Garbage Rights Pay Off

SEBRING (AP) — Roy Schriver pays $110 a month for the exclusive right to sift through garbage at the Highlands County dump.

Schriver doesn't like being called a scavenger. "I wish they'd call it something else," he says. "Sounds like some kind of bird. Salvager would be a better word."

Why did Schriver sign such a contract with the county? It's a means of earning a living. He says he's averaging about $300 a week selling other people's discards and cashing in on aluminum recycling.

Depending on where it's sold in the state, aluminum can bring 17 to 23 cents a pound. At 23 cents, a ton of it brings in $460. And, according to Schriver, it doesn't take long to get a ton.

"I'm my own boss and I work when I want to," he says. "Occasionally, I find something like a plant stand or a piece of furniture that I keep for myself. But I can't keep everything that I see. I don't have anywhere to store it."

Wesley Guy, who sometimes helps Schriver, says a good salvage operation in Florida can gross up to $800 a week from the sale of iron, copper, aluminum, old car batteries, building materials and other assorted junk.

A study of American garbage by an anthropology professor reported that a city with a population of 300,000 throws away more than 480,000 in usable goods annually and millions of dollars in furniture, toys, appliances, hardware and building materials.

Schriver says he and his helpers have to stay a jump ahead of the bulldozer, which keeps covering up the garbage. They also have to be faster than seagulls who pick through the garbage, too.

Broadcast Pioneer Paley Loosening Grip On CBS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Broadcast pioneer William S. Paley has taken the first step toward loosening the tight control he's had over CBS since it was founded in 1928.

He said Wednesday that he plans to step down as the company's chief executive officer and will recommend to CBS directors on May 11 that John D. Backe, president of CBS, Inc., be named his successor.

But does he think he'll ever step down as board chairman? "Yes, of course I will," said the man who took a 16-station radio network, named it CBS and built it into an empire that last year had 30,000 employees worldwide and net sales of $2.2 billion.

But he only grinned when asked if he'll retire as chairman.

"I don't know," said Paley, 75. "It might be that I get interested in something else I want to try, it could be a lot of things."

"But it's awfully hard for me to imagine not being interested in CBS as a corporation as long as my mental faculties remain at least normal, as well as my physical frame and what's in it," Tanned and fit-looking, Paley spoke in a brief interview after addressing the annual CBS shareholders' meeting, held this year at CBS' production center in nearby Studio City, Calif. CBS, Inc. owns not only the CBS radio and television networks, but also Columbia Records and other divisions that publish books, operate retail stores and make musical instruments.

Backe, the 43-year-old executive Paley picked to succeed him, comes from a publishing, not a broadcasting background.

Van Meter Cancels Meeting On Casselberry Petition

Casselberry City Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter has cancelled a special council meeting called by Councilmen John Leighty and Frank Schuette for 7 p.m. today. The announced purpose of the special meeting was to act on "the people's petition" requesting a special election.

Van Meter, in a memo to his colleagues this morning, said that, according to the city charter, the petitioning and affidavits seeking the election to repeal a resolution granting Mayor Gerald Christensen full time status and a $17,800 annual salary may only be presented to the board by the city clerk at a regular meeting.

At the conclusion of the memo, Van Meter chastised his fellow councilmen by noting that either the mayor or the chairman should call special meetings so that "legalities" can be checked into. He added that it would be a good idea in the future to call other members to find if they can attend a special meeting before one is scheduled.

"They (referring to the majority of the council) aren't even willing to throw the voters a scrap," Schuette said today after being notified of Van Meter's action.

He said apparently the majority "plan on stalling" action on the petition until the charter deadline passes. The charter ban the holding of special elections within six months of a regular election.

"I see this being dragged on until June 5 arrives and is gone," the freshman councilman said. "It shows their total insecurity and disregard of the very people who put them in office," Schuette said.

Early Thursday afternoon Schuette and Leighty delivered a notice to city hall calling the special meeting and charging Acting City Clerk Linda Thomas to notify council members. They instructed Miss Thomas to properly post the notice and notify the press.

Police officers delivered the notice directly to the councilmen in the early evening, prior to the 24-hour notice deadline before the meeting.

"I don't have much hope left that the people will be allowed to exercise their rights on this matter," Schuette said today, adding that he and Leighty have done all in their power to follow the people's wishes.

Former Council Chairman Charles Glascock, who led the petition drive that saw 874 registered voters request the special election, agreed today that the majority of the city council appears bent on denying the voters their rights under the city charter.

He noted that more than 1,000 signatures had been collected on the petition in 2 1/2 days time and that some 20 persons who had circulated the documents signed and had notarized new affidavits this week after City Attorney Kenneth McIntosh had declared the originals "legally insufficient."

Van Meter at last Monday night's special meeting attempted to call a "crisis in the city government" and to name a special committee — of the same five persons who had led the petition drive — to prepare and recommend a new charter. He said that the charter could be placed on a special referendum in June. The move failed to gain support either from the two councilmen who had voted with him to adopt the Christensen resolution — Carl Robertson Jr. and Donald Willson — or the opposing side — Frank Schuette and Leighty.

The Glascock group and the Van Meter group are agreed that the citizens of Casselberry want their form of government changed to a council-mayor form.

The people want to vote to change their form of government, Glascock says. "They do not want it changed by a resolution of three members of the city council."

A new charter prepared by a citizens committee expanding the powers of a city manager, making the mayor the chairman of the council and a voting member of the board, failed by 8-5 in last December's election.

Leighty at Monday night's meeting said there is no need to name another citizens committee, that the city council can compose the charter changes itself, call a special election and place the matter on the ballot.

County Plan Usurps City Power: Knowles

By MARK WEINBERG
 Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's proposed comprehensive planning development framework is a blueprint for the county's usurpation of Seminole's seven cities' authority in such areas as roads, drainage, solid waste, fire protection and annexation, Sanford City Manager W.E. Knowles has charged in a Tuesday memorandum to County Planner Bill Kercher.

The plan illegally "interjects the county into various municipalities' internal operations" and "clearly prescribes a big brother attitude," the city manager has charged.

Knowles' memorandum also says the plan "strongly reflects the philosophy of consolidation of all major functions except those of law enforcement and utilities" and "requests a meeting between city and county planning staffs to discuss the plan."

The plan will be examined by the county commission in a May 17 public hearing. Knowles has sent copies of the memorandum to the mayors of Seminole County's seven cities.

"The law does not allow county planners to usurp the planning work within cities except with formal agreement," says Knowles in a covering letter to the mayors. Knowles, in his memorandum to Kercher, argues that although the Seminole County Comprehensive Planning Act of 1974 "limits the county's exercise of (planning powers) to the unincorporated area" of Seminole, the plan "has transgressed the municipal operational boundaries."

The proposed plan does this because it

"proposes to set up a county government structure, supported with countywide funds, and charges this organizational structure with the review of many governmental functions now exercised by the cities."

Knowles describes this structure as "an additional layer of government similar to that rejected by the county commission pertaining to the Regional Interim Sewer Plant Committee's recommendation for an elected board to run a north Seminole regional sewage treatment system."

The county plan's proposals for a countywide urban and rural firefighting capability "is an example where bigness does not evolve efficiency. How can the planning operation justify urban firefighting service in a countywide organization that is not staffed, equipped or located to provide...service on a level demanded by (insurance) underwriter requirements?" Knowles states.

"The city manager says the plan... characterized by 'little to no attention to solutions except to call for more studies... This document creates a need for more planning... years to come.'"

Charging the plan "lacks specifics" and "fails to address... existing problems in the unincorporated areas," Knowles asks Kercher, "When will the county's comprehensive plan be evolved for the unincorporated areas for review and comment?"

Request Before PSC May Hike Seminole Utility Bills

By ED PRICKETT
 Herald Staff Writer

Asst. County Atty. Gary Siegel today will ask the Public Service Commission (PSC) for a ruling that would hike monthly power bills of Seminole County residents by about three per cent and bring in almost $800,000 in revenue each year in county government.

"If the PSC rules in favor of the county, it will mean an increase in monthly light bills," State Rep. Bob Hattaway said. "I am opposed to that."

On tap in Tallahassee is a county-sponsored bill that would do the same thing Siegel is asking the PSC to do. Hattaway, a Democrat from Alamoonte Springs, said he also opposes the bill. "It is dead this year," he said.

The issue surfaced in February when Florida Power & Light Co. (FPL) began listing franchise fees separately on monthly utility bills. Then residents in unincorporated areas of north Seminole realized they were being charge franchise fees that were being paid to the city of Sanford.

FPL Commercial Manager Scott Burns said today his firm pays Sanford $306,000 yearly. He said if the county has its way, FPL would shell out an additional amount to county government.

Burns said the city's franchise fee is about three per cent of a resident's average monthly electric bill.

In South Seminole, Florida Power Corp. charges only residents of the incorporated area, Siegel said. However, the PSC will be asked to allow the county to collect franchise fees from both power firms.

Siegel said he would request:

If the county obtains legislation, "his position is that the present system should be maintained and the amount of the franchise fees should be considered as a cost of doing business and spread over all utility bills."

If the county does not get a bill passed, "then the franchise fee should be treated as restricted to customers within the cities charging the franchise fees and not spread as a cost of doing business among all of the customers of the utilities."

— Franchise fees should appear on bills as franchise fees "so that all the customers will know what they are paying."

Burns said the franchise fee system went into effect in 1966. But it wasn't until February that the PSC ordered the charge listed separately on utility bills.

The reason for the fees is to allow power companies to borrow money at a lower interest rate over a long period of time, say 30 years.

Power companies, however, have no franchise agreements with county government.

Commission Chairman Dick Williams said the fees should be eliminated entirely, or else county government should get its share. County residents have complained to the commission about having to pay the three per cent franchise fee.

In 1975, the PSC directed that franchise fees be listed separately on electric bills and billed only to residents of cities. The Florida Supreme Court, however, overturned that decision. The court ordered the PSC to direct Tampa Electric Company (TECO) to return to the old method of listing the fee as an operating expense.

That meant residents inside and outside cities pay fees, but only cities collect them. Now, the PSC has decided to reheat the matter and issue a formal decision.

Burns said the system FPL uses is equitable because both city and county residents benefit when power firms are able to obtain money at lower interest rates for long-term capital investment.

Today's PSC hearing was scheduled to be held in Pinellas County.

NATION IN BRIEF

Carter Vows To Fight For Gasoline Tax Boost

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he is dead serious about his proposal to boost gasoline taxes by a nickel a year if U.S. consumption exceeds his conservation targets, and vowed to "fight for it to the last vote in the Congress."

Carter told a nationally broadcast news conference that his standby tax plan would, if triggered, benefit American families that do their bit to conserve fuel.

The proposal, part of his comprehensive energy package, is to add gasoline taxes in five cent increments, up to a maximum of 50 cents, for each year in which consumption exceeds government-set target levels.

Social Security Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're among the 35.5 million Americans who receive Social Security or Supplemental Security Income, there's a silver lining in the latest cloud over the consumer price index. You're going to get a cost of living increase. The index, which measures inflation, soared at a 10 per cent annual rate during the first quarter of 1977, the biggest three-month leap in two years. The index also rose 5.9 per cent from the first quarter of 1976, and that means the 33.4 million Social Security recipients and 4.3 million aged and disabled SSI recipients can count on an extra 5.9 per cent in their checks starting July 1.

GOP Has Energy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Republicans are ready to take on President Carter with an energy program of their own that won't include all those proposed new taxes that are drawing so much congressional fire. What is being called the "Republican alternative" may be spelled out when GOP spokesmen get their "equal time" offered by the three television networks, possibly next week.

In Knifing Incident Bulletproof Vest Saves Deputy

★ Police Beat

Sheriff John E. Polk said today a bulletproof vest was the only thing that kept a road deputy from being injured in a knifing incident Thursday night near Lake Mary.

Polk said deputy Ted Holiday's shirt was cut and the body armor vest underneath penetrated when Holiday disarmed a Lake Mary man who had been placed in the back seat of a caged patrol car.

Holiday reported he responded to a trespass complaint in an orange grove off Lake Emma Road and found a pickup truck stuck in the sand. He said Howard Eugene Lloyd, knife from his wooden leg and "started ripping up the back seat with the knife."

Holiday said he opened the car door and Lloyd lunged at him "three or four times striking me once with the knife." The officer said he disarmed the man and kept him in the back of the patrol car.

Lloyd was booked at county jail on charges of aggravated assault, trespassing and criminal mischief. He was released from jail this morning on $5,000 bond, according to jail records.

Man Shot, Caught In Swamp Gets 30 Years For Robbery

A 21-year-old Midway man shot and wounded by sheriff's deputies in a swamp pool chase after a Dec. 29 armed robbery at a Sanford all-night service station was sentenced to 30 years in prison plus lifetime probation at Sanford.

Judge Robert B. McGregor sentenced Lamar Mills, saying sentence was imposed on only of three life felony convictions on robbery charges in the holdup.

Before Mills' February trial McGregor ruled that the separate takings of money from the station's cash register, of money from the attendant at midpoint and of $1 in gasoline for the getaway car were three separate robbery offenses in one criminal transaction. A jury found Mills guilty on all three charges.

Mills was wounded five times in the face, hands and torso by two deputies during his apprehension in the swamp near his home nine hours after the service station robbery. Sheriff John Polk said an investigation cleared the deputies of any wrongdoing in connection with the shooting.

A co-defendant in the robbery case, Harold Earl Moore, 22, of Sanford, earlier pleaded guilty to being an accessory after the fact of robbery and was sentenced to six years in prison plus five years probation.

Judge McGregor noted that probation, jail and prison had all been tried with Mills on prior offenses and "didn't work."

Judge McGregor sentenced an Orlando man convicted of armed burglary of a south Seminole woman's apartment and of raping her while she held her 3½-year-old son in her arms to 45 years in prison plus lifetime probation.

Concurrent sentences totaling 25 years probation were meted out to George William Girtman, 23, of Orlando, on other convictions of resisting an officer with violence, possession of burglary tools and attempted burglary in an incident at another woman's apartment in the same complex later when sheriff's detectives on stake-out apprehended the suspect.

Girtman, who testified in the rape-burglary trial that he was

Crime Bills Pass

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Bills to impose mandatory sentences on persons burglarizing homes and to gather data to better combat crime against the elderly have cleared Senate committees.

"Florida has the greatest percentage of elderly citizens in the nation. They are easy prey for criminals because they are home in bed with his girlfriend and their nine-month-old daughter when the rape took place, told McGregor that he was arrested Jan. 14 because "I just happened to be at the wrong place at the wrong time."

Huggins earlier pleaded guilty to the lesser and included offense of burglary.

Judge Woodson ordered a bench warrant issued for the arrest without bond of Russell D. Blake, 23, of Nashville, Tenn. Earlier Blake pleaded guilty to uttering a forgery in the purchase of a $46 sweater at an Altamonte Springs store using a stolen credit card.

Blake had been free on his own recognizance pending sentencing and failed to appear Thursday for sentencing in the five-year felony case.

Ronald Michael Wilcox, 18, of Forest City, was sentenced to 2½ years in prison plus 2½ years probation by Judge McGregor on his guilty plea to grand larceny of a citizens band radio and a stereo tape deck from a car at Altamonte Springs.

Tourist Industry In Peril?

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Florida leaders are worried that higher gasoline taxes could hurt the state's vital tourist industry, but they still like many parts of President Carter's sweeping energy program.

Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., said in Washington that Carter's program contained news "that isn't good for Florida."

Chiles cited surcharges on gas-guzzling autos, higher gasoline prices and the plan to increase gas taxes by five cents to meet energy conservation standards.

"Those are the kind of things we don't like to hear in Florida because of our tourism-travel-based economy," Chiles said.

However, he said Carter's plan should eliminate the possibility of gas rationing as petroleum supplies dwindle. Rationing would be catastrophic for Florida, Chiles said.

Gov. Reubin Askew issued a brief statement praising Carter for "assuming leadership on a very difficult but important issue we face as a nation."

L. E. "Tommy" Thomas, a prominent Panama City Chevrolet dealer, said he doubted that Carter's plan to impose special taxes on big cars would have much impact on the auto industry.

A former state Republican chairman, Thomas criticized the program outlined by the president to a joint session of Congress Wednesday night.

"I thought it was very, very shallow," Thomas said. "I don't think it's going to make any change in anybody's thinking."

He said Carter should have insisted on strict enforcement by the states of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit. "That's one thing that would save more gas than taxing the big gas-guzzlers," Thomas said.

Also pending in the legislature are bills imposing thermal and lighting standards on new construction in an effort to save energy. One measure would require insulation in all new construction in Florida.

In Jacksonville, officials of Offshore Power Systems, a Westinghouse subsidiary planning to build floating nuclear power plants, called Carter's plan good news.

OPS is building a factory on Blount Island in the St. Johns River. The platforms will float inside breakwaters two or three miles off the coast, with the power being wired to shore through underwater cables.

Public Service Commissioner Paula Hawkins endorsed Carter's call for utilities to install home insulation and add the cost to monthly power bills. She said it would cut utility costs by 25 per cent.

"I've been saying for four years that utilities should insulate your home," she said.

She praised Carter's plan to revise utility pricing practices by eliminating rate discounts for big power consumers and encouraging use of power during off-peak periods.

Nearly all the elements of the plan are being considered by the legislature. In addition, the House has passed a state energy policy, and it is on the Senate calendar. The policy stresses energy conservation, a key to Carter's program.

Nuclear Destruction Threat No Fantasy

This earth must never become a planet of the apes. The threat of nuclear destruction is a threat to the selfish interest of every human being. It is no fantasy.

That is why it became necessary for President Carter to slow down or halt commercial development of plutonium as a fuel for nuclear power plants.

Plutonium is more explosive than the uranium fuel used in all the commercial reactors now operating in this country. Bombs cannot be made from ordinary uranium but can easily be made from plutonium.

If this country led the way toward the age of plutonium, it would mean supplies of nuclear explosives would be available widely throughout the world. They could easily be fabricated into nuclear weapons by governments or by private groups or individuals. Such weapons could touch off a holocaust.

It is possible that the use of plutonium as a fuel could be more efficient and economical as a source of much-needed energy. The plutonium technology is exciting to engineers because plutonium is a man-made element produced as a by-product in ordinary uranium reactors. A plutonium breeder reactor would be fueled with the waste products of ordinary uranium reactors and, in turn, could produce more plutonium than it consumed.

The question is whether the practical advantages of plutonium technology as a source of energy are outweighed by its risks as a source of destruction.

The President has decided that they are for the United States under present circumstances. If we proceeded to develop plutonium power, we could hardly prevent its spread to countries like Brazil, Pakistan, South Africa—all countries now seeking nuclear fuel processing facilities that could give them a bomb-building capability.

The U.S., the U.S.S.R., Britain, France, China and possibly India, are now members of the exclusive A-bomb builders club. All of them, and other responsible industrial nations, must do everything possible to keep membership in that club from expanding.

The Pork Inspection

Congress is furious because President Carter has opened up the pork barrel for an inspection. He wants to review a number of water projects. He deleted 18 of them from President Ford's 1978 budget.

"This administration is reviewing projects that may be environmentally or economically unsound or potentially hazardous," he said.

Such a review is proper. If the projects are sound and safe, they will survive. If not, they should not be built with federal money, much of which is being collected presently from the income taxpayers across the nation.

Some senators had threatened to defeat the President's $50-tax-rebate proposal unless he gave ground on the water projects in their states. This is the kind of threat the President should find it easy to ignore.

The American people do not want their hard-earned tax money spent by the Congress on pork barrel projects that are unsound and unsafe.

Huge subsidies have been built into the federal financing of many of these projects. Unrealistically low interest rates—or no interest at all—is charged on the federal money which the beneficiaries repay. Many benefits are not repayable at all. Cost-benefit ratios to justify these projects have been figured on construction costs that have since skyrocketed and on benefits that are inflated or imaginary.

Projects that are vitally needed and economically justified, such as the California State Water Project, can be financed by the states involved without federal funds. Private irrigation projects, such as the pumping projects now developing along the mid-Columbia River, can pay for themselves if truly economic.

Balancing the federal budget in four years will never be accomplished if the President shrinks from confrontation with the spenders in Congress.

BERRY'S WORLD

"Honestly, if you're going to wear neckties, I wish you'd buy your own!"

Around

The Clock

By JIM HAYNES

I don't know if the nostalgia craze is starting to ease off, but before it finally slides into the family scrapbook along with yesterday's treasures, how about a last hurrah for the clock?

The kind between humans, not necessarily members of the same bridge club or softball team. Without suggesting a thumbs-up handshake is any less effective than a good old-fashioned grip and eye-to-eye contact, it does seem to shame most of the people in the world as they rush to give a stranger the time of day.

I wonder, where people busy to? The subject was touched upon the other day in a downtown Sanford barber shop. Lots of things are touched upon in barber shops, in fact there was a day the pulsebeat of a town could be registered there.

Yesterday's barber shops have gone to the great haven in the sky which also shelters the general store and its stovepipe clientele of checkers-playing, corncob-pipe smoking citizens. Hey, you say... this is 1977?

Right, I say. I don't know anyone who gets a regular haircut. But how did we make so much progress a population is too busy to smell the roses?

Examples are right and left. Community spirit—everywhere, not just here in Seminole County—may be at an all-time low. Patriotism ebbs. Political concerns are more for the price of gasoline than the search of truth and freedom.

It is a ragged road we travel in this pursuit of happiness, especially if one was born in a society which demanded discipline and integrity.

Just as barber shops and other businesses have moved to the shopping centers, have many of the basic beliefs under which our parents and their parents lived gone also?

A youth shocked me the other day. He said "yes sir." It triggered a chain reaction within my mind, and as I walked on down the sidewalk and couldn't help notice how people on the move appear to be only vaguely aware of their fellowman. Not unusually, I am convinced that "comrades" hasn't moved to the shopping centers. It's one of those intangibles that only "move" when we lose sight of it.

Do yourself a favor... smell a rose.

RONALD REAGAN A Case For Capital Punishment

Ramsey Clark—one-time Attorney General, one-time U.S. Senate candidate, and all-time favorite of the Left—dropped in on the California State Senate the other day to make this astonishing proposal:

All prison sentences, including those for first degree murder, should be limited to a maximum of five years!

Punishment itself was a crime, he said. Prisons aren't the answer. Instead, we must do away with poverty, lack of education and broken homes. Do that, and crime will evaporate, or so went his line.

Ramsey Clark's comments touched a nerve with me, especially when he reminded the California lawmakers that he was speaking on the 10th anniversary of the last execution in the state. He asked, "Did that reduce the murder rate?"

I was Governor at the time of that last special act of capital punishment. Though I would have to say I don't think that one execution reduced the overall murder rate by a measurable degree, I know at least one Californian who has reason to believe that particular execution prevented at least one murder—his own.

During the week of that execution, in 1967, an elderly storeowner in San Francisco was the victim of a robbery. The robber had him on the floor and raised a knife to stab the old man. The storeowner struggled to avoid the knife and cried out, "You'll get the gas chamber if you do!" The robber's knife paused. He pulled it back, then ran from the store.

The intended victim later wrote to me. He said he was convinced the great attention given the execution by the news media at the time had led to his own life being saved, for it triggered his warning to the knife-wielding robber.

Now that is one man's opinion and not statistical evidence, but there is strong evidence that capital punishment and murder are linked. From 1930 till the mid 1960s, murder actually decreased in this country (from 10,500 in 1935 to fewer than 7,500 murders in 1965). In that period, capital punishment was in force in most states and there were several hundred executions each year.

Early in the 1960s the all-out campaign against capital punishment began and by 1964 there were only 15 executions. By 1968 they had stopped altogether.

Murderers were not paying with their lives any longer, but they were making more victims pay with theirs: 12,500 in 1968, 18,500 in 1972 and more than 20,500 in 1975—a 200 per cent increase in two decades! That kind of inflation society can't afford.

Professor Isaac Ehrlich of the University of Chicago offers an interesting theory of the relationship between crime and punishment. He says that most human acts—including crime—are based on an equation of costs-to-benefits. If the cost for doing murder is death and a criminal knows it, he may decide not to commit murder. At least that shopkeeper in San Francisco thought so. So do I.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

March Jobless Figures Show Decline; Tourist Boom Cited

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The tourists who surged into Florida last month helped reduce the state's unemployment rate from 8 to 7.6 per cent, Commerce Secretary Edward Trombetta says.

Trombetta said Thursday that the booming tourist business opened up thousands of jobs in bars, restaurants, hotels and motels.

He said the number of jobless persons in the state declined by about 28,600, from 289,900 in February to 261,200 in March. There were 534,000 persons unemployed in March of 1976, when the jobless rate was 10.3 per cent.

The state's unemployment rate, which has been running significantly ahead of the national rate for more than two years, edged closer, Trombetta said. The national unemployment rate for March was 7.3 per cent.

Bill Would Allow Gambling

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to put the state in the gambling business in Miami Beach and shore up its sagging tourist trade has been approved by a House committee.

The Tourism and Economic Development Committee voted 6-4 for the measure (HR942) by Rep. Paul Steinburg, D-Miami Beach, and sent it to two other committees, where it faces an uncertain future.

The vote came after the panel beat 9-2 an amendment that would have gutted the enabling legislation (BB417) and provided for a Governor's Commission on Legalized Gambling to study the effects of casino gambling.

FP&L Nuclear Plant Costs Rise

MIAMI (AP) — A Florida Power & Light Co. official says a six-month delay in building a second nuclear-powered generator in St. Lucie County has raised the cost of the project by $125 million.

The Nuclear Regulatory Agency (NRC) said Thursday that it would soon grant a license for St. Lucie No. 2, an 842-megawatt plant. It will be built next to St. Lucie No. 1 on Hutchinson Island near Fort Pierce.

"This decision confirms that FPL's site selection was correct and promises to bring an end to the six-month delay in plant construction," said Al Adomat, FPL executive vice president.

Auto Checks Issue Revived

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The push to abolish mandatory auto inspection has been revived by supporters who say a majority of state senators are behind the idea.

"This issue isn't dead," said Sen. Robert Graham, D-Miami. "There are enough votes on the Senate floor to eliminate the program."

Lake Mary Eying Own Emergency Dispatch Units

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The Lake Mary City Council agreed Thursday night to look into the costs of providing a complete fire-police-emergency dispatch service for the city as a squabble with the county fire department and the possibility that dispatching will be halted from that source loomed on the horizon.

Mayor Walter Sorrenson urged the study be undertaken as members of the fire department stated that a "more binding agreement" that the county is seeking from the department and the city will make Lake Mary's fire station, a mere sub-station of the county. Fire Chief Rob Bailey and former Chief Ralph Pugh said the problem with the county developed after the Lake Mary volunteers distributed stickers containing the county fire dispatch telephone number for Lake Mary citizens to call in fire emergencies.

Bailey said the county for the past two years has been referring calls to Lake Mary. Sorrenson said while talks should continue with the county to see if some agreement acceptable to both units of government can be worked out, the city should protect itself by seeking the alternative solution of a complete city operated dispatch service.

Pugh said the county stands firm on a "binding agreement" that would take away the Lake Mary volunteers' autonomy, the volunteers are not willing to continue with mutual aid. He suggested the city take action to adopt a document to relieve the county of responsibility for liability.

Councilman Cliff Nelson said, however, that the city cannot absolve the county of a responsibility "our taxes pay them to have."

Nelson said the county through various tactics will gradually take over city functions until it ultimately will say, "Let's consolidate the Lake Mary Fire Department into the county system."

Councilman Bert Perinichief was instructed to submit cost estimates for a city dispatch service at a special meeting at 4 p.m., Tuesday.

In other business, the city council: Hired Mark G. Royal of Sanford as a police dispatcher during the evening hours of peak police complaints.

Heard a report from City Attorney Gary Massey that it can be expected the county will object to the city's proposed

Flower Shop Okayed

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission Thursday night approved Judy Kriger's request to use her 1301 Park Ave., residence for a flower shop.

The zoning board also granted Charles Mitchell's request to allow a change of use at 401 Sanford Ave., a former retail store, for a nightclub. Mitchell intends to sell beer and wine for consumption on the premises, but this request must be approved by the city commission.

In addition, the zoning board voted to permit architect Andrew Kutz to use the telephone of his home at 204 E. 16th St. for business purposes.

AN OPEN LETTER TO THE PUBLIC: DO YOU HAVE TO SUE TO GET YOUR CAR FIXED?

Some people have to go to court to get satisfaction. That shouldn't be. A court of law should be your last resort. Yet, an increasing number of car buyers are going to court to get their cars fixed. We think this is wrong. Usually, people that benefit the most from law suits are lawyers.

WE FEEL RESPONSIBLE FOR THE CAR YOU BUY. Our business is selling cars. But we have to be pretty stupid to sell you a car and, then, leave you on your own. We need your good will because we want you back as a customer again and again. We want you to be pleased with your car and its service so that you'll recommend us to your family, friends and neighbors. We are going to do absolutely everything within reason to satisfy you. It's just good business.

WE HAVE SATISFIED 99.2% OF ALL OUR CUSTOMERS. And that's still working on two other eight tenths of one percent. The Southeast Toyota Dealers have one of the lowest complaint rates in the car industry—if not the lowest by far. The reasons are obvious. The Toyotas we sell are quality automobiles, so well designed and built that basic complaints are very few and far between. If you do have a complaint which is our responsibility—we fix it. That's our philosophy. And there are over 4,300 people in the Southeast Toyota family who work by that philosophy.

These are the facts. This is the way we do business. This is why we're successful. And this is what we'll continue to do in the future.

Sincerely, Jim Moran, President Southeast Toyota Distributors, Inc.

HOROSCOPE by BERNICE BEDESOL. For Saturday, April 23. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You communicate well with others to day. If you have an idea or an important plan you'd like to impress on the right people, do it now. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A person of substance behind the scenes wants to do something to enhance your security. You must let this person do it in his own way. CANCER (June 21-July 22) You'll have fun today if you associate with people you look up to. Try to make plans that include an influential friend. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Aim high today, but keep your motives to yourself. The less others know of your plans, the better you're likely to do. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you're friendly and cordial to people, you can elicit a greater warmth than you exude. Don't spare an ounce of charm. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your chances for success today are very good. You instinctively know to save your trump card for the crucial trick. SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You do well today because you know how to deal with people on a one-to-one basis. If there's something important to discuss, do it vis-a-vis. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a talent or skill you possess that someone may be interested in as part of a joint venture. Listen, but don't sell yourself too cheaply. CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Moderation is the key to your personality today. You won't spoil the day by overindulging. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Instead of domestic pursuits being a drudge today, they could turn out to be fun. Select some project for the home or family. PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You are very charismatic today. You call attention to yourself just by being present. ARIES (March 21-April 19) There's a certain instinctive shrewdness you have in money matters today. Your persistent inner voice. It won't steer you wrong. YOUR BIRTHDAY April 23, 1977 More travel than you've done for some time is likely this year. Your trips may not be long ones, but they'll leave many pleasant memories.

Pregnancy During Menopause Years

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am 51 years old and still menstruating, although at age 45 I started missing a period now and then. The last one was seven months ago and now another one. I have read that a woman can still get pregnant for as long as two years after the last menstrual period. Wouldn't this apply to a woman younger than 51 years old? My doctor has me on Premarin. Would this act as a birth control pill? DEAR READER - Many of those middle-life babies are in women who thought they could not get pregnant and threw caution to the wind. A good rule of thumb is to assume you can get pregnant until two years after your last period after your menopause unless your doctor specifically tells you otherwise. I usually say that the oldest woman on record to have a child is 55 years of age. A few of my readers have called my attention to some women who were past 50 I may have to raise that a couple of notches but it is exceptionally rare for a woman to ever get pregnant after her mid 50s. Female hormones such as contained in Premarin may act as a birth control pill and birth control pills may act as a source of female hormones - delaying or obscuring menopause. I have learned from readers that many women on birth control pills or hormones, that are stopped once a month to induce an artificial menstruation, have the mistaken idea that they can still get pregnant. Such withdrawal artificial menstruations are unrelated to ovulation. The lining of the uterus still grows from hormone stimulation - but the stimulation comes from the pills. When the pills are stopped once a month the lining of the uterus sheds because there is not enough female hormones in the body to maintain those overgrown cells. An artificial menstruation occurs even though the ovaries may have been inactive for 10 years or more. Incidentally this is an important point about the bot debate over the role of female hormones in causing cancer of the lining of the uterus. In most of the reports available the female hormones have been given continuously. That means the overgrown cells lining the uterus are maintained and there is never a shedding of these cells. Gynecologists have known for years that these overgrown cells could be a nest for cancer changes. That is why they have always followed their patients on female hormones who still have a uterus with great care. By stopping the medicine once a month and allowing these cells to be shed the increased danger of cancer - small as it may turn out to be - is greatly diminished or may even be completely obviated. The stories you've read and the reports available do not take into account the effects of the artificial menstruation that may protect women and the role of the level of dosage. Different estrogens, different dosages and inducing artificial menstruation may result in women not having any real problems from taking female hormones after the menopause. It is too early to jump to conclusions yet. You will need to talk to your doctor about your status. I don't know from your letter if your period was induced by stopping Premarin or if it occurred naturally. If you have not completed the menopause you are certainly not too old to get pregnant. I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-12, Menopause, for more information. Others who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Jobs Outlook Worries SHS Student Prez

By STEVE DAVIS Herald Staff Writer

The job market in "the real world" is troubling Valerie Saunders, student council president at Seminole High School in Sanford. "The more academically inclined students are getting depressed," she says. "Others don't really think about getting a job until they're seniors." Valerie points to the program at Seminole High as part of the problem. "Field trips are needed to make students more aware of their surroundings," she suggests. "More outside job representatives should be allowed to talk to all classes about prospective positions." She also suggests the need for more emphasis on the vocationally oriented curriculum, rather than academically oriented studies, geared for the college-bound students. Valerie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Saunders, plans to attend college, majoring in political science or business administration at Florida State University. Valerie recently participated in a "mock" state legislative session in Tallahassee. It's a part of her intense interest in government and politics. "The session," she recalls, "made us all more aware of parliamentary procedures and how the legislative process works." This awareness is important to her and she likes what President Carter is doing to bring the people closer to government. "He has given the people a feeling they are part of government again," she observes, citing the Nixon and Ford administrations as contributing to a general distrust among U.S. citizens for hierarchy. "By creating more openness in government," she suggests, "(Carter) has given the people a feeling of confidence and need for government." On the Equal Rights Amendment, Valerie says she favors its passage - but only as it pertains to administrative workers. "In many instances," she explains, "women work side by side with men and have just as much responsibility in office positions, but are often underpaid. "Women," she believes, "should especially receive equal salaries if they are heads of households." Among her other outside interests is her membership on the program committee for Channel 24, the area's public television station. Aware of her unique position at Seminole High she is encouraged at what she says has been the establishing of more unity between blacks and whites at the school the past few years. "Each group has learned from the other," she says, "the past has been put aside."

ASK THE JEOPARDS A North Carolina reader asks if it is ever good policy to open one notrup when you hold the singleton ace of a suit. It may not hurt you, but it is never good policy. When you have a singleton, you want to suggest a suit contract with your first bid.

THE HEALTH ROBBERS Quacks, phony sex therapists, 'organic food' rip-offs - they're all part of a multi-million-dollar con game that victimizes countless Americans every year. In a series of hard-hitting reports, a special team of physicians and scientists expose the myriad ways in which citizens are duped. The reports begin Monday in the Evening Herald. Mayfair Hotel Sale In Works

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

Maitland developer Bob Hofmann is negotiating to buy the six-acre site of the vacant Mayfair Hotel on East 1st Street to build an $8-to-$12 million, 250-unit condominium or apartment complex. Members of the Sanford Board of Adjustment, meeting informally Friday, indicated they would approve a variance to allow a density of 45 units per acre, 10 per acre higher than the zoning ordinance permits. Hofmann, president of General Growth Inc. of Maitland, said the higher density was needed to make the project economically viable. He said he

Spring Ahead

Daylight Savings Time begins at 2 a.m. Sunday, and Tawny Fernandez, at Auction Service of Florida on SR-16, is setting the clock ahead one hour. By the way, that's no ordinary clock: its appraised value is $9,000. By giving up an hour's worth of sleep tonight, most American will be able to enjoy an extra hour of daylight at the end of the day. If you're having trouble remembering which way to turn the clock, the catch phrase is: spring ahead, fall back. Daylight Saving Time began in the United States, Britain and Canada during World War I to make more efficient use of the daytime. But the daylight time fell into disuse after the Armistice, with World War II, it returned in North America and in Great Britain. In 1975, eight months of daylight time became the law of the land, except in Arizona and Hawaii, which excluded themselves entirely, and in Indiana, where parts of the state observe standard time year round.

Casselberry Councilmen Shun Meet

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

A special meeting called for by two Casselberry City Councilmen was adjourned for lack of a quorum Friday night after other councilmen failed to appear. The two officials - Councilmen John Leighty and Frank Schutte - waited, along with 80 other citizens, for over an hour at the city hall. Schutte and Leighty called the special meeting Thursday afternoon for the announced purpose of taking action on a citizens petition demanding a special election to repeal a resolution adopted by the three other council members. The resolution granted Mayor Gerald Christensen full-time status and a $17,800 annual salary. The two officials refused to recognize the cancellation of the meeting ordered by Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter earlier in the day. Schutte and Leighty cited a section of the city charter which permits two members of the board to call a meeting. But, Van Meter in a memo cancelling the session, cited another section of the charter which requires that the petitions be presented for council action by the city clerk at a "regular" meeting. Schutte told the citizens present that Van Meter legally could have cancelled the meeting unilaterally only if he had "divine wisdom" and knew no other matter would be taken up by the board. He said that often the council places additional items on the agenda for action. "He noted that the referendum called for in the petition must be held before June 6, because of the charter prohibition of an election taking place within six months of the regular Dec. 6 election. Schutte said if the council Monday night does not order the required advertising and set public hearings, it will mean the referendum effort is dead. He added the matter is not on the agenda prepared by Van Meter. Leighty urged the citizens to continue attending meetings, and pointed to the move under way to hold afternoon workshop sessions when working people cannot attend. Joseph Carney of Benedict Court said that during the citizens portion of the meeting Monday night, he will urge that Van Meter be censured for denying Leighty and Schutte their right as elected officials to call meetings. Another of the citizens present, Lee Phillips of Mark Davis Boulevard, said "Thank God" that Van Meter by his refusing to heed the people's wishes had opened their eyes. He said, "We have to create enough storm so that they'll (Council Chairman Nathan Van Meter and Councilmen Carl Robertson Jr. and Donald Willson) resign. If they don't resign we will take action at the polls in December." Phillips said, "Van Meter was being lying to us. He has no intention of giving the people what we want." Others in the audience suggested the next step. If the majority of the council refuses to order the election as petitioned by the people, is to appeal to the governor. Barbara Christensen, the wife of Mayor Christensen, was among the citizens at the meeting.
