

Showers Fail To Stop Feds In Practice For Ocala Grid Game

By Jack Herring
Showers and drizzles couldn't prevent the local eleven from practicing Monday, but it did prevent them from practicing outdoors Monday, limiting them to a drill work so they will be ready to meet all comers in spite of the weather.

While the linesmen were working on their fundamentals and still ironing out the wrinkles in their charging game, the backs were laboring over a few new plays which Coach McLuca has pulled out of the bag, in hopes of fooling the Ocala aggregation and enabling the Feds to mark up another one in the victory column.

Yesterday two formidable line-ups were squared off against each other for a short period of "dummy" scrimmage. Andrew Hasty, out with a slight cold, was replaced at center by Ray Fox on the first string. Junior Brown and Glen Odham, last week's front wall stalwarts, were holding down the guard positions while W. T. Hefz and Bill Fleming, two of the heaviest boys on the Sanford roster, were in the tackle spots. A. W. Hicks and Taylor "Bird Leg" Brown flanked the line in the end positions. Hasty is due back today. Herring returned to active duty yesterday. As these two were the only men absent the entire squad looking forward to a good-hard practice today.

Thomas Of Tunan Gators Hope To Is Praised By Grid Experts Re-Gain Face In L. S. U. Grid Tilt

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 22.—(Special)—Lou Thomas, Tulane University's sensational left half-back, looked ahead today to new battles as the experts sang his praises following his fourth big week-end in a row. Without going into complete statistics, here are the high spots of Thomas' amazing performance last Saturday against the North Carolina Tar Heels. No. 1 touchdown, Thomas ran back the Carolina kick-off 101 yards for a touchdown. No. 2 touchdown, Thomas threw a 37 yard pass to Walter McDonald, quarterback for a marker. No. 4 Thomas six-yarded and whirled 26 yards over tackle for a touchdown. No. 7 Thomas cut back for 14 yards and a touchdown. No. 8, he circled wide around the Tar Heel left and to go in like a man-o-war. And, he played less than half the game. The 185 pound Greenie left half, a product of a New Orleans prep school, transformed as a sophomore a year ago from end to halfback when Coach "Red" Dawson confidentially told his associates he believed the boy had the makings of one of the greatest backs in the nation. Hailed then "as too good to be true," he was injured in the Fordham game last October but had a good season, everything considered. This year, starting with the Boston college game he has been in the headlines weekly.

Kiwanis Club Hears Talk By Mrs. Curlett

(Continued from page one) up by their owners near the beauty of the city, Mrs. Curlett said. The City could assess lot owners a yearly fee to mow the lots regularly, she declared. After years of effort the Big Tree Park has become a place of beauty and recognized as a sightseeing spot but now it has been commercialized to the point that it is a "dump heap," Mrs. Curlett accused. Praising the work done by O. P. Herndon, county clerk, Mrs. Curlett declared the Court House Park is well on its way to becoming one of the most attractive spots in the city. In conclusion, Mrs. Curlett appealed to the men to take an active part in helping to make the city beautiful. Harry Lee and Dick Marriweather, members of the Key Club, were guests at the luncheon. Dr. H. H. McCaslin had charge of the program. Before the speaker was introduced, M. E. Armistead, guest artist for the luncheon, sang "Poor Man's Garden" and "Invictus."

Stimson Tells Of Plans For Boosting Army Air Force To 400,000 Men

Tripling Of Present Strength Would Be Accomplished By June 30 This Year

Future Expansion May Reach 500,000

Congress Told Program Provides For 25,000 Airplanes

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—(AP)—Secretary Stimson announced today War Department preparations to expand the Army Air Force to 400,000 flying cadets and enlisted men by next June 30, nearly tripling their present strength.

Subsequent expansion, possibly to the 500,000 level, is possible beyond that date, Secretary Stimson said.

Congress was told the original program provided for a force of 25,000 planes, but Stimson declined to state how many of these were in service or how many are contemplated under the enlarged program.

In Memphis, the 150,000 officers and enlisted men of the Second Army yesterday in Memphis were misled by their commander, Lt. Gen. Ben Lear, to tighten up the military training program so as to attain their goal of being "fit to fight."

In an Army bulletin to the men under his command, Lear said he was pleased with the progress made during the past year, and declared "infinitely more progress must be made if we are to be fit to fight."

Lear admitted that some improvement particularly was needed in the smallest units—squads and platoons—where initiative, the aggressive fighting instinct, and terrain use of equipment and terrain must be cultivated.

He added that discipline in all respects must be lightened up. Lear said "greater responsibility of command must be cultivated by non-commissioned officers, and asked all commissioned officers to realize they are "on duty 24 hours a day."

He admitted that some equipment was needed, but added "in my opinion, the army needs stronger discipline, harder work, and training in greater aggressiveness and initiative even more than it needs equipment."

Lear criticized some of his soldiers for failing to seek cover when attacked by airplanes during maneuvers. Such actions would result in extremely heavy losses in actual warfare, he said.

Japs Offer Last Chance To Mediate

Press Warns Allies Japan Will Fight United States To Protect Interests

TOKYO, Oct. 23.—(AP)—The Japan Times and Advertiser, controlled by the Japanese Foreign Office, issued a new "trial balloon" for peace by offering the Axis powers a "last chance" to use Japan as mediator in the European war.

As Nazi Axis partner in the Far East, Japan holds a "paramount status as a mediator," the newspaper said, but it warned Japan would not hesitate to fight the United States to safeguard her interests.

The Japanese press charged with growing wrath that the United States was seeking Siberian bases for use against Japan, and warned that "Siberia belongs to Asia."

Outspoken was the newspaper Hochi, which said the United States was pushing her military bases toward Japan, step by step and asked whether the nation should keep quiet in the face of "enlarge a great number of Asiatics in Siberia as well as an enormous natural resources."

Aid For The Russians

It comes as something a bit disconcerting to many Americans, most of whom have been criticizing the British for not launching an invasion of the continent while the Germans are occupied with the Russian campaign...

Give us the tools and we will finish the job," said Winston Churchill over a year ago. And so Americans went to work to become the "Arsenal of Democracy."

And yet today we have neither the tanks nor the airplanes to help the British make an invasion of the continent hold the slightest possibility of success.

As if this were not enough, we still do not seem to realize the seriousness of the situation. Wars are not fought with huge appropriations. No mere sacrifices by taxpayers alone can stem the tide which is sweeping over Europe.

Worse than that they are tolerated by the government, and we are afraid, by a large segment of the public at large. It is a part of the philosophy of "business as usual."

Get Rid Of Filth

We have long contended that one of the most worthwhile projects which WPA officials could inaugurate in Sanford and Seminole County would be a thorough-going mosquito and housefly eradication campaign.

Now comes a group of scientists to disclose that at least two of our most insidious and dreaded human diseases are spread by the mosquito and the common housefly.

"Within the past month has come new light," says the Washington Star. "Public Health Service workers have proved that the anopheles experienced in the Northwest this summer was, almost beyond question, spread by mosquitoes."

There may be other vectors of both these maladies. Discovery of the method of spread does not necessarily mean that the maladies can be prevented.

Most encouraging is the fact that science is taking the mystery out of these maladies. Mystery has been one of the major reasons for their frightfulness.

And the mystery is nothing more obscure than the common manure pile and polluted pools of water.

In addition to the various battalion and regimental aid stations, we have in the Dixie a complete Medical Regiment, the 106th, composed of three battalions; collecting, ambulance and hospital battalions.

INGLEY-ZACHRY WEDDING CEREMONY IS SOLEMNIZED IN QUIET SIMPLICITY

Quiet dignity and simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Marguerite Ingley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ingley, and William Brown Zachry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Zachry, which took place Wednesday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church with the Rev. Martin Bram, rector of Holy Cross, as the officiating clergyman, and William Branran serving as acolyte.

Palm fronds and green background under stained glass windows on each side of the altar where tall vases were filled with white chrysanthemums. White veils were worn by the bride and bridesmaids, and white tulle, coral vine and pale pink gladioli were used in decorating the church.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Roy Symes, organist of Holy Cross, gave a program of traditional wedding music. Mrs. Symes played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin for the professional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional. Martin Stimpel, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Mrs. Charles Raulerson of Okeechobee, matron of honor and sister of the groom, wore a gown of coral tulle with light fitting basque and full skirt. Her heart-shaped hat echoed the color of her dress, and her arm bouquet of pink roses was tied with delphinium blue satin ribbon. The dress of the flower girl, Grace Marie Stimpel, was of pale blue ruffled tulle with a tiny tulle bonnet. Her costume, completed by a wrist posey of blue forget-me-nots and a basket of pink rose petals, had the flavor of an old-fashioned lace paper valentine.

Mr. Zachry's best man was his brother-in-law, Charles Raulerson of Okeechobee. The ushers were John Hansen and Charles Brady of Orlando, Albert Flitts of Jacksonville, and James L. Ingley, Jr., whose cadet grey Seawance Military Academy uniform added to the military atmosphere to the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, James L. Ingley. Her wedding gown was fashioned of white brocade with a bouffant skirt, snug bodice, square neck line, and long tight-fitting sleeves. Her tulle shoulder length veil fell from a heart-shaped tiara which the bride's only ornament was a gold cross, a gift from the groom. Her flowers

Policy Of Bundles-For-Britain Stated

Mrs. I. D. Martin Seminoles County chairman of Bundles for Britain said today that the story of Bundles for Britain is one of an indomitable freedom of all peoples interpreted by Americans in every walk of life and in every type of community. Two years have passed and yet the club looks back on the relief it has afforded to the suffering and feels that a job has been well done, however not completed, since there is still so much more to be done to relieve the suffering and privation of the English people.

Many more things are needed for the people who have suffered from the effects of war, such as shawls for women working in the industrial areas, she said. The shawls may be knitted in any color of yarn and should be large enough to go around the head and shoulders. Other articles for women are greatly needed, Mrs. Martin states, such as underwear and maternity dresses, which are impossible to obtain in England.

Since buttons are almost non-existent in the war-torn country, any size, color or shape is greatly appreciated by the organization. Many shawls are needed for the members of the Royal Air Force, since it is freezing in their planes. Anyone having these articles is asked to communicate with Mrs. Martin.

The Bundles-for-Britain Club carries on its work without the benefit of any provisions for funds with which to buy the much needed clothing, and depends entirely upon the donations of interested and generous persons. Mrs. Martin declared that the amount of money, large or small, is greatly appreciated by the club. It is feared that the club will have to close its work if funds are not forthcoming soon.

The 54th carton of clothing which was recently shipped included the following articles:

Three afghans; 1 helmet; 2 caps; 6 beanies caps; 6 pair of socks; 4 pair of wool stockings; 4 pair gloves; 3 sweaters; 6 quilts; and a number of long garments for men, women and children.

BEHOLD VIEWS FOR TODAY

FORGIVENESS FOR SIN: Though your sin be as scarlet, they shall be white as snow; though they be red like crimson, they shall be as wool.—Isaiah 1:18.

IN THE SKIES: From Dover to Dunkirk, from Dunkirk to Ramsgate, and back to the dunes. Fewer boats of the enemy were driving torpedoes into the transports, destroyers and colliers, and the jetted loads gathered up from the sea were transferred to the yawls and yachts.

The blessed fog—Drew before this day the enemy, and back to the quays and the breakers. Now mercifully masking the periscope lenses, smearing the hair-lines of the beach-light, hiding the fished coys, and with it the calm on the channel. The peace that passed understanding, soothing the surf, allying the fog on the walls of guns' muzzles.

Out of the range of guns' muzzles, away from the insinuating blasts of the oil tanks. The shells of ships were met by the shells of guns. Water than the cliffs of Formosa; between the lines of the Medway buoys they steamed and sailed and veered.

Back to the roadsides, back to the piers inside the vigilant booms, back to the harbors, back to the River of London, to England. Saved once again by the tread of her heels.

—E. J. PRATT

It was where the government is planning to spend $6 billion dollars a year on national defense. Where is that piker who said "Millions for defense but not one cent for tribute"?

The Japanese complaint they are being attacked by Russia and the United States. They aren't any more attacked now than they were before the siege of Moscow.

A COMPLETE CYCLE

He who would spend his health, he should spend his money.

Aid For The Russians

It comes as something a bit disconcerting to many Americans, most of whom have been criticizing the British for not launching an invasion of the continent while the Germans are occupied with the Russian campaign, to learn that after more than two years of warfare, after more than eight years of Hitler's rule in Germany, Britain has neither the tanks nor the airplanes to give the slightest hope of success to such an enterprise.

"Give us the tools and we will finish the job," said Winston Churchill over a year ago. And so Americans went to work to become the "Arsenal of Democracy." Congressmen freely voted billions of dollars to build tanks and airplanes, and to build factories to build more of them.

Seven billion dollars was appropriated in Lease-Lend Aid. Another six billions will be voted in a day or two. Billions more were voted for our own national defense. Just how much nobody seems to know. But estimates have it that we are spending 15 billion dollars this year to buy tanks and airplanes and other implements of warfare for our own use. It is also stated on reliable authority that this sum will soon be expanded to over 50 billion dollars a year.

And yet today we have neither the tanks nor the airplanes to help the British make an invasion of the continent hold the slightest possibility of success. We have neither the tanks nor the airplanes to help the Russians stave off the assaults on Moscow. After six years of watching Hitler get ready for war and listening to his boasts of invincibility, both the United States and Britain were caught hopelessly unprepared in 1939.

As if this were not enough, we still do not seem to realize the seriousness of the situation. Wars are not fought with huge appropriations. No mere sacrifices by taxpayers alone can stem the tide which is sweeping over Europe. It will take tanks and airplanes in vastly greater numbers than Hitler can muster to do that. We can't win the war by throwing dollars at the Germans. Those dollars have got to be converted into the machines of war.

And yet defense strikes go on without abatement. Worse than that they are tolerated by the government, and we are afraid, by a large segment of the public at large. It is a part of the philosophy of "business as usual." We think we can beat Hitler and still enjoy the luxury of strikes, lockouts, labor disputes, and business booms. And the government, which knows better, does nothing about it.

Every amateur strategist in America thinks Britain should strike while the iron is hot and we are ready to condemn Churchill and his whole military staff for not going to the aid of the Russians, but we have so far failed to furnish the tools. And the "Arsenal of Democracy" is an arsenal in name only.

Get Rid Of Filth

We have long contended that one of the most worthwhile projects which WPA officials could inaugurate in Sanford and Seminole County would be a thorough-going mosquito and housefly eradication campaign. Since all that has to be done to get rid of such pests is to eliminate their breeding grounds, the task should not be too difficult.

Now comes a group of scientists to disclose that at least two of our most insidious and dreaded human diseases are spread by the mosquito and the common housefly. For over a generation encephalitis and poliomyelitis have continued to take their toll in increasing numbers, appearing mysteriously in one community and then jumping suddenly to another, without anyone being able to explain why.

"Within the past month has come new light," says the Washington Star. "Public Health Service workers have proved that the encephalitis experienced in the Northwest this summer was, almost beyond question, spread by mosquitoes. Now two Yale scientists disclose to the American Public Health Association that the dreaded polio—better known because of the wide publicity given it by the efforts of President Roosevelt to curb the malady—can be spread by the common housefly."

"There may be other vectors of both these maladies. Discovery of the method of spread does not necessarily mean that the maladies can be prevented. It is not synonymous with "cure." But if placed in the hands of public health officials, knowledge which will be invaluable in future epidemics and which will enable them to forestall much suffering and loss of life.

"Most encouraging is the fact that science is taking the mystery out of these maladies. Mystery has been one of the major reasons for their frightfulness. And the mystery is, nothing more obscure than the common manure pile and polluted pools of water."

Many Sanfordites Take Important Part In U. S. Army War Maneuvers

By SGT. PHILIP M. VICKERY

The United States Army has just successfully completed the world's largest peacetime maneuvers. This titanic phase of American preparedness involved over half a million men—based for eight weeks, covered the entire State of Louisiana, eastern Texas, and southern Arkansas. In its final stages two great and powerful armies were arrayed against each other along a two hundred mile front. The highly mobile, hard hitting and heavily armored force of 150,000 men known as the Second Army, and commanded by Lt. General Ben Lear, was out in "hot wide open" the latter, more bulky, slower moving but determined 350,000 National Guardsmen and Regulars commanded by Lt. General Walter Krueger as the Third Army. The results of these maneuvers are now being reported in a glorious page of that history in the innumerable columns of the coverage, valour and fighting ability of the Dixie (Dixie) ID.

It hardly seems conceivable to the casual observer that the army and air force of the United States are now engaged in the most important phase of their training since the end of the last war. The maneuvers are being conducted in the most realistic manner possible, and the results are being reported in a glorious page of that history in the innumerable columns of the coverage, valour and fighting ability of the Dixie (Dixie) ID.

WOODEN KIMONO

to you their united efforts to serve their country at a time when men of such high standards, training and leadership qualities are sorely needed.

General Hutchison commands the Sixty-Second Infantry Brigade, composed of troops from Alabama (187th Infantry) and Florida (194th Infantry). Both of these regiments possess a tradition and proud military history as old as the army itself.

The General and his Crusader Boys, 6500 strong, intend to maintain that tradition and add more glory as the days roll on. No one can say that they aren't off to a good start. The "Little General" as he is affectionately (and naturally, unofficially) referred to by his officers and enlisted men of his command, probably has the distinction of leading the best trained infantry brigade in the entire army. If not the best, certainly one of the best, as attested by the successful accomplishments and seemingly impossible feats of himself and his ever-ready, battle-bent-for-action southern rascals. There is no man in the entire brigade who doesn't speak warmly and enthusiastically of "Our General."

The herculean task of feeding, watering, clothing and transporting the 18,000 members of the Dixie falls on the shoulders of Colonel McCrory, Division G-4. The G-4, when translated, means that he is on the staff of the Division Commander, Major General John C. Pryor, as supply officer. That he did this job is shown by the high efficiency and accomplishments of the Dixie. It's his responsibility to keep the boys moving, and that's a lot of boys. For instance, the food, water, fuel, water supply, gasoline and oil dispensing, and having enough trucks ready where they are needed and when they are needed. This is a heavy responsibility to carry a man to an early grave. All units are still short of their transportation allowances and to top the list that at times the Division was issued over 100,000 gallons of gasoline. Colonel McCrory's staff has had to make a lot of decisions. Colonel McCrory's staff has had to make a lot of decisions.

Major Scott's constant supervision and tireless efforts. Accidents and mishaps or even the trivial nature were given instant and expert attention, thereby eliminating any possible future consequences. Although the functioning of each of the three battalion air stations, Major Scott's staff consists of five first lieutenants who act as assistants, but the Major relies on his close personal supervision to keep things running smoothly.

The achievements of the Battalion staff, which exceeded the wildest expectations of all, was due in no small part to the constant vigil of Major Washburn, First Battalion executive officer. The Major keeps the administrative functions of the battalion correct and up to the minute at all times. In the field this proves to be no small matter and calls for an able hand and clear head in order to retain all of the same in one compact unit. In the absence of the Battalion Commander, Major Washburn acts as his personal representative and also in the capacity of Battalion C. O.

Captain William F. "Bill" Brown is the spark plug behind the first battalion's Heavy Weapons Company. By tradition and order of their unit's assignment, every machine gun outfit is given a firm hand and fatherly guidance. Every man in "D" Company is the latest recruit to the oldest veteran, workshops and respects him with a passion. The Colonel is a hard soldier who has been in the army during the last war. The Army's was a hard soldier who has been in the army during the last war.

(Browning machine guns, anti-tank guns and 81 MM trench mortars) for the three rifle companies in the battalion. On many occasions during the maneuvers, the battalion was strung out for as much as eight miles. Keeping in touch with the supporting elements kept the Captain on the jump for hours at a time, but his unit was always ready and on hand with plenty of fire power and a "never-say-die" determination.

General Hutchison's right hand man and able assistant is Captain Karl Nordgren, one of the division's most capable and efficient officers. As Aide-de-camp to the Brigade Commander, Captain Nordgren fills an important and responsible post, assisting the General in formulation of plans, execution of orders and surveillance of personnel. He has the facility of being every where and into the middle of every thing at one time. Much of the Brigade's success has been due to the critical but friendly eye and meticulous care exercised by Captain Nordgren.

Although he is assigned to "D" Company as second in command to Captain Runge, Lieutenant Schirrad was taken away from us during the contests to act as one of the umpires. This task called for quick and correct decisions as to the immediate situations effected during the various maneuvers. Umpires were sometimes called upon to render a verdict as often as every ten minutes, and their notes decided whether the movement would allow an advance or cause a withdrawal. The participating units were bound to abide by the umpire's decision, but some of the arguments and howls of protest were enough to weaken the staunchest of men. It has been said by many that the umpires had the hardest and one of the most important functions of any group engaged.

In addition to the various battalion and regimental aid stations, we have in the Dixie a complete Medical Regiment, the 100th, composed of three battalions; collecting, ambulance and hospital battalions. Over in the Ambulance Battalion we find another Sanfordite, Lieutenant Wayne Paige. With the field hospitals located 75 to 150 miles behind the lines, the Ambulance Bn. has an important duty and trying ordeal transporting the sick and wounded over backtrails, dodging aircraft by night and feeling their way by night over strange roads under extreme blackout conditions. Theirs was a vital job well done throughout.

There they are, from General Hutchison on down; a splendid list of outstanding men doing their part to retain and pass on the sacred heritage that is America's. The final chapter cannot, as yet, be written, but the glowing pages of that epic will contain several paragraphs which will hold a deep and sincere interest for the citizens of Sanford, present and future. It is extremely doubtful that any other city of similar size, in any state, can boast of the numbers or of the quality of high ranking Army Officers that Sanford can rightfully and proudly claim.

INGLEY-ZACHRY WEDDING CEREMONY IS SOLEMNIZED IN QUIET SIMPLICITY

Quiet dignity and simplicity characterized the wedding of Miss Marguerite Ingley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Ingley, and William Brown Zachry, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William B. Zachry, which took place Wednesday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church with the Rev. Martin Bram, rector of Holy Cross, as the officiating clergyman, and William Bram serving as acolyte.

Palms formed a green background under stained glass windows on each side of the altar where tall vases were filled with white chrysanthemums. White waxen tapers burned in cathedral candelabra, and white star jasmine, coral vine and pale pink gladioli were used in decorating the church.

Before the ceremony, Mrs. Roy Symes, organist of Holy Cross, played a program of traditional wedding music. Mrs. Symes played the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin for the processional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March for the recessional. Martin Stimpinger, soloist, sang "The Lord's Prayer" by Malotte. Mrs. Charles Raulerson of Okesechoke, matron of honor and sister of the groom, wore a gown of rose taffeta with tulle, fitted bodice and full skirt. Her heart-shaped hat echoed the color of her dress, and her arm bouquet of pink roses was filled with delphinium blue satin ribbons. The dress of the flower girl, Grace Marie Stimpinger, was of pale blue ruffled tulle with a tiny tulle bonnet. Her costume, completed by a wrist pony of blue forget-me-nots, had the flavor of an old-fashioned lace paper valentine.

Mr. Zachry's best man was his brother-in-law, Charles Raulerson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Raulerson of Orlando. The ushers were John Hansen and Charles Brady of Orlando, Albert Pitts of Jacksonville, and James L. Ingley, Jr., whose cadet grey Seawave Military Academy uniform added a touch of military atmosphere to the ceremony.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, James L. Ingley. Her wedding gown was of tulle and silk, accented with a white bouffant skirt, snug bodice, square neck line, and long tight-fitting sleeves. Her tulle shoulder length veil fell from a heart-shaped Elizabethan crown. The bride's only ornament was a gold cross, a gift from the groom. Her flowers were white bride's roses and tube roses in a showy bouquet with clusters of white bouvardia.

Mr. and Mrs. Ingley entertained after the ceremony with a reception at the Mayfair Hotel. Receiving with them were the bride and groom, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Zachry and Mrs. Charles Raulerson. Mrs. Ingley wore an aquamarine blue silk jersey gown with matching tulle. Her corsage was fashioned of pink roses and white tube roses. Mrs. Zachry's costume was of plum color crepe with a shoulder corsage of Talsman roses. Pale pink gladioli and coral vine were used in decorating the room lit by white tapers in antique silver candelabra.

Policy Of Bundles-For-Britain Stated

Mrs. J. D. Martin, Seminole County agent of Bundles for Britain, said today that the story of Bundles for Britain is one of an indomitable freedom of all peoples interpreted by Americans in every walk of life and every type of community. Two years have passed and yet the club looks back on the relief it has afforded to the suffering and feels that a job has been well done, however not completed since there is still so much more to be done to relieve the suffering and privation of the English people.

Many more things are needed for the people who have suffered from the effects of war, such as shawls for women working in the industrial area, she said. The shawls may be knitted by any color of yarn and should be large enough to go around the head and shoulders. Other articles for women are greatly needed, Mrs. Martin states, such as underwear and maternity dresses, which are impossible to obtain in England.

Since buttons are almost non-existent in the war-torn country, any size, color or shape is greatly appreciated by the organization. Many shawls are needed for the members of the Royal Air Force, since it is freezing weather. Anyone having these articles is asked to communicate with Mrs. Martin.

The Bundles-for-Britain Club carries on its work without the benefit of any provisions for funds with which to buy the much needed clothing, and depends entirely upon the donations of interested and generous persons, Mrs. Martin declared. The amount of money, large or small, is greatly appreciated by the club. It is feared that the club will have to close its work if funds are not forthcoming soon.

The 44th cases of clothing which was recently shipped included the following articles:

Three shawls; 1 helmet; 5 caps; 6 beanies caps; 6 pair of socks; 7 pair gloves; 3 sweaters; 6 quilts; and a number of long garments for men, women and children.

The Southern Garden

By Camilla Bradley
EDITOR OF HOME GARDENING MAGAZINE

In planning the Spring garden you will surely want to include several successive plantings of bulbous iris since they are nearly blooming bulbs, ideally suited to the South. Their colorful blooms, standing erect on strong straight stems, are beautiful when planted against a background of azaleas or when used among pansies to give height to a low formal bed. In a mixed border, combine these iris with candytuft and stock, and edge the bed with wild phlox, either lavender or blue, depending upon your general color scheme. As the first iris blossoms fade, snip them off carefully, for in most cases another bloom will appear in a few days on the same stem.

Bulb catalogues offer a wide selection of varieties which may be bought separately or mixed. Order a generous supply and plant them every two weeks for the next few months in order to have enough for cutting without spoiling the effect in the garden. Wedgwood, a fine blue, is probably the best known of the group, but Imperator is just as satisfactory and should be planted where a deeper shade of blue is desired. For pure white we suggest White Excelsior; for a real canary yellow, plant Yellow Queen; and for a beautiful blending of the last two mentioned, Leonardo da Vinci, with cream standards and yellow falls, is a good choice. Adrian Becker is lilac and some of the newer hybrids may be had in shaded effects of lilac and bronze.

For best results, provide good drainage and light, friable soil free from manure. In preparing a bed for bulbous iris, the time-worn rule of spading deeply still holds. Add sand to heavy soil and mix in a sprinkling of balanced food, allowing four pounds to a hundred square feet of surface. About a tablespoon of bone meal should be mixed carefully into the soil under, and immediately surrounding the bed. Plant the bulbs two or three inches deep and four to eight inches apart, depending upon quantity and effect desired. Except in very formal plantings, use them in groups rather than in straight lines.

In dry localities the bulbs may be left in the ground from one season to the next. But in low, damp sections it is advisable to dig them after the foliage has died down naturally. They should be dried for a few days after digging and then packed away in rice hulls or dry peat moss for storage.

Russians Declare Nazi Invasion Losses Equal Deaths In World War

Official Red Spokesman Says Moscow Is Not And Will Not Be Captured

More Command Shifts Made

Fierce Fighting Reported Raging In Three Key Cities

By Associated Press
Russia declared officially today that German losses in the Soviet invasion equal the total of German losses in the World War, and an official Red spokesman said, "They have not and will not take Moscow."

The Russians said fierce fighting is raging in three cities around Moscow—Kalinin, 96 miles southwest; Moshak, 87 miles west; Kalinin, 95 miles northwest.

The Russians admitted some withdrawals in the Moshak zone, but said Axis forces attacking the Crimean Peninsula were repulsed with heavy losses.

A violent battle is said to be raging at Taganrog, 30 miles east of Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus.

Further shifts in Russian command were announced, with all three key marshals assigned to the north, center, and south. The losses were not replaced or replaced.

German firing squads executed 800 Soviet prisoners at the front in a reprisal for the death of a German officer at Baranovka, but 50 others scheduled to die at Moshak were reprieved until Monday.

A night curfew was imposed at Bombay after a Hindu-Muslim outbreak causing the death of 11 and injury of 42. Two others were killed and 42 injured in Bengal religious disturbances.

The Germans claimed last night in 25 miles of Moscow on the north and southwest, and while the Soviet command disputed this only by implying early today it was quite plain that in any case the heaviest and most lethal stretch of the road was still to be traveled.

The early morning Russian communiqués merely reported in general terms that Nazi attacks had been repulsed in the battle areas around the city—some where in the sectors of Moshak and Malyaroslavl—without saying just where these actions had occurred.

British experts, who thus far have not often proved wrong in their estimates, look it as a substantial certainty that the capital would hold out all through this week.

They declared their belief that the turn of events was more and more supporting the already accepted probability that Hitler today is in a position to have a main thrust toward the southeast in an effort to break into the Caucasus oil reserves while the front lines in Moscow remained more or less immobile.

And on to this eventually, an informed source in London strongly implied that a million British mobile troops standing in the Middle East next door to the Caucasus were more likely to go to the aid of the Russians than to other worthwhile projects.

The high cost of water when used on farms and gardens was objected to by a number of local men present who said that it cost not less than $10 a month just to keep a lawn watered and that not many local people could afford it. It was suggested that efforts be made to get the city to reduce its water rates for home beautification.

Among those present were Leslie West, Tom Bolt, Elton Moughton, Henry Nichols, Henry McLaughlin, James McLaughlin, Kent Rosenthal, Roland Dean, E. A. Roseberry, Ford Russell and E. F. Park.

Following the meeting light refreshments were served by Mrs. Stowe, assisted by Mrs. Coleclough.

Opposing Candidates

Each running for the office of City Commissioner of District Two, Gene G. Baber at left, and H. James Gut, right, will furnish the only competition in the Commission race as G. D. Bishop, candidate for District One, is unopposed. Mr. Baber, local store owner and operator, is making his first appearance for public office in Sanford while Mr. Gut, real estate and insurance agent, is now serving on the Commission.

Group Of Men Meet To Plan Garden Club

Members Of Orlando Club Address New Sanford Gardeners

A group of Sanford garden enthusiasts met at the home of Edmund Stowe in Indian Mound Village last night and voted unanimously to organize a Men's Garden Club. The group was addressed by R. H. Ellis and Edward Richardson of Orlando, who described the work and organization of the Orlando Men's Garden Club.

A nominating committee for the purpose of selecting a slate of officers to be presented at the next meeting of the club was named by Mr. Stowe who served as chairman of the meeting. The committee consisted of Tom Bolt, Elton Moughton and B. P. Whittier, Jr.

Mrs. J. H. Coleclough, president of the Orlando Garden Club, brought greetings to the men's group from the Garden Club and expressed the desire of her club that the men organize a club, something which she said has been a dream of the Garden Club for a long time.

Mr. Ellis said that the Orlando men organized not just to have another club but to have a club which would be a help to the city and to the gardeners. He added that a "Question and Answer" program had been a popular feature of each meeting of the club.

Pointing out that the Orlando club made its business meetings short and snappy, Mr. Richardson, secretary of that organization, said that interesting programs were arranged for each meeting. He also said that the Orlando club had sponsored the 18th annual State Rose Show in Orlando last winter and number of other worthwhile projects.

The high cost of water when used on farms and gardens was objected to by a number of local men present who said that it cost not less than $10 a month just to keep a lawn watered and that not many local people could afford it. It was suggested that efforts be made to get the city to reduce its water rates for home beautification.

Steel Strike In Suburb Of Detroit Ends

Workers Return To This Plant But Alabama Miners Begin Striking

By Associated Press
The eight day interruption of operations at the Great Lakes Steel Corporation in a Detroit suburb ended today when strikers accepted settlement terms and began returning to work. Other strikes however, gripped coal mines in Alabama, which held up welding operations at some shipyards in the northwest and paralyzed production at the Ohio Machinery Factory.

Several automobiles were overturned near Bendis, N. J., after a group of non-striking employees in the plant of Air Associates Inc. a manufacturer of plane parts.

The current upsurge of strikes in defense plants brought renewed demands in Congress yesterday for legislation to outlaw or restrict such walkouts.

Speaking on the house, Representative Cox (D. Ga.), Rich (R. Pa.) and Ford (R. Calif.) all demanded action.

Cox asserted that strikes had brought about "the most disgraceful situation that ever existed in this country" and declared it was "shameful that neither the executive nor the legislative branches of the government are doing anything about it."

Rich blamed the walkouts on "radical labor leaders" and was critical of Sidney Hillman, general director of the office of production management. He asserted that Hillman, head of the CIO Amalgamated Clothing Workers was "more concerned over his own union than over the country."

Hillman told the senate defense investigating committee Wednesday that he thought "the general labor situation is rather satisfactory" but that "we believe there should be a single machinery for meeting disputes."
