Chances Of War

There is not the least chance of a world war happening in the near future, according to George Bernard Shaw, distinguished dramatist and author, who sometimes resorts to exaggeration. In an interview with his friend W. R. Titterion in the Rotarian Magazine, he says that if there were, it would have happened last September when there was more inflammatory talk and ill feeling than there ever was from the Agadir incident to the bombardment of Liege.

"What would happen first in a world war?" asks Shaw. "The airplanes of A, B, C, and D would bomb the cities of E, F, G, and H so effectively that the white flag would be hoisted at approximately the same time in the several capitals, and abject pleas for peace would cross each other in the air."

The tragic nastiness of this latest development of warfare is that the attack of the civilian population is absurdly easy, he points out. Because adequate defense is impossible, the danger to civilians of wholesale extinction is greater than ever before. Governments of the civilized countries—those well equipped with the latest means of destruction—are well aware of this fact.

"I think that man is on trial", declares Shaw. "If we are proved definitely to be a mistake, we shall be scrapped, and God will use some other creatures a trifle less stupid to carry on His purpose. Our opportunities have been great, our stupidities have been monstrous. And, KONDAY, FEBRUARY 27, 1939 no doubt, war is one of the greatest of these.

"But don't delude yourself with the notion that when nations are at peace with themselves, or that slums and unemployment and inhuman working conditions and sweat-THEY WERE THOUGHTS ing wages are far more admirable than the miserable trong was represented to the miserable transfer of war", he continues. "As long as pugnacity thoughts, murders, adulteries, war, and you will have all the blessings of peace I have enumerated. I see no signs that, however great a miswhich defile a man; but to eat take man may be, he is likely to be superseded in the will unwashen hands defileth lifetimes of our present national leaders. God works on a big canvas, and we are only an inch or so away from the Siege of Troy.

"In a war everybody loses, but formerly it was possible for one side to think-for a year or two-that it had won", concludes Shaw. "The single redeeming fea-ture of the next world war, when it happens, is that this will not be possible. In reflecting upon that, perhaps you Talls the arm, covering, ample,
The swirt, passionate, that shall may find some particle of hope."

And cover passion?
