed, it may not please your associates, but it could put a smile on your face.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Weigh your decisions compassionately today. Base your judgment on how others will be affected, not by what you stand to gain.
