WASHINGTON th—These early days of the Eisenhower administration will not go down in history as its talkingest period. But time, events and the Washington climate will loosen its tongue.

Except for his inaugural address, which dealt mostly with generalities, President Eisenhower himself has said practically nothing, publicly, since taking office, or, for that matter, since his election. And his Cabinet members, apparently under instructions to keep their lips buttoned about their conversaions with him, have hurried away from White House conferences without saying anything much more revealing than "no comment."

This is understandable. In the first place, Eisenhower reportedly was irked, in his pre-inauguration days, by leaks about his intentions that slipped out through the doors of his New York headquarters.

Secondly, it is not unusual for an inaugural address to deal in generalities. And, further, Eisenhower and his team, new in their jobs, are still feeling their way.

True, some of his top people have done some talking, but not of anything Eisenhower has said. Charles E. Wilson, former General Motors president who is secretary of defense, has done most of the talking.

He did it— some of his critics contend be talked too much, while line and his team, new while line may have wanted to let Eisenhower lead the way before he was a generalized statement.

He did it— some of his critics contend be talked too much, while line and have the line and the mounted plants to do not the look up the ball in his special field.

But if Eisenhower has any hopes that he can stop leaks from his administration, in spite of any hopes that he can stop leaks from his administration, in spite of any hopes that he can stop leaks from his administration, in spite of any hopes that he can stop leaks from his administration, in spite of any of defense, has done most of the talking.

He did it— some of his critics contend he talked too much—while closeted with senators who questioned him about his G. M. stock. They prodded him into selling it before they would approve him.

Secretary of State Dulles has had something to say on at least three different occasions. Right after taking office he cautioned State Department employes they're expected to be loyal.

This was an admonition which may not have set well with those employes who may have considered.

He did it— some of his critics.

But if Eisenhower has any hopes that he can stop leaks from his administration, in spite of any instructions he gives to the contrary, it's a pretty safe bet he's in for distillusionment.

This town is too full of people with axes to grind, and people who talk only to friends who talk to anybody, for the leaks to stop leaking.

MOST ADVANCED HYDRAULIC SYSTEM

"ON THE CORNER BY THE CLOCK"

Now, in the new Golden Jubilee Model, Ford Tractor engineers have carried a time-proved hydraulic system to a new high in speed of response, lifting power, bility and wide usefulness.

This Live-Action hydraulic system gives almost instant action at all times when the tractor engine is running. It handles larger implements and heavier loads.

And, with Hy-Trol, it acts even faster when desired. Also possible is an almost unlimited variety of remote cylinder* operations. In addition to all the time-proved advantages of the Ford Tractor's built-in hydraulic system, you get a choice of hydraulic speeds, quick hook-up, smooth operation of remote cylinders* and the ability to handle bigger loads.

The more you learn about the new Ford Tractor th more you will find that it can bring new ease and speed

HOLLYWOOD OF — Universal-International today unveiled its answer to Marilyn Monroe in the person of a 19-year-old luscious starlet rechristened with the name Mamie.

Mamie Van Doren, one of the first so named in the movies, possesses a nonpolitical face and figure but she undoubtedly could make Russian males vote against Stalin.

She has had her new name only a few days. Before that she was Zaba Olander, who once lived on a farm near Sioux Falls, S. D., with her Swedish parents.

She likes the name change.

"Zaba sounded like a candy"

Tame too nearly resembled Zsa Zsa from the Gabor of the same name.

Miss Van Doren looks somewhat like a younger and rounder edition of the glamorous Hungarian. Like Zsa Zsa and Monroe she blurts out the intimacies of her personal life without batting an eve in the direction of the publicity boys.

"I'm not a natural blonde, you know," she whispered. "Even though I'm Scandinavian I was brunette. But I was a democratic brunette who decided it was time for a change."

She is a protege of composer Jimmy McHugh, who has been giving her voice and dramatic lessons for the last f w years. Bonn, Germany M - Chancellos Konrad Adenauer declared toright he hopes Secretary of State John Foster Dulles will "destroy the illusions" of those who think the United States will guarantee the security of Europe without Europe ans doing anything to help them

The chancellor said in a broad cast that he wished this could be made plain especially to Germans and other Europeaus who oppose the treaties to raise West German divisions for the projected European defense army.

He said that if the European Army scheme collapses "American interest in Europe will de cline" and there will be a resurgence of isolationist sentiment in the United States.
