Judge sets hearing on hotel

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - The battle over a proposed hotel and conference center in downtown Sanford will continue until at least September following a judge's decision to set a hearing date.

The Society for the Preservation of Fort Mellon Park is challenging the city of Sanford's effort to locate a hotel and conference center at Fort Mellon Park on Sanford's waterfront. The Society argues that state officials should not have approved the city's comprehensive land use plan amendments that allow the project.

Lawrence P. Stephenson, a state administrative law judge, will rule on the Society's challenge at a hearing Sept. 8, 9 and 10 at the County Services Building. Stephenson on June 8 denied the city's motion to reject the Society's petition for a hearing.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said the city and the state's Department of Community Affairs is prepared to defend against the Society's challenge.

"This doesn't surprise me at all," Dale said. "I'm very confident we'll be found in compliance."

In a November referendum, city voters approved the plan to build a hotel and conference center on Fort Mellon Park by a 55- to 45-percent margin. The Society is seeking signatures to force a new referendum.

"They've challenged us on everything we've tried to do," Dale said. "It's amazing. We have a referendum, we win, and yet this small group keeps challenging it."

A Tearful Farewell

Pine Crest Elementary School students celebrated the last day of class Wednesday. For the fifth-graders, it was the last time they would attend Pine Crest as students, so they took a final "graduation walk" around school before leaving. Some students became tearful, like Mindy Doner, above, who hugs teacher Amy Copeland before leaving school.

Sanford's Main Street program hits roadblock

By Russ White
Staff Writer

SANFORD - In the late afternoon Wednesday, Seminole County's five commissioners - eager not to raise taxes - were looking for opportunities to say "no" to some of the grants being requested by community service agencies in the territory. Sanford Main Street was a victim.

Director Linda Kuhn asked for $35,000 and received Zip.

"Is there an end to this program? A goal? A day of reckoning?" Commissioner Grant Maloy asked Kuhn. Main Street received grants the last four years.

Commissioner Randy Morris told Kuhn the Sanford Main Street request was "not appropriate" for the county's grant program and would be better See Main Street, Page 3A

Jordan wins award for doing the math

By Joe DeSantis

SANFORD - When Seminole Community College instructor Bill Jordan tells his students to "do the math," he really means it.

Thanks to a pioneering approach he helped develop to the prickly subject of algebra, students at S.C.C. and Miami-truly unexpected," responded Jordan. "I think the approach I use is a combination of clearer explanations to students and the fact that my students know it makes a difference to me whether or not they grasp the material."

S.C.C. president Dr. E. Ann McGee labels Jordan, "the kind of faculty member any community college president would want. He knows that to be relevant to students. He understands that excellence in the classroom is a vital key to the future."

So much so that the long-time teacher recently added to his impressive list of accolades by returning from Washington, D.C. with the Association of Community College Trustees 1999 Regional Faculty Member award. He now stands in line for possible national recognition later this fall.

County bar association rates local judges

By Joe DeSantis
Staff Writer

SANFORD - It's been affectionately labeled in legal circles as, "the one thing judges fear more than their wives."

Seminole County's Circuit and County Court judges received their annual report cards from the Seminole County Bar Association this week. The 1999 Judicial Poll Results indicate the bar's attorney's rate judge Kenneth R. Lester with the highest overall marks and judge Leonard V. Wood with the lowest scores among Circuit justices.

At the County Court level judge Carmine Bravo emerged at the head of the class with the highest overall scores while judge Ralph Eriksson scored the lowest.

The annual poll, which allows attorneys to respond anonymously, rates justices in seven different categories on a scale of one-to-five. A one indicates very poor performance in a given category while a five represents an excellent rating. The judges are rated in areas of legal knowledge, impartiality, demeanor, diligence and efficiency, integrity, and service to community. A mean score is then derived for an overall rating. The poll response rate to the survey this year was right at 50 percent as 130 of the bar's 260 practicing lawyers responded.

A life worth living

A couple of years ago Dennis Joyner tried to go on an escalator in his wheelchair.

He was rushing to catch a flight at National Airport in Washington D.C.

Unable to break clear at the top of the escalator, Joyner had to roll over and out of the wheelchair.

Doing so, he dislocated his right shoulder.

Since the incident, Donna Joyner has warned her husband about any further escalator tumbling. "She's even threatened to go with me on trips," Joyner joked Wednesday.

Joyner, 50, has worked for Seminole County for more than 10 years. He's currently the Assistant Supervisor of Elections for the county.

Those who have worked with Joyner say he is the most cheerful, optimistic, positive person they have ever met. "Want a hero?" Diane Merkt said. "Here's a genuine hero. The most positive individual I've met."

Joyner made a resolve 30 years ago that "somehow, some way" he would keep on going after he lost both legs and his left hand in an explosion during an Army reconnaissance mission in the Mekong Delta region of South Vietnam.

He had been in Viet Nam 32 days when he tripped into the booby trap mine. Aware what had happened and seeing his legs and left hand were gone, Joyner screamed, "let me die. let me die."

A sergeant slapped him in the face to keep Joyner from going into shock. And he told the 20-year-old soldier, "You have a lot to live for."

Sgt. Eddie Reynolds was correct. Dennis Joyner had a lot to live for.

"I have something to share with people," said Joyner, a past National Commander of the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) who was named once by President Ronald Reagan as the ..... nation's Disabled American of the Year.

Joyner has spoken in cities across the country, trying his best "to crawl inside your chest and to massage your heart."

He tells people that life goes on and if you're going to live, its best to keep smiling and enjoying life. "The more I spoke, the more I realized I was enjoying life," he said.

His favorite times today are with his wife and their 10-year-old daughter, Kristen. She's a student at Sabal Point Elementary School and a good swimmer. Dennis swims with her at their home pool. He also rides a three-wheel bike with a hand pedal and shoots baskets from his wheelchair.

Of all the stories Joyner tells, the one that best captures his spirit, resolve and sense of humor concerns a hunting trip a few years ago. "Other hunters saw me out in the woods and I'm sure they wanted to run," he said. "The first deer I ever got - I don't think I really got it. I think the deer died of a heart attack. It came running into the middle of the field and saw me in a wheelchair with a gun. It looked right at me and said, 'you've got to be kidding.'"

The BBC encouraged Kuhn to "be more creative - to go where the funds are."

The Tajari School of Arts in Sanford asked for $24,790 and was at first turned down, 3-2, by the BCC. When District 5 Commissioner Daryl McLain and Morris appealed, Commissioner Dick VanDerWeide changed his vote. Tajari will receive $12,054, same as it did last year.

"This (Tajari) is an outstanding program - one we definitely need to include in our funding," Morris said. "I'm pleased that Daryl McLain's appeal was accepted - that Dick VanDerWeide changed his vote."

As a rule the BCC provides grants to a variety of agencies to meet the essential individual and family needs and to improve the quality of life for county residents. This past year $1,101,126 was given to the agencies deemed worthy. Requests this year were for $2,167,647. Half this will be funded.

The city has been chosen as the site of the county conference center.

Millard Hunt, Chairman of the Society, said Stephenson's June 8 decision is a step forward.

"The city's attempt to silence the voice of its own citizens has been soundly rejected," Hunt said. "We look forward to addressing the comprehensive plan issues in a fair and impartial hearing and are confident that the city will ultimately fail in its attempt to commercialize Sanford's only true community park."

The Society is challenging the city's comprehensive plan amendments on the grounds that they allow development that will impact roads, water runoff, environmental conditions and recreational facilities in a manner that will adversely affect the Society members.

The Society also says that the development will cause a loss of park open space, recreational opportunities, public access to lake views and waterside activities, and degrade local transportation facilities.

The city responds that there will still be open space and a fishing pier in Fort Mellon Park after the hotel and conference center are built. A four field

"I simply love math," said Jordan. The award winning instructor confessed the one "C" he received in college came in an English class. "To me the rules of English were the ones I found confusing," he chuckled. "Math is logical and beautiful in its orderliness."

The key to his innovative approach to teaching algebra has been a combination of incorporating technology, and using an integrated and parallel approach of teaching algebra simultaneously with traditional math.

Teaming up with William P. Palow of Miami-Dade Community College, the pair initiated a substantial change in the instruction of entry-level mathematics courses. For too long students were learning the mathematical concepts of arithmetic and algebra in isolation, without seeing how many of the concepts of mathematics are interrelated. The instructors developed a math curriculum that teaches the two subjects at the same time in a spiraling approach. Their collaborative effort soon led to the introduction of a new textbook Integrated Arithmetic and Algebra that basically combined material found in separate text books for traditional math and entry-level algebra.

In a three-year test period at S.C.C. and Miami-Dade, the new book and the novel approach led to dramatic results. At S.C.C. there has been a 44.5 percent increase in the success rate by students taking the combined course rather than the two-course series. The same percentage of students were more successful in subsequent advanced and integrated arithmetic/pre-algebra courses.

"I don't necessarily just teach algebra, I teach students," said Jordan. "The biggest problem with algebra is that students often get stuck at the starting point. Once the light bulb goes off, they really get rolling."

Jordan also incorporates the use of graphing calculators which he says, if used properly, help provide clearer insight for students by taking mathematical principles, equations and formulas from the conceptual to the concrete.

"There's a perception that today's students know less and less," concluded Jordan. "But I haven't seen any great change in the student body over the years, just changes in the way material is presented and taught."

Jordan's award was one of five presented to regional faculty winners. If the math is correct, he stands a 20 percent chance of winning the national award.

Work to begin next week on Sanford pool

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD - Work will begin next week on the four-acre site of Sanford's community swimming pool near Seminole High School.

Four acres of land for the olympic-size swimming pool will be cleared starting next week. The 50-meter pool is expected to be ready for use in 2000. Briar Corporation is donating $15-20,000 worth of labor to clear and excavate land for the pool. The Sanford City Commission on Monday awarded a $1 million bid to Weller Pools for construction.

Mike Good, the owner Briar Corporation who graduated from Seminole High School in 1976, said excavation will be complete in two to three weeks.

"The pool will be a tremendous asset," Good said. "We're just trying to give something back. It behoves us in this day and time to get involved. There would be more projects like these if more people and companies also get involved. We'd amaze ourselves at what we can accomplish."

Construction on the site will begin once the land has been cleared. Weller Pools is in charge of construction, and Spolski Construction is building the pool's bath house. Tom Farnsworth, superintendent of Parks and Recreation for the City, said construction will likely take six months.

The City is splitting costs for the pool with Seminole County and with the school board. Sanford will pay $500,000 toward construction of the pool, while the county and school board will share the remaining $500,000 for construction.

The 705,000 gallon, olympic-size pool will have heating, lighting, decking, a 5,000 square-foot bathhouse, polo capabilities, and diving boards.

Seminole High School officials say the pool will be used for practices, swim meets, and as a place to teach swimming safety.

The pool will double as a community swimming pool, when not in use by Seminole High School.

Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said he is excited about the opportunities the pool will bring to the community.

In the year ahead, there could be a strong possibility that events might bring you before the public in some manner. By projecting yourself effectively, you'll do much to enhance your status and reputation.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) This is another one of those days where sticky fingers abound, so take extra care today not to leave any valuables in your car. Also, be careful not to leave any prized possessions lying around.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It would quickly create resistance today if you're too intent upon having things your way with persons with whom you're involved. If you get pushy, expect to be pushed back.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Unlike your usual self, you could have a tendency today to assess matters rather negatively. If you do not take measures to correct this, your affairs may have negative results.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Stop and think about what you might do to your future budgeting if you commit yourself to something that would tie up resources or earnings for any length of time. It may not be worth it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Illogical procedures could severely lessen any chances you have for achievement today. Make sure everything is in place before you take on an important endeavor.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Should a volatile issue that previously disrupted your household surface again today, try to treat it more tactfully and with less emotion this time. It could clear the air. Get a jump on life by understanding the influences that'll govern you in the year ahead. Send the required refund form and for your Astro-Graph predictions by mailing $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your Zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) If you make others feel like it is something they have to do rather than a mere request, your chances for getting them to do what you want will not be too good. Be respectful.

WIN AT BRIDGE

First one, then the other

By Phillip Alder

This week, we are looking at the way percentages influence one's line of play. Today's deal features a different slant, but one that is important to understand.

You reach six hearts. West starts with the club jack, and unfortunately — but not surprisingly — dummy's queen is covered by East's king. You win with the ace and draw trumps in three rounds. How would you continue?

Some expert pairs don't play this four-no-trump bid as Blackwood, but it's much simpler to treat all jumps to four-no-trump over a suit bid as asking for aces.

You could try to guess which way to take the diamond finesse. However, if you get it wrong, the defenders will cash a club trick for one down. Alternatively, you could take the spade finesse. Again, though, failure leads to immediate defeat. Is there a way to improve the odds?

As if you had to ask! When you are missing two queens like this, both finessable, the key principle is to cash the ace and king in the suit where you have the greater number of cards, because that queen is more likely to be doubleton. If the queen drops, you are home. But if she remains alive, take the finesse in the second suit.

Here, this means playing off the ace and king of diamonds. When the queen falls, you collect all 13 tricks. Yet if her majesty doesn't appear, you run dummy's spade 10 for a finesse, keeping your fingers and toes crossed — if you can do that without getting a leg cramp!

ASK DR. GOTT

Changes coincide with hormone use

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 30-year-old wife began taking birth control pills six months ago. For the preceding 10 years, we had — I thought — an ideal marriage. She used to tell me how much she loved me, how happy she was and how she needed me. Now she tells me the opposite. She wants a divorce. Our two children and I are devastated. Could the pills be causing her sudden turnaround? She refuses to seek professional help, but I don't want to call it quits. Any advice?

DEAR READER: You are suggesting the possibility that your wife's birth control pills may have somehow affected her emotions and turned her love around. I don't know and cannot answer that basic question, except to say that depression can be an occasional side effect of birth control pills. But while such medicine can affect a woman's outlook, rarely does it change her orientation altogether. I suspect that the dynamics of your relationship may be more complex than you realize.

In my view, you have only one viable option: Seek marriage counseling. If, as may be the case, your wife has been unhappy in her marriage but has been afraid to tell you the reasons why, such a counselor may be able to get her to agree to a session during which there can be some honest interchange. If the marriage is over, you and your children will need some therapy and professional guidance. If there remains a chance for reconciliation, the counselor can organize and supervise the process. At the very least, someone needs to understand your wife's thinking before the birth control pills and her apparent reaction to them. Should your wife refuse such counseling, at least you can get some assistance in the difficult months ahead. Ask your family doctor for a referral or take charge yourself by finding an appropriate resource.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What are the risks of taking testosterone shots? I am 50 and have a low level of the natural hormone.

DEAR READER: If your blood-level of testosterone (the male hormone) is low, your interest in sex and ability to perform could be helped by hormone injections. I must emphasize, however, that testosterone deficiency is very uncommon in men your age, and testosterone shots are given with much less enthusiasm than they were decades ago. Part of the reason for this is the fact that testosterone injections in older men will inappropriately stimulate the prostate gland, leading to an increased risk of cancer. Consequently, the indications for such shots are far more restrictive than they were in the past. Nonetheless, some men are truly testosterone-deficient and may be helped by replacing the hormone. But before taking the shots, I'd want to be darned sure I was deficient and not just simply low-normal.

Judges

Bar members are also allowed to write in comments about the judges. While statistics are released to the judges and the public, written comments are available for review only by members of the bench.

"I'm pleased as punch," responded Lester, whose 1999 average score of 4.57 marked the third straight year he has received the highest marks at the circuit level.

"A lot of the credit has to do with the staff at the court house, my judicial assistant and the attorney's themselves. We are fortunate that we have a very experienced State Attorney's office and a very experienced Public Defender's office."

Lester added that he feels the annual bar poll is fairly accurate and that judges should take the good with the bad.

"I'm humbled," reacted County judge Bravo, whose ratings have improved each of the last three years.

"I appreciate the response from the lawyers. I wouldn't call myself the brightest star in the universe, but I try to treat others in the courtroom as I would like to be treated. Most lawyers are respectful and straightforward, and I would hope if I'm doing something wrong in the courtroom they would bring it to my attention."

Bravo received an overall rating of 4.01 across the seven categories, building upon his scores of 3.74 in 1998 and 3.92 in 1997.

James Valerino, chairman of this year's bar poll commented that the numbers reflect a good judiciary. "From year-to-year some of the numbers for the judges fluctuate. How the judges interpret the numbers depends a lot on their individual personalities. Hopefully they view the poll as a learning type instrument.

Attempts to reach judges Eriksson and Wood for comment on their respective ratings were made. Judicial assistants said busy court dockets did not allow for their responses.

Babe Ruth All-Stars ready

Bambino Majors, Babe Ruth tourneys open up

By Dean Smith
SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - All-Star teams normally only go as far as their pitching staffs can carry them.

If that holds true, the Sanford Bambino Major League All-Stars should be in good shape.

With hurlers like Freddie Howard, Luke and Josiah Kimmig, Lyndon Merthle and Khalil Farahkhan on the roster, Sanford figures to be in every game.

The Kimmig brothers pitched the Sanford Lodge #62 Free & Accepted Masons Yankees to the American Division Championship and the City Championship, while Howard led the Railroaders Cubs to the National Division Championship and the best record in the regular season.

Merthle and Farahkhan also had big regular seasons, leading their teams into the City Championship Series.

The quintet also swing very good bats, giving Sanford its best shot at the district title in several years.

The District 8 Tournament opens today at Hollyland Park in Holly Hill (just north of Daytona Beach on Nova Avenue) with Altamonte Springs taking on Greater Seminole (Oviedo-Winter Springs) at 5:30 p.m. and Sanford meeting Longwood at 7:30 p.m.

The double-elimination tournament continues on Friday with the winner of Thursday's 7:30 p.m. game facing host Holly Hill at 5:30 p.m. and the losers of Thursday's games playing at 7:30 p.m.

The winner of Thursday's Altamonte-Greater Seminole game plays Friday's 5:30 p.m. winner at 9:30 a.m. on Saturday, with the loser of Friday's 5:30 p.m. game battling Friday's 7:30 p.m. winner at noon.

The winner of the noon game will return at 3 p.m. to play the loser of the 9:30 a.m. game, also on Saturday.

The two remaining teams will play at 11 a.m. on Sunday and if both teams have one loss after that game, the winner-take-all game would be played at 2 p.m.

The Bambino Commissioners Tournament will be played in Sanford, while the Babe Ruth-13's and Babe Ruth League (14-15 year olds) will play their tournaments at Candyland Park in Longwood beginning on Friday.

SANFORD - It was business as usual for Tennessee Country Saloon and Pebble Junction as they maintained their edge over the rest of the field in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Men's Spring Wednesday night Slow Pitch Softball League at Pinehurst Park.

Unbeaten Tennessee Country Saloon was severely challenged for only the second time this season, trailing 12-3 in the third inning and 14-4 in the fourth inning, but behind a 5-for-5, five RBI performance by Jay Otero the league-leaders rallied scoring six runs in the fourth inning and nine runs in the fifth inning to outscore Wells Contracting, 21-14.

Dave Coss drove in five runs as Pebble Junction overcame a 9-3 deficit after one inning on the strength of a 10-run fourth inning to post a 19-9, six-inning run rule victory over Courtney by Marriott of Lake Mary.

In the other game, Jamie Pitzer, Tom Wilks and Richard Stewart combined for 12 hits, 14 runs scored and 12 RBI as Nobles Communication evened its record at 3-3 with a 26-6, five-inning crushing of M.T. Muggs.

Tennessee Country Saloon is now 6-1, while Pebble Junction is 6-1. Trailing the leaders are Courtney by Marriott of Lake Mary and Nobles Communication (both 3-3), AAA Services and Wells Contracting (both 2-4) and M.T. Muggs (0-7).

Next Wednesday at Pinehurst Park, Courtney by Marriott of Lake Mary battles Nobles Communication at 6:30 p.m.; Tennessee Country Saloon tackles Pebble Junction at 7:30 p.m.; and AAA Services faces M.T. Muggs at 8:30 p.m. Wells Contracting has the week off.
