OVIDEO OCCURRENCES

Special Correspondence to The Herald:

The Ovidio Magazine Club was most delightfully entertained by Mrs. Lee and Miss Lottie at their attractive home on Lake Charm, Friday afternoon. The program consisted of readings, interspersed with music. Miss Anita King read a humorous story, and Mrs. Yonge read a poem, both of which were greatly enjoyed. Miss Lottie Lee played with her usual artistic style and impression a piano solo, which ended the program. After the serving of dainty refreshments, the guests repaired to their homes, pronouncing it a most delightful occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Mead, who went to Daytona last week to attend the meeting of the horticulturists, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Reasner, with their three children, toured from Daytona in their auto and have been the guests of Mrs. Mead for a few days. Mr. Reasner is a prominent horticulturist of Manatee, and had been attending the horticultural meeting at Daytona.

Dr. Hunter, who a few months ago located here, has sold his drug store to Mr. Daniel, and moved to Apopka to try his fortune.

Ovidio property is in lively demand, at the rate it has been going off lately. Miss Dixon, who came here from California, and has been a guest at the Cushing House most of the winter, has purchased the Van Zandt orange grove with house, intending to make Ovidio her home.

Another sale was the orange grove and house owned by Dr. Bigg of Detroit, Mich., the purchasers being Messrs. Browning and Stein Nelson. They have already begun improvements on the place.

WEKIWA SPRINGS

To the Editor of The Herald: Sanford, the southern metropolis of the St. Johns river was represented Sunday by Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Newman, Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Kelly and several others. On Saturday those from Sanford were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Waddell and Misses Winnie and Frances Waddell and Ada Stenstrom. Rowing, swimming in the Wekiwa holes and tobogganing constituted the day's amusement for this party. All enjoyed a glorious sweet time here in the shades of the sweet gums.

CELERY AVENUE NEWS

Special Correspondence to The Herald:

W. T. Acres is erecting a fine two-story residence on his celery farm on Celery avenue.

Miss Annie Hawkins has gone to Commerce, Ga., to spend the summer with her parents. She spends her winters with her brother, Tom Hawkins, one of the leading celery growers of the avenue. Miss Annie is foreman of the farm one day during the celery cutting season. She worked thirty hands, Tom included. It takes the women folks to boss, anyway.

Last Sunday two young celery farm foremen on Celery avenue took a party of young ladies out buggy riding, and honestly they had so many girls in the buggies they had to put the side-curtains up to keep from spilling some of the girls out.

Messrs. May and Strange are sinking a six-inch artesian well on J. E. Pace's farm opposite Capt. P. M. Elder's store, corner Celery and Melleville avenues. They have drilled down some 300 feet, and are anticipating a good flow of water. This well will be watched with a great deal of interest.

Mrs. B. V. David of Geneva will move her stock of general merchandise from Geneva to her new store at Cameron City this week.

We learn that J. N. Whitner has sold the five acre celery farm lying in front of Mr. Wright's place at the east end of Celery avenue, to a gentleman by the name of Gray, from New York. We hear that Mr. Gray will build and move his family here soon. Come on, brother, we will try to make you feel at home. We are just like one big family in the celery delta.

Henry Stevenson has right recently moved his family from DeLand to his place at the east end of Celery avenue.

I don't believe there is any section filling up so fast as the celery delta. Here a new house is going up, and there a piece of new land being cleared. The scene changes every thirty days.

OTHER PEOPLE'S OPINIONS ON SANFORD

The people who reside in Sanford and fully realize the great advantages of this section can always be found singing its praises. This is to be expected, as everyone has a natural love for their home and the many associations that surround it. Thus it is with a feeling of satisfaction that we note other opinions and comments upon Sanford and the celery delta. In the last issue of the Country Gentleman two good descriptions of Sanford's famous celery delta are given, and for the benefit of our readers we give them below:

Down in Orange county, Florida, they are having a boom that well illustrates the roving spirit of Americans. People from all the northern states, from Canada and the far West are building new homes and expecting to get rich under the beaming sun, where winter is almost unknown. Some of these men and women will make good citizens and found permanent homes, while others, who never succeed anywhere, will fail and complain that they were beguiled to the state by false promises.

In this region where truck farming is still new, even to the people who have lived in the county all their lives, new roads are springing like magic, and roads which were a few years ago trails through the underbrush now resemble city streets. Ten acres is a big farm in this region, where cultivated lands sell for $1000 to $1500 an acre, so the houses have to be close together. The mule teams from the lumber yards can scarcely deliver the lumber fast enough for the impatient settlers, and at night it is an interesting sight to watch the negro drivers coming in all directions, cracking their long whips like pistols, laughing and shouting. New houses are springing up everywhere, and, owing to the climate, what would hardly be a decent shed or a small house in the North will shelter the family well until a better home can be built. Every house stands up on posts about two feet from the ground, as there can be no cellars in this soil. But where vegetables grow all the year and frost is seldom heard of there is little need of a cellar to store food supplies in, so the "settlers" have nothing to worry them as they move into their unplastered, unpainted shacks. The chief thing is to get out the first crop and everything else can wait until that is safe.

With little fuel needed, running water from the artesian wells, and the fine climate, life would seem to be ideal; but there are drawbacks to even the most wonderful countries. The breaking up of the soil for the first time causes malaria, the long sunny days sap the energy, the work of setting out the plants is hard and tedious, so that the man who expected to find dollars growing on bushes becomes discouraged. There is quite a difference between holding plow handles behind a fine team in a corn field after an invigorating winter in the North and pattering over truck farming in the South. Up North quite likely the farmer had his garden in rows to be cultivated by machinery and horses, and only set out a dozen or two cauliflowers and peppers at best, while in the truck business he must crawl across the fields on his hands and knees, painfully setting out thousands and thousands of plants. To be sure, if he has the means, he can hire the labor done, but so can one in the North.

Everywhere in the land adapted to truck-raising, new roads are being laid out, new houses are going up, new wells sending out warm water, new stores are being established to meet the demand, and crops are being rushed into the soil as fast as possible. Here and there men are pointed out to the stranger who have made the price of the land off the first crop; but here and there are sour faced individuals eager to sell out at a sacrifice and who tell you: "I wouldn't stay in this place if they'd give me the whole country." As in everything else success depends upon the individual. The postmaster of a thriving city applied to the Department for rural free delivery over a route he mapped out, saying when the petition went in that there were 125 families on the route. In a month or two, before an inspector had been sent to investigate the matter, and report favorably or unfavorably, the number of houses had increased to 200, and the official said before it could be granted he did not doubt that another hundred would be added to the list.

It certainly is interesting to watch the army of men at work on the comparatively small area, but where well drilling, building, clearing, plowing, teaming, irrigating are all going on at once there must needs be many men. Somebody must deliver provisions and fertilizer and building supplies, some one must look after the bodily wants, and the crops must not be neglected. In this way employment is furnished to hundreds of extra workmen, and the country presents a busy appearance. Real estate men are hurrying here and there with prospective buyers, teams are delivering materials and supplies, one-horse wagons are carting produce to the railroads, and everywhere there are signs of life and energy. Truly a boom country is a strange sight to eyes accustomed only to the healthy growth of a staid farming community. It is safe to say that hundreds of the newcomers will find success in their new homes because they looked like men of energy and thrift, while the restless ones who have moved a dozen or more times to different states will be selling out in a year or two to see another boom country.

How The Celery Is Grown

Take the map of Florida; begin at Jacksonville and trace south up the St. Johns river until you come to Lake Munroe. On the south shore of this lake you see a spot called Sanford. This is "Celery City."

In the early spring (from Feb. 1 until April 15) nearly all the celery on the market is shipped fresh from the garden farms which surround this little town. You may go east, west or south of Sanford and within a radius of five or six miles the smell of growing celery is dominant. Nowhere can you get away from it, unless you get close enough to a sulphur well to obtain a whiff of the gas from the water gushing forth. The smell as well as the taste of this water is very disagreeable to the newcomer; but once a person becomes accustomed to it, one finds it really likable, and it is a well known fact that it is healthful. The people already settled in Celery City find a great deal of amusement in watching the various expressions on the stranger's face when he tastes this first drink of the water, and as Celery City is a "dry town," soda water is the only other beverage obtainable; but that soon falls short of quenching his thirst, so he has to grin and hear it until he learns to like it.

A farm in Celery City may mean twenty acres or it may mean only one, the average being from two to five. Early in the fall, in August and September, the truck farmer starts his celery by planting his seed beds, a bed being four feet wide and about a rod wide. A quarter of an acre in seed beds should raise plants enough for two acres. These beds are carefully shaded to keep the powerful rays of the tropical sun from the young celery.

While the seed beds are at work, he is preparing the land for the plants when the time shall come for transplanting. This work consists mostly of getting the summer crop of hay off the field and of plowing about a ton to the acre of hardwood ashes into the land. This is done to keep the soil in a condition known as sweet; for it is very light, and the wet, rainy summer weather is apt to make it sour. Perhaps the farmer had some other crop than hay on the land, such as cow peas, potatoes or lettuce; whatever the crop he must plan to have it out of the way and the land ready for the celery by the middle or last of November, when the first transplanting is done. The plants are pulled up by the roots from the seed beds, taking only the largest and best. They are set three and a half or four inches apart in rows sixty inches apart. The remaining plants in the seed beds are placed in rows to allow the roots a more even allotment of room for work. When this has been done the beds are no longer called seed beds but prick beds, which means that these plants have been "pricked" into shape while still in the beds. They will grow rapidly now and by the last of December, about Christmas week, they are large enough for transplanting, so just half way between those already in the field (or just thirty inches from them) these last are put out. Where the seed and prick beds were is also covered at this transplanting, the rows being set the same distance apart as they were set from those of the first planting—thirty inches.

While waiting for the prick bed plants to get large enough to transplant those first set out are fertilized. This necessary work is done by running a hand plow about five inches from the plants, making a furrow three or four inches deep, into which is distributed (by hand or a hand machine) about six pounds of chemically prepared fertilizer to every hundred feet of row. This operation is repeated on the second planting after the plants have been in the ground a short period, and again about once a month on each of the rows thereafter until cutting—care being taken that the furrow in which the fertilizer is distributed is made so far away from the plants that no roots are disturbed as this would hinder its growth. After the fertilizer is put in, the furrow is filled up and the ground leveled off with hand rakes. In making the transplantation the large and small plants are sorted, after being pulled from the beds, so that every other row at both plantings will be of large plants and every other one of smaller plants.

At about the middle of January the "boarding up" takes place. Boards twelve inches wide and ten to twenty feet long are carried out on the field and set up closely to the oldest plants, being held in position by stakes driven into the ground. These plants will by this time stand from 14 to 18 inches high and have a base from one to three inches thick. The boards are put up to shut out the light, causing the stalk to turn a pure, creamy white. This is termed bleaching or blanching. From two or three weeks is about the usual period required for bleaching.

During the time that the plants are under boards, the farmer is making up a supply of crates. There are at present two sizes of crates used, the eight-inch and the ten-inch. The dimensions are 8 by 20 by 27 inches and 10 by 30 by 24 inches respectively. Three slats three or four inches wide are nailed on one side, and two on each of the ends, leaving the other side open, to be "nailed up" after the celery is packed into the crate.

Next comes the cutting. The boards are let down and the cutter, a large knife made in the shape of a letter U, eighteen inches high and twelve inches wide, sharpened at the base, and hung between two wheels, is run the length of the row. This cuts the stalks about an inch below the surface of the earth, leaving a few of the roots still on the butt. The strippers (colored women) then tear off the outside leaves from each stalk, as they are dead and withered from being next the boards. Carriers then fill stretchers with the stalks and place the stretchers in front of the sorters (colored women also) who pick out and place on a bench, in different piles, the sizes which they know will pack an exact number to a crate. The packers then fill the crates from these piles, making the crates contain three, four, six or eight dozen stalks each. Next they are "headed up"—that is the last three slats are nailed to the open end. Lastly, the number of dozen stalks which each crate contains is stamped in ink on the crate, they are loaded on the wagon and hauled to the cars. A carload is made up in a day at every cutting when possible, 800 to 370 constituting a carload. A gang of eighteen is necessary for the completion of this work in one day.

Now that the boards have done their work for the rows already cut, and are lying flat on the field beside the younger plants, it is an easy matter to set them up again when these plants are large enough, thereby using the same boards twice in a season.

Celery is a hardy crop and will stand more cool weather than hot—26 degrees will not injure it, but foggy mornings with hot sunny days tend to make it blight and turn yellow, which will tend to put the price down on its shipment; as the trade demands a light green top, as well as a very white stalk. Seven hundred crates is a good average yield to the acre, while $1 per crate is a good average net profit.

The one drawback to raising celery is the fact that it takes two years to get new land into shape for it. New land will not grow celery. It will grow almost any other vegetable, so the first two years must be spent in raising other crops, such as cucumbers, potatoes, lettuce or cauliflowers, etc. But as the truck farmer's ambition here is to raise celery the other crops are merely fillers. His first year is spent principally in getting the old stumps and roots out of the land and putting in the tile for irrigation.

He must also have an artesian well bored. Two, three or four-inch pipes are sunk into the earth about 100 feet, when the sulphur comes gushing up out of the pipe. A valve is put in at the mouth of the well so that the flow can be turned off and on at will, and it is always ready, never ending, and best of all, no water tax; $40 to $50 pays for your water for a life time. The water is about 60 degrees and remains at the same temperature the year around.

When the grower drains his land he places the tiles in rows about 25 feet apart, starting from the large main pipe at one end of the field, which runs in the opposite direction. The tile are merely laid in a ditch eighteen inches deep, not cemented together. This allows the water to work into the ground between one tile and the next, about one-quarter inch away. Palmetto fibre is wrapped about the joint to keep the dirt from the inside of the tile. Pockets are placed at intervals along the row, and are made so that plugs may be put in, to raise or lower the flow for the higher the water is raised in the pocket the more back pressure there will be, causing more water to work out between the tiles. In this way an even amount of moisture may be distributed over the field.

The artesian flowing well makes irrigation positive, and the sub-surface tilling (no ditches) makes it perfect. Florida climate does the rest. Everything spells celery here in Sanford. About 1200 cars of celery alone were shipped from here by the 15th of April since the end of January. This is why Sanford is called Celery City.

Had a Narrow Escape

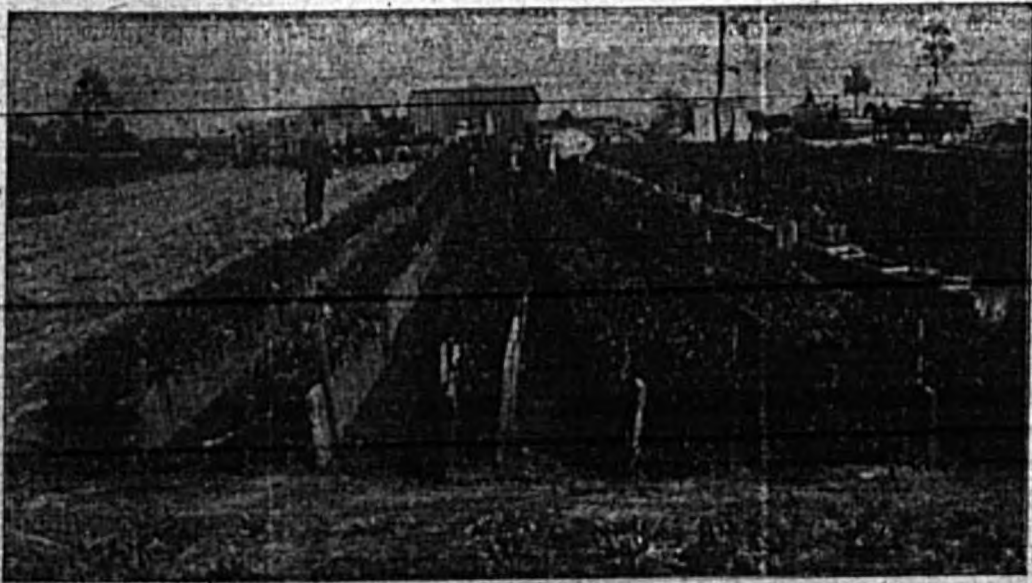

Messrs. Smith and Watson, who have just returned from a trip to California, had a narrow escape from death in Missouri. The train, running sixty miles an hour, struck a part of the track where a wash-out had occurred the night before, and the engine and all the cars except the sleeper and dining car, were turned over. The engineer was killed, the fireman and mail clerks and several passengers were severely injured. Smith and Watson being in the sleeper were shaken up, but not hurt, and both of them aided the injured people until the wrecking crew arrived.

From Sunshine to Snow

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Matzinger left last Saturday for their home in Frankfort, Mich. They had expected to go ten days sooner, but business and the lovely climate of Sanford held them. A letter received a day or two before they left said that the leaves had not started yet and farmers had not begun potato planting. Mr. and Mrs. Matzinger are making their homeward trip one of pleasure and sightseeing, going from Sanford to Tampa, thence by Morgan line steamship to New Orleans, from which place they will make the remainder of the trip up the Mississippi river by boat to St. Louis, thence by rail to Frankfort.

City Property Sells

Sanford city property is moving every day. This week B. F. Trenis of Washington purchased from N. H. Garner some choice lots on Palmetto avenue. Mr. Trenis will build some fine residences on his new possession at once as he considers Sanford the best little city in the South.

It is easy enough to be pleasant. When life goes on like a song. But the man worth while is the man who can smile when the telephone rings and he answers it and says "Hello!" and the operator says, "What number?" and he says, "The bell rang," and she says, "No, it didn't."

Albert Anson Graham is greatly concerned about the Merit system at Wekiwa Springs.

Don't know anything about those boils, Albert, but there is many an individual can explain the nature of boils located upon the Annie Tommical chart.

During my long acquaintance with the people of Sanford, upon a number of occasions I have been most favorably impressed with their ability to grasp the importance of every project to advertise the city, but upon none was the matter brought to my attention so forcibly as last Friday night at the meeting of the Fourth of July committees in the city hall. The way our people take hold of a project and thrash out the points, winnowing out the bad features and reserving the good ones is a sight to behold. The idea of inaugurating a Fourth of July celebration and carrying it out to a successful termination is a stupendous task, and one that calls for calm deliberation and plenty of good, hard work. There will be no money in it for the merchant or for any other citizen, and yet our people are going to work with a will and a determination to entertain the visitors, and show them the time of their lives. The merchants will keep their stores open on that day, and that idea appeals to me. I have always been unfavorably impressed by the appearance of any city where business houses are closed during a celebration. Of course I want to see the clerks enjoy themselves, and this matter can be amicably arranged by the employers, but if the Sanford stores will decorate on the Fourth and keep open house, our city will be better advertised, and many new customers can be gained for the future trade of Sanford. The Sanford spirit was clearly portrayed at the meeting when the young men and old seemed imbued with the idea of having a celebration befitting our city, and one that will sustain our reputation as the most hustling city in the South. There was no backing and filling among those assembled. They were filled with the spirit that has made our city famous, and it warmed my heart then as never before as I listened to the sensible suggestions and business-like speeches of those present. Our celebration will be a homecoming for our former citizens, and a chance for the Florida people to see the "Lucky Sanford" of which they have heard so much.

I can hear from many the old chestnut about "celebrations don't pay" and kindred like, but on the whole the public spirited people are for any movement that will aid in bringing Sanford into the public eye. There are people in every city who never figure anything except from their own personal gain as a standpoint. To these few I would say that no real money will accrue from our celebration. Sanford is not running a shell game, or three card monte, or a carnival to part the visitors from their money; we are simply giving an old fashioned Fourth for the amusement of our people and our visitors; just a good time, a display of patriotism, the Sanford spirit of progress, and the old Southern spirit of hospitality.

Speaking of the telephone service reminds me that in Sanford the people have one of the best systems in the state. A newspaper man can always sympathize with a fellow mortal who is compelled to worry with an exacting public and few people can stop to realize the awful strain upon the nerves, the girls at the central office of a telephone system are forced to stand. The most surprising part of the telephone business is the fact that a young lady can stand this wear and tear upon the nervous system so long and keep in good humor. The prevailing good humor of the ladies in the Sanford exchange is proverbial and they endeavor to render good service at all times. If the public would take time to think before they phone; give the number in a clear tone and wait a reasonable length of time for the connection much of the confusion would be eradicated. My experience with the Sanford telephone system has always been a pleasant one and therefore I take this occasion to thank the young ladies of the exchange and the courteous employees connected with the system. All of us have troubles of our own and in the list of troubles the telephone people no doubt have a double share.

—THE SAUNTERER.

The Governor's Message

On Friday last Governor Gilchrist sent a special message to the Legislature on the Wailes claim. In the opinion of the Index there was no special reason for sending in a message on this subject at this time, as both branches of the Legislature had previously declined to favorably consider the Wailes claim.

But the Governor's message, which covered fifteen pages of closely type written legal cap sheets, offered little if anything new in regard to the history or merits of the claim. An explanation as to why he thought the $25,000 appropriated six years ago, and a suggestion as to a division between Wailes and Beard, were included in the message; but these too are intangible.

In another message to the Senate on Monday, the Governor, in referring to the Wailes claim message, stated that certain newspapers of the state had intimated, directly or indirectly, that the Legislature had repudiated the state's solemn obligation and that, in order to have the people know that the honor of the state is protected, he had sent copies of the message to these newspapers for publication, but so far they had refused to do so.

The Governor, in the opinion of the Index, cannot consistently feel aggrieved because this message has not been printed. Its contents would fill the columns of the average weekly paper, to the utter exclusion of all other matter, and the large papers, with sufficient space to carry the message, might easily be forgiven for devoting their columns to real, live news matter. Besides, those newspapers that have taken the time and trouble to examine into the merits of the Wailes claim may be pardoned for entertaining views different from those expressed in the Governor's message, especially after considering the able and exhaustive report submitted by the state committee of 1903, and report to the Senate over the signature of "W. A. Blount, Acting Chairman."

So far as the Index knows, the present Legislature has not been charged with repudiating the obligations of the state, but it cannot be denied that as long as Colonel Wailes is denied the right to have his claim adjudicated by the courts of the state the conclusion is inevitably forced upon the Index and other newspapers of the state, and the people of Florida generally, that the Legislature, though not repudiating the claim is creating a condition with similar results. No better argument has been offered in support of the effort of Colonel Wailes' friends to get this claim into the courts of the state than is contained in the Governor's message itself. This document from beginning to end is a mass of acts, contracts, resolutions, accounts, opinions, conclusions and other more mystifying and confusing matter that positively and forever precludes the average legislator—for no other reason than lack of time to study law and history—from mastering the details of the claim that a reasonable and just conclusion might be reached.

The Index having been one of the Governor's most ardent supporters in the last campaign, and feeling that its editor can still claim the right to be his friend, writes this in explanation and defense of the country press of Florida, those papers which were his strongest supporters when he needed them and which do not deserve his censure.—Lake City Index, May 21.

Sanford's New Directory

The new city directory recently compiled by R. L. Polk & Co. has been distributed this week and is a fine exposition of Sanford and the Celery Delta. The book comprises 194 pages bound in covers and shows that Sanford's population is 5,784. Some of these people are now living outside of the city limits but will be taken in by a recent act of the Legislature enlarging the city limits. This increase in population shows the remarkable development and progress of our city and the fact that R. L. Polk & Co. ever undertook the compilation of a city directory for Sanford is a sure and sufficient proof that our city ranks with the foremost cities of the South.

Okra Paper Plant For Sanford

As we go to press today it is rumored that a company will be organized here to manufacture paper from the okra plant. The manufacture of good paper from the okra plant has been proved commercially profitable and after a careful investigation it has been found that as a secondary summer crop on Sanford's irrigated lands the okra could be raised to better advantage than in any other section of Florida, and with the splendid water transportation and railroad facilities a paper mill here would pay large dividends. The Herald will give the particulars later.

Reading Circle Meets

A pleasant and profitable meeting of the reading circle of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church was held Tuesday afternoon of last week at the residence of Mrs. A. E. Phillips. The circle has been reading and discussing "The Nearer and Farther East", and found the final lesson, Korea, particularly interesting.

A delightful feature of the afternoon was the contribution of some charming recitations by Miss Goodhue, an accomplished elocutionist of the Boston School of Expression.

The circle is impressed with the importance and benefit of reading missionary literature of which the bibliography is rich and interesting, and has under consideration plans for greater progress.

Negro Murderer Escapes

George Roberson, a young negro fellow from Sanford, charged with killing an old negro man by the name of Span for the purpose of robbery, was arrested a few weeks ago and lodged in jail here. He was placed in front cell and by some means made his escape last night.

It is reported that this old man had received $6 insurance benefit the day before the killing and George Robinson was the last one seen in company with the old man. This young fellow said he had only $125 and could not buy a pair of shoes, but shortly afterward he bought shoes, shirts, etc., and paid money for them and could not give proper account of how he got it. When accused of the crime he said he had not seen the man for two weeks, but later confessed to being with him on Sunday previous to the killing. The hatchet this young negro used for box making was found with blood on it. He then stated that he saw some one else do the murder but refused to tell who it was. The old man who was killed was a quiet inoffensive negro. The young fellow accused of the murder has long borne an unsavory reputation.—Reporter-Star.

Meeting of Horticultural Society

According to the Sanford members who have returned from the annual meeting of the Horticultural Society at Daytona, the session was a most interesting one. Great interest was manifested in every feature of the proceedings, and the papers were declared to be better than ever before. The annual address of the retiring president, Dr. Richardson, was of unusual interest.

Officers were elected for the coming year as follows: President, H. H. Hume, Glen St. Mary; First vice-president, J. H. Temple, Orlando; Second vice-president, H. B. Stephens, DeLand; secretary, E. O. Painter, and treasurer, W. S. Hart, were re-elected; executive committee: E. S. Hubbard and P. H. Ross.

It was decided to hold next year's convention in Orlando. Jacksonville, Palatka and Miami were among the cities extending invitations.

All members of the convention were royally treated and entertained by the citizens of Daytona, and the Sanford contingent speak highly in their praise.

Women's Woes

Sanford Women Are Finding Relief At Last

It does seem that women have more than a fair share of the aches and pains that afflict humanity; they must "keep up," must attend to duties in spite of constantly aching backs, or headaches, dizzy spells, bearing-down pains; they must stoop over, when to stoop means torture. They must walk and bend and work with racking pains and many aches from kidney ills. Kidneys cause more suffering than any other organ of the body. Keep the kidneys well and health is easily maintained. Read of a remedy for kidneys only that helps and cures the kidneys and is endorsed by people you know. Mrs. W. B. Keith, Loral Ave., Sanford, Fla., says: "I do not believe I could say too much in praise of Doan's Kidney Pills. My back ached so acutely at times that I could not attend to my housework. If I stooped, it was almost impossible for me to straighten and I was unable to assume any position that was comfortable. Mornings my back was very lame and sore. The kidney secretions also bothered me by their too frequent passages and plainly denoted that fault existed with my kidneys. I at last procured Doan's Kidney Pills and it required only the contents of one box to relieve all these troubles. I am now in good health and feel sure that Doan's Kidney Pills deserve the credit for effecting this great change." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Millman Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

PAOLA POINTS

Special Correspondence to The Herald:

"Who said water-millions?"
We like to see the trainloads of melons pass through every day, but they never drop any gang by here. Never mind, our own will soon be ripe and then—"Is everybody happy, everybody glad?"

Sunday last marked the close of services in our little church until the first of October. The wet afternoon disappointed many who wished to attend.

We understand the matter of a good road to meet the clay road to Sanford, at the corner of Mr. T. E. Wilson's place and extend through Paola to the church is being brought forward and we trust everybody will pull together and make it an accomplished fact before another winter. It would add much to our little place and be a great convenience to all alike.

Mr. and Mrs. Porter and child from Tallahassee have moved into the Bassett place. Glad to welcome new neighbors.

Miss Nellie Furen who has been teaching in St. Augustine the past winter is making a visit to her parents at Yankee Lake.

Zackery Bros' saw mill is already at work. Its whistle helps us up mornings and makes us think there is something doing.

The 'good old summer time' has come with a vengeance and probably will be with us "until further notice."

OVIEDO OCCURRENCES

Special Correspondence to The Herald:

The last meeting of the Oviedo Magazine Club was held at the attractive home of Mrs. Leinhardt, with Miss Christine presiding as hostess. "Edgar Allan Poe" was the subject. The roll-call was responded to by each by quotations from "The Bells." Miss Christine Leinhardt then rendered in exquisite style a piano solo. Two poems "To my mother" and "Annabel Lee" were read by Mrs. Yonge, in her usual impressive manner. Mrs. Mead followed this with a reading, "Poe, the weird genius." A recitation, "The Raven," rendered by Mrs. Cushing, finished the program. Delicious refreshments were served, and altogether a delightful afternoon spent.

An event of much interest is the approaching wedding of Miss Lottie Lee and Mr. T. W. Lawton, to occur on the second of June.

Mrs. Wheeler entertained Saturday afternoon in honor of her sister, Miss Lottie Lee, the prospective bride.

Miss May Alexander, who is now at home, has just graduated from the Cathedral school, Orlando, with highest honor. She awarded the Bishop's medal for three consecutive years of leading scholarship, her average being the highest for that period in the school. With the medal she received a year or two ago for elocution, makes two she has won, with other prizes at intervals. Her delivery of the valedictory was touching and beautiful, while class night, it was her privilege, also, to deliver the salutatory. At the elocution recital she rendered two recitations besides participating in the plays which were included in the commencement exercises. Never was a class launched out from the Cathedral school amid such eclat, and a brilliant round of festivities as attended the graduating class of 1909.

Mrs. McCall will entertain Tuesday morning for Miss Lottie Lee, as another honor for the bride to be.

PAPER AND CLASS PROPHECY

Interesting Essay Given At High School Commencement

BY ALICE F. ROBBINS

May 18, 1909.—Since this is the last meeting of the Irving Literary Society, and the last issue of the "Salmagundi" under the Spring term of '09, we wish to extend a few lines of farewell.

Next fall when the I. L. S. again convenes, the class of '09 will have passed from its membership, and another will have taken its place. To the future seniors—to all new members—and to the new officers whom the society may see fit to elect, the Salmagundi extends a hearty welcome.

Oh, the deeds we will do in the days to come,
And the words that we mean to say,
Will lighten the heart of the sick-sick soul,
But what shall we do today?
Oh, the burdens we lift from the hearts of men,
Oh, the tears we will wipe away,
And the songs we will sing to the faltering ones—
But what shall we do today?

Today is the span of our life; no more;
Can we measure, or clasp, or mould,
There may be no sorrow for us, dear heart,
No future to use or hold.
Oh, let us give from our store at dawn,
Give till the gloaming/fades away,
All we may do for the sons of men,
Is the good we can do today.

LOCALS

The members of the High School will appreciate the new clock. It was bought with the proceeds from our "Poverty Society" of last year. It saves the boys from pulling out their watches so much, and gives the girls a chance to learn to tell time.

We are glad to welcome Vall Lovell back to our school, for Vall is a good pupil as well as an expert electrician.

A splendid recipe for a cold is flaxseed tea. For proof ask Ralph Stevens.

One of the most notable numbers given at the Irving Literary Society this spring, was the debate between two of the junior girls—Nemie Aurick and Myrtle Nipe—in which it was proven that the greatest success in life is due to opportunity rather than to ability.

By the request of the seniors of '09, we publish the "Class Prophecy" and "Last Will and Testament" in this issue of the Salmagundi.

We regret very much that Fern Emery was obliged to return to her home in Richmond, Ind., before the commencement exercises.

The ladies of the Sanford Improvement Association have presented to our school ten beautiful palms. They have been set, are a great improvement to our campus.

Ernest Betts, our honorable secretary, has been feeling very badly of late. Over study is supposed to be the trouble.

We understand there is to be a sale of memo books at Davison's the coming week. It is to be hoped that all will take advantage of this, since it seems to be the rage this year with the freshmen to keep a diary.

Stanley Wood sits on the fence a half hour every day after dinner. I wonder why!

HUMOROUS

Dividing Them Up.—Two small boys had been walnuting, and after filling their pockets they started for home. Passing a cemetery, one suggested that they should go inside and divide the walnuts evenly. In this the other agreed, and thereupon the two lads climbed the fence, spilling a couple of walnuts outside as they were doing so. Piling the nuts in a heap, they proceeded to make a division. While they were thus engaged a negro came along the road, and hearing voices, he stopped to listen, and this is what he heard: "I'll take this one," "I'll take that one," and this was repeated over and over. The negro's eyes grew larger; "Foh de Lawd sake," he suddenly exclaimed, "de Debbil and de Lawd 'a 'vidin' up de folks," and taking to his heels, he fled down the road. Half a mile away a white man rushed out and stopped him. "What is the matter? what are you running like that for?" "Oh! don't stop me, don't stop me; I've got to get away from here," wailed the frightened negro. "De Debbil and de Lawd 'a back in de cemetery up dar 'vidin' up de folks; lemme go, lemme go." Here, that wont do; you've got to go back with me and see what is going on," said the white man, and taking him by the collar he forced the other to retrace his steps. When the two reached the cemetery the counting was still going on: "I'll take this one," "I'll take that one," when suddenly one of them said: "Now we'll get the two outside, and we'll be done." And they say that the white man beat the negro running.

What country ought to be the richest in the world? Ireland; for its capital is always Dublin.

Which is the largest room in the world? The room for improvement.

Ernest spent a night in Jacksonville last week. He went to the Aragon Hotel. The man behind the desk told the boy to show him to his room. The boy led him into the elevator, but Ernest backed out at once, saying: "Hold on, I want one with a bed in it."

Tommy at the Zoo—"Say mister is this a cross-eyed bear?"

Keeper—"No, sonnie; whoever heard of a cross-eyed bear?"

Tommy—"I have: they sang yesterday at Sunday school about a consecrated cross-eyed bear."

An Irishman riding in a street car had a pipe in his mouth, which was not lighted. The conductor came up to him and said "Say, there is no smoking allowed in this car." "I am not smoking," said the Irishman. "Well, you have your pipe in your mouth," said the conductor. "Faith then, I have me feet in me shoes, and I'm not walking."

Miss Tetherly to Clarence: "What is a synonym?" Clarence: "A word that has the same meaning as another word." Miss Tetherly: "Why does our language possess synonyms?" Clarence: "So you can use one word when you don't know how to spell the other one."

A recently published book is entitled "Half hours with insects." What a lively half hour one can have with a bee.

THE CLASS PROPHECY OF '09

May 18th, 1919.—After the graduation of the class of '09, I was called away from Sanford, not to return for ten long years. During this time I often wondered how it fared with my classmates. Time and events drifted us apart, and I had been unable to hear from them. It is with a feeling of great joy that I anticipate the meeting with some of them, and to hear from others, as the train rolls in amid old familiar scenes. At the depot there is a crowd of young girls, whose faces seem somewhat familiar to me, yet I cannot recall them. I search the crowd eagerly for some face I know. I see our dear old class friend—Capt. O. S. Taryer—and after a hearty welcome from him, I ask if some one is expected, as such a crowd of girls are anxiously watching for the well-remembered yellow of the East Coast train. Captain tells me that my old classmate, Stanley Wood, had become head mail clerk on the East Coast railroad, and was now in charge of the division between Miami and Sanford. So Stanley is the center of attraction with these girls. Well do I remember him as the beau ideal of former years, and now I find him as popular with the younger generation of High School girls, as with those of yore. I make my way to him, and receive a hearty hand-clasp—I indeed feel that the world is not so wide after all. The following morning, when looking over a copy of the Sanford Herald (which is now a daily) the first headlines I read were these: "The most famous oration ever given in the Florida legislature was delivered Friday morning by Hon. Edward Franklin Lane of Sanford entitled 'A teacher's right to pension.' This is the most eloquent plea ever delivered in Tallahassee, and it is predicted everywhere that it will gain the desired effect. I afterwards learned that Edward attended Stetson University at Deland for two years, then returned home, and his uncle presented to him his entire business. I am indeed surprised to know that our jolly Edward of other years has settled down to a strictly business career.

In passing Fernald's hardware store, a few days later, I saw the well-known face of Claude Coffee at the window. He is now head bookkeeper there, and Claude feels well paid for the extra afternoons of hard study, after school, to learn the required system of bookkeeping.

On inquiring for the "baby," I find that he had obtained what he wanted, as babies usually do, after a four years' course at Ames, Iowa, studying for a civil engineer. Ralph has been appointed chief bridge inspector of the Panama canal by the government, where he now resides over two-thirds of his time.

I find Henry comfortably established in a pharmacy of his own, or rather bought on the instalment plan, and located next door to the furniture store of his father-in-law. He is now running opposition to Dr. Newlan, in carrying the finest brand of ten cent cigars.

"On the last night of my home visit I was invited to attend a musical given by Madame Le Grand and Company." When upon entering the new Metropolitan Theater, the sweet familiar tones of music were wafted to me, and can it be that Madame Le Grand, the famous pianist, is my dear old friend and classmate, Ruth Abbott? Never in my life have I enjoyed a performance so much as this one, and I need not say that Ruth and I had a long talk in her dressing room, after the musical, over the many changes of the past ten years. How little she thought in former years that her accompaniments were not to be to the time of falling teeth.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

In giving up our old familiar places and precious keepsakes to others we wish to know that they are left in trusted and faithful hands. With this in mind, we, the seniors of the class of '09 of the Sanford High School, City of Sanford, County of Orange, State of Florida, do make and declare, on this day, May 18th, 1909, this our last will and testament.

1. We do bequeath to the seniors of '10 our reserved seats in "Balthead Row," and may they feel the responsibility of keeping up the dignity of these honored places, as we have done. We also leave to them our Virgils, and may they be so well cared for that we will never see them again.

2. We leave and bequeath to Eugene Roumillat and Annie Higgins, Edward and Ruth's favorite seat by the window.

3. Our pennant, which has been present on all important occasions of this class, and has never had the honor of floating beneath "old glory" on the High School building, we leave and bequeath to the sacred charge of Henry H. Peabody

4. The "dream book" which the class of '08 willed to us, we in turn leave to the seniors of '10, and may it not be as visionary to them as it has been to us.

5. The responsibility and every considerable care it may require of our infant freshman, Clarence Mahoney, who is aspiring to become a distinguished sophomore in the near future, we do leave to Sadie Williams and Ruth Mettinger of the Junior class, whom we feel will care for him as tenderly as we have done.

6. We also leave and bequeath our two mirrors, which as the prophecy foretells: bring good luck to anyone who shall be so fortunate as to possess them, and which have been handed down from class to class until the present time. The gold is for the seniors of '10, the silver for the Juniors of '10, and may the above stated prophecy prove as true in their case as it has in ours.

7. To Professor N. J. Perkins, Miss Clara L. Guild and Miss Alice Tetherly, we do leave our best wishes and happiness and good fortune always attend them.

8. We do appoint Mr. B. F. Whitner of the First National Bank, as our sole executor of this our last will and testament. Signed, sealed and declared on this day, May 18th, 1909.

—THE SENIORS OF '09.

Codicil.—We wish to add a few lines of farewell, May each of us always remember our motto: "With the strings of the past we ring the bells of the future." We do not know what the future holds, but let us hope it is a blessing to each one of us.

"Fast as the rolling seasons bring
The hour of Fate, to the class we love,
Each pearl that leaves the broken string
Is set in the heavenly crown above,
As narrower grows the earthly chain,
The circle widens in the sky;
These are treasures that remain,
But those are stars that beam on high."

Florida Canal Routes

The board of officers of the corps of engineers appointed to recommend routes for a survey for a canal across the northern part of the state of Florida, from east to west, will recommend to the war department a survey of five routes, 1,000 miles in all, at a cost of approximately $25,000. The canal routes to be surveyed will aggregate very much more than the Panama canal survey, and will require several months to complete with five parties of surveyors at work. It is expected that if the plan of survey is approved the work will begin at once. The shortest line from coast to coast contemplated is 110 miles, with other surveys necessitated, making each route survey approximately 200 miles.

Railroad Resumes Extension

The Sanford & Everglades Railroad Co., having finished work on the street railway for the present, have resumed work upon the line to Cameron City and hope to complete the road in a few months. This will be good news to the people residing in this section, as the road will be able to move the fall crops along the entire route to Cameron City on Lake Jessup. This new railroad will aid in opening up and developing this part of the celery delta, and prove of great benefit to the inhabitants of this new town of Cameron, and every resident in that section.

First Shipment of Canteloupes

The first canteloupes to leave Sanford were shipped last week by Standand & Aldrich, and were consigned to the well-known commission house of Miles & Co. Dr. Aldrich expects to ship in car lots in a few weeks. The canteloupe crop is a new one in this section, many having raised them for home markets, but very few upon a large scale. It is rumored that next season there will be quite an area planted to canteloupes in the celery delta, as they grow to a fine size, and have a most excellent flavor, on account of the irrigation.

Zoji, the famous Buddhist temple, situated in Shiba Park, Tokio, was completely destroyed by fire recently. Loss $200,000. Only those who know the pride of the Japanese in their temples can conceive the effect of this irreparable loss to the people. The fire was started by a beggar, who was living in a hole beneath the floor of the temple. The man was cold and had kindled a fire with old paper and sticks with which to keep warm.

Capt. G. W. Buford of Buford, Ga., accidentally came in contact with an electric wire charged with 50,000 volts, last week and although this great current passed through his body it did not kill him. The gold spectacles on his nose were melted and the nails in his shoes were welded.

Damaging floods were prevalent last week in the states of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. It is estimated that in some sections the cotton crop will be short 25 per cent, to say nothing of the loss on other crops and in live stock.

A remarkable burial occurred in Hampton Roads, off Sewells Point, last week, when a can containing the ashes of a former Confederate soldier was lowered into the waters in front of the point he had helped to defend in the 60s. The man died in Seattle, was cremated and the ashes sent to Virginia for burial just as he requested before his death.

BALL SEASON OPENS

Great American Game Interests Sanford People

THREE GAMES PLAYED THIS WEEK

Sanford Team Getting Down to Steady Work and Will Soon Be in Fine Condition

Sanford has a bunch of enthusiastic "fans" and the association recently formed should have no trouble in giving the people of this city a first-class article of ball, and some interesting games. This year the people are taking more interest than ever before in the national game, and from early indications it would seem that the support will be given if a good team can be put in the field. The new park when finished will be one of the best in the South, and the season should witness some of the best games in this part of the state. The season virtually opened on Monday of this week, when the boys crossed bats with the Eustis boys.

Sanford vs Eustis

As per announcement, the Eustis baseball aggregation came over from the city on the hill to try titles with the Celery City bunch of ball tossers. When play ball was called by the umpire at 1:30, the attendance was not overly large, but what was lacking in numbers was made up for by the enthusiasm of those who were in attendance. The clubs were pretty evenly matched and several clever plays were made by members of the respective clubs, which were liberally applauded. The game was closely watched and some very close decisions by the umpire were disapproved by those who saw the plays. At the close of the game the score stood five to four in favor of Eustis. Dr. Reid of Eustis acted as umpire.

Stevens was sent in to do the twirling for Sanford, but did not have his usual control, and was taken out in the third. Chubb succeeded him. The latter had the Eustis batters at his mercy throughout the remainder of the game. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning to allow Eustis to catch a train home.

Sanford vs Lakeland

On Tuesday afternoon a large and enthusiastic crowd of baseball lovers, cranks and rooters made their way to the new baseball grounds to see the game between the Lakeland and Sanford clubs, and from the racket that was made they evidently saw it—every strike and every ball. It was a cosmopolitan crowd in every sense of the word—old and young, rich and poor, saint and sinner. The game cannot be classed as a brilliant one (there were too many errors for that), but can be claimed as entertaining. The first runs were scored by Lakeland in the third inning, when two were put to their credit. In the sixth inning Sanford succeeded in getting one man over the plate, and in the seventh four more were added to it. Lakeland scored two more in the eighth and three in the ninth. Sanford also made two in the ninth. This tied the score. In the tenth neither team scored, and the game was called to allow the visiting club to train for home.

Some good plays were made by members of both clubs which were applauded by the onlookers. Dr. King acted as umpire and gave general satisfaction.

Battery for Lakeland, Battle, C. Wilder, Bower

Battery for Sanford, Chubb, Beardall.

Struck out, by Battle 8; by Wilder 6; by Chubb 10. Hits, Sanford 8; Lakeland 14.

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

Kissimmee-Sanford Game

Yesterday the Kissimmee Cowboys came up to take a fall out of the Celery Growers. Old Jupiter Pluvius seemed unwilling to let the youngsters get together, and for an hour before the game the bottom of the clouds fell out and sky juice fell at a great rate. However, it takes more than mere water to dampen the ardor of the ball players, and quite a good sized crowd of fans wended their way to the park despite the fact that as yet no shelter has been provided. The new park was in fair condition, and play was called at four o'clock by Umpire King.

It was a day for mud hens and in this the Sanford boys seemed to excel, for they settled down and played a good, steady game having the visitors at their mercy throughout the six innings. In that short time they had piled up 13 runs to Kissimmee's 2. The game was too one-sided to be interesting. Following is the official score:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	R	H	E
Sanford	1	1	1	2	7	1	13	8	10
Kissimmee	0	0	1	0	1	0	2	6	14

Boston Paper Gives Sanford A Good Article

FARMERS GET SEVERAL CROPS

Rapidly Growing City That Has Gained Game Through Wonderful Crops

Every week Sanford springs into the limelight of the public through articles upon the wonderful possibilities of the great celery delta. Last week The Herald published two articles from the Country Gentlemen, a well known magazine devoted to farming interests. This week there is a good article upon the front page of the Christian Science Monitor, a daily paper published in Boston, Mass., and having a national reputation and large circulation. These articles are not paid advertising but are given by various papers and magazines in various parts of the United States on account of the reputation gained by Sanford as the vegetable center of the world. All of the good things mentioned about Sanford are not confined to home papers and while there are many articles published in various papers that never get to our exchange table, some that do are so good that The Herald cannot refrain from reproducing them. We give below the article that appeared in the Daily Monitor on May 28, accompanied by a large half-tone cut of a celery field:

This rapidly growing place offers special inducements to the home-seeker, the tourist and the sportsman. For 100 miles to the south from Sanford the St. Johns river is navigable for small pleasure craft. During four or five winter months myriads of duck and snipe migrate to these waters and adjacent lowlands; and in the virgin forests stretching away on either side, quail, turkey and deer are found in great abundance. The waters of the river and the numerous lakes of which it is formed are teeming with black bass, small mouth bass, pickerel, catfish, grinnel and perch of many varieties.

Less than five years ago there was a population here of 1500; today the city has 3500 people.

Sanford has more railroads than any place in the state, except the metropolis, Jacksonville; and being also located on the St. Johns river, has the benefit of water competition, giving it the best freight rate of any town in the trucking and fruit growing section.

Abundant and cheap irrigation enables the Sanford farmer to produce three crops between Oct. 1 and June 1 each season. Lettuce, celery and tomatoes or egg plants—in the order named—is the rotation; and a five acre farm on Sanford land, it is claimed, will yield more income than any quarter section of the best tilled or most fertile farm in the United States. There are dozens of farmers who have accumulated small fortunes here in the last half dozen years.

Sanford is termed "The Celery City" from the extent and success of this industry. Celery seed are sown any time from Aug. 15 to Nov. 15. Plants in the age of about six weeks are set in a field. Growing and taking care of plants thereafter is the work of two men for five acres of land. Hand power is used mostly.

This city is in the central part of the state, and its social advantages are excellent. There is a fine line of steamers plying daily between here and Jacksonville.

FLORIDA CELERY AT SEATTLE

Good Prices for our Products Shipped to Far Pacific Coast

Two carloads of Florida celery and pineapples arrived here today. Two cars of tomatoes from Florida which were scheduled to arrive today have been held up somewhere between Billings and Seattle to be ice'd, says the Seattle Intelligencer of May 13. The tomatoes were becoming overripe and to save any further loss the cars were ice'd. One car may arrive here tomorrow, while the other will probably arrive here Friday. The celery is selling at $4.50 per crate. The pineapples are bringing $5 to $5.25 per crate, and tomatoes $1 per basket. The number of pineapples to the crate ranges from 24 to 30.

Soo Canal is Broken

With all the weight of Lake Superior behind, an ungoverned torrent of water rushed through the four million-dollar Canadian canal.

The lock was wrecked when the steamer Perry G. Walker rammed its bow through the lower gate.

The canal presents a tremendous spectacle, including two water falls and a giant whirlpool. With the upper gates open when the lower gates were crushed, water was given instant play. The big steamer Assinibion was torn from its moorings and struck the Walker, ramming a hole in her side. The cargo shifted, which damaged her. The Walker whirled around several times and finally landed on a shoal.

The ore-laden steamer Crescent City, just entering the lock was swept down, overtook the Assinibion, struck two glancing blows, after having a great hole torn in her side as she swept past the broken gate. She was towed ashore.

Loss to the Canadian government is probably $250,000, the Crescent City, $100,000. Damage to the Walker and Assinibion is light.

The Walker's captain says his engineer caused the accident by a mistake in going ahead instead of "backing."

New Counterfeit Detected

A deceptive counterfeit $10 national bank note, bearing the portrait of William McKinley has been discovered. The counterfeit is a very clever piece of workmanship. It is on the Citizens' Central National Bank of New York city, of the series of 1902, and apparently is printed from lithographic plates on two pieces of paper, between which silk threads have been distributed. The numbering is poor, the figures being irregular in size and alignment, but the pink seal is excellent, both as to color and workmanship.

Mrs. Dickens Entertains

Mrs. J. W. Dickens entertained the Book Circle at her home last Wednesday afternoon from four to six. The usual interesting program was carried out.

The Book Circle is one of Sanford's most popular societies, the members meeting once each month at the different houses, exchanging books, giving readings and otherwise enjoying an afternoon of pleasure and profit.

Great Banking System

The Witham system of banks among which is the Peoples Bank of this city is gaining a world wide reputation and many other sections of the country are noting the wonderful progress being made by this southern institution. The following is from the Western Banker published at Omaha, Nebraska:

"Among the interesting men whom we met at the Virginia Bankers' Convention was Mr. W. S. Witham, of Atlanta, Ga. He is now associated with ninety six banks, and acts as Financial Agent, representing them in a series of transactions by which they are mutually benefited."

"He goes to the North, where there is plenty of money on the market, and puts it to earning good interest rates in the South, where it is needed, and the Banks who are thus benefitted are more than pleased with the results."

"He has lately been adding several Banks up in New York to the System, and they begin to open their eyes when they find out how much it means to them. Mr. Witham has big balances on hand constantly in several New York Banks, and could command a cool million at any moment. It is this strong ready cash addition to the assets of the Witham Banks which enables all of them to travel through two panics and eight tight money markets, during the past twenty years, with safety, and without even a complaint. It is a wonderful banking plan. He is the pioneer in country banking and is the only banker in this country who insures the depositors against loss."

One of the most enjoyable social events of the week was a "jock luncheon" given as a compliment to the Misses Pritchard of Macon, Ga., on Friday evening.

Officers were received and filed: Report of Licenses, Sheriff report of fines, Forfeitures and Costs, Pay-Roll of State Witnesses, Report of Sheriff to State Auditor Pay Roll of Road Camp, Clerk's report of Tax Redemptions, L. Wichtendahl report of Fines, Forfeitures and Costs, Report of Co. Treasurer, Supt. Co. Home, Co. Physician, Supt. of Roads and Bridges, and Financial Statement of auditor.

Board examined vouchers, ordered warrants drawn and adjourned to next regular meeting.

A GREAT CELEBRATION

Sanford Will Welcome Visitors On The Fifth

DAY OF RECREATION AND FUN

Barbecue, Ball Games, Parades, Speech Making And Amusements Will Insure a Grand Success

The grand celebration to be given by the public spirited citizens of Sanford is now assured of success and all the obstacles have been cleared away, the money has been raised and the assurance has been granted that the Fifth of July will go down in the annals of history as one of the greatest outpouring of Florida people ever witnessed in the state. The committees have been formed and now have the details of the celebration well in hand and from the reports the celebration will take place on the fifth day of July as the Fourth this year occurs on Sunday.

In order to fitly celebrate the natal day of American independence a large amount of money will necessarily have to be raised and the question of giving the visitors a good time naturally laid with the committee on barbecue, one item in itself that is most important and will entail the greatest expense. The citizens have responded most loyally and our friends in the country have also expressed their willingness to assist in the preparation for the barbecue. Sanford is famous the world over for her hospitality and the citizens would not dream of inviting such a large crowd of visitors to the city without providing plenty for the inner man. The committee on the barbecue now report that everything will be arranged for the entertainment of at least 5,000 visitors and none will be allowed to go away hungry.

In the amusement line there will be two hotly contested games of ball between Sanford and Orlando. One game will be in the morning and one in the afternoon thus enabling the visitors to witness one or both games at their pleasure. Potato races, sack races, catching the greased pig, a tournament, horse races, a tub race on the lake and kindred sports will occupy the intervals of the day. The barbecue will occur promptly at noon after which Hon. Frank Clark will make the address of the day at the opera house. Mr. Clark at present is very much in the public eye not only in his native state but in every state in the Union and his speech at Sanford on this occasion will attract numerous visitors and will be copied extensively by the metropolitan papers. Mr. Clark will also have some good news for the people of this section regarding deep water in the St. Johns river, Florida's ship canal and other subjects that are of the utmost importance at this time. Mr. Clark has accepted the invitation and declared positively that he will make the address at this time.

Particulars will be given later regarding this grand celebration and it behooves the citizens of the Celery Delta to work every day from now until the fifth of July to make the celebration one of the greatest events in the history of Sanford. All contributions to the general fund will be gratefully accepted no matter how small, as the committees need the assurance of good will from every citizen as much as the money, although the money is greatly needed.
