State statutes may block city building departments from thoroughly inspecting factory-built housing that is erected in Sanford.

City officials say residents must trust a state inspection precedure that does not physically check every unit produced for fire protection, other safety features or any other minimum standards.

City Manager Warren Knowles says the statutes leave the city with no power to prevent another Cavalier Motel, the milliondollar modular "ghost town" on Sanford's southside that was closed because its insulation material does not meet

It is the basis of dozens of lawsuits each year - including the suit Sanford recently filed against the City of

The question is "one of the big bones of contention every year in the Legislature.

The general rule is, according to Florida Attorney General Robert Shevin's office, that state law must be accepted by cities as a minimum standard. The city can enact stricter requirements, but cannot exempt its residents from application of a state law. But there are plenty of exceptions - in-

Although spot checks of factory housing manufacturers are tory-built housing, even removing wall panels made, a person moving into a factory-built house or apartment has no assurance his new home has been physically inspected.

If a factory-built housing unit bears a state insignia - applied by factory workers after the state inspection procedure is passed - it is by state law "deemed to comply with the requirements of all ordinances or regulations enacted by any local government."

To Raise Taxes For Wealthy WASHINGTON (AP) - Rich investors whose large deductions for interest and other expenses allow them to escape paying federal income tax may be in for an unpleasant surprise when they file their tax forms next year. The House and the Senate Finance Committee have voted to close some loopholes and raise taxes of the wealthy by about $1 billion a year. The Senate committee, in voting 10 to 0 Wednesday for tightening the loopholes, also approved a $270-million tax break for wealthy Americans who do pay large sums to the federal government. Congressional tax experts had no immediate estimate of how many persons would benefit from that tax break, aimed at those who now pay as much as 70 per cent of their income to the government.

Patty Prepares For Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) - Patricia Hearst's mental condition, the subject of intense debate since her kidnaping more than two years ago, still is an issue as she prepares for her second trial.

Her attorney raised it again Wednesday in asking that Miss Hearst not be required to enter a plea to kidnap, assault and robbery charges because there is doubt as to her mental competence. Superior Court Judge Mark Brandler set May 28 for a hearing on the question.

The newspaper heiress' appearance in court was her first since suffering a collapsed lung last month. It also marked the first time since last September that she has been in the same room with two Symbionese Liberation Army members who were her fugitive traveling companions --- William and Emily Harris.

Butz To Testify In Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) - Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz says he's prepared to offer "new evidence" to a Senate subcommittee trying to determine if former Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway used improper pressure to win permission to axpand his Colorado ski resort on federal land.

But Butz, scheduled to testify today as the Interior Committee's subcommittee on the environment resumes its hearings, wasn't saying in advance exactly what the "new evidence" would be.

Subcommittee chairman Floyd Haskell, D-Colo., said in an interview that he's got no idea what's on Butz' mind unless Butz plans to follow through on an earlier claim that he's prepared to list members of Congress who have sought to influence Forest Service decisions.

Home Prices Rise 22%

WASHINGTON (AP) - Prices of new homes are rising at an annual rate of 22 per cent, throwing "a big question mark" over the ability of builders to construct houses that are cheap enough for families buying their first home, a government agency says.

The median sale price of a new home in February was $43,000, compared to $38,000 in February 1975, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported Wednesday in its monthly economic analysis newsletter.

Prices rose 13 per cent in the 12-month period, but soared at the 22 per cent annual rate during the last six months. And early indications were that the median price rose to nearly $44,000 in March, the board added.

Hughes Will No. 5 Arrives

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) - Wills purportedly written by Howard Hughes are popping up from coast to coast, and a longtime employe of the late billionaire says: "I think it's becoming apparent there are a lot of people who can write like Howard Hughes."

At last count Wednesday, there were five documents claimed by various people to be the one and only authentic Hughes will.

The atmosphere turned carnival Wednesay, when two "wills" were delivered to the Clark County courthouse, and a New York newspaper said it received another in the Budget Ceiling Weighed

WASHINGTON (AP) - Congress appears ready to settle on a $413.3-billion federal budget ceiling that assumes continuation of individual income tax cuts through all of 1977.

But the congressional ceiling for the fiscal year starting Oct. 1 is $17.5 billion above what President Ford wants and could trigger another monetary confrontation between the Democratic Congress and the Republican White House. The Senate approved the budget ceiling by a vote of 65 to 29 on Wednesday and there were indications the House would give the plan final approval today.

Cold Front Brings Storms By The Associated Press

An active cold front produced numerous thunderstorms and some severe weather in parts of the southern Plains and lower Mississippi Valley during Wednesday afternoon and evening.

Three tornadoes touched down in Texas. No damage was reported, however. At Little Rock, Ark., rainfall of nearly one and a-quarter inches fell within a six-hour period. Almost an inch fell at Austin and Dallas and Shreveport, La.

Ship-Building Cuts Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Senate Armed Services Committee is recommending a sharp cutback in the Navy shipbuilding budget and abandonment of the trend toward all-nuclear power for major vessels. The committee Wednesday approved a $31.9 billion weapons procurement and development authorization bill, $2.3 billion under President Ford's budget request for the 12 months beginning Oct. 1. Of the cut, ship construction alone accounted for $1.3

Our Spy Budget Is Too Large

"No money shall be drawn from the Treasury, but in consequence of appropriations made by law; and a regular statement and account of the receipts and expenditures of all public money shall be published from time to time." That's what it says in the Constitution of the United States. But executive officials insist that expenditures of money for foreign intelligence purposes must be kept secret

As to specifics, they are obviously correct. The detail of the intelligence budget cannot be disclosed without destroying the effectiveness of intelligence operations.

But the budget totals can and should published, according to constitutional mandate. It is argued that to do so would give the Russians too much information.

But the Russians probably already know more about our intelligence spending than most American taxpayers and congressmen.

Concealing the over-all budget total does r deny the Russians any knowledge of specific spying operations. But it does keep the American people in the dark about spending that may exceed, according to some estimates, $10 billion a year.

That's a lot of tax money. And there is evidence it has been independently spent without much effective budget coordination, audit or supervision over the past few years.

Deceptive budgets have been standard operating procedures for all federal intelligence agencies.

Last June the report of the Rockefeller Commission recommended that Congress carefully consider whether all or part of the Central Intelligence Agency budget should be made public. Congress holds, or should hold, the purse strings.

Yet the Senate Intelligence Committee voted 6 to 5 not to include the intelligence budget figure in its report on foreign and military intelligence.

The first order of business in the full Senate, when it comes to considering the report, should be to fill in the blank after the dollar sign in the report. The taxpayers have a constitutional right to know how much public money is being spent to pay the costs of intelligence.

Language Of Policy

It may seem sometimes that President Ford and his Secretary of State Henry Kissinger aren't talking to each other on foreign policy.

Little more than a month ago Kissinger reported that the United States had sent a message to North Vietnam indicating willingness on the part of the Ford administration "to normalize relations with Hanoi." But Mr. Ford, campaigning in Indiana, insisted that he has no such intent.

A contradiction? Not at all.

The President and his secretary of state merely speak different languages. Kissinger is acknowledging the reality of elections held recently for a national assembly to govern - for the first time since 1858 - a united Vietnam.

Mr. Ford, of course, is talking politics. In essence they have said the same thing.

Kissinger said that an essential part of the Hanoi overture was a listing of the chief American concern as an accounting by the Communists of the 2,000 Americans still considered as missing in action.

The President simply reversed the emphasis. U.S. interest in talking to Hanoi, he said, is directed primarily to receiving information on the MIAs. Then, he added, this country might be willing to discuss some "humanitarian aid" to Vietnam.

Kissinger is speaking to a world in which the United States must maintain its leadership initiatives within the framework created by events. Mr. Ford is speaking to American voters smarting from what they see as a costly defeat in Southeast Asia. They may be persuaded by the logic of Kissinger's assessment, but they are not ready emotionally to accept it. Essentially, the President and the secretary are in agreement. Each envisions a relationship with Hanoi. Neither, however, is prepared to say when.

RAY CROMLEY Sunset Law Attacks Bureaucrats

WASHINGTON - If this year's crop of presidential candidates really wanted to take a slap at the chickweed-like growth of Washington agencies, and at bureaucratic inefficiency, they have the opportunity. And a good example to call attention to.

The Colorado state legislature earlier this year passed what Common Cause calls a Sunset Law, automatically ending the life of every well, almost every - regulatory and licensing agency in the state - 79 of them - normally at the end of six years, on a staggered schedule. The only way an agency can be saved is by a positive vote of the legislature.

But before the legislature can breathe life into an agency whose time has come, it must run a detailed audit of that agency's work. It must hold public hearings, listen to testimony from irate citizens, from the agency and anyone else wishing to speak. The agency has the burden of proving the public need for its continued

It must prove to the legislature that it is fulfilling the objectives set at the time it was created, that it is performing its task in an effective, responsible and positive manner. It must show there is a continuing and future need for the public service provided, that the agency being studied is capable of fulfilling that need. The agency must also be able to prove that it has encouraged public participation in making its rules and decisions as opposed to participation solely by the persons it regulates.

And finally, the agency must prove that its programs do not duplicate those of other

Sloat. I thought about it a couple of times myself Seriously, Sloat is a fine newsman who I spent many hours with discussing the whys and wherefores of this world. He was never one to hold back on a news story, and he was never one to back off a story once he had the facts. The Sloat-Rish mano-a-mano does raise some interesting questions. Questions like what's a state legislator doing representing the people of Florida if he can't control his own temper.

If, as Rish indicated, Sloat's story was incorrect the realistic thing to do was ask him to amend it the next day. Not jump headlong onto his pelt and attempt to pummel him senseless. The only thing that could have accomplished is a hospital bill - either for the newsman, the legislator or both.

Newsmen and legislators do, however, share a strange stage. One, elected by the people, the other, representing the people. All this while both newsman and legislator attempt to accomplish his respective goal without engendering hard feelings towards one another in the process.

The first thing a freshman legislator learns is that his views and those of the news media don't always jive. But, if he's smart and if he's going to last, he'll also quickly realize that that's the way the American system is set up to operate.

Elected officials, for the most part, depend on the news media to carry their message - good or bad -- to the people. And the news media, on the other hand, would have less to write about if it weren't for lawmakers. It's a symbiotic relationship, a relationship that bears nurturing. It's absolutely essential, also, that the relationship remain competitive and non-compromising, but, surely, not to the point that newsmen and lawmakers must take to the boxing arena to settle differences over a few words hastily scribbled for a daily publication.

JOHN D. LOFTON JR. Nessen Disregards The Facts WASHINGTON- A nasty, reckless smear campaign by White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen against the American Conservative Union (ACU), in flagrant disregary of the facts, indicates just how panicky and desperate the Ford camp has become in the wake of Ronald Reagan's recent primary victories over President Ford.

In San Antonio, Texas, late last month, in a special press briefing for journalism students at Trinity University, Nessen complained that the ACU was one of several independent "side groups" spending "a lot of money" in Mr. Reagan's behalf but not filing reports with the Federal Election Commission (FEC), as is required by law.

At a subsequent White House press briefing last week, Nessen again raised this issue, charging that in some places 80 per cent of the ads for Reagan are being paid for by inlependent groups who are "slipping through popholes in the law" and not filing expenditure reports with the FEC.

Are you charging the Reagan people with doing something unethical. Nessen was asked Oh, no, perish the thought, he replied, adding: "I just think this is something good reporters will want to look into."

Well, I'm a good reporter — and since I also appen to be the editer of ACU's monthly publication, Battle Line, I've looked into Nessen's charges. And, to put it bluntly, they are It's no secret that the American Conservative

Woman Tells Of Attack

SARASOTA (AP) - "I don't hate you. I'll pray for you," a woman says she told a man who was attacking her. She said he stopped and left her alone after that. That testimony came Wednesday from the housewife of a five-member Avon Park family victimized by ski-masked terrorists last October 29. It was made in the trial of three men accused of making the raid. Her husband, who is a department store employe, and their three sons, ages 8, 13, and 14, also took the stand in the trial of Daniel Thomas, 25, Lee O. Carter Urges Moratorium On Nuclear Plant Sales

6A-Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl.

IN BRIEF

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y (AP)-Jimmy Carter today called for a worldwide voluntary moratorium on the purenrichment and reprocessing plants "to make the spread of peaceful nuclear power less dangerous."

Speaking at a conference on nuclear energy and world order, the former Georgia governor and frontrunner for the Democratic presidential nomination presented a speech described by a source close to his campaign as his first attempt to set out a detailed statement on foreign policy.

The source said the prepared speech was the first in a series of major policy statements that Carter will offer, and that it represents a new stage in his campaign. A background session on the speech for reporters lasted one hour and 40 minutes. The conference is not an official UN function.

Christians Attack Moslems

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) - Curistian forces attacked leftist Moslems on two new battlefronts in eastern Lebanon today. A police spokesman reported 88 persons killed and 116 wounded, raising the toll in the 13-month-old civil war to more than 18,500 dead.

Police said fighting was heaviest along an 11-mile front in the Faraya ski area 25 miles northeast of Beirut. Rightwing Christians launched an attack there Wednesday night after a day-long berrege of howitzers and tank guns.

U.N. Delegates Stalled

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) - American delegates at the fourth United Nations Conference on Trade and Development say they want to avoid a blowup that could harm President Ford's campaign in the presidential primaries. But Ronald Reagan's victories "underscore the fact that we cannot go any farther than we have already," one representative of the Ford administration said.

Dismissal Motion Denied By BOB LLOYD Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man has pleaded no contest to carrying a concealed firearm after a circuit court judge denied his motion for dismissal on the charge on the grounds that a county ommission policy against issuing permits to carry concealed firearms had denied him his rights.

John F. Hall, 51, of 107 W. Ninth St., Sanford, entered the plea before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor on Wednesday. McGregor set bond for Hall at $5,000 pending completion of a pre-sentence investigation and set sentencing for July 15.

Hall was arrested by Sanford Police Patrolman Elizabeth Hill on April 7 on a Downtown street corner. Police said Hall had a pistol concealed in his

In the only criminal trial held this week is circuit court, a jury acquitted Thomas L. McCarter, 25, of Dade County on a charge of carrying a concealed irearm.

McCarter, who is now serving a prison sentence for violation of probation, was arrested by Casselberry police responding to a report of an armed man getting into a rental van at a drive-in grocery store on March

Officers testified that McCarter was asked at shotgun point to step from the van and when asked if he was armed, they said, he said. "Yes," and revealed a holstered pistol on his belt under a jacket.

Officers said the jacket was 'thigh-length" and concealed the pistol. Jurors got a glimpse of a short jacket at one point in the brief trial and later, during deliberations, asked the court for the jacket.

Judge McGregor explained that the jacket hadn't bee entered into evidence in the trial, thus it wasn't available to the jurors. Five minutes after going back to the jury room the WYLON six-member panel returned a SCROLL PATTERN verdict of innocent for McCarter.

In a Wednesday hearing, Judge McGregor dismissed charges of possession of conrolled substance - marijuana and carrying a concealed evidence that he had knowledge of the drugs and pisto discovered by sheriff's deputies in a traffic stop or SR-436.

The marijuana was near a passenger in the out, officers passenger's purse.

What's Your Handle?

Hey, good buddy, what's your handle? This very ommon question is heard on the Citizens Band radio airwaves these days as thousands upon thousands of new CBers key microphones and utter their first words. Read about how these handles are 'obtained' and find out what some Herald readers think would be good handles for some of our well known citizens on Page 6-B.

Machine Proves Value

The newly installed Xeroradiography machine at Seminole Memorial Hospital has already proved its value by detecting breast cancer in a number of area women. Two of the hospital's radiologic technicians have developed a presentation bringing the message of new developments in early diagnosis of this number one killer disease in middleaged women.
