Two DeLand men indicted for Sanford murder

A Seminole County Grand Jury returned first-degree felony murder indictments Tuesday against two men in connection with the death of Patricio Contreras, of Wax Myrtle Drive, in Sanford.

The two men, James Pacheco, 31, and Luis Martinez, 19, both of DeLand, were also charged with armed burglary and robbery with a firearm.

The men, along with 28-year-old Daniel Maldonado, broke into Contreras' home and beat him in the head with a handgun in late July. Contreras later died as a result of his injuries.

Authorities arrested the three suspects in DeLand and held them at the Volusia County jail. However, Maldonado was able to post bail of $10,000 before the charges against him were upgraded from armed home invasion and aggravated battery to murder. He walked out of the Volusia County Jail on July 29 and is still missing. An investigation into the delay in upgrading the charges is going.

Pacheco and Martinez are being held without bond in the Seminole County Jail. The jury heard from five witnesses including a medical examiner, a Sanford police officer and three lay witnesses.

Lessard: Put conference center on hold

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Mayor Brady Lessard will ask city commissioners Monday to delay, possible for a year or more, plans to build a downtown conference center.

The move by Lessard comes as city officials search for revenue sources to fund the project after Seminole County Commissioners pulled their support for the project last month.

Sanford mayor says time is not right to move forward with downtown project

"I want to make sure that whatever product the city ends up with — and it will end up with a conference center eventually — is the best product it can be," he said. "By waiting, this will allow for the product to develop better."

The proposed project, which has been in the works for several months, is a collaboration between the city of Sanford and the private developer, Suncor Properties Inc. It would include a multi-level, off-site hotel; renovations and additions to the existing Sanford Civic Center; retail space; an outdoor amphitheater; and a surface parking area.

"If putting it [conference center] on hold wasn't the best thing for the city we wouldn't be putting it on hold," said Lessard. "The citizens of Sanford, in a referendum several years ago and all the way to this point, have trusted the city commission and myself to do what is right. I think city commission will agree with me on Monday night to step back and take a breath."

According to Lessard, if the Fighting more than just fires

Fire fighters across Florida campaign for Muscular Dystrophy

Pay attention driving through busy intersections during the week leading to Labor Day as there's a good chance a fire fighter will be waiting there for you.

Florida fire fighters collected more than $1.3 million last year during an annual "Fill the Boot" drive benefiting the Muscular Dystrophy Association (MDA), and departments within Seminole County are gearing up once again for the campaign.

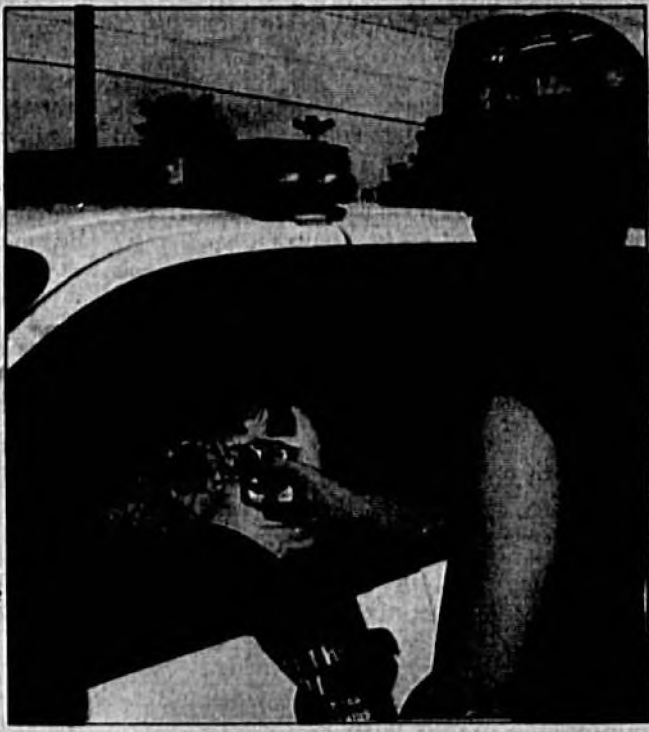

Started 49 years ago in South Boston, the fire fighter drive is one of the largest benefactors to MDA. In fact, the state's fire fighters drive last year — with more than 300 communities participating — was the largest source of funding to the association.

Each firefighter local union competes against each other they, but in the end, it's the cause that counts most, said Cindy Batton, a Seminole

Iraqi Diary: UN compound blasted

Editor's note: Staff Sergeant Charlie C. Carlson III has provided the Seminole Herald a daily journal of his experiences in Baghdad, Iraq as part of the 549th Military Police company attached to the 2nd Cavalry Regiment. Today's journal entry is from earlier this week just after the United Nations headquarters bombing. Because of the significance of this incident, the Herald is publishing this entry today. The newspaper will revert back to chronological order in Wednesday's issue.

20 AUG 2003 I guess you heard about the UN headquarters blowing up. I was laying on my cot in the machine shop of the cigarette factory where we live and all of the sudden it sounded like the whole world exploded. The whole place shook and there was a loud "BOOOM." It was about 1530 in the afternoon.

One of our day shift patrols was already out there, and we were notified by Enforcer-6 [the company commander] to immediately respond. I wasn't sure about what was going on, but was told to meet him over at the UN building about five miles away. On the way we passed several M-1 Abrams tanks blocking off the highway.

Upon arriving I could see that the whole left side of the UN building was blown away. I had my trucks move on past to where Enforcer-6 was at. We immediately started moving people back. I was right next to the UN building, there was debris all over the place, people with blood all over them, some walking and some obviously dead or injured so bad they couldn't move. Rescue workers were talking to people still trapped inside.

I was busy keeping people back and one of them was Mr. Paul Bremer (U.S. civilian administrator of Iraq). I said "Sorry sir, let me get these people behind you out of here." He looked kinda stunned, but said "No, it's okay, let me get out of your way." I saw one of Bremer's security guys that was a friend of mine, we had gone to CID agents school together. I got some photos of the scene.

The highway was blocked off in all directions. CNN and BBC were there filming footage. I was told to divert traffic off the highway about 200 yards from the scene. We set up our trucks [Armored Humvees] with two at one end and one at the other. We were there with the psychops [psychological operations] truck in case we needed to broadcast to the public that the area was closed.

Dust still filled the air, it was a mess, victims being hauled out on litters, some dead, body parts mixed with chunks of concrete tangled with wires and pipes. I heard a rumor that the Assistant Secretary General of the UN was killed. They were talking to him through the rubble, but they didn't hear anything further. It was a noisy, nasty sight that I do not wish

Economic impact felt from I-4 closures

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter

Managers of tourism-based businesses along State Road 46 in Sanford say nightly lane closures on Interstate 4 are affecting their profits.

The lane closures, which took place from 10 p.m. until 6 a.m. Aug. 14 and 15 on the I-4 westbound exit ramp at State Road 46, were needed to relocate the exit's barrier walls and re-stripe the lanes. The upgrades are an effort to make the exit safer for drivers. "It's two nights and I realize they have to do this," said Paul Temple, general manager of Comfort Inn & Suites, located on State Road 46 in Sanford. "We certainly want the exit to be a better and more accessible one for our patrons and these improvements are needed to help make it safer. However, this makes it impossible for us to have walk-in traffic during those hours.

"This drastically affects how well we do financially," he added.

According to Temple, the hotel averages 15 walk-in guests per night. On Aug. 14 and 15, the franchise received only four and six walk-ins, respectively.

"We dropped away off and I thought it was strange and then I found out about the lane closures," Temple said. "We're being put at a competitive disadvantage. It's Goldsboro resident Emma Encarnacion welcomes home her son, Calvin Hill, after his six-month deployment in Iraq.

Gifts, BBQ and church service await sol-

By Christopher Patton

In the past nine years, Calvin Hill has attended just one Christmas with his family in Sanford.

With last year's gifts awaiting him, the U.S. Army veteran returned to his parents' Goldsboro home last week after a six-month deployment in Operation Iraqi Freedom. With a little luck, Hill will be home for the upcoming holidays.

His mother, Emma Encarnacion, says it's good to finally see her son.

"He was supposed to get out in March and they sent him over there in February," she said.

Hill could be nearing the end of his nine-year military career and that's just fine with him. He missed last year's Christmas as he was preparing for the war in Iraq and missed past holidays because of other tours in Bosnia, Germany, Egypt and California.

The latest assignment may have been the worst, he said, for two reasons: the heat and water. It helped that air conditioning was installed in the tents before his departure, but finding good drinking water was a problem. The water at the port town and basically everywhere was undrinkable and the bottled water provided tasted bad as they sat too long in the desert sun.

SEMINOLE SUMMARY

A GLANCE AROUND OUR COUNTY

Underwater band shell: Old time Sanford folks fondly recall the lakefront band shell that was situated on the small, man-made peninsula at the northern most end of Park Avenue. It was torn down in the 1960s.

Occasionally a citizen will suggest that city leaders rebuild a band shell on the same location. If the city does undertake such a project, maybe they could piece together the old band shell. They certainly would not have to go far to get it.

In replacing the seawall around the peninsula, city crews recently found large portions of the old band shell. Crews are fishing out some of the bigger pieces so the seawall work can be completed. Chris Smith, the city's project manager, said it appears that when the city fathers tore down the band shell, they did so by pushing it into Lake Monroe.

Maybe it's just me, but I find the whole thing peculiar. After all these years, the band shell that so many wistfully remember now sits just a few yards from its original site, albeit under water where only the mullet and the catfish can enjoy it.

Riverwalk update: Speaking of the seawall, most of it has been replaced. Smith said Friday crews have about 600 more feet of seawall to install around the Memorial Park peninsula. The project now moves into the above-ground improvements, better known as the Riverwalk.

Smith said the project is on schedule to finish in February 2004. Crews have already begun rebuilding Seminole Boulevard near Mellonville Avenue, and Smith said the improvements will become much more visible in the coming months.

Coffee buzz: Rumors have been circulating for a couple of weeks that the java giant Starbucks Coffee was eyeing downtown Sanford as its next spot for expansion. That's true, sort of.

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission approved a plan Thursday night for Suncor Properties Inc. to build a trailhead building on Seminole Boulevard at Palmetto Avenue. The facility would provide restrooms and shelter from the weather for those using the Riverwalk and was originally going to be built by the city. The cost of the overall Riverwalk project was more expensive than the city's budget and the trailhead building got the ax.

Suncor officials approached the city about building the trailhead facility at no cost to the taxpayers. In return the Suncor wants to lease space to two national tenants, one a coffee shop, the other an ice cream shop. Suncor's president, Bob Horian, said he's trying to secure either Starbucks, Barnie's Coffee & Tea Company or Seattle Coffee Co. for the 1,550-square-foot portion of the facility, and either Dairy Queen or a Nestle soft-serve ice cream shop for remaining 990-square-foot retail space.

Of course, there is already a coffee shop downtown, two actually. Our House Books and Coffee on Commercial Street, and Cool Beans at Magnolia Square. I've drank gallons of Starbucks coffee, but both of these local shops have two advantages. First, both are locally owned and as an employee of a community newspaper, I try to shop local first. Second, both Our House and Cool Beans sell coffee in small, medium and large cup sizes. At Starbucks it's tall, grande and venti. I'm not hip enough to determine which size is which and usually just point to the cup size I want.

Visitors aren't always snowbirds Rainy season brings reptiles slithering into backyards

Depending on where you live, you may have some unwanted visitors these days. With the unusually heavy rain and flooding, you may find yourself in the same neighborhood as alligators and snakes.

Nick Pfeifauf

There are two old-wives tales that go along with this concept. First of all, in high water periods (such as what we have now), they say the alligators and snakes will find more wetlands in which to exist and hunt for food. If a pond springs up in your back yard because of heavy rains, alligators may visit you, and perhaps make a meal out of your dog — something they would find difficult to do in normal habitats. Snakes, which like wetter territory, will have a bigger area in which to slither and may also find their way into your yard.

Then, there's the other side. Those who say alligators and snakes are more apt to come out into residential areas during times of unusually light rainfall or droughts. They are traveling the area looking for water, which is becoming difficult to find because of the drought.

So, no matter which way we look at it, you should tell yourself that you are possibly in danger. Alligators have been known to travel in drainage ditches, a wet alley behind houses, and at times, even down the middle of a street. Small dogs are one of their choice entrees, as are small children.

So, keep your children away from wet land on your property, keep your dog on a leash, and keep your eyes on both — ALL the time.

Day after day we hear about some area where a small child was attacked by an alligator. In most cases, we hear that no one thought there was a gator nearby or none was seen prior to the attack.

Standing down on the shore of Lake Monroe, (if it's possible these days with the construction underway), or any other lake in the area, you can easily see the gators swimming around, just skinning the surface. Tourists find them interesting and in order to bring the gators closer to shore for a better look, they'll toss out some food — a piece of bread or maybe leftover French fries or a burger.

Yes, that will generally bring the gator closer — but it will also tell the gator that man is a great food source, and whenever you see one, come running. That's why we have so many gator attacks along lakeshores.

Anyway — feeding a gator is illegal. If you see someone doing it — either warn them to stop immediately, or call the authorities.

Getting back to the main point, however, in this period of high water and water that may be standing where it normally is dry, be careful. There could be a gator or a snake nearby — and I don't know about you, but as for me — I don't want to get near either of them. I hope you feel the same.

Iraq war: A bait-and-switch con job

We were in North Carolina on Tuesday, delivering the last of our children to college. I left my wife at a Borders bookstore along the way to meet a friend for tea, then headed for Durham. I turned on the radio and heard that the United Nations' headquarters in Baghdad had been bombed and that Sergio Vieira de Mello, the U.N.'s special representative in Iraq, was dead along with at least a dozen more U.N. employees.

My wife's colleagues and friends. She works for the United Nations, is director of one of their principal offices. I turned around, went back to the bookstore and told her what had happened. "The U.N. will stay in Iraq," she said.

"So will we," I thought, meaning the Americans.

"We," Americans, are victims of one of the great "bait-and-switch" con jobs in recent history, taken into harm's way by history-ignorant ideologues. We were told we were in imminent danger, that a truly evil regime in Baghdad had the means and will to do us immediate and mortal harm, that the fools in "Old Europe" and the rest of the world were just cowards when they disagreed with us or tried to warn us it would not be that simple.

Vice President Richard Cheney and Deputy Defense Secretary Paul Wolfowitz, leaders of the zealots, told us how easy it would be, particularly after the initial fighting ended. War on the cheap (they refused to talk about costs) and then Iraqis would greet us with flowers. "Many other countries will want to be with us when that evil regime is removed from power," Wolfowitz said last October. "Some who now criticize us will want to be part of that very positive opportunity to build a more peaceful and just and representative nation in this crucially important Arab and Muslim country. ... Unlike the Balkans, Iraq's recent history is not one of bloody ethnic conflict but rather one of bloody repression by the regime of all ethnic groups."

On the day after the U.N. bombing, The Financial Times quoted Wolfowitz saying it was a mistake for Defense Department to assume Iraqi troops and police would be in place to maintain law and order as crowds cheered American leaders. The paper introduced his quote by saying, "Wolfowitz, in an unusual moment of candor ..."

The zealots seemed capable of saying anything to "bait" us into war — and they have prevailed. Their dream, essentially a unilateral, single-superpower dream, was of a Middle East controlled by the United States, with the rest of the world, led by the United Nations, cleaning up the mess and the details.

Americans, deceived and conned, have woken up to find their magnificently trained, equipped and motivated young soldiers pinned down in a hostile environment, stalked by mujihadeen from other Islamic countries sneaking into the chaos of Iraq. It was not bad enough that terrorists were able to find ways to get into the United States and harm us greatly; we have now set ourselves up on their territory — as targets.

So what? The odds are that President Bush and his men will tough this out, at least politically. The irony of the moment is that the worse they do, the better off they are. On a strategic level, they will argue that any withdrawal now will only embolden terrorists and governments that secretly support them. That is almost certainly true, as argued in an editorial in Newsday, the Long Island newspaper, on Thursday:

"In the past, Washington has set bad examples of its fortitude by pulling out from Beirut after the bombing of the Marine barracks and from Somalia after the Special Forces casualties in Mogadishu. The world must know this won't happen in Iraq, whatever it takes."

Bush can get away with this because — like his coalition junior partner, Tony Blair in England — his opposition is too intimidated by patriotism to argue with him. Most of the Democrats chasing the chance to run against him next year are now criticizing the war, wishing to be sure, but they voted for it when they had a chance to slow him down and ask what exactly he had in mind. They know, as the president knows, that now that our troops are in harm's way, most politicians must "support" them, whatever that means. That's the "switch."

Tax referendum gives Alabama a chance to change

If Arnold Schwarzenegger's moderate views are giving Republicans heartburn, the tax increase pushed by Alabama Gov.

Cynthia Tucker

Bob Riley may cause a r d i a c arrest. Riley, a conservative Republican who has l o n g opposed tax hikes, is leading a revolutionary campaign to raise his state's total taxes by more than a billion dollars while also lowering taxes for the poor.

It is entirely unexpected, but it is also unequivocally good news. Perhaps Alabama could join the 21st century — or at least ease into the 20th — with money for good schools, prison reform and decent health care.

The state's tax code is firmly rooted in the 19th century, when the canon of white supremacy governed politics and agrarian interests controlled the economy. Determined to protect the interests of wealthy property owners, Alabama lawmakers — many of whom were wealthy property owners — enshrined much of the tax code in the state constitution, written in 1901.

As a result, taxes are not only among the lowest in the nation, but the tax code is also among the least progressive, hoisting a staggering load onto the backs of the poor while sparing the wealthy much of a burden. A family of four earning as little as $4,600 pays income tax, the lowest threshold among the 42 states that levy income taxes. But timber owners, who control much of the land, pay an average in property taxes of 95 cents per acre. By comparison, the average in Georgia is around $5 an acre.

With such a narrow tax base, critical services in Alabama remain chronically underfunded. Public schools are a wasteland. The only good news from national surveys of academic achievement is that Alabamians must learn how to count to 50 to find their state in the rankings. (As an Alabama native, I know something about its public schools.)

Even the state's universities have begun to suffer. Crown jewels, such as the medical school at the University of Alabama at Birmingham, are losing their luster. The tax increase would plug the state's budget deficit while leaving $600 million for math, science and reading initiatives and college scholarships, Riley says.

For generations, progressive leaders have tried to reform the tax code, but they have met stiff resistance from major landowners, including such influential groups as Alfa, the Alabama Farmers Federation (which includes timber owners). In 1990, The Birmingham News, the state's largest newspaper, wrote an excellent series of editorials advocating tax reform. The series won the Pulitzer Prize but failed to sway the Legislature.

Tax reform may have remained a quixotic crusade of editorial writers but for the visionary strategy of Susan Pace Hamill, a University of Alabama tax law professor. Studying theology during a sabbatical, she wrote an essay criticizing the tax code — which imposes an effective tax rate of 12 percent on the poorest and 3 percent on the wealthiest taxpayers — as lacking Christian charity. In the buckle of the Bible Belt, her analysis received widespread attention.

Riley, an evangelical Christian, endorsed it. The United Methodist Church, the Presbyterian Church (USA) and the Alabama Southern Baptist Convention, among others, joined with him. Even with that kind of support, passage of the Sept. 9 referendum to amend the constitution is not assured.

For one thing, many Christian conservatives still take it as an article of faith that tax increases are unseemly, if not outright sinful. While national Christian Coalition president Roberta Combs has praised Riley's tax reform plan, the Christian Coalition of Alabama opposes it. And several national conservative groups, including Grover Norquist's Americans for Tax Reform, have pledged to work against the proposal.

Oddly, the proposal is also unpopular among blacks and Alabamians making less than $30,000 a year, segments who would benefit. (While blacks account for only one-fourth of the state's population, they comprise half its poor.) Some influential blacks are fighting it because they resent Riley's stances on unrelated issues, according to state Rep. John Knight, a black Democrat who supports the proposal.

"But this is not the issue to use to get back at him," Knight said.

As its Southern neighbors have grown and prospered, Alabama has lagged behind, especially in educational achievement. Even now, this is a state whose bootstraps are almost out of reach. If Alabama blows this chance, another generation of its poor will pay hefty taxes to send their children to inferior schools.

New elementary slated for Chuluota

New school will officially be named next

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
 Staff Writer

A groundbreaking ceremony for Elementary "J" School, which will receive its official name in September, was held Tuesday in Chuluota.

Construction on the facility, located at 3101 Snow Hill Road in Chuluota, began immediately following the ceremony. The $8.4 million project is scheduled for completion in July 2004, just in time for the first day of school on Aug. 2.

The 114,000 square foot educational center will be identical to Highlands and Bentley elementary schools.

The two-story, brick building will feature 38 classrooms, several resource rooms, a computer lab, art and music suites, a media center with a television studio and a multipurpose cafeteria with a stage. The building, being constructed by Clancy and Theys Construction Company with architecture by SchenkelShultz Architecture, will also feature a covered, outdoor physical education pavilion.

The school will accommodate a student population of 800, which will significantly cut down on the overpopulation problem at local schools in the surrounding areas. "Subdivisions are going up all around that area," said Richard Wells, director of community involvement and public information and interim transportation director of Seminole County Public Schools. "We needed a new school to handle the number of students."

According to Wells, schools such as Stenstrom Elementary are currently serving 30 more students than it was built for. Other facilities such as Partin, Carillon and Evans elementary schools have 136, 188 and 200 more students, respectively, than intended.

The public is asked to submit, in writing, their suggestions for the school's official name to Seminole County Public Schools. According to a representative of Deputy Superintendent Dianne Kramer's office, the school board members will vote on the name during their September board meeting.

Nandina: The heavenly and sacred bamboo

Nandina, known as the Heavenly Bamboo or Sacred Bamboo, is an evergreen shrub from the Barberry plant family introduced to the United States as an ornamental plant in 1804.

Native to central China and Japan and west to India, it produces a bluish-green foliage which often turns red to reddish purple in fall and winter. In late spring or early summer, panicles of creamy flowers appear, followed by spectacular clusters of red berries that persist through the winter. It has become naturalized in some wooded areas in north Florida and is considered to be invasive.

The plant Nandina is a multi-stemmed plant, with bamboo-like canes, growing about 2 to 8 feet tall. The evergreen, fernlike, horizontal, compound leaves, measure 12 to 20 inches long and have elliptic, leathery leaflets to 2 inches in length, reddish when young and turning red or purple in autumn.

Leaves have bulbous swellings present along rachis. In the spring, it produces small white flowers that are borne in upright, terminal panicles up to one foot long. Individual flowers are bisexual, petals pinkish white and with prominent yellow anthers. The fruits are round, bright red berries, contain two seeds per fruit and measure about quarter of an inch wide. Fruits are poisonous.

Culture: This plant grows best in the northern part of the state on hardiness zones six-nine. This shrub has been grown in southern Florida but is short-lived there. It is not heat tolerant. Nandina grows best in moist acid loam soils, but it tolerates a wide range of other soil types and withstands drought.

Grows best in full sun but tolerates partial shade. Winter sun helps redden foliage. Nandina should be planted in groups to improve the formation of berries. If left unpruned, it becomes leggy. Remove old canes or cut canes to various lengths to create a dense plant.

To reduce height on a large plant, prune tallest one-third of stems back to 6 inches long each year. Canes cannot be forced to branch. Nandina is considered a plant with little or no pest problems. Scale insects may affect this plant occasionally and root rot induced by soil-inhabiting fungi can cause some damage in wet soils.

Propagation: Bird such as mockingbirds, cedar waxwings, cardinals and robins are attracted to the red fruits and help disperse the seeds. Squirrels and opossums and raccoons also contribute to the dispersal of the seeds. Seeds may take many months or two seasons to germinate and are difficult to germinate under artificial conditions. The plant produces rhizomes that can be used to propagate this plant by division. Valuable specimens have been propagated using tissue-culture techniques.

Landscape uses: This plant with such beautiful colors and low maintenance requirements certainly has a place in any landscape. It can be used as a groundcover, shrub, hedge, screen, border, specimen, container or planter, for mass planting or accent. It is splendid as a foundation plant if kept below 5 feet.

Varieties: Alba has dull white berries; Compacta is a dwarf form growing about three feet high and producing little quantities of berries; Harbor Dwarf, another dwarf form under 2 feet, with a pinkish-bronze spring color and red-bronze fall color; Atropurpurea Nana, a dwarf form growing under 2 feet tall, with foliage tinged reddish purple year round and leaves somewhat cupped. Dwarf cultivars with some red fall color and little amounts of fruits are becoming popular. The varieties Harbor Dwarf and Firepower do not produce seeds in nursery environments.

Ecological problems: Nandina has invaded and become naturalized in woodlands of three counties in North Carolina. It has also invaded woodlands in northern Florida, Georgia and Alabama, displacing native vegetation. It has been found forming dense groves in habitats of Florida Caverns State Park affecting the native flora. It has been reported as an invasive plant in Jackson, Gadsden, Leon, Wakulla and Citrus counties.

At Ferrer in Seminole County Urban Horticultural, inquiries may be directed to him at the Cooperative Extension service, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford, FL 32773 or phone 665-5558. Lake Mary officer on the prowl Officer Kevin Pratt of the Lake Mary Police Department Special Operations K9 Unit with Joker, Lake Mary's rookie K9 officer.

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

The Lake Mary Police Department recently welcomed a new officer to the force. The rookie enjoys Scooby Snacks rather than doughnuts during his breaks, can run through the streets without being reprimanded and sometimes drools after a successful capture of a suspect.

The officer in question is a 2-year-old German Shepherd named Joker. The purebred is a full-service police dog, the first in 14 years for the Lake Mary Police Department.

Joker is a wonderful addition to the police department," said Lake Mary Police Chief Richard M. Beary. "He has a great personality."

Once it was determined Joker had the personality to become a police dog — play and prey drives, social skills and courage — he was partnered with Officer Kevin Pratt of the Special Operations K9 Unit, who received a transfer from the investigations division. The two immediately began attending a K9 training academy hosted by the Apopka Police Department.

Since March, Pratt and Joker have logged more than 510 training hours, plus 140 hours of specialty training in drug sniffing. Joker, who was trained using positive reinforcements such as toys, treats and playtime, will continue a rigorous training schedule to maintain his level of accuracy.

"He is a wonderful partner," said Pratt. "We live together and go to work together. He's absolutely great. He is very balanced — he is a well-mannered dog at home, but knows the difference between his off time and work time."

As a member of the police department, Joker is responsible for several aspects of police work, including patrols. With his keen sense of smell, Joker is able to track lost people or suspects who have committed crimes, and conduct building and area searches.

"He can search a building more thoroughly with his nose to pick up human scents to help narrow our search down," said Pratt, who began his career as a police officer in Lake Mary nearly five years ago. "It would take several officers a long time to do what he can do in a few minutes."

"It's his senses and agility that make him invaluable," he added.

Joker is trained not only to track, but also to apprehend suspects, specifically those who aren't compliant. Joker is also trained to "sniff out" six types of drugs.

"Our role is to back up and assist other officers in high profile cases and drug calls," explained Pratt.

In order to help spread the word about the Lake Mary Police Department's K9 unit, Joker and Pratt will conduct demonstrations at community events throughout Lake Mary and Seminole County, including at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Art Festival, and various schools and churches.

Stetson's Corner: 'Send the kids to the woods'

Our recent trip to North Carolina found us in the Pisgah National Forest at the Cradle of Forestry — where forestry as a science began in America. If you are ever anywhere near this place, you need to visit. There is much all of us can learn from those who love and care for the land.

Prior to that trip, I attended the Little Big Econ State Forest Management Plan Advisory Group public hearing held at the Geneva Community Center. This meeting, a chance for the public to give input into the now 10-year plan for the 5,048 acres off Snowhill Road in Geneva, helped citizens understand what the Florida Division of Forestry (DOF) envisions for this parcel and how they interact with other agencies to ensure harmony in all areas of concern.

The St. Johns River Water Management District, the Florida Fish & Wildlife Conservation Commission, the Division of Historical Resources, Conservation and Reserved Lands (CARL), Save Our Rivers (SOR), and a board of trustees all oversee the management of the forest resources, recreation, wildlife, water resources and historical and archaeological treasure found therein.

The plan laid out for attendees that night has now been sent to Tallahassee for review and finalization by the Acquisition and Restoration Council, where public comment will be welcomed as well. The goals of the plan are close to those held by the men who attended the Billmore Forest School in 1898:

- To restore, maintain and protect in perpetuity all native ecosystems.
- To ensure the long term viability of populations and species considered rare, endangered, threatened or of special concern.
- To integrate human use through a total resource concept, not emphasizing any particular use over the others or over restoration, maintenance and protection of native ecosystems.
- To protect known archaeological and historical resources.
- To practice sustainable forest management utilizing sound silvicultural techniques. (The process by which a forest is tended, harvested and replaced is called a silvicultural system.)

Those attending the meeting that night had questions and requests of the advisory group including concerns about timber harvesting techniques, burning as a management tool, identification of historical sites and a presentation by Kent Wimmer of the Florida Trail Association asking for consideration of land purchases to provide connectivity for the 1,300-mile Florida National Scenic Trail. All left pleased with what they had seen and heard, as no major changes appeared to be in store for this multi-use state forest.

"The debris on the ground is a curse to the trees of the mountains by feeding fires; and a blessing to the waters of the mountains by preventing erosion..." (Dr. C.A. Schenck-Billmore Forest Fair Guidebook)

According to DOF's Will Kitchings, the major management priorities during the next 10 years include:

- Prescribed burning
- Restoration/reforestation of pastures
- Exotic species control
- Forest inventory
- Recreation (look for possible canoe trail signs in the future)
- Boundary marking and security
- Restoration of natural communities
- Fire lines and trails
- Roads
- Plan Development (silvicultural and hydrological)
- Mitigation projects (the restoration of wetlands by developers who build on other off-site wetlands)

Send the kids indeed! This Saturday, Aug. 23, at 10:30 a.m. dedication of the Ed Yarborough Pavilion will take place at this out of Fort Eustis, Va., Hill drives supply tractor trailers. A couple times a month, he would depart from his assigned station at a Kuwaiti naval base and drive a supply shipment toward the interior of Iraq. The furthest northwest he trucked inland from the Persian Gulf was within a 100 miles of the Iraqi capital, Baghdad.

The Seminole High graduate participated in ROTC all four years and recently met his fiancée while serving.

Crystal Ecabert, of Sumter, S.C., is also an E4 specialist based at Fort Eustis. She returned from Iraq July 6 and waited for her future husband to follow about three weeks later.

"I went over before he did, but then I came home before him," she said.

The two spent their first day back together in Florida by celebrating at Busch Gardens.

"We were planning it when we were over there," Ecabert said.

While they were away, Emma and her husband Rudy Encarnacion were preparing for Hill's return. Complete with a welcome home cookout last Saturday and an honor service at church the following day, Emma was still cooking — everything from cookies to turkey — early Thursday morning "trying to get them some of those things that they didn't have over there."

Service at church "was really nice," she said. The dedication to four soldiers including Hill and Ecabert was the only way to honor those who gave so much for their country, said Rico Sharp, pastor of Spirit of Truth Worship Ministry in Sanford.

"I look at it like this," he said, "Calvin went over there and laid his life on the line for us. He helped fight for the country we live in so that we can maintain the security, the luxury and the comfort we all enjoy here in America. I believe that having him home is a great token and it reflects on what Jesus did for us when he went to the cross."

anyone to ever have to see.

Later that night, about 2300, traffic had dwindled down and they had brought in portable lights and generators. We, the 2nd Cav, and CNN were the only ones left there, along with some workers. By midnight the only sound was the hum of generators running the lights. We stood guard while the workers continued working through the night.

A CNN guy, named Willie, from Scotland, gave us some cookies and sodas. There was a footbridge between my two locations, and we and CNN were the only ones in that area. The media cameramen used the footbridge to shoot their footage from. Willie let me and my soldiers use his satellite phone to call home,

I guess CNN picked up the tab. I cycled all my soldiers through using the phone, then I got to talk with my wife and my boys from the scene.

Joyce said she had been watching on CNN and she and some of the other wives had identified our vehicles on TV by the bumper numbers and some of their husbands.

Before I started using the phone, I had walked down to the CNN truck and heard shots ring out real close in the neighborhood on the other side of the highway. So I ran to get cover behind the CNN truck, so I was actually talking to Joyce while taking cover behind the truck. Later I stopped and checked a vehicle being driven by one of the ambassadors to the UN. It was one hectic day, you might say it started with a blast, but it was one of the biggest events to happen.

They said it was a cement truck loaded with explosives that blew up in front of the UN. It really doesn't make logical sense to me for the enemy to do that to the UN because it will only bring down an international wrath on them that didn't exist before.

It would seem more logical for the enemy to have done this to the U.S. headquarters and not the UN that hasn't been in total agreement with the U.S. on Iraq. But that's the part that mystifies my detective nature, something doesn't fit the usual pattern on this one. I'm just always suspicious of such things.

very spot. Located at the Division of Forestry in the Little Big Econ State Forest at 1350 Snowhill Road in Geneva. The pavilion is a tribute to a man who also loved the land and worked to manage it well, and is a joint venture between Seminole Community College, DOF and friends and family who made donations to the project. The ceremony is open to the public and will include the planting of a tree at the site. The pavilion offers picnic tables and a grill and features a plaque honoring the late Geneva rancher. RSVP at 407-359-9341.

Send the kids here too! The Ed Yarborough Nature Center at the Geneva Wilderness Area will soon be a bit larger and will include office space for Seminole County Natural Lands employees. Work has begun on these improvements, which will more easily accommodate large groups and handicapped individuals, while still maintaining the rustic integrity of the site. Look for completion of this project no later than spring of next year. For information about the schedule of events at the Yarborough Nature Center, or other Natural Lands programs, contact

Handlebar hints: Area company teaches motorcycle safety

By Jamie J. Anderson-Potter
Staff Writer

Is the freedom of the open road calling you?

If so, Ace Motorcycle Safety, Inc., a Seminole County-based company, can help get you on your way to feeling the wind in your hair and the thrill of adventure.

The school, which moved its 5-year-old company from Maitland to its new location on Ronald Reagan Boulevard just outside Lake Mary nearly two months ago, teaches its students to ride motorcycles and handle unforeseen obstacles that may arise while on a ride.

"This class has saved my life at least three times that I know of," said Laura Treadway, founder and owner of Ace. "It's all about the confidence level of the rider. The bike shouldn't intimidate its rider."

Treadway, who took the class in 1996 to prepare for a trip to the annual Sturgis Motorcycle Rally in Sturgis, Mich., decided to open her own company less than two years later in order to better prepare students for riding a motorcycle.

The curriculum of the safety course is designed to create a mental attitude that fosters safe riding and enforces proper riding skills in the student.

"Since taking the class, I realize I didn't know what I didn't know," said 43-year-old Gerald Martin of Lake Mary, who has ridden a motorcycle in the past and owns a Harley Davidson. "The class has taught me to go from mechanical while on the bike to natural. It's helped me feel comfortable and safe."

According to Floyd Deffinger, the school's manager, more and more individuals — including women — are signing up to learn to ride a motorcycle. He says, as long as students can maintain balance on a bicycle, they can ride a motorcycle.

"It's the feeling of freedom you have when you're riding that attracts students," he said. "You can have a better view of the world because you don't have four walls around you like in a car."

"This class is good for women, too, especially if they are tired of being on the back [of the motorcycle]," he continued. "If something happens to the bike or her husband, the woman can get the bike home or go for help. I taught my wife to ride a motorcycle."

The course is designed for beginner riders and is taught using an interactive learning process. In the classroom, students learn the parts of the bike, and how to keep control of and manipulate the clutch. Then, the range practice prepares students to actually ride the motorcycle.

"I've always wanted to ride — ever since I was 16 years old," said Joseph Jones, 21, an active duty Marine stationed in San Diego, Calif., on leave visiting family in Casselberry. "The hardest part of the class has been getting everything I knew about riding a bike out of my head and learning the right things."

The school furnishes students with a motorcycle from its fleet of Kawasaki Eliminator 125s, Honda Rebel 250s, Suzuki GZ 250s and Ninja 250s. The bikes are strictly for training purposes and are not street legal — they are missing turn signals and mirrors because students often drop the bikes, and break these items, during the learning process.

Students are also furnished with helmets and gloves, if they don't own these articles. The only gear students are required to wear are pants, long-sleeved shirts, ankle footwear (such as high top tennis shoes or boots) and eye protection (such as glasses, sunglasses, goggles or a face shield).

According to Deffinger, it is mandatory for riders under the age of 21 to complete a motorcycle safety course, but it's also highly recommended for older riders.

"Our priority is student safety and learning," Deffinger said. "My job is to stop things before they happen so if I see something the student is doing that is a safety hazard I can't pass them until they resolve the problem."

"We don't rush students, they can move at their own pace," he added. "We have things to do to help those who are struggling."

Susanna Madau of Ace Motorcycle Safety, Inc., instructs student Joseph Jones, 21. Jones is an active duty Marine stationed in San Diego, Calif., who is on leave visiting family in Casselberry.

Upon successful completion of the written and riding tests, students are presented with a certificate of completion that will enable them to add the certification to their driver's license and receive discounts on insurance. Several motorcycle dealerships in the area also offer incentive packages those individuals who have successfully completed the course and purchase a bike six months before or after the class.

According to Treadway, who owns several acres surrounding Ace, the business will expand in the future to include safety instruction for street bikes, dirt bikes and all-terrain vehicles (ATVs).

not something that we're hypothesizing about, this is really hurting our business."

According to Temple, he and other businesspeople along the corridor are concerned that they were not informed of the Florida Department of Transportation's (FDOT) intent to close the lanes, making it impossible for them to plan ahead and staff accordingly on those evenings.

According to Steve Homan, public information officer for the Central Florida district of the Department of Transportation, the exit ramp will be closed intermittently on Sunday as well.

"Most of the work occurs during the nighttime hours because that's when you have less traffic and drivers are less likely to get killed," said Homan. "We try to maintain access to the businesses."

"It's difficult to maintain 80,000 cars daily on the road without having to have lane closures during construction periods," he added.

"I'm sorry for their inconvenience, but it minimizes the inconvenience for the masses."

According to Temple, in order to help reduce the impact on tourism-based businesses, construction should have been scheduled in November and December when leisure and corporate travel nearly comes to a halt.

"Because of the extensive impact they have had on the corridor in last year, I'm hoping the intent [of the FDOT] is to try to facilitate placing the blue ID logo signs [directional signs] on I-4," said Temple. "This would really help us out and give us the boost we need."

While traveling east and westbound on I-4 the only directional signs at the State Road 46 exit are for gas stations, there are no signs to direct people to exit for restaurants or hotels.

Roger Eudy, DOT state administrator for the logo sign program, says that once construction is complete the department can make a decision on what logo signs to place on I-4.

County firefighter coordinating the MDA drive for Local 3254.

The fire fighter local with the largest "Fill the Boot" total is announced on MDA telenation aired Labor Day in Central Florida on Fox 35.

About 40 county fire fighters will be stationed Aug. 29, 30 and 31 at the intersections of Red Bug Lake and Tuskawilla roads and Wekiva Springs Boulevard and State Road 434. "Will start those three mornings will start at about 9:30 until whenever the heat gets the best of us," she said.

Last year, Seminole County fire fighters raised more than $5,600 and the goal for 2003 is to eclipse that mark, Batton said.

Other municipal fire departments in Seminole County have already started the campaign, such as the Sanford Fire Department. All departments will wrap up the drive Labor Day weekend — except for the Oviedo Fire Department which has already wrapped up their boot drive.

Other MDA benefit projects Seminole County fire fighters are coordinating includes a MDA "Lock Up" that is scheduled for the Seminole County area on Wednesday, Oct. 1, at Froggers in Oviedo from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Batton says a Seminole County fire fighter calendar benefiting MDA is also in the works.

conference center were to go through, which at this point is highly unlikely, the $170,000 needed annually from the city to fund the project would be allocated from its general fund budget. The money, which is currently used to support the Sanford Civic Center, would instead be used to finance the conference center for 20 or 30 years, depending on the structure of the deal.

According to Kevin Smith, the city's finance director, the theory is that the money will no longer be needed for the civic center since it would become part of the privately run conference center. Therefore, the funds could be used for the conference center.

The Sanford Downtown Community Redevelopment Agency (CRA), the organization responsible for the redevelopment of downtown Sanford, would also be responsible for approximately the same amount, said Lessard.

"Although the conference center plan would definitely have worked monetarily with the current deal," said Lessard, "we would like to give the CRA revenues a chance to increase and mature. We would like to base our calculations on the mature numbers instead of assumptions of what the numbers might be."

"I've always advocated any product we go with has to be a great deal, not just a good deal. I think this would make a great deal for the city, but not for the CRA because of operating on assumptions of what revenues will increase by."

The city's community development director, Andrew Van Gaale said the city is concerned about the loss of businesses in the downtown. The supervisor of elections office is being relocated to the airport, and the criminal division of the courthouse — along with the state attorney's office and the public defender — will move to the Five Points area on U.S. Highway 17-92 next to the Seminole County Sheriff's Office.

"At this point we are again looking at what the CRA's goals and objectives are for downtown. We're asking them what the options are, if this isn't it," Van Gaale said.

Lessard says the CRA and the city will turn its focus to the streetscape project on First Street and will evaluate the potential of the city's civic center.

"We're losing $170,000 a year on the civic center and it's a drain on city resources," he said. "While it does provide services on a limited scope, with that building's location we should have someone in there every day."

According to Lessard, Suncor will continue to revisit the conference center plan to develop it further.

"They're keeping us in the dark," said Bob Horian, president of Suncor Properties, Inc., who says he will have to wait until commissioners vote on Monday night to have a final answer. "We're not sure if they want to mix the entire project, milk it down or put it on hold."

Ron Semans, vice president of Suncor Properties, Inc., who commends Lessard and the city staff for their efforts to bring a conference center to Sanford, agrees, saying, "We still believe in Sanford. We are optimistic about the other projects in Sanford."

Eckstein goes on Disabled List

Special to the Herald

The banged-up Anaheim Angels got more bad news after Tuesday night's loss to the White Sox when manager Mike Scioscia revealed that shortstop David Eckstein has been placed on the 15-day disabled list because of an inflamed nerve in his right hamstring.

Eckstein joins third baseman Troy Glaus (out for season, torn rotator cuff), center fielder Darin Erstad (DL, right hamstring tendinitis) and designated hitter Brad Fullmer (out for season, torn knee ligament) as starters from the Angels' 2002 World Series championship team who are not playing right now.

The Angels got the result of the Former Seminole High star out with hamstring problem

MRI taken on Eckstein and it confirmed an inflamed nerve in the shortstop's right hamstring. Eckstein then met with team doctor Lewis Yocum, who advised that Eckstein be "shut down," until early next week, Scioscia said.

If Eckstein's condition improves, he will be allowed to resume baseball activities and can hope to get back in games after four or five days of workouts. The first day he is eligible to return is Sept. 2, when the Angels are in Minnesota.

Eckstein first felt pain in the area last week and missed three games. He started the following three games, but was pulled from the Angels' win over Detroit last Sunday because the pain had reached his lower back.

Wednesday night, Anaheim lost its third straight game to get swept out of Chicago after winning six of seven on a homestand. The Angels, who fell to 60-67 on the year, are now tied for last place in the American League West Division with the Texas Rangers, who have won eight consecutive games.

Since division play began in 1969, the only team to have won a World Series one year and finished in last place in its division the following year is the Florida Marlins, who won it all in 1997, then had a fire sale of talent before the following campaign.

Unlike the Marlins, however, the Angels brought practically their entire roster back for a run at the title, but the crippling injuries to first-stringers Glaus, Erstad, Fullmer and Eckstein have taken their toll.

They have called up 12 players from Triple-A Salt Lake since the beginning of the season, and six of them played in Wednesday night's game.

SCC's newest signees tall and talented

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

Okay Seminole Community College basketball fans, you can start breathing again.

When the first round of new recruits were announced in June there appeared to be a lot of talent, excellent statistics and prestigious awards and honors. But very little height.

Well that has all changed as Cromartie and his staff has announced six more signees, including three players over 6-foot-8.

Knowledgeable fans may also notice that SCC now has 11 new signees and with only 12 scholarships available, that means only one player from last year is returning.

"We cleaned house," said Cromartie. "We were fairly successful on the court last year, but there were some other problems off the floor and we felt we needed to go in a new direction. The difference already has been amazing."

Upwelling gone with the wind

Special to the Herald

Finally after several weeks of very cold water temperatures along the East Coast the water is warming up.

Have you tried to swim or fish in the Atlantic Ocean in the past few weeks? If you have, you know exactly what I mean by cold water.

Daytona Beach had temperatures as low as 58 degrees just a couple of weeks ago. This phenomenon labeled "cold water upwelling" has finally moved out to sea.

The cold water upwelling is caused by constant wind from the southwest pushing the warm water out to sea and causing a tornado like action below the surface. During this time the cold water from the deep is pushed to the shallow waters.

It has had a major effect on the fish. Fish become lethargic when the temperatures get this low. Many of the fish will move to where the warm waters reside and it can make the fishing very tough for charter boats and commercial fisherman.

Many of the bottom fishing boats were basically out of luck during this time and the sport fishing boats had to travel twice as far for fishing action. Our most recent tropical depression changed the whole picture as it moved toward Florida.

The water temperatures around Port Canaveral went from the low 60's to the mid 70's within a day or two following the tropical depression. As the beach temperature rose the temperature at the 20 mile mark dropped 8 degrees.

Things have pretty much returned to normal and the fishing is much better. Luckily for us inshore guys it did not affect the fish in the Titusville area. The fishing See Outdoors, Page 13

Oviedo shines at Bulls Camp

By Dean Smith
 Sports Editor

The Oviedo football team has made an early statement.

Led by quarterback Lee Sloan and a stifling defense, the Lions ran roughshod over the competition at the recent University of South Florida Passing Camp in Tampa.

While the camp was only for "skill" position players and involved 7-on-7 play, Oviedo still showed everyone that it will be ready to contend for district and postseason honors when the regular season begins the first weekend in September.

"It was amazing to see the development of the guys over the three days," said coach Rodney Torrance, an assistant to Oviedo head coach Greg Register during the season. "The kids just got better and better as the camp progressed."

Each game was half the length of a normal high school game and was played with a running clock.

The Camp began with the Lions playing five games to determine seeding and then three games during elimination.

Pro Mod Doubleheader set for SpeedWorld and New Smyrna

From Staff Reports

Team FASCAR announced Monday that the FASCAR Pro Mods will run a doubleheader on September 5 and September 6.

On September 5, the Pro Mods will run 50 laps at what fans affectionately call "the bullring" at Orlando SpeedWorld in Bithlo. Orlando SpeedWorld is a 3/8 mile oval with 18 degree banking and is what drivers call "a driver's track". The one important thing you need to know at this track is how to drive and you better have a good handling car.

Then on September 6, the Pro Mods will move to New Smyrna Speedway, the 1/2 mile 18 degree banked sister track of Orlando SpeedWorld for another 50 laps of non-stop action. This is our fun track and a great place to race.

New for the Pro Mods will be a $500 bonus to the driver with the best average overall from the two nights of racing.

Expect to see Jerry Symons and D.J. Hoelzle who have fought all season long for the points championship. Both these racers have very good cars and D.J. has won almost every pole this year for the Pro Mod Series. Also expect Brad May, Jerry Artuso, Tank Tucker, Rob Underwood just to name a few.

Tonight (August 23rd), the Pro Mods will run for 100 laps at Citrus County Speedway in Inverness, Florida for $3,000 to win.

Pit Gates will open at 2 p.m. on both days with grandstands opening at 6 p.m. Racing action starts at 8 p.m. at Orlando SpeedWorld and at 7:30 p.m. at New Smyrna Speedway.

Tonight NSS will be holding YMCA Night featuring a V-8 Demolition Derby plus heats and features in the regular FASCAR divisions of Super Late Model, Late Model, Mini-Stock, Sportsman, Super Stock and Strictly Stock. No modifieds this week.

The Super Late Models and the Late Models had last weekend off when the Goodyear Challenge Late Model Series ran a 100 lap event at New Smyrna. But it is David Rogers with the points lead for the Super Lates. B.J. McLeod moved into second with 360 points over third place Wayne Parker with 252 putting these two drivers in a close points battle for second.

Guy Thomas comes in fourth with 220 points over fifth place David Frohlich with 176. Joe Fitos, Brent Hobbs, Mark Vandevender, Chris Fontaine and Mike Finn round out the top ten.

Brian Bellaw in his Jolly Roger's/Blackies Saloon No. 77 Late Model leads the points for the Late Model division and is doing his best for his second points championship. Tim Clark comes in second with 268 points followed by Mark Smith with 236, Bobby Orr with 180 and Timmy Todd with 172 who is also tied with Larry Osteen at 172. Don Hess comes in seventh with 156 followed by Chris Lawrence with 132 and David Rogers rounds out the top ten with 108.

The Open Wheel Modifieds will be off Saturday night but coming back into action on August 30th it will be Bobby Blake leading the points with 420 points followed by Mark Vandevender, Brad May, Matt Wheeler, and David Castello. Justin Henderson, Jim "Hoot" Flynn, Paul Duncan, John Zidek, and Skip Honaker round out the top ten.

Billy Spada leads the Sportsman division with 436 points followed by Ron Lufcy with 396 points. Bill Love comes in third with 276 points with Dale Clouser in fourth and only four points behind Love with 272 points. Chris Peludat comes in fifth with 244 points but since he has sold his Sportsman this could change tonight.

Jim Snyder, John Nusbaum, Dusty Downer, Paul Colgan and Mike Trocki complete the top 10.

Ted "Mr Mini Stock" Vulpius holds a 12 point lead over second place Tim "Missileman" McPhail in the Mini Stock division. This will be a tight points battle until the very end of the season. Rex Christensen comes in third with 448 points followed by David Castello and Ben Hutto in the top five. Wayne Clark, Bob Delmastro, Troy Kruse, Chris Jones and Robbie Storer complete the top ten.

With his win last weekend, Charlie Collins took over the points in the Super Stock division by four over second place Ron Whaley. Collins stands at 496 points to Whaley's 492 points but the battle is far from over for these two. The Championship could go either way. Jeff Colburn comes in third with 364 points followed by Josh Wronkowski with 328 and Mike Amato with 276 points. Butch Pierce, Bob Trombley, Todd Driscoll, Rob Waitford and Nick Vogler round out the top ten.

Gates open at 5 p.m. and racing begins at 7:30 p.m. every Saturday night at the track located at the corner of SR. 44 and CR 415, between New Smyrna, DeLand and Daytona.

Test and Tune will be held this coming Wednesday (August 27th) from 6 p.m. to 10 p.m. at Orlando Speedworld.

Cost is $20, which is good for the car and three people in the pits only, while individuals can enter for $5.

Next Friday night (August 29th) Speedworld is tentatively scheduled to hold heats and features in all of the regular FASCAR classes of Super Late Model, Modified, Mini-Stock, Sportsman, Super Stock and Strictly Stock, plus the Bardalero Bandits and Young Guns.

Gates open a 6 p.m. and racing begins at 8 p.m. every Friday night at the track located 17 miles east of Orlando between Orlando and Titusville on Highway 50 at the 520 Cocoa Cutoff.

For more information call the FASCAR offices at (407) 568-1367 (Orlando) or (386) 427-4129 (New Smyrna), or check the internet site at WWW.NEWSMYRNASPEEDWAY.COM, or E-Mail at FASCARNOW@AOL.COM.

Rushawn Johnson will be the only returnee from last year's 22-10 team for SCC this fall. The 6-foot-2 guard shot 40-percent from three-point range, the 13th best in the state, as a freshman.

SCC

During the second half of the season Johnson, from Baker County High School, came on strong with his outside shooting ability and became one of Cromartie's top reserves. He finished the season as the 13th best three-point shooter in the state, making 40-percent of his attempts from behind the stripe.

Johnson will be counted on heavily for sophomore leadership as he will be the only player around with college playing experience.

But if looks have anything to do with it, he will be the leader of a very talented group of players.

Among the new signees is Will Greene, a 6-foot-10-and-a-half center from Palo Duro High School in Amarillo, Texas and Kermanie Samuels, a 6-foot-10 forward/center from Kingston, Jamaica.

The other 'big man' is Daniachew Miller, a 6-foot-8 forward from New Providence, Nassau, Bahamas.

Miller is the second player from the Bahamas to sign with SCC, joining Nassau's Adorn Charlow, a 6-foot-5, 230-pound power forward from A.F. Adderley High School.

Cromartie was also pleased to announce the signing of Lake Howell High School's Joivan Forestier. The 6-foot-1 guard averaged 9 points, 4 rebounds, 5 assists, and 3 steals per game, during a senior season in which he helped the Silver Hawks set a school record for wins in a season and earn their first ever trip to the State Final Four.

The final new member to the team is Aaron Ball, a 6-foot-1 combo guard from Vanguard High School in Ocala. During his senior year Ball averaged 14 points, 5 rebounds, 5 assists, and 5 steals per game on his way to being named First Team All Area and All-State Honorable Mention.

That sextet will join previous signees Vincent Mosley and Kevin Thomas from Dillard High School in Ft. Lauderdale, Thomas Williams from Kathleen High School in Lakeland, William Graham from Dixie County High School in Cross City and Travis Jones from Olympia High School.

Mosley, a 6-foot-4 guard/forward, and Thomas, a 5-foot-11 point guard, were starters on a Dillard team that went 32-1 this season and upset nationally-ranked Edgewater in the finals to win its fourth straight Class 6A State Championship.

Thomas averaged 13 points and eight assists per game this season and was named Second Team All State and Second Team All Area-South Region. He was also ranked by Breakdown.com as the 21st best senior in Florida.

Mosley, meanwhile, averaged 10 points and seven rebounds per game this season.

Williams, a 6-foot-4 small forward/guard, averaged 14 points, five rebounds and five assists per game as a senior and helped the Red Devils win the 2001 Class 4A State Championship as a junior.

This past season he was named, All Polk County by the Lakeland Ledger.

Graham, a 6-foot-7 forward, averaged 12 points, eight rebounds, 3.2 blocks, and 2 steals per game as a senior and was named a Class 2A All-State Honorable Mention.

Jones, a 6-foot-2 guard, was ranked the 20th best senior in Florida by Breakdown.com, after averaging 23 points, four rebounds, three assists, and two steals per game as a senior and was named All-State Honorable Mention in Class 6A.

Cromartie also said that there is a very good possibility that the 6-foot-9 son of "Tree" Rollins, the ex-NBA star and former Orlando Magic assistant coach, will walk onto the team. Rollins, who played at Dr. Phillips High School, went to a college in Indiana last year, but did not play, leaving him with two years of eligibility.

With talent like this on paper, Cromartie and his staff can hardly wait for November to roll around.

In other Mid-Florida Conference news, Daytona Beach Community College (DBCC) has hired Brad Underwood as its new men's basketball coach to replace Frank Burnell, who resigned on June 9 to take a coaching position at the University of South Florida.

Underwood comes to DBCC from Western Illinois University where he has served as the first assistant coach and recruiting coordinator the past 10 years, and prior to that was the head coach for five years at Dodge City Community College in Dodge City, Kansas.

A native of Kansas, Underwood attended Independence Community College as a student-athlete where he played in the NJCAA National Championship game in 1984, and went on to be the starting point guard for two years at Kansas State University.

Lions

The 21 players who attended the camp easily showed that they were the best group there as they went a perfect 8-0 to claim the championship.

Oviedo outscored its opponents 237-67 and the defense picked off 15 passes.

Sloan, meanwhile, was shredding the opposition throwing numerous touchdown passes and only having two of his passes intercepted.

Torrance was assisted by his father, Rodney Torrance

Sr., and Coach Evans.

In addition to Sloan, other Lions in attendance were Ray Brown, Jason Raulerson, Shamus Wright, Charlie Parker, Will Harrison, Johnny Girard, Brice Patrick, Franky Gonzalez, Ivan Kovacevic, Justin Rock, Steven Gould, Chris Baker, Mike Roberts, Travis Gallo, Octavio Guadalupe, Chris Martin, Teddy Bernard, David Cole and Al Ricks.

With 11 starters, seven on offense including First Team All-Seminole Athletic Conference Quarterback

Sloan, returning from last year's 10-2 season and a camp championship under its belt, Oviedo seems primed for a run at its first district title since 1988.

Fans can get an early peek at the newest edition of the Lions next Friday when they travel to Titusville to take on Astronaut in a "Classic" game starting at 7 p.m. The regular season begins on Friday, September 5th with Oviedo hosting Lakewood Ranch from Bradenton in its annual Hall-of-Fame Game starting at 7:30 p.m. at John Courier Field.

CASSELBERRY TO HOLD COOL SNACK EVENT TODAY

According to the American Heart Association, cardiovascular disease (CVD) is the number one killer in America and lack of physical activity is clearly to be a risk factor for coronary heart disease.

That is why the City of Casselberry Parks and Recreation Department and the American Heart Association are teaming up and presenting the Healthy Hearts in our Parks program. Together, the two organizations will host monthly activities that promote healthy living in outdoor venues such as Secret Lake Park, Wirz Park and other Casselberry locations.

On Saturday, August 23rd, join the City of Casselberry Parks and Recreation Department and the American Heart Association at Secret Lake Park from 2 p.m. -4 p.m. Cool off this summer with cool and healthy snacks such as fruit freezes, frozen treats and more! Snacks and recipes will be provided. While you're there, learn about how eating healthy can save your life with tips from the American Heart Association.

For more information about the Healthy Hearts in our Parks program, please visit www.casselberry.org, contact Leah Canlas at 407-262-7720, extension 1304 or email her at events@casselberry.org.

If you would like to volunteer at the Cool Snack event, please contact her as soon as possible.

RAGE FOOTBALL TRYOUTS

Final open try-outs for the Orlando Rage Minor League (Semi-Pro) Football Team will be Sunday, August 24th.

Try-outs are open to any person over the age of 18.

Registration begins at noon at Colonial High School in Orlando.

All perspective RAGE Players must pay a $50 registration fee and be prepared to perform a series of speed, strength, agility and endurance tests.

For more info contact Chris at CMorrison@OrlandoStarzFootball.com or Randy at 407 325-1436 or check out the website at www.OrlandoRage.com.

ADULT SOFTBALL SIGNUPS

The City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department is looking for teams for the Adult Fall Slowpitch Softball League.

The Organizational Meeting for the Adult Fall Slowpitch Softball League will be held on Monday, August 25th at 6:30 p.m. at the Downtown Youth Center on the first floor of Sanford City Hall (on the corner of Park and Seminole Avenues).

The champions from the Spring League will receive their awards prior to the meeting and the meeting will consist of going over the rules and regulations for the upcoming season. To entice team representatives even more to attend, a discount on the league fees are given to teams who do attend.

The league alignment for this season has the Church League playing on Mondays at both Pinehurst Park and Zinn Beck Field; Women of Tuesdays at Pinehurst; Men on Wednesday at Pinehurst; Co-Ed on Thursdays at Pinehurst; and the Industrial League on Friday at Pinehurst.

The cost to enter a team will be $300 for a 10-Game schedule and games will begin the week of September 8th.

For more information, please contact Jim Schaefer at 407-330-5696 or Email him at schaefer@ci.sanford.fl.us. Information is also available on the website at ci.sanford.fl.us.

CROSS COUNTRY

The annual Lake Mary Summertime Cross Country Run will once again kick off the Cross-Country season when the popular event is run on Saturday, August 30th.

The race will be run at the Lake Mary Cross Country Course (located behind Lake Mary High School) with the day beginning at 7 a.m. with Late Registration. Racing begins at 8 a.m.

The race is not an official high school event and no team may run under a school name, although the event is geared for the 14-to-18 age groups.

Age groups are 10-and-Under, 11-to-13, 14-to-18, 19-to-29, 30-to-39, 40-to-49, and 50-and-Over. All seven Age Groups have both Male and Female divisions.

All first place finishers in each two mile race age group (all except 14-to-18's, both male and female) receive medals with ribbons going to the second through 10th place finishers.

There will be 5K races for the 14-to-18 boys and girls with medals going to first through 20th place finishers and ribbons going to 21st-through-75th place.

The cost to enter is $3 per person prior to Monday, August 25th and $5 on the morning of the race, runners under the age of 18 must have a parent or guardian sign a waiver to register on race day.

A separate entry must be sent each runner and each runner under 18 must have a signed waiver. A different team name must be used for each team of five to seven runners, both male and female, in the 14-to-18 age groups.

The race day time schedule is as follows:

- * 7 a.m. - Late Registration.
- * 8 a.m. - 2 Mile run, 19-and-Over and 13-and-Under (both male and female).
- * 8:30 a.m. - 14-to-18 Girls Race (5K).
- * 9:15 a.m. - 14-to-18 Boys Race (5K).
- * 10 a.m. - Awards Ceremony.

Additional information can be obtained by calling 407-333-2370. Information and entry forms can also be obtained on www.flrunners.com.

PERMITS STILL AVAILABLE TO STALK FLORIDA'S PREHISTORIC PREDATOR
 The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) has more than 300 permits remaining for hunters who want to take on the challenge of bagging huge reptiles that can clamp down 80 teeth with a ton of pressure per square inch.

 Alligators look much like their reptilian ancestors looked 70 million years ago and are fair game for selected hunters in the FWC's September/October public waters alligator harvest.
 Participants say taking the powerful animals with harpoons, gigs or hooks may be the most extreme hunting experience in America. It is also one of the most tightly regulated.
 "Hunters should apply soon, because we're issuing permits every day, and when they're gone, that's it for a whole year," said Harry Dutton, leader of FWC's Alligator Management Section. "There is no application deadline, however, you should submit your application at least two weeks prior to the start of your harvest period. It takes at least two weeks to process your application."

 The FWC expanded the alligator hunt this year to allow hunting in areas that were previously off-limits, Dutton said. Countywide alligator management units were established, which made 750 additional permits available.
 "Countywide permits should be especially appealing to private landowners who would like to harvest alligators on their property but who have not been able to qualify for the Private Lands Alligator Management Program," Dutton said.
 A person permitted for a countywide harvest unit will be allowed to take two alligators from any lands that they could legally access in the specified county, including public and private lands and waters, but excluding specific water bodies established as Alligator Management Units, private wetlands permitted for alligator management and other protected public properties.

 Alligator harvest permits enable hunters to take two alligators each. To be eligible for a permit, applicants must be at least 18 years old by Sept. 1 and must not have been convicted of violating wildlife laws relating to alligator trapping within the past five years nor laws relating to endangered crocodilians within the past 10 years.
 "At this date, if you would like to license agents to assist you with your hunt, you should submit the agent license applications with your harvest permit application," Dutton said.
 Alligator harvest applications and alligator trapping agent licenses are available at all FWC regional offices and on the Alligator section of the FWC Web site at <http://wild-florida.org/gators/>. The site also shows which areas still have permits available.
 Applicants can check their selection status daily after 5 p.m. on the Web site. People who do not receive a permit through the selection process will have their fees returned.
 "You won't find a hunting experience like this anywhere else," Dutton said

AN OPEN LETTER TO OUR CHURCHES

Dear Friends,

This area is truly blessed to have so many houses of worship, which have played such an important part in the development and continuance of this area's rich religious heritage.

Sharing the news of your church is not always easy with new people in the area, or residents who may not know about your church. We at the Seminole Herald want to help spread the good news of your congregation to our readers and visitors.

The Seminole Herald will publish a directory of worship for the area. This Publication will have profiles on area churches. Each church that chooses to participate will need to provide a written profile highlighting its history, worship schedule, pastor or other pertinent information. The Herald will take a photograph of each church.

This special publication "Come Worship with Us" will publish in the Seminole Herald on Wednesday, September 10, 2003. The Deadline for copy is Monday, August 18, 2003.

The costs to publish your church's profile are as follows:
Full-page - $275, 1/2 page - $160, 1/4 page - $95. Color may be added for an additional $175. We also have premium rates set for the center spread and back page of the edition.

It is certainly our hope that the information we will be sharing through this publication will be a blessing to you, your congregations and the area as a whole. To reserve space for your church profile, please call me at 407-322-2611, ext. 11, or email to dsutton@seminoleherald.com

With our very best wishes, pressive choices!

Alexandria Place, Lake Forest, Venetian Bay, Saxon Woods and the Country Club of Mount Dora - try impressive!

Gated Alexandria Place makes the most of its gorgeous Wekiva River area location. Homes nestle on large homesites and Florida's lush natural beauty is as close as the West Orange Bike Path. Morrison Homes is currently building in award-winning Lake Forest, a master-planned community with an impressive, 24-hour manned gatehouse, extraordinary 538-acre wooded community and 70-acre bass-stocked lake! Venetian Bay is a gated community directly across from beautiful Lake Monroe and only minutes from Sanford's Historic District. Saxon Woods is a gated neighborhood surrounded by trees and the rolling hills of DeBary to the south and bustling Orange City to the north. The Country Club of Mount Dora, just north of Orlando is only minutes from the quiet lampit streets, sidewalk cafes and antique stores of picturesque Mount Dora. All five neighborhoods feature the peace of mind of our 2-Year Blanket and 10-Year Structural Warranties. Come visit and prepare to be impressed!
