Ridder down Second Street
Monday afternoon saw a half of local boys in the middle of the street during a downpour.
We couldn't help but think what that crowd would have meant to some family in France, Poland or Greece.

E. A. Douglas of Lake Mary was a visitor in the Herald office early this week. Mr. Douglas enjoys good health, is as interested in national affairs as ever, and still enjoys a good joke as much as ever. Former County's first County Clerk, Mr.
Douglas 20 years ago was president of the first Board of Health and Trust Co. as well as the Sanford
Building and Loan Association.

Senator Pepper is the only man in the Senate who opposed the labor bill. He did so because of the "no strike" provision which prohibits the payment of funds to any person or organization which asserts the right to strike against the government. Senator Pepper evidently thinks it is one of our fundamental civil rights to strike against the government, but none of the other senators do.

We are glad to see the MRP
(Popular Republican Movement) coming out in France. They had only received the most votes but they won four seats from the Communists in the constituent assembly. It is too early to say whether this indicates a return to sanity on the part of the French people, something notably needed there for the past 10 or 15 years, but any way the Communist will not have as much voice in framing the next constitution of France as the more conservative MRP.

The Supreme Court of the United States has held that a newspaper has a right to criticize any ruling or decision of a court and has thrown out a contempt of court conviction of the editor of the Miami Herald following publication of two articles and a cartoon criticizing a Miami court. Justice Frankfurter says, "The press does have the right, which is its professional function, to criticize and advocate." And we certainly hope that applies to the Supreme Court of the United States, as well as to the lower courts.

Treasury department officials are elated over the government's financial condition, they say. Expenditures for this year will be ONLY 60 billion dollars instead of the 67 billion dollars they anticipated. Well, anyway, it seems they now regard reinforc-ment, no matter how small, as a virtue, when it used to be regarded as a sin, to spend as much money as possible. Bill, the 60 billion dollars the government will spend this year compares with the 4 billion it spent annually during the lush and lusty twenties.

The Tampa Tribune is in favor of drafting teen-agers, seeing it as essential to raise the army needed in Germany and Japan.
It quotes the New York Times as saying that there are no more than 72,000 men in the United States who can qualify for the draft. Well, it may be necessary to draft teen-agers for another year or two, but as a long range permanent proposition 18 is too young for boys to be forced into the army. For some it might be all right, but for many, who are not yet old enough at that age to face the realities of life, it is an unnecessary hardship.

Time was when being a young high school graduate was about the most glorious thing in the world. Today a good deal of the lustre has been removed. The 18 or 19 year old does not know whether he is going to be drafted into the Army or not. He may want to go to college, but he knows his chances of getting in will be slim with twice as many applications as the colleges can accept. If he decides to attend, he has the competition with him. He has to study under the gun of a draft which will be tough what are the young high school graduates to do? Fortunately they are young and so look at the world through rose colored

Historic Chain

Times may be troublous nowadays, but at least the United States has been spared a renewed outburst of chain letters, cluttering up the mails and taking time that could be put to better uses.

This reflection came from a historical scholar who was examining the records of the Russian Foreign Office, which the Bolsheviks gave to the world soon after they came to power. To his astonishment he learned that in 1899 the Chinese government used the chain letter device to incite people against Europeans and Americans. A handbill was distributed, reciting the crimes of the "foreign devils". It added:

"The person who reads this script and quickly distributes six copies, will save a family from distress. He who distributes ten copies will save an entire street from suffering. He who sees this sheet and does not distribute it shall pay with his head."

Out of this incendiary document arose the Boxer insurrection, in which many Europeans, chiefly missionaries, were killed in Peking, and which caused the intervention of Allied troops, including German and American.

Most chain letters do not have consequences so pernicious, but they are nothing to encourage.

A Break for the Kids

Children seem now to be more of a problem in this country than at any other time in American history. There are fewer of them in proportion to population, but those few seem harder to take care of.

There are so many landlords who object to having children in the house, and also many tenants who don't want children. From the way many people talk—both parents and non-parents—it often seems as if they regard offspring as an intolerable imposition and outrage, instead of the blessing they are traditionally supposed to be.

Really, there should be a new deal in this business of begetting and raising children, a better understanding of what children are and how to take care of them, and a wiser adaptation of fathers and mothers to what should be their most important jobs and their greatest glory of life.

Maybe it would help the general situation if the children and the parents could be turned around occasionally, for a few days, with the kids running the ranch.

Rice and Old Shoes

Rice-throwing at weddings is henceforth banned at a midwestern city church. While the food shortage is the immediate cause, the church, according to the pastor, has long regarded this as a pagan custom which it would like to see abolished.

It really seems like a strange custom. At no other social function is it customary to throw things at the host and hostess. Yet at weddings rice and old shoes have been conventional for many a year. The reason, according to students of old customs, is frankly superstitious. Primitive man was mortally afraid of evil spirits lurking about; to throw things at them might scare them away. Another reason is that both rice and shoes were considered symbols of fertility; to hurl them was a polite way of wishing that the lucky pair might have many children, with plenty of food and shoes for them.

Whatever this church may do, it is probable that the old custom still has a lot of life in it. But the pastor is quite right in objecting to waste of food at this time.

Very truly yours,
Claude Pepper

As this is written, the Senate by vote of 70 to 11 has just stripped the President's labor bill of the provision authorizing the drafting of executives and employees of industries taken over by the government to prevent work stoppages.

At last the Senate revolted against legislation which was as extreme as the stubbornness exhibited by some executives and some labor leaders. We are now waiting to see whether tomorrow the President will withdraw this drastic emergency bill which he recommended, veto the Case bill, passed largely by Republican votes in the Senate, and, now that the situation is in hand, let further legislation on the subject of industrial strife await the report of a Joint Senate and House Investigating Committee going into the real causes of conflict between management and labor.

Meanwhile, if the President were to follow such course he should, undoubtedly, as some of us have urged, call a production conference and seek an agreement between management and labor that there would be true cooperation each with the other and both with the government so as to give the country maximum production for the next six months. This is the course I have advocated and I hope the President will follow it. Management, labor and government have all been at fault.

blamed for the trouble but should not bear all the fault. During the war wages were held up to meet increased cost of living largely by overtime pay which workers get. When the war ended, overtime ended. The present workers had a very severe cut in the amount of money they took home at the end of the week. But prices—instead of declining—climbed higher as Congress refused to give control after another in response to pressure groups. There was a management-labor conference last fall but it failed because management refused to consider any wage per hour increase to keep the workers' total income from being cut by reduced working hours. The government had not formulated a policy for allowing any wage increase. Meanwhile, a group of big business executives met in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel in New York and determined to put up a common front against any wage increase per hour for labor. Business had been assured by the so-called "carry forward-carry back" law passed by the Congress that if it made less money in the two years after the war than it made during the war, or if it suffered a loss, it could draw back enough of the excess profit it paid in during the war to the government to make up for its reduced earnings or its loss. The law determined to put up a common front against any wage increase per hour for labor. The law determined to put up a common front against any wage increase per hour for labor.

The President then appointed fact-finding committees to try to find the truth about the disputes. Generally, big business refused to cooperate with the President's fact-finding Committee. When the fact-finding committee finally recommended wage increases and recommendations, big business refused still to comply with the President's request. In the automobile, steel, oil, farm machinery, electric and meat packing industries, big business defied the fact-finding committee. Labor making further concessions finally settled.

In the mine strike, the mine operators refused to discuss a health and welfare fund with the miners. In the case of the railroad strike, railroad management positively refused to consider any change by the engineers and the trainmen in spite of the fact that they hadn't had rule changes in twenty-five years. All the efforts of government mediators failed to get these industries to offer concessions to labor.

have kept the mines running without the public suffering any inconvenience. The government never offered to negotiate with the railroad workers as to the terms of their work for the government. At noon, before the President spoke to the Congress on May 25th, the railroad works begged the President to let them go back to work upon the terms recommended by the President's own emergency board, any further wage increase to be left to be discussed with the President. The President refused to read their letter but demanded that they settle instantly with the railroad management—not the government—their dispute.

Miss Hollingsworth Weds John Morgan

Miss Nancy Joan Hollingsworth, lovely daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. K. Hollingsworth became the bride of Dr. John Morgan at a ceremony which took place recently at the Glens Memorial Chapel in Atlanta, Ga. Rev. Harry H. Ward officiated, and a program of music was presented by Mrs. Bay Smith, organist, and Miss Geraldine Chapman, soloist. The Chapel was decorated with white gladioli, baby's breath, larkspur and cascading trailing burning white tapers.

His father, Walter Morgan of Sanford, was best man, and the usher-groomsman were Dr. Dexter Clayton and Bert B. Hollingsworth.

Miss Nevin Adkins was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. She wore a green satin dress with white accents and "wedding flowers" were gardenias.

The attractive bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white tulle gown with a blue flowered hat, white accessories and a shoulder spray of lavender orchids. Her only ornament was a single strand of pearls, which was her father's wedding gift to her mother when they were married.

Mrs. Morgan attended Bowling Green College of Commerce, Bowling Green, Ky. Until recently she was employed by the Coca-Cola Company. She is a member of the Kappa Beta Pi Sorority.

Dr. Morgan is the son of W. E. Morgan and the late Mrs. Margaret Morgan. He attended the University of Florida and graduated in 1936. He is currently Medical School. He served as intern at the Emory University Hospital, in Morgan is a member of the Phi Kappa social fraternity.

The out-of-town guests for the wedding included Mrs. Edith Metcalfe of Louisville, W. J. Morgan of Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hollingsworth, Dr. Bowling Green, and Mrs. M. J. Hollingsworth of Ocala.

INSIDE SPORTS REPORT

By JULIAN STENSTROM

"Fed Team to Beat" - Sosh

Manager Johnny Sosh, able receiver for the luckless Daytona Beach Dodgers, Saturday night told sports scribe Benny Kahn of the Daytona Beach News-Journal that Sanford was the team to beat in the Florida State League.

Double Headers

Officials of the Sanford Baseball Association have been having a difficult time in attempting to figure out how to play the double headers now scheduled for the Municipal Park. The club doesn't want to play an afternoon tilt and a night game since it is too much for the players, particularly in the hot weather.

Driving Park

Since Hibbard Casselberry has purchased the Seminole Driving Park, we're wondering what may be in store in the way of entertainment and sports functions at the racing oval. Casselberry bought the plant from Dave Hillman of Orlando. The area includes some 300 acres of ground, a one-mile and quarter-mile track and a clubhouse. Sale price was reported to be above $10,000.

Soviet Government Criticized By Attlee

Labor Party Praised By Churchill For Resolute Denunciation Of Communism

LONDON, June 5, (AP)—The Soviet Government received sharp criticism today in the House of Commons from both the Labor government and its Conservative opposition. After opposition leader Winston Churchill charged that the seeds of a new world war were being sown in the Russian dominated areas of eastern Europe, Prime Minister Attlee censured the Soviet set of degrading the spirit of the Potsdam agreement.

Mr. Attlee said Moscow interprets the agreement too literally without flexibility. However, Mr. Churchill today had more to say in praise than in criticism of the Labor government and Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin when he declared that the Labor government had made an important contribution to peace by what he called a resolute denunciation of Communism. Bevin, he added, should not be blamed for the stalemate in the three negotiations. Nor should he be given the blame for what Churchill described as Britain's painful decline in influence and prestige since the end of the war.

The former British prime minister pictured the threat of Europe's population cut off behind the Russian iron curtain with Russia attempting to swallow the entire area. The opposition leader also praised the Labor government for its hands-off policy with regard to Franco Spain, declaring that it had shown less restraint in refusing to interfere in the internal affairs of another country. Note of us like the Labor Regime, said Churchill. And there is a characteristic ally, in addition, personally, I like it as little as I like the present Russian administration.

Churchill, however, did criticize the Labor government for conducting foreign affairs on a one-party basis, with consulting opposition leaders. But he added, "I am not complaining."

Chamber Offices Are Moved To USO Building Tuesday

Edward Higgins, manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce today announced that the trade body has moved its headquarters from the City Hall, where the office has been located about five years, to the U. S. O. building at the corner of First Street and Sanford Avenue.

Mr. Higgins also revealed that a general meeting of the chamber is ready to hold meetings. This building is to be used as a community building for the benefit of citizens and visitors at Sanford. Outside shops are to make their headquarters here, their purchases delivered at the building, at which they will find all conveniences, rest rooms, powder room and comfortable surroundings.

Mr. Higgins wished to call the attention of the merchants in Sanford and requesting them to tell their customers of this convenience which has long been a need in our community.

The building will be open from 9:30 A. M. until 5:00 P. M., daily, with the exception of Saturday when the building will be closed at noon during the summer months.

Anyone desiring the use of the building after hours should contact Miss Margaret Reitz at the Chamber offices, telephone 51.

Holmes Melton Main Speaker At Kiwanis Luncheon

Necessity of adequate appropriations by the state Legislature to carry on the work of the Kiwanis was today stressed at a talk by Holmes Melton, former House member from Lafayette County who served on an investigation committee which reported on the state of the state and Senate in 1945 was directed to make a new investigation of the condition.

Mr. Melton, only World War II veteran in the State Legislature, accepted the position of speaker at the luncheon at the Kiwanis Club. He was introduced by Ed Field and J. W. Hall.

He told Kiwanis that he had already worked a year and a half on the investigating committee which reported on the state of the state and Senate in 1945 was directed to make a new investigation of the condition.

The investigation also revealed crowded unsanitary and unhygienic buildings, particularly in the state hospital for the insane at Lake Wales. He said this has not become an old folks home, he asserted with many sane but senile people who have been placed there because they have no other place to go. This situation, he added, will be relieved by construction of a new hospital for the insane at Avon Park for which $500,000 has been appropriated, but this program has not yet gotten under way because of lack of building material.

Other institutions investigated were the farm colony at Gainesville, the institutions for boys at Marianna and for girls at Ocala and for the deaf, mute and blind at St. Augustine. At Gainesville, he said, there was very deplorable crowding. It is impossible to get proper attendants for these institutions because of low wages paid, he declared, but added that he did not have too much criticism of management, who have not had enough funds to work with and who in many cases "did a grand job." He urged that citizens take more interest in these matters.

C. S. Stephens of Umatilla, and Rodi Crumley, Jr. were guests. President J. W. Hall commended Melton on their fine appearance at the Winter Park and Clermont interclub meetings. He appointed T. W. Lawson, Frank Shames and the Rev. W. P. Yealey to aid the Woman's Club in making canned vegetables for overseas shipment. Marvin Dyal, present member, was directed to polish the Kiwanis hall, which Ed Lane polished but was not as shiny as the Rotary Bell.

BOURS CHANGING
Franklin D. Hardaway, deputy collector of Internal Revenue, who in the past has met each Wednesday morning at the City Hall, will be at the USO building every Tuesday instead of Wednesday from 10:00 A. M. until noon.

15-Day Truce In China War To Be Signed

HANKING, June 5, (AP)—An agreement calling for a 15-day truce in Manchuria will be signed tomorrow by General George Marshall's committee of three. The committee is composed of the American general, Marshall, and two Chinese representatives each from the government and Communist.

The agreement was announced by a government spokesman today. It is the first truce since the Communist forces entered the area in 1945.

Cessation Of Hostilities Preliminary To Starting Peace Negotiations Soon

The agreement was announced by a government spokesman today. It is the first truce since the Communist forces entered the area in 1945.

By preparing for a truce, the government hopes to bring about a general armistice in the Far East. The government is also preparing to move from Peking to Chungking, the Communist capital.
