asked Secretary of Commerce Don L. Spicer to be his running mate in the upcoming elections, but," Spicer commented at the Greater Sanford Chamber's governor, and will do just about Spicer told chamber members future growth for Central Florida looks good despite some drops in businesses affected by shortages of materials, particularly plastics.

He said the Tampa-Orlando Southeast Coast area continues to show the most rapid growth, but is slowing down somewhat as a result of environmental factors, economic conditions and material shortages.

"I fee! business developmen is compatible with protecting the environment," said Spicer "If environmentalists had all the say this would jeopardize natural growth." Re believes it will be March before the area feels any real relief from the fuel shortage. "Although Florida has been granted a 20 per cent increase in her gas allotment we can still expect the same shortage at the end of February that we suffered at the end of January," he

The energy crisis has certainly hit the Florida tourist industry hard, said Spicer, but it is not a gas shortage so much as uncertainty and rumor that has kept tourists from coming to the state this holiday season.

"We had to start running advertisements informing people up north that gas was available in Florida," he said. Then we ran into problems with local residents complaining we were bringing tourists down here to use all our gas. Now we don't run any ads mentioning the fuel situation without checking daily with the energy agency," he explained.

He said the Auto-Train needs more publicizing to become a major means of moving tourists in and out of the state.

"We're in a new era of interovernmental relations shifting monies from federal to state responsibility, and it is more important than ever to have sound state and local government," said Spicer.

Cabinet To Resolve Feud? TALLAHASSEE, Fig. (AP) - After months of delay and intra-Cabinet feuding, the appointment of Harmon Shields as Florida Natural Resources director was expected to be resolved today. Insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley, in his first official action since heart surgery, was scheduled to attend a Cabinet meeting so he can cast his vote for Shields. now Marine Resources director, and break a 3-3 deadlock. Director Randolph Hodges, 59, has been postponing his retirement since Nov. 30 from the $30,000 a year post as head of the state's largest envrionmental agency.

Car Poolers Get Rate Break

State insurance Commissioner Thomas O'Malley said Monday that many auto insurers have already begun cutting premiums for their customers who join car pools. O'Malley's office reported that 21 auto insurance companies have applied for rate reductions of up to 15 per cent and that others are expected to follow after further study of the effects of the gasoline crisis on driving habits.

would suggest that the answer to that question is

The President must certainly feel more comfortable with the rightward shift of the court after almost two decades of liberal, activist decision-making by the Warren court.

But the new court also has established clearly its independence from Mr. Nixon, ruling contrary to the President's stated position on any number of major issues - wiretapping, abortion and parochial aid, among others. Tom Krattenmaker, A Georgetown law professor and court watcher, calls it a "court of shifting coalitions." The new court has yet to establish any over-all approach to the Constitution, he says.

By contrast, there were a number of consistent themes in the decisions of the Warren court, especially between 1962 and 1968, he says, citing as examples rulings favoring racial equality and an expanding role for the federal

What has really changed since that time, Krattenmaker says, is the diversity of thinking on this court, with nine members who come together in different alliances depending on the

The breakup of the Warren court began in June of 1969, when Mr. Nixon's first appointee, Warren E. Burger, was sworn in as chief justice, replacing Earl Warren, who retired after 16 years on the high court.

Mr. Nixon then had two nominees rejected by the Senate in bitter battles between the legislative and executive branches. Clement F. Haynsworth Jr. was accused of ethical impropriety as a lower court judge and G. Harrold Carswell was opposed by civil rights groups.

Mr. Nixon finally nominated Harry A Blackmun, who was unanimously confirmed in May of 1970. Then, in late 1971, his nominations I Lewis F. Powell Jr. and William H. Rehnquist were approved, giving Nixon nominees four of

China Purge Victim Back In Light

Premier Chou En-lai.

Teng is the most senior living victim of the ruthless purges of the 1966-69 cultural revolution leaders. Though he fell hard during the period in which the late Lin Piao was in ascendance, Teng has bounced back to a position ahead of 11 members of the all-important Communist Party Politburo. Among those Teng outranks, according to a new list, is Chairman Mao Tse-tung's wife,

The short, stocky Teng was secretary-general of the Chinese Communist Party and the ranking vice premier under Premier Chou until 1966. At that time he was branded "Cnina's No. 2 Krushchev" (after Chief of State Liu Shao-chi, now believed to be dead).

The new high ranking for Teng, who reappeared in public last April after seven years of disgrace, was revealed in typically Chinese fashion. His name was on a list of Chinese leaders who sent wreaths on the occasion of a memorial service for Vice Minister of Defense Wang Shu-sheng, who died Jan.

What does Teng's comeback mean in the present framework of improving Peking-Washington relations? First of all, since Teng has always been a close associate o Premier Chou, it demonstrates

'Passport Lady' Vents Frustration

International crime, particular that having to do with narcotics traffic to the United States, is aided and abetted by the relative ease with which the more astute dope peddiers obtain frequent false passports under phony names and disguises. This was made clear in recent

For years, Americans told themselves, or were told by others, that they really ought to start thinking about doing more for the underdeveloped half of the world. Here we were, with only six per cent of the world's population, gobbling up the iton's share of this or that natural resource and giving so little in return.

True, the United States has spent billions in the category of foreign aid. But when you subtracted the military part of it or figured it as a percentage of the yearly gross national product, it slift amounted to a rip-off of the poor nations, said the critics.

Miss Knight, nearly 19 years on the job and known as the "passport lady" for the reforms she has instituted in the office she directs, seems frustrated onot only by the fraud but by the difficulties she has had in getting anything done. She blames superiors in her own State

Discussing the scope of the racket in fraudulent records (birth certificates, marriage certificates, driver's licenses and Social Security cards) that are used in obtaining false passports, she said: "Years ago document frauds were estimated to cost the U.S. govern-

WASHINGTON-The story behind the leap in oil prices is revealed, at least in part, in the secret corporate papers of the Arabian American Oil Company (ARAMCO).

The new Pike's Peak prices will cost the world's oil consurners billions and jolt the economies of oil-dependent nations.

Aramco is the world's largest oil producer. Its ugly derricks outnumber the palms on the Saudi Arabian desert, which covers an underground sea of petroleum.

Aramco is a consortium of four of the five largest U.S. oil giants-Exxon, the biggest; Texaco, second; Mobil, fourth; and Standard of California, fifth.

Over the past three decades, they have earned enormous profits on the crude oil they have pumped out from under the Saudi cands. These profits were boosted into orbit by a secret 1950 Treasury Department ruling, which permitted them to charge off their royalty payments against their U.S. taxes, dollar for dollar.

The write-off, which has been worth hundreds of millions of dollars in tax credits to the Aramco partners, was justified on national security grounds. This special incentive was needed, pleaded Aramco, to preserve the Saudi oil for U.S. defense.

The return of Teng Hsiao- "establishment moderates" between Lin Piao and Chou En- designated Mao's heir apparent argument, Aramco has cut off all Saudi oil to U.S. armed forces ping to the upper echelon of are firmly in control. lai. Lin Piao died mysteriously but either grew impatient for since October 21 at the request of King Faisal. The king, it seems,

Aramco expects to lose its fabulous Saudi oil concessions but would dearly like to put off the dreadful day. The corporate papers predict that King Faisal will take over the oil fields "well

In an anxious scramble for new sources of crude, the Aramco partners dusted off plans to reactivate U.S. wells that had been

As long as there was plenty of cheap Sandi oil available, the four partners weren't interested in conducting costly pumping operations in the United States. But the threat of nationalization dramatically changed their outlook. However, they didn't want to give up the fat profits they had become accustomed to piling up. They decided, therefore, that they needed higher oil prices to pay for reopening the U.S. wells. Before they closed these wells, they had creamed off the oil that gushes out on its own power. Now they must pump gas or water into the wells to force out the "secondary" oil. They are also studying "tertiary techniques" for extracting oil from the oil

To raise money for all this, the Aramco crowd encouraged Saudi Arabia to raise oil prices. The corporate papers tell of secret meetings with Zaki Yamani, the polished Saudi oil minister. The papers mention six dollars as the price they hoped to set for a barrel of oil.

The Saudis oblingingly came through with a price rise in the form of a tax increase, which the Aramco partners could deduct from their U.S. taxes. The secret papers contain complex charts, Exxon's profits for the last quarter of 1973 jumped 59 per cent over the final three months of 1972. Mobil reported a 68 per cent increase, Texaco a 70 per cent increase, Standard of California 94

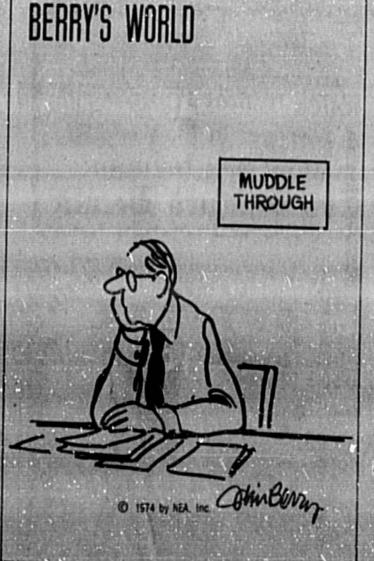

The strategy to raise prices worked better than the Aramco partners bargained for. Other oil-producing countries joined in he clamor for higher profits, until the price soared out of bounds. Alarmed Aramco officials, fearful of worldwide political epercussions, went back to Yamani with a plea to stabilize prices. Although the Aramco partners have benefitted mightily from the high prices, they don't want to press their luck too far and risk government controls. The corporate papers show that the Aramco brass are preparing for another showdown with Yamani this month. They expect Yamani to call for the "restructuring" of Aramco, giving Saudi Arabia a greater chare of the oil production. They believe he will demand an increase from 25 to 51 per cent of the company. Then Saudi Arabia will wind up controlling Aramco and it will be just a matter of time before the Aramco partners will be left with whatever oil they can squeeze out of their U.S. fields.

FOOTNOTE: Aramco declared that "far from encouraging increased oil prices," it has "worked for reasonable prices." A corporate statement charged that we had failed to substantiate our story and that we couldn't possibly have any "valid evidence"

On the contrary, we have given Sen. Frank Church's subcommittee a detailed description of the documents in our possession. We were called behind closed doors, where we testified under oath, read excerpts from the corporate papers and told the Subcommittee which documents to subpoena.

This Criminal Needs

To Forgive Himself By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Altho I am in prison, I am a loyal reader of your column. Mostly because I miss sharing life At times you have expressed faith in God Deep in the night I am restless and unable to sleep because the memory of my crime [murder; haunts me. I have sought God's forgiveness and believe that Jesus died for our sins, but I am unable to find relief from my troubled conscience. Abby, is murder a forgivable sin? I find no reference to it in the Bible, but there is reference to an eye for an eye. If you can give me the answer, you will do much for my peace of mind. Thank you.

DEAR FRIEND: All religions endorse the concept of forgiveness to one who is sincere in contrition and repentance. It was expressed in the Old Testament in Isaiah 55:7. "Let the sinner abandon his way and his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord for He will have mercy upon him and fully forgive." In fact, so strong is this feeling in the Bible it is repeated seven times in the Old Testament.

If a misdeed was committed, it can be fully atoned by paying one's debt to society and also by exemining one's conscience and thru self-understanding changing one's ways and returning to the path of goodness. A beautiful expression of Divine forgiveness and mercy was given by Nahman of Bratslav, an 18th-Century sage: "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance."

To this may I add that the hardest person to fargive is onesell. God Bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She shoplifts. I know this for a fact because I have seen her in action. She takes only small things that will fit into her purse. I'm the only one in the family who knows about it. I really can't understand why Morn would steal. She can afford to buy anything she wants. Bosides she picks up things she has no use for, like cheap sunglasses, and orange lipstick! She stole a can of cat food, and we don't even have a cat! My mother and I aren't very close, so I can't talk to her about it. She'd probably deny it anyway.

It would kill my father if he knew. He is a highly respected elected government official. I am 15. Please don't use my name or town, but tell me what to do.

DEAR WORRIED: This type of shoplifting sounds like kleptomania. It's an illness and can be cured with treatment. First tell your mother what you have told me. And if she denies it tell your father. It won't "kill" him. He'd appreciate learning it from you.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both 21. We've been married for nearly two years and we have one child. He joined the service out of fear of being drafted and now

My question: Why do men [even married men] tell me I shouldn't think my husband is sitting in the barracks every night just thinking of me? They say he is only human and he is out for everything he can get over there. They say all the guys in the service cheat on their wives. Abby, this upoets me terribly. Some of there mer don't even know my husband so how can they pass judgment on

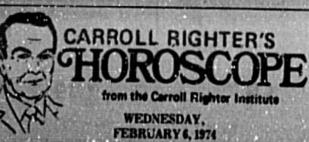

TRUE BLUE WIFE DEAR WIFE: They can't. They are trying to suggest that if you want to cheat on your husband, you would be astified Don't believe them. There are plenty of "true

POLLY'S POINTERS Extra shoelaces spark a lacing

=Polly's Problem == DEAR POLLY - I received a Dutch oven as a Christmas gift. Everything cooked in it has a metallic taste. I hope someone can tell me how to correct this. Also, does anyone know of a way to keep geraniums until spring other than by potting and keeping them in the basement - MRS. II.S.

DEAR POLLY - My pet Peeve is having to buy three irs of shoe laces (all carded and one length) when I need only one pair. By the time another pair is needed those on hand are often not the right length as the shoes they were cought for have worn out. They are so easily misplaced that doubled price for ONE pair but do hate being forced to buy three pairs to get one. — MRS. D.S.

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Nancy who has trouble with the water not draining out of the shallow soap indentation in her sink. Place a sponge a little larger than a cake of soap in the indentation to absorb the excess water. This little sponge will help keep the soap firm and can be used when cleaning the sink. - FERN.

DEAR POLLY .. I have a Pointer to help the girls cut down on household expenses, save on gas and also eliminate a jot of steam on kitchen windows. When something in a pan on the stove starts to boil I leave the lid on tight and turn the burner down to "simmer." The wood will cook in the same amount of time, will have a better flavor and meat even seems more tender. For years I did door-to-door selling and often noticed that when a pan started to boil the lady of the house would jump up and tip the lid rather than turning down the burner. Imagine the savings in a year when one turns from high heat to simmer whether cooking with gas or

By John Cherwa Herald Correspondent

Excitement is starting to build around the Central Florida area due to this year's Florida Citrus Open. It will be held on February 28, and March 1-3. The site is as usual Rio Pinar

I have been a regular spectator for the past few years and I strongly recommend to any of you who have never seen a golf tournament in person to get out and catch this one.

The excitement is a million times more dramatic than that of a monotone announcer and aged veteran golfer doing analysis. If anything its a good chance to get out and get a little sun.

The prices are very reasonable in that you can see Saturday and Sunday action for five dollars in advance. You can't beat it.

Mayfair Opens Today

Of course not all tournaments are as big as the Citrus but are still tops in excitement. A perfect example is this week, more specifically Wednesday and Thursday is the Mayfair Open. The Tourney is held most naturally at the Mayfair Country Club in Lake Mary. It would be well worth your time to catch a few hours of action at this Winter Tour event.

One name that promises to bring some excitement is that of Chris Blocker. If my memory serves me correctly Chris was on top going the final round of the Citrus a few years back. Sheoh's former pro Paui Bondeson is also expected to participate.

The pro-am of the Mayfair classic is scheduled for today so still might have a chance to catch some great golf action before

Roger's Rules - - Phooey!

One set of rules that isn't used in the Mayfair or Citrus Open is my favorite "Rogers' Rules of Tournament Play." Rule four

"A ball striking a tree while in flight shall be deemed not to have struck a tree unless the player making the stroke declares that it was deliberately aimed for. In this case, play shall cease momentarily while his partners congratulate him on his marksmanship. But if the player attests in good faith that it was in no sense his intention to strike the tree, then it is obviously a piece of bad luck that has no place in a scientific game. No penalty shall accrue to the player, who is therefore permitted to estimate the distance his ball would have traveled and to play the

I went back to have a second look at the "new" front nine at Land O Lakes and much to my dismay I discovered there was more sand out their than I thought. It should be noted this sand is planned not the kind that is called ground under repair.

Last time I played the course I didn't land in a trap but this time I found almost all of them. Strangely enough playing partner James Brown was rarely in a trap and when in one, chipped to within a few feet of the hole. I guess there is just no happy medium.

Back to the point at hand the course is shaping up real well and should be an esset to Seminole County. alley Forge tops this week's local news with the final round of the Ladies' Club Championship coming up this week. After three rounds in the A flight, Shirley Conners and Wanda Steinke are tied with a 256. In the B flight Pete Bowen is leading with a 285 and in the C flight Elouise Bodine tops the field with a 309. The low round of the week was taken by the same Wanda Steinle in the ladies division taking home a 76 and Benny Birch blistered the course with a 66 on the mens side.

Seminole Pro Ties Mark

Senainole pro Mickey O' Brien had another one of those ex-cellent rounds over at his home links as he tied the course record of 30. He originally set the mark. Starting on hole manber two and continuing for the next five holes he scored birdies. He also took a one under score on the eighth hole for a record 30. Tonight a Seminole is a meeting of the Men's Association

Tournament division as they put their heads together scheduling On the 12th there will be a meeting of the members of the Men's Association at 7:00 p.m. at the clubbouse.

Upcoming tournaments at Mid Fiorida include the monthly Guys and Dolls tourney on Sunday.

Undoubtly Mid Piorida has some of the best golfing scores in the state as two excellent teams, Lyman and Rollins use Mid Florida as their course. Congratulations to Lyman for their recent win over defending district champion Lakeview.

Shecah Notes

From Sheoah pro Mickey Bessingnano is back from the PGA Merchandise show and reports that be has ordered some of the new lines to stock his proshop. Deliveries are expected in mid-April. One interesting orediction Mickey make was that soon the new graphite shafts will be coming down in price so that the duffer on an average income will be able to afford some. I hope so.

Finally from Rolling Hills in the Saturday mixed four ball best ball tournament in the low gross category Pete Lytle, Bob Oliver, Frank Eaton and Roy Gilbreath took home the honors.

In the low net division it was a tie between the team of Jim Schultz, Mcl Coleman, Dick Korstad, and Joe Powell on one side and Bill Welch, Bill Martin, Torn Collins, and Ken Mac-

Architect Blasts Metal Structure

WINTER SPRINGS-Citizens of this city should not be "subjected to visual "assment" with a metal structure for its city hall-fire station, architect Bob Koch told councilmen in workshop Monday night, estimating "optimistically" that a proper interim facility with furnishings will cost indicates the people in the community are sensitive, Koch said a metal building would not present a true image of the city. A permanent type building, he said, would cost about $30 per square foot to construct while a metal one would cost about $18 per square

Koch urged councilmen to take action as quickly as possible to authorize further plan preparation for the facility.

The building, Koch recommended as an interim measure, is a modification of what will be the fire station. He said as the city can afford to continue the construction program, it can easily be done in phases with no waste. Lee Barrett of Southeast First National Bank of Maitland said the bank will finance the $150,000 modified structure and furaishings at 5.95 per cent interest over a 20year period. 'The monthly cost to pay off the loan would be about $1600, Barrett said.

NEW PUBLICHEARING

a well-supported public hearing.

Wright was fired Dec. 19 and charged by State Atty. Abbott Herring with stealing a shotgun from Polk's custody. Wright gained a Christmas Day writ of habeas corpus from Circuit Court Judge Volie Williams who ordered Monday's hearing.

Wright and his attorney, T. Booth's "not caring what the citizens think." Mrs. Sasser Monday night lauded both officials for their dedication to the city.
