

YANKS TAKE 3RD. GAME FROM A'S AS RUTH SCORES

Babe's 49th Homer Is Responsible For His Team's Narrow Win

By Les Conklin

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.—The high-flying Yankees declare they will bury the Athletics once and for all by making it four straight at Yankee Stadium this afternoon. W. Hoyt, prominent Brooklyn undertaker, will conduct the services.

"The bunt that failed" gave the Yanks the third game, 5 to 3, snapped R. Moses' 14-game winning streak, and ruined the attempt of Moses to lead the A's out of the wilderness in which they have wallowed for 14 years.

The score was tied and Gehrig was on second base. Manager Huggins ordered Ruth to attempt a sacrifice on the first pitch, and then to swing if the bunt failed. The bunt was foul, by inches. Griva expected another one and pitched accordingly. Instead the ball sailed into the bleachers for the great god Ban's 49th homer.

The wallop marked the end of the straw hat season in New York. The diamond was littered with summer lids.

The lead of the Yanks is now 2 1/2 games, the same as the margin of the Cardinals over the Giants in the National League. The Cards trimmed the Reds, 6 to 3, but the Giants annexed their second consecutive double-header from the Braves and went into second place ahead of the Cubs.

Haines, pitched for St. Louis, The Reds clicked off their 175th double play of the season, shattering the National League record.

In two-timing Boston, 11 to 6, the Giant collected 30 hits, of which Lindstrom made eight. Jack Scott went the route for the Giants in the opener, but Benten had to rescue Hubbell in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

Patrick, Percival Malone of the Cubs subdued the Pirates, 9 to 2, and drove in four runs to boot. Five Pittsburgh pitchers took a shellacking.

After beating the Phillies, 7 to 2, Brooklyn suffered a 4 to 3 setback at the hands of Johnny Mulligan, ex-collegian who once pitched far above Cayuga's waters. In the nightcap Vance pitched just one ball and was charged with the defeat. Leach hit the Dazzler's first pitch into the bleachers.

A homer by Johnny Stone, rookie outfielder, staked Detroit to a 7 to 6 win over the White Sox.

Each team got seven doubles as the Browns scalped the Indians, 16 to 6. Cleveland has lost 10 straight.

FACE SERIOUS CHARGES

ATLANTA, Sept. 12.—(INS)—The three Tampa youths whose three-day jaunt across two states in company with a 19-year-old girl culminated here last Friday with their arrest or charges of kidnapping are enroute to Tampa today. What is believed to have started out as an innocent "joy ride," may result in serious state and federal charges being preferred against the young men when they arrive in Tampa. It was said by local authorities.

Bobby Jones And Von Elm Draw Comparatively Easy Foes For Today's Rounds

Match Play Will Get Under Way With Most Contestants Dubious About Outcome Of Very Trying Competition

By Davis J. Walsh

WEST NEWTON, MASS., Sept. 12.—They say nothing can happen in an 18 hole match, so just to make sure that a lot of things will, the golf association prepared to be lavish about it today and provided two distinct series of these competitive "dog fights" for the first and second rounds of the national amateur golf championship. Thus will begin, and as suddenly end, the annual machine gunning of the championship proper.

Von Elm was seeded at the top of the upper half and Jones at the bottom of the lower half in a commendable endeavor to arrange a final round between the almost perennial champion and the only man who has been able to beat him out of the amateur title since 1923, however, the best laid plans of mice and golf associations often go astray. If Von Elm doesn't miff the Yates match he can comfort himself with the thought that all he will have to do in the second round this afternoon is beat the winner of the Perkins-Moe meeting.

As an occasion, it is at once theived of the aristocracy of this particular sport, for, if there is anything that figures to give the proverbial sucker an even break, it is either an empty pocket or an 18 hole golf match or both. Aristocracy, indeed. The crown prince and even the king himself are not immune to the inescapable sniping of these first two rounds of the amateur champion ship. Only when the affair is elevated to the long range target practice of 36 holes, starting tomorrow, will they feel at their royal ease.

Still Prince George and King Robert seem to be well placed for the first round at least, Van Elm having been drawn against Arthur Yates, Rochester, and Jones against J. Walcott Brown, of New Jersey. The royal pair, in fact, will have to be somewhat off their chump, as we say at Winsor Castle, to have a white man's chance.

Both Prince George and King Robert seem to be well placed for the first round at least, Van Elm having been drawn against Arthur Yates, Rochester, and Jones against J. Walcott Brown, of New Jersey. The royal pair, in fact, will have to be somewhat off their chump, as we say at Winsor Castle, to have a white man's chance.

The remaining first round matches follow: Thomas Perkins, England, vs Dan Mon, Portland, Oregon; Chick Evans, Chicago, vs John Dawson, Chicago; Fred Wright, Boston vs George Taylor, Atlanta; Van, vs Dr. O. E. Willing, Portland, Oregon; Jess Sweetser, New York, vs D. J. Armstrong, Aurora, Illinois; William McPhee, Boston, vs George Voigt, New York.

Denver, April 12, 1928.—(INS)—To preserve anything for mankind, you must place it where he cannot touch it."

This statement was made here recently by Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, as he passed through on his way to Portland, Ore., from his home in Arizona.

"I want to leave before I die, a record of what this nation has done for civilization that men may read 400,000 years from now," he said. "On a mountain of solid granite in the Black Hills of South Dakota we are creating such a record. The monument dedicated by President Coolidge, records the epochal incidents in the life of the republic and sets forth in heroic proportions the likenesses of four great presidents — Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt."

"Dates are being carved 11 feet high. The letters three feet high. The inscriptions total, roughly 3,000 words."

"Granite, such as we are carving in South Dakota, wears away at the rate of one inch in 100,000 years. That means that men may read what we are writing there 400,000 years from now."

According to Borglum, there are several important requisites in preparing an inscription such as this. The mountain must be of solid granite so that the heat of the earth will keep the surface at a fairly even temperature.

The inscription itself must be out of reach of man, because everything left on the surface of the ground is destroyed, such as the beautiful temples of ancient Greece.

FRENCHMEN LOOK LIKE WINNERS IN TENNIS TOURNEY

Five Leading Players Of France Remain In Run For Single Title

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 12.—Shadows of the advancing tricolor of France have already all but engulfed America's prospects of keeping the United States lawn tennis singles championship on this side of the Atlantic this season. With the third round matches down for decision this afternoon no less than five sterling French players, headed by Henri Cochet, remain in the quest for the title while two of America's biggest guns, John Henehey and Wilmer Allison, have been spiked.

Sunset may see even further crippling of the Yankee defender, for the steady Francis T. Hunter, ranking no 2 player and Davis Cup star, must play the fiery Jean Borrelli this afternoon while George M. Lott takes on Christian Bousset, another of the Frenchmen, and Dr. George King, conqueror of Hinweise, tackles Jacques Brugnon, one of the alternates on the French Davis Cup team. If he displays the same sort of tennis that he exhibited in his first and second round matches against Norris Williams and Julius Seligson, the Basque may be the one who will drop off the running, but the odds are admittedly against Hunter. Lott, on form should defeat Bousset, but form has not played a major part in the tournament to date.

That almost anything can happen in this topsy-turvy tournament was shown yesterday when "Junior" Coen came within an ace of taking a set from Cochet and gave the Frenchman a stubborn battle all through the three sets. Cochet should have annihilated Coen but instead he found himself trailing at 5-3 before he suddenly awoke to the realization that Coen was playing real tennis. Thereupon Cochet put on the pressure and ran out four straight games to win the set. Coen, however, was always a menace and broke through Cochet's service six times in all.

Budapest's Lovers Face Ordinance To Curb Promiscuity

Vienna, Sept. 12, 1928.

Lover's sitting on benches in the parks after dark in the gay city of Budapest will have to present passports or other identification papers hereafter on request of the police.

The City Elders shocked by the recent "laxity of conduct" in municipal parks during the hot spell and the nude bathing in the rivers have determined to put an end to all levity.

The city has issued two new ordinances:

The first strictly forbids anyone to sleep in riverside bungalows;

The second prohibits any couple sitting on a bench after dark unless they are married. All couples must produce, on request, identification papers or passports or be arrested.

All Vienna is laughing at these ordinances as becoming suspicious as the Hyde Park police.

A great majority of the feminine populace of Vienna, less prudish than their Budapest sisters in the heat, are going about without stockings.

Barring a possible conflict between Governor Moody and certain members of the platform committee over the inclusion of a prohibition plank in the platform, the windup of the regular convention promised to be tranquil.

Governor Moody announced he would seek to incorporate a plank endorsing the principles of prohibition, and it was known that several members of the committee who believed that any endorsement of prohibition by the convention would be looked upon as reflecting on the candidacy of Governor Smith planned to fight such a plank.

Many Coins Found Near Russian City

LENINGRAD Sept. 13—(INS)—
Eighty pound of rare silver coins more than three centuries old in a score of small iron chests were dug up by peasants in the village of Nikolshino, near Leningrad, and sold for a pittance because they didn't know their value.

A hard-working ignorant peasant breaking in pasture land hit one of the chests with his plow near an old tree. He pried open the heavy lock and apparently shouted his find from the housetops. The whole village flocked to the treasure island in the barren field and began digging like mad.
Two were seriously injured by flying pickaxes.

SARASOTA PLANS NEW ENGLAND IS BIG CELERY CROP DISAPPOINTED IN FOR THIS SEASON FIGHTERS' LINEUP

Two Thousand Cars To Bring In $1,500,000
Bell Tells Chamber

SARASOTA, Fla., Sept. 13.—(INS)—Two thousand carloads of celery, approximately 700,000 crates (350 crates to a car) with an aggregate value of $1,500,000, will be harvested in the fall and spring crops in this county, members of the Merchants Association and others attending the meeting of the merchants body at the chamber of commerce Monday night, learned from an address delivered by T. J. Bell of the Bell Bros. Celery Co., of this city. This will be in addition to other vegetables to be grown. The estimate of the value of the crop, approximately $2 a crate, he stated was conservative, one. It is the belief however, that the price will be larger, making the total value of the crop greater.

The statement was made by Mr. Bell in an address in which he outlined the proposed formation of a $250,000 corporation, $150,000 worth of the stock to be disposed of locally, in order that the preexisting celery plant could be kept in operation here. "We find ourselves a little under-financed," Mr. Bell stated, and "we are calling upon the people of Sarasota to subscribe to stock in order to increase the payroll of the city."

He explained that much of the celery shipped out of Florida was not washed and prepared before shipment. This has been done at other points, he declared and, of course, these other points enjoyed the benefit of the large payroll disbursed to workers employed in the preexisting plant. "What we now desire to do," he said, "is to operate our preexisting plant and to keep the large payroll necessary to be disbursed in the operation of washing 700,000 crates of celery in Sarasota so that the local merchant will secure the trade of the many persons to be employed at the plant."

Mr. Bell asked for and secured the endorsement of the gathering in the company's efforts to organize the $250,000 corporation salesmen to dispose of the stock locally were at the meeting it was voted to appoint a committee of merchants to make the canvass of the city with the stock salesmen so as to lend endorsement to the proposal.

In his address Mr. Bell praised the soil of the country of this county and declared it to be of the very best, promising the growth of the agricultural industry in this county to huge proportions. He declared that the net profit to the corporation in the preexisting and washing of the celery here will be $15,000, with an increase in payroll of $12,000, in addition to a 25 cents per crate greater profit to the farmer.

MELLON TO AID HOOVER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—(INS)—Secretary of the Treasury Mellon will take an active part in the presidential campaign of Herbert Hoover and will make a number of radio political speeches before the first of November. It was learned today. Mellon, while only having appeared before a broadcasting microphone a few times, is partial to the radio as a medium of reaching the public.

Apes In Zoo Have Choicest Of Food

MOSCOW, Sept. 13.—(INS)—Two prized orangutans in the Moscow zoo are eating up $15 worth of choice fruit a day and thumbing their noses at millions of proletarians who can't afford to spend that amount for food in a month.

In the name of science, the apes, Gustav, a 15-year-old wimpower, and his son Fritz, one year old, stow away delicacies which almost no pocketbook can carry in Russia. They eat 20 specially imported bananas a day, costing the zos. 15 cents a piece. In addition they devour three pears at $1.50 each, a couple of oranges at 10 cents each and 20 apples at 10 cents each.

Bananas can't be bought in Russia at any price and are considered an unnecessary luxury. They are imported by air freight from Hamburg. Complaining about the state of affairs no worker wrote to a newspaper:

"No wonder they say man descended from monkeys."

Into Oblivion

After that disastrous year of 1920 when he was beaten by Sharkey, Heney and Goffrey, the last two by knockouts in one round, it seemed to everyone that the "Dynamite Jim" was no longer but that a "Gelatinous Jim" had taken his place from fourth place in the list for the world's best that year. The Pentagonal Idol slipped back into oblivion. It seemed that the lone field for his future greatness would be the Fish Pier.

When Dan Carroll Maloney's manager altered his thoughts, which were both emphatic and brief, it set Maloney thinking. It must have occurred to him during those moments of self-analysis, that for a descending or a fighting race, and for a ship who could fight as well as any in the country if he wanted to, he had been ringing a lot of false alarms.

So from his quick defeat by Tom Heney last September, Jimmy just pattered around here and there for several months and engaged in several inconsequential bouts. And in the meanwhile Henry, Johnny Rocco and Pauline Dziedzum and other ringsters were getting the big money. Then finally Maloney woke up and told Carroll that he wanted fights—as many of them as he could get.

So Jimmy went to Waukegan, and Dan Carroll got busy with the telephone, telegraph wires and his trusty typewriter.

From this start a great chance was noticeable. From the short notice, it followed that the place of the place from the day of his arrival and he has been ever since.

Stages Turnback

"Not so long ago Dan trotted Maloney out before Jack DeMare at Braves Field, and while South Boston stuck by him pretty well, about 10,000 others fans came to be convinced that Maloney was all shrub, and would take a good pasting. When he went down early in the fight they were sure of it. But he didn't. While he went down five or six times and up against a tough slugger, he bounced right back with both fists flying, punches and slamming like abn. He showed more fight and fire than he had ever displayed before in a Boston ring, and he won by the well known city block."

Then Henry Lamar was signed up as Jim's next opponent. Experts predicted that two or three hard slams early in the mugs would curl Maloney up, and the saw drew a record attendance for New England.

SMITH BRANDS AS LIE STORIES ABOUT HIMSELF

would otherwise receive. West Virginia is a battle ground this year and every vote helps."

Keanan's letter fell into the hands of William H. Kelley, Syracuse banker, who is Democratic leader of the city. He promptly called Governor Smith. Governor Smith requested Kelley to get the denial statement from some prominent Republican as responsible Keanan and to forward the letter to Albany.

Senator George F. Fearon, Republican chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, promptly furnished the refutation of the charge that Governor Smith was drunk at Syracuse. Politically, said Fearon, in a letter to Kelley, "I am opposed to Governor Smith, but I believe in a square deal even for political opponents."

As a member of the advisory board of the state fair, Senator Fearon said he had been designated as Governor Smith's escort during his visit to the fair and was with him from early morning until his departure.

"I occupied an adjoining box to the Governor while he was viewing the races," said Fearon's letter. "He made no speech from the box. He was not intoxicated. He showed no evidence of even having had a single drink, nor do I believe that he had."

"The statement which Mr. Keanan quotes regarding the Governor's condition is so manifestly unfair and untrue that I would not feel that I was acting the part of a man if I did not write you this letter stating the facts as I know them."

Immediately upon receipt of Fearon's letter, Governor Smith asked Kelley to call on Mrs. Sanford, which he did, later reporting to Governor Smith the results of his visit.

After introducing myself to Mrs. Sanford," Kelley reported, "I informed her I had a letter from Parkersburg, W. Va., she in turn without letting me go farther said 'Yes, it is from Mrs. Bauer.'

Kelley said he asked Mrs. Sanford point blank whether she had made the statement attributed to her. "Her reply was, said Kelley, that she had written Mrs. Bauer saying that, of course, she and her family disagreed with the Governor's attitude on the Eighteenth Amendment."

"I said that is not the question—did you or did you not write the article mentioned in the letter? She in turn said, 'I did not; I was not at the fair on Thursday; I did not see Governor Smith; neither did I write anything of that sort to Mrs. Bauer.' I asked her if she would write a letter to the Governor to that effect. She at first said she didn't see why she should, but she would write Mrs. Bauer. I replied that that would not be sufficient."

Finally Kelley said Mrs. Sanford promised she would write the letter to Governor Smith. Although a week has elapsed, Governor Smith said today he had not received it.

Kelley said Mrs. Sanford told him she had had a letter from Mrs. Bauer, "in which she told me a lot of things were being said attributed to her by Mr. Kelley, both cannot be telling the truth. Which of the two women involved is guilty of the slander, I do not know."

Governor Smith said he understood Mrs. Sanford is the wife of a prominent Syracuse coal dealer. Mrs. Bauer was but further identified than as a former Syracuse.

The mail reaching Governor Smith's office for days has been filled with reports of the "whispering campaign." Not all the reports concern only his personal habits. Most of them deal with the religious issue and others to the stories concerning his personal life and his family. Out of the letters, however, she does not deny statements in letter, but has quit talking.

Here the matter rested today, says for Gov. Smith's comments. "It will be noted," he said, "that Mrs. Sanford promised Mr. Kelley that she would write to me and make denial of the letter attributing to her by its source."

It is probable there will be further exposures of the whispering campaign as the campaign goes on. Governor Smith has made it clear that he is determined to hit it as hard as he can whenever there appears the opportunity of pinning it on the author.

Paris Decrees Fine Spun Line To Grace New Winter Styles

PARIS, Sept. 13.—(INS)—The fine spun line is one of the newest fashions being launched by the French dressmakers for winter wear and is promising great success.

It is so thin and slender, used in so many ways and in so many variations that it is almost a new fabric instead of a simple line. In general, it consists of elongations and points. In the most striking models it is expressed in skirts falling with a pointed line and to the heels, split tunic skirts that follow a diagonal line as they drop and long pointed sleeves on the evening coat.

On daytime dresses, the elongated motif is brought in with belts that take a sloping line and point downward, with split tunic shorts enough to be worn under day coats and by skirts cut in a scallop from back and front and consequently "pointed up" at the sides. It offers a splendid solution for the narrow hemline day clothes.

Frocks of velvet, taffeta or lace have a long pointed waist or group of pleats placed in the centre of the front instead of at the side or back.

Lolong is using a very slender line which winds all eccentrically and yet is very novel. Sleek bodices are bloused or have a slight belt at the back and elegantly-bifitted hips show the waistline two or three inches below the hips and usually sloping down after it flows out freely. This brings forth many new handlings of material, pleated and stitched down, inserted in diagonal lines and with interesting circular effects.

Evening gowns with elongated bodices droop symmetrically at the two sides and flutter draperies toward the back.

INJURED SEAMEN IMPROVED

SOUTHPORT, N.C., Sept. 13.—(INS)—Four seamen, injured yesterday when the tanker Shreveport exploded off Frying Pan Shoals near here, killing five members of the crew, were reported greatly improved today. A series of explosions on the tanker virtually demolished the ship. Twenty-five surviving members of the crew were picked up by the Spanish steamer Aldera.

Negro Bandit Shoots Girl After Robbery

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Sept. 13.—(INS)—Miss Rosebud Sykes, 26, was seriously wounded in a local hospital today from a bullet fired by a negro bandit as Miss Sykes and her escort Pierre Caldwell, 25, sat in a parked automobile early this morning.

The negro forced Caldwell from the car at a point of a pistol, clubbed him of $6 and then attempted to attack the girl, shooting her during the struggle. After tearing a diamond ring from the girl's finger, the negro fled.
