Bombs drop tomorrow

SANFORD — Fear not the rumbling from the west tomorrow morning, it's just the Navy dropping real bombs at Pinecastle Bombing Range in the southern Ocala National Forest. The testing will last only one hour, from 10 a.m. until 11 a.m. Although rarely felt in Seminole County, some residents west of Interstate 4 complained last month of rattling windows.

Earth Day festivities in Sanford

SANFORD — The Sanford Scenic Improvement Board will celebrate Earth Day on Friday and Saturday with a pair of tree plantings in Ft. Mellon Park.

The event will take place on the grounds surrounding the Sanford Museum.

Friday's tree planting will take place at 10 a.m. and will be followed by a celebration of Earth Day that will include a variety of teachings and celebrations of the earth that will continue until 4 p.m.

On Saturday morning at 9 a.m. there will be another tree planted near the museum to commemorate the environmental celebration.

Accidents tie up I-4

Several related auto accidents which may have involved as many as a dozen cars tied up traffic only briefly on I-4 over Lake Monroe this morning.

Investigators from the Florida Highway Patrol said they were able to clear the minor mishaps quickly and had avoided heavy backups on the bridge at the Seminole and Volusia county line.

Until the reports are completed, however, a FHP spokesman said it is still unclear how many vehicles were involved and how many separate accidents occurred.

The spokesman speculated there was probably one accident and the others occurred as motorists tried to see what had happened in the first mishap.

FHP reported there were no injuries.

Nixon takes turn for the worse

NEW YORK — Former President Nixon suffered swelling of the brain in a turn for the worse one day after a stroke left him partially paralyzed on his right side and unable to speak.

He was listed in critical condition early today.

"One has to say his prognosis is guarded," Dr. Fred Plum, chief of neurology at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, said late Tuesday. He said the brain swelling was the most serious threat. "These are critical hours."

For the first time since Nixon was stricken Monday evening, doctors described his stroke as "major."

Rolling sentenced to death

GAINESVILLE — Serial killer Danny Harold Rolling was sentenced to die in the electric chair today for murdering five college students in a bloody crime spree that terrorized this university town.

When a child is abused

School system adopts new policy for reporting

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Because legislation enacted last year in part removes the department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) from investigating child abuse reports involving public school employees acting in their official capacity, the Seminole County school board has adopted a written protocol to deal with such situations here.

"We believe some sort of protocol needs to be put in place to deal with such situations," John Reichert, the district ombudsman noted.

All school district employees are required by law to report any knowledge of or suspicion of child abuse, neglect or abandonment to the Florida Abuse Hotline.

However, if the abuse comes at the hands of a school employee, the Hotline employees will refer the call to a local law enforcement agency. HRS no longer has jurisdiction over such cases.

"The Seminole County sheriff's office or the appropriate law enforcement agency for the location will receive the call and initiate the appropriate investigation," Lt. John Thorpe of the Seminole County sheriff's office explained. See Abuse, Page 5A

Sawyer wins Lake Mary seat on commission

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Sheila Sawyer says activities as an advocate for citizens' rights in Lake Mary will serve her well in her position as the newly-elected commissioner in that city.

Yesterday's run-off election between Sawyer and developer Patrick Callaway decided who would fill the position left vacant by A.R. "Doc" Yore who died in January.

Sawyer got 53.8 percent of the 950 votes that were cast in the balloting yesterday.

"I think this term will be very interesting," said Sawyer this morning. "I will be better able to understand what the other side...the commission goes through in making a decision that is for the good of the whole community."

Hoarse from nearly two months of campaigning, Sawyer said she will take a few days to rest and reacquaint herself with her children, whom she praised for patience and understanding during the campaign that took her and her husband away from the house on many evenings and weekends.

"I couldn't have done this without the support of my loving husband and my children through these weeks of very hard work," she said. See Sawyer, Page 5A

Sobriety tests are now 'tasks'

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — It's really just a matter of semantics, law enforcement officers say of the ruling by three Seminole County judges yesterday regarding roadside sobriety tests.

While the three judges, Fredne Hill, Marlene Alva and John Sloop ruled several roadside sobriety tests are not scientifically reliable as evidence of a suspect's intoxication, Lt. Jerry Riggins of the Seminole County sheriff's office said the changes are merely procedural.

"They are really minor changes and certainly ones we can live with," said Riggins.

The ruling stated that the tests were not scientifically accurate as final determinations of sobriety.

The tests, which under the ruling must be called "behaviors" or "tasks," can still be administered. The behaviors included in the ruling include reciting the alphabet backward, touching a finger to the nose, standing on one leg and walking a straight line.

"We can still do all those things," Riggins said. See Drunk, Page 5A

Flea market proposal draws flak

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce criticized a decision by the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission earlier this month to recommend a 458-bouth flea market at the intersection of Interstate 4 and State Road 46.

And a Seminole County commissioner said the county needs to decide whether its truly dedicated to industrial development.

P&Z members voted 4-2 April 6 to recommend county commissioners approve Seminole Marketplace in I-4 Industrial Park. The 20 1/2-acre site is north of the Cracker Barrel restaurant now under construction.

Chamber executive director Dave Farr said the proposal is contrary to the county's own economic development goals established last year. See Flea, Page 5A

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Execution stayed in Stewart case

STARKE — A federal judge has stayed today's scheduled execution of Roy Allen Stewart, convicted of the rape and strangulation of an elderly woman from a pioneering South Florida family.

The execution set for 7 a.m. EDT today was blocked Tuesday evening by U.S. District Judge Kenneth Ryskamp. Ryskamp issued the 48-hour stay less than 11 hours before the time Stewart was scheduled to die in the electric chair at Florida State Prison outside Starke.

In Tallahassee, Gov. Lawton Chiles was immediately contacted about the stay, said Carolyn Snurkowski, director of criminal appeals at the Attorney General's Office. She said Chiles was expected to reschedule the execution "probably before" the current stay expires Friday morning.

It was the fourth time Stewart, 38, had been on the brink of execution. Earlier this week, on Monday, the state Supreme Court lifted a stay.

Sex used to try to get suspect to talk

TALLAHASSEE — A lawyer for one of the teen-agers charged with killing a British tourist last fall accused authorities of using sex to try to get the suspect to talk about the murder.

An informant and two women took John Crumitie, 17, to a Tallahassee motel about two weeks after the Sept. 14 murder "with the intent of doing whatever the woman had to do to Mr. Crumitie, including having sex with Mr. Crumitie," Tampa lawyer Dwight Wells said in a motion filed last week.

Wells asked Circuit Judge F.E. Steinhilber to dismiss first-degree murder and attempted murder charges against Crumitie because of "prosecutorial misconduct."

Crumitie, who was 16 at the time of the murder, has been accused along with three other teens with the murder of Briton Gary Colley during a botched robbery attempt at an Interstate 10 rest stop near Tallahassee Sept. 14.

Colley's companion, Margaret Ann Jagger, was wounded.

Assistant State Attorney Mike Schneider in a written response Tuesday said the accusations by Crumitie's lawyer were "factually inaccurate, legally frivolous and worded to appeal to a forum other than that of this court."

He asked the judge to deny the motion.

Crew member tested positive for drugs

TAMPA — A circus train brakeman tested positive for drugs after a derailment earlier this year that killed two performers, a rail official told a federal investigative panel.

"Whether the positive drug test is causal or just coincidental is something we still need to find out," said Mike Benson, a spokesman for the National Transportation Safety Board.

The disclosure came during NTSB hearings Tuesday on the Jan. 13 derailment of a Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey circus train near Lakeland.

About five miles before the derailment, the three-member crew conducted a safety inspection of the train that turned up no problems. A wheel on one of the cars broke apart about 2½ miles before 16 cars careened off the tracks, killing a clown and an elephant trainer.

The 53-car circus train, en route from St. Petersburg to Orlando with 150 workers and 60 animals aboard, was staffed with an engineer, conductor and brakeman employed by CSX Transportation Inc.

John Williams, a CSX superintendent, testified that the brakeman flunked a substance abuse test hours after the derailment. Williams did not name the drug or identify the brakeman, who is in the company's rehabilitation program.

Orlando man faces five years, fine

CONCORD, N.H. — A former executive of American Honda Co. faces five years in prison and a $250,000 fine for his role in what prosecutors say was a $10 million bribery scheme.

Damien Budnick, 45, is the ninth former official to admit guilt. He pleaded guilty Tuesday in U.S. District Court in Concord to obstruction of justice. In exchange, prosecutors agreed to drop a charge of conspiracy to commit mail fraud.

Budnick, of Orlando, Fla., pleaded innocent in March. Four other executives also have pleaded innocent and are awaiting trial. Budnick may testify against them.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Connolly wouldn't comment on what Budnick's plea meant to the government's case against the other four.

Prosecutors say executives accepted cash and gifts from dealers, including Rolex watches, luxury cars and real estate, and defrauded the company through kickbacks from sales and advertising accounts.

Dennis Joselyn of Penn Valley, Calif.; John Billmeyer of Raleigh, N.C.; Stanley Cardigas of Laguna Hills, Calif.; and David Pedersen of Roswell, Ga., have pleaded innocent. Budnick may testify at their trials.

Budnick's lawyer, David Garfunkel, said his client was cooperating with the government but wouldn't say why Budnick changed his plea.

Budnick worked for Honda from 1985 to 1991 in Hampton and Florida. He may be required to pay restitution, Connolly said.

Interstate banking passes in defensive session for business

By ADAM YEOMANS
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida business based its successes in the 1994 legislative session more on what it stopped than what it accomplished.

Lawmakers agreed to open the state to unfettered interstate banking but failed to pass health care reforms and regulatory relief sought by business lobbyists.

Business claimed its biggest victory in the waning hours of the session when the Senate refused to consider legislation pushed by trial lawyers that could limit blame in civil lawsuits.

"Up until the closure, I think we were really looking at a very disappointing session," said Bob McKnight, executive vice president of the Florida Chamber of Commerce, one of the state's largest business organizations.

When the session started in February, interstate banking looked to be one of the hottest issues. But any dispute faded when Barnett Banks Inc., the largest Florida-based bank, and community bankers decided not to fight the legislation.

NationsBank and First Union Corp., both based in Charlotte, N.C., led the push for interstate banking so they could expand outside a compact that limited bank expansions to 13 Southeastern states for the past decade.

Interstate banking takes effect May 1, 1995 and proponents said it would lead to greater competition among financial institutions, lower interest rates on loans and higher rates for deposits.

The legislation allows out-of-state banks to buy institutions in Florida as long as their states allow Florida banks to buy institutions in those states. In addition, out-of-state banks could only buy state-chartered banks that are at least two years old.

Critics of interstate banking said Florida could lose deposits and jobs to other states while small and start-up businesses may find it tougher to get credit.

"I don't think it's a minus for Florida, it may be a plus," said Gov. Lawton Chiles.

What interstate banking lacked in fireworks was made up in the high-powered lobbying battle between business groups and the state's trial lawyers.

In 1986, lawmakers reformed the state's "joint and several" liability doctrine that allowed victims to collect damages from whomever had the money.

Lawmakers decided defendants should be held liable for the portion of non-economic damages their negligence caused. Damages for lost wages, medical treatment and other economic losses could be collected from all defendants in a lawsuit.

The new debate started last summer when the state Supreme Court ruled that anyone who was responsible for an accident that led to a lawsuit could be blamed for the accident and not just those named in the lawsuit.

The Florida Academy of Trial Lawyers proposed changing the court's ruling to limit blame to those named in lawsuits and reduce a backlog of civil suits in state courts.

Play with men, then pay, golf club says

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Women who want to play golf at times previously reserved for men will have to pay as much as men, says the general manager of country club in the Tampa area.

But that policy, designed to conform with a recent attorney general's opinion that male-only tee times are illegal, also is discriminatory, says a lawyer for two women who filed a new complaint with the state.

David Devine, general manager of the Carrollwood Village Golf & Tennis Club, says he is treating all members equally by requiring women listed as dependents, on their husbands' memberships, to pony up a $500 fee and higher monthly dues to also become members and play on Saturday mornings.

The new rule restricts those tee times to members and one guest per member. It replaced one that allowed only men to tee off at those times.

"While, yes, I want to do what is morally right, I'm in it to make sure the country club is profitable," Devine said. "I've found what I think is an untapped market."

He said the policy applies equally to men listed as dependents on their wives' membership.

It's still discriminatory because couples customarily list husbands' names first, said Rosemary Armstrong, a lawyer for two women who have filed a complaint against Carrollwood.

"On one hand, he's trying to appease women, but on the other he's trying to take advantage," she said. "To get the status of the man she has to pay more money. It's discriminatory."

Transportation chief pitches air services corp. to controllers

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Transportation Secretary Federico Pena told the nation's air-traffic controllers that the Clinton administration's plan to privatize the national air-traffic control system would modernize the antiquated equipment used daily.

"We need to change the whole culture of the ATC system to permit flexibility, ingenuity and efficiency to come to the fore," Pena told the National Air Traffic Controllers Association Tuesday. "We need to ensure that safety remains our No. 1 priority as we make these changes."

And the best way to do that, he said, would be for the NATCA to support the proposed Air Services Corporation, which would run the nation's ATC system much like Antrak runs

America's railroads.

Pena spoke at NATCA's biannual convention, held this year at the Hyatt Regency Westshore in Tampa.

In his speech, he equated the Clinton plan to reform the country's ATC system with the president's national health care plan and Vice President Gore's blueprint for streamlining the federal bureaucracy. He stressed that all of these efforts are a commitment on the administration's part to help "working men and women."

Pena told NATCA's membership about horror stories he's heard from controllers across the nation who work with outdated equipment and are hampered by lengthy procurement procedures whenever they tried to get updated safety devices.

POLICE BRIEFS

Prostitution alleged

Cynthia Mausha Huston, 21, 401 Sun Shadow, Altamonte Springs, was charged with two counts of assignment to commit prostitution by Sanford Police on Saturday.

Police report Huston offered to perform both oral sex and have sexual intercourse with two undercover officers in exchange for $20.

She was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100.

Warrant arrest

David Matthew Wilson, 22, 318 S. Palmetto Ave., Sanford, was charged in connection with warrants for fraudulent use of a credit card and with burglary to a structure. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held without bond.

Drug charges

Kenneth Van Bevan, 18, 111 River Park Court, Longwood, was arrested on drug-related charges Monday afternoon. A Lake Mary policeman reported finding an unoccupied car parked along the streetside by an Eagle Creek residence. The policeman questioned Bevan and another person who were nearby and reported Bevan allowed him to search the car for contraband. The policeman reported finding a small amount of marijuana after searching a backpack which Bevan identified as his.

Drug arrest

Kelly Arlene Armstrong, 18, 500 Oak Ave., Apt. 11, Sanford, was arrested on a drug-related charge Monday afternoon. Sanford police, investigating another matter, report Armstrong produced a "crack" pipe and three pieces of cocaine. Armstrong was held on charges of possession of cocaine and drug paraphernalia.

Aggravated assault

Wendy Ann Gredl, 23, of DeBary, was arrested on a charge of aggravated assault and criminal mischief by Sanford police Monday afternoon. Larry Link, owner of Auto World, 4274 S. Orlando Drive, reported Gredl ripped his office telephone from the wall outlet and threw it across his office, smashing it into a desk. Link reported Gredl threatened to strike him.

Domestic violence

Kelly Joe Porter, 37, 1009 E. Second St., Apt. 2, Sanford, was arrested on a domestic violence charge after his live-in girlfriend reported he slapped her during a dispute.

WASHINGTON — A new Supreme Court ruling cements retiring Justice Harry A. Blackmun's status as a champion of women's rights and offers dramatic proof of the high court's increased sensitivity to women's role in America.

Blackmun wrote for the court Tuesday as it voted 6-3 to outlaw the practice of excluding people from juries because of their sex.

Such actions by prosecutors and defense lawyers perpetuate "archaic and overboard stereotypes" about men and women and violate the Constitution's guarantee of equal protection, said Blackmun, who plans to retire from the court this summer.

Coming 21 years after he wrote the landmark Roe vs. Wade abortion-rights opinion, Tuesday's ruling establishes Blackmun as "the most vocal supporter of equal rights for women on the court," said Jane Larson, a Northwestern University law professor.

But not everyone sees Blackmun's contribution in such a positive light.

"He is not a very distinguished justice," said Michael McConnell, a law professor at the University of Chicago. "He is praised because of reaching the 'right' result in one case (Roe) and a few more will cheer this."

Some legal experts viewed Blackmun's opinion in the jury-selection case as the predictable result of his steadily increasing liberalism since Richard M. Nixon named him to the court in 1970. Blackmun announced early this year that he would no longer vote to uphold the death penalty.

The jury-selection decision also represented a logical progression for the court from its rulings starting in 1986 that barred prosecutors and defense lawyers from excluding potential jurors because of race, said American University law professor Herman Schwartz.

"Look who joined him in this," Schwartz said, adding that Justices Anthony M. Kennedy and Sandra Day O'Connor "are not exactly flaming liberals."

O'Connor wrote for the court the last time it addressed a gender-based equal-protection issue in 1982, when the court said states cannot bar men from government-supported nursing schools.

Such a policy "tends to perpetuate the stereotyped view of nursing as an exclusively woman's job," wrote O'Connor, who became the first female justice only a year earlier.

Blackmun's jury-selection opinion used several pages to criticize the court's earlier reliance on such stereotypes. In 1872, the court said states could refuse to let women practice law because their "paramount destiny" was to be wives and mothers, he noted.

But starting in 1971, Kennedy noted in a separate opinion, the high court has issued more than 20 decisions creating a "strong presumption" that gender-based government classifications are invalid.

Some of those rulings were won by the court's newest member, Justice Ruth Bader Ginsburg, who argued several cases before the court during the 1970s as a pioneering women's rights advocate.

Rodney King now seeks to punish officers

By LINDA DEUTSCH
AP Special Correspondent

LOS ANGELES — Rodney King, having won $3.8 million from the city for his 1991 beating, is now going after the officers who delivered the blows.

A jury awarded the motorist $3,816,535.45 in compensatory damages Tuesday. In the next phase of the case, starting Thursday, the jury will decide whether 14 defendants — including the policemen who beat King, bystander officers and former Police Chief Daryl Gates — should be made to pay punitive damages.

The verdict Tuesday was far below the $15 million King sought but well above the $800,000 that city attorneys said during the trial was a fair sum.

Punitive damages, which are meant to punish and deter wrongdoing, are often vastly larger than compensatory damages, which cover a victim's medical bills, pain and suffering and loss of future earnings.

King's lawyer, Milton Grimes, said the jury could add enough to bring the total up to the $15 million wanted.

"I still believe that Rodney King's psychic damages and loss of enjoyment of life exceeds any other case we have seen from police brutality, and that's why we asked for $15 million," Grimes said.

The city remained calm after the verdict, which came two years after the acquittal of four officers on state charges touched off riots that claimed 55 lives.

Joseph Duff, president of the local chapter of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said the amount awarded was "a measure of the depth of pain and suffering and the understanding that there is permanent injury to him."

"I really hope that we can now close the book on the entire Rodney King tragedy" and focus attention on racism, jobs, education and other issues vital to black residents, said John Mack, president of the Los Angeles Urban League.

King, 29, was not in the courtroom for the verdict. But his lawyer said the former construction worker and ex-convict "was not disappointed" with the amount.

"We think that this is a satisfactory result," said City Attorney James Hahn.

The verdict came on the fourth day of deliberations by a multiracial jury.

King, who is black, claimed in the three-week civil trial that white officers beat him after a traffic stop because of his race. In closing arguments, King's lawyers elevated him to the stature of such civil rights heroes as the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., Medgar Evers and Malcolm X.

Experts testifying for King said he had suffered permanent brain damage. City lawyers sought to minimize King's injuries, eliciting testimony about his drug and alcohol use and a previous robbery conviction.

King himself gave his most graphic account of the beating. "I felt like I had been raped," he testified. "I felt like I had lost half of my face. ... I could hear my bones crunching every time the baton hit me. It sounded like throwing an egg and hearing the shell crack."

He also recalled his assailants yelling racial epithets — a point disputed in the two previous criminal trials — and pointed out what he claimed was the word "nigger" in an enhanced soundtrack of the beating.

Full commission tends to business

The City of Lake Mary has a new commissioner. Sheila Sawyer was elected last night as a result of the run-off election.

For the first time since the passing of commissioner A.R. "Doc" Jore on January 27 of this year, the city will have a full commission.

There have been five regular commission meetings since Jore's death. Many items brought up for consideration could have been defeated with tied votes in the four-man group. Yet not one item was bothered by the short commission.

This is a compliment to Mayor Lowry Rockett, and commissioners George Duryea, Gary Brender and David Meador. They have proven they are good representatives of the city by studying and investigating the various issues. They also are willing to listen to what each other and the city staff has to say about a matter before casting a vote.

Now, with that fifth seat to be filled beginning with tomorrow night's meeting, we urge a continuation of this service to Lake Mary.

The citizens voted on a four-person slate during the first try for this seat in March. They then selected from the two in the run-off yesterday.

We congratulate Sawyer on the victory. Lake Mary has a great deal of growth and expansion coming in the next few years. We are pleased that the people want you as part of it.

Concern for animals

As an employee and volunteer of the Humane Society of Seminole County from 1991 to March of 1993, I feel obligated to draw attention to an issue that I believe demands immediate and drastic attention. I am referring to the lack of knowledge and education regarding animals displayed by the employees. I work for a local animal hospital. I am appalled at not only the condition of some of the animals brought directly from the shelter, but also at the ignorance of the new owners, though no fault of their own. Let me explain.

Roughly three months ago, a kitten just adopted from the Seminole County shelter came in for its free vet check. The condition of this animal was atrocious. Not only did it have Coccidia, Giardia, ear mites, and ringworm, but was five or six weeks old. The new owners knew nothing about these problems, or how to take care of the kitten properly. Now this tells me two things. First, the staff had so little knowledge that they let a six-week-old kitten go to a new home with severe problems, and secondly, they are just not educating prospective owners. One of the main purposes of this shelter is to educate the general public about the care and maintenance of animals. The couple in this case learned nothing, and were forced to return the kitten.

Unfortunately, incidents such as these are not uncommon. I have seen dogs with demodectic mange, heartworms, fleas, and countless other ailments pass through my clinic doors, all adopted from the Humane Society of Seminole County and all with owners who are totally unaware of the problems. Within the past four months, 90 percent of the kittens coming in from the shelter have ear mites, and many of the new puppy owners know nothing about heartworm preventive or house-breaking. I am astounded that simple and extremely important things like these are not even discussed! During the period of my employment, not only did we hand out material to the new owners concerning these things, but we also took it upon ourselves to be sure they really understood it. It is a shame the standards have deteriorated so greatly that the animals are now suffering.

In conclusion, I believe one of the major problems with the Humane Society of Seminole County at the present time is the lack of knowledge on the part of the employees. No one can be blamed for this oversight but the individuals responsible for hiring. One of two things must be done. Either hire new employees that have the skills and knowledge necessary to do the job right, or educate the current employees. Perhaps then the animals will have a chance to go to safe and happy homes.

I was also very unhappy to read about the expulsion of Humane Society members who were very dedicated to not only the animals but to the operation of the shelter itself. How very sad that the people who are running the society feel that they can just expel people without their even having the opportunity to defend themselves.

I am not a disgruntled ex-employee. I left the shelter for a better position. My statements are made only out of concern for the welfare of the animals at the Seminole County shelter.

The past 10, and the next 50 years

Rachel, my youngest daughter, a wonderful child who has brought joy to her parents, just celebrated her 10th birthday. And I am 60. I muse now about what happened in the world during her first 10 years and wonder what, God willing, she may have seen when she celebrates her 60th birthday.

In 1984, when Rachel was born, the Cold War was still thrashing the global currents. It seemed normal. Now it seems bizarre. What we have presently are the normal abnormalities of humankind: small wars, ethnic hatred, assassinations, recessions, epidemics, depressions.

Inflations and commercial mischief. Gone are the days of two superpowers with fleets of nuclear missiles aimed threateningly at each other.

I don't think that danger will reappear. But we ought to make sure. Serious nuclear non-proliferation should be a major foreign policy goal.

The next 50 years may not see a change as great as the end of the Cold War. It gave a boost to the concepts of democracy and markets. Those ideas, American in their current form, seem well ensconced. They will expand, albeit with turbulence. That should lead to a more prosperous world; that's what markets yield.

And a more peaceful world; that's what democracies yield.

So, to those who say we mortgaged Rachel's future by borrowing money that she will have to pay off, I say pshaw! Children today have more going for them than did children born in the '1930s (like me). We bought some of the good stuff with Rachel's future income, but it was a fine investment, for them.

Science will march on. New medicines will appear. Some diseases will become curable or treatable. People will live longer. It's a miracle of our time. But we will be relearning something we should know already: Progress is often the absence of specific miseries. It doesn't offer happiness. There are plenty of free, healthy,

My youngest daughter, a wonderful child who has brought joy to her parents, just celebrated her 10th birthday. And I am 60.

wealthy, unhappy people.

In the next 50 years, more people will be more educated. That's nice, but we will learn afresh that educated people aren't necessarily wise. Some of them are jerks. I see no solution.

We're seeing a revival of religion. It is said that an age of rationality is followed by an age of faith. We don't have answers to the important questions. That's not going to change in 50 years, or 500. I write about alleged big things I think they are important. But Rachel will learn that most of life is retail, not wholesale.

My daughter goes to a fine school. They are concerned about the environment. Not to worry. The myth is that affluence creates consumption, which creates pollution. The opposite is true. Affluence creates the means to diminish pollution.

I'm sort of a feminist. I think it's great that my daughter wants to join a baseball team. That she is thinking of becoming an architect, and that the world is her oyster. If she goes into politics, she won't be the first woman president.

America will continue to lead the world, for good and for ill, mostly for good. Leadership involves culture, influence and emulation. I can see where China or India could become great economic powers. But I can't see their culture, nor Islam's, spreading out across the world.

Those nasty, little researchers

BOSTON — She is standing in the kitchen talking to her vitamin pills. This is not something that the woman normally does.

On an average morning you might find her wrapped in the very same blue bathrobe lecturing the squirrel who has taken over her bird feeder. You would not find her having a heart-to-heart talk with beta carotene. Nor with vitamin E.

But today the newspaper that she generally takes with a cup of coffee and a chaser of little pills has dropped another dose of uncertainty into her morning regimen. The wonderful little world of vitamin supplements has been thrown into question. The A's and the E's that are supposed to protect her from the Big C may be shirking their alphabetical duty and even hastening the Big D.

In Finland they studied some 29,000 men between 50 and 69 years old who were parceled out doses of vitamins or placebos. It was suspected that the vitamins would help block lung cancer. But the smokers who took beta carotene didn't decrease that risk; they increased it. Meanwhile, those who took vitamin E mildly reduced their chance of prostate and colo-rectal cancer, but mildly increased their chance of strokes that involved head bleeding.

Swell. The woman hasn't been so appalled by revisionist medicine since the day she dumped three boxes of oatbran into the compost heap. She hasn't been so confused since she found out that "free radicals" had nothing to do with politics, and "antioxidants" were not a laundry bleach.

So there she is, at her counter, delivering a morning soliloquy to uncertainty. "To swallow or not to swallow. That is the question. 'The vitamins say nothing."

Frankly, this woman hadn't given Finnish men a thought since she met a tour group of them in the Soviet Union. In the 1980s, Finns charted weekend flights for the express purpose of drinking vodka until they passed out in what was then Leningrad.

She has no idea how many of those drunken tourists were also subjects for the study or what the interaction of vodka and beta carotene produces. Nor is it clear whether research on Finnish men who smoke has any relevance for an American woman who doesn't and is unlikely to ever be at risk for prostate cancer.

But this tale is one of an endless number of twists and turns in the plot line of modern medicine. It's what makes health care seem more like a soap opera — As The Research Turns — than like doctor's orders.

There seems to be some sort of planned obsolescence now to medical news. Today's sure cure is tomorrow's poison pellet. Fresh research has a self-by date that is shorter than the one on the cereal box.

The studies that come tumbling out of research factories do more than just debunk their predecessors. They offer up platters of unappealing options and confusing odds. Instead of getting a prescription to follow, you get multiple choices to pick from.

If you're that smoking Finn, vitamin E may help prevent prostate cancer and give you a better chance for a bleeding stroke. But if you're a menopausal American woman, estrogen may protect against heart disease and give you a better shot at breast cancer.

If you run a lot, your bones may get brittle but your heart will stay strong. If you drink wine, you could wreck your liver but lower your bad cholesterol. Which is different from your good cholesterol in ways that escape us.

Meanwhile if you go out in the sun, you may get skin cancer. If you stay inside you may get depressed. If you worry about all this, you'll get stressed out which definitely is not good for your health. And when all is said and done, disease may have less to do with your diet than with your DNA.

Is it any wonder that the woman in this kitchen hasn't yet had time to figure out Managed Health Care? It's a full-time job managing her own health care.

As for her ode to the tablets full of beta carotene and vitamin A? Well, if medicine were in the commodities market, this week's savvy investor would be buying broccoli futures and selling supplements short.

So for the moment, she'll cap the vitamins and bring on the Broccoli Breakfast Crisps and wait for the next medical installment. With luck, those nasty little researchers will keep their statistics off her chocolate.

The wonderful little world of vitamin supplements has been thrown into question.

More conservative than imagined

WASHINGTON — Supreme Court Justice Clarence Thomas is one of Rush Limbaugh's "dittoheads" who listens to tapes of the controversial radio host while he exercises at the gym.

Thomas, whose view of the world is through the lens of the ultraconservative Limbaugh, refuses to read the Washington Post or New York Times because of the "liberal bias in the mainstream media."

"They can say anything they want about me," said Thomas. In a soon-to-be-released book about the political career of his close friend, Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, "I will never read them again to see it."

In "Leading the Charge, Orrin Hatch and 20 Years of America," author Lee Roderick gained wide access to Hatch's private writings and other confidential materials. A chapter is devoted to a behind-the-scenes account of how the two men teamed up during Thomas' nationally televised confirmation drama. At one point Thomas' confirmation seemed doomed after former co-worker Anita Hill alleged Thomas had sexually harassed her — a charge Thomas vehemently denied and Hatch sought to disprove by suggesting that some of Hill's assertions may have been lifted from works of fiction.

After Hill had made some lurid charges — including that Thomas had put a public hair on a Coke can — Hatch assembled his staff and said: "I've heard that Coke can thing somewhere else. Let's find it."

Hatch's staff plumbed published books and articles for clues. Roderick writes: "His staff dug in. Several aides turned on computer terminals at their desks and began researching data banks.... Others called the Congressional Research Service at the Library of Congress and spread the word to the White House and friends.... Leads began pouring in from across the country."

Thomas broke a nearly two year silence with the media by cooperating with Roderick. He told Roderick: "I never would have made it without him (Hatch).... He was the one person on the committee who knew me very well, both professionally and as a friend."

The publication of Roderick's book coincides another confirmation process already underway as the White House seeks a replacement for retiring Justice Harry Blackmun. Hatch's role as GOP point man on the Senate Judiciary Committee, and Thomas' experience as embattled nominee, have seemed to change forever the way the process is viewed by partisans on both sides.

Thomas' nomination had an auspicious start. President Bush hailed Thomas at the time of his nomination as the "most qualified" candidate in the country. But Thomas' tenure on the court has fallen far short of that billing. He is far more conservative and far less compassionate than his administration and congressional handlers once portrayed him.

He was marketed as an example of a bootstrap success story, a fatherless black growing up poor in Pin Point, Ga., someone who abandoned plans to become a priest in 1988 after hearing a white seminarian cheer when he found out that Martin Luther King, Jr. had been assassinated. Instead, Thomas' writings and decisions denote someone who disdains the downtrodden, and is callous about protecting civil liberties.

For his part, Thomas says he's found life on the court to be fun. "I found that I loved it," he said. "It's a monastic life, and I like that.... You feel that the people of the country have entrusted something special to you.... It's a secular but a sacred trust."

Rachel Lee, 97, dies

Nurse spent life caring for others

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Columnist

GREENVILLE, MISS. — She promised to help for at least two weeks until they could find someone else. But this loving, graceful, caring nurse, Rachel Lee, stayed for 22 years as the first nurse for the Old Folks Home in Sanford.

It was in 1918 when the widespread influenza epidemic killed thousands of people who became ill and died because no one cared for them. This epidemic was a powerful influence on the young Mississippi girl becoming a nurse.

Rachel Lee was born in Magee, Miss., on Sept. 17, 1897. She grew up in the Kiefer community in a closely knit family. Her educational adventure saw her completing high school and then graduating from Hampton Nursing School in Hampton, Va. Miss Lee passed her state nursing board exam in Charlottesville, Va. in 1931 and moved to Sanford in 1940 after serving as a registered nurse in Virginia and in Mississippi at Pine Woods County Life School and Sanatorium.

This soft-spoken gentlewoman with her pleasant smile always gave her patients, friends and the community a life of service. She received numerous awards and words of praise for her dedication to her life's work — helping others.

Nurse Lee's life in Sanford began when she answered an ad for a nursing job in Sanford. Dr. Charles Parks Sr. called Mississippi because he was desperate for a nurse for the infirmary at the Old Folks Home. Miss Lee promised to help for at least two years and she remained 22 years and became Sanford's Old Folks Home's first nurse. It gave her a great feeling to be able to give the history of the abandoned landmark when plans were made to restore it and make it the Seminole County Museum. She recalled how the food wasn't always fancy but there was plenty. Residents were self-sufficient; they had a garden, orange trees, cows, pigs and chickens.

Nurse Lee retired in 1962 and lived in Sanford at 809 Sanford Ave. until she was no longer able to care for herself.

In 1991 she moved with her family to Greenville, Miss. She still enjoyed memories of her career as a nurse and the many honors she received: The "Lampighter" award from The Florida Nurses Association (recognition of registered nurses with 25 years or more in the FNA), and the Louella Dirksen Community Service Award.

Nurse Lee was a volunteer member of RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), and the American Cancer Society. She received a Distinguished Service Award from Seminole Community College "for impassioned vision and dedication to the Afro-American Society."

The dedicated nurse was an ardent, active member of the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, Sanford, where she served as a member of the LWML (Lutheran Women Missionary League). Her desire and goal was to always be a helper to mankind. She visited the sick and shut-ins at home and in the hospital.

Rachel Lee departed this life, Monday, March 14, 1994 in Greenville, Miss. Services were held March 19 at Pleasant Grove CME Church. A memorial service will be held Sunday, April 24, at 3 p.m., at the Lutheran Church of the Redeemer, 2525 Oak Ave., Sanford. Pastor E.A. Reuscher is in charge.

To cherish her loving memory are three sisters, three sisters-in-law, and brothers-in-law. She has an extended family in Sanford, a host of nieces, nephews, relatives and many friends.

"It is just a matter of how we present them in court that is at the heart of this."

The evidence gathered through the tasks is still admissible in court, he said. Three Orlando defense attorneys had asked the judges to throw out all the tests as had been done in two other Florida counties recently.

The restrictions placed on the tests make it possible for officers to "keep drunk drivers off the streets," Riggins said, while maintaining the suspect's rights to a fair trial.

The restrictions will also prevent law enforcement officers from saying that a suspect pushed or failed a particular task. "That's OK," Riggins said.

"We can present the results of the test and let the jury reach their own conclusions. We can certainly live with that."

The judges did refuse to place any restrictions on or throw out a test in which a suspect is required to follow a pen with his eyes. They said that the test is scientifically admissible in court.

Riggins believes the ruling will not hinder law enforcement officers in any way from getting drunk drivers off the road.

Abuse

Reichert will also be notified of the report by the law enforcement agency in order to receive the case number and pertinent information about the case.

It will be the school district's responsibility to notify the parents of the students involved in the investigation as to what is happening with the investigation.

The district will then be responsible for conducting an investigation with the assistance of the principal or the appropriate supervisor.

According to Reichert, the district will use whatever resources are available to them, including the appropriate law enforcement agencies, the school resource officers and the school safety officer, to follow up on the complaint.

Reichert said the investigation done is not unlike that formerly conducted by HRS. It will be, he said, thorough and designed to find the facts necessary to determine what administrative action is appropriate.

Local law enforcement agencies will be responsible for any legal action.

The investigative cycle still begins with a call to the abuse hotline (1-800-962-2873), Reichert said. The resulting investigation will be equally as thorough.

However, investigations which result in negative findings will not remain on an employee's file with the HRS.

The purpose of the change was, in part, to protect the employees while maintaining the security of the students.

"The students are our main priority," said Reichert. "Their safety comes first."

Flea

The goals included encouraging job-growth and taxbase expansion by offering incentives to several "IHP" areas in the county, including the northern I-4 corridor.

The "high-intensive use planned development" areas allowed for warehouses, assembly and other clean industry.

Farr served on the county's Economic Development Task Force, a 24-member public-private panel appointed in 1991 to establish ways to improve the county's job market and taxbase.

One of the initial major assumptions of the task force was there were 2,300 acres of undeveloped industrial land available in the county. But a review by county planners discovered only 286 acres were left for job-intensive industrial development. Farr said the loss of another 26 acres to retail space with fewer, lower-paid jobs is too much.

"To eat it up with a flea market — not saying there's anything inherently wrong with flea markets — just doesn't make sense."

Farr said chamber directors voted last week to oppose the project.

"We were kind of surprised by the decision," said Farr. "This doesn't appear consistent with the county's goals out there of developing lots of jobs in quality development. The trend out there is to create something nice with high design standards."

Another task force member agrees. Seminole County commissioner Larry Furlong said the removal of more land from the industrial inventory would be unwise.

"We need to ask ourselves how much tenacity we will have to make sure we have job-generating industry here," said Furlong. "Our whole problem historically has been our willingness to accept something less."

Furlong suggested county zoning standards should allow a narrower range of uses to discourage the continued loss of needed development.

Sawyer

Sawyer, 47, will serve the remaining year of Jore's term. She did not comment on any plans to seek re-election in the future, saying there was work to be done before that was considered.

Her first meeting as a commissioner will be Thursday.

Sawyer described her predecessor as a "very kind and gentle man" and said that she will follow in his footsteps with his main concerns of public safety (the fire and police departments) and the whole community and its needs.

"One of the reasons people encouraged me to run and that I wanted to run was that I supported Doc Jore and I believed the same things. I believe that I would be the only candidate that he would have been confident in," Sawyer said.

She promised to work hard as a commissioner and would try to maintain Jore's policy of looking at all sides of an issue before making a decision.

"I will study every issue and make a judgement based on what's best for the whole community," she pledged. "I want to ensure that the commission remains very citizen-oriented."

Sawyer is best known for her fights against the establishment which forced the city to make changes she and her supporters say were for the betterment of the city.

It was she who pushed for runoff elections in the case of candidates who do not receive at least 50 percent plus one of the votes in an election. Tuesday's run off between Sawyer and Callaway was necessitated by that change.

It was Sawyer, also, who led a petition drive in 1990 for a referendum to force the city to require all bond issues be approved by the voters. The city tried, unsuccessfully, to sue Sawyer and the others and the voters approved the referendum in 1991.

Callaway was not available for comment this morning.

Ethics of emergency-room experiments queried

By LAURAN NEERGAARD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Trauma patients often owe their lives to dramatic medical experiments performed when they cannot consent, but conflicting rules are forcing doctors to make maverick decisions about when the tests are justified.

A congressional report, obtained by The Associated Press, concluded that government regulations on when doctors can experiment on patients without their consent are contradictory and the checks and balances are negligible.

"It would seem investigators often exceed the bounds of good judgment and ethical consideration," Rep. Ron Wyden, D-Ore., wrote the chiefs of the National Institutes of Health and Food and Drug Administration.

"Uncertainty and confusion with regard to federal requirements ... could play havoc with patients' lives."

In most cases, the law allows a patient to consent to scientific research only after being fully informed of the risks.

The government does allow some experiments without consent, but the problem is determining when that is appropriate. The FDA says the experiment must offer the best hope in a life-threatening emergency. The NIH says it must pose minimal risk — no more than a routine doctor visit would incur.

The House Small Business subcommittee on regulation, which Wyden chairs, spent a year studying cases in which hospitals allowed doctors to test drugs or machines on patients who were physically unable to consent. The panel found confusion over government policy.

"I am concerned," said Wyden, who plans hearings on the topic this spring. "The subcommittee found more than isolated examples" of problems.

Among them:

• Several hospitals, without FDA permission, sidestepped standard cardiopulmonary resuscitation — CPR — and substituted a machine that pumps the chest to restart the heart. The FDA halted the tests and said further research must be on consenting patients. The subcommittee said the adults-only pump was used on children and on patients who had requested they not be resuscitated. The manufacturer, Ambu International, did not return telephone calls seeking comment.

• A hospital drew blood samples from drunken patients for up to eight hours to test blood sugar in a study unrelated to their treatment. Drunken patients generally are hospitalized that long to sober up, and drawing blood to measure alcohol-induced glucose fluctuation met the NIH's risk requirement, said Kenneth Arnold, attorney for Rhode Island Hospital in Providence. But a worker complained, so the study was stopped until the hospital writes its own ethics guidelines.

• Unconscious head-trauma patients were given an experimental drug, designed to stop cell damage from lack of oxygen, or a placebo. The NIH wouldn't sanction the trial.

Appeal filed over lashing of U.S. teen

By KENNETH L. WHITING
Associated Press Writer

SINGAPORE — An American teen-ager sentenced to six strokes of the lash for vandalism made a final plea for mercy today, but there was no sign an exception to Singapore's tough criminal laws would be made for him.

Lawyers formally asked President Ong Teng Cheong to pardon Michael P. Fay. A decision is expected within days. The date of the flogging has not been scheduled.

President Clinton spoke out Tuesday on behalf of Fay.

"It's not entirely clear that his confession wasn't coerced from him," Clinton said in Washington. Clinton earlier sent a letter to Ong appealing the sentence.

Fay, 18, pleaded guilty last month to two counts of vandalism, two of mischief and one of possessing stolen property for spraying paint and tossing eggs on cars last October.

But he said in a letter to his father in Kettering, Ohio, that he had confessed only after a beating by the police.

A spokesman for Singapore's Ministry of Home Affairs said the teen-ager's conviction was based on his guilty plea in open court, not on his confession to police. An internal investigation "revealed no evidence of police abuse," the spokesman said.

Fay was sentenced to six lashes with a 4-foot rattan cane, four months behind bars and a $2,250 fine.

Caning in Singapore consists of six lashes on the bare buttocks with a water-soaked rattan rod welded by a martial-arts expert. The lashes can tear the flesh, bloody the buttocks and leave scars.

His father said he advised his son to plead guilty to reduced charges, not realizing that the judge was going to order his son caned.

"If you're going to penalize somebody, then penalize me, and I'll take his place," George Fay said this week.

Michael Fay has lived in Singapore since 1992 with his mother and stepfather. His father, the 47-year-old president of a Dayton auto-sealant company, says his son took it hard when his parents divorced in 1984, when Michael was 9.

George Fay and his ex-wife each remarried shortly thereafter. They got joint custody of Michael, but he chose to live with his father.

Over the next few years, Fay moved his family to Kansas City, Erie, Pa.; Chicago and finally the Dayton suburb of Kettering in pursuit of his career. Fay also has two younger sons from his second marriage.

Fay described his son as bright and sociable but a bit hyperactive.

IN BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Heat gain on playoff berth

MIAMI — The Miami Heat moved within one victory of clinching a playoff spot, opening a 33-point lead in the first half Tuesday and coasting to a 126-99 win over Minnesota.

Glen Rice scored 32 points for Miami, which snapped a five-game losing streak. The Timberwolves lost their seventh in a row.

One more victory by Miami or a loss by Charlotte will clinch a playoff spot for the Heat. They finish the season with games at home against Atlanta on Thursday and at Indiana on Saturday.

Manning, Owls top Gators

GAINESVILLE — Gene Manning led the Florida Atlantic Owls to a 4-2 victory over Florida on Tuesday with a two-out, two-run homer at the top of the ninth inning.

The homer on a Shane Spears fastball pushed Florida Atlantic (27-19) to a 4-0 lead. Florida (27-13) scored its only runs on a two-run double by Kawri Brown in the bottom of the ninth.

The Owls' winning pitcher Marty Reinhardt (4-4) worked 8 2/3 innings, while the Gators' Sean McClellan (1-1) was tagged with the loss.

Hurricanes win in 11th

MIAMI — Mike Torti, who was 3-for-6 with three RBI, drove in the winning run in the 11th inning as Miami beat Florida Southern 7-6 Tuesday.

Mat Erwin was 4-for-5 with one RBI for Miami (32-9). His solo homer pulled the Hurricanes to within one run, at 5-4.

The win went to Jay Tessner (3-2), who pitched a scoreless 11th inning. Chris Wagner (3-1) took the loss for Florida Southern (39-6).

AROUND THE NATION

Magic cruise; Thomas injured

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. — Isiah Thomas tore his Achilles tendon in what was almost certainly the last NBA game of his career, a 132-104 loss Tuesday night to the Orlando Magic.

Thomas, whose upcoming retirement after 13 seasons is the worst-kept secret in the NBA, limped off the court for the last time with 1:37 left in the third quarter. He scored 12 points in 26 minutes and waged a losing battle against Magic point guard Auerence Hardaway, who finished with 25 points.

With the victory, Orlando clinched the homecourt advantage for the first round of the playoffs. It was the Magic's first win at The Palace in 10 tries since the building opened.

Marlins get best of Rockies

DENVER — Bret Barberte and Gary Sheffield hit home runs and David Weathers weathered a rain delay, leading the Florida Marlins over the Colorado Rockies 6-4 Tuesday night.

The game was stopped for 42 minutes by rain in the top of the fourth inning with Florida ahead 4-2, and Weathers (2-1) seemed to gain strength from the delay. He struck out the side in the fourth en route to retiring nine straight batters.

Bryan Harvey relieved with two outs in the ninth, two runners on base and Florida ahead 6-2. He walked a batter and gave up a two-run single to Walt Weiss before striking out Nelson Liriano for his fifth save.

Red Sox, Dodgers, Marlins, A's open with wins

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — The Sunland Corporation Red Sox, Rinker Materials Dodgers and Marlins opened the second half of the Sanford Recreation Department Little Major Baseball League season like they finished the first half, with victories.

But that group was joined by a new member to the winners' column as the First Union Bank A's scored nine runs over the final three innings to win their first game of the season, 12-11, over the Stairs Realty White Sox at Roy Holler Field.

In the other game at Roy Holler Field Tuesday night, the defending City Champton Red Sox became the first team to win nine games as Adam Frank and Bud Bennett combined on a one-hitter and the offense produced an 11-run third inning in a 15-0 whitewashing of the Cook Construction Orioles.

In the games at Lakefront Field, the Dodgers scored at least three runs in every inning and cruised to their fifth straight victory, 12-2, over the Expos; and Jhon Killingsworth and Nick Ireland combined on a no-hitter as the Marlins won their third straight game, 11-1, over the Fun World at Flea World Cardinals.

The other four teams in the league will play their first games of the second half on Thursday. At Roy Holler Field, the Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Royals (6-2) play the Fisher, Laurence, Deen & Fromang Blue Jays (2-6) and at Lakefront Field, the Freddie Howard Pirates (1-7) take on the undefeated Railroaders Cubs (8-0). Both games start at 5:45 p.m.

Contributing to the A's (1-8) attack were Chris Parra (two doubles, three runs, two RBI), Donral Jones (triple, single, two runs, RBI), Matt Bozelka (double, single, run, two RBI), winning pitcher Eddie Wells (double, single, run, RBI), Willie Bennett (double, run, two RBI), Doug Teixeira (single), Marcus Stokes (three runs), Brian Wade

(run) and James Berning (RBI).

Doing the damage for the White Sox (5-4) were Aaron Hubbard (four singles, run, four RBI), Nick Sollien (three singles, four runs), Michael White (triple, run, RBI), Joseph Blake (double, run, RBI), Mark Hicks (double, RBI), Bryon Hubbard (single, run, RBI), Danny Weyh (single, two runs), Conter Newton (single) and Donovan Daniels (run).

Powering the Red Sox (9-0) were Levi Raines Jr. (home run, triple, double, three runs, three RBI), Nick Erickson (double, single, run, two RBI), Bennett (double, single, run, RBI), Matt Mergo (home run, two runs, three RBI), Robert Robinson (home run, run, two RBI), Julius Griffin (single, two runs), Troy Drinson (single, run) and Frank and Randy Ford (two runs each).

Dennis Bridger tripled for the lone Orioles (3-6) safety.

Leading the way for the Dodgers (7-2) were Shane Burned (triple, single, two runs, two RBI), Kendall Kennon (home run, run, four RBI), Grady Hutchins and winning pitcher Brian Porter (one double, one run and one RBI each), Christian Burdick (single, two runs, two RBI), Andrew

Freshman shortstop Marnie Bernstein (sliding) was 2-for-3 with a triple, two runs scored, and two runs batted in Tuesday night to help the Lake Brantley Patriots hold off the Lake Mary Rams 10-8.

Freshman leads Pats by Rams

LAKE MARY — On a night when the Lake Mary High School softball team was feting its seniors, a Lake Brantley freshman began to make a name for herself.

Marnie Bernstein, playing in her 10th varsity game, was 2-for-3 with a two-RBI triple and two runs scored and played a flawless shortstop to lead the Lake Brantley Patriots to a 10-8 win over the Lake Mary Rams in a Seminole Athletic Conference game Tuesday night at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

"We called her up during the spring break, when we went down to Bartow to play in a tournament," said Lake Brantley coach Brian Shaffer. "She did such a good job that I decided she was no longer a junior varsity player."

Lake Mary, which committed three errors to help Lake Brantley (17-6, 7-2 SAC) score four unearned runs in the first two innings, scored three unearned runs of its own in the bottom of the third to cut the lead to 4-3.

Keyed by Bernstein's triple, the Patriots came right back with three runs in the top of the fourth inning to move out to a 7-4 lead. Nadine White-Davis led off the fifth inning with another triple to spark another three-run outburst for Lake Brantley that made the score 10-4.

The Rams (9-12, 4-5 SAC) came back again, getting three runs back on Cori Hillinski's three-run home run in the bottom of the fifth. A double by Liz Davidson and singles by Diane DuBer and Lindy Longstaff in the seventh reduced the deficit to 10-8, but that's as close as the Rams could get.

"I'll say one thing, the girls continue to plug away at it," said Lake Mary coach Jeannie Fisher. "They got back in the game and we had the tying run at the plate. But once again, we dug ourselves early. Monica (Camardese, the Lake Mary pitcher) came out throwing strikes and they (Lake Brantley) were hitting the ball. We just didn't play defense behind her."

White-Davis also had a two-run single to go with her triple. She also scored two runs. Tiffany Poppe singled twice and scored twice. Jill Soost added two singles and three RBI. Winning pitcher Annie Freeburg had two singles, one run, and two RBI. Dawn Barnes scored twice. Stacie Stuller had a run and an RBI.

With Oliver out, Reds acquire Lake Howell's Taubensee

By JOE KAY
 AP Sport Writer

CINCINNATI — Joe Oliver's swollen ankle prompted the Cincinnati Reds to trade two minor league pitchers Tuesday for Houston backup catcher Eddie Taubensee.

The Astros obtained minor leaguers Ross Powell and Marty Lister for Taubensee, who wasn't playing much behind Scott Servais. Taubensee, a graduate of Lake Howell High School, appeared in just five games, going 1-for-10.

The Reds put Oliver, a graduate of Orlando's Boone High School, on the 15-day disabled list Tuesday, retroactive to last Tuesday. He's not sure exactly how he hurt his left ankle, and the Reds aren't sure exactly what's wrong.

Trainer Greg Lynn said a sac in the ankle is swollen, but doctors don't know why. Oliver might have injured it during a play at the plate Monday night in Montreal. He felt no pain during the game, and didn't get any swelling until the next day.

Brian Dorsett caught five consecutive games while Oliver rested the ankle last week. Oliver worked out Sunday and said he felt ready to return.

But the swelling returned Monday, and he couldn't put much weight on it Tuesday. The Reds are treating the ankle with ice and anti-inflammatory drugs.

"They don't know if it's going to take a week or four weeks. It's a gray area," Oliver said. "It felt pretty good a few days ago. I think it had a bad reaction to me trying to push it too much."

It would be a major blow if Oliver is sidelined for an extended time. Last season he achieved career highs in homers (14), runs batted in (75) and doubles (28) while appearing in 139 games.

Dorsett, 33, has never appeared in more than 25 games in any major-league season. His career average is .221.

Manager Davey Johnson plans to use both catchers. Taubensee bats left-handed, Dorsett right-handed.

"I don't know if it will be a strict platoon, but I'll probably share some of the catching," he said. "Taubensee doesn't know our pitching staff."

Taubensee, 25, batted .254 with nine home runs and 42 RBIs during 94 games for Houston last year in his first full season in the major leagues. But he had a poor spring, hitting just .189, and opened the season as the backup.

He began his career in the Cincinnati organization as the Reds' No. 6 draft choice in 1988 from Lake Howell. Oakland chose him in the 1990 major league draft. Cleveland then claimed him on waivers in 1991.

Taubensee broke into the big leagues with Cleveland in 1991, batting .242 in 26 games. The Indians traded him to Houston along with pitcher Willie Blair for outfielder Kenny Lofton and infielder Dave Rohde in December 1991.

Rotary, C.L. Marine stroll in rec softball

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Scoring six runs in the top of the first inning, the Rotary Breakfast Club rolled to a 13-4 win over First Baptist in Sanford Recreation Junior Girls' Slowpitch Softball League play Monday night at Pinchurst Park.

In Senior League play, Chain of Lakes Marine blasted the Mane Girls 15-1.

The Senior League saw two games played Saturday at Pinchurst Park, Insurance World beating the Mane Girls 14-5 and Nichols scoring twice in the top of the seventh to overtake Chain of Lakes Marine 7-6.

Laketta Bryant was 3-for-3 with a home run, double, single, and two runs scored to lead the Rotary Breakfast Club. Sophia Littles added a home run, triple, and two runs. Crystal Cain singled twice and scored twice.

Also chipping in were Shavon Anderson (single, two runs), Brittny Ramay, Tasha Fisher, and Angela Campbell (each with a single and a run); and April Pearson and Lindsey Aten (one run each).

For First Baptist, Melissa Witte doubled and singled. Alanna Warren hit a double and scored a run. Mandy Priddy, Jaleana Pringle, and Amanda Legett each had a single and a run scored. Tawanna McDonald and Anna Beverly both singled.

Nina Byrd led the 17-hit attack of Chain of Lakes Marine Monday night with a home run, two singles, and three runs. Shavon Williams contributed a home run, single and two runs. Lakisha Byrd tripled, singled, and scored twice. Jasha

Higgins second in regional contest

SANFORD — B. Duke Woody Branch 147, Fleet Reserve Association recently held its annual Americanism essay contest awards ceremony at the Branch home in Sanford. Certificates of award and $50 bonds were issued to the following students:

Julia Higgins, seventh grade, Sanford Middle School; Teresa Buglio, eighth grade, New Smyrna Beach Middle School; Ken Poole, ninth grade, Lake Brantley High School; Amy Darrow, 10th grade, Lake Brantley High School; Marcia Kintner, 11th grade, Lake Brantley High School; Stephanie Dempsey, DeLand High School won first place over all and was awarded an additional $50 bond and certificate of award.

These students' essays were sent to the Fleet Reserve Associates' Southeast Region to be judged and winners have been announced. Julia Higgins won second place and will be presented with a $100 bond.

Ken Poole, Amy Darrow and Stephanie Dempsey all won third place in their grade level and will receive a $75 bond.

Although they did not have any first place winners in the regional contest, they did have four winners and the association is very proud of them.

L.L. "Red" Hulett is Sanford Branch president.

Cook of the Week

Army vet comes from family of good cooks

SANFORD — There are many times in one's life that situations will present themselves (good or bad) as well, setting goals for ourselves. Cook of the Week Auda Cross has traveled both of these paths in her life and, most definitely has applied herself to doing the very best she can at all times.

Cross attended Seminole High School and graduated in 1987. For 1 1/2 years she worked as cashier for Winn Dixie's food markets. Wanting more out of life and the chance to travel, Cross joined the Army. Her enlistment was for two years taking her to South Carolina (where she was stationed), Georgia, and eventually to Korea. There she was stationed for 1 1/2 years as a communications specialist.

Born and raised in Sanford enables Cross to stay in touch with many of her high school friends and, of course, her family. She is also the mother of an absolutely gorgeous 2 1/2-year-old daughter, Deitra. She has two brothers and two sisters with one of each, making her an aunt. Paul Cross is from Geneva. He has one daughter, Kristen, who is 1 1/2 years old. Howard Hawkins is her brother who lives in Sanford. Amy Hawkins, her sister, also lives in Sanford. Becky Lathan has two sons. Joshua is two years old and Gordon is 7 months. She also lives in Sanford.

Sid and Kathy Hawkins, Cross' parents also live in Sanford. Sid has been with the Sanford Fire Department for 20 years and Kithy, her mother, works part-time for Central Florida Educators' Federal Credit Union, (CEFCU) of Sanford. Cross, herself, has continued in the field of communications specialist, currently working for the Seminole County Sheriff's Department. "I hope to become a deputy within the next two years," she said. "At that time my daughter will be in school and I can devote all of my time to training and schooling."

Aside from cooking, Cross enjoys playing volleyball and making lace-covered photo albums with her mother. "We don't sell them or even make them with the thought in mind of making any money. We make them to give as gifts for maybe a baby shower, a wedding or just about any type of theme a person would want," said Cross. "My cooking skills were taught to me by my mother," she said. "When we were younger, Mom was always in the kitchen." Cross' recipe for Pizza Bake is a "recipe created by her mother." "This is a wonderful tasting, inexpensive and, different way to have pizza," said Cross. With the summer months and picnic time upon us once again, Cross' recipe for Bean Salad is right in line with the season. This recipe comes by way of her grandmother Clegg, who according to Cross, "is also an excellent cook."

BEAN SALAD

- 1 can sliced carrots
  - 1 can yellow wax beans
  - 1 can green beans
  - 1 can kidney beans
  - 1 small can mushrooms
  - 1 small red onion, sliced
  - 1/2 green pepper, sliced thin
  - 3/4 cup sugar
  - 3/4 cup vinegar
  - 1/2 cup salad oil
  - 2 tsp. celery seed
  - 2 tsp. mustard seed
  - 1 tsp. salt
  - 1/2 tsp. white pepper
- Drain canned vegetables. In large bowl add onion and green pepper. Meanwhile in pot, mix sugar, vinegar, salad oil, celery seed, mustard seed, salt and pepper. Bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Pour mixture over vegetables in large bowl. Cover and let stand in refrigerator 12 hours or more. Stir occasionally with wooden spoon.

PIZZA BAKE

- 3 lbs. ground beef
  - 1 medium onion, chopped
  - 1 green pepper, chopped
  - 1 pepperoni sausage, sliced
  - 2 jars Chef Boy-Ar-Dee pizza sauce
  - 8 oz. Mozzarella cheese
  - 1 Pillsbury pizza crust
  - 1 beaten egg
- In large fry pan, saute ground beef with chopped onion and green pepper. Add sliced pepperoni and simmer. Drain grease off. Add pizza sauce and simmer until warm. Pour into 13x9-inch pan. Top with Mozzarella cheese. Cover with pizza crust, pushing down on sides of pan and tucking edges. Brush top with beaten egg. Cut slits in dough and sprinkle top with more Mozzarella cheese. Bake at 350° until golden brown.

HOT DOG SURPRISE

- 1 lb. hot dogs
- 1 cup or more mashed potatoes

Begin the day with a good breakfast

When you own a microwave, there's always time for breakfast. Whether it's a dressed up grapefruit or a mug of hot cocoa, breakfast gets everyone off to a better start.

Some of these easy breakfasts are even portable. That's especially a good if you have children in a car pool.

Be a little creative, then maybe you'll find more interest in breakfast at your house.

Even the most sour grapefruit is tamed with a bit of brown sugar and cinnamon.

GLAZED GRAPEFRUIT

- 2 medium grapefruits

MICROWAVE MAGIC

MIDGE MYCOFF

- 3 Tbsp. packed brown sugar
- 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1/4 tsp. ground ginger
- Pinch of nutmeg
- 4 tsp. orange juice, optional
- 1 Tbsp. butter or margarine, cut into pieces

Cut grapefruits in half and remove the seeds with the tip of a sharp knife. Cut around each section to loosen the flesh.

In a small bowl, combine the brown sugar, cinnamon, ginger and nutmeg. Place the grapefruit halves on a large micro-safe glass plate. Dot with butter. Sprinkle the brown sugar mixture over each half. Pour 1 teaspoon orange juice over the top of each, if desired.

Microwave on 100 percent power for 6-8 minutes or until warm.

Makes 4 servings. For 2 halves, microwave for 3-4 minutes, for 1 half, microwave for two minutes.

This not-just-for breakfast compote combines dried and fresh fruits. Vary the fruits with the season, perhaps trying fresh peaches and peach nectar in summer instead of apples and apple juice. The recipe stores well in the refrigerator and is a welcome treat.

FRUIT COMPOTE

- 1 package (8 oz.) dried mixed fruit
- 1 cup apple juice
- 1 tsp. almond extract
- 1 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 2 medium apples, cored and cut into 1/2-inch pieces
- 1/4 cup water
- 2 Tbsp. flaked coconut, toasted

Cut larger fruits in half. In 2-quart casserole, combine the dried fruits, apple juice, almond extract and cinnamon.

Cover tightly with a lid or vented plastic wrap. Microwave on 100 percent power 5 minutes or until heated through.

Stir in apples and water. Recover and microwave on 100 percent power 5 minutes. Let stand covered for 5 minutes.

When serving garnish with toasted coconut.

Hint: To toast coconut place 2 tablespoons flaked coconut in a 1-cup glass measure. Microwave on 100 percent power for 1-2 minutes or until light brown, stirring every 30 seconds.

This breakfast pita pocket can be prepared the night before, then simply heated in the morning.

FRUITED CHEESE POCKET

- 1 (3 oz.) package cream cheese
- 1/2 cup dried fruit such as raisins, chopped dates, chopped apricots
- 2 Tbsp. chopped walnuts
- 2 Tbsp. shredded coconut
- 1/4 tsp. ground cinnamon
- 1 6-inch whole wheat pita bread, cut in half. Unwrap the cream cheese and place on a small micro-safe plate.

Microwave on 80 percent power 30 seconds, or until cheese is soft. Stir in dried fruit, walnuts, coconut and cinnamon, blending well.

Fill each pita half with half of the cheese mixture. Place the pockets, cut side out, on a paper plate. Cover loosely with plastic wrap and paper towel. Microwave on 100 percent power for 1 minute or until heated through. Drizzle with honey, if desired.

Makes 2 servings — can be eaten on the run!

Enjoy these easy-to-make ham and egg cups for breakfast or supper.

HAM AND EGG CUPS

- 2 slices sandwich ham
- 2 eggs

Is drug useful to stop perspiration?

DR. GOTT: In response to your reader who sweats excessively, you told him "Just accept the way he is." I say hogwash! Any knowledgeable dermatologist will prescribe Pro-Banthine for this annoying problem. After 35 years I am free of soaking perspiration because of this drug. My side effects are minimal and well worth the trade-off.

DEAR READER: While I am aware that some physicians prescribe Pro-Banthine to help control excessive sweating, I am not in favor of this practice. Although the drug does reduce sweating, it has several unpleasant side effects, such as dry mouth, blurred vision, urinary hesitancy and retention, palpitations, headache, nervousness, confusion, drowsiness, weakness, insomnia, constipation, impotence, and others.

Moreover, the medicine should not be used by elderly people or in the presence of hypertension, heart failure, liver disease, kidney disorders, hyperthyroidism, or hiatal hernia.

As you point out, patients taking Pro-Banthine must accept the side effects as a trade-off. In my view, however, the potential consequences of the medication outweigh its benefits for the average person.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a friend who is a bad diabetic. He chews tobacco and I believe it is sweet and bad for his health. Am I correct?

DEAR READER: Diabetics must avoid sugar; therefore, any substance containing sugar is prohibited. This includes smokeless tobacco. Although not all brands are sweetened with sugar, some are. Your friend should not use such products. You are correct.

In addition, chewing tobacco is not a healthful habit because it can cause cancers of the mouth and throat.

To give you more information on diabetes, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Diabetes Mellitus."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Henri Frederic Amiel, a Swiss writer, said: "Doing easily what others find difficult is talent; doing what is impossible for talent is genius."

In bridge, we call someone a genius because he or she finds imaginative and successful bids or plays that other experts miss. Today's deal, which isn't very difficult, tripped up some declarers at last year's world championships.

As South's rebid of two no-trump doesn't deny four spades, you and your partner should discuss the follow-up auctions that are used to uncover eight-card major-suit fits.

First, check your top tricks. There are seven: three spades, three diamonds and one club. Obviously, if the diamonds are worth five tricks, you are home. But as you have a sure heart trick available and your club spots are so strong, you should take a safety-play to guarantee four diamond tricks.

After winning the first trick with the club ace, you should cash the diamond ace (in case the jack is single) before leading a low diamond to dummy's nine. (Or lead immediately to the nine.) On a good day, West will play low from jack-fourth. But let's suppose East wins with the jack and switches to a spade. You win with the king and cash your diamond winners, discarding one spade and two hearts from the dummy. Then you lead the heart queen, guaranteeing nine tricks. You can lose at most one heart, one diamond and two clubs.

The actual declarer started with two top diamonds. As you can see by looking at all four hands, it is possible to recover from this false start, but none did.

Grill a tasty turkey salad to herald warmer weather

Don't be surprised if your taste buds start to perk up in May, the official start of barbecue season. With the arrival of warmer weather, meals take on a new dimension in many parts of the country. It's officially time to dust off your grill and cook outdoors.

Start your grilling season by trying innovative turkey tenderloin salad recipes, and you'll see how great turkey on the grill can be. Grilled Turkey and Vegetable Salad, Southwestern Turkey Salad and Grilled Turkey Salad with Raspberry Vinaigrette are definitely delicious treats. You can create meals with a wide range of tastes simply by using turkey tenderloins and different seasonings such as balsamic vinegar, salsa, Chinese five-spice powder, Dijon mustard — or your own favorite ingredients.

GRILLED TURKEY AND VEGETABLE SALAD

(Serves 4)
Balsamic Marinade and Dressing:

- 1/2 cup balsamic vinegar
- 1/4 cup olive oil
- 1 1/2 tsp. chopped garlic
- 3/4 tsp. dried basil
- 1/2 tsp. red pepper flakes
- 1/4 tsp. salt

In small bowl whisk together vinegar, oil, garlic, basil, pepper flakes and salt.

Salad:

- 1 lb. turkey tenderloins, butterflied
- 2 Japanese eggplants
- 2 medium zucchini, cut into 1/2-inch diagonal slices
- 1 each red and yellow bell pepper, seeded
- 1 small red onion, cut into 8 equal wedges

Vegetable cooking spray
In large self-closing plastic bag, place tenderloins with 1/4 cup dressing; seal bag. Refrigerate 4 hours, turning bag several times.

Pierce eggplants with fork. Place on paper towel and cook in microwave oven at high (100 percent power) 1 1/2-2 minutes or until eggplants are soft; allow to cool. Make 4 lengthwise slices in each eggplant, leaving stem end intact to fan slices out. In large bowl combine eggplant, zucchini, red and yellow pepper and onion with 1/4 cup dressing. Cover and refrigerate vegetables 4 hours, stirring gently several times. Cover and refrigerate remaining dressing.

Spray charcoal grill rack with vegetable cooking spray. Preheat grill for direct-heat cooking.

Remove tenderloins from plastic bag, discarding remaining marinade, and place on grill rack. Fan eggplants and place with other vegetables around turkey. Grill over hot coals 5 minutes, turn and continue cooking 4 to 5 minutes or until turkey is no longer pink in center. Watch vegetables closely to prevent burning.

To serve, slice tenderloins and peppers into 1/2-inch slices. Arrange turkey on 4 plates, surround with grilled vegetables and drizzle with 1 tablespoon dressing each.

SOUTHWESTERN TURKEY SALAD

(Serves 4)
Spicy Southwestern Dressing:

- 1/4 cup plus 2 tablespoons prepared salsa
- 2 tablespoons no-fat sour cream
- 1 tablespoon chopped fresh cilantro

In small bowl combine salsa, sour cream and cilantro; cover and refrigerate.

Salad:

- Vegetable cooking spray
- 1 package (1 1/4 ounces) reduced-sodium taco seasoning mix
- 1 pound turkey tenderloins, butterflied
- 1 large head romaine lettuce, cut in quarters lengthwise

Spray charcoal grill rack with vegetable cooking spray. Preheat grill for direct-heat cooking. Sprinkle seasoning mix evenly over each side of tenderloins. Place turkey on grill rack and grill over hot coals 5 minutes and turn. Place lettuce on grill and cook turkey and lettuce 4 to 5 minutes or until turkey is no longer pink in center and lettuce is slightly wilted.

To serve, on each of 4 oblong plates arrange 1 lettuce quarter.

potatoes

American cheese, sliced in one-half inch pieces
Paprika
Boil hot dogs until done. Split open lengthwise on cookie sheet. Top with scoop of mashed potatoes. Top with cheese, sprinkle with paprika. Bake until cheese melts. Serve with vegetable and/or salad. Kids love them!

GRANDMA'S POTATO SALAD DRESSING

- 5 eggs, well beaten
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tsp. salt
- 1 tsp. dry mustard
- 1 tsp. butter
- 3/4 cup vinegar
- 1 cup Miracle Whip salad dressing

Cook all ingredients together, stirring constantly. After thickening, take off heat and add salad dressing to make creamy. Pour over cooked potatoes or macaroni.

MILK GRAVY

- 6 slices of bacon
- 1/2 to 1 cup leftover ham
- 1/2 to 1 cup plain flour
- 2 1/2 cups milk

Cut slices of bacon into chunks. Cut leftover ham into chunks. Fry bacon until crispy. Add ham and fry slightly brown. Sprinkle with flour until fat is absorbed and meats are well-floured. Add milk gradually until right consistency for gravy. Serve over toast.

BANANA PUDDING

- 3 small boxes instant vanilla pudding
- 6 cups milk
- 1 (8) oz. carton Cool Whip
- 1 small carton sour cream

Mix all ingredients into a smooth mixture. Layer with sliced bananas and vanilla wafers.

Neighbors' round-the-clock snoring is becoming boring

DEAR ABBY: I am a widow with two children. I live in a townhouse with neighbors on both sides. A new family (mom, dad and two children) moved in next door. The first night I was awakened about 1 a.m. by a horrible noise that turned out to be both parents snoring.

I spoke to them about this (nicely) and asked if there was something they could do about it. They assured me that since they worked different shifts, it wouldn't be a problem again.

Well, it is a problem. Separately, their snoring is bad enough, but now I am faced with it 24 hours a day. Except for a few afternoon and early evening hours, someone is always snoring.

I spoke to them about it again and suggested a sleep clinic at a local hospital. They suggested I move my bedroom or use earplugs. I can't use earplugs because I have two young children.

I have spoken with these neighbors about it and spoken to my landlord. I am desperate for a good night's sleep. What should I do?

KNOXVILLE: Evidently your neighbors are not aware that loud snoring is often a symptom of serious, possibly terminal, health problems. Tell them that you have just learned that snoring may indicate a health condition which could result in a heart attack or other disorder, and suggest that they reconsider evaluation at a sleep disorder clinic.

If your neighbors still refuse, then it's up to you to protect yourself from the disturbance. Consult a contractor or an interior designer about soundproofing the wall between the bedrooms. Or, you might consider leaving a radio on, or using a machine that makes "white noise" (sound of the ocean, rain or a stream) to mask the snoring.

DEAR ABBY: I caught a 10-year-old neighbor girl stealing money out of my purse last year. (I'll call her Sally.) I talked to her, and told her I would give her another chance instead of speaking to her parents about it. Sally agreed to this, and I thought she was doing OK.

ADVICE

Since then, I have learned that another neighbor had a few small objects stolen from her home, and I'm afraid the thief was Sally. Should I talk to her and let her know what I suspect? Or should I let the other neighbor know that I caught Sally before, and I suspect her? Or should I talk to Sally's parents?

Abby, I hate to think that beautiful child might grow up to be a thief and eventually end up in prison. Ours is a very affluent neighborhood, and I don't want to be known as a troublemaker. Should I keep silent?

CONCERNED NEIGHBOR

DEAR CONCERNED NEIGHBOR:

Tell Sally about your suspicions and observe her reaction. She could be innocent, but if you still have suspicions after confronting her, you should talk to her parents. Sometimes stealing is a symptom of emotional problems. You do Sally no favors by remaining silent.

Aliens mate with humans! Harvard prof believes it!

By ANNE THOMPSON
Associated Press Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — Harvard psychiatrist Dr. John Mack has never had sex with a space alien, nor does he care to. It could compromise his objectivity.

Mack, a Pulitzer Prize winner and Harvard faculty member, firmly believes those people who claim to have had extremely close encounters with beings from other worlds.

And in his new book, "Abduction," he relates his findings after spending four years studying 120 "experiencers" — people who say they had sexual or reproductive experiences with aliens who abducted them and took them aboard spaceships.

The 13 case studies in his book include Ed, who remembers an alien woman taking a sperm sample from him when he was in high school; Jerry, who says she gave birth to a human-alien hybrid; and Peter, who tells Mack he had an "alien wife" in a "parallel universe."

"There is a consistent reproductive theme," Mack said. "Now, do I mean by that literally there are millions of babies being made? I don't know. I can't claim that this is occurring literally in our physical dimension of reality."

What Mack does claim is that experiencers are not mentally ill and not working out the effects of rape, incest or other abuse. Their emotional and psychological state resembles trauma, he said, and trauma is the response to something outside his body, not inside the mind.

"They don't want to believe it any more than we do," he said. "They want me to find them crazy."

Descriptions of abductions are consistent from patient to patient, Mack said. So he believes the experiencers, even if he can't explain exactly what they experience.

As for having such a close encounter himself, he said: "I think my role is to be uncontaminated by the phenomenon. As soon as a psychiatrist reports they had an abduction, then they're immediately disqualified as an objective observer."

As "Abduction" hits bookstores this week, Mack hits daytime television. His fellow academics have been less welcoming than talk show hosts.

"There's a split between how people regard him as someone with past accomplishments and skills and how they regard this project," said Dr. Malka Notman, chairwoman of Cambridge Hospital's psychiatry department and Mack's boss. "People are skeptical because it just seems quite remote and unsupported."

Mack is on the staff at Cambridge Hospital, a Harvard teaching hospital. He also leads the Program for Extraordinary Experience Research, which is overseen by the medical school-affiliated Center for Psychology and Social Research.

His accomplishments include founding the psychiatry department at Cambridge Hospital and winning a 1977 Pulitzer for his psychoanalytic biography of T.E. Lawrence, or Lawrence of Arabia.

Since then, Mack has developed an interest in Eastern philosophy and religion, and believes it helped liberate his thinking.

"We don't have room in our culture for this. It's the elite people, my colleagues, who decide what we're supposed to believe," he said, "and to them this isn't supposed to be."

Even Mack's fellow researchers into the otherworldly think "Abduction" is a little, well, out there.

Dr. William McCall, a physician in Anaheim, Calif., said that for 10 years he used hypnosis to evaluate experiencers. His theory: They're actually remembering being born. People's memories of going aboard spacecraft match their hypnosis-evoked memories of passing through the birth canal, he said.

Misgivings and interest in 'foreign' ideas of education

By CHARLES J. HANLEY
AP Special Correspondent

EVANSTON, Ill. — American schoolteachers now have orders from above: Turn their students, also-rans on international tests, into titleholders by the year 2000.

But even in Evanston, where they do try, teachers find the challenge more than daunting.

"The range of economic situations, the breakdown of families, all the things I deal with in a day that I didn't deal with 20 years ago, these things are interfering with children's efforts to learn," explains Barbara Friedberg, a 34-year teaching veteran.

Willard Dagggett also blames problems at home for some of America's educational shortcomings. But this preacher of school reform blames U.S. leaders, too, for grandly endorsing a goal — to be No. 1 on global math and science tests within six years — without a plan for getting there.

"Anyone who says we could be first in the world is dreaming," says Dagggett, director of the New York-based International Center for Leadership in Education.

Education is no multiple-choice quiz, each problem having its correct answer. But researchers say Americans might begin to find some answers by observing how it's done elsewhere, particularly in such places as Japan and Germany, whose children excel on international exams.

In this diverse Chicago suburb of lakeshore mansions and dreary row houses, the school district is credited with innovative programs. And in the brightly decorated corridors of the Martin Luther King Jr. primary school, one can hear both misgivings and interest in "foreign" ideas about education.

NATIONAL CURRICULUM

The Japanese stick to one curriculum nationwide, allowing teachers to focus on technique instead of content.

Amy Nusser, a math teacher at the King school, said that's a "great" idea for still another reason. "It's good for consistency. When I was young, I moved 12 times in 10 years. Half the time I was repeating things."

In their book "The Learning Gap," education reformers Harold W. Stevenson and James W. Stigler say U.S. national standards "would go a long way toward bringing order to our present chaotic curricula."

But Friedberg, a language arts-reading teacher at the King school, voiced traditional American skepticism about centralization: "A national curriculum doesn't always meet the needs of a specific community or school."

In a recent Associated Press nationwide poll, three-quarters of respondents expressed at least some support for a national curriculum.

SCHOOL YEAR

Much of Europe, like Japan, has a school year ranging up to 240 days, compared with the 180 school days in America. In 1983, a U.S. commission on education reform made a longer school year its top recommendation. Little has happened.

"The longer year is one way to teach children more and teach them better, say experts. Even children find merit in a shorter summer vacation. "Over the summer, I forget some of the things I learned, and when we have review we're just relearning the same things," said King fifth-grader Erica Gilbert-Levin.

Evanston district Superintendent Joseph Pollock agreed in theory with more school time.

"But," he said, "I don't think we'll see longer school days or years without federal financial help."

In the AP poll, slightly more than half favored a longer year.

TRACKING

Upstairs at the King school, two sixth-grade math classes were at work: one of slower pupils following a computer story to do simple calculations; the other of better students solving tough math reasoning problems on a test.

The Japanese disdain such "tracking," or segregation by ability. So do many American educators.

"In the U.S. we love to categorize and lock people in. That's a guaranteed approach to failure in the schools, because we create this large variation between students," U.S. Education Undersecretary Marshall Smith said in Washington.

But King math teacher Sara Waldstein, teaching the "slow" class, sees it differently: "If they're together, the faster kids twiddle their thumbs and the slower kids do not say, 'I want to be smart like Billy.' It doesn't work that way."

In the poll, two-thirds of respondents supported the U.S. practice of tracking.

Wheat dispute with Canada threatens more than farmers

By ROBERT GREENE
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON — Before there was pasta, there were noodles. And before fettuccine Alfredo, there was macaroni and cheese, a mainstay for ordinary American families.

And before there's any kind of noodles, there's durum wheat, grown in northern states adjacent to Canada, which also produces durum and other wheat for cereals and breadmaking.

More Canadian wheat has been coming into the United States — at unfair prices subsidized by Ottawa, U.S. officials complain. The argument over wheat has already turned into a bigger dispute over farm goods, and could come to a head this week.

The dispute, say other Americans, could hurt working people whose jobs are tied to making and processing macaroni and cheese and other staples. And jobs could be lost if Canada should respond to any U.S. sanctions by restricting the flow of apples, brandy, bread, breakfast cereal and other farm products.

"Such retaliation by Canada would seriously injure many U.S. workers and farmers," 18 senators told President Clinton in a letter Tuesday opposing trade action.

Agriculture Secretary Mike Espy and U.S. Trade Representative Mickey Kantor have given Canada until Friday to limit its wheat sales. Without a settlement, the administration will begin a 90-day process of setting quotas.

The action, under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, would require congressional approval, and let Canada seek compensation by limiting imports of some U.S. products.

Canada buys more U.S. farm products than any other country except Japan, purchasing a record $5.3 billion worth of U.S. vegetables, fruits and other commodities last year. The administration says that figure should be higher — if only Canada would drop restrictions on dairy and poultry products, an issue in the current dispute.

Canada has been selling more farm goods to the United States, totaling $4.6 billion last year, with wheat accounting for nearly $210 million.

U.S. growers say unfair rail subsidies and pricing by Canada have caused that country to increase its shipments of durum and other wheat over the years, undercutting prices paid U.S. farmers and leading them to reduce acreage.

Last year's flooding added insult to injury. Canada has been filling the gap caused by a short crop, exporting a projected 2.5 million metric tons this year.

Shortages helped push durum prices to a high of $5.78 a bushel in March, compared with $3.09 a year earlier.

Canadian officials have agreed to end the rail subsidies and unfair pricing, but they insist on shipping nearly 2.5 million metric tons of wheat to the United States. The United States wants a maximum 1.5 million metric tons based on 1992, the highest import year before the floods.

Pasta makers and flour millers say U.S. farm policy, including export subsidies, has harmed growers more than Canada has. They say some of those subsidized exports are coming back as cheap pasta from Turkey.

Restrictions on durum supplies will eventually force the pasta makers to cut production, said Julia Kinnaird, president of the National Pasta Association. She said the industry employs 30,000 people.

"If there's less pasta being produced in the United States, then there will be less of a market for U.S. durum growers," she said.

But farmer advocates such as Sen. Byron Dorgan, D-N.D., say the food processors just want cheap raw materials, and consumers never see the benefit.

"Our constituencies are being burned at the economic stake as a result of this unfair trade, and these people are carrying the wood," Dorgan said. He offered a challenge: "Go to the grocery store and find out whether the price of elbow macaroni decreased when the price of durum wheat decreased."
