Correction

SANFORD - Helig-Meyers is not leaving

An error on the Business page in the Sunday. April 14, edition of the Sanford Herald left the impression that Helig-Meyers Furniture, a strong member of the Saulord business community might be leaving town. They're certainly not doing that.

The store, currently located at 1100 S. French Avenue, is merely moving to a bigger and better facility at the West End Galleria.

The store's new manager Steve Gupton said the new store will occupy 18,000 square feet of what used to be the J.C. Penney's store in the old Sanford Plaza, at the corner of S. Orlando Drive and State Street.

We regret the error and wish the business continued success.

SANFORD - The unseasonably hot, dry sun beat down on the colorful clothes on the line. A brisk breeze snapped the shirts against one another with a stiff clapping so familiar for decades in back yards on Monday washdays.

Several dozen people moved silently among the hundreds of shirts that hung as a silent vigil for the thousands of women, each year, who are victims of violence

The Clothesline Project is a silent testimony created by survivors of violence and their friends and family. It is an ongoing and permanent project sponsored by the Women's Resource Center, the Alliance for Women's Legislation. Response and Sponse Abuse, Inc. Locally, SafeHouse of Seminole County is sponsoring the visit of the Clothesline Project to this area.

Rather than the arge to rub one's nose in the freshly laundered scents of the clothing, the red. vellow, layender, blue and white shirts brought a painful sort of comfort to those who saw them.

Messages, scrawled or neatly drawn with fabric paint or chalk, remembered those who had not survived and celebrated those who had.

SANFORD - While Earth Day is celebrated on a smaller scale these days than it was when the idea was first initiated in 1970, the youngsters at Wilson Elementary School know the meaning of showing their support for a clean, healty earth on a grand scale.

To commemorate the day Monday, which was designed to "give Earth a chance," the Parent Teacher Association (PTA)'s environmental committee decided to challenge the grade levels at the school to see which group could come up with the greatest amount of recyclable products on one day.

"We've been recycling all year." said Nancy Lowe, chairman of the environmental committee. "But we didn't expeet anything like this."

Lowe, several teachers, other members of the PTA and Gabby the Can stood at the car ramp where students were dropped off on Monday morning and helped unload newspapers, cardboard boxes and other paper products from the cars as they drove up. #### Girl can't return to school

FORT LAUDERDALE - A judge denied a couple's request that their 10-year-old daughter be readmitted to a Catholic school after her expulsion in a dispute over a sex education

The girl, Princess Jagarnauth-Walker, has already enrolled in public school after her expulsion last month from St. Bartholomew Catholic School.

A lawsuit filed in Circuit Court in Fort Lauderdale last week claimed the school is violating guidelines from the Vatican that call for sex education to be optional, with parents given the choice. Their lawyer, Ellis Rubin of Miami, also asked for a temporary injunction to return Princess to the school, but that was denied Monday.

The textbook, called "Benziger Family Life," is used in more than 50 Catholic schools in Dade, Broward and Monroe counties, Archdiocese officials said.

The textbook says sex is reserved for married couples and gives a very straightforward explanation, using the specific terms for sexual organs and sex acts.

Child to get sex therapy

FORT LAUDERDALE - A 6-year-old boy, whose sexual abuse four years ago left him with severe emotional difficulties and a tendency to molest other young children, will get increased sex therapy for the next two months.

At that time, prosecutors and social service officials will consider whether he is eligible for a residential facility for sex

Under the agreement approved Monday, the boy, known as Ronnie, will get daily sex therapy after school and his mother will get in home therapy three times a week.

A year ago, Ronnie was discovered performing oral sex on another child with a third child watching. And several months ago, teachers found him in a similar encounter with another

Ronnie, who has been diagnosed as severely emotionally disturbed, takes several mood-altering drugs. Doctors have said he was depressed and hyperactive; he takes pills for both

The boy was getting two 45-minute sessions a week of sexual therapy and up to five hours of in-home counseling, including an hour with the mother.

Deputy shoots man in stolen car

LARGO - A sheriff's deputy shot and killed a man after deputies said he led them on a chase and tried to hit one of them with a stolen car.

Jonathan Andrew Stoker, 24, of Seminole, was shot several times Saturday night as he drove a stolen car toward deputies' cruisers. He was pronounced dead at University General Hospital of Seminole.

It was the second time in three years that Pinellas County Sheriff's Deputy Murray Smith shot and killed a suspect while on duty. In 1993, Smith and two other deputies killed a man who lunged at them with a machete. That shooting was found to be justifled.

Smith, 35, was placed on administrative leave. The sheriff's office is investigating.

Stoker led at least seven sheriff's vehicles through a subdivision and to a cul-de-sac. As he rounded the cul-de-sac. Stoker collided with a cruiser, then backed up and hit another deputy's truck head-on, Schobel said.

Smith got out of his cruiser with his pistol drawn and approached the passenger side of Stoker's car, deputies said. But Stoker drove the car towards him and hit him in the leg, they

Clinton excites troops at Miami women's rally

By TRACY (FIELDS Associated Press Writer

MIAMI - in a political combination of pep rally and ladies night out. Hillary Rodham Clinton galvanized a crowd of Democrats, calling on them to act this election year to create a better America.

"The reason you are here is the reason I am here," she told about 2,000 who attended the Women's Leadership Forum Network '96 on Monday. "We have a vision of what we want our country to be, and we know we can't leave that vision to anyone else.'

The standing-room-only audience, which included more than a few men, burst into applause many times during her 32-minute speech, cheering her calls for a higher minimum wage, increased efforts against crime and terrorism. and more input from women.

"Our voices have always been present." she said. "But we now know so much is at stake that we must redouble our efforts."

While pointing out the differences between her husband's philosophies and goals and those of his Republican challengers. Mrs. Clinton added that "We each have an opportunity now to reach across many of those divides that separate us, to reach out hands and say 'We are all in this together.

Today's action was taken without comment. A federal trial judge and the 11th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals previously had thrown out the challenge to the 1992 ordinance.

The justices ruled in 1991 that states and local governments may ban all barroom-style nude dancing and force its practitioners to wear G-strings and pastics.

But that decision was reached by a 5-4 vote and did not yield any one opinion that spoke for a court majority.

House works on Ryce act, other bills

By JACKIE HALLIFAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Police could automatically alert communities to the presence of sexual predators under a bill the House has advanced.

Also Monday, the chamber worked on bills to toughen penalties on gang-related and "smash and grab" crimes, which typically involve theft of a car that is used to smash a store window and give thieves a way in. Another bill would make it harder for inmates to file appeals when they've pleaded guilty or no contest.

All the bills were scheduled for a final House vote today.

The sexual predator bill (CS-HB 807) would be known as the Jimmy Ryce Act in memory of a 9-year-old boy kidnapped, raped and killed last fall after getting off the school bus near his southern Dade County home.

Jimmy's body was found three months later. and Juan Carlos Chavez, a ranch hand who worked nearby, has been charged in his death.

Under the bill, law enforcement could automatically notify a community about the presence of an ex-convict who has been labeled a sexual predator.

Current law provides for public notification after a court hearing that concludes the sexual predator poses a threat to the public. "The Jimmy Ryce Act recognizes that law-abiding citizens deserve protection from dangerous sexual predators," said Rep. Burt Saunders, a Naples Republican who worked on the measure.

The bill also requires commercial film processors to report any film of children engaged in sexual activity.

The House amended the legislation to call for a study by the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the state Department of Highway Safety and Motor Vehicles on ways to better track sexual predators with special designations on driver's licenses or tags.

During the opening day of the session, Gov. Lawton Chiles asked lawmakers to bolster state and local efforts to find missing children and improve safety measures in schools.

April Herrie, a Chiles' spokeswoman, said the governor was extremely pleased with the steps taken by the House.

A similar bill (CS-SB 2316) is awaiting action in the Ways and Means Committee.

After Jimmy was abducted, his parents posted his picture in public buildings in the desperate hope someone would report seeing him. In some of the buildings, the pictures were removed because they had not been authorized.

In January, President Clinton signed an executive order to set aside space in every federal building for such pictures.

Dispute —

Benham to expand the size of the borrow pit was voted down, and a subsequent appeal to the commission also failed to grant the expansion.

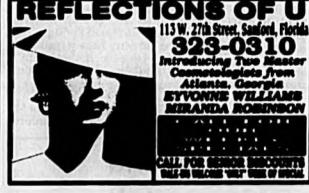

The county determined that the pit, which reportedly has not reached capacity on the amount of dirt which can be removed, should continue to operate as it has until the total amount of dirt has been removed.

As of late last week, Mica indicated he had not received any information regarding the matter from FAA officials.

The appeal matter is scheduled for the portion of the County Commission meeting beginning at 7 p.m. this evening.

Secretary's Day

It's Professional Secretary's Week. Professional Secretary's Day is Wednesday, April 24.

Looking back into the 1930s and 40s, it was the ambition of many young ladies to study hard and some day obtain employment as a secretary. They thus took courses in typing, shorthand, arithmetic, and penmanship.

Back then, we would estimate that 99.999 percent of all secretaries were females.

That type of education in today's world certainly wouldn't get a person very far. Now, people have to be extremely well trained in computers, and capable of handling Windows, spread sheets, practically every type of operation available in that

As a result, rather than secretaries, our business world is now full of computer specialists, computer analysis, computer programmers, and computer input typists. They are men as well as women.

With the increased need in education for these positions, it's little wonder that less than a dozen applications were submitted to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce in a recent "Honor your Secretary" project.

There is another consideration. With the specialized fields being used today, many of those who used to be called "secretaries," don't want that name used. They have a title, and it should be associated with their position. OK, let's approach this entire subject in a different light in the future. Rather than Professional Secretary's Week, let's have "Professional Office Employee's Week. We believe there are many more who would fall in that category, and not object to be known as such.

If we honor our office employees, we can delve into the computer people, accountants, typists, receptionists, and many other areas.

For the older generation, they may still think of secretaries, but let's expand the program and have a more modern approach to those who, beyond doubt, should be honored, not just on this one week or one day, but regularly.

If you don't get your secretary a card, flowers, or some other object of appreciation for tomorrow's observance, then get something for your Professional Office Worker.

A boss may control what happens, but it's this type of worker who makes it happen.

The system

Editor, my name is Lanora M. I'm 23 years old and I'm in J.E.P.C.F. for violating my community control four times. On all four occasions of not being home, I was having family problems and my temper got way out of hand, "so I left on com-mand, "because I know what I am capable of." An officer tried stopping me later when he saw me on a bicycle without a light but I wouldn't stop. When he caught up with me, he arrested me for not stopping when I was asked so I was charged with "resisting an officer without violence and prowling." I received the prowling charge because I was in someone else's yard trying to get away. The officer later dropped the prowling charge but I still had the resisting an officer without violence over my head. My Public Defender told me it'll be better if I plead guilty because I did try and get away from him; so that's what I did. So, when the courts adjudicated me guilty, my Community Control Officer violated me. I know now it was not in my best interest to plead guilty because now I'm facing at least three months or more in jail. No matter what I try and do it's not good enough. It's a shame the system looks directly at my past and assumes I'm still "No-No" because if they didn't they'll know I'm trying and I'm not No-No. I'm

Democrats fall on their own sword

Whitewater independent counsel Kenneth Starr has suddenly found himself in the middle of a controversy that has nothing to do with land deals in the Arkansas Ozarks. Congressional Democrats are pressing the special prosecutor to recuse himself from outside legal work that, in their minds, poses a conflict of interest.

At issue is Starr's representation of Brown and Williamson Tobacco Corp. in an appeal of a suit against eigarette makers. Democrats note that President Clinton has been active in trying to curb eigarette smoking and that the Justice Department is presently investigating the tobacco industry.

Last week. Starr defended his private legal work, saying it was permitted under the law authorizing independent counsels. "The independent counsel was never expected to become a full-time employee of the government and leave his or her law firm," he said.

This dispute between congressional Democrats and the Whitewater special prosecutor illustrates yet again the problem with the independentcounsel statute. Starr is right that the law allows him to continue his private practice even as he pursues his ongoing investigation. And congressional Democrata are right when they voice concern about possible conflicts of interest.

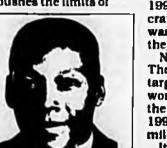

But there is little that Democrats or, if they were of a mind to, Republicans can do about an independent counsel who pushes the limits of his or her authority. That's because, once appointed, an independent counsel is accountable to no one - not to Congress and certainly not to the president.

It is because independent counsels have such unchecked authority that investigations can go on for years and cost the taxpayers millions of dollars. The most odious example was the six-year, $44 million inquisition by Iran-contra special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh, which yielded not one major conviction.

That mockery of justice at the taxpayer's expense should have been sufficient cause for Congress to abandon the independent-counsel law when its authorization expired in December 1992. But President Clinton and the Democrat-controlled Congress insisted that the law was critical to the survival of the republic. So they reauthorized it in June 1993.

Now, the Democrats regret their sanctimony. There are presently four separate investigations targeting the Clinton administration. The most worrisome (as far as Democrats are concerned) is the Whitewater probe, which began in January 1994 and has cost the government nearly $20

It is exquisite irony that the same Democrats who were mute when Walsh's Iran-contra investigation became little more than a fishing expedition are yelping that Starr is asking questions that have only the most tangential connection to Whitewater (like whether former Gov. Clinton had any extramarital affairs).

Meanwhile, independent counsels are continuing their investigations of former Agriculture Secretary Mike Eapy, the late Commerce Secretary Ron Brown and current Housing and Urban Development Secretary Henry Cianeros. Even Republicans have to question whether these probes need to be handled by special procecutors.

Give a curmudgeon a break

I'm so damned steamed you could serve me on a half shell.

The Center for Media and Public Affairs, one of those ubiquitous Washington organizations that studies the news for hints of bias and subversion and that sort of thing, has just published a report stating that CBS cor-respondent Eric Engberg is "the most negativistic campaign reporter" in the busi-

This is nothing short of an outrage. Nowhere in the report does this excuse for a think tank even suggest that Joe Spear was con-sidered for the accolade. I work my tail off week after week. struggling to be the most negative news person around, and I don't even get an honorable mention. I am deeply hurt. My self-esteem has been dealt a mighty blow. I am losing my sense of identity. I am becoming uncentered. I think I'm going to need some Prozac. I think I'm so damned steamed you could serve me on a haif shall.

I might even have a lawsuit here. Deliberate infliction of emotional stress, or something along those lines.

What makes the thing even harder to swallow is that I have published naught but positive remarks about the Center for Media and Public Affairs. A review of my files indicates they have had one mention a year, on average, and depending on how you interpret the words, of course, they were generally favorable. It pains me to go on with this, but in the interest of giving the full story, I suppose I must. What the center did was go through 573 network news stories about the 1986 presidential campaign and, using some guidelines as closely guarded as Colonel Sanders' secret herbs and spices, determined that NBC had 77 percent "negative judg-ments" in its stories, followed by CBS with 75 percent and ABC with 70 percent.

Engherg was the crabblest correspondent, with 4.5 "disapproving comments per story. 87 percent negative overall." followed by NBC's Bob Faw (3.7, 87 percent), NBC's Lisa Mycrs (2.8, 86 percent), and CBS' Bob Schieffer (2.4, 79 percent).

I know what you're thinking. You're thinking, Joe, they studied TELEVISION news. They rated CAMPAIGN coverage. They did not do columnists who write about general stuff.

But I ask: Do you really think the public at large is going to make that distinction? Most people think "media" and "press" are the same thing. They're thinking, where the hell was Spear? He talks about what a curmudgeon he is, but when they get around to rating negative reporters he's not even on the list.

As long as I am on this subject, there was another recent event that bears analysis. The Freedom Forum, yet another group that concentrates on media issues, sponsored a survey of 139 Washington journalists and reported that 89 percent voted for Bill Clinton. only 4 percent are registered Republicans, 50 percent are registered Democrats, 37 percent are independents, and 91 percent describe themselves as "liberal or moderate."

In the interest of fairness, I should probably ask what's so bad about being a moderate. should also point out a minor inaccuracy: All those reporters did not vote FOR Bill Clinton. They voted AGAINST George Bush, and whether that is a demonstration of bias or good sense I will leave up to you.

in any case, this sort of finding does not surprise Republican leaders like Newt Gingrich, who recently admonished the nation's newspaper editors to clean up their acts. 'I unequivocally believe ... that the core of the news media is biased, that the bias is amazing," he said. If they didn't believe him, they could go ask "any set of serious conservatives in America ... whether or not they think the media is slanted."

Talk about your impartial juries.

Despite some anxiety about losing your respect. I point out that Mr. Gingrich also did not name Mr. Spear as the worst of the bunch. After all the nasty things I've said about him in the past few years, you'd think he could return

Bishop stands up for the Indians

SAN CRISTOBAL de las CASAS, Mexico -- He is revered as a savior by Indian peasants whose hundreds of villages dot the mountains of Chiapas state in southern Mexico.

At the same time, for the same cause, he is denounced by government officials as El Obispo Rojo, the "Red Bishop." The implication is that his pursuit of equal rights for indigenous Indians is leftist -- even Communist.

Samuel Rutz Garcia, the Catholic bishop of this area bordering on Guatemala, is a lightning rod for both love and epithets. Word of his good deeds has spread around the world. and he has been nominated for the Nobel Peace Prize. Still, his advocacy on behalf of the armed, rebellious Indian peasants knownas made him the subject of intense Mexican government surveillance. U.S.

tell us that the bishop's church offices have been wiretapped.

Considering both the reverence and the controversy, Bishop Ruis is noticeably nonplussed by it all. During a recent interview here with our associate Dale Van Atta. he was optimistic about the prospects for peace in the region.

"Everything is going in a good way," he said. "We are in the midst of a transformation here. We have more and more participation from (the Zapatistas) and the government. The Mexican population is in support of it. Of course, there are several groups that don't want the transformation. but they will be swept aside."

The bishop allows that if he had his wish, there never would have been an armed rebellion. But the Indians, who have been getting the short end of the stick in the five centuries since the Spanish first arrived, found that Mexico's long-time one-party rule wasn't working for them.

So in January 1984, they came in from the jungles and took over three towns and this city before being beaten back by government troops during a 12-day battle that left at least 145 Zapatistas dead.

Ruis says the bloodbath was almost inevitable. Not only had the Indiana' land been taken, but they had been left illiterate, impoverished and diseased. "It was only natural that the Indians would break up through all this like a volcano, with an eruption," he

The bishop becomes animated while speaking of their lot. "Just an hour's drive from here," he says, "on a paved road, no less, is a community of Indians where 99.9 percent of the people have glaucoma. ... In my diocese, we have an area nearly the size of Ei Salvador where more than 70 percent of the people have tuberculosis. This should not be allowed."

Stung by international criticism, the Mexican government negotiated with the Zapatistas during a year-long truce. But the government broke it off in February 1995 to arrest several sympathizers and redeploy troops. Once again, though, Bishop Ruiz helped bring both parties back to the negotiating table.

The first of a series of accords was signed this past February, but the Zapatistas believe that some of the reforms promised will not be real until it is codified as part of the Mexican Constitution.

The Mexican government has poured millions of dollars into cosmetic and infrastructure improvements, but the lot of the Indians has not really changed.

After three years, some results from taking daughters to work

By KAREN SCHWARTZ AP Business Writer

A year ago this week, 13year-old Chateya Langley met 32-year-old Valerie Perry on "Take Our Daughters to Work Day.

The two talked about boys and clothes and school and algebra. When the day was through, Chateya's life would be on a different course.

"I think we just sort of clicked." Perry said.

As the fourth Take Our Daughters to Work Day is held Thursday, it's impossible to gauge how well it has achieved its goals: to introduce girls to the career options available to them and to help girls build selfconfidence.

But for Chateya and other girls, the day has clearly made its mark.

The eight-grader's interest in law led to an invitation last year to shadow Perry, a lawyer for Arco Chemical Co. in Philadelphia, for part of the day.

After Chateya told Perry she planned to attend a high school in her inner-city Philadelphia neighborhood, Perry urged her to attend her alma mater, the Philadelphia High School for Girls, one of the the city's top public schools.
"She clearly was someone who should be geared toward an academic high school," Perry said, describing Chateya as personable, articulate and

Perry answered Chateya's questions about an all-girl school, called her guidance Continued from Page 1A counselor and got instructions for applying to the High School for Girls. Then, even though the application deadline had passed, she called Chateya's mother and encouraged her to apply.

"Her grades and test scores got her in. It was simply a matter of steering her in that direction." Perry said.

Now instead of walking to school. Chateya rides a bus and a subway nearly an hour each way. Her mother says the experience has taught Chateya self-sufficiency, and when Chateya's grades slipped amid tougher competition, she pulled grades and her attendance and her attitude, I know that she can get into any college that she wants," said her mother, Theresa Langley.

Sam Nation, who works for BE&K Inc., an engineering and construction company, said his 19-year-old daughter. Emily. decided to major in accounting because of what she saw during a 1993 visit to the company's Delaware office. That was on the first Take Our Daughters to Work Day.

Emily, now a junior at Alabama's Auburn University, said she had been to the office on other days, but met mostly her father's immediate coworkers.

During the organized event she saw the various departments, and was impressed by the atmosphere and computers in accounting.

'It showed me there was something to it more than doing the numbers," she said. "That just really helped me choose what I wanted to do."

Established by the Ms. Foundation after research showed girls suffer a significant drop in self-esteem during adolescence. Take Our Daughters To Work Day is no less controversial that it was at its inception. In boardrooms, at school board meetings and in letters to the editor, critics deride the day as sexist, disruptive to school and in-

Despite her enthusiasm, she won't be going this year; her high school won't excuse girls to participate, "It's a shame because I really wanted to go this year," she said.

How did the chance meeting a year ago affect Perry?

She talks occasionally to Chateya and her mother, though it could hardly be called a close friendship.

On Monday afternoon, Florida Attorney General Bob Butterworth stood by the clothesline, speaking quietly with women who approached to thank him for his attendance and for the concern now being shown by law enforcement and the courts in some cases of violence against women and children.

While Butterworth said the crime rate is down in Florida he said it is not yet acceptable.

"Seminole County has given us many innovative programs that are working," he noted. "but still there is an appalling crime rate. While the crime rate is down, it must still come down."

The attorney general said a new era is dawning in justice for victims. We are now in a time. he said, in which victims are treated with "dignity, compassion and respect."

Butterworth visited the clothesline yesterday as part of the celebration of National Victim's Rights Week.

A special award was presented to Jean McLain, owner of Mama Jean's Child Care, who was named volunteer of the year by SafeHouse of Seminole, McLain was selected for "her dedication to the children who come with their mothers to the (SafeHouse) shelter" for women and children who are victims of violence in their homes.

Tina Williams, a volunteer with the Seminole County Sheriff's Office victim's advocacy group, was recognized for her compassion and her assistance with the victims of violent crime in Seminole County.

Butterworth said the victims of violent crime have been overlooked for too long.

"For too long, the victims of violent crime have been 1g-2 nored," he said. "We are going to make sure victims and sur vivors receive at least the same_ amount of compassion and rights as the perpetrators."

Dole pressured over minimum wage

WASHINGTON - Democrats are pressuring Republican presidential nominee Bob Dole to schedule a Senate vote on raising the minimum wage and President Clinton's labor secretary is "cautiously optimistic" an increase is in the offing.

Both Robert Reich and Senate Democratic leader Tom Daschle alluded to Dole's campaign remarks that he is a leader and can get things done in urging the Senate Republican leader to bring the measure to a vote.

"It's time for Senator Dole to lead, follow or get out of the Reich, the labor secretary, told the AFL-ClO Building Trades Council on Monday.

Daschle reminded the Senate that "Dole says he is a doer." and added, "Let's pass it."

The Democrats are pressing for a 90-cent an hour increase in the wage floor, to $5.15, spread over two years.

They contend that when adjusted for inflation, the current $4.25 hourly minimum, adopted in 1991, will by next January result in the least buying power of any minimum wage in almost 40 years.

Dole and many other congressional Republicans contend raising the minimum wage will result in a loss of jobs. Some businesses, they say, would have to lay off workers if they had to pay them more.

Health insurance

WASHINGTON - Democrats and Republicans in the House and Senate say they are determined to give President Clinton legislation that would assure workers who lose or switch jobs an opportunity to buy health insurance.

But significant differences in House and Senate versions must be worked out by a conference committee before it can be sent to the White House.

Chief among the sticking points was a surprise amendment added by the Senate last week that would require that mental illness be treated the same as physical disease in insurance

Another problem was a provision in the House bill setting up tax-exempt medical savings accounts.

Nicotine content manipulated?

WASHINGTON — Responding to accusations by three former employees. Philip Morris denied it manipulated the nicotine content of its cigarettes and criticized a government review of tobacco industry practices.

The three workers made the allegations in affidavits filed with the Food and Drug Administration, which is considering whether to regulate tobacco as a drug.

"The agency's decision to reopen this record to allow the staff to add these three declarations ... says far more about the apparent recognition that it does not have an adequate factual (or legal) basis for its assertion of jurisdiction over cigarettes than it does about the practices or products of any cigarette manufacturer," the company said in a 57-page filing.

Also Monday, an anti-smoking group said it provided the FDA with a tape from a 1989 meeting of Philip Morris researchers that allegedly demonstrated the company knew how to remove some carcinogens from eigarettes.

Erma Bombeck dead at 69

SAN FRANCISCO - Erma Bombeck's humor rang true because she was the frazzled housewife we all knew, the mother who told us to pick up our sneakers, who car pooled and cleaned with an eye for the joys in the drudgery.

"I can't let go of being a housewife. You have to be part of it," she once said. "You've got to empty the garbage, swish out the tollet bowls. Doing the laundry keeps you humble.

When Bombeck wrote about washing the dog, picking her kids up from school or, changing diapers, it wasn't shtick.

Bombeck, who in her books and columns poked fun at real life and gave a voice to suburban housewives everywhere, died Monday at the age of 69 from complications from a kidney

New farm bill creates confusion

WASHINGTON - The new farm bill is supposed to make paperwork easier, but it is creating confusion and anger among farmers and landlords trying to work out rental agreements.

"Somebody erased the board for us," said Ted Glaub, a professional farm manager from Jonesboro, Ark., who largely represents owners of cotton and rice land in the Delta region.

Because of its sharp break with past farm programs, the bill President Clinton signed earlier this month has changed how farmers and landowners figure rental payments. Record-high prices for many crops have worsened the problem by inflating land values.

The issue is a huge one, because 43 percent of crop land is rented or leased, in arrangements that let farmers farm and investors, heirs or retired farmers find someone to work their land profitably.

Water reservoir destroyed

BEIRUT. Lebanon - Iaraeli warplanes destroyed a water reservoir that supplies 20 villages in southern Lebanon today and Hezbollah guerrillas fired rockets at northern Israel, confounding American efforts to halt the latest explosion of violence in the Middle East.

Israeli gunboats sporadically shelled the coastal highway connecting Beirut to the southern port city of Tyre, keeping traffic down to trickle on the main supply artery to the southern Lebanon battle zone.

Guerrillas fired 24 Katyusha rockets from southern Lebanon overnight, said U.N. peacekeeping officers, speaking on condition of anonymity, largel radio said a number of rockets fell in the Galilee panhandle and western Galilee, damaging

There was no word on casualties from overnight hostilities in the south on the 13th day of Israel's onslaught against Shiite Muslim Hezbollah guerrillas.

Finally, the movie

MADRID. Spain - The war galvanized the world. Volunteers came by the thousands from the United States and other countries to fight. The battles were covered by the world's best chroniclers. Hemingway and Capa among them.

The Spanish Civil War tore Spain apart, killed more than 500,000 people and gave rise to a fascist dictatorship under Gen. Francisco Franco.

Yet, 60 years after it began, Spain's film industry has not considered the seminal conflict an appropriate topic for a mainstream, big-budget movie. Until now.

"Libertarias," a film that follows a band of leftists until they meet a bloody end, opened on Friday. Over the weekend, the movie was a top-seller, its distributor, Sogetel-Lolafilms, said Monday.

Tobacco and jobs

Study shows net gain in jobs from decline in tobacco sales

By PAUL RECER AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON - Six major tobacco-growing states would lose Jobs if Americans stop smoking, but the nation as a whole would gain thousands of new jobs, according to a study that contradicts claims by tobacco companies.

The study, released today. found that the states where tobacco is grown and eigarettes are manufactured would have lost about 303,000 jobs if the United States had stopped all spending on eigarettes in 1993. By 2000, the study projected that the number of lost jobs in the tobacco states would be about 222,000, but that jobs gained in the rest of the country would more than offset the losses in North Carolina, Kentucky. South Carolina, Virginia, Tennessee and Georgia.

"If tobacco sales were eliminated in 1993, the economy other argument to encourage would have an estimated legislators to go slow" in 133,000 more jobs in the year restricting tobacco use, Warner 2000." said the study, to be published Wednesday in the Journal of the American Medical

The tobacco industry has claimed that the nation would have a net loss of jobs if the Food and Drug Administration imposes restrictions that discourage consumption of cigarettes or eliminate tobacco use altogether.

But Kenneth E. Warner, a health policy professor at the University of Michigan, said this argument by the tobacco industry is insincere "and the industry knows it."

Warner, an economist, is first author of the study in JAMA that denounces the tobacco industry's claim that the nation would have a net loss of jobs if tobacco use was restricted.

'They (the tobacco companies) are losing the health argument and they need some sald in an interview.

Walker Merryman of the Tobacco Institute, which speaks for the industry, said that people in the core sector of the tobacco industry are "working members of the economy" and would lose their jobs if tobacco use was curtailed. Economic theory is fine for Ken Warner, but when it comes down to groups of people who are in a position to lose their jobs. I operate in the real world, not in some economic ivory tower," said Merryman.

He would not specifically address what Warner said was a flaw in the tobacco industry's talk about job losses.

Warner said the industry's position is based on the flawed economic idea that money not spent on tobacco would not be spent at all.

Instead, Warner and his associates said, "when people stop spending money on one thing, the money does not elsewhere.

For example, the researchers said that about half of the tobacco dollars spent by consumers in Michigan, a nontobacco-producing state, is exported to the six states where 93 percent of U.S. tobacco is grown and processed. If nothing was spent on tobacco in Michigan, the study said, the money in-stead would go to savings or to goods and services generated within Michigan.

simply disappear; it is spent

'As a consequence, a higher percentage of the dollars would be recycled within the state's economy, thereby generating greater local economic activity than the expenditures on tobacco," the study said.

The study is based on figures from 1993 when 1.8 million jobs nationwide were connected with tobacco growing, processing and sales. About 353,000 jobs are directly connected with farming and manufacturing in the tobacco industry, mostly in the six Southeastern tobacco states. There are about 1.4 million "spinoff" jobs associated with tobacco sales and distribution nationally, the study said.

in another JAMA report, a committee of scientists released new recommendations for how health care professionals can help their patients kick the

ST. CLOUD - On a day where the long-ball took center stage it was a dribbler that proved to be the biggest hit as Seminole defeated Occeola 4-2 in the opening game of the Class 5A-District 6 Baseball Tournament at St. Cloud High School

The Fighting Seminoles had crased a 2-0 deficit on solo home runs by Tim Raines Jr. and Chris Youmans in the bottom of the first inning. but it was a chopper off the plate right in front of fourth inning that broke the 2-2 tie and when Phillip Eubanks followed with a walk for another run the Tribe was on its way to victory.

Seminole (17-14) will now advance to take on top-seeded Satellite at 4 p.m. Wednesday at St. Cloud. The host Buildogs will take on the winner of Monday's game between Titusville and Gateway at 7 p.m. The winners will meet for the championship at 7 p.m. on Friday.

"Jim (Rabun) pitched a fine game," said Seminole head coach Mike Powers. "And Tim Raines has just been terrific at the plate the last four games. Our defense has also been outstanding, I don't think any ball can get past our

"Alex (Acosta) made some great plays in the fleid despite being sick. We also got Mike Meadows back and he got on base three times despite missing several games and losing 13 pounds because of strep throat. But that's been one of this team's strengths. We've had to play Kissimme-Oscole with a makeshift infield, but the kids have stepped right in and got the job done."

The first two batters in the game for the Kissimmee nine reached on a walk and a single and the next batter sacrificed them up a base. But things looked good as the number four batter struck out and the next batter hit a ground ball, but a throwing error allowed both Kowboy runners to score.

The Tribe came back with the home runs and the scored stayed that way until the fourth.

With one out Meadows reached on an error and Chris Louwsma walked. Alan Gehr singled sharply to right to load the bases. After a strike out, Jackson tapped the ball in front of the plate, but the Osceola catcher could not throw Jackson out at first base as pinch-runner Ralph Dietsman scored. Eubanks then walked on four pitches to give Seminole a 4-2 lead.

With the lead, Rabun retired seven of the last 10 men he faced and ended with a six hitter, giving up no carned runs, waling two and striking out two in running his record to 4-3.

Providing the offense for Seminole were Raines (2-for-4. home run, run, RBI), Youmans (1-for-2, home run, run, RBI), Eubanks and Jackson (both 1-for-3, RBI), Meadows and Gehr (both 1-for-3), Acosta (1-for-4) and Dietzman and Louwsma (one run scored each).

Seminole girls out

KISSIMMEE — Seminole High School gave it a valiant effort, but it could not quite generate enough offense as the Fighting Seminoles were eliminated from the Class 5A-District 6 softball tournament 14-9 by Merritt Island at the Occasion County

Softball Complex Monday evening.
"We hit the ball well, but we could not get a big hit," said Seminole head coach David Rogers. "But I'm proud of the girls, they had a tough year, but it's only going to get better and I think we'll have a good team next year if we can keep this group together. We only lose one girl, so I'm confident and looking forward to next

Providing the offense for the Tribe were Kelly Langton (3-for-5, two runs), Tamara Glichrist (2-for-3, run). Nicci Cliett (2-for-4, run), Amanda Coho (2-for-5, two runs, RBI), Maria Duvali (1-for-3, two runs), Sherri Elland [1-for-3], Jessi Butters (1-for-5, RBI) and Amanda Metakas (run).

stretch where he was losing games 1-0 and 2-1. "He usually has better control than he did tonight (two walks, several wild pitches, and falling behind hitters with uncommon regularity). but he really came through in the sixth and seventh innings."

The Rams scored more runs for Vessey in the top of the first inning than they have in several of his other starts, jumping on Oviedo starter Kenny Birch for three runs on four hits. Catcher Jason Yero highlighted the rally with a two-out, two-run double.

 While they never got closer than two runs, the Lions stayed within striking distance all night but couldn't come up with a clutch hit.

In the bottom of the first inning, for example, Oviedo loaded the bases with one out and only scored one run. That began a frustrating pattern for the young Lions, who left nine runners on base, eight in scoring position.

Lake Mary also stranded nine runners (six in scoring position) but managed to exploit aimost lo defensive mistake. Except for the second and seventh innings, the Rams had at least two hits in every inning.

"We went through a stretch in the middle of the season when we weren't hitting the ball and It cost us," Tuttle said. "In the last two games. we've had 26 hits. Hopefully, we can keep that up on Wednesday."

been asked this question several times over, but I have lost the ratio of Certo to unsweetened grape juice for the control of painful arthritis. Can you provide it once again?

DEAR READER: Certo is a product that is used in the preparation of jams and jellies. Some people have discovered that this harmless compound, which is available in most grocery stores, helps relieve the pain of arthritis, although no scientific studies have confirmed this.

For unknown reasons, Certo seems to be more effective when taken with grape juice: Mix one teaspoon of Certo in three ounces of the juice and drink the concection two or three times a day.

To give you more information on the subject of arthritis, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Osteoarthritis." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My wife has a tentative diagnosis of osteomalacia. We must wait for a bone biopsy before a final diagnosis can be forthcoming. She's on tetracycline, but I don't understand why other treatment can't be begun based on the tentative findings. Right now she's in unbearable pain, and we feel we could be weeks ahead if she were allowed to go on the proper medication

DEAR READER: Osteomalacia is a chronic disease of bone, marked by a failure of the body to deposit normal amounts of calcium in bone, leading to pain, pathological fractures and muscle weakness.

Osteomalacia has many causes, including genetic disorders, metabolic abnormalities, certain cancers, renal disease, vitamin D deficiency, mineral imbalances, and others.

The disease is diagnosed by bone biopsy, in conjunction with bone-density evaluations and a series of blood tests.

You have misunderstood the reason why your wife's doctor has prescribed the antibiotic tetracycline. The drug is not used for treatment; rather, it increases the accuracy of the biopsy, because tetracycline attaches to new bone and will show up in the biopsy specimen as a "marker."

The usual therapy for oateomalacia is vitamin D, with or without calcium (and other mineral) supplements. To a large extent, the major thrust of treatment is directed toward controlling any cause of oateomalacia. For example, metabolic and/or mineral imbalances must be corrected or the vitamin therapy will be ineffective.

MEDICINE

PETER GOTT, M.D

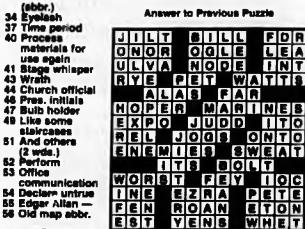

In your wife's case, it would be imprudent to begin therapy before the diagnosis is established. For one thing, premature treatment could alter the lopsy findings, resulting in avoidable confusion. She should remain patient and use analgesics for her pain until the biopsy has been performed.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've heard that tomatoes, bell peppers, mushrooms and eggplant are referred to as nightshades. Several books dealing with healing through nutrition suggest that this group of vegetables be avoided or eliminated altogether. Why?

DEAR READER: These delicious vegetables are members of the nightshade family, some of which — such as bittersweet and belladonna — are extremely poisonous. However, the vegetables you mention are entirely edible and harmless.

I do not know why any nutrition authority would counsel their avoidance.

England's day, the world's loss

By Phillip Alder

This is St. George's Day, named for the patron saint of England, who supposedly slew a dragon.

Last January 28, England lost its most famous bridge player, Terence Reese, who died at the age of $2. Arguably, Reese was the best bridge player-writer there has ever been. In his prime, he was a brilliant technician. And he wrote some of the greatest books for experts, like "Bidding a Bridge Hand," "The Expert Game" and "Play These Hands with Me."

Here is a deal that exhibits Reese's excellent declarer-play. In the auction, three spades set the suit. Three no-trump denied an ace, king or a singleton diamond. North went on to six because he had three trumps and only a doubleton diamond. West found the best lead, a trump.

At first, Reese thought he could just play off his three top hearts. But here, West would ruff and return his last trump, leaving Reese with only 11 tricks: six spades, four hearts and one diamond. Declarer would have to take the diamond finesse.

Suddenly Reese spotted the solution. After winning the first trick with dummy's spade seven, Reese called for the club three. When East rushed up with the ace, Reese discarded the heart ace! East switched to a diamond, but Reese won with the ace, cashed the spade ace, unblocked the king-queen of hearts and played a spade to dummy's 10, claiming 12 tricks: six spades, five hearts and the diamond ace.
