TY, Ky., Feb. 3.—With lips purple with strength fast ebbing, Collins early Tuesday morning hole in sand for someone to hold him up by a huge log fell upon it.

Plans for the early trial were announced with receipt of word from Washington that the supreme court had affirmed a decision of federal Judge Winslow upholding the right of the government in its arrest of Benjamin W. Morse, Harry F. Morse, sons of Charles W. Morse, while they were en route to Washington to stand trial on a separate indictment in that district.

The trial will proceed on indictments returned against the four Moroses and 16 of their associates Apr. 27, 1922.

They are charged with having conspired to use the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of securities of the United States Steamship Company. The indictment alleges the defendants sent through the mails advertising matter urging purchase of stock known by them to be worthless.

In February of next year Benjamin W. and Harry F. Morse, left the jurisdiction of the local federal courts to go to trial in Washington. They protested their arrest en route on the contention that they were immune while proceeding to answer charges against them in another district but Judge Winslow ruled against them. It was this ruling that the supreme court upheld Monday, paving the way to the trial.

EARLY ACTION ON CONFIRMATION OF STONE EXPECTED

All Opposition to Cabinet Official Becoming Member of Supreme Court Has Disappeared Very Suddenly

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—While opposition to confirmation of Attorney General Stone to be a supreme court justice has not completely collapsed, early favorable action by the senate is predicted as a result of the action Monday of the judiciary committee in reporting the nomination for the second time with its approval.

Chairman Sterling of the subcommittee which first considered the appointment before the Wheeler case was injected into the discussion, made the report late today to the senate, and leaders expect to call it up tomorrow, probably in open executive session. Some discussion, not only of the Wheeler case, but also of the Owenby case, the first stumbling block the nomination encountered, is expected.

There was no dissenting vote Monday in the judiciary committee, but some senators, including Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, counsel for Senator Wheeler, remained silent on the viva voce vote that was taken. Senator Walsh had explained in the hour's discussion preceding the decision that because of his connection in the matter he thought he should refrain from voting.

Both Senators Walsh and Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, had planned to discuss the nomination today, but decided to defer their remarks until tomorrow. Senator Heflin, who said he would directly oppose confirmation, probably will speak at the open executive session, if one is ordered.

The Alabama senator declared he had information that the judiciary committee had refused today to receive a statement from James A. Owenby, Colorado mining man with reference to the case brought against him by the estate of J. Morgan, in which Mr. Stone appeared as counsel for the executors in the supreme court. Mr. Heflin said he also had learned that the committee had refused to hear a New York man in connection with the nomination.

French Embassy At Vatican Withdrawn By Vote Chamber

PARIS, Feb. 3.—Suppression of the French embassy at the vatican was voted by the chamber of deputies Monday evening, 314 to 250. It was the realization of part of a program upon which the left groups of radicals were elected May 11 and which Premier Herriot, refusing to accept advice from self termed well-wishers or bitter criticism, carried through with firm determination, "for the interest of France."

The premier pacified the opposition of the Alsace-Lorraine deputies by giving an official understanding that a diplomatic agent would be maintained at the vatican to represent the recognized provinces, but he refused to accept the suggestion of Georges Leygues, former premier, and Abbe Lemire, the latter speaking "not as a Catholic priest, but as a radical deputy" who suggested the premier to reconsider his decision before it was too late. The measure must be passed by the senate before it becomes final. The vote last night was not obtained actually on the question of "suppression of the embassy," but came upon the suppression of credits in the foreign affairs budget, necessary to maintain a mission to the papacy. The credits needed for the Alsace-Lorraine budget, which technically doing away with any further representation, at the Holy See.

ANTI-DRY HEAD RAPS PROVISION ON LIQUOR USE

Members of Congress Come To For Portion Of Bitter Attack Made By Head Body Against Prohibition

Says Authorities Don't Enforce Law
Attacks Efforts in Congress To Have Prohibition Unit Made Independent Bureau

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—If members of congress were compelled to abstain from intoxicants for one week, the eighteenth amendment would be repealed at the week's end, William H. Stayton, head of the Association Against Prohibition Amendment, Inc., said Monday night at an "enlightenment" at the Hotel Astor under auspices of the citizens' committee of one hundred.

"A group of wealthy men recently called upon President Coolidge, announced him as a total abstainer and invited all other government officials to come forward and take the pledge," said Mr. Stayton. "The polls are still open, but not one single vote has been cast. Representative Upshaw has repeated his earnest call that members of congress come to the mourners' bench, but no one has budged."

"These gentlemen who went to see the president, unite with reformers of the United States in calling for enforcement. So far the authorities have failed to give us enforcement. Perhaps it is impossible to enforce the law in the whole United States, suggest that they try a more limited task."

Enforce the Law
"I recommend that they try to enforce the prohibition law as it concerns members of congress. That gives them about 530 individuals upon whom to try enforcement. It ought to be practicable to have a set of watchers to make sure these 530 obey this law for one week. At the end of the week the law would be repealed."

Upon the hypothesis that "no fundamentally dishonest law can endure," Representative John Philip Hill, of Maryland, predicted a short life for the Volstead act, which he said was "fundamentally crooked" because in "attempts to perpetuate the falsehood that one-half of one per cent cider is legal and that one-half of one per cent beer is illegal."

Mr. Hill experimented with that act, was arrested for the manufacture of wine and acquitted, the federal courts in Maryland holding that a beverage to be of illegal make, must be intoxicating in fact as well as in legal definition.

To Offer Amendment
If opportunity offers when they come before the house of representatives the Stalker bill, re-enacting section 29 of the Volstead act, Mr. Hill will, he said, offer an amendment "designed to put a little honesty into the act by placing the words 'cider and fruit juices,' which latter the Stalker measure would except from the one-half of one per cent definition of intoxicants."

"We can at least put congress on record as standing for or against equality between the city man and the farmer in this particular aspect of what is especially designated as law enforcement," said Mr. Hill.

Would Repeat Act
NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Nineteen Democratic members of Congress from New York were pledged to support an organization formed last night to seek the repeal of Volstead act. More than 1,000 men and women attended a dinner at which the organization was formed.

The movement is considered by its organizers the most determined step yet taken toward repeal of the Volstead act. Leaders plan to begin without delay the formation of units in every congressional district of country.

Greece Transmits Note Of Protest In Case Of Patriarch's Expulsion

PARIS, Feb. 3.—A dispatch to the Havas agency from Athens says a note protesting against the expulsion of the patriarch Constantinos from Turkey has been delivered by the Greek charge d'affaires to the Turkish foreign minister at Ankara. The note declares the expulsion of the patriarch was a hostile act against Greece, but that Greece, desirous of proving her conciliatory spirit, proposes that the question be submitted to the court of international justice at the Hague.

Should Turkey refuse arbitration, the dispatch quotes the note as saying the Greek government will request intervention of the league of nations, as the situation is considered a menace to peace.

COMMITTEE ON SHOALS SEEKS EXPERT ADVICE

Report Not to Be Finished Until Complete Technical Advice Has Been Received According to Agreement

No Differences On Measure Have Arisen
Conference Dominated By A Desire to Get Bill Which Invites Satisfactory Bid

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—The conference report on the Underwood bill authorizing the lease of Muscle Shoals will not be completed until the conferees have received advice from technical experts.

Centering their attention on the fertilizer provisions of the measure that offer the only subject for dispute between the conferees, they agreed today that before the fertilizer sections are re-written they would solicit information from authoritative sources.

This decision is not expected materially to delay the report, which the conferees expect to issue this week. And effort is being made to get the bill back before the senate and house for final action with the hope of avoiding the legislative jam during the closing days of congress.

Conferees in Argument
Spokesmen for the conferees said no material differences had arisen over the Underwood bill. They were reported to be in agreement that the fertilizer provisions should be rewritten.

Agreement virtually has been reached to increase the fertilizer profits to the operator from one per cent over the cost of production to at least eight per cent. The section also is expected to be revised to allow the operator more time to reach the production of 40,000 tons of fixed nitrogen which is mandatory under the Underwood bill at the end of six years. This limit may be extended to eight years and probably to ten years.

Outside of the fertilizer provisions, which is the McKeller amendment to the Norris government operation bill which was inserted in the Underwood bill during the confusion in the senate when the question was before that body, no fundamental change is expected to be made in the measure as it passed the senate.

Satisfactory Bill Sought
The conference is dominated by a desire to produce a measure inviting a satisfactory bid. The whole conference membership has been represented as being opposed to any semblance of government operation and the bill as reported by the conference is expected to place the government operation provisions in more or less obscurity.

Efforts will be made to report a measure that will produce the largest amount of fertilizer at the earliest period that is commensurate with business principles. As the bill now is written, the conferees believe any prospective bidder would be discouraged by the fertilizer requirements, which would offer too great a business risk.

The suggestion made by Henry Ford in a recent statement were not discussed by the conference today. Spokesmen said they had come too late to be of assistance as the senate already had gone on record as favoring the principles of the Underwood bill.

Thus far the conference has received no word of a pending offer to operate Muscle Shoals. They do not expect any proposals until the bill has been completed and then it is believed they would be turned to President Coolidge who is authorized to draft a lease under the terms of the measure.

TRAFFIC AGAIN IS RUNNING ON MAIN TRACKS OF A. C. L.

Line Between Jacksonville and Savannah Is Reopened After Repairs On Washouts on Altamaha River Made

Repairs necessitated by the recent flood conditions on the main line of the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad between Jacksonville and Savannah, was completed early this morning and the traffic over the line has been restored to normal, it was announced Tuesday morning by T. L. Dunas, superintendent of the Sanford division.

Anticipating the completion of repairs all embargos placed on freight due to the flood conditions were removed Sunday afternoon so that shippers might avail themselves of the intervening time to load their shipment. The flood made it necessary to operate trains over circuitous detour routes due to washouts on the Altamaha River.

Virtually a half a mile of the main track of the road was carried away by the river near Doctortown on Jan. 21. The breaks occurred in seven different places and the water continued so high that the railroad was unable to begin repair work for several days. Record time, however, was made after repair gangs got to work for men and materials had been assembled from all parts of the line to begin work as soon as the river conditions permitted.

All southbound trains arriving in Savannah Monday afternoon were routed over the restored main line. The first north bound train was the Everglades Limited which left Jacksonville Monday night.

More Teaching And Less Preaching Is Advice Of Minister

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.—"Less preaching—more teaching—less talking—more science," was the advice brought to protestant churchmen on this side of the Atlantic by Bishop Michael Balton Furse of St. Albans, England, in the address at the closing session Monday of the foreign missions conference of North America.

Declaring was the outcome of the jungle principle "get, grab and keep it if you can," Bishop Furse appealed to the conference to help wipe off fear and suspicion between nations by carrying the word of Christ to others.

Denouncing war and appealing for a Christianized readjustment of international relations, Mrs. Thomas Nicholson of Detroit, president of the Women's foreign missionary service, asserted, "war is an anachronism in the life of civilization."

"Let us be done with our patronizing attitudes," she urged; "done with the glorification of war or condemnation of it. Let national pride be used on our country, right or wrong, but upon ideals of service. Let us recognize potentiality of other peoples, understand social, and other causes of war developed thinkers, not fighters, and wage peace under the flag of the Prince of Peace."

"The church," she said, "failed to avert the World war, but it is doing its best to avert another."

Application of the Christian theory of international relationships to world problems was urged by Newton W. Rowell of Toronto.

CELERY PRICE IS ALMOST DOUBLE AMOUNT OF 1924
Figures Released By Local Office of Market Bureau Show Fewer Shipments, Better Prices Than at a Year Ago

Slightly more than half as many cars of celery have been shipped this year than last and the price for the better product of $2.00 is virtually twice that the vegetable was bringing a year ago, a comparison of figures available in the Sanford office of the Federal Department of Agriculture and the Florida Bureau of Markets, showed Tuesday morning. Shipments from Florida in 1924 through Saturday total approximately 984 while last year, the number was 1,454 through January.

An indication of the excellent prospect of Florida celery is shown in the fact that a query for prices has been received in Sanford from Los Angeles. The recent cold weather there and the fact that New York celery in storage, has not proved to be up to expectations in either quality or quantity is regarded as definite assurance of a highly successful season here.

Shipments Much Larger
Approximately 50 per cent more of new celery had been shipped last year than this, the figures revealed. The fact that more of the Florida crop is of the late variety, the damage to the California crop and the part failure of the New York storage celery is giving the state its high level and will continue to hold prices about the present level, it is believed. There may be slumps in prices later in the season when loading becomes heavier but these will be of short duration, it is thought. The season is summed up colloquially as "There is nothing to worry about."

The total of cars shipped last year was 7,196 which, if taken as a mark by which to judge the production of the present year, will leave a total of 4,212 cars yet to be shipped. This year's crop is smaller than it was last year, it is said, but will have a cleaner sweep of the country. The failure of the California crop is opening markets in the middle west that last year was closed to the Florida product. The Los Angeles query is indicative of the spread of the market open to Florida celery.

Office Issues First Report
The temporary office of the United States Bureau of Agricultural Economics with the Florida State Bureau of Markets co-operating, issued its first report Monday. The office is in charge of Frank H. Scraggs, who had it in charge last year. In a statement issued Mr. Scraggs writes: "It was our intention to issue a daily bulletin during information similar to that which is given in this bulletin. All market information is received by wire each morning from our representatives in the various important markets in the country."

"All shipping and destination information is secured by wire from the various railroads. The Market News Service is not connected with any selling organization nor does it perform any selling function. It merely collects and disseminates dependable information that will be of interest to growers, shippers and others."

A total of 74 cars of celery marketed Saturday, 64 of which were Florida while the others originated in California. Forty cars moved from the state on Sunday while 9 cars moved from California, Monday the demand was reported to exceed the supply. Markets about firm or steady were reported for various terminal markets.

Sanford, As It Ages

This is mainly to call to the attention of Herald readers another article on this page which will be of interest to them regarding the early settlement and incorporation of Sanford.

Reading in the Fort Mellon advertisements of many thrilling incidents in the lives of the hardy pioneers who first settled here, an "old-timer", now living in a distant section of this country, was forced to reminiscences on his own experiences here during those early days.

Herbert C. Jones, though quite unknown to the Editor of The Herald, will doubtless be remembered by many of the older residents of this city. He was for several years manager of the only drug store in Sanford and also assisted with the mails as the postoffice was then located in the drug store.

Mr. Jones left Sanford in 1881 and remarks that when he visited Sanford six years ago after an absence of thirty years, he was "wonderfully impressed by the development in and around Sanford."

But we beg of Mr. Jones to visit Sanford today. It is impossible to describe in mere words the many vast changes which have taken place during the past few years. And everything, toward progress and development. We are sure that Mr. Jones would not know this place as the Sanford so familiar to him.

Pseudo-Aristocrats "Show Off"

Dr. Frank Crane who knows the human family pretty well says that the way to tell a real aristocrat is to find "a man who does not like to show off."

The man who likes to show off, however, is usually a man who would like above all else to be considered an aristocrat. He wants to be regarded as a Personage. He "struts his little hour upon the stage" like all the rest of the world, only he actually STRUTS, and fancies that he is winning for himself an enviable place in the regards of his fellow men.

The real aristocrat, on the other hand, has standing without striving for it. He rarely is able to find obscurity even though he seeks it. There is something in "blood", something in a long line of inherited good manners that conspicuously marks a gentleman, and puts him at ease in any company of refined people.

Dr. Crane, in his wide observation must see many pseudo-aristocrats. If he would come to Florida in the winter season and visit the resort cities, he could make a book of many pages devoted to the Climbers, and to the Arrived, who are buying their way into Swelldom. They "show off" amazingly.

Today's Four-Flushers, today's frantic scramblers for social position, are a source of amusement to people who have the quiet assurance of good lineage and innate culture.

But under the right influence, the descendants of today's Money-Made's will be recognized as aristocrats by the Frank Crane's of their day. That's the way the world goes 'round.

A COLUMN conductor on the Hamburg Correspondent has compiled several opinions about the salient characteristics of men of different nationalities. Here are some of them:

"One American is a silent drinker. Two organize a limited company, and three enact the prohibition of alcohol."

"One Englishman is an eccentric creature. Two organize an athletic contest, and three make a great nation."

"One German is a pendant. Two found a brewery, and three make war."

"One Italian is syndicalist. Two make a love tragedy, and three march against Rome."

"One Russian represents a variety of political parties."

MYSTERY AND CRIME

ASHVILLE CITIZEN

A Chicago newspaper calls attention to the fact that many of the ministers of the gospel in that city are objecting to "the emphasis placed on crime by the newspapers."

But where will we get by flight of that sort? The one way to beat evil is to unclank it, look upon its face and give it battle to the death.

As Brisbane Sees It

A New Whitney Mount. What the People Think. Ostracizing Independence. Wheat at $2.20. BY ARTHUR BRISBANE (Copyright 1924)

HARRY Payne Whitney, an energetic young man who led the American polo players to victory against England, carries new honors. He leads the country in successful breeding of race horses.

THAT'S a great honor, and it is applauded as it deserves. There is something else Mr. Whitney might do. He might duplicate the total number of fighting airplanes owned by this country.

THE GOVERNMENT has only twenty machines fit to take the air in battle. Mr. Whitney, and each one of a dozen men in his financial class, could easily duplicate that without feeling it.

IF EVERY man in the United States that owns and rides ten polo ponies would own and ride one fast pursuit plane, able to overtake and bring down an enemy plane, this country would be a good deal safer than it is.

JUDGE GARY, in Pittsburgh, says that President Coolidge plans to establish ties abroad and that the President "is endeavoring to ascertain the sentiment of the large majority of the people, preparatory to a more intimate relationship for foreign nations."

ON WEDNESDAY spot wheat in Chicago, real wheat that you could actually take to grind up into flour, cost $2.20 a bushel.

ANDREW CARNEGIE gave away many libraries with no books in them. He was a humorous little Scotchman, and supplying plates with no food may have seemed to him rather amusing.

When he died he left a magnificent concert hall named after him in New York City. Now it is to be sold and torn down.

MR. OTTINGER, the Attorney-General of New York state, refuses to let an automobile be paid for by the public, and thus saves $370 a month to the state.

SANFORD'S FORUM

Editor The Herald:

Your recently published sketch of the early history of Sanford interested me greatly, as that was my home nearly fifty years ago, and had a small part in its incorporation and government.

This was the situation in 1876, but in 1877 there was increasing growth and talk of incorporation. This aroused a little jealousy in the old town of Mellonville and threats of taking steps to extend the incorporation's limits to include Sanford.

To avert this action and secure independence for Sanford required a little finesse, but those in charge of the matter handled it very smoothly and without any infraction of law.

I do not know the date of incorporation, nor am I sure it was in that year, but well do I remember when Mr. Ingraham, whom we all loved and called "Jimmie" in those days, one evening brought a notice of intention to incorporate to the post office, and asked permission to bring it there, but did not specify that it was always to remain so conspicuous for the first few days, and it may sometimes have been out of sight in the day time for a short time, but when there was no longer time for filing a counter notice it was there and had been duly put up on the date it bore.

Also I can certify that on the date named in the notice we all assembled in the upper room of W. H. (Bill) Hill's wagon shop on Sanford Avenue and in proper form proceeded to incorporate the town of Sanford.

Mr. Timothy Pearson, who had been for some time Gen. Sanford's agent, was elected first mayor. Dr. A. J. French (dentist) who had built a handsome home on Palmetto Avenue, opposite the Hill cottage, was I think his successor for two or more years. At least I am offering proof that he held the office in 1881 by sending herewith the official notice of my election to the office of Alderman signed by him, and attested by Dan Osborne as city clerk, with seal attached.

Before Sanford was three years old it was visited by an ex-president in the person of U. S. Grant, who had just completed a tour of the world. While there he was asked to shovel the first shovelful of earth in the construction of the South Florida Railway about to be built. A survey had been made and stakes set for the little narrow gauge road, which when built was farther south than any other railroad in the United States by more than a hundred miles, and no doubt furnished some of the natives with the first sight they had ever had of steam cars. Small flags had been stuck in the ground about the spot chosen, which was a little north of the present site of your J. T. & K. W. station, and there in the presence of a small hastily gathered group of citizens the ceremony was duly enacted. The ever active and enterprising Bill Hill had furnished a new spade for the purpose and afterward avowed his intention to have it nickel plated and preserved as a souvenir. Whether he did or not I do not know.

Another exciting occasion in this connection came when the T-1-2 ton engine "Seminole" arrived on a steamboat, and the entire man-power of Sanford hauled it up on the new wharf, at Sanford Avenue by pulling on a hawser rope. The intention was to drag it through town on an improvised track, but was found impracticable, though the tender was moved in that way, and the engine was finally loaded back on the boat and landed on a log structure built at the track end.

When the line was completed as far as Maitland, my wife and I were included in a party of citizens invited by Mr. Ingraham to go on the maiden trip of the new coach.

At one point on the trip a pine tree was found to be too close to the track to permit passage of the coach and the expedition was halted until a woodman could fell and clear away the tree. In other respects the trip was uneventful and very much enjoyed by all. It would certainly have amazed that coach-load of people to be told in a few short years a line would be built along the St. John's River to connect Sanford with Jacksonville, and yet it was true. After an absence of thirty years I visited your city, six years ago, and was wonderfully impressed by the developments in and around Sanford. Your paved streets and blocks of buildings of brick and stone, and wide expansion, with paved highways through the country, made by memories of those early days seem like a dream. My absence during the years of growth and a change may account for the memory of things as they were, and my memory of the names and even initials of the people named may be due to the fact that I have handed out mail to most of them many times.

From my sister, Mrs. A. H. Crippen living at Golden Lake I receive occasional copies of The Herald, and have seen therein names of some of the old friends who are still active citizens of Sanford. One of these who I have known from boyhood is the president of your First National Bank, Frank P. Forster. By the way if I am not mistaken he was the second postmaster, succeeding Dr. Moore. S. O. Chase is another of those who lived there in the time of which I write. My home in 1880-81 was near the corner of Magnolia Avenue and Fourth Street, in a house perhaps still standing and there on June 11, 1880 my only son was in those days houses were those that we followed a path general line from houses without bothering to go back.

Now at the risk of my "blue-pencil" let me try to name the names of a few who might meet almost anywhere in those days. Dr. B. T. J. N. Bishop, F. W. W. McRae, Lawyers, E. K. M. Thrasher, and T. E. Merchant, A. C. H. H. Lefler, H. B. Lott, Hill, H. L. DeForest, M. J. E. Pace, and The Meyers, J. C. Stovall, Sanford, and John McDonald boat men, Captains S. and Wm. Fitzgerald and DeCottes. Among others will not try to classify Woodford Tucker and son M. O. Markham, J. Marks, Capt. R. H. Tomlinson, Judge H. H. Caldwell and son David Howard Whitner, H. E. Deane, Tom McEas, the three Hughes brothers Milton, and Alonzo. Some are doubtless still living those who come some of the are still represented in five citizenship as I know with the same names forebears. If any reader me gets half the pleasure in recalling these events of long ago, I will be in full for writing them such I send greeting.

DAN DOBBS

Some people live in a fog, which is why they are blowing their own horns. Sometimes a man thinks he has no sense because he knows the popular opinion. As you think so you look.

Among a man's worst are the friends who flatter. Making trouble is too able to be much fun. A bachelor is a man who one to throw his worn away for him.

Sometimes it is best to old friends, just as in old shoes, even though ones are uncomfortable. Almost time to start where you can borrow with which to pay your bills.

One bright sign that is advancing is people trying to realize they should for bills. Sometimes we get all we get for our receipts.

The high cost of living changes, usually staying 10 per cent more than by trying to live up to claimed they are making. Contemporary

Cooking Pot, Not Rouge Container Makes Pretty Skin, Say Experts

TALLAHASSEE, Feb. 3.—"Tomorrow's beauty will not think so much of lotions, powders, rouge and dyes. But rather of her food and sleep and drink. Fresh air and laugh-provoking exercise, recreation and sleep. The exhibit will be made in the form of a beauty parlor in which their beauties as 'cow's vanishing cream' the most exquisite beauties ever discovered, will be shown. This cream it will be pointed out, has made history famous, famous for its restorative and kept babies quiet. In the beauty parlor will be shown nature's 'bridge for the cheeks,' without which no dress-like table is complete; a complexion cream that may be served in silver raffia stick, most effective when taken with a generous portion of cow's vanishing cream. A guaranteed wrinkle eradicator; carrying scented sweet dreams that will not evaporate in fresh air, also will be shown. Uses of Eau de Bain, and Aqua Vitae, will be described in detail by those in charge of the beauty parlor. Why be pale and shallow when one of the most perfect beauty secrets of the ages hangs from the boughs of so many Florida trees? will be one of the final suggestions of the demonstrators with reference to building up "that wedding day complexion."

On the contrary, it will be shown that these attributes may be obtained by observance of proper health rules. Emphasis in this connection will be placed upon the well-regulated diet, a diet that includes liberal use of vegetables and fruits; adequate exercise, recreation and sleep.

Women Unite To Show Record Of Accomplishments In Various Fields

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Exhibits symbolizing the varied activities of the twentieth century woman and depicting the slow broadening of the field of feminine enterprise until it embraces two American state capitols, supreme court judgeships in several states, high places in the professions and prominence in the world's political affairs, are being assembled here from many lands for the first Women's World's Fair to be held at the American Exposition Palace, on Lake Michigan, April 18-25. In addition, hundreds of commercial exhibits will reveal the feminine hand in the business world and in the arts of the day. Several hundred booths crowded with specimens from a score of countries will be arrayed to record woman's contribution in economics, politics, or science and social culture the world around. A group of prominent Chicago women is behind a corporation organization especially to promote the fair, and women will direct virtually every detail of the enterprise. Miss Helen M. Bennett, long diligent in women's activities and originator of the fair idea, is managing director of the venture. The board of directors includes Mrs. Joseph T. Bowman, Mrs. Elith Rockefeller McCormick, Mrs. George R. Dean, Mrs. Silas Strawn and Mrs. Medill McCormick, all leaders in society and women's club work. One feature of the exhibit will be a collection of newspaper and magazine clippings from various countries during the last 200 years emphasizing the storm of protest which greeted every suggestion for a free social status for women.

The largest amusement place in the world is the Capital Theatre, in New York, which accommodates 5,000.

RICKARD ASSURES MATCH BETWEEN JACK DEMPSEY AND TOMMY GIBBONS NEXT SUMMER

Announcement Is Outcome Of Conference Between Promoter and Gibbons in New York City on Monday

No Binding Agreement With Champion as Yet

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—The heavyweight ballyhoo for 1925 gathered full steam Monday when Tex Rickard announced he would match Tom Gibbons, and Jack Dempsey for a return title bout early in June and then pit the winner against the perennial negro contender, Harry Wills, in September.

Both bouts would be staged either in the Yankee stadium or in Rickard's Jersey City pine bowl, Soles Thirty Acres.

Rickard made this announcement after an hour's conference with Gibbons and the latter's manager, Eddie Kane, at which the St. Paul boxer came to definite terms with the promoter. Wills already is under contract with Rickard.

No binding agreement has yet been reached with Dempsey, but it is all but certain that he will be in the ring again soon, removed by a prompt declaration in Los Angeles by Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, that the champion would give both Gibbons and Wills an opportunity to fight for the title.

Rickard said he anticipated no difficulty coming to terms with Dempsey. The statements by Rickard and Kearns synchronized so well that fight experts accustomed to mild rinks caution and contradiction as the business of the ring game, jumped at the conclusion that the program of two title fights here this year was as good as clinched.

There was no explanation as to what effect Dempsey's fighting plans would have upon the matrimonial venture which he has announced for May. Observers concluded, however, that unless there was some hitch in this plan, the champion's fiancée, Estelle Taylor, motion picture actress had removed her objection to tuning their wedding bells to the sound of the ring's gong.

Gibbons and Kane informed Rickard they would prefer to box Dempsey in New York, where official decisions are rendered, rather than under the no-decision law prevailing in New Jersey. The promoter, however, refused to indicate what his choice of an arena would be.

No announcement was made as to financial conditions, but it was understood Gibbons will receive at least $100,000 and probably $150,000 for a battle with Dempsey. The St. Paul challenger failed to make even his expenses out of the historic encounter with Dempsey that went the limit of fifteen rounds in the little boom town of Shelby, Montana, in July, 1923.

Wills may or may not regard his inclusion in the title plans as a hoodoo. The negro has figured annually for the past several years in mid-winter negotiations, but they have fallen through with equal regularity.

Burke Takes Count In Third Round Of Bout With Stribling

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 3.—Young Stribling made his debut as a heavyweight here last night when he knocked out Joe Burke, of Detroit, in the third round of a scheduled ten-round bout. The fatal punch came after two minutes of fighting in the third when Stribling sent a right hook to Burke's jaw, just previous to the knock-out the youngster floored his opponent for a count of five with a left hook to the right jaw. Stribling weighed 177½ and Burke 188.
