Seminole Quintet Wins 2nd Conference Game

Pete Tillis Tallies 14 Points To Take High Scoring Honors For Contest On Local Court

Lead by the spectacular scoring of Pete Tillis, Celery Fed guard, the Seminole High School players scored an easy 28 to 22 victory over the scrappy Deland Bulldogs in a game at the local gym last night, making a total of two wins and two losses in their conference games so far this season.

The Bulldogs fought on even terms with the locals in the first quarter which ended with the Feds leading 9 to 8. In the second stanza, however, the visitors were unable to match the scoring of the Seminoles who racked up eight points, six of which were made by Tillis, against four points by the Bulldogs.

The Feds were given a scare by the Dogs when Roland and Johnson shot baskets and cut the locals lead down to three points but Tillis scored another basket and two free shots to again put his team out of a hole and Forgus scored a basket in the final minutes to tilt the tilt on its side.

Tillis scored 14 points for high scoring honors.

Dale Alexander Will Manage Sanford Nine

Engel Releases Veteran First Sacker To Take Over Duties As Pilot

Dale Alexander, veteran first baseman of the Chattanooga Lookouts, will be pilot of Sanford's entry in the Florida State League during the coming season, according to an Associated Press Announcement made yesterday by Joe Engel, president of the Chattanooga baseball club of the Southern Association.

Although there was not local confirmation that any definite deal had been made, it was intimated that "protege of the Chattanooga press" will no doubt sign up to manage the Sanford Lookouts on his arrival here within a short time.

The Seminole County Baseball Association plans to make arrangements for a manager in the near future, it was understood from reliable sources, and to the manager for the most part will go the task of rounding up a few additional players to supplement members of the roster held over from last year's State League entry.

Although no information has been divulged concerning the roster for the Sanford team this year, from Charlie Bradshaw, president of the association, has come the repeated announcement that Lookouts will have a much stronger team than last year. The local press contends it will be among the best in the league.

Although Joe Engel will bring his club to Sanford shortly after Mar. 1 to begin Spring training activities, the local association has not revealed whether any working agreement with Chattanooga has been made. However, President Bradshaw has said that some of the members of the local roster will begin workouts with visitors in preparation for the State League season which opens on April 16.

Mr. Engel is scheduled to arrive in Sanford about Feb. 15 to make arrangements for his team. Alexander is wintering on his farm near Greenville, Tom Engel said his announcement—adding that he did not know whether the Sanford pilot expected to be a playing manager.

Joe Louis Is Heavy Favorite Over Contender

Champ Doped To Kayo John Henry Lewis In Seventh Round

NEW YORK, Jan. 25.—(AP)—Installed as a prohibitive favorite, at odds as high as 1 to 10, Joe Louis puts his world heavyweight boxing championship on the line for the fifth time tonight against John Henry Lewis in Madison Square Garden.

They meet over the 15-round route, and indications are for a crowd of about 17,000 contributing to a gross gate of $100,000 for the first all-negro heavyweight title clash in a quarter century.

So highly is Louis held that the betting fraternity reports little interest in wagering. The odds, hitherto placed at 1 to 6 and 7, have skyrocketed to a point where a Lewis victory tomorrow, however improbably regarded, would go down as one of the most astonishing upsets in ring history. In most quarters Louis, who has revived interest in the heavyweight division for the first time since Dempsey and Tunney, is quoted at odds of 1 to 3 to score a knockout.

War Admiral Is 2 To 1 Favorite In $50,000 Race

MIAMI, Jan. 25.—(AP)—First future book odds announced yesterday for the running of the $50,000 Widener challenge cup at Hialeah Park March 4 made War Admiral a 2-1 favorite to repeat his triumph of last year, although he will face stiffer opposition.

TRUMPH THROUGH PATIENCE: In your patience possess your souls.—Luke 21:19.

SONG AT THE END OF SUMMER

(From The Christian Science Monitor)
The thin and evanescent drift of smoke
Sweeps now the little words we spoke
Where we have walked the brittle leaves will blow
And all this summer will be dim and quiet
Under the crisp perfection of the snow
Over my fingers let your warm hand lie
Above our head arches the same deep sky
The words we do not speak are music now
And will be music when the summer breeze
Sings in leaves as leaves in wind that blow
And leaves at last like jet above the snow.
—Sara Van Alstyne Allen.

Heroes Of The Sea

Persons who are inclined to feel sorry for themselves should consider the plight of the thirteen members of the passengers and crew of the good ship Cavalier which went down last Saturday in the Atlantic ocean mid-way between New York and Bermuda.

One of them had his head split open when the plane crashed into the crest of a wave on landing. Though he remained semi-conscious and was provided with a life belt, two hours of floating in the cold Atlantic proved too much for him when he needed prompt medical attention.

Another passenger had scarcely stepped into the blustering waves from the sinking plane when he was thrown against a floundering wing and was drowned. A third, the steward, a strong swimmer who disdained a life belt, swam around unaided for several hours and then died of exhaustion.

All of them, knowing they were going to make a forced landing at sea, expected the ship to remain afloat, only to be deluged with water when the bottom was ripped open at the first contact with the waves. They had less than ten minutes to find life preservers, get out through the narrow opening of the cabin door, and take to the cold and terrifying ocean before the plane sank.

Five men and five women, hopelessly adrift on the stormy Atlantic, with the rain beating in their faces and the atmosphere above nearing the freezing point, clung tenaciously together for ten hours with nothing to support themselves but the flimsy life belts.

If you have ever sat in a cold out-of-the-way passenger station waiting for a train to come in which was in hour late, you know how long sixty minutes can be. If you have ever spent a day, from 8:00 in the morning until 3:00 o'clock in the evening, cooling your heels in the waiting room of some Big Sho's executive offices, you know how long a day can be.

But these people did not have the advantage of ten laylight hours. Their plane went down in the early afternoon. Five of their waiting hours were at night when all they could see were the occasional lights of some passing ship too far to hail, or the fins of suspicious sharks nosing around to see what all the excitement was about.

Imagine how they felt when about 8:30 a ship did come close enough to hail, but passed on without stopping! Imagine how they felt as one after another the three victims of the accident succumbed to the ordeals of injuries and exposure! Only the highest courage in the world could have kept them from disastrous despondency.

They told jokes to keep their spirits up. They sang songs. They speculated, even argued, about how long it would take a rescue plane to reach them, about their chances of being found. Not once did any of them, the five men, or the five women, give up hope, though one of them had a broken arm, and another had seen her husband go down.

Because they hung on refusing to give in to the tragedies besetting them, they were finally rescued none the worse for their experience. They learned for once that no matter how bad things may get, there may even yet be a way out. It is always darkest just before the dawn.

An Illustration Of The 'American Way'

By NORMAN E. COLLINS

We do a good deal of talking about the "American way" of doing things, but we don't often stop to figure out exactly what it means. The last year's record in regard to traffic deaths offers a good example.

During 1934, approximately 11,500 people in the United States were killed by automobiles. That, heaven knows, is certainly an appalling figure; yet there is a lot of encouragement in it, because it is about 8000 below the figure for 1937 and it indicates that the nation is at last beginning to solve its traffic death problem.

And it is in the way the problem was tackled, the things that were done to solve it and the way the machinery was set in motion that this much-talked-of "American way" can be seen in action.

Let it be admitted freely that there was a terrible delay in getting started. The yearly traffic toll was a shocking diagram for years before anything very effective was done. Nevertheless, the public did at last wake up to the situation. Public opinion was stirred from the ground up, and elaborate studies of the things that could be done to take the hazards out of auto traffic were made—made by private organizations and by tax-supported bodies simultaneously.

So the problem was studied on a broad front. The best brains available were put to work on it. Every angle was examined, from the work of school safety patrols to the possibility of eliminating danger through better highway engineering. The results were pooled, and made easily available to authorities everywhere. And then the campaign got under way.

Like the original study, it was carried on on a broad front. The public was given a course of education. Traffic codes were revised. New systems of police control were built up. And, gradually, the campaign began to be effective. People began to see that auto traffic was not an irresistible juggernaut but something that could be brought under control. The control was devised—and now we can be reasonably confident that within a few years the death toll will be got down to a level which a civilized community can view with some degree of equanimity.

Now all of that is a pretty fair sample of what we call the "American way"—or, if you prefer, the democratic way, the way of a free society—in operation. It was not a campaign imposed from above, instead it developed in response to a completely aroused and informed public opinion. There was no censorship to keep news of the situation from reaching the people; there was no repression to keep each man from speaking his mind about it; there was no regimentation to keep a score of solutions from being tried at once, so that a process of experimentation could cut out the worthless ones.

Instead there was a pooling of brains, so to speak; a utilizing of the nation's best thought and best effort. And because the program was evolved in that way, it will stick.

Judge R. W. Ware Talks To Club Women

Judge R. W. Ware explained the civil rights of married women according to the laws of Florida, in an interesting and instructive talk before the civic department of the Sanford Woman's Club yesterday afternoon at 2:00 o'clock.

He advised every woman to make a will and gave descriptive examples to prove his reasons. Following his talk he held a forum with the audience.

Mrs. Fred T. Williams, chairman of the civic department, presided over a business meeting, and appointed a nominating committee for the election of officers next month. The committee includes Mrs. A. Ross Adams, Mrs. L. E. Spencer, and Mrs. J. W. Lyle.

A George Washington benefit bridge party was announced by Mrs. A. M. Phillips, chairman. The party will be held on Feb. 22 for the aid of the Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Phillips also appointed her committees for the affair.

Mrs. Williams called attention to a display of water color sketches which have been on exhibit at the Woman's Club house this week, several being done by Sanford women. She announced that the pictures are for sale. They are on a state circuit tour.

A rising vote of thanks for the work being done for the civic department by Mrs. Williams during the past year, was suggested by Mrs. L. P. Hagan, who enumerated some of the work done by the department chairman.

Hostesses for the informal covered-dish luncheon at 12:15 o'clock were Mrs. L. E. Spencer and Mrs. W. A. Leavitt. An attractive arrangement of Spring flowers was used to decorate the club room for the meeting.

Participants In Bird Contest Given Advice

Contestants who wish to enter the Garden Club Bird Contest on Saturday, Jan. 28 should put the finishing touches on their bird houses, bird bath, feeding station, cat guard or essay on "How I Attract Birds to My Home", and bring it to 116 Magnolia Avenue Saturday morning before 10:00 o'clock, where it will be judged and prizes awarded, the contest committee announced this morning.

The name of the contestant should not appear on the article itself, but it will be tagged and numbered after it is entered, it was stated. Neither should the name appear on the essay but should be written on a separate piece of paper and clipped thereto.

Following the judging of exhibits there will be a short discussion on the building of bird houses, etc. for the benefit of the contestants.

There will be a prize for the best article and honorable mention for the second best article in each of the four groups for both the children's and adults classifications.

The entries made in this contest will remain on display in the show window at 116 Magnolia Avenue for one week after the judging and the general public is invited to inspect and purchase them if they so desire.

Other mystifying illusions include: the mystic balloons, the mind's dream, the girl in Wonderland, the spirit of Betty Ross, the Illusive lady, and Boscart's Chinese mystery.

John Barrymore Tops Exceptional Film Cast

John Barrymore, member of America's leading theatrical family and today one of the most widely known actors in the world, has one of the finest roles of his colorful career in the new film, "The Great Man Votes", in which he is featured.

The brilliant actor plays the role of a shiftless, drink-loving scholar gone to seed, but who is led to become a "great man" again through the hero-worshipping and clever scheming of his two loyal children. Peter Holden, seven-year old Broadway discovery who recently scored in "On Borrowed Time", and little Virginia Welder, eleven-year old screen veteran, play the faithful youngsters.

Barrymore, whose superb performances have been equally divided between the stage and screen, early rose to fame because of his work in such stage hits as "Peter Ibbetson", "Redemption", "The Jest" and his triumphal characterization of "Hamlet."

For "The Great Man Votes" RKO Radio has assembled an exceptional cast that includes, in addition to those mentioned, Donald MacBride, Katharine Alexander, Luis Alberni, Granville Bates, J. M. Kerrigan, Elizabeth Risdon and Brandon Tynan. Sarason Kanin director, and Cliff Reid acted as company producer.

Jaycees To Sponsor Recreation Dance

The Junior Chamber of Commerce will sponsor the weekly informal dance of the Chamber of Commerce recreation committee tomorrow night at the City Hall. The dance will be held from 8:30 until 11:30 o'clock. The Dance Club now consists of 156 members of whom 18 are from Orlando.

It has been announced by Gerald Ash, director, that due to home basketball games, the dance time for the next three Friday nights will be extended from 11:30 until 12:00 o'clock.

Public Solution to Rail Problem Unlikely in 1930

There Is No Revolutionary Proposal That 'Looks Good'

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Congress is unlikely to attempt a revolutionary solution of the railroad difficulties this session simply because there is no revolutionary solution which looks like a sure thing.

A glance at the report of the president's railroad executive committee, together with operating statistics of railroads and their competitors discloses all too clearly the complexity of the problem.

Not only are the facts of operation in themselves difficult to adjust to bring about an improvement in railroad conditions, but regional political and economic factors are so entangled that Congress could not act independently of them.

Rarely had the committee come forth with its recommendations than the most railroad-minded member of Congress, Senator Wheeler, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, flatly opposed one of the recommendations. His home state, Montana, together with much of the Rocky Mountain territory, would be badly hit by acceptance of the committee's proposal to slash the long and short haul clause of the interstate commerce act.

Means Of Protective Rate

Years ago the railroads used to charge low rates for long haul country hauls, particularly between the Mississippi and the Gulf Coast, so as to compete with ocean-going commerce coming from the east and west by means of the Panama Canal. The Rocky Mountain territory paid higher rates simply because there was no water competition. Later, the practice was denounced by the Rocky Mountain territory as an inequality and was prohibited.

Much manufacturing and farming have developed in the Rocky Mountains because of this protective rate clause and any attempt to eliminate it would split the mountaineer congressman in one solid bloc of opposition.

Midwest grain growers and southern cotton growers in turn would fight any proposal to haul down on the federal barge line on the Mississippi, as was suggested by the President's committee.

The South long has been on the short end of the freight rate deal, but northern and western manufacturers would balk at any leveling of the structure which would let products of cheap southern labor invade northern and western markets.

Moreover, not all the problems can be touched by Congress. Increased local taxation is a problem. In 1907, taxes on the country's $30,000-mile railway system totaled $72,743,000. Although trackage increased only 10,000 miles by 1926, taxes were $224,839,000.

The remedy must be sought on many fronts.

It is possible Congress may pass the booming truck industry law credited with major inroads on business once going to the railroads. This has been proposed.

Terminal consolidations are possible but abandonment of duplicating railroad lines always is fought both by local communities and members of Congress from the affected territory.

The Interstate Commerce Commission and the railroads themselves have manipulated rates downward and upward and downward again without establishing any real basis for the rates.

It is likely that if the railroads can demonstrate the need for a wider field of experimentation about consolidations, rate adjustments, and trackage abandonment, Congress will be less likely to pass the trucking law.

The railroads abandoned a 15 percent wage cut 18 months ago under circumstances which put the blame on the government to come to the aid of every other possible

December Building For State Shows Large Increase

JACKSONVILLE, Jan. 22.—December building construction permits issued in 34 Florida municipalities were valued at approximately $8,000,000, a substantial increase over the same month a year ago, it was reported today by the research department of the Florida State Chamber of Commerce.

Exact total for the last month of 1929 was $5,040,350, a gain of $2,959,650 over the figure of $2,080,700 recorded for December, 1928, the State Chamber report revealed.

Seventeen of the 34 participating cities reported monthly totals for December in excess of $250,000. They were:

Jacksonville, $1,672,184; Miami, $1,000,411; Ft. Petersburg, $279,210; Ft. Lauderdale, $174,541; Hollywood, $227,137; Miami Beach, $227,110; Tampa, $189,140; Deland, $157,278; West Palm Beach, $148,264; Orlando, $128,100; Clearwater, $88,100; Daytona Beach, $74,225; Bradenton, $42,190; Palm Beach, $32,200; Coral Gables, $22,222; Pensacola, $27,422; and Lakeland, $22,000.

Unemployment Is Seen As Challenge By Senator Pepper

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—(AP)—Senator Pepper, pictured a constant and increasing problem of unemployment yesterday as a challenge for business and government.

"There are some who think that a return of prosperity will solve the unemployment problem," the Florida senator, a staunch administration supporter, said in an address prepared for delivery before the National Association of Cannerymen. "They might as well expect the unemployment problem to be solved by the return of the wagon-body factories."

Pepper said economists had indicated seasonal conditions in manufacturing industry that year with a return of "1929 prosperity" there would be at least 4,000,000 people unemployed.

The senator said that the machine age meant "there will never be an opportunity to provide industry for anything like the men and women of this country who need work and want to work."

He said this was the underlying cause of the vast administrative and relief programs of the past year, adding that "the only way to solve the unemployment problem is to create new jobs."

France Bolsters Defense As Rebels Capture Barcelona

calling 60,000 reserves to the colors.

The Barcelona radio station yesterday defiantly broadcast the challenge to a fifth fight on the Spanish press agency in London reported that Socialist and Syndicalist trade union organizations had decided to hurl the joint declaration in the face of General Franco's troops.

Although the escape of the 2,000,000 inhabitants, refugees and defenders was cut off by troops at the southern outskirts, by converging armies to the west and to the northwest and by a curtain of fire that covered the last coastal highway to the northeast, the breakout declared:

"The taking of Barcelona will not be an easy matter."
The population of Barcelona is ready and the city will be defended inch by inch, street by street and house by house.
"Every man and woman is fiercely determined not to yield a step before foreign (Italians and Germans assisting Franco) invaders."

Rebel airplanes, which for days have been bombing Barcelona almost constantly, today dropped bombs of leaflets calling upon the city to surrender to save its estimated 2,000,000 inhabitants from a destructive attack.

A rebel army was halted in the southern outskirts for a "knockout blow," while rebel announcements said other armies were rushing up for reinforcement from the west and north-west.

Spanish Throne May Be Returned To Don Juan III

Restoration Of Monarchy May Follow Spain's Civil War

PARIS, Jan. 19.—(A)—All the Don Juan in history haven't been great lovers. Two have been kings of Spain. And now war and politics permitting, there is likely to be a Don Juan III.

For the fates have smiled on a youth still in his twenties, third son of a former king, who would ordinarily have no chance for a throne.

He is Juan, Prince of Asturias, favorite son of ex-king Alfonso. Two factors are working strongly in his favor: First, his homeland, split by civil war, needs a pacifier, and he, as one who has been out of the country for years but still has a legitimate claim to rule, seems to many to fill the bill.

Second, his education and virtually all his career has been "made in England," and England's money and influence probably will be strong in the Spain that rises out of the civil strife.

lands and rights as a citizen soon followed. The understanding was that the former king would abdicate later and Juan would be called back to reign.

Coronation of Don Juan is not yet assured. The insurgents must first win a decisive victory in Spain. Then, restoration of the monarchy will still be subject to international negotiations and internal Spanish politics.

Italy is believed to be lukewarm toward a restoration, preferring to see an outright Fascist dictatorship in Spain, but Mussolini himself governs under a king, and England is counted upon by the monarchists to bring Italy around to the proposal.

There is a division of opinion also in Spain. The Falangists, patterned after the Nazis of Germany, would prefer a totalitarian state under a "Caudillo" or "Fuehrer," rather than a monarchy, but many influential insurgent organizations want a king.

The monarchists believe they have Great Britain strongly on their side because Juan has served as a lieutenant in the British navy, studied in England and has many friends there.

It is generally agreed that if Franco wins the war and decides on a restoration, he can swing it. Don Juan became heir presumptive in 1933 when two elder brothers, the Count of Barcelona, who later died, and Jaime, suffering from impediments in speech and hearing, abandoned the throne. The decree restoring Alfonso's

Pointers Given In Preparation Of Rib Roasts

By MRS. ALEXANDER GEORGE
One of the things America can thank old England for is its liking for roast beef, the aristocrat of meat.

You can't go wrong, when your budget permits, if you serve a juicy rib roast.

One of the best ways of getting a good roast is to patronize a reliable butcher. There are certain tests you can apply to picking the cut of meat, but they're not conclusive.

Tender beef usually is well streaked with clear, cream-colored fat, the flesh is firm to the touch, smooth, fine-grained and glossy. Freshly cut beef is bright red. When it has been hung—exposed to the air—the meat darkens. Many people who fancy themselves as epicures spurn the freshly cut beef. They say it's not worth eating until the meat is dark. With some it has to be quite dark, too.

Notes The Weight
Two or three ribs will be enough to serve the average family, four or five for a larger group. Some people like to serve a standing roast—one that is cooked with the bones in it. But if the butcher removes the ribs you get a rolled roast—the meat is tightly rolled and held together with cords or skewers.

It is wise to note the weight of the roast when you buy it. That will help in the cooking. To bring out the favor of a standing roast, proceed this way:

Wipe the roast with a damp cloth, then rub it well with salt, pepper and flour. For a three-rib piece these are the proportions: a teaspoon of salt, half a teaspoon of pepper and two tablespoons of flour. Put the roast, fat side up, on a rack that's raised a quarter of an inch from the bottom of the roasting pan.

Roasting Time Scale
Turn the oven on hot (500 degrees) for the first 20 minutes of cooking that will sear it. Then lower the heat to 300 degrees and cook according to this scale: 16 minutes a pound, if you like your meat rare; 22 minutes a pound for medium, and 30 minutes a pound for well done.

You should not cover the pan but the fat will not only season the roast, but also keeps it moist while cooking. Baste the meat every fifteen minutes or so with the drippings.

A rolled roast is cooked in much the same way. But since it doesn't have quite so much fat you'd better put half a cup of water in the roasting pan. And since the rolled roast is thicker than a standing one, add five minutes to the cooking time in each of the classifications just given.

When your roast is done, lift it off the pan. Pour out of the pan all but four tablespoons of fat and then make your brown gravy in the pan in this manner: Sprinkle in four tablespoons of flour and mix well, add two cups of boiling water and a little salt and pepper and boil the mixture on top of the stove, stirring it frequently.

Yorkshire Pudding
Before starting the gravy, be sure to remove from the pan any little burned particles of flour; they would darken the gravy—might even give it a bitter taste. If the pan is too brown, it's better to make your gravy in a separate receptacle.

If you like your beef the real English way, you'll serve york-claim to rule.

He is a healthy, vigorous youth, born June 20, 1931, who has shown no traces of the tragic maladies which have tracked his family.

Although he aspires to be King Juan III, he has no ambition to follow in the footsteps of the Don Juan, cavalier of ancient Seville, whose love has become celebrated in the literature of many lands.

The modern Don Juan is a happily married man—his wife, Marie Mercedes, Princess of Bourbon-Sierras, whom he married at Rome in 1935. They have one daughter, the Infanta Maria del Pilar, born at Cannes in 1936.

During their exile from Spain, they have been living at various times on the French Riviera, in Switzerland and in Italy.

shire pudding with it. Here's a good recipe:

Mix a cup each of flour and milk, two eggs and a fourth of a teaspoon of salt. Pour to a thickness of one inch in a shallow pan generously greased with dripping from roast. Bake twenty minutes in a moderate oven, basting three times with drippings. Cut into squares and arrange them around the roast on the serving platter.

To take the guesswork out of roasting, use one of those special roasting thermometers. Make an incision so that the bulb reaches the center of the roast and cook until it reads 140 degrees for rare, 160 for medium and 180 for well done.

However, with little practice you can do your beef to a turn without a thermometer.

Rustling Booms In Texas Panhandle

AMARILLO, Tex.—(A)—Members of the Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association believe there was more cattle rustling in Texas in 1938 than in any year since such characters as Billy the Kid roamed the southwest.

Rustling cases were heard in nearly every Panhandle and West Texas county and there were many convictions.

Many of the stolen cattle came from stray herds. Dairy cows are not branded and rustlers have a preference for that kind.

If you want something real fancy for your Valentine party try this: Tint water green, freeze it and then crush slightly

Father Believes Stern Dealing With His Children

Revolutionary Child-Raising Ideas Are Found Successful

NEW YORK, Jan. 24.—(AP)—Mr. Van Wyn Mason is a mild-mannered man, but when he deals with children, he says, "Do as I do, not as I say." Van and Bobby, ten and eight respectively, do as he says, mostly that. They know that "do as I do" means a good licking. That's the way the Mason household has always been run. Van is the author of "Three Harbors," a novel of Revolutionary days. Van and Bobby have definite plans to do, and no excuses given. When the family is in Bermuda, Mr. Mason does his winter work of writing, the youngsters are responsible for getting the paper on the postoffice daily, rain or shine. They have to keep the house clean, too, whether they are there from play or not. When money, their basic allowance is five cents a week. The rest of their spending money must be earned around the house. And they must account if they don't earn enough. Mason is full of revolutionary ideas on child-raising. He rhymes if you even murmur the word "punishment."

Dachshund washing is a doggone long job and the prospect doesn't seem to please Jessie von Friederichshof, the "washee." But Jane Ebbell apparently enjoys scrubbing her prize pet for a Los Angeles dog show.

"Let 'em fight it out," says Van Senior. Mason even goes so far as to say that parents shouldn't be terribly fair in their dealings with their children. Eighty percent of the time is enough, he says. That's the way they'll find life. Van and Bobby have survived this upbringing pretty well. They are active little boys, thin and rangy. They stop ripping around the house at a word from their parents. They're curious to see what works how, but their questions aren't silly. And they shake hands without being prompted. Mason, who admits having

LAKELAND, Jan. 26.—Beginning Jan. 28 through Feb. 4 the second of three scheduled nationwide sales efforts will be undertaken to aid the citrus producers from all areas. Co-operating in this sale will be the entire forces of the thousands of retail food stores and other types of distribution. Despite the unprecedented millions of boxes which were placed into consumption by the food chain stores, during the past two years, in an effort to help the citrus grower, purchasing agencies report tremendous increases in the tonnage and volume of fruit they plan to move during the period of the sale. Buyers report an average increase of orange purchases for this season over 1937 of approximately 80%, and for 1938 of 50%. Increase of grapefruit purchases this year have averaged more than 50% over both 1937 and 1938 seasons. Newspaper advertising, considered by the chains as the most effective means of backing up their merchandising programs, has been increased even more than was used in the 1936-37 grapefruit campaign when approximately 2,500,000 dollars was spent. J. E. Davis, vice-president of the National Association of Food Chains said: "It is my opinion that the chains are devoting more than twice as much space this year as was used in the 1936 campaign. I believe three million dollars would be a very conservative estimate of the space that will be used by the chain food stores in newspapers devoted exclusively to citrus fruits." Supporting the National Citrus Sale is the promised co-operation of citrus growers, shippers and canners, who for the first time have united on a definite program, seeking a solution for a fair cash return for the harvest and bait

Auction Is Held By Church When Funds Are Needed

CLAYTON, N. C., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Whenever the Mount Moriah Baptist church needs money to make church repairs, buy equipment or pay the preacher, it does not have to take up a collection or sell bonds. It just holds a harvest auction to which everyone within 25 miles around is invited. The church has 260 members, all farmers. They bring their contributions in kind, deposit them in front of the white clapboard church and go inside to hear the pastor preach. When they go out into the church yard for a gigantic picnic style dinner. A long, rough-hewn table is loaded with barbecued meat, sandwiches, chickens,

ROLLINS SWIM TEAM COMPETES IN RIVER OF GRAPEFRUIT AT CYPRESS GARDENS

Florida's grapefruit received nationwide publicity when the Rollins College swim team composed of Rita Costello, Marilyn Tudds Smith, Rachael Harris and Wilma Heath competed over the juiciest aquatic course ever known at the tropical Cypress Gardens near Winter Haven, for the benefit of the newswreels. Cheered on by a bevy of bathing beauties the team at the drop of the flag dove into the sea of grapefruit and sturdily and strongly forced their way in the 100 yd. dash which returned Rachael Harris winner and she was fittingly

Indiana Coach Prescribes Year Around Football

By TOBY WIANT
TERRE HAUTE, Ind., Jan. 26.—(AP)—Year-round football is the new diet prescribed by Head Coach Wally Marks for 50 players at Indiana State teachers' college. And now the boys are convinced they'll have their toughest team next fall.

Fists crammed with newspaper clippings used to embellish his speech, Senator Rush Holt, West Virginia Democrat and anti-New Dealer, opens up on Harry Hopkins and WPA "politics" during Senate fight on confirmation of Hopkins' appointment as secretary of commerce.

Last November, Indiana State wound up another in a long string of mediocre seasons. Injuries had kept important players on the bench. Marks, who played on the last Big Ten championship team produced by "Old Man" Stagg at the University of Chicago, decided his men needed more conditioning than they were getting in the usual football season.

When Marks said, after the last game, "There'll be practice as usual next week," some of the players didn't know whether they would like it or not. But "they" all felt the new regime now because they're having fun at it.

The players have daily workouts in boxing, wrestling and handball, according to their individual tastes; one afternoon of football skill practice weekly; regular indoor drill on football fundamentals, and two intensive study periods weekly as a check against academic ineptitude.

"Football as it is played today, with heavy emphasis on physical stamina and manpower, has passed far beyond the stage where it is just a fall sport," Marks says. "The pressure is heavier in football than it ever has been. It is the broadest scale game of all, requires the most arduous conditioning and the greatest fund of manpower. It takes time and year-round concentration to develop it."

While at Chicago, Marks, now 33, won letters in football, basketball and baseball. He also swam and had a fling at professional boxing after finishing college.

Boxing is his favorite out-of-season conditioner for football. "It's not because boxing is conditioning that I like it for football players," he explains. "Far from it. Boxing is great for toning up reaction speed. A football man has got to start quickly."

Under Marks' new program, the only pastime on the taboo list is loafing. If his men start to slack up, he suggests they skip the rope, punch bags, or work on the weight machine.

They play a table football game to exercise their ideas of strategy. They study their gridiron stances in front of mirrors. Asked if he isn't afraid of his men going stale, Marks replies: "Not if you handle it right. This bugaboo of going stale in one sport is largely imagination. It is variation of training within the sport that lends variety."

Such New Deal Shaping Mixed By Frankfurter

Harvard Professor To Have Satisfaction
Court Is Liberal

By MORGAN M. BEATTY
WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Much of the New Deal shaping will have been over by the time Felix Frankfurter reaches the Supreme Court.

But the "architect of the New Deal"—the Harvard professor who inspired much of the so-called liberal law-building under Franklin D. Roosevelt—will have the satisfaction of knowing that the court has come far toward his way of thinking.

In the last two years, Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes has led the trend. The court has overruled itself once, and it has upheld such legislation as the Wagner labor act, the right of government to regulate wages and hours for women, and to change the gold content of the dollar.

These decisions wipe out, in a large measure, the criticism Frankfurter long has leveled, if not spoken—of the court and indeed of the country's Constitution as a flexible instrument bound to meet changing conditions.

Important decisions that have progressed too far for Frankfurter participation, include questions of the government's TVA power yardstick, and the all-out strike as an economic weapon for labor.

Still ahead, with the probability that Frankfurter will help frame them, are decisions on the legality of the Federal wage and hour law, of the new labor act, and many labor cases of secondary importance.

But the legality of the New Deal has been fairly well established.

Mr. Roosevelt already has appointed two justices classified as liberal—Hughes, Chief of Appeals, and Stanley Reed of Kentucky. Now he has named a successor of the late Justice Brandeis, who was a Jew, Aristocrat, born Frankfurter, also a Jew.

The personnel of the present court goes back only so far as President Wilson. Wilson named the ultra-conservatives, Justice Charles McHugh, and the liberal, Justice Louis D. Brandeis, now at 82, dean of the court.

Having appointed the conservative Pierre Butler, and Coolidge appointed the former attorney general, Harlan, R. Stone, a man of genial good humor.

However, selected the two outstanding force sitters, Chief Justice Hughes and Owen Roberts. They had a record for conservative law, but both have developed a liberal bent in the last few years.

Mr. Roosevelt can expect a split in favor of liberal interpretation of the Constitution, but can get a 7-2 verdict if Hughes and Roberts are in the mood.

Washington insiders are talking much these days about the possibility that Roosevelt may not appoint one or two new members of the court. Brandeis is said to be willing to retire, and some believe McHugh will quit.

But that's gossip. After all,

There is no real need, from the President's point of view, for these appointments, unless it might be his desire to give the far west representation on the court.

BOSTON, Jan. 28.—(AP)—Justice Frankfurter is a 28-year-old man with a big mind, one of the best minds in the nation, many think.

He has spotted for high posts in the federal government such bright young men as James McLaughlin, Thomas C. Cresswell, and Jean Anderson. Mr. Cresswell says he has never asked a job favor in behalf of anyone that he knows how to put the right man in the right job.

He and his wife, the former Marion A. Demann, of Springfield, Mass., have no children, but every week groups of his brightest students have gathered at their home to meet with him in long "bull sessions."

Students rather like him, too, in classes, he seems to be a student who happens to know a little more than the rest. Sometimes he turns the lecture over to a student, then stands in the back of the room and looks on.

A former student said of him: "He is always thinking. He tries to keep his mind on the job. Many people like to spend a new staff evening and he, evening with Professor Frankfurter is over."

The new justice is an amiable, serious man. His wife's friends are his only enemies; he will take a cocktail, and he smiles moderately.

He aids hundreds of causes financially, and is proud of his time in helping friends.

Two other justices, who come from Harvard Law School, have been his friends, the late Oliver Wendell Holmes, and Louis B.

Proposed Air Force Hike May Double Plane Mishaps

By PRESTON GROVER
WASHINGTON, Jan. 26. —(AP) — An item not mentioned in the administration's air program of 10,000 planes and 20,000 new pilots is that such progress is dotted with death.

This is not merely a problem in vital statistics but a problem in public reaction. In the totalitarian nations this is a simple matter. The death reports never are published, even in local papers, so the death toll of the expected foreign air preparations neither disconcerts the local population nor distracts other nations.

Official reports from Germany are that the death toll of the new air program is enormous. Training of thousands of pilots annually is a costly process both in planes and pilots. Reports reaching here are that Germany has several times as many pilots as trained as we have, making death rates correspondingly high.

But when this country begins stepping up its pilot population, the day by day report of accidents and deaths will be in the papers, on the radio and published vital statistics.

On Dec. 1 there were 22,813 commercial licenses in the United States, an accumulation of several years of training. This is an increase from 17,397 a year ago, incidentally marking probably the biggest year's increase in trained pilots in the country's history. The 1936 total was 15,762.

There are approximately 5,000 military pilots, a few of whom are listed among the holders of commercial licenses.

Now along comes the plan to add 20,000 college men on wings this year, virtually doubling the present number holding commercial licenses. And as the training schedules increase the number of planes in service must increase. The department of commerce lists 9,721 licensed airplanes in the country, while army and navy aircraft add approximately 4,000 more.

When an increase in pilot training plus the projected increase of the army air strength to as much as 10,000 planes, may double the toll-taking accidents.

The army and navy withhold cumulative figures of fatalities among military fliers but the total of deaths in major disasters of military aircraft, not including air and dust accidents, makes an impressive figure each year.

Deaths among non-military pilots, co-pilots and students totaled 165 during 1935, 169 in 1936 and 177 and 1937. The 1938 figures is not yet compiled. Passenger fatalities are not included, since they will not figure appreciably in the expanded air program.

Air accidents, even comparatively small ones, are spectacular affairs and react on the public

Floating Islands Are Tourist Attraction

ORANGE LAKE, Jan. 24. — According to John C. Lochner, editor and publisher of the Florida Newspaper News, "Every Florida newspaper publisher and family should visit Orange Lake, twenty miles north of Ocala, on the Gainesville road, and see with your own eyes the floating bird islands and get acquainted with Don McKay, naturalist, who personally conducts a sightseeing boat over the water where a close up inspection of the Floating Islands and bird sanctuaries is possible."

This unusual trip is a nature study cruise among the Florida Floating Islands at Orange Lake. It takes an hour and features the birds and their habits as well as many kinds of beautiful wild plants. The famous Floating Islands are features as a point of interest on the 1939 "Orange Blossom Trail" folders and in "Kim's Guide to Florida."

deeply. As the cost in lives of the new defense program is measured day by day in headlines it will be a very interesting matter to watch whether the general public is sufficiently alarmed about the need of hemispherical defense against overseas airfleets to steel itself to the sacrifice.

Fire loss in Nova Scotia during 1938 totalled $1,441,786 as compared with $1,409,249 in 1937. Fires in 1938, however, were 1,598 as compared with 1094 the previous year.

Deaths among non-military pilots, co-pilots and students totaled 165 during 1935, 169 in 1936 and 177 and 1937. The 1938 figures is not yet compiled. Passenger fatalities are not included, since they will not figure appreciably in the expanded air program.
