UCF President Dr. Trevor Colburn greets Soviet defector Arkady Shevchenko at the Sanford airport Wednesday.

Quest For Freedom Spurred Defection

By Diane Petryk
Herald News Editor

Even as a member of "the high Soviet elite" there is no personal freedom in Russia, former Soviet ambassador to the United Nations Arkady Shevchenko told a University of Central Florida audience Wednesday night.

As protege of Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, Shevchenko had enormous material benefits, but he found them within a "golden cage."

It was Shevchenko's need for that personal freedom that brought his defection to the West in 1978. He became the highest ranking Soviet official ever to defect.

He told those who greeted him at the Sanford Airport Wednesday afternoon that his life has been threatened by the KGB, and the danger is something he will always live with. But he said any attempted assassins will find it a "suicidal attack."

'The Soviet tactic is to take over country by country in the Third World. If they see no resistance from the West they will move in.'

Soviet Union. He said his daughter was allowed to graduate from medical school, although he is not permitted to contact her.

"It is not satisfactory," he said. "We are still fighting it."

Ukrainian-born Shevchenko told the Sanford gathering of journalists and UCF officials that the Soviet Union is far ahead of the U.S. in developing space weaponry.

"Nothing can be done to stop such research," he said. "The Soviets will never allow inspections."

But he told the UCF audience, members of the President's Circle who donated $1,000 or more to the university in the past year, that the Russians will not start a nuclear war.

"The Soviets understand it is impossible," he said. "They know that even with a first strike they would be destroyed."

Star Wars Cruise Ships Vie For Harbor Rights

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The battle of the stars — the Star of Sanford and Star Ship America — for cruise rights out of Monroe Harbour Marina is expected to be decided by Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize Jr. at a June 4 court hearing.

Mize is faced with settling a lawsuit by Charles Volk, who leases the marina and harbor from the city of Sanford, charging his lease with the Star of Sanford's company expired in December and thus the ship should be evicted. He is also charging that the ship, because of its large engines, damaged facilities in the harbor undermining piers and its owners should pay for the repairs.

The owners of the ship, Star Line Corp. of Michigan, are counter-suing, saying that Volk and Star Ship America, owned by American River Cruises Inc., a Florida corporation, conspired to evict the Star of Sanford so the new ship could take over the lucrative cruise ship business developed there.

Meanwhile, the Star of Sanford is operating its cruises out of the Port of Sanford, west of the marina and about 4 miles down river. It is being birthed at night at the Sanford marina near the Star Ship America.

The name Star Ship America is to be short-lived. Nancy Yuronis, vice president of American River Cruises Inc. and an investor in the corporation, said the ship if being renamed "Romance" and the new name is already painted on the starboard (right) side of the ship.

Ms. Yuronis said the "Romance" is being completely renovated, carpeted throughout, the walls painted, booths and tables installed, as well as plumbing and electrical work being completed.

She said the "outfitting" should be completed within three weeks and cruises should begin shortly thereafter, depending on Mize's decision.

"We will wait and see what the judgment is and take it from there. I think there is room for a couple of cruise ships in Sanford.

Competing ships, the Star of Sanford and Star Ship America, berth at right angles to each other at Monroe Harbour Marina early today.

We would not be paralleling their schedule and would be offering something new," Ms. Yuronis said.

She added that while American River Cruises wants to stay in Sanford, the firm has also looked into the possibility of operating out of some other area in Florida just in case the court decision will not allow operation here.

And Graham Norman, general manager of the Star of Sanford, said his ship is operating two cruises a day and returning to Monroe Harbour at night to refuel and take off sewage and gray water.

"Our season is looking excellent through December. We expect to stay in Sanford for five or six years," Norman said.

Jack Bridges, attorney for the Monroe Harbour Marina, said Mize has told both parties to the lawsuit that the entire case will be heard on June 4, whether or not it must begin early and end

Man Gets Jail Time For Maiming Puppy

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A man who shot a puppy with a crossbow then left it to die as it dragged its paralyzed hind-quarters about with the arrow sticking out both sides of its body, has been sentenced to three weekends in jail.

Gaylord H. Dudley, also known as Henry Dudley, 40, of 126 Lake Mary Ave., Lake Mary, was sentenced by County Judge Fred Hitt. Hitt also placed Dudley on one year of probation, fined him $200 plus court costs and ordered him to complete 50 hours of community service preferably with the county's animal control division.

Hitt told Dudley that if he did not successfully fulfill all the conditions he ordered, Dudley would spend a full year in jail. Dudley has already served one weekend.

He pleaded no contest to a charge of animal cruelty and admitted to investigators that he did shoot the dog. He said the dog, a white-haired terrier mix about 10 months old, had scattered his garbage and would not leave when he threw rocks at it.

Dudley said he then shot it with a blunt arrow from the crossbow. When it didn't move he left it and said he had planned to call the Humane Society later in the day to pick up the body. The incident occurred around 9:30 a.m. Feb. 28. The dog, called "Puppy," was "taken in" by Dudley's neighbors after it was abandoned by people who moved out of the neighborhood.

According to court records, other neighbors heard a dog cry around mid-morning Feb. 28 and then saw the puppy dragging itself around by the front legs. It crawled under a bush near Lake Mary Boulevard and county Road 15 where police found it.

The arrow entered the dog high on the side just in front of its left hind leg. It traveled through the dog and stuck out the right side. According to a vet, the arrow damaged the dog's spinal cord and the dog had to be killed.

Dudley was arrested later the same day by Lake Mary police. He entered the plea last week.

Blacks Criticized For 'Jungle Freedoms'

Official Resigns Amid Furor Over Book

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The embattled head of the Copyright Royalty Tribunal has resigned following controversy about her work on a book that suggested blacks in America avoid responsibility and have an "abhorrence of the work ethic."

Marianne Mele Hall, the focus of criticism the last few weeks, was confirmed by the Senate last month to the $70,000-a-year chair of the small federal regulatory agency that sets the rates cable-television operators must pay for the right to re-broadcast programs.

Criticism arose over the role of the 34-year-old lawyer in writing the book, "Foundations of Sand," and the White House confirmed late Wednesday she had submitted her resignation. A spokesman would not give details of the resignation but said it likely would be accepted.

Hall's work on the 1982 book had prompted civil rights groups, House Democrats and Sen. Charles Mathias Jr., R-Md., chairman of the copyright subcommittee, to call for her resignation or firing by President Reagan.

The book says "blacks have inherited a different set of aptitudes, values, mores, goals and lifestyles over a period of 10,000 years." It concludes that the race problem in the United States arises "when you displace the jungle-freedom types into the Scotland-type environment which is America."

One solution, according to the book, is to set up a "separate but superior" school system for blacks, using "male teachers, and it probably would be wise to have retired star athletes as principals." Blacks "resent" the current school system partly because "they find it humiliating that female teachers should instruct black males."

Reluctant Juror Jailed

A Lake Mary man was jailed for contempt of court today for failure to show up a second time for jury duty.

Harold Samuel Nobles Jr., 34, was being held in a holding cell at the Seminole County Courthouse in preparation for an appearance before Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saffi to explain why he did not show up for jury duty this week and earlier this year.

Nobles was arrested Wednesday by sheriff's deputies. Nobles faces up to six months in jail in the case.

Contestants Clamor To Sign Up For Games

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Although the rule books, entry forms and schedules for the 1985 Golden Age Games are not yet off the presses, eager senior citizens are making their way to the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce office to sign up for their favorite events.

"We've already had several persons wanting to enter and all we can do is take their names and addresses," Virginia Longwell, chamber executive assistant said. "We had three persons who wanted to sign up for their foursomes for the golf tournaments."

Anyone who is interested in getting a schedule and entry blank who is not on the mailing list can do so by contacting the chamber, which is located at 400 E. First St., Sanford. A second mailing in September will include an even more up to date listing of the state's senior groups. Mrs. Longwell said.

A mass mailing of 6,000 packets is scheduled by the Chamber, which co-sponsors the annual event for adults 55 and over, for the first week of June with the help of senior volunteers. The packets will each include entry a letter, entry form, and schedules for the Games scheduled for Nov. 4-9 in Sanford. The will be sent to past Golden Age Games participants, senior citizen organizations, newspapers and television stations around the country.

Reagan Shrugs Off 2nd Wave Of Protests

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — President Reagan today shrugged off another barrage of protests and hailed Portugal's fledgling democracy as an example for other nations.

For the second time in two days a portion of his audience walked out in protest of his policies.

Reagan, on a two-day state visit that will wrap up his 10-day European tour, had just entered the ornate chamber of the 250-member Parliament and sat down at the dais

'I'm sorry that the seats on the left seem to be uncomfortable.'

—President Reagan

when 45 members, all leftists or Communist Party representatives who are seated on the left side of the room, walked out.

The president, who said earlier he would not be bothered by such a demonstration, stopped reading his speech to quip, "I'm sorry that the seats on the left seem to be uncomfortable."

Reagan also added a phrase in his prepared text to note the walkout.

"It is this trust in the individual — the right to speak, to assemble, to publish and to vote and to walk out — that is the meaning of democracy."

The walkout was staged as a protest of Reagan's policies, particularly toward Nicaragua. Administration officials said today they expected such a demonstration.

Today's walkout was the second parliamentary protest against Reagan in two days. Wednesday, about 40 leftist members of the European Parliament in Strasbourg, France, booed and jeered the president and then walked out while he delivered a strong attack on the Soviet arms buildup and defended his policies in Central America.

Timely Yuppie Etiquette

SEATTLE (UPI) — Even when the event was billed as an evening of "dancing, networking and winning," the yuppies showed up late.

Seattle's yuppies — an acronym for young urban professional — held a charity ball Tuesday that raised $3,000 for the March of Dimes, but it got off to a slow start.

"No yuppie ever wants to arrive anywhere ahead of anyone else," explained Christine Ann Steward, an insurance company agent who, as one of the first to arrive, was only a half-hour late.

The party was staged around the theme of "beauty, money and wealth." The young professionals donated $10 to attend the event.

The quiche was reportedly enjoyed by all.

Arrests Mount In Protests Against Nicaragua Embargo

By United Press International
Crackdowns on demonstrators in New York and California protesting the Reagan administration's trade embargo against Nicaragua brought the two-day nationwide total of arrests to more than 1,250. More than 500 people were arrested Wednesday in three cities in peaceful protests. Tuesday, about 750 demonstrators in five cities in New England and California were arrested.
U.S. marshals and police Wednesday arrested 300 protesters for blocking entrances to the San Francisco federal building, more than half of the estimated 500 demonstrators who turned out for the second consecutive day to denounce the recently imposed trade embargo against the Central American nation.
Doug Smith, a leader of the coalition that organized a Sacramento demonstration, said, "It is ludicrous to suppose that Nicaragua, a country of 3 million people, half of whom are under the age of 15, poses a serious threat to the national security of the U.S."
He said the coalition would seek ways to send money and supplies to the embargoed country.

'It Was Dad's Idea'

VIRGINIA CITY, Mont. (UPI) — A young mountain man on trial for murder admits helping his father kidnap a pretty Olympic skier but blames him for a scheme to make her a sexual mate in the wilderness.
Dan Nichols, 20, charged with abducting Kari Swenson last July 15, shooting her and taking part in killing a man who tried to rescue her, testified Wednesday he loved his father too much to oppose him in the plot.
"I was torn between my devotion to dad and the way I felt," he said. "Dad always wanted to have a family but he said it was hard to get a girl to live in the mountains and if we wanted one, we'd have to kidnap one."
"He talked about this stuff since I was 5."
His father, Don Nichols, 54, admitted they abducted Swenson when she was jogging on a mountain trail. He also confirmed he shot and killed would be rescuer Alan Goldstein the next day and that in the melee his son wounded Swenson, whom they had chained to a tree overnight.

Ex-Pentagon Bigwig To Prison

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Paul Thayer, once No. 2 man at the Pentagon, has been sentenced to prison for lying about an illegal $3 million stock market scam designed to benefit his girlfriend and others.
"I'm not going to hang a medal on the lapel of your coat for the breach of trust... that you have engaged in," U.S. District Judge Charles Richey said in imposing the four-year sentence Wednesday.
In order for the American system of justice "to have credibility," the judge said, "we must endeavor to treat people equally."
He ignored pleas for leniency for Thayer from former President Gerald Ford, Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gen. John Vessey, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.
U.S. Attorney Joseph DiGenova said Thayer and Harris likely will serve "at least a year, given the nature of the offense." They were ordered to report Monday to an undisclosed federal prison in Texas.

U.S. Ambassador Boycotts Soviet VE-Day Celebration

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today celebrated the 40th anniversary of its victory over Nazi Germany in World War II with a massive military parade through Red Square.
U.S. Ambassador Arthur Hartman is boycotting the parade in protest of the shooting of Maj. Arthur Nicholson by a Soviet sentry in East Germany March 24. He will attend a Kremlin reception following the parade.
Military hardware, from vintage World War II units to modern short-range and ballistic missiles, was displayed as the procession marched past Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev and members of the Politburo watching from atop Lenin's tomb.
The hourlong parade began with a speech by Defense Minister Marshal Sergei Sokolov, who warned that any attack against the Soviet Union will be met with swift retribution.
Moscow marks the victory over Nazism a day later than its Western wartime allies because it did not consider the war over until Prague was liberated May 9.

Peres Opposes Lebanon Inquiry

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Prime Minister Shimon Peres, once among opposition leaders calling for an investigation into Israel's invasion and occupation of Lebanon, said now he is against an official inquiry.
Peres, addressing parents of some of the more than 850 Israeli soldiers killed in the three-year war, said Wednesday such an inquiry would topple Israel's shaky national unity government, Israel radio reported.
Peres, as leader of the opposition Labor Party, called for an inquiry into the invasion of Lebanon in 1982 to oust Palestine Liberation Organization guerrillas in southern Lebanon under Prime Minister Menachem Begin's Likud government.
Likud ministers have threatened to bring down the government if an inquiry panel is formed, and Peres, reversing his pre-election position, says Israel now "has more pressing tasks."

Bare Expression

Court: Topless Dancing Protected By Constitution

PENSACOLA (UPI) — A federal appeals court says topless dancing is a form of freedom of expression protected by the First Amendment, but a long-time lounge owner says he has no plans to bring them back to his place.
"Trader John," who first opened a bar of the same name near the waterfront back in 1940, said Wednesday that he stopped having the dancers when the ordinance was passed. He said his business is good enough without them and he has no plans to bring them back.
The 11th U.S. Court of Appeals, in a ruling Monday, said that topless dancing is a "form of expression which is protected at least to some extent by the First Amendment." The city has 30 days to respond.
Trader John, whose actual name is Martin Weissman, said he thought "it was very very unfair" when the city first came out with its ordinance, and figured it might be overturned. He said topless dancing "just hasn't been anything that you can't see walking along the beaches."

The owners of the Ponderosa Rawhide Lounge, other topless dancing establishments and some dancers brought court action against Pensacola over the statute that prohibits topless dancing where liquor is served.
Pensacola unanimously adopted the ordinance Feb. 24, 1983, after members of the Brownsville Baptist Church complained about a painting of go-go girls on the side of the Ponderosa Lounge. Other churches and groups joined the church, which is next to the lounge, in the protests.
At the time, the city attorney said the ordinance might not stand a court test. Fort Walton Beach and Escambia County have similar ordinances.
The ruling Monday overturned an earlier decision by U.S. Northern District of Florida Chief Judge William Stafford, who heard evidence by the city attorney that it was more difficult to control the crime of brown bagging in topless bars than elsewhere. Stafford upheld the city ordinance on grounds that it furthered a substantial government interest in controlling brown bagging.

But the appeals court said the U.S. Supreme Court noted "the proscription of nude dancing infringes on some forms of visual presentation which would not fall within the court's definition of obscenity."
The court said the city has a right to attempt to regulate crime, but that the city's witnesses in the district court trial "admitted on cross examination that there was no hard evidence of any greater crime problem in topless bars than in non-topless ones."
"Because of this potential for infringement on protected expression, we must require the government to show that its interest in regulating such activity is based on something other than a desire to censor the communication because of the community's dislike of its content," said the ruling.

Man Who Broke Wife's Face Pleads Guilty

A Maitland man who beat his estranged wife, causing "great bodily injury to her face," has pleaded guilty to aggravated battery and will probably serve two months in the Seminole County jail on top of six months he is already serving.
Patrick Proso, 38, entered the plea before Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis Jr. who set June 27 for sentencing in exchange for the guilty plea, the state agreed to recommend to Davis that Proso serve two months in jail, according to prosecutor Steve Laurence. Davis is not bound by the recommendation.

Proso began serving six months in jail immediately after the Jan. 14 assault because he was under a restraining order at the time not to go near his wife.
According to court records, deputies met with Proso's wife,

Nancy Pennell, 44, of 2100 Howell Branch Road #3, at a service station near her home. They reported her face had been beaten and she was transported to Winter Park Memorial Hospital. She had several broken bones in her face, according to court records.
Ms. Pennell told deputies her estranged husband kicked in the door to her apartment around 3 a.m. and beat her.

Deputies went to Ms. Pennell's apartment and found Proso asleep on a couch.
Laurence said the state dropped two charges — false imprisonment and kidnapping — in exchange for the plea because the victim is considering a reconciliation and doesn't want Proso in prison.

Fish Good For Heart, Arthritis And Asthma

BOSTON (UPI) — A diet rich in seafood may prevent heart attacks and lessen the effects of rheumatoid arthritis and asthma, say medical researchers.
When the fatty acids contained in fish, as opposed to those contained in meat, are digested they form chemicals less prone to clot blood and cause inflammation.
The healthful effects of eating fish were first found in Eskimos and the Japanese, but three new studies, published in the current issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, provide convincing laboratory evidence.
"On the basis of the epidemiologic and experimental data available, it seems justifiable to include a recommendation for one or two fish dishes a week in dietary guidelines for the prevention of coronary heart disease," concluded the largest of the three studies.
That study, conducted by researchers at the University of Leiden in the Netherlands, compared the diets of 852 men over 20 years with their risk of heart disease. It found that men who ate more than one ounce of fish a day were half as likely to suffer a heart attack.
A second study, conducted by researchers at the Oregon Health Sciences University, found a diet rich in fish oil reduces dangerously high levels of "bad" fats, called triglycerides, which along with cholesterol seem to increase the risk of heart disease.
The doctors were surprised to find that high-fat fish, such as salmon and tuna, as well as low-fat fish, such as cod and flounder, are equally effective. In the past, doctors had only recommended their patients eat low-fat fish.

	BEEF	PORK	ROAST CHICKEN	FLounder

(Source: U.S. Department of Agriculture, National Live Stock and Meat Board)

While fish is lower in cholesterol and calories than red meat, it is not as nutritious. But fish may help prevent heart attacks.
The third study, conducted at Boston's Brigham and Women's Hospital, had seven volunteers eat a diet high in fish fat for six weeks. The study found the diet may have an anti-inflammatory effect on tissue in many areas of the body.
The discovery was the first time researchers had found a potential way of influencing this type of swelling caused by the human immune system.
Although the volunteers were all healthy, Dr. Frank Austen, chairman of Brigham and Women's department of immunology, said the finding could have important implications for people with rheumatoid arthritis and asthma. Rheumatoid arthritis results when joint linings become swollen and inflamed. In asthma, the lining of lung airways become swollen.

Longwood Hires City Planner; Looking For Finance Director

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer
Longwood has found a new city planner, but is still looking for a finance director.
Christian "Chris" Nagle, community planner for the city of Gainesville, has been hired as city planner to replace Geri Zambri, who is now city clerk.
Former city clerk Don Terry, recently named city administrator, chose Nagle from 13 applicants. The new full-time planner will begin work on May 27 at an annual salary of $22,000.
Nagle's responsibilities with Gainesville included revision of the city's comprehensive plan and community development block grant program planning and administration. He has more than five years of planning experience in a broad range of areas including subdivision and site plan review, growth management, housing rehabilitation and zoning administration.

Nagle received his masters degree in urban and regional planning from University of Florida in August 1984, when he was named Gainesville's community planner. He graduated cum laude from Florida Technological University in the University of Central Florida in 1978 with a bachelor's degree in business administration.
Prior to going to work for Gainesville as a planning intern in 1982, he was urban planner for Pasadena, Texas, and Palm Bay, Fla., and an engineering aide for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, Kennedy Space Center.
Terry said that he received 17 applications for the job of finance director, but considered only two as qualified to meet Longwood's needs. Interviewed last week, he said the two were asking for more money than the $22,000 to $25,000 range set by the city commission. One was asking for $33,000, while the other wanted $32,000 plus $1,500 for moving expenses.

Terry asked the commission for "more flexibility" in negotiating the salary, but instead was told by Mayor Harvey Smerilison, "Give it another shot at advertising and if you find someone who you feel is really qualified and is asking more than the $25,000 maximum come back to us."
Terry has set a May 24 deadline for submitting applications and said he hopes to hire a financial director in time to work on the city's budget for the coming fiscal year which begins Oct. 1. The various department heads are already preparing their budget requests to be turned into a report by May 31. Terry is required to submit the budget to the commission on or before July 1.

If a financial director can't be found in time, Terry said consultants are available in the area, if needed, to assist with preparing the budget.
Terry is currently serving as finance director with Flo Downey as assistant finance director. The city commission authorized the hiring of a full-time finance director on Terry's recommendation when he interviewed for the job of city administrator on April 6.
"I have felt the need of a separate finance director who has a degree in accounting and could put together the budget package and monitor investments and the capital budget and give financial advice," Terry said.
Terry said he prefers someone with expertise to serve as personnel director and data processor as well as finance director.

Ex-Commissioner Gets No Sympathy From County

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The majority of the Seminole County Commission has turned a deaf ear to pleas from ex-county commissioner Sidney L. Vihlen Jr. for sewer capacity so that construction can begin on his Red Bug Pointe subdivision and bank foreclosure on the property can be averted.

At Tuesday's commission meeting, Vihlen claimed that he was not properly notified of a deadline to confirm his desire for sewer capacity at Orlando's Iron Bridge regional sewer plant.

Although Vihlen's project was on a waiting list, he was passed over for the capacity because he did not respond to a 72-hour warning notice from the county's Department of Environmental Services to confirm the need for capacity by the April 29 deadline.

Vihlen said a certified letter was sent by the county to his former office in Cranes Roost Office Park, Altamonte Springs, when it should have been sent to the office he has on Vihlen Road in Sanford.

While Commissioners Barbara Christensen and Fred Streetman sympathized with Vihlen's plight, their effort to grant him a minimum amount of sewage capacity for Red Bug Pointe and to the developer of Fern Book Trails (with which Vihlen was once associated) was voted down by the commission majority — Bob Sturm, Sandra Glenn and Bill Kirchoff.

Cindy Wright, administrative assistant in environmental services, told commissioners Monday that the notice was sent to the Altamonte Springs address Vihlen had personally provided her with.

Vihlen countered Tuesday that the county building department has corresponded with him at his proper address, 670 Vihlen Road, Sanford, three times in recent months.

Freedom Bank Vice President Dick Fess said the loan for the project was given a final two-week extension several days ago.

"There will be no more extensions," Fess said.

With the imminent release of 500,000 gallons of the 1.4 million gallons owed to Seminole County by the city of Orlando at its sewer plant near Oviedo, environmental services staff and County Administrator Ken Hooper created a procedure, approved by the commissioners, on how limited capacity would be divided up among developers.

Development in the southeast section of the county has been held up since mid-1984 when federal and state anti-pollution agencies declared that Iron Bridge is polluting the Econlockhatchee River with excessive nutrients in the plant effluent dumped into the river.

The policy approved by the commission called for developer's names to go on a waiting list to receive a maximum 54,500 gallons each of sewer capacity for the equivalent of 150 homes. Those whose developments need more would have to wait until after all 86 developers on the waiting list had received or rejected capacity before the list would be gone through a second time.

When the county was told nearly two weeks ago that part of its pledged capacity would be released soon, the department notified by certified mail developers on the list, instructing them to confirm within 72 hours that they still wanted capacity. Those who responded were told they had 30 days to pay $2,071 to the county in connection and impact fees for each housing unit in their developments.

So far, the commission has voted to grant one waiver to the policy. That waiver went to Complete Interiors of Casselberry to complete a shopping center on state Road 436 at Wilshire Boulevard. The commission placed Complete Interiors at the top of the waiting list in the hope of settling a lawsuit which the firm had filed against the county demanding that it stand by an agreement made by the former owner of a utility company, bought by the county, granting sewer capacity.

However, County Attorney Nikki Clayton told commissioners the suit still has not been settled and some 50,000 gallons of capacity is being held in reserve as ordered by the court until the lawsuit is ended either through a full blown court hearing or settlement.

Because requests for sewer capacity from developers is almost double what the county can accommodate at Iron Bridge, Hooper said some of the builders will have to be allowed to use septic tanks at their homes. And once in the tanks will be allowed to remain, he said.

Lack Of Jet Engine Spare Parts Could Affect U.S. War Effort

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Miscalculations of jet engine spare parts needs have rendered about half the spare engines for the Air Force's F-15 and F-16 fighters unusable in the event of a war, a senior Air Force official says.

"The basic problem is that we underpredicted and underbought our requirements for spare parts" for the spare Pratt & Whitney F-100 engines, Lloyd Mosemann, deputy assistant Air Force secretary for logistics and communications, said.

Eighty percent of the spare engines for the F-15 and 28 percent of those for the F-16 are unusable because they lack sufficient spare parts, Mosemann said.

The F-15, built by the McDonnell Douglas Corp., and the F-16, built by the General Dynamics Corp., are top fighters in the Air Force's arsenal.

The problem, first discovered in October, has not affected the readiness of either fighter to go to war, but it would affect the number of days both planes could be kept flying if the United States is involved in a conflict, Mosemann said.

"It doesn't mean anything" in terms of readiness, he said, emphasizing the problem does not involve engines already in F-15s and F-16s.

"The impact is not on readiness, but there is less sustainability than we would desire."

Mosemann declined to be specific about sustainability rates or the absolute number of F-100 engines that have been affected by lack of spare parts because that information is classified secret. But he said engines are being cannibalized for parts to keep F-15s and F-16s flying.

Aviation Week and Space Technology, a respected trade publication, first disclosed the problem with the F-100s.

Mosemann said the spares difficulty appears to have reached its worst level although the Air Force had predicted originally that the problem would have reached bottom in August.

A host of management and administrative difficulties, in part stemming from the spare parts scandal of two years ago and Air Force concern about satisfying Pentagon auditors, are responsible for the lack of components for the spare engines, Mosemann said.

There are about 5,000 pieces to an F-100 engine.

Because of the emphasis on competition and Air Force analyses in efforts to bring down the prices of spare parts, he said, it now takes 159 days before a part is ordered whereas it took 58 days in 1983.

At the Air Logistics Center in San Antonio, Texas, where the most problems have occurred, parts ordering that used to take 67 days now requires 168 days, Mosemann said.

Further, emphasis on competition has brought in new suppliers, which has caused "technical problems" with some of the component parts and an inability to deliver the spares on time, he said.

In addition, Mosemann said, because of previous auditor complaints about overbuying, "we have been underestimating our requests for spare parts. We are now underbuying."

Suspected Burglary Ring Leader Arrested

A convicted rapist/burglar, released from state prison in December and reputed to be the ringleader of a gang that has allegedly burglarized 80-90 Seminole County homes since January, has been arrested along with another man.

Seminole County sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said lawmen are searching for two other alleged ring members.

Undercover sheriff's deputies have had the gang under surveillance for about a month and in addition to evidence gathered during that time, Spolski said, the suspects were linked to the rash of burglaries through fingerprints.

The two arrested have been linked to a May 1 burglary on Old Lake Harney Road, Geneva, where a television was stolen and later sold at the Ice Plant on 13th Street in Sanford, a sheriff's report said. A $150 pit bull puppy was also stolen from the house next door at the same time, the report said.

The alleged ringleader, Larry Teague, 32, of 2371 Randall St., Sanford, was jailed at 10:50 p.m. Wednesday and charged with burglary and dealing in stolen property. Although he was being held today in lieu of $8,000 bond, Spolski said he expects Teague's bond to be upped to $30,000 because of his criminal history. Teague served 12 years in a state prison for a Seminole County robbery and rape, Spolski said.

Brian Keith Knight, 19, of 2441 E. 21st St., Sanford, was arrested at 6:29 p.m. Wednesday. He has been charged with burglary, grand theft and dealing in stolen property. He was being held in lieu of $8,000 bond.

Spolski said he expects the

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Stewart Abel, 48, of 2911 Red Bug Lake Road, Casselberry, reported to deputies that $150 in damage was done to signs at his business at Abel Professional Plaza and a $350 farm grader was stolen from a rear parking lot on Saturday or Sunday.

Shop foreman Bradley Smith, 24, of Hardware Marketing, Inc., of 109 E. Candace Drive, Maitland, reported to deputies that two sander/grinders worth $200 each were stolen from that business on Tuesday.

Two golf carts worth $2,400 each were stolen from Wekiva Golf Club, 200 Hunt Club Blvd., Longwood, on Saturday or Sunday, according to a sheriff's report.

Two boxes of tools with a total value of $1,200 were stolen from a vehicle parked in a warehouse lot at 223 Hickman Road, Sanford. The tools belong to Shawn J. Cronin, 25, of 2419 Cedar Ave., Sanford, and were taken Friday or Saturday, a sheriff's report said.

Cassette tapes worth a total of $260 and a $125 equalizer were stolen from the car of Therese D. Williams, 21, of Augusta, Ga., while the vehicle was parked at Fern Park Station, Fern Park Boulevard, Fern Park, late Saturday or early Sunday, a sheriff's report said.

POT PASS CHARGES

Two men who were allegedly passing and smoking a marijuana cigarette as they sat in a parked car have been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana and released on $500 bond each.

A deputy spotted the pair as they sat smoking at the Eastern service station, state Road 436 at Lake Howell Road, Altamonte Springs, at about noon Tuesday, a Seminole County sheriff's report said.

The deputy approached the car and saw one of the suspects drop the cigarette to the floor, the report said. The deputy reported finding a small quantity of pot in the possession of the suspects.

Patrick Stephenson, 32, of 2212 Bradshaw Drive, Sanford, and Billy Gehring, 18, of 14 Apollo Drive, Apopka, have been charged in the case. Both are scheduled to appear in court May 15.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Ronald Albert Johnson, 36, of 3408 Dawn Court, Lake Mary, was arrested at 2 a.m. Wednesday after his weaving car ran off U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood.

—Lawrence Dominic Fasolino, 30, of 2619 S. Elm Ave., Sanford, at 2:52 a.m. Wednesday after his car failed to maintain a single lane on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford.

River Ownership Dispute In Hands Of Court

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A land dispute between the state and several phosphate companies has its origins in an 1855 survey and could affect the ownership of thousands of miles of rivers is now in the hands of the Florida Supreme Court.

The high court heard oral arguments Monday in four similar cases that, besides ownership of river beds, could involve millions of dollars in alleged damages.

The court did not indicate when it would rule.

On one side are Mobil Oil Corp., American Cyanamid Co. and other phosphate mining firms. On the other are Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet, in their capacity as the state Board of Trustees of the Internal Improvement Fund, and Coastal Petroleum Co., which claims the state properly gave it mineral rights to the disputed riverbeds.

In the Mobil case alone, Coastal is alleging damages of more than $2 billion while the state has indicated it may seek as much as $45 million in damages.

The phosphate companies claim they and prior landowners held legal title to the disputed riverbeds and had a right to mine them under actions taken by the trustees in the late 19th century.

In 1850, Congress conveyed millions of acres of swamp and overflow lands to the state for the state, in turn, to convey into private ownership for private development.

The deeds issued by the trustees made no reference to the rivers flowing through the areas.

The state contends that although the deeds were silent on the issue, the public retained ownership of the rivers because they were navigable. Under the Public Trust Doctrine, navigable bodies of water generally are in the public domain.

The phosphate companies say the Public Trust Doctrine does not apply because the 1855 federal survey of Florida did not designate the waterways as navigable.

"These cases involve pure and simple... not the Public Trust Doctrine but an effort by Coastal Petroleum, joined by the state, to recover damages based on the mining of phosphate rock from land the trustees deduced to the predecessors of these landowners a hundred years ago," said lawyer Julian Clark, representing the phosphate companies.

Coastal lawyer Robert J. Angerer gave the court a different view: "The parties didn't pay for it (the riverbeds), didn't believe they owned it and mined it knowing full well if they were ever caught, they would have to pay damages to the state."

The state contends that the 1855 federal survey was incomplete and should not be viewed as the final word on what navigable rivers existed at that time.

Rivers potentially affected by the legal dispute include the Withlacoochee, St. Johns, Yellow, Fernholloway, Steinhatchee, Pithlachascotee and Econlockhatchee.

Picking The Right People

President Reagan's recent spate of troubles, in Germany, Central America and the Congress, point up a problem as old as the modern Presidency:

How do you structure a staff responsive to the president and yet flexible and ingenious enough to cope with constantly shifting issues?

There is little argument that the president's advisers played a large part in digging holes for Mr. Reagan in Nicaragua, West Germany and the current battle of the budget.

But this is nothing new for the White House. For more than 50 years, no president has come up with a sound way to structure his staff, select key aides or appoint Cabinet members.

Each cabinet department has personnel and budgets that exceed those of many large corporations. Yet presidents have stumbled time and again over their choices for Cabinet heads, be they industrial tycoon Charles E. Wilson in the Eisenhower administration, labor lawyer Arthur Goldberg in the Kennedy Cabinet or retired Gen. Alexander Haig, Mr. Reagan's first choice for secretary of state.

Perhaps the ideal appointment would be a man or woman for all seasons — someone who is philosophically close to the president. At the same time that person should combine such attributes as loyalty, leadership and management skills.

This is a tall order but one that George Shultz apparently fills. He is a former labor negotiator, dean of a major business school, Secretary of Labor and Secretary of the Treasury, budget director, president of a major corporation and now Secretary of State.

Such experience and ability may explain Mr. Shultz's ability to survive and prosper in both the Nixon and Reagan administrations.

It may be even tougher to fill key positions on the president's personal staff. Witness the rapid turnover in all administrations — the desire of key aides to escape White House pressures despite the power they hold through their direct access to the president.

All these factors combine to underscore the recent efforts of the president to reorganize the White House staff and Cabinet meetings.

The staff itself now operates under a single leader, Donald Regan, instead of the troika of James Baker, Edwin Meese and Michael Deaver that ruled during the first Reagan administration.

And the Cabinet will be reorganized into two committees — one for foreign policy and the other for domestic policy.

On paper, these changes look good. Certainly, one head is better than three in running any organization. This change should eliminate much of the infighting that characterized Mr. Reagan's first four years.

Patterning the new committees after the successful National Security Council should improve coordination and communication among Cabinet members and their staffs.

But in the final analysis, organization charts can do only so much. The record of this White House and administration, like all its predecessors, will be judged by the willingness of individuals to subordinate their agendas and ambitions to a team effort.

The president who can pick the right people to do that could set new standards for the most powerful office on earth.

Action Needed To Kick Economic Doldrums

WASHINGTON — Congress has always been notoriously slow to respond to economic downturns, and it's doubtful that lawmakers will act quickly enough to pull the economy out of the doldrums.

With the nation's unemployment rate stuck at 7.3 percent (it stood at 7.5 percent when President Reagan took office in 1981) and the Commerce Department reporting a drop in the index of leading economic indicators, now is the time for bold new initiatives to again make economic growth Washington's No. 1 priority.

The White House will fully turn its attention to the economy when Reagan submits his tax-rate reduction and simplification proposals to Congress later this month.

That proposal and the continuing push to enact a major deficit-reduction bill are the centerpiece of the administration's effort to kick the economy into a higher orbit of growth. But the question is: Will that be enough, and will it come in time to avert a prolonged revenue-draining economic slowdown?

The Commerce Department's latest announcement of an 0.2 percent drop in the index of economic indicators, along with a nearly 1 percent decline in new orders for factory goods, provides further evidence — if any is needed — that the recovery is losing steam.

Commerce Secretary Malcolm Baldrige's view is that in the long run, the economy's temporary lag will be alleviated by a reduced budget deficit, lower trade barriers and a pickup in economic growth abroad.

However, the Institute of Business Forecasting, which regularly surveys chief U.S. economists for banks, insurance companies and brokerage houses, bearishly forecasts a weakening of the economy in the last half of the year and the first half of 1986.

Their consensus forecast calls for an annual growth rate of 3.2 percent in the real (inflation-adjusted) gross national product in the last six months of this year, dropping to a 2.1 percent GNP in the first half of 1986. This is in sharp contrast to last year's 4.9 percent annual rate in the fourth quarter and a robust 6.9 percent growth rate for the year — the best since the start of the Korean War.

Clearly, Congress can no longer afford to sit idly by and allow the economy to further drift into a "growth recession."

FOLLOWUP: On the day my column on congressional mass mailings broke (Thursday, May 2), the Senate Rules Committee unexpectedly approved an amendment to publicly disclose the future costs of mass mailings for each senator. The panel acted about a week after the committee's chairman, Sen. Charles Mathias of Maryland, turned down my formal request for the names of all senators who excessively used the mailing privilege in 1984.

Although Mathias still refuses to disclose the names of the delinquent senators, saying that Congress is exempt from the requirements of the Freedom of Information Act, the names of future users of the mass-mailing privilege will be published.

However, don't expect this to stop the avalanche of senatorial mail at re-election time. The committee also voted to substantially expand the paper allowance, for even more mass mailings.

Florida's Bright Economy

MIAMI — The boom taking place in this region is one of the most exciting economic developments on the American scene today. New construction is everywhere in sight in the coastal zone between Miami and Palm Beach. Indeed almost all of Florida is doing exceptionally well.

While many states in the old industrial and Mid-Western farm areas are encountering economic difficulty, Florida's prospects are outstanding.

There are several elements in this happy situation. Florida benefits from the rapid movement of people into the state. This boosts income, consumer spending and construction. Florida's retirement income outranks that of any other state in the region. Tourism, though sensitive to the country's overall well-being, is a $15 billion a year business.

Florida also is doing well in terms of industry. The state's manufacturing employment grew faster than that of the nation for the first nine months of 1984. Defense contracts represent a very strong economic factor in the state's prosperity. In 1983, Florida ranked among the top three states in the value of Dept. of Defense prime contracts awards for missile and space systems and aircraft engines. Florida, with 400 defense-related businesses, will receive almost $6 billion in defense expenditures in 1985.

True, not everything is perfect in Florida. Citrus canker has destroyed nine miles of productive orange groves in Polk County. That county traditionally produces almost as many oranges as the entire state of California. The sugar industry, which represents a $1 billion investment, also faces severe problems. The world price of sugar has dropped to four cents a pound. Foreign sugar growers are heavily subsidized by their governments, and many countries, such as Cuba, dump millions of tons on world markets.

Overall, however, the sunshine, rich land, low taxes, and ongoing stream of newcomers with good incomes add up to a picture of very widespread prosperity in Florida today, with a promise of more to come in the years ahead. Unquestionably, the state will remain a very bright spot on the economic scene for decades to come.

As the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta said in its economic forecast for Florida in 1985, the situation in Florida is "Sunny With Few Clouds."

'Christmas In April' Idea Worth Spreading

WASHINGTON — Three years ago, a Washington-based Reader's Digest editor, Trevor Armbrister, flew to Midland, Texas, and wrote about a goodwill project called "Christmas In April." His story told how some 3,000 Texans — bakers and bankers, welders and waiters — had turned out to renovate and repair 84 homes for elderly or handicapped owners unable to do it themselves.

Like many a reporter, Armbrister was an immediate convert to the cause he wrote about, so he decided to transplant the idea to Washington, D.C. In 1983 some 304 volunteers turned out — enough to fix 18 homes. Churches and corporations heard about the project and contributed money and more volunteers. Last year, some 450 people showed up for the April

EDUCATION WORLD

Find A Computer

By Patricia McCormack
UPI Education Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — High school leaders without access to computers should beg or borrow one and then rocket student activities to state of art management, claims Jerry Giroux.

The head of the National Association of Secondary School Principals' Division of Student Activities says there's enormous potential for computerized wizardry revolutionizing everything from the production of the school paper to running a play, carnival or dance.

"Managing a budget, writing thank you letters to people who have assisted in an activity, or preparing copy for the yearbook all can be greatly facilitated through computers," he says.

To help student leaders to computer smarts in management, the NAASP picked the recent National Student Leadership week to send a "Computers + Student Activities Handbook" to 27,000 principals and student activities advisers.

This was in tune with the week's theme, "Moving Student Activities Ahead Through Technology."

"This guide is the first of its kind widely distributed with the availability of compatible software," Giroux said.

"It will allow students to use technology innovatively to manage their activity programs more effectively. It will also provide perhaps the most practical way for students to learn about computers."

Handbook authors — Elliott Mastie and Michele Stein of the National Student Leadership Center in New York — say a drama club can spend more time producing and presenting a play if a word processing program can eliminate hours of typing and retyping scripts.

"Accounting programs can monitor monies collected and spent by clubs, while giving each group an up-to-date statement of their available funds."

If a school doesn't have a computer, Mastie and Stein advise looking to the community.

"Try to locate someone who bought a computer but hasn't used it in a while," they say. "There are thousands of computers sitting idle in homes."

"Someone may be interested in donating such a machine to the school. In some cases, a tax deduction is possible for the donation."

Asking local business people can pay off, too. Mastie and Stein say they may like to give away old computer equipment.

A third potential source: the local computer dealer.

"Of course, the dealer would rather sell your school a machine," Mastie and Stein say.

"However, for publicity and good public relations, a donation of one machine to be used for the student activities area could be a wise investment. Offer to make a large sign and generate other publicity to spread the word about the donation."

Another way to skin the cat, if a school is computer poor: student leaders might request the school district include money for an "activities" computer in the next budget.

"Getting hardware should not be too difficult," Mastie and Stein say. "Stay flexible in your assessment of what you actually need to get started. With a little creativity and energy, any club can get access to a computer to use for its activities."

Software. What do student leaders do about software once they have gained a computer?

"Your school also probably has a collection of software," Mastie and Stein say.

"The business department is likely to have word processing software and may also have a spreadsheet. The district administrative office may have a financial package that you can use."

"Other software may be obtained through donations, or can be purchased at low cost."

Another Spacelab In July

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — The shuttle Challenger's next flight in July is another Spacelab mission devoted to a series of stellar investigations including studies of the sun, energetic galaxies and the origin of cosmic rays.

Other experiments on board include tests to demonstrate the feasibility of using liquid helium aboard the shuttle to cool infrared telescopes and a small satellite that will fly in formation with the ship to study plasma physics.

Launch currently is scheduled for July 15 from the Kennedy Space Center, where Challenger will be processed following last week's Spacelab flight.

On board will be commander Gordon Fullerton, co-pilot Roy Bridges, Story Musgrave, Anthony England, Karl Henize, Loren Acton and John-David Bartoe.

Acton, an authority in solar research, is a senior scientist with the Lockheed Space Sciences Laboratory at Palo Alto, Calif. Bartoe is an astrophysicist with the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington and the rest of the crew members are fully-trained NASA astronauts.

Unlike the two previous Spacelab flights, Challenger's 60-foot-long payload bay will not carry a habitable laboratory module.

Instead, the cargo hold will be packed with sophisticated experiment systems. The experiments will be operated by the crew from Challenger's flight deck.

The configuration illustrates the versatility of the European-built Spacelab system, which can accommodate a variety of research interests with interchangeable flight components.

Spacelab 2, as Challenger's flight is formally known, originally was to have flown before last week's mission but equipment problems forced several delays.

On Challenger's July flight studies will be conducted of small-scale structures on the surface of the sun, the abundance of helium in the sun and dynamic processes going on in the sun's turbulent atmosphere.

Three experiments are mounted on a small satellite that will be released from Challenger to gather information on plasma physics.

Mounted on a separate pallet in the payload bay will be three experiments for studies in astrophysics. One will study X-rays from galactic clusters to learn how the giant star system generate their enormous energy.

Cosmic rays will be investigated to learn more about their composition and origin.

"We have enough problems as a nation," Hayakawa wrote in a recent fund-raising letter, "without having to talk through an interpreter."

— The Marine Corps is buying 50,000 copies of the New Testament, specially produced by the American Bible Society, for distribution to the troops. What makes the edition special is the 32 "military-related pictures" used as illustrations.

A Marine spokesman explained that the pictures will be "tender" illustrations of Christian concepts, such as a soldier in a friendly pose with a baby. The new New Testaments, which will cost about $78,000, will replace older versions that contained 16 "Vietnam-era illustrations."

Congressmen: Does Justice Have A Double Standard?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic senators are "deeply concerned" about the apparent double standard of Attorney General Edwin Meese, who declined to prosecute E.F. Hutton & Co. executives for a multi-million dollar stock fraud, but who sent a shoplifter to jail for 30 days.

E.F. Hutton & Co. is one of the country's best-known and largest brokerage firms. Karen E. Hill is a shoplifter, once convicted on a marijuana charge and arrested in the 1970s for soliciting for prostitution.

Hutton pleaded guilty to a massive and elaborate fraud that allowed it to earn up to $8 million. But no official of the brokerage firm was prosecuted.

Hill was prosecuted by a U.S. attorney in the District of Columbia for lifting four sweaters worth about $200. Convicted, she was sent "to the slammer" for 30 days.

"She gets time," 15 Democratic senators said in a letter to Attorney General Edwin Meese. E.F. Hutton officials get no time."

The senators, led by Thomas Eagleton of Missouri, want Meese to explain if the Justice Department has a double standard.

They accused the attorney general of "blatant failure" in not prosecuting any individual involved in the Hutton case. "We are deeply concerned with the disposition of the case," they said.

"There were no individual prosecutions," the letter said. "That is what we take issue with."

E.F. Hutton pleaded guilty May 2 to an elaborate fraud that let the firm use millions of dollars a day of bank funds without paying interest, providing Hutton with up to $8 million in profits.

Hutton, which pleaded guilty to 2,000 felony counts of wire and mail fraud, agreed to pay $2 million in criminal fines and to cover the $750,000 used by the government in its investigation.

"Our concern about this case has only deepened by the newly revealed information reportedly offered by Robert Ogren, your top prosecutor for white collar crime," the letter said.

"He has apparently stated that Hutton's massive fraudulent scheme very likely involved checks totaling more than twice the amount initially believed," the senators said.

The letter noted that Meese explained no individuals were prosecuted because "each case stands on its own particular facts."

The senators said, "That must be how you are able to so arbitrarily decide to seek imprisonment for some but not for others."

They said "ironically" that less than a week before the Hutton plea, the U.S. prosecutor in the District of Columbia won the Hill case and the woman was sentenced to a 30-day jail term.

We believe the disposition of the E.F. Hutton case — possibly grossly underestimated in the fraudulent amount of money involved — does not bode well for the tone of enforcement, nor for the even-handedness of justice we can expect from your tenure as attorney general."

They also asked how the Justice Department can send a clear signal it is serious about white collar crime "when it lets E.F. Hutton off the hook" and sent the District of Columbia woman to the slammer.

In addition to Eagleton, the letter was signed by Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and Sens. John Glenn, D-Ohio, John Melcher, D-Mont., Paul Sarbanes, D-Md., Gary Hart, D-Colo., Daniel Inouye, D-Hawaii, Tom Harkin, D-Iowa, Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., Jeff Bingaman, D-N.M., Albert Gore, D-Tenn., John Rockefeller, D-Va., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Christopher Dodd, D-Conn.

Lemon Law

Consumer Protection Or 'Next To Useless'?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Federal Trade Commission says its used car rule, more than a decade in the making, will significantly reduce the risk of consumers being stuck with "lemons."

Carol Crawford, head of the FTC's Bureau of Consumer Protection, told a news conference Wednesday that the measure, which takes effect today, will provide potential buyers needed information in the form of a legal document.

That document, a window sticker, will describe the terms of any warranty offered, warn that spoken promises are difficult to enforce and suggest that consumers have an independent inspection of the vehicle before purchase.

Crawford rejected complaints that the measure was gutted last year when the FTC eliminated a proposal that would have required dealers to disclose known defects. She said the provision would have been difficult to enforce, create confusion and give consumers a false sense of security — one based on the dealer's assessment of the automobile.

Amanda Pedersen, the bureau's deputy director, said the FTC's used car rule will "reduce the risks of buying a used car."

Pedersen said, "the risks should be reduced significantly." The FTC said each year Americans buy 10.5 million used cars from dealers.

"This is consumer protection with a whimper instead of a bang," complained Clarence Dilow, executive director of the Ralph Nader-founded Center for Auto Safety.

"It's next to useless."

The known-defect provision was shelved by a divided FTC last fall on staff recommendation.

Instead, the FTC approved a revised measure to require dealers to put the following information on window stickers:

— A warning that spoken promises are difficult to enforce.

— A statement of terms of any warranty.

— A statement of whether the dealer is selling the car "as is" and, if so, an explanation that the buyer must pay for repairs.

— A suggestion the consumer get an independent inspection before purchase.

But Commissioner Patricia Bailey said, "This rule, without the known-defect provision, is little more than a consumer education campaign masquerading as a significant industry-wide regulation."

The National Independent Automobile Dealers Association backs the new rule and recently mailed 4 million copies of FTC-approved window stickers to state affiliates for distribution.

High School Drama Production Of 'Working' Opposed

BETHEL, Wash. (UPI) — Pulitzer-Prize winning author Studs Terkel says he is shocked by efforts of a citizens group to stop production of a high school play based on his book, "Working."

The group says it opposes the glorification of prostitution in the play, based on Terkel's 1974 best-seller.

The Bethel School Board will meet in a special meeting to night to discuss the matter.

Opponents, led by the Rev. Ken Doolin, pastor of South Pacific Baptist Church in Spanaway, and Jean Halverson, are gathering signatures on petitions that will be presented to the board and superintendent Gerald Hosman.

"I object to prostitution being presented as a glamorous profession, when in reality it is far from glamorous," Halverson said. "They, for the most part, were lured into their profession by such ideas as this play projects — big money, furs, jewels and expensive clothes."

The play is scheduled to open Friday at Bethel High School after receiving unanimous approval from a committee of staff, students and community representatives.

Terkel, contacted in Chicago, said, "Oh, these poor people, Don't they know that, on the contrary, the prostitute is showing how awful it is to choose that life?"

"I'm sad for those people. They obviously don't read or listen."

The prostitute is one of several characters in the play, which also features a telephone operator, a firefighter and a steel worker.

Two Top County Vacancies Filled

Replacements have been hired for retiring Seminole County Engineer Bill Bush and for the planning director's slot vacant since Woody Price was named deputy county administrator a month ago.

County Commissioners Tuesday confirmed the appointments of Tony Vanderworp, assistant county planner, to the director's post effective immediately, and of Jerry McCollum as county engineer, effective May 20.

Bush, 62, is slated to retire June 30 after 23 years service. During the intervening six weeks he will be working with McCollum to familiarize him with the workings of the county engineering office.

An Orlando resident, McCollum holds a degree in civil engineering from the University of Central Florida where he graduated in 1972. From '72 until 1978 he worked in various positions for the state Department of Transportation and since then has been working for private engineering firms.

His salary will be $44,990 a year.

Vanderworp has been employed by the county as assistant planner for the past three years. His annual salary in that job was $28,142. His new salary as director of planning will be $34,153.

Big League Makes A Move On Legion As Summer Game

When it comes to summer baseball, Seminole County prep players have two alternatives — Big League or American Legion. Players, however, cannot play for both programs.

Big League is the biggest brother of the Little League Baseball program. Its age group is 16 to 18. A player may not turn 19 before Aug. 1 to be eligible.

American Legion has the same pre-19-year-old ceiling but it does not have a minimum age, according to Lyman baseball coach Bob McCullough.

In most cases, the American Legion post does not take an active part but allows the group to use its name.

For the past several years, American Legion has been the more active program. In order to give their high school players a place to hone their skills, area coaches organized summer Legion programs.

Lyman, Lake Mary and Lake Brantley will have Legion teams this summer. McCullough and his assistant, Ed Nuss, will head up Lyman. Lyman will also have an older team of its seniors and past graduates, the Expos, which will play in the Central Florida College League. Tuttle will coach Lake Mary and Mark Snell, who assists Charlotte Orioles' manager John Hart at his baseball camps, will run Lake Brantley's team.

Lyman skipper McCullough had one of the first Legion programs, dating back to 1975. At first, McCullough allowed players from different schools to participate but he said when he discovered he was helping those players while limiting the playing time of his own, he discontinued the practice and limited the program to his players, with a few exceptions.

"I don't know much about Big League. It's more tournament oriented," said McCullough. "In Legion, we're strictly worried about getting the kids game-type experience. It's more laid back. We play a lot of different kids at a lot of different positions."

McCullough said his players are assessed $25 to play and he limits his roster to 18. McCullough said he raises the rest of the money through other sponsors and also pays the players gas money when needed.

Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle, who had his first Legion program last year, said he hoped he would not have to charge for the program. "I'm going to try and raise the money," he said. "We'll just have to see how it goes." Tuttle said he would have a 15- or 16-player roster of Lake Mary players only.

Snell was not available for comment but one Lake Brantley parent said the fee for each Legion player would be "almost $200." It could exceed that figure if the team decides to play in the DeLand Firecracker Tournament, said the parent.

While Legion has been the prevalent program the past few years, there is a movement this year toward the Big League program.

There seems to be a couple of reasons for the swing. The success of Oviedo coach Howard Mable's World Series' entry the past six years has helped. And, the attention brought about by the Altamonte Springs' World Series' teams has, no doubt, added to its luster.

Ironically, Altamonte will not field a Big League entry. Altamonte president Jim Hovis said he and coach Gene Letterio could not generate enough interest in a team for this summer but he plans to go full bore for next year.

"I only talked to three people who expressed an interest," said Hovis. "That fact that Lake Mary has a Legion team and that Lyman has two teams thinned out some of the ranks."

Regardless, there will be three Big League teams in the county this year, which should offer a nice alternative to those players who are more geared toward tournament competition. That is, if their coaches allow them to play Big League.

There is no comparison between the two on an organizational or tournament basis. Big League is definitely big league. This is not a knock on American Legion. Its function, as used by the county coaches, is strictly for the development of younger players. Tournaments — except for the Firecracker in DeLand along with the district and state — are not emphasized. There is no great priority placed on league play. Prep coaches from the county, Orlando, Apopka and Winter Park play about 20-25 games.

Big League, District 14 style, is highly organized. Mable, who has taken five or six last six teams to the World Series in Fort Lauderdale, will not coach this year. He has assumed the position of assistant district administrator under sage Don Crawford. Mable will coordinate the Big League program.

One of his first moves was to add a pair of county teams. Sanford, coached by Mike Ferrell and Mike Powers, will have a team play as the Oviedo Seminoles. Since Ferrell, the coach at Seminole High School, does not have a Little League charter in Sanford, he will use the Oviedo charter as the league's second team. Lack of a playing field also forced the move, said Ferrell, whose new field behind the high school should be ready for next year.

Seminole's Relays Run Scared

Webster Says Pressure Is Always There

By Rob Laria
Special to the Herald

One false start, one drop of a baton, any kind of slip-up and it's over. A season filled with glorious efforts and big wins could be washed away.

Relay races are that scary. At Seminole High, both the girls' and boys' teams have had smashing success running those races. They carried the girls to a district title and a runnerup finish in the regional. They lifted the boys to domination in Central Florida and into strong contention for a state championship.

Yet, Saturday at the Class 4A State Meet at Showalter Field in Winter Park, the teams must perform the events flawlessly or lose.

Relay races are that important.

"All aspects of the running game are important, but relays are a little different," says Seminole girls' coach Emory Blake. "It takes only one person to mess up for everybody."

There's plenty of pressure. "A lot of girls are afraid of it mainly because they don't want to be the one who makes a mistake," Blake adds. "There are a lot of things that have to be considered."

One girl who has been able to handle is Dorchelle Webster, a freshman who runs in all three Seminole girls' relays. "I feel a little tense," she says. "I don't want to make a big thing about it, but I feel pressure — especially when I run the 440."

"I'm on the last leg and feel everything's up to me. I feel I have to get the job done."

On the boys' team junior Pat Davis leads off the 440 relay, perhaps the scariest of the relays because it is so short. He feels the pressure, too. "I feel a lot of pressure," he suggests. "You're in the lead-off — you don't want to false start but you have to get a good jump. There's pressure but it's real fun because you get to work with teammates."

Track is a sport comprised of individual performances, like a lot of other sports. The scoring, however, favors teamwork. The winning team of a relay receives 10 points. Second place in that race will get a team eight points, one more point than given to an individual event winner. That fact, emphasizes Seminole boys' coach Ken Brauman, makes relays even more critical.

Brauman adds that athletes who might not be superior individuals can work together to have a productive relay team. "We don't have an athlete who can win in the state 100 [yard dash], yet we have four people who if they run well, can score in the 440-yard relay in the state," he says.

As proof, the foursome of Pat Davis, Louis Brown, Earle Martin and Deron Thompson easily won the Region 3 440 relay, defeating second-place finisher Vero Beach by a half second — even without the services of super talent Frank Barnett, who normally runs the event.

That race clocking of 42.3 ranks the Tribe fifth in Florida. Class 4A Miami Carol City, boasting the nation's top time this year, has a 41.0.

In the mile medley relay, the Tribe ranks third in the state behind Miami Northwestern and Dillard. And, in the mile relay the Tribe is No. 1 right now, about two seconds ahead of Haleah Lakes.

That could all change, though, with one miscue. Every split second counts, so does every point and Brauman knows it. His shot at a state title is in the balance.

The girls' team, meanwhile, has also put together good numbers. In the Region 3 Meet last Thursday, it won the mile medley and mile relay and took third in the 440 relay. Blake's 440 team is perhaps one of the youngest in the state — with two freshmen, a sophomore and a senior.

He says finding the right type of athlete is the key to success. His most talented athlete is probably freshman sensation Shownda Martin, but he doesn't use her in the race, explaining that the 440 requires other talents.

"Her foot speed is not quite enough for a 110," Blake says. "She builds up her speed at the

Kroog Crosses Fingers, Wants Price To Stay Put

By Chris Flater
Herald Sports Writer

The pattern in the past few years for Ken Kroog and his Oviedo High girls' track team was he got some good young talent but, just when it was about to reach its peak, the moving van took it away.

Kroog is hoping and praying that pattern won't be the same for Kelly Price. Because, if what the sophomore standout has accomplished this year is any indication, she will most likely develop into one of the premier hurdlers in the state the next two years.

Price, a transfer from Ohio, is the only Oviedo track athlete, boys or girls, to qualify for Friday's 3A State Championships at Showalter Field in Winter Park. Prelims for Price start at 5 p.m. with the finals getting underway at 7.

In her first year with the Lady Lions, Price has broken the school records in both the 110 high and 330 low hurdles. She improved on both marks last week in the region meet by running a 15.5 in the prelims of the 110 highs and a 46.5 in the finals of the 330 lows. Price won the 330 hurdles and finished fourth in the finals of the 110s.

Kroog knew what he was getting when Price transferred to Oviedo.

"Her coach sent me her times and they were real close to our school records," Kroog said. "I had high expectations for her. I knew she'd be fairly good, but I didn't think she'd be quite this good."

Price, who also played volleyball and soccer at Oviedo High this season, is the first Oviedo girl to qualify for the 3A State Meet since Marsha Grady did it in the 110 hurdles in 1982. Grady, whose school records Price has broken this season, did not make the finals of the 110 hurdles at state.

The last Lady Lion to place at the state meet was Donna Curry who ran an 11.0 to take second in the 100 yard dash in 1979.

Track/Field

Kroog has had other standouts that, after moving away from Oviedo, went on to qualify for the state meet. One, Sue Lawson, qualified for state as a sophomore for Oviedo, but didn't place, then moved to Miami where, as a senior, she won the 440 yard dash in the 4A State Meet.

More recently, Cathie Wild, as a freshman at Oviedo, was the team's Most Valuable Athlete. A year later, she moved to the Lake Brantley High district and, this season, she qualified for the 4A State Meet (which will be held Saturday at Showalter Field) in the 330 hurdles.

"I sure hope Kelly stays with us," Kroog said of Price. "Just getting to the state meet as a sophomore is the main goal. If she just makes the finals and places somewhere that will be a great accomplishment. And then the next couple of years she'll be a veteran."

When Grady qualified for state for the first time she was a senior. Kroog said that, in the preliminaries of the 110 hurdles, Grady was in a dead heat for fourth place in one of the qualifying heats. After viewing the videotape of the race, Grady was declared the fifth place finisher, thus didn't make the finals.

"That was a real disappointment," Kroog said. "If something like that happens to Kelly this year, she would have been there and she'll know what to do when she comes back as a junior and senior."

Although she had some unsure spots at the beginning of the season, Price has come on strong since the Seminole County meet. Kroog said Price took a trip back to Ohio during Easter break and did a lot of soul-searching.

"She had some questions in her mind early in the year after she had a few losses," Kroog said. "But she went on a trip to Ohio for Easter and she said she did a lot of thinking up there and decided that Florida is where she wanted to be. Now she knows how good she is and works very hard at it.

"She's really caught fire since the Seminole County meet," added Kroog. "She won the 330s there and hasn't lost since."

Kroog said Price's chances of placing in the state are better in the 330 hurdles rather than the 110 highs.

"She's not quick out of the blocks like a sprinter and that kind of hurts her in the 110s," said Kroog. "But she's a really strong runner and comes on good at the end of the 330s."

Friday night, Price's goals will be to reach the finals in the state meet so she can get the feel of what it's like and return a veteran next season.

"It's pretty shaky when you go in for the first time," said Kroog. "I'm in the dark as far as the other competition goes but I think Kelly will be good enough to get in the finals and place. Those are our main goals."

NATHAN'S HIT AVENGES BALL

Kevin Nathan's RBI double broke a 7-7 tie in the top of the eighth inning Wednesday as Ball Motor Line got revenge on Kiwanis with a 9-7 victory in Sanford Junior League action at Chase Park.

It was Kiwanis that prevented Ball Motor Line from winning or at least tying for the first half title and an automatic berth in the City Championship Series. Wednesday was the first game of the second half for both teams. Kiwanis tied with Moose for the first half title.

Ball Motor Line took the early lead with one run in the first and four in the second. Two run singles by John Hendrick and Billy Osborn highlighted the second inning.

Hendrick, the starting pitcher for Ball, shut Kiwanis out for four innings and Ball Motor Line took a Shutouts in the Sanford Little National League are usually harder to come by than they are in professional baseball. Teams have been known to score as many as 10 runs while getting as few as two hits.

Demetry Beamon pitched a rare shutout Wednesday as he blanked Cardinal Industries on four hits in leading Poppa Jay's to a 10-0 victory at Bay Avenue Field.

While Beamon disposed of the Cardinal hitters, Poppa Jay's scored once in the bottom of the first then pulled away with four runs in the second. Matt Teague's two-run homer was the big blow in the second frame.

Daniel Minton had two of the four hits for Cardinal. Beamon displayed excellent control Wednesday as he struck out five and walked just one.

In Little National League action at Fort Mellon Park, Mike Dillon was 3 for 4 with a two-run homer to pace a 13-hit offensive attack that lifted First Federal to a 13-7 victory over Rinker.

7-1 lead into the bottom of the sixth.

Kiwanis then rallied for six runs on three hits to tie the score at 7-7. Key hits in the inning included an RBI double by Lenard Richardson and run-scoring singles by Bernard Mitchell and Julius Bennett.

In Wednesday's second game at Chase Park, Blake Smith led a 12-hit offensive attack that propelled Elks to a 15-10 victory over still winless Rotary.

Elks now stand at 1-1 in the second half and 7-5 overall while Rotary dropped to 0-2 in the second half and 0-12 for the season.

Smith rapped three singles, drove in two runs and scored three to lead Elks at the plate. Willie "Sugar Tex" McCloud added a pair of doubles while Ty Koke and Von Eric Small added two hits each.

Earl Williams led Rotary with a pair of triples while Henry Williams smacked an inside-the-park homer. Robert Whitaker was 1 for 1 with a two-run double.

Lake Mary Selects Cheerleading Squads For 1985-86 School Year

The Lake Mary cheerleaders for the 1985-86 school year have been selected. Evon Liale, cheerleading sponsor, announced Wednesday.

The varsity squad includes: Amy Adams, Meghan Arnold, Kimberly Bridgers, Kristi Derato, Monica Frakes, D'Ann Haynes (captain), Michele Krallinger, Jennifer Randall, Tobey Roberson, Julie Roberts, Kristin Ruechert and Mary Beth Willis.

The varsity will make its first appearance at the Red and Grey Spring Game at Lake Mary on Friday, May 17 at 7:30. It will also cheer the Lake Brantley Jamboree Friday, May 31 at 8 p.m.

The junior varsity squad will consist of Jaylene Anderson, Kerrie Calloway (captain), Tonya Colvin, Lisa French, Charlene Garrett, Denise Indersoll, Kara Miller, Janice Parris, Leslie Parris, Brittany Rockett, Melody Sorvas and Laurie Stvan.

The freshman squad, which was chosen from the five Lake Mary feeder schools, consists of Teya Albertini, Lisa Clontz, Cristin Curtin, Darcie Hollenbaugh, Renee Kise, Julie Krallinger, Michele Mandeville, Genger McKee, Kathy Messina, Kym Stewart, Rhonda Westley, and Stacy Young. The competition was stiff this year as 85 girls went out for the three squads of 12 girls each.

Swaggering Celtics Bully Pistons

BOSTON (UPI) — Like swaggering bullies, the Boston Celtics enjoy taunting opponents after knocking them down.

The defending world champions scored a 130-123 playoff victory Wednesday night over Detroit, and Cedric Maxwell said the Pistons "better have a lot of spring clothes ready when we get there (for Game 6), because they aren't going to be playing anymore after Friday."

Pistons coach Chuck Daly said the Celtics, who lead the best-of-seven series 3-2, play as good a game as they talk. "Their performance on the floor beat us, not their rhetoric," he said. "I think we're playing adequately, but we're not quite as skilled."

Few are as skilled as Larry Bird. The Celtics leader scored a playoff career-high 43 points, including 17 in the final quarter, as Boston made good on home-court advantage in their NBA quarterfinal playoff.

Hampered throughout the playoffs by bone chips in his right elbow, Bird connected on 17-of-33 shots from the floor and 9-of-9 from the line.

The winner will advance to the Eastern Conference finals against the Philadelphia 76ers. If the Celtics do not clinch Friday night, a seventh and deciding game will be played Sunday afternoon at Boston.

Duncan Surprises No. 5 Kriek

NEW YORK (UPI) — Somewhere out there is an anonymous young lady who can take at least partial credit for the biggest upset thus far at the Tournament of Champions.

The story goes back 10 years when Lawson Duncan, then in the fifth grade, became enamored of a classmate.

"She'd go out to the park to play tennis," Duncan said Wednesday following his 6-3, 6-3 upset of fifth seed Johan Kriek. "I had a crush on her so I'd go out and hit a few balls and look at her."

"One thing led to another and I became interested in tennis."

Duncan's relationship with tennis has been far more productive. He was the NCAA runnerup as a freshman at Clemson in 1984, and turned professional last fall following the U.S. Open.

The 20-year-old Duncan, who lives in Asheville, N.C., reached the final of his previous two tournaments, at Bari, Italy, and Marbella, Spain, and now is in the third round of this $615,000 tournament.

The top four seeds, led by John McEnroe and Ivan Lendl, experienced little difficulty in their second-round matches Wednesday, yielding among them a total of 14 games.

Mears' 213 Passes Guerrero

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — After setting the second unofficial speed record at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway in two days, defending Indianapolis 500 champion Rick Mears said he couldn't discern any difference between his run and Roberto Guerrero's record-setter of Tuesday afternoon.

"It's just faster," Mears said after he drove his 1985 March-Cosworth at 213.371 mph Wednesday, breaking Guerrero's record of 212.816. "The numbers are different, but it feels the same."

Tom Sneva holds the official track record of 210.689 mph.

Mears said car owner Roger Penske, clocking the run from a vantage point different from that of track officials, recorded a speed of more than 214 mph. Mears said he had to slow the car on the fourth turn of the landmark lap to stay on the course.

"I could tell heading for the pits it was a good lap," Mears said. "I got a little high in the last corner. That happens quite a bit, especially in the race because you're dealing with other turbulence."

Blue-Red All-Stars Play Sunday

WINTER PARK — Lyman, with five players, and Lake Mary, with four, dominate the entrants in the second annual Central Florida Blue-Red All-Star Baseball Classic Sunday at Alford Stadium at Rollins College. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Lyman's contingent is headed by pitcher Derek Livernois, outfielders Mike Henley and Paul Alegre, first baseman Clint Baker and infielder Kyle Brubaker. Lake Mary sends catcher Rod "C.J." Metz, outfielder Scott Underwood and infielders Kevin Hill and Ron Natherson. Lake Brantley will send catcher-designated hitter Blair Patten and pitcher Brad Dunn.

The Red stars will be managed by Apopka's Sonny Wise. He will be assisted by Lake Mary's Allen Tuttle and St. Cloud's Mike Fields.

Adult tickets are available at the gate for $3. Students pay $1.

Machnik Directs Keepers' Clinic

A free goalkeepers clinic will be held Saturday, May 18 from 9-11:30 a.m. at Lake Mary High School. Goalkeepers of all ages are welcome to attend while a coaches clinic will be held from 1-3 p.m.

The Number One Goalkeeper's Clinic is directed by Dr. Joseph A. Machnik, known as the premier instructor of goalkeepers in the United States. Machnik is a coaching staff member of the United States Soccer Federation, former Director of Operations and Referee-in-Chief of the Major Indoor Soccer League as well as head coach of the New York Arrows.

Those interested are asked to bring one soccer ball and appropriate attire to play soccer.

Black Hawks Seek An Edge

United Press International
Whether it be the smaller rink, the noisier crowd, or the return of their two injured defensemen, the Chicago Black Hawks are hoping for some kind of edge against the Edmonton Oilers.

Without it, they'll be on the biggest edge of all — a 3-0 deficit in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup playoff semifinal series.

Relays

220 then after the 220 she's very explosive.

Blake expects his relay competition to come from Jacksonville Raines, Oak Ridge and Dillard High. By no coincidence, those teams are the front runners for the overall title. Blake says that if the relays stay close as expected, the outcome could rest on the field events.

The relays, though, are where the big points are won. They're scary, they're important and they will probably decide if Sanford can crown twin champions at 4A State Meet Saturday night.

Two Tons Of Cocaine Confiscated In Record Bust

MIAMI (UPI) — A pre-dawn speedboat chase across Biscayne Bay and a broken tail light on an overloaded motor camper netted law enforcement officers a record-shattering two tons of cocaine, plus a ton of marijuana as a bonus.

Authorities said the combined street value of the drugs, seized less than three hours apart Wednesday but apparently unrelated, was $1 billion. It was the largest single-day haul in the nation's history.

A Coast Guard helicopter patrolling Biscayne Bay spotted a 29-foot speedboat running without lights about 1:15 a.m. Wednesday and called in two patrol boats.

After an 8-mile chase across the bay, the drug-laden craft approached land and three men jumped overboard. Two escaped, one was captured.

FPL Report Doesn't Fix Blame

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — Florida Power and Light has confirmed a fallen power line that electrocuted seven people in Jupiter lay on the ground for "at least an hour" before the utility shut off the power.

The report released Wednesday does not point blame for the accident, but it notes the utility has not tested an aluminum alloy stirrup clamp and conductor that may have caused a faulty connection and allowed the wire to drop.

FPL has admitted no fault in the accident, but agreed in an out of court settlement to pay survivors of the victims between $40 million and $50 million.

Over 3,000 L.A. Female Workers Get Comparable Worth Pay Hikes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — More than 3,000 female city employees will get salary increases up to 15 percent to settle a comparable worth complaint that they were being paid less than males doing similar jobs.

Mayor Tom Bradley called the plan "long overdue and fair."

The settlement, which will cost the city $12 million over the next three years, will increase individual salaries from 10.15 percent so that by July 1987 women will make as much money as men holding comparable jobs.

"This is a significant pay increase for librarians and clerical workers," Bradley told reporters, "and will send a positive signal to other governmental agencies and the private sector as well."

"This is something that is long overdue and is eminently fair," the plan resulted from a federal discrimination complaint filed by the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, claiming that females were underpaid compared to males.

The complaint, filed with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 1981, cited examples of stenographers, a female-dominated job, getting $200 a month less than gardeners, a male-dominated position.

A total of 3,900 workers — about 20 percent of them males — will get the pay boosts.

'Some Things More Important Than Law'

Man Admits Shooting Ailing Wife In 'Mercy Killing'

FORT LAUDERDALE (UPI) — A retired engineer, saying "some things are more important than the law," answered his disease-stricken wife's repeated pleas to end her racking pain by firing two bullets into her head.

"I'm sure she didn't even hear the gun go off," Roswell Gilbert, 75, told his murder trial jury Wednesday. "A shot in the head will cause a cessation of all functions in one millisecond."

Gilbert was charged with the first-degree murder of his 73-year-old wife Emily, because prosecutors said "mercy killing" is not a legal defense for homicide.

Two physicians testified Gilbert's wife of 51 years had incurable osteoporosis and Alzheimer's disease, that destroyed her mind and caused racking pain that prescription narcotics could not relieve.

The prosecution and defense are scheduled to sum up the case for the 12-member circuit court jury today.

Gilbert told the jury he shot his wife in their Sea Ranch Club condominium on March 4 because she begged repeatedly — including that day — for someone to put an end to her misery.

"Who's that somebody but me?" Gilbert asked. "I did a terrible thing, but I had to do it. I know I was breaking the law, but some things are more important than the law. The only solution to me was to terminate her suffering."

"I took the gun off the shelf, put a bullet in it and shot her. Then I felt her pulse. I thought, oh my God. I loused it up. I put in another bullet and shot her again," he said.

Dr. Marvin Fredman, a clinical psychologist, said Gilbert had "Caretaker's Syndrome," a feeling of isolation and depression common among people who care for terminally ill loved ones.

"He was constantly trying to attend to her needs," Fredman testified. "He saw his wife deteriorating and he knew her condition could only get worse. It is one of the most devastating emotional traumas a person can experience."

Then a prosecutor asked Fredman, "How many people with Caretaker's Syndrome have you dealt with?"

"More than a hundred," Fredman replied.

"How many of these have shot their wives?"

"None," Fredman said.

Hours before the shooting, Sea Ranch Club manager Eugene Hudak testified he and Gilbert attended a condominium meeting and Gilbert, tears streaming down his face, told him, "Gene, there's not a damn thing I can do. I've exhausted every avenue."

Moments later, Hudak said Gilbert's sobbing wife burst into the meeting.

"I heard her say, 'I'm in pain. I want to die,'" Hudak said. "I just saw, like if a rubber band broke in his head, he just flipped."

Court Rules Against Women Claiming Sexual Harassment

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Sexual harassment victims hoping to collect damages from their employers have suffered a major legal setback with a pair of rulings by the 1st District Court of Appeal.

Divided 6-5 on the issue, the appeal court decided Wednesday that employees who are punched, kissed, grabbed, fondled or otherwise "assaulted" by their bosses may not sue their companies for damages.

Instead, the court determined, such victims must make their claims under Florida's reformed Workers' Compensation Act, which bars negligence suits for most on-the-job injuries.

The effect of the decisions is to preclude sexual harassment victims from collecting large jury awards for damages from their employers, although they could still sue their bosses as individuals.

Workers' comp is limited to paying lost wages and medical expenses and the victims must prove that their injuries, physical or mental, left them unable to work at least temporarily.

The issue was considered on a rehearing petition by the entire court, which overturned a 1983 decision by one of its component three-judge panels. In that earlier ruling, the smaller panel had decided sexual harassment victims could mount a negligence case against their employers.

The Workers' compensation Act affords the exclusive remedy for recovery of damages arising from compensable or potentially compensable injuries falling within its purview, the unsigned majority opinion said in the key case. The majority concluded that sexually-motivated "assaults" are among the injuries covered by the act.

The dissenting judges, in a series of opinions, generally argued that the Legislature did not intend for such acts as fondling, kissing, grabbing and hugging to be covered by workers' comp.

Among the dissenters was Chief Judge Richard W. Ervin III, who said "Except for the very limited remedies available to appellants under the federal Civil Rights Act of 1984 and the Florida Human Rights Act, the majority's opinion has effectively precluded any recovery for compensation arising from sexual harassment claims in those instances where physical contact has occurred but without the victim's suffering any resulting physical injury requiring medical treatment or mental disability."

The twin rulings came on a suit filed by an Okaloosa County woman and her husband and a pair of consolidated suits filed by two female employees of a Jacksonville-area convenience store chain.

In the first case, Vicki Brown alleged that she suffered "mental anguish" because of actions by a male supervisor, Jack Blatch, at a Winn-Dixie grocery store in Mary Esther.

Brown claimed that Blatch grabbed her and that the store was aware he had committed similar acts against other female employees.

In the other cases, June Jacqueline Schwartz and Carrie Esses each alleged that Zippy Mart supervisor Bobby Adams committed a variety of assaults and batteries against them, including hugging, pinching, patting and embracing them against their wills.

This, they said, placed them in fear and caused them mental suffering.

Under the state's judicial system, the 1st DCA is normally the court of last resort on workers' comp issues. The Florida Supreme Court rarely will reconsider such cases unless the district court requests a review. The 1st DCA did not certify either of the sexual harassment cases to the higher court.

Jim Jernigan, general chairman of the Games Executive Committee, anticipates getting an immediate response if the past is any indicator.

The committee, which met Wednesday morning for the last time until October, reviewed some of the things that have gone wrong in previous Games in an effort to make things run smoother.

Martha Yancy, chairman of the talent and variety show, said a local woman had called to complain that she was so shocked when one of the contestants told a couple of jokes, which she considered risqué for a family show, so she got up and walked out.

Some committee members said they didn't think the jokes were offensive and "added a little spice" to the show.

Jernigan proposed a blue line be painted on the route of the 6-mile leisure walk to keep contestants on track. It seems sometimes the police who control traffic along the route go one way and the contestants, who sometimes go astray, another.

In another event — the 6-mile mini-marathon — it was pointed out that two of the runners crossed the finish line at the same time going in opposite directions.

And then there were the two golfers who teed off on sixth and eighth greens, but somehow missed the seventh all together.

Women's Lib apparently has its disadvantages. Extension Home Economist Barbara Hughes made an appeal for some men to help set up tables for the Hobby Show. The event is sponsored by the Seminole County Extension Homemakers club, in the Sanford City Hall. She said last year male county employees delivered more than 30 tables then sat around and watched as her Homemakers hauled the heavy furniture in and set it up. "Since we're a team, how about some help?" she asked.

"For years we've worked as a team now it's time the individual event sponsors to stand on their own feet and are responsible for making their own arrangements," Jernigan responded. Each of the Golden Age Games events has a local sponsoring business or organization responsible for arranging for the site, equipment, rules, and judging.

A likely candidate for this year's leisure walk, who in the past thought it was too much for her and didn't enter, is executive committee member Minnie Kane. Mrs. Kane breezed through the recent 12-mile March of Dimes Walk-a-thon in Sanford in three hours. As the oldest participant in the walk, she was presented tickets during Wednesday's meeting good for dinner for two for she and her husband at Poppa-Jay's.

Jernigan said the Wednesday night country-western barbecue and hoedown will be held in Fort Mellon Park and will replace the dinner-dance as the social highlight of Games week.

Gold Medal Award

Sanford Kin Finalist In Nationwide Program

General Motors of Detroit recently announced a program for General Motors employees entitled "The Chartman's Award For Excellence in Community Activities". Conducted on a 5-year cycle this is the first award of its kind.

The program is designed to recognize and honor those GM employees who perform outstanding service for the betterment of their communities through voluntary participation in civic, charitable and other activities.

Upon receipt of the program by the local branch of GMAC, a fellow employee, Susan Canfield, nominated Victoria Nathan Killins for the award due to her activities in civic, charitable and other endeavors.

Mrs. Killins has been selected on a nationwide basis as one of the 10 employees in the final competition for the Gold Medal Award.

Mrs. Killins and her husband, Dan Killins Sr., attended a reception and dinner honoring the 10 winning employees at the St. Regis Hotel in Detroit on May 1.

Her endeavors include the Local and State Board of Directors, United Cerebral Palsy of Central Florida, Inc. with whom she has been associated for some 10 years. She is an active member of the City Beautiful Chapter of the American Business Womens Association, having held several offices and was selected as the Woman of the Year. She has been associated with this chapter for 11 years. She chaired the Public Relations Department for the Regional Conference of the AHWAA covering Florida, Georgia, Alabama and Puerto Rico. For many years Mrs. Killins has been a hostess for the Miss Florida Pageant.

Victoria (Vickie) is a member and Ordained Deacon of the St. Paul's Presbyterian Church, and a past vice president of the Women of the Church and has held many other offices and committee assignments for the church.

She is an active member of the Orange Branch of the NAACP, a past member of the Church Women United of Orlando, Commencement Speaker for Orange County School Board, a sponsor of the annual appearance of "Black Seeds", a dance drama group of Rochester, N.Y. These she has done in addition to working full time for GMAC and she is equally as active on committee assignments for her employers.

Mrs. Killins, a staunch supporter of the Good Samaritan Home in Sanford founded by her grandparents, Timothy and the late Ruby Lee Wilson, is the daughter of Mrs. Thelma Nathan Mike, also of Sanford, the administrator of the Good Samaritan Home.

Only Time May Heal Chronic Ear Infections

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — Our son began to have ear infections when he was 2 months old. Whenever he quit taking medicine, the infection came back. At 7 months, he had Teflon tubes put in his ears, but he keeps having infections.

DEAR READER — He will probably outgrow his proclivity for ear infections. Teflon tubes do not usually cause allergies, so I suspect that your doctor is as frustrated as you are. Many children seem to be particularly susceptible to repeated middle-ear infections, and about all we can do is try to preserve their hearing, by using tubes and antibiotics, until the little nippers reach the stage when the internal ear vents begin to function normally.

Your son's tubes may not be working properly. If I were you, I would have an in-depth discussion with both your pediatrician and your ear specialist. Too often, doctors fail to communicate with each other about particularly difficult cases, and I think that you have the right to ask for a conference. While you're at it, inquire whether another ear, nose and throat specialist might be consulted for an opinion.

DEAR DR. GOTT — Why do people's ears plug up when they get a cold? What can be done about it and how long should they remain plugged up? Can this cause a hearing loss?

DEAR READER — The ear is made up of three sections: the external canal (where the wax is), the middle ear (a chamber that houses the bones of hearing) and the inner ear (the innermost sanctum, deep in the skull, which contains the centers for balance).

Your question addresses the middle ear. This chamber is airtight — except for one tiny vent, the eustachian tube, which opens behind the nose. During normal conditions, the pressure in the middle ear is equal to the outside atmospheric pressure. When people fly or drive up steep hills, air rushes out through the eustachian tube so as to be in equilibrium with the external air pressure. Your ears may "pop" as the decompression takes place.

Similarly, when you swim under water or scuba dive, air must be forced into the middle ear in order to equalize the increased external pressure of the water.

As long as air is freely allowed to pass in and out of the middle-ear chamber, people experience no sensation of blockage, fullness or pain.

When the eustachian-tube vent is malfunctioning, however, a pressure differential is formed; this can cause discomfort. When you have a cold, the membranes behind the nose become congested and swollen. This can temporarily close off the eustachian tube. Since the middle ear cannot now equalize pressure, you may experience a sense of blockage.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, Ohio 44101.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

At a recent team match, North-South at both tables stumbled into the rather inelegant contract of three no-trump. The heart suit was dutifully led and the defenders managed to collect five quick tricks to set the contract.

The bidding in the box suggests a reasonable way of arriving at the good six-club contract. After two no-trump, the three-spade bid not only shows four spades, but also suggests that responder's hand may not be totally suited for no-trump.

Four clubs describes a good club suit, and also implies heart weakness. Now what about four hearts? Is there any danger that the four-heart bid could be passed? Really, no. North has bid diamonds, then spades. A heart bid now absolutely must be a cue-bid of some sort.

Four spades showed the spade king, and then South heard partner bid five clubs. Is there any doubt that South should bid six? North has bid diamonds and spades, cue-bid hearts, and now supported clubs. Small slam should be easy, and it is.

What if North did not have such an unbalanced hand, but simply wanted to check for a possible four-four spade fit? My suggestion is that the partnership play that a three-club bid by North would be checking back to see if South held a four-card major, but that's a matter for you and your partner to work out and remember.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY MAY 10, 1985

Compensations that were denied you in the past will start flowing to you in the year ahead. These will include some that you thought you'd never be able to collect.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This should be a rewarding day for you where you'll get deserved recognition. There could be some material benefits in addition to the applause.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Assertive action will bring desirable results today. Be a go-getter in situations where there is something of value at stake.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) It's important today that you appreciate the fact that you have the power and wherewithal to change conditions more to your liking. Act to your advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) More can be achieved today by working in conjunction with another, rather than attempting to do things on your own. Seek out a competent teammate.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Instead of waiting to be told what to do today, assume the initiative and direct the course of events. You're a better leader than follower.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A romantic interest will be impressed and responsive to your charming and gallant ways today. The impression will be lasting.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Much enjoyment will be derived today if you work on projects or assignments that permit you to express your creative and artistic abilities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Pleasant surprises may be in store for you today in your one-to-one relationships. Even people who aren't normally cooperative will bend over backward to help you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Something that you're presently engaged in merely as a hobby or a sideline has greater potential than you realize. Turn it into a moneymaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You have a delightful gift today that will enable you to add spark and luster to social gatherings. When you enter a room, your presence will be felt.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Lady Luck tends to favor you today when you look out for the welfare of others as well as your own. Good deeds will put you into the profit column.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Better communication is possible today between you and an important friend or relative. Say what's on your mind and you'll be correctly understood.

Blood Donors Are Lifeline To Rescue Those In Need

DEAR ABBY: Please give the piece titled "What Good Is a Blood Donor" another run. I missed it the first time it ran, but several people have told me about it.

Blood donors are so desperately needed now, it seems like something we could use.

VOLUNTEER

DEAR VOLUNTEER: Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I just donated blood to the American Red Cross blood center in Poughkeepsie,

New York, and I am enclosing a piece that was handed to me on my way out.

I hope you will print it. So many people not aware of how important it is to give blood—especially now that our national blood bank supply has become critically low.

NEW YORK BLOOD DONOR

DEAR DONOR: You gave more than blood. You gave me an item that will (I hope) inspire more blood donors. Bless you.

WHAT GOOD IS A BLOOD DONOR?

A blood donor is good for people who go through windshields and red lights. For somebody with leukemia. For people being operated on. For barefoot kids who aren't careful. For people who are into fuedin' and fightin'. For people undergoing dialysis while we waiting for a kidney transplant. For people who fool around with guns. For little kids who manage to uncap a bottle of something poisonous.

A blood donor is good for people who have been badly burned. For new mothers who need transfusions. For new babies who need a complete change of blood supply. For people having open-heart surgery. For cancer patients. For people with severe hepatitis and anemia. For kids who fall out of trees or whatever. For anybody, any age with bleeding ulcers. For people who were in the wrong place at the wrong time.

A blood donor is good for people who are in a lot worse shape than most people you know.

A BLOOD DONOR IS GOOD FOR LIFE

DEAR ABBY: "Walter in Beverly Hills" was way off base when he said, "The cook is the highest paid employee in the restaurant — in fact, in the better restaurants the cook has more money than the people who eat there."

Abby, some chefs make that kind of money, but there's a big difference between a cook and a chef. A chef is a well-trained, specially schooled, high-salaried professional for whom cooking is an art — not just a job.

In case you don't know it, the most overworked and underpaid employee in the restaurant is the busboy. Everything you touch, the busboy has washed before you got there, and he'll wash it again after you leave. He gives the cook clean plates for the food, and the waiter clean silver and clean glasses. He's the one you see balancing a tray with 100 pounds of dishes on it. If a busboy makes a minimum wage, he's lucky. Fortunately, the waiters and waitresses do share their tips with him, but it's not much.

Don't get me wrong; everybody in the restaurant business really works hard and few get rich, but if there's an extra tip to be given, remind your readers to give it to the busboy.

SAN ANTONIO COOK

DEAR COOK: Thanks for the reminder. And may I remind you that sometimes the "busboy" is a girl.

Seminole High 55th Class Reunion

The 1930 class of Seminole High School met for the 55th reunion at the Holiday Inn, Sanford Marina, for a festive dinner and nostalgic get-together. There were 84 graduates in the class, according to Nellie Coleman of Sanford, with several classmates attending from out-of-state. "We had a good time," Mrs. Coleman said.

4-H Council Elects Officers

Seminole County 4-H Council elected officers for 1985-86 at the final council meeting for 1985. The County Council helps plan county wide activities and promotes the 4-H Program.

Delegates from each 4-H club in the county are elected to serve as their club's representatives on the Council.

The following were elected to serve as next year's council officers: president — Barbara Ann Bucino — Longwood, vice president — Wesley Nunery — Chuluota; secretary — Melissa Henry — Longwood; treasurer — Allison Wallace — Sanford; delegate — Jamie Bojanowski — Sanford; and Alternate Delegate — Tiffany Wallace — Sanford.

These officers will be installed at the Annual 4-H Achievement Banquet held in October.

Lunn-Krzewinski Vows Spoken

Sally Allen Lunn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lunn of Highland Calif., and Robert Anthony Krzewinski, Ann Arbor, Mich., son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Krzewinski, Fremont, Ohio, were married April 27.

The Rev. William Neumann officiated at the ceremony at St. Paul's Catholic Church in Daytona Beach and the Rev. Robert Owens, a retired minister, conducted the outdoor ceremony that followed in Ormond Memorial Gardens, Ormond Beach.

The bride wore a street-length dress of champagne crepe with a lace yoke and lace ruffle on the long sleeves. She carried a bouquet of silk lilies and baby's breath.

The attendants were Joseph Krzewinski Jr. of Virginia Beach, Va., brother of the groom, best man, and Leslie Underwood, South Daytona Beach, bridesmaid.

A reception was held at the

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Anthony Krzewinski

Unitarian Society building, Ormond Beach, following the ceremony.

The groom is a pilot for Simmons Airlines in Michigan. The bride recently completed her nurse's training at Daytona Beach Community College. They will be making their home in Ann Arbor.

The bride is a former resident of Casselberry and her father is a former Casselberry city councilman.

Director Reviews Future Of Libraries In County

Jean F. Rhein, Seminole County Public Library System Director and guest speaker at the May luncheon meeting of the Sanford Woman's Club, gave members a comprehensive overview of current and prospective library facilities in Seminole County.

In October of 1978, when Ms. Rhein began working with the Seminole County library system, Sanford was contracting for services from the Orange County library system. After years of planning directed toward construction of new libraries and overall expansion of library services, the voters, in 1982, approved a $7 million dollar construction program. New libraries will be built in Casselberry, Oviedo, Forest City, Lake Mary and Sanford.

It was originally planned to expand the existing Sanford Public Library, Ms. Rhein said, but when the opportunity arose to purchase the land behind the library, the plans were changed to include construction of a new building over twice the size of the present library. There will be greater seating capacity, a more functional children's area, more materials and an 800 sq. ft. auditorium for meetings of various kinds. The services will remain much the same with an expanded staff, she added.

The present Sanford library will be used for processing books and for technical services compatible with a centralized county system. A two-phase construction program is scheduled to begin in Sanford in February, 1986. Completion date is scheduled for January of 1987.

Ms. Rhein told club members that, as frequently happens, the new library will have adequate materials and space. The only thing that may be lacking is operating money, she said. Only if enough people express a need for expanded library services will the money be forthcoming. Libraries have low priority for funding.

Automation is expensive but is absolutely necessary if the county is to receive the desired quality services and keep up with the current and projected population explosion. Five years ago 9,000 people a month used the Sanford Library. Today, that number has jumped to between 15,000 to 18,000 per month. Fifty thousand people every 28 days use the two county libraries and the bookmobile.

Ms. Rhein told the clubwomen that library services in Seminole County are not considered "quality." Consistency in funding will be needed to achieve this goal. Ms. Rhein again emphasized the importance of making the desire for quality services known to county commissioners and expressed her appreciation of the continuing support the library program has received from Commissioner Bill Kirchoff.

The regular business meeting was conducted by Ann Brisson, president. Pat Foster introduced two new members: Roxie Bowman and Gail Smith.

Sanford Woman's Club president Ann Brisson, from left, Hazel Cash, chairman of the club's Public Affairs Department, and guest speaker Jean F. Rhein participate in club program.

House Splits Over Aid To Black Businesses

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The House has split along party lines over a proposal that would give black-owned small businesses special help in competing for state contracts.

At issue during floor debate Wednesday was the proposed Small and Minority Business Assistance Act of 1985 (H.R. 1266) which would in part create a special panel to help black-owned business compete for state contracts.

House Democrats defended the panel as a way to help blacks overcome years of discrimination. But Hispanic members contended it favors one minority group over others. On a partisan 40-67 vote, the House rejected an amendment by Rep. Rodolfo Garcia, R-Hialeah, that Commerce Committee chairwoman Beverly Burned, D-Lakeland, said would have "totally gutted" the entire bill.

A final vote on the bill could come next week.

The bill would give all small and minority-owned businesses special consideration in bidding for state contracts. However, the measure would also create a Black Business Advisory Board with $5 million in seed money to help qualified black businesses secure private loans and pool their resources on projects.

No state agency would be required to set minority quotas in awarding contracts. Rather, they would "endeavor" to reserve 15 percent of their contracts for small and minority businesses.

On a 110-2 vote, the House quickly passed a much-debated bill to stop unopposed candidates from collecting campaign contributions — just one day after a Republican bid to tack on an amendment limiting campaign contributions prompted a 90-minute haggling bout with the majority party that ended in a GOP defeat.

Rep. Pete Dunbar, R-Crystal Beach, and Tom Woodruff, R-St. Petersburg, cast the dissenting votes. Dunbar had sponsored both the doomed bid to limit campaign contributions to $250 — instead of the current $1,000 — and another ill-fated proposal to close campaign checks in a 10-minute legislative party leaders.

The House also debated and scheduled final votes on:

— HB 341, which would increase the minimum $25 value of contributions and gifts elected officials are required to report to $100, and impose a $5,000 fine on officials who fail to file financial disclosure reports.

— HB 844, which would make political candidates who lie about their opponents subject to 5 years in prison or a $5,000 fine if the slur candidate could prove the statement was intentionally false.
