

Robert Jackson Seen As Likely Choice Of Demos

Dynamic Attorney-General In Quiet, Unassuming Manner

By SIGRID ARNE
 WASHINGTON, Apr. 8.—@
 It is 10 o'clock Sunday morning and I have an appointment to talk to the Robert Jacksons. He's the Attorney General. He might live next year at No. 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue. The White House.

And what's worse I've listened to his trigger responses from the witness stand. You just don't drop vague sentences around Robert Jackson. But his face is kind, his smile open and quick, and he's relaxed and easy to meet.

I trot tensely, nevertheless, down their apartment hotel corridor and give the bronze check a rat-a-tat-tat. The door opens. Mrs. Jackson I'd expected a maid. Seems they just have a butler that comes in by the day. She takes my coat and put it on the piano bench (just like home) as we walk through to the study.

Those riding boots up on the typewriter stand could—they do belong to the Attorney General. He's buried in Sunday papers. They spill about him as he rises. His white shirt is open at the neck. No tie. We sit down. Mrs. Jackson pours a second cup of coffee.

He says, "Yes," he'd been to

STEEL MAN CHANGES JOBS

NEW YORK, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Harry Woodhead, for 18 years president and general manager of the Cleveland plant of the Trucon Steel Company, yesterday succeeded W. H. Beal as president of Aviation Manufacturing Corporation. Beal resigned because of ill health.

He won't listen, the horse does. Crazy Over Horses. Jackson has ridden since boyhood when his father ran a hotel and livery stable at Frewsburg. Now his whole family rides—the Misses, Mary and the son, Bill, a junior at Yale. They're so fond of horses they keep a fine race track on their farm at Jamestown, N. Y.

They vacationed together this summer, taking a motor trip across the Pacific. Stopped at tourist camps. Stopped whenever there was a chance to ride a horse, walk up a mountain, or read a book or cook a meal under a tree.

Jackson says, "Don't forget 'Alibi.' That's their motor boat at Jamestown. It's special virtue is that it has no phone."

Mrs. Jackson says it was a cousin who introduced them. She was young Irene Gerhardt from Kingston, N. Y. She had a job as a government secretary at Albany. The cousin was attending the Albany law school, but she couldn't bring any law students around. He insisted, "You wouldn't like lawyers." Then suddenly he was all affairs to bring one around. It was Robert Jackson. Three years later, in 1916, they married. They settled in Jamestown, N. Y., and he developed a general practice, from labor unions to corporations. He was proudly he said, 12,000 the first year and they felt like millionaires.

Johann New Deal in '33 Jackson took his first New Deal post in 1933.

He turned into a New Deal spokesman. He took the holding company bill, with its red hot "death sentence" to the Supreme Court and won. He tried 24 government cases in '38-'39 and won 21. The Chief Justice is reported to have called him the ablest Solicitor General in his experience on the court.

Jackson acquires a little at the mention but he says, "Anyway, I'm the only cabinet officer that drives his own car."

Mrs. Jackson says the village isn't so good but the family gondola makes up for it in dash. It has red leather upholstery.

Hobbies? He says, "Nothing inside." Riding, hiking, camp cooking, skiing, gardening and reading classic literature under a tree.

A Close-Knit Family Mrs. Jackson and the children share all of his hobbies. The family is extremely close. Like the day the White House called to say, "We're swearing you into the Attorney-Generalship tomorrow." Jackson shook his head and said, "Things happen fast around here." So he phoned Son Bill, at Yale, and said, "I'd like to have you down here."

Bill had a debate that night but he'd try to make it. He did. They arrived at the President's study for the ceremony with quite excited chatter. But not for what you think. Bill, of course, got the job of Dad. But Father had just heard what Bill had done the night before.

Railmen Conclude 5-Day Conference

LAKELAND, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Retired railwaymen concluded a five-day conference here yesterday with a motored to Bok Tower, Cypress Gardens and other points in Polk county.

Many states were represented and visitors came from points throughout Florida. J. L. Starr, Louisville, president of the National Railway Employees, was among those present. The group will hold its annual convention in Cincinnati next month.

Dr. Francis E. Townsend, who spent the night in Lakeland, yesterday visited the city's colony for retired railway employees. The first unit of 10 homes already is occupied and the city engineer's office is preparing plans for construction of another similar unit.

Virtually no business was transacted at the conference here, but a busy program of entertainment was provided for the visitors.

Scientist Says Cancer Toll Can Be Cut By Half

NEW YORK, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Scientific knowledge of cancer has progressed to the point where the death rate from it may be cut in half, Dr. Charles C. Little, director of the American Society for the Control of Cancer, said yesterday.

In a statement made in connection with the drive underway this month against the disease he said that "though the disease is a complicated problem, we know enough today about many of the more common types of cancer to cure between one-third and one-half of the 150,000 men, women and children who are destroyed annually by it. We shall save these thousands only when individuals everywhere inform themselves about cancer and what they should do for their own protection."

Cancers can be treated successfully with surgery, X-rays and radium treatment, Dr. James Ewing of Memorial hospital said, but early diagnosis is important. To illustrate the difficulty of

Concrete Roads Can Take It

Once more newspaper headlines like these, following the recent heavy freeze, broke the bad news to motorists.

But there's another side to the story. Concrete resisted the damaging effects of heavy rains and severe cold—saved millions of dollars for motorists.

Concrete has the "bridging strength" needed to keep pavements from breaking up when the supporting soil is weakened by frost and soaking rains.

Because of this simple engineering fact, your concrete roads remain safe and efficient in all weather—need no "load limit" or "detour" signs—are kept in prime condition without expensive maintenance.

Candidates For County Offices Speak At Rally

2nd Rally Sponsored By Democratic Committee Is Held In Lake Monroe School

Platforms Given In Senate Race

Legislative Candidates Cite Qualifications In Talks

If you want to get some work done, vote for a State Senator who will really work and will represent your own interests at all times.

With Chairman Fred Pender of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, presiding, it was the second rally in which the candidates for public office, subject to the primary election on May 7, presented reasons as to why their candidates should receive the support of the voters.

Earlier in the evening, Mr. Chapman was the first speaker at a rally held in Miami last night to address the gathering of approximately 300 persons at the Lake Monroe school.

In a letter to Chairman Pender, County Attorney E. P. Houlender was to be the speaker for the office of State Senator from the 37th senatorial district, and attended the rally in Miami, declared that he was unable to return to Seminole County in time for the Lake Monroe rally because of the bad condition of State Road 44, the improvement of which he has been pledged to work for.

The County Attorney told the voters in the letter that he was fitted with a natural aptitude for the office he seeks. He said that the work he had adopted as a vocation particularly qualified him to be of service to the people.

A farmer would not come to a lawyer for advice on growing his crop, and neither would a farmer be asked to represent the legal interests of a person, Mr. Houlender said in his letter.

As a successful farmer and a practical business man, Mr. Chapman said in his address that he had been delegated to represent the interests of Seminole County's farmers many times and that he had always tried to represent them honestly and had worked diligently in behalf of the farmer's interests.

He said he had never before asked the voters of Seminole and Duval counties for a job, but added that if they saw fit to give the job to him he would work for them earnestly and honestly. "I will do anything you ask as long as it is favored by a majority of the people," he said.

He said he favored adequate financing for schools, as well as construction of roads in Seminole County. Old age assistance can be handled much better than at present without the levying of additional taxes, he said.

"If you elect me," he asserted in his letter, "I assure you that at the end of the term you will not be disappointed."

"If Hop Lykes saved the farm of Seminole County $10,000,000 while at Tallahassee in 1934, I saved them $42,000,000 by comparison in the disastrous session of 1937," E. E. Brady, candidate for the Legislature in Group One last night, stated.

Brady said that he used stream-lined politics in the "Old Model" days, he stated that "Old E. E." will do anything you ask as long as it is favored by a majority of the people, he said.

He said he favored adequate financing for schools, as well as construction of roads in Seminole County. Old age assistance can be handled much better than at present without the levying of additional taxes, he said.

Senate Group Slices Funds For Waterways

NLRB Wins Biggest Victory In Decision Of High Court

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—(AP)—The Senate Committee on Appropriations today rejected the action of its sub-committee and sliced 55 million for proposed waterway projects off the $30,000,000 for rivers and harbors bill.

Holding approval of the total expenditures to $23,500,000, the full committee struck off the $30,000,000 for flood control and $30,000,000 for rivers and harbors work inserted in the measure by a sub-committee.

It accepted a $15,000,000 item to start a third set of Panama Canal locks.

Meanwhile the National Labor Relations board won one of the biggest victories of its history yesterday when the Supreme Court refused to review a board order directing the Republic Steel corporation to reinstate and pay back wages to thousands of participants in the bloody "little steel" strike of 1937.

The order was upheld last Nov. 8 by the third circuit court of appeals at Philadelphia and thus the Supreme Court, in turning down the company's petition for review yesterday, permitted the order to stand.

Labor board officials said a plan was under way for putting a staff of checkers in the field within two weeks to work on back pay claims of approximately 9,000 men. Both the labor board and the company said that most of the former employees affected by the reinstatement order had already been re-employed. Therefore, the company added, yesterday's decision will not "involve any serious re-employment problem."

All persons and party members are invited to attend and all those interested in becoming members were extended an invitation to be present for the meeting.

Spread Of War Creates New U.S. Problems

Roosevelt And Hull Enroute To Capital To Decide Several Important Questions

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—(AP)—The explosive spread of Europe's war to Scandinavia today confronted the Administration with three urgent problems:

(1) The safety of some 3,000 American nationals in the new war zone;

(2) The question of a new presidential proclamation formally designating Norway and Denmark, as belligerents under the neutrality act;

(3) The matter of protecting shipping interests in invaded countries and possible action on extending the prescribed combat zone to include waters around the north coast.

The decision on these steps awaited the return of President Roosevelt and Cordell Hull, who are hurrying back to the capital from vacations at Hyde Park, and Atlantic City.

Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, American Minister to Norway, notified the State Department last night that the Norwegian Foreign Minister had informed her that Norway is at war with Germany.

$1,300 Is Received By Salvation Army

The Salvation Army home service appeal today produced a total of $1,300, campaign workers reported.

More than $2,000 is needed to take care of the work and obligations of the Army, Capt. R. E. Rose, head of the local post, has pointed out, and less than that sum will seriously impair the efficiency of Sanford's post.

Mrs. Mary Stewart, chairman of the drive, said it might seem that the figures are still very small for the campaign to have been in progress a week, but that many of the workers who have the best prospects, in most cases have been busy with their own affairs, therefore, have not been able to turn in the donations yet.

Let us remember the hundreds of less fortunate in our city and county who need the assistance of the Salvation Army," she said.

Beautiful Roses Are Grown By L. F. Lodge

Asasias are mighty beautiful for a flower, but what is more beautiful than a bed of roses which blooms the year around except for a short dormant period?

L. F. Lodge, whose front yard is filled with blooming roses at his home on 811 Elm Avenue, Before the weekend showers, the bushes were loaded with roses and there's plenty of flowers there now with many more buds ready to open despite the fact that many of them were destroyed by the driving rain.

Mr. Lodge's roses are exceptionally prolific in their blooming and he credits this to the fact that he never cuts them and that he gives them a dressing of commercial plant food every three weeks.

Growing fine roses is a hobby for Mr. and Mrs. Lodge and now they have many bushes of various varieties to tend in their spare hours.

Markets React Quickly To War

NEW YORK, Apr. 9.—(AP)—Financial and commodity markets today resumed the war pattern of last autumn—shares of some industrial companies, wheat and other staples and foreign currencies tumbled. News of the German invasion brought an immediate crack in Scandinavian bond prices. Wheat was up 3 cents. Cotton was 30 to 50 cents a bale, and rubber was 3 to 5 cents a pound. The British pound dropped 12 cents.

City Seeks Aid From State For Street Repairs

WASHINGTON, Apr. 9.—(AP)—The possibility of procuring the assistance of the State Road Department in the improvement of North Park Avenue, a part of State Highway 3, was discussed at the meeting of the City Commission at the City Hall last night and tentative plans were made for discussing the matter with officials of the Road Department.

$42,000 In Refunding Bonds Retired By City Commission

The City has no funds with which to make repairs to this street, which is in bad condition and since the street is part of the State Road Department system, the Commissioners argued what the road department should maintain it.

The City Clerk H. N. Sayer was instructed to write a letter to Judge Perkins of DeLand to arrange for a discussion of the matter in the near future.

It was pointed out that the City has no funds with which to make repairs to this street, which is in bad condition and since the street is part of the State Road Department system, the Commissioners argued what the road department should maintain it.

A resolution was passed condemning an old building at the intersection of Princeton and Geneva Avenues.

A beer and wine license for the Seminole County Baseball Association was approved.

The Commissioners instructed City Attorney Fred H. Wilson to prepare a standard ordinance on the requirements for milk sold in the City of Sanford. The ordinance would require rigid milk tests and health certificates for dairy employees. It would also require a city permit before milk can be sold.

Superintendent of Parks James Moutser was authorized to construct sewer traps at the corner of First Street and Magnolia Avenue to eliminate the sewer gas that sometimes escapes there.

Warren To Address Citizens Tomorrow

Faller Warren, candidate for governor, will bring his campaign to Seminole County citizens tomorrow afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. He will speak over a public address system at the corner of First Street and Magnolia Avenue.

Mr. Warren's platform stresses three chief issues: lower electric light rates, brought about by the regulatory efforts of a proposed state utilities commission making it unlawful for power to be sold on the public highways and the reduction of bond interest rates from the present average of five and six percent, down to two percent which, he contends, will save this state from $1 to $1.5 million dollars annually, and will "cure most of Florida's financial ills."

British Charged With Attempting To Blow Up River Channel; Action Is Blocked

DELPHIADE, Apr. 9.—(AP)—The German government, it was learned on high authority, has demanded that Yugoslavia, Hungary, Bulgaria, and Romania accept German river police along the entire length of the Danube River to secure a vital supply route for Germany.

The demand was made after the German press accused Britain of plotting to dynamite the narrow Danube channel through the "iron gate" to cripple Germany's transportation of oil, foodstuffs, and raw materials from the southeast.

Bulgaria was understood to have agreed to the German demand, and it was reported that German river police already were patrolling Bulgarian Danube waters.

The little nations of southeastern Europe were in a near panic by news of German occupation of Norway and Denmark, which was interpreted in the Balkans to mean that the war soon would be extended throughout the continent.

Philippine Independence Is Being Debated By Islanders

MANILA, P. I., Apr. 9.—(AP)—The question of Philippine independence in 1946 as provided by the Tydings-McDuffie Act, is debated more widely by Filipinos today than at any time in the 40 years the American flag has flown over the islands.

Commonwealth President Manuel L. Quezon's latest remarks on the subject provided encouragement to both proponents and opponents of complete insular freedom six years hence. Both factions are using excerpts from Quezon's remarks to bolster their arguments for and against Philippine casting themselves adrift from the strong military protection and rich duty free market of the United States.

The president is squarely for freedom in 1946, asserted the Philippines Daily Herald. "Every body reading in this country, Filipino, American or foreigner, might as well get used to the idea that the Philippines will become independent in 1946."

The American owned Manila Daily Bulletin sided with Filipino advocates of re-examining the independence question in finding a ray of hope in Quezon's statement, "the question for us to decide is whether because of the dangers of independence and permanent retention by the United States, but he left the choice squarely up to the Filipino people," contended Salvador Arana, a Filipino lawyer and leader of a prominent group campaigning for re-examination.

Most significant change apparent recently has been the widespread increase in discussion among Filipinos on the wisdom of reverting all ties with the United States in 1946. Until Japan invaded China, and Germany began absorbing small European nations, Filipinos publicly advocating modification of the independence pact were promptly branded unpatriotic by political leaders. This is hardly true today.

Even the Filipino president recently told a university debating society he was not opposed to reopening the independence issue. "The economic and military qualifications for freedom would be added, oppose re-examination based on the issue of Filipino independence for self government. An increasing amount of the debate on independence has arisen in school rooms. A poll taken by Filipino school teachers at a recent national teachers' convention revealed a pronounced opinion in favor of the islands seeking dominion status under the American flag. Several leading colleges are holding open forums on the question. Filipino politicians find themselves in difficult position in the present discussion. For decades they have used the demand for Philippine independence as a potent rallying cry to attract voters. Any modification of their stand at this late date, most of them fear, would bring such loss of "face" as to constitute political suicide. They support their stand by warning Filipinos that refusal of America proffered independence in 1946 would cause Americans to ridicule their timidity and subsequent Filipino loss of "face."

Leaders of the re-examination movement predict at least a dozen members of the national assembly will seek re-election next year on the issue of their advocacy of re-examination, included in this group will be Assemblyman Jose Romero, former floor leader and a member of the Philippine-American joint preparatory committee on Philippine affairs.

Romero confidently believes that if the group is successful at the polls it will lend tremendous impetus to the movement for reopening the independence question. Romero group contends that should the Philippines accept complete independence from the United States on July 4, 1946, the islands will undergo disastrous economic shocks as well as face the danger of early domination by Japan.

Britain, stating the action was taken in reprisal for German attacks on neutral shipping, hoped to halt the use of Norwegian territorial waters by German ships taking Swedish ore to the East by forcing them out into the open sea where they might be intercepted by British naval vessels. Foreign office sources refused comment on the mine blockade except to emphasize that it was a joint action of the Allies and that the reasons for it were "implicit" in the text of the agreement.

Candidates For Office Must File Expense Statements By Thursday

Candidates for Democratic Executive Committee posts, including County, State and Congressional Committees, need not file expense statements in the office of County Clerk unless they want to, under a new construction of the State law involved, County Clerk O. P. Barnard said today.

However, other candidates have only two more days in which to file their statements. If they are not filed within the prescribed period of time, the law requires that the names of these candidates be omitted in the preparation of the ballot for the Primary election on May 7.

The candidate is required to give a detailed account of expenditures made by him or "other persons, corporations or associations acting for me with my knowledge or actual or tacit consent." The statements must include the name of the person or organization.

Expenses for the campaign must be paid for out of the candidate's own pocket. The law requires that the names of these candidates be omitted in the preparation of the ballot for the Primary election on May 7.

Oslo, Copenhagen Fall Before Onslaught Of Land, Air, Sea Forces Of Invaders

English Fleet Said To Be Fighting

Germans Accused By Chamberlain Of Deliberate Attack

By Associated Press
German land, sea and air forces invaded Norway and Denmark today, quickly capturing their capitals, Oslo and Copenhagen.

Other strategic points fell, too, before the Nazi onslaught extending the European war far into Scandinavia. Situated at Germany's mercy, Denmark gave in without a struggle as far as is known. Norway put up a fight. The government fled to Hamar, 60 miles north of Oslo.

Dispatches reaching Stockholm said the Norwegians set up a defense line between Oslo and Hamar and shot down two German planes.

Paris and London heard the Allied fleet was already fighting engagements with the German fleet off Norway.

Chamberlain, pledging full aid to Norway, told Commons "powerful units" of the navy "are at sea," and that details must be kept secret.

The German radio said Denmark had decided to accept "German protection." The German high command said the occupation of Norway was "proceeding rapidly," and that "light local resistance by Norwegian troops has ceased." Germany and the invasion was aimed at getting the jump on the Allies who were accused of planning a similar "surprise occupation" this year.

Chamberlain said German plans to strike north were made before British mines were sowed off the Norwegian coast, and pointed out that German troops landed at Trondheim, 700 miles from the nearest German port, and must have started days ago.

Direct communication with the invaded nations was disrupted. War in Scandinavia brought immediate reaction from other neutrals, fearing a like fate. Sweden was reported to have ordered swift mobilization. The Netherlands cancelled any further army leaves. Belgium said she was prepared to fight.

Italy and Russia withheld official comment but papers blamed the Allies.

LONDON, Apr. 9.—(AP)—Great Britain stood fast last night on the defiant mine-laying in Norwegian territorial waters despite vigorous protests by Norway and ominous rumors of a possible Nazi naval drive to smash this latest link in the chain of Germany's economic encirclement.

Prime Minister Chamberlain is scheduled to explain and defend the Allied action in a statement before the house of commons today.

Britain, stating the action was taken in reprisal for German attacks on neutral shipping, hoped to halt the use of Norwegian territorial waters by German ships taking Swedish ore to the East by forcing them out into the open sea where they might be intercepted by British naval vessels. Foreign office sources refused comment on the mine blockade except to emphasize that it was a joint action of the Allies and that the reasons for it were "implicit" in the text of the agreement.

A New Phase

Reports from Europe this morning indicate that the war has entered a new and more decisive phase and that the so-called "phony war" is about to develop into action of the most desperate kind. The Scandinavian countries, which managed to keep out of World War No. 1 and which have tried desperately hard to escape involvement in this one, are now into it up to their necks and are in imminent danger of becoming the battlefield of all Europe.

Whether British mine laying off the Norwegian coast, or German plans dating back several months for seizing the North countries, form the basis for the present invasion of Norway and Denmark is one of those questions over which historians will argue for centuries, but the fact remains that almost simultaneously Britain laid mines in Norwegian territorial waters and Germany launched an expedition against Denmark and Norway.

The sinking of a German transport with 500 soldiers on board, which must have left German ports before the British mines were laid off Norway, indicates that the Nazis had anticipated the extension of the British blockade and had made preparations to meet it before it was actually carried out. In any case Germany and Britain are both fighting for their lives and can hardly be blamed if an innocent bystander gets a black eye sometime during the melee.

Germany's action, however, does prove almost beyond doubt that the British blockade is having a serious effect. There could be no possible advantage to the Nazis in extending the war to Norway if the conditions which have prevailed during the last few months had been allowed to continue. Neither would Germany risk a fight on a new front, if the cutting off of supplies from Norway had not meant that from now on she would be losing the economic war.

Today's events also complicate the position of Belgium and Holland. With the fighting going on to the north of them and with the Maginot and Siegfried lines facing each other on the south, it is hard to see how the low countries can maintain their neutrality much longer. Undoubtedly Germany will want air and submarine bases on the North Sea to protect her expedition to Norway and also from which to operate against British towns and shipping. That will bring on more action.

For Senator Andrews

Senator Andrews is making strong headway in his campaign for re-election to the United States Senate, despite the active opposition of the powerful Townsend organization and the speaking tour in this state of its principal beneficiary, Dr. Townsend. In the last few days two of Florida's most influential newspapers have endorsed Senator Andrews.

"Every state owes a duty to the United States as a whole to send to the Senate the best-equipped man available to its electors," says the Miami Herald. "Senator Andrews, in the present field of candidates, is the obvious selection. His high professional standing, his integrity, his dignity, his ancestry, rearing and training all invite comparison and his honorable record in his short term in the Senate commends him to the thoughtful and patriotic consideration of every voter. Florida needs Senator Andrews' sober judgment in the Senate for the next six years."

While on the opposite coast of the state, the Tampa Tribune declares, "When we survey the present offerings for the Senate, we must turn to Senator Andrews as the pick of the group. We make this choice first because of his background, his unquestioned integrity, his usually sound judgment, his unwavering consistency, his freedom from the dictates of trendy factionalism or self-seeking political groups; and because of his record in the Senate. To certain features of that record we, at the time, objected; but, as a whole, we have found him to be a man fully worthy of the duties and responsibilities of the office, always with a conscientious devotion to the welfare of the state, the peace and progress of the nation."

"We have wished, at times, that Senator Andrews might have been more aggressive, more vigorous, when Florida needed that kind of action at Washington; but we recognize that what we considered a lack of energy or assertiveness was, in truth, a manifestation of the innate dignity and high character of the man—his realization that he had been only recently chosen to occupy a place in the world's greatest deliberative body, and that proper respect for his exalted position forbade pushing himself too vocally or actively forward. He chose rather the quiet, steady, industrious and patient way, which often achieves better results than spectacular fight-or showy flamboyance."

"This quality in Senator Andrews has enabled him to merit and receive the respect and confidence of his fellow Senators and he has steadily built up a strength of friendship and esteem in the Senate and with executives and departments in Washington, which has richly and resultfully increased his usefulness to the state."

DIDJA HEAR WHAT HE SAID ABOUT YOU?

WASHINGTON DAYBOOK

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON, Apr. 8.—(AP)—Not to Juan Trippe: Here's inside story you ought to know.

Commercial aviation people in Washington are saying that the one big reason England is making so much fuss about the United States' continuance of weather broadcasts in the south Atlantic is not fear Germany will profit by the news—but their grim determination to hold their Pan-American Airways back while their competitive hands are tied by the war.

They even say that all that more trouble at Bermuda was just one more effort to make your eastward hop an obstacle race.

They point to the British Lion's squawk at our putting coast-guard weather observations ships directly under your route to Horta after you had been driven off the landing rights they had granted you in Bermuda.

And they point to the Allies' distress at continuance of weather broadcasts from Horta, Italy, Spain and Portugal—information that couldn't possibly be a military secret.

Once Upon A Time—

England certainly has some historic precedents to worry about. In the 40 years that followed 1820, American clippers stole a march on world shipping that made the sea-going English seethe.

Those old clippers, for which your modern ships are named, Mr. Trippe, used to make five trips over thousands of miles of ocean while the British were making four.

The "Sea Witch," 87 days out of New York, around the Horn, docked at San Francisco, a trip that never had been made in less than 150 days. The "Lightning" logged 426 miles in one day and specked all other speed records into a cocked hat.

It took a Civil war and the advent of steam to break the back of American supremacy of the seas. You can bet any Brit who knows his maritime history hasn't forgotten why.

Is it any wonder, then, that the British are looking on the achievements of these modern clippers and feeling pretty green? Britannia may rule the waves, but it looks now as if, before this war is over, America's rule of the transoceanic airways will be so firmly established that no competitor ever will be able to catch up.

Sendy's answer: Profit! Look at the ground that's already covered. The Pacific clippers making flights continually, pushing out to the Philippines, Australia and Hong Kong. And the Civil Aeronautics Authority has told us that, before long, the clippers will be dropping down on the coast of New Zealand.

Just the other day, at LeGuardia field in New York, the clippers celebrated their 15th trans-atlantic crossing—without a single accident. They carried thousands of passengers and tons of mail—a much safer, in fact, than what carried such as a conventional carrier has turned into a beach of a little profit for Mr. Trippe's Pan-Am.

All the United States clippers, except the Pan-Am, were built in 1925.

Yet that little ballot—a thin slip of a paper—is all that stands between you and tyranny. But back of it is the blood of every patriot and the tears of every slave. Too precious a weapon to be cast aside lightly, I urge every one to vote at this election, which might easily become the last.

Candidates For County Offices Speak At Rally

...of the Legislature, he declared "I will not sell or betray your trust while there is a breath of life in me."

Turning schools "the bulwark of our freedom," Mr. Hegan said he would also fight for "better roads and better pensions for the aged to the extent that funds are available."

Outlining his accomplishments at the 1938 session of the Legislature, J. R. Lyle, also a candidate for Group One, declared that he had a hand in bringing to Sanford the State entomology laboratory which he said had saved the farmers of this section at least $10,000,000 since its establishment. He said that he had won over a strong opponent in his election to the office in 1934, and that he had taken good care of Seminole County's interests and sought re-election upon the record during the three sessions of that term.

Walter A. Routh, the first speaker of the candidates for the House of Representatives in Group Two, stated that he would work for all interests in the county, including the aged, fishermen, the retail merchant and others.

John G. Leonard, incumbent legislator in this group, offered his candidacy for re-election to the voters of the first precinct with his record at the last session as his qualification. Pointing out that he had previously served as county prosecutor for 15 years, he stated that if returned to the Florida House of Representatives for another term because of his experience, he would be better equipped to give the voters of the county the service they have a right to demand.

George H. Bridge, Jr., of Longwood, another candidate in the group, was absent from the meeting.

E. C. Smith, local furniture retailer, declared that his business record in Sanford is a yardstick of what the voters of the county may expect if he is tax collector. If elected, he declared he will efficiently discharge the duties of the office.

Jno. D. Jinks, incumbent tax collector, declared that his experience makes an employee more valuable. The law fixes the amount that the tax collector may receive as compensation, he said, and added that the voters should consider the special services the collector is able and willing to render the public. He also stated that he had recently installed new records which greatly increase the efficiency of that office and its benefit to the people of the county.

John Galloway, third candidate in this race, was absent from the meeting.

J. F. McClelland, former sheriff of Seminole County, pledged a fair, honest and faithful administration of the duties of the office to which he is seeking election.

European War Is Proving Ground Of Value For American War Implements

By EDWARD H. BOWMAN
The War Department, regarding the European war as a military proving ground of incalculable value to the American armed forces, has been obtaining substantial confidential information from the French, far less than desired from the British, the dribbles from the Germans.

This is one significance of a provision of the Administration's new policy of speeding planes to the Allies.

This clause provides that in buying the advanced model warplanes which the Army has agreed to release for sale abroad, foreign governments must agree to furnish us with full and complete information on the complete performance of the craft.

If the purpose is realized, the Air Corps will gain a ringside seat in the war and an unprecedented opportunity to test its weapons under fire.

In order to gain information, the number of American military attaches abroad has been increased from 22 to 40, of whom nine are Air Corps officers. There are eight officers at London, six at Paris and four at Berlin.

They have kept flowing a stream of confidential, technical information on how the British, French and American-made planes have estimated the tests of war with the Nazi latest Messerschmitts, Heinkels and Dorniers, but the flow has been irregular and incomplete at times.

It appears well established that the French, who rely most heavily on the United States for aerial sinews of war, have been generous.

Officials will not confirm the reports, but airmen have heard that through the French the Army has obtained and brought to the United States for examination a model Nazi fighter which had been brought down behind the Maginot Line.

Samplers of "leak proof" tanks developed abroad in recent months

He declared that his years of service qualified him for the position.

Declaring that he had attempted to give the residents of Seminole County value received for their ballots at the last election, the incumbent sheriff, C. M. Hand, said that he had put forth his best effort to raise the standard of efficiency of the office and said that if re-elected for the usual second term he would give the voters the kind of administration they are entitled to.

George W. Gray asserted that his 12 years experience as a law enforcement officer in Seminole County qualifies him for the position he seeks. He said that if elected sheriff, if that office is called, "you will get the Sheriff to answer the call himself where possible."

B. C. Dodd, candidate for sheriff, was absent from the meeting.

George A. Speer, Jr., candidate for County prosecuting attorney, declared that he had hung out his shingle as an attorney for Sanford seven years ago and said that he believed he has now served his apprenticeship. He said he believed his record as an attorney during the lean depression years qualified him for the office he seeks.

Edward J. Nelson, also a candidate for this office, told the voters that he had graduated from Boston University and had moved to Sanford to cash his lot with the residents of this county. He stated that he desired the office "to get a start" and therefore could not violate the trust of the people if elected since his future would depend upon the way he discharged the duties of this office.

Promising a fair, forcible, and honest administration if re-elected, W. Herbert Measer, incumbent prosecutor, asserted that seeking a second term is not a lack of ambition. He declared that the office will never be a stepping stone for him and that he would endeavor, if re-elected, to uphold the tradition of that office.

Placing his candidacy before the voters "on the work I have done," E. W. Ware, seeking re-election as County Judge, told those present "I have worked for you and with you honestly and fearlessly and I have attended to the duties of that office without fear or favor." This, he said, is "the reason I can come before you and request your support for a second term."

Declaring that he has no higher objective than to serve the people of Seminole County, James G. Sharon, a candidate for another term as county judge, declared that he has always tried to serve the needs of the county faithfully. "If you favor me with your vote I will hold your employment as a sacred trust," he said.

The candidates were called upon to speak in reverse order at the meeting, beginning with the venerable candidate for the Fourth District and ending with the State Senate candidates.

Constable, Fourth District: Robert M. Moys and W. A. McMillen were absent.

Joe Ludwig said he has been a citizen for 20 years and is physically fit for the job.

Sam C. Gardner said he served seven years as a police officer and added, "I know the job and am willing to work."

Carl Chorpning said it was his first time to seek political office, "but I believe I will make you a good constable."

State committeewomen: Mrs. Newton Merrill was absent and Mrs. Emma Abbott Lyman was present but did not speak.

State Commissioner: George S. Witmer declared, "I will do the best I can."

S. A. B. Wilkinson was absent.

Justice of Peace, Fourth District: W. E. Watson was absent and Sidney J. Nix declared the post an important one, involving property rights and personal liberty of citizens. "I am fully qualified to discharge the duties," he said.

St. Clair Cameron asked that a young man be given a chance to get started. "No one Justice of Peace in this district in 20 years has been an attorney," he said.

County Commissioners, District 5: S. F. Long said, "If my past record and experience warrant your support I will greatly appreciate it."

W. G. Kilbee declared that in three years on the County Board millage has been cut 6 mills. "I will continue to protect your interests," he added.

District 3: B. J. Overstreet said he is just a Longwood cracker "who will make you a good county commissioner."

District 2: J. E. Jackson, a resident for a number of years, said he favored a public health program in this county.

Fred H. Harrison said he wants good roads and schools and will endeavor to co-operate 100 percent with other members.

F. A. Dyson stated, "I have tried to make a good county commissioner. If you like my record I will appreciate your support and will continue to do my best in this office."

District 1: D. L. Thrasher said experience and time to properly handle the position are "my qualifications for county commissioner."

M. B. Smith recommended the best possible service if elected.

O. J. Pope was absent.

Supervisor of Registration: W. J. Thigpen said he has for 24 years been a resident. "Choose the lesser of two evils. Vote for Old This," he added.

Edward P. Lane promised "the best service you have ever received from that office."

Germany Invades Norway, Denmark In Sudden Move

nouncement, published early today, informed sources declared the action would "not lead to serious friction between Britain and Norway."

STOCKHOLM, Apr. 9.—(AP)—High authoritative quarters early today confirmed reports that four foreign warships had attempted to force an entrance into Oslo fjord, water-gateway to the Norwegian capital.

The invaders were reported repulsed by heavy fire from shore batteries.

The quarters said that one of the attacking ships was a heavy cruiser.

The attack took place about 12:30 A. M., and was over within a short time.

The engagement was marked by heavy bursts of cannon fire.

Thereafter the invaders were said to have retired into the darkness.

Some informants said the warship attack was accompanied by an air battle above the darkened gorge between Norwegian fighting craft and unidentified foreign warplanes.

Details of the air battle were not at once known but apparently the invading planes were driven off by the Norwegians.

Identity of the warships was not known here, do.

Oslo fjord is the water gateway to Norway's capital.

No details of the fighting were known because all communications with Norway were cut by Norwegian censors except for "state calls."

Both British and German warships have been reported off the Norwegian coast within the past 24 hours.

The battle apparently took place early today shortly after Norway ordered all coastal light-houses darkened and radio stations silenced.

These emergency precautions were taken when reliable sources in Oslo had reported a German armada of 125 ships including a pocket battleship and heavy cruisers in the Kattegat, apparently headed toward the Norwegian south coast.

The fleet was said then to be at Lesoe off Denmark a little over 100 miles from Oslo fjord.

BERLIN, Apr. 9.—(AP)—The German government last night played the part of an "icy cold" observer of the two latest dramas in the European war— Allied landing of Scandinavian territorial waters and Rumanian detention of a fleet of barges which the Germans charged were laden with British dynamite to block the vital Danube waterway.

It seemed to be the intention of the Reich's authorities to let the involved neutrals have their say before disclosing what Germany watches the unfolding of this drama. Lively cold Germany reserves her own decisions to meet the situation.

Then came the ominous stand of German officialdom that "lively cold" Germany watches the unfolding of this drama. Lively cold Germany reserves her own decisions to meet the situation.

Authorized sources said the German government was in constant touch with the Rumanian government, while to a question as to whether similar contact existed with the Norwegian government, they replied evasively that they were not permitted to say.

The inference seemed to be that it was the German intelligence service which helped to reveal the alleged Danube plot.

So far as Norway was concerned, however, the implication seemed to be to let Norway work out her own salvation.

Official Germany has been none too well pleased with what is regarded here as Norway's lack of assertiveness in defending her neutral rights.

Reports of Allied activity in the north and the southwest furnished bannerline publicity to the entire German press.

German propaganda lost no opportunity to use these incidents for wading the German nation together more than ever, to make every German citizen feel the Allies are lawbreakers while Germany is the defender of international law.

What useful information the Army and Navy have been able to obtain through their official eyes and ears in Germany is not definitely known to outsiders, but it is not believed to be of great importance. Nevertheless there seems to be pretty definite and prompt information available on the latest German planes—forwarded probably through neutral as well as Allied sources.

Little Hope Is Held For Norway By Militarists

Experts Think Quick Aid May Save Little Nation For While

WASHINGTON, Apr. 10.—(AP)—Military experts said last night immediate, big-scale aid from the Allies might enable Norway to turn back the German blitzkrieg but they nevertheless held scant hope for successful defense of the beleaguered little kingdom.

Their gloomy forecasts were based on a belief that while the Allies will do all in their power to prevent the subjugation of Norway, it will be physically impossible for Britain and France to land a necessarily large expeditionary force in time to ward off Germany's lightning blows.

Some quarters believed the Allies had advanced warning of Germany's intentions and that British mined Norwegian waters in an attempt to head off the Nazi troops.

Many observers, however, were bewildered by the German thrust and predicted that even if Germany is successful in conquering Scandinavia, she will have an extremely difficult job keeping communication lines open to maintain the victory.

Further, they pointed out, Britain's primary aim since the war started has been to ward off open warfare and defense Germany to extend her defense lines to she will be more vulnerable to attack at far-flung points. The Scandinavian thrust, they said, may be just what Britain wanted.

Some experts foresaw the possibility of Russian cooperation in the German assault, with Stalin's forces moving into the northern part of Scandinavia and the Nazis confining their activity to the southern tier. They feel in this event, however, that the Nazi-Soviet frontiers would be so opened and so susceptible to attack.

In addition, Britain's powerful navy might get a long-sought opening. The only military factor offsetting this increased vulnerability, according to some experts, is that the Scandinavian foothold will put German forces in a better position to raid the British Isles.

LONE SENTRY SYMBOLIZES WEAKNESS

Sea Battle Causes Heavy German And Allied Losses

Allied Supreme War Council Orders Full Aid Rushed To Stop New Nazi Blitzkrieg

LONDON, Apr. 10.—(AP)—Great Britain intensified her air raid precautions last night in anticipation of early Nazi air attacks after the Allied supreme war council ordered "full and rushed" aid to Norway to resist Adolf Hitler's lightning invasion of Scandinavia.

All leaves of the British expeditionary force in France have been cancelled until further notice, the war office announced. In the tensest atmosphere since Sunday, Sept. 3, when the Allies went to war against Germany, police reduced their activities in cities and towns to insure complete blackout, air raids prevention centers were alert and A.R.P. fire crews retested their equipment.

The average Briton believes he will not have long to wait for smashing blows by the German air force, perhaps in "blitzkrieg" attacks on the British Isles. There, however, it was no hysteria to fear, however, among the people.

"Now it is starting, and it will be over soon," was a common comment among a group who for several months have been saying they would rather have bombs than London.

Political attention centered on Sweden and the view was general that the Swedish neutrality from the European struggle which has now engulfed her neighbors will be short-lived.

The Allied supreme war council acted quickly on military and diplomatic aid for Norway. Premier Reynaud of France, War Minister Chamberlain and several members of the French high command arrived by air for the council meeting of the council in London.

It was announced officially that the British cabinet had reached full agreement on military and diplomatic measures to be taken. Chamberlain then hurried to the Lufthansa palace and the French high command to discuss the measures decided upon to counter the invasion of Denmark and Norway.

The German invasion of Scandinavia was expected to be a surprise, but it was not. The German foreign office said that the invasion was planned for several months ago.

Through a typographical error, W. Herbert Messer, candidate for re-election as County prosecuting attorney, was misquoted in the report of the political rally in Lake Monroe appearing in yesterday's Herald. The sentence "He declared that the office will never be a stepping stone for him" should have read "He declared that the office will never be a sitting stone for him."
