Two Florida counties have been released from quarantine regulations set up by the Mediterranean Fruit Fly Eradication Program. Palm Beach County was due for removal Dec. 11 from shipping restrictions, while Hendry will come off Dec. 12 and Broward Dec. 18. That will hike the total to 11 of the medfly-infested counties now free to move fruit and vegetables without treatment or certification.

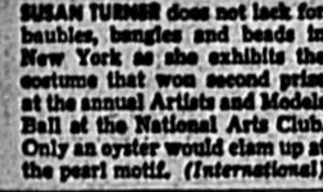

Palm Beach and Hendry counties, plus Broward, Collier, Dade, Lee and Pinellas, were placed under federal regulations last summer in regards to the interstate movement of fruits and vegetables.

Federal restrictions are in effect for at least 90 days following the last recovery of a medfly, or 120 days after the last recovery of medfly larva.

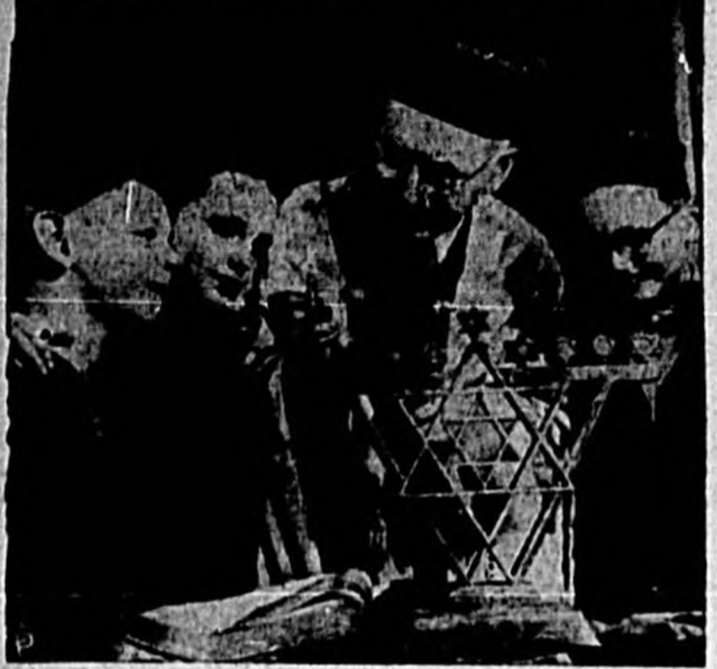

Palm Beach was the third county in the state in which the medfly was discovered. This was on May 14 with recovery of a fly at West Palm Beach. Hendry followed on May 26 with a find at Fort Dennard, while the first fly recovery in Broward was on June 8 at Melbourne.

Counties previously released from state quarantine are Glades, Indian River, Lake, Martin, Monroe, Okechobee, St. Lucie and Seminole.

CHANUKAH, the Jewish Festival of Lights, celebrating military and spiritual victory of the Jews over Syrian oppressors more than 2,000 years ago, will have double significance for these Hungarian refugee children. They are shown gathered around a menorah with Rabbi Dr. Ezekiel Landau, spiritual leader at the United HIAS Service in New York. He is lighting the first candle for the festival which lasts eight days.

New Penitentiary's Design May Omit Discipline Problem

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—Prison officials think the design of Puerto Rico's new two million dollar penitentiary, now under construction, will eliminate many disciplinary problems.

The designer, Luis Lampon Sierra, is in complete agreement and he should know. Lampon designed the new prison while he was a prisoner himself at a local penitentiary.

It all started when Lampon was interviewed on arrival at the penitentiary to begin serving a sentence for malfeasance in public office. Penitentiary authorities learned he had at one time been a teacher of mechanical drawing and they assigned him to work as a draftsman at the Justice Department office here.

"I had never done architectural drawing," Lampon said. "But I knew it was only a step away from mechanical drawing. Besides, I had been a construction foreman and had done work on houses and commercial buildings."

Lampon, on parole, was transferred to the San Juan District jail so he could be closer to the Justice Department office.

Every morning he was driven under guard from the jail to work in the office and was returned for his meals and to sleep.

The only thing that set him apart from other workers on the new penitentiary project was his blue denim prison uniform.

"He was a model worker and a model prisoner," recalls his supervisor at the Justice Department office, Horacio Bravo. "In fact I had to call him down once because some relatives of his came to visit him at the Justice Department office."

"I told him that could not be, since he was always under prison rules. Another prisoner might have rebelled, but he took it as though I had done him a favor by reminding him of the violation. He didn't have any more visits at the office."

Luis spent long hours studying modern prison design and finally came up with a plan for arranging buildings for the new penitentiary. He recalls that the director of the department's correction division, Porfirio Diaz Santana, was always greatly interested in his work and that he gave him a manual on minimum requirements for prison design and other reading matter along the same lines.

Lampon also consulted with various prison officials on the special needs for their departments.

"The dietitian, for example, would tell me about needs for kitchen space," Lampon says. "So would the men in charge of the prison warehouse and the superintendent in charge of dining areas. After all these facts were compiled I was set to go to work."

The main idea in his design, he says, was to organize the prison in such a way that was space was eliminated without creating the danger of traffic jams on stairways and in narrow halls.

"By my own experience I had learned that trouble usually starts on stairs or in halls while prison groups are moving from one area to another," Lampon says.

"In the old penitentiary the stairs has so many corners it was easy for a man to lag behind, hide in a corner and bump somebody he had a grudge against."

"Passages were narrow enough to permit inmates to pass close to each other, a situation that often increased chances of fist fights and arguments."

"In the new penitentiary design, all stairways are outdoors and this enables guards to control prisoner traffic over a big area

PIREMEN SCRAMBLE around the wreckage of a T-33 jet trainer to fight flames in two burning homes in Englewood, Calif., after the plane crashed because of engine failure. The pilot walked away from the wrecked craft and no injuries were reported in either of the houses, which were hit by the wings.

at one time. Dark corners and narrow passages are eliminated. The new prison, with room for 750 inmates, is expected to be completed by 1960.

Since release from prison, Lampon Sierra has been doing odd jobs with a private construction firm.

Justice Department officials are worried that present plans for the new penitentiary are not complete and that the designer is out on parole. A flawless good behavior record indicates they'll never get Luis Lampon back in his old capacity.

The obvious solution is to hire him, and the officials are trying to get authorization to do just that. It looks like Luis will soon be going back to his old job—this time in a business suit.

AEC Chairman Is Pushing Peaceful Power Program

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman Lewis I. Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission has called for a redoubling of U. S. government and private efforts to develop cheaper peaceful electric power from the atom.

He said substantial progress has been made toward that goal, but that the country cannot be satisfied because, he said, results so far "represent only a fraction of the bright prospects for nuclear power development in the United States the next five or six years."

He announced a series of steps designed to expand the present program. A number of Democrats in Congress have been critical of Strauss on the ground that he has not pushed the peaceful power program hard enough.

Strauss opposed as not needed a Democratic-sponsored bill in the last congress to undertake a 400 million dollar program to build demonstration plants. The bill passed the Senate but died in the House.

In a speech to the American Nuclear Society, the AEC chairman said the government's goal is not one of building a fixed number of plants for a fixed amount of generating capacity.

"Our objective, which seems to us more prudent and more constructive," he said, "is to develop the technology of nuclear power reactors furnaces of various types and sizes, to the point where they will be economic in competition with kilowatts produced from conventional fuels."

He said plans are being negotiated or discussed for at least 15 civilian atomic power plants to be in operation by 1962.

British railways have special trains equipped with foam units for combating oil fires.

GENERAL ALFRED M. GRUENTHER, retiring NATO commander who will become president of the American Red Cross, appeals in Washington for support of a special fund for Hungary. He asked the American people to work toward $5,000,000 goal for Hungarian aid.

ARLEY PATE, 26, Carbondale, Ill., and Aaron Wilson (right), 24, Urania, La., Korean war turncoats, arrive in Milwaukee as their Chicago-bound plane was forced down by a fog. Among 20 American prisoners who chose to stay in Communist China, they became disillusioned by the life facing them there, and arranged to return to the U.S. in time to have Christmas with their families. Pate said if he had to do it over again, his decision would be different.

Are You Up-To-Date On Tetanus Shots?

By HERMAN H. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST of you, I imagine, have at one time or another been inoculated for tetanus. Most persons receive immunization injections of some kind during their childhood. This doesn't necessarily mean that you are immune to the disease today.

Generally, immunization requires two to three injections of tetanus toxoid followed by another dose a year later. But that isn't all—and here's where many of you probably have slipped up.

Repeated Doses

Immunization also requires that single doses be repeated about every five years. Have you had one of these "booster" shots since 1951? Probably not.

You must also get another dose of tetanus toxoid as soon as you suffer a wound which might be infected with tetanus. Punctured or torn wounds, particularly those which contain dirt or bits of matter, must be treated promptly by a doctor.

Take His Advice

If he advises another immunization shot, get it promptly. Tetanus is caused by a tiny germ called tetanus bacillus. It produces a nerve toxin when it grows in deep wounds. Most common symptom is a painful spasm of the jaw muscles. We call it lockjaw. The tetanus bacillus lives in the intestines of grass-eating animals, particularly horses. Any one working around stables and farm, or in garden soil treated with animal manure, is especially susceptible.

First Symptoms

First symptoms are stiffness of the neck muscles and painful contractions of the jaw muscles. These usually appear four days after the injury, but sometimes aren't apparent for three weeks. As the disease progresses, spasms of other body muscles may occur. Any noise or the slightest jar may throw the victim into violent convulsions.

About one-half of those who fall victim to the disease and develop symptoms die from it. Chances of surviving are greatly diminished by delay in recognizing the symptoms and beginning proper treatment.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. N.: I have heard that the eyes remain the same size from the time one is born. Is this true? Answer: This is not absolutely true. During the first few years the eyeballs grow to their normal size. However, growth of the eyes is usually completed at the end of the first decade of life.

U.S. To Suspend Further Major H-Bomb Tests

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Post said in a Washington dispatch that "the United States has decided to suspend further major H-bomb tests at least through 1957."

The newspaper said the Atomic Energy Commission soon will announce that next year's nuclear tests will be restricted to the area of Las Vegas, Nev.

"This will be a guarded way of disclosing that no large-scale H-bomb tests are planned," the Post said.

The story, by Robert G. Spivack, said:

"It is also understood that the government intends not to resume H-bomb tests even after next year, if world conditions improve."

"The reasons are: Public safety and the need for some dramatic step to ease international tensions."

The Post said its information came from "the highest sources."

"Ironically," the article continued, "the administration is following—in many particulars—the course advocated by Adlai E. Stevenson, the Democratic candidate for president, and about which top officials, from President Eisenhower down were scornful during the election campaign."

Traffic Hazard

CHARLSTON, W. Va. (AP)—A Pennsylvania said he liked the West Virginia Turnpike just fine, but it was the first time he had encountered horses and mules on a toll road.

Joseph Moore of Harrisburg, Pa., in a letter to the Charleston Gazette, said he almost ran into them on a foggy night near the Chelyan interchange.

He said a service station attendant told him the animals "belonged to a sawmill nearby."

Men Are Particular

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—The steady growth in popularity of men's sportswear can be traced to the fact that "men are getting particular, like women," a buyer for a leading Toledo men's store says.

"Men don't want to meet themselves coming down the street," Clarence Reiling believes.

Cereal Flake Dinner Ring Adds Variety to Meat Loaf

Cereal Flake Meat Ring with creamed vegetables adds a new twist to the ever popular meat loaf. This dinner ring is tops in good eating. It is made with well-seasoned beef, pork, and whole wheat flakes. The slightly crushed whole wheat flakes are added to make it juicy, give it flavor, and add extra nutritive value.

Meat loaves are just one of the many ingredients used of breakfast cereals, both hot and ready to eat. Cookie, pie crust, dessert, bread, muffin, and confection recipes have improved flavor, texture, and nutritive value with the addition of breakfast cereals.

- Cereal Flake Meat Ring
- 1 egg, beaten
  - 4 cups whole wheat flakes, slightly crushed
  - 1 1/2 pounds ground beef
  - 1/2 pound ground pork
  - 1/2 cup chopped onion
  - 1/2 cup horseradish
  - 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
  - 2 1/2 teaspoons salt
  - 1/4 teaspoon pepper

My New York

By MEL HEIMER

NEW YORK—This warped and woolly town is, of course, the original, the one and only haven for square pegs in round holes. Buffalo, N. Y., girls who can't stand Wednesday afternoon bridge parties' come here; so, too, do Winona, Minn., garage mechanics who would rather work on Bugatia and Ferraris instead of American cars. The offbeat ones settle in New York.

Included in this legion of the damned are the night crawlers—the people who because of their profession or inclination, come alive only in the dark, small hours. Of all these, those with full wits who are about ready to play when the rest of the world is settling tiredly in bed, none is more typical than the actor. He avoids sunlight as if it were the black plague.

"And do you know," Miss Margaret Leighton told me today as she slouched her long frame gracefully onto a sofa, "if I do think New York is the only place where one can lead the nighttime existence wholly—and with-

He had rushed home after the blast and decided it was safer not to go back.

Q: I'd like to give my girl friends Christmas gifts this year, but I'll only be able to spend about $1.50 for each one. Have you any suggestions?

A: Why not give them each a beauty basket you can assemble yourself?

Do your shopping at your local dime store and buy:

- a small straw basket (25c)
- a trial size jar of cold cream (5c)
- a trial size bottle of skin freshener (5c)
- a small bottle of hand cream (25c)
- two trial size lipsticks (15c each)
- a handy pack of tissues (5c)
- a roll of colored cellophane and Christmas ribbon. Total cost including tax, less than 1 dollar!

Now arrange cosmetics in the basket... cut out a large square of cellophane, fold it around basket and gather it with ribbon tied in a bow.

Result: The prettiest present any girl would like to receive for Christmas!

Demo Committee's Deputy Chairman To Resign Jan. 1

WASHINGTON (AP)—Clayton Fritchey said that he will resign as deputy chairman of the Democratic National Committee about Jan. 1 to explore prospects for establishing a "new journalistic enterprise."

Fritchey said he and Philip M. Stern, recently resigned director of research for the committee, will join in the new undertaking. Both formerly were on the staff of the New Orleans Times.

Fritchey, who was press chief for the presidential election campaign of Adlai E. Stevenson this year, told a reporter he and Stern have several newspaper projects under consideration, but are not committed to any one.

Fritchey's job as deputy chairman, an appointive and salaried one, will not be filled immediately. His assignments under that title as editor of the Democratic Digest committee organ and director of public affairs will be assumed by Sam Neightman, managing editor of the digest and publicity chief of the committee.

"CHILDREN UNDER 12 ADMITTED FREE"

ing. No dates. No reasons. No juvenile mish-mash. Nothing but repertory in the provinces, leading up to her triumphant young bow with the Old Vic company. Later, there was some small relaxing, and a marriage that didn't pan out—but only now, at 24 and footloose in a New York that pays much cash to watch her at work, is she having fun.

"Why, back in London, it's nothing for friends to be on the phone to me at 9 in the morning," she remembered with a shudder. "Here"—the Warwick hotel, where she has a 20th-floor suite—"the operator wouldn't dream of putting a call through until 11 o'clock. I'm staying out too late every night and I love it."

This is only her second visit. Ten years ago she came here with the Old Vic and thought it the most fabulous place in the world. "I thought this time it would be different," she said, "since I was 10 years older—but do you know, it's still great. Perhaps since I'm more mature, or hope I am, it's because this time I see things in it that I never noticed in my early twenties."

It is Miss L.'s considered opinion that her work-jammed adolescence didn't leave any scars on her, although there is even now about her a kind of elegant guardedness. "I suppose I'm enjoying myself these days and doing some of the things that other women did in their late teens or early twenties," she said, "but I don't seem to be aware of being warped about the whole thing."

The daytime, of course, is for work; Miss L. does interviews, gets her hair done, sees producers and does the thousand things that any successful actress does. Just the other day she and Noel Coward did some recordings of his plays; including the matchless Skill Life. However, at 8:40, the world comes alive for Margaret Leighton. Up goes the arbutos, and after the required two and a half hours, the wonderful world of New York is there waiting for her to relax.

Agriculture News

CECIL A. TUCKER, II
County Agricultural Agent

According to Homer Ballard, County Office Manager for the ABC Program, the initial period of filing requests for the 1957 program (Jan. 1, 1957 through Dec. 31, 1957) will be Dec. 10, 1956 through Jan. 16, 1957.

The Agricultural Conservation Program, designed to aid in achieving conservation of our soil and water resources, can be participated in by any farm following a conservation program in Seminole County. This is a government supported cost-sharing program.

Some nine or ten practices were selected by the Seminole County ASC Committee. These "package practices" and their rates vary from $1.50 to $21 per acre. They cover such practices as establishing recommended cover crops in citrus groves ($8.25 a), initial clearing, and establishment of permanent pasture ($21.00/a) use of lime to establish legumes or grasses on farm land ($3.00/T), establishment of timber trees (75 to 1:50/100 trees) improving established vegetative cover ($6.00/acre), controlling competitive shrubs on pasture land ($3.00/a), constructing wells for livestock water as a means of protecting vegetative cover (75 linear foot for 3 inch casing, 1.35 for four inch casing), constructing or enlarging permanent drainage systems to dispose of excess water (50 per cent of cost of moving earth up to 20' yard), establishment of summer cover crops, including lime if needed ($1.50 to $4.25/acre).

Remember that no cost-sharing can be allowed unless request is made before the practice is started. Request forms can be obtained from the County ASC office in the Court House.

Last Saturday, Dec. 8, Seminole County 4-H Club officers met along with their local club leaders in a training meeting at the Court House. Some seventy five club members and ten leaders took part in the morning's activities.

Grant Godwin, Assistant State Boys' 4-H Club Agent, Gainesville showed a film on parliamentary procedure to the combined group. The boys and girls then divided into groups for discussion of the responsibilities and duties of their respective offices. In the group meetings, the presidents and vice-presidents were led by Grant Godwin; the secretaries by Mrs. George Otto and Mrs. Vincent Matecki; the devotional leaders by the Rev. Fred Fisher; the refreshments by Mrs. Paul Wood, and the recreational leaders by Cecil Tucker. Miss Brumbaugh, Assistant State Girls' 4-H Club Agent showed a film strip and led the local leaders in a discussion of their responsibilities as leaders.

A combined girls' and boys' county 4-H Club Council meeting followed. They discussed a county wide Christmas party for 4-H'ers and set the date for Monday, Dec. 17, 7:30 — 9:30 p.m. The party will be held at the Council Center, 601 E. 25th St.

The committees appointed by the council presidents were: Refreshments — girls will bring a dozen cookies, the boys a quart of orange juice.

Program — Oviedo and Slavia 4-Clubs in charge.

Decorations — Sanford Grammar School, Sanford Jr. High, seventh and eighth Grades, and Pine Crest 4-H Clubs in charge. They will meet Monday, Dec. 17, at 1:30 p.m. at the Council Center to decorate.

The boys' club leaders attending were: Oviedo, Mrs. Joe Battle and Lake Monroe, Mrs. B. F. Bullard.

The boys' club officers attending the meeting were: Lake Monroe, Barney Johns, Bobby Flowers; Oviedo, Loe Len Battle, Bobby Beard; Paola, Jimmy Singletary, Norman Sparks, Dennis O'Brien, Joe Malcolm; Pine Crest, Tommy Wiederholdt; Sanford Junior High, seventh Grade, Ronnie Palmour; Sanford Junior High, Eighth Grade, Bobby Barbour, Charles Fox, Johnny Krufchick and Slavia, Jerry Arndt, David Johnson, Jerry Fore, Gerald Bellhorn, Ralph Johnson, Loy Caldwell and Michael Tesinsky. ## Conning The News

BY VIRGINIA CONN

CONNING THE NEWS
Katie Cummins was the hostess of the VAH-7 luncheon held at Mayfair Inn Tuesday afternoon. The table was beautifully decorated in a theme of green, gold and white. Green pine boughs formed the background for gold spray-painted magnolia leaves and candles that Katie had made herself, covered with white froth spray-painted in gold. Tiny matching place cards, and the names were also written in gold.

The twelve guests enjoyed chicken chow mein. Attending were Mary Libbey, Dot Mann and her husband Pearl Moore, Oliver Simmons, Terry Price, Ruth Hodges, Nancy Lilobee, Marilyn Ferrer, Kay Dwyer, Doris Francisco, and Elsie Bauer.

Terry Price will be the new representative from VAH-7 to the Officer's Wives Club, and Olivia Simmons will be the alternate.

Spent the morning at the Country Club working in the information and ticket booth with Ida Bea Wilson. It was rather a slow day, as every one was waiting for the golf clinic this afternoon, which I am missing right now. We did see Frank Stranahan and Dow Finsterwald teeing off, and in spite of the weather man's prediction of cold weather, the day was warm and lovely. Others helping out this morning were Jean Dooley, Judy Smith, Grace Martin, Jackie Crawford, Shirley Perkins, Ruth Herron, Elizabeth Mebane and good spectator Creola Higgenbottom. The opposition newspaper was out snapping pictures, and was delighted to find Shirley and me in a vulnerable spot to be shot. We have had a lot of fun over our so-called "scoops", and at least if he doesn't respect me, he reads me.

Dashed over to Julie Chases, where she was having a discussion period with Gerry Grant of the Citrus Council of the Girl Scouts. Many of the troop leaders dropped in at the Chase's cottage to receive advice from Gerry. It's amazing how strong the Girl Scouts are in this area, and they are growing all the time. Showing up to eat "nosebags" lunches were Marty Millsaps, Lily Buckler, Patty Loop, Doris Francisco, Rita Bauer, Mary Libbey, Alice Drake, and Dorothy McClellan. Plans are already being made for the fund drive in February.

The Sanford Theatre Guild, as you may have read, is starting rehearsal for "Bell, Book, and Candle", by John Van Druten. Production is slated for the 24th, 25th, and 26th of January. The play is now cast with Harriet Colley as Gillian, Ambrose Olfso as Shap, Mary Shuneman as Aunt Queenie, Bob Mero as Nicky, and Harry DeWitt as Reddlich. Betty McBrainie will direct. All this is done, but, others are needed to help make-up, prop work (stage managing, flats, and a multitude of other things. If you are interested there will be a rehearsal Friday night at seven-thirty. If the play books come, if not, there will be one Monday night definitely. You may check on this by calling Harriet Colley at 1755-R, or Don Fletcher at 1537-W. Rehearsals are held in the auditorium upstairs in the City Hall, and that is by the municipal zoo, in case you are lost. If a lot of interest is shown perhaps the Theatre Guild will be able to put on more productions per year. This is another way for civilians and Navy to meet and work together on civic projects, especially since a Little Theatre is just as much a part of town as your church choir and P.T.A.s and any other group or club that accomplishes something together without financially benefiting an individual, but for the sole purpose of making the community a better place in which to live. And certainly we need the laughter and tears of the theatre, just as we need the reverence of church, the education of the schools, and the fellowship of clubs. It is apart of life, and as such, I think our local actors and actresses should be encouraged and applauded for their efforts. And as a foot note set parties will be held while members of the Guild assemble back drops and paint scenery. At least I've convinced myself. Wouldn't you like to help?

Spotlight On Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD—The scene was outer space, created on a movie stage by a backdrop of stars and knee-high carbon dioxide clouds. Sitting amid the fumes were actors portraying the heroes and villains of history. They were witnesses before the high judge Sir Cedric Hardwicke in the case of whether mankind should be destroyed by the super-H bomb. Mr. Scratch, played by Vincent Price in a devilish goatee, argued the affirmative.

Opposing him was the spirit of man, enacted by none other than Ronald Colman. And as you listened to his patrician, slightly nasalized tones, you conclude mankind seldom had a more convincing advocate.

With the exception of a one-day stint in "around the World in 80 Days," this is the first film work by Colman in over six years. And this one will occupy him only eight days or so. I asked him why he didn't do more.

"Oh, I'm not in the big time any more," he said with a twinkle in his eye.

I assured him that was false. His prestige and style of acting will always be big time.

"The studios don't seem to be doing the sort of thing I used to do in films," he added. "There have been scripts of course, but none of them was anything that I wanted to do."

Gray-haired but still dashing handsome at 63, Colman appeared to be enjoying his not-so-hurried existence. Most of the time he leads a squire's life with his wife Benita Hume and their daughter Juliet in the comfortable town of Santa Barbara, 100 miles north. Occasionally he comes to Hollywood for work.

"I like to do a television film now and then," he remarked. "I'm going to do a G. E. Theater and some others. Live TV? No, not for me. That's for stage actors. It's been a long time since I was on the stage. And I wasn't very successful at it."

Radio TV Highlights

By CHARLES MERCER
NEW YORK—So-called television critics are sometimes expected to be expert in more matters than any single individual can be. Yet this department declines to pose as a critic of classical music.

As a constant television viewer, "Festival of Music" presented by Producers' Showcase NBC-TV was stimulating home entertainment. Into the living room, for those who would watch and listen came Victoria de los Angeles, Arthur Rubinstein, Harry Morell, Andres Segovia, Boris Christoff, Nicola Moscona and Marian Anderson.

It would cost a great deal to see and hear these talented artists on concert stages. For this reason alone Monday evening's 90 minutes was superior television programming, genuinely acting in the service of the public and the arts.

Impressario Sol Hurok's second "Festival of Music" was superior to his television production of last season because the number of artists was limited and each was given a fuller opportunity to perform. Jose Ferrer's comments were intelligent and concise.

There was, however, an austerity to the production that was not exactly suited to the television medium. Probably it did not trouble the highly developed lover of classical music. But one of the chief purposes of such a program is to stimulate an increased interest in classical music. One way to aid that is to convey some of the movement and excitement of the concert hall.

In this respect it was regrettable that cameras cut directly on and off the artists as they performed, depriving the viewer of the warmth of personality that comes with movement, and depriving him too of the stimulus of audience applause. Yet this certainly is a very minor flaw in a production that in both intent and execution stood high above the routine television of these days.

Add raw mushrooms to your tossed green salad; the vinegar and oil mixture enhances their flavor.

Yet this certainly is a very minor flaw in a production that in both intent and execution stood high above the routine television of these days.

Add raw mushrooms to your tossed green salad; the vinegar and oil mixture enhances their flavor.

BREVARD COUNTY REQUESTS NEW BRIDGE
TALLAHASSEE—The State Road Bond pondered today by Broward County request to build a new bridge across Middle River.

A delegation yesterday requested a two-lane bridge near the present span where Sunset Boulevard crosses the river.

Delegations from Bay, Liberty and Okaloosa counties urged the board to build an interstate high way between Tallahassee and Pensacola far enough south to serve their counties. The board said the route was not yet selected.

Education Board Postpones Naming Of University Site

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—The State Board of Education has gone along with Gov. Collins' wishes and postponed naming a site for a new university until the larger question of whether to build the institution at that site...

Collins told the board that the question of a site, "has become a tail wagging the dog." The State Board of Control has recommended a site just northeast of Tampa...

But Collins told the Board of Education which must approve the recommendations: "I feel the law which places the responsibility for the establishment of the new university in the Board of Education has put us in the position of judges. I want the facts, all the facts, so that I can calmly, reasonably and judiciously arrive at a decision that is not swayed by promotional enthusiasm."

Thomas D. Bailey state superintendent of schools, said the Board of Education postponed a vote on the site only because Rep. Sam Dibbons, who led the campaign for Hillsborough County for the university, asked "that we not override the governor at this time."

Bailey said he approved of the Board of Control's recommended site, and said "I am sorry we did not settle this thing. It is a matter of heated controversy and a delay of even one week is going to subject us to a lot of pressures from each side."

Dr. Broward Culpepper, director of the Board of Control, told the education board existing colleges and universities could handle only about half the 132,000 students expected to be seeking higher learning in 1970.

FALL OF A CITY CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Except for an accident, this city's name might well have been Sarabesville, says Dr. Thomas Johnson Jr., University of Virginia history professor. Dr. Johnson says Sarah Lennox, niece of George III, then King of England, decided to set her cap for the monarch. She arranged for "Farmer George" to observe her, raking leaves, carrying milk pails and performing other bucolic chores. The accident came when she fell from a cherry tree — and from the King's favor.

George married Charlotte of Mecklenburg, and this Virginia town was named in honor of her.

CHAPTER I PRISCILLA PAIGE stood waiting for the express elevator that would take her swiftly and silently to the twenty-fifth floor of the Manhattan skyscraper, to her own special niche in the offices of Gaylord and Oliver, Investment Brokers. Her eyes moved impersonally over other girls waiting for elevators. She knew some of them by sight, exchanged greetings with them, but there was rarely conversation, each seemingly intent only on making a time deadline, watching absently for a certain elevator, ready to begin whatever lay before them for the next eight hours. Rita had wondered about them, the rushing young girls and the intense middle-aged women. How many felt as she did? Glad that she had a job, yet a little sorry for the necessity of having one. It was such monotonous repetition, day after day. Then at the end of the day, a hasty exodus, scattering in every direction, each hurrying to what? Was she getting disillusioned? Priscilla shook herself mentally. She was young, she had health, good looks and a good job, and her life was pleasant, if not exciting. This restless, dissatisfied mood that had possessed her lately was because she had worked through the summer with no vacation. There had been nowhere she had wanted to go and she had decided to put off her vacation until Christmas, and that had been a mistake. Her mind went back over the last three years. She had come to New York from a small Vermont town after her aunt had died. She had lived with Aunt Lucy Paige ever since she could remember—a remote, unattractive Aunt Lucy—and her childhood had been a lonely one. When Aunt Lucy died, there had been money enough for a business course and little else. Priscilla had envisioned months of futile searching for a job, but to her amazement, she had got one almost immediately, and she was still with the same firm. She had moved to a hotel for women, where she had been for the past two years. She was twenty-two now, and she often wondered why she couldn't fall in love, get married and settle down like other girls she knew. The elevator came and Priscilla stepped inside, still wondering if perhaps she hadn't better go ahead and take her vacation now. In her own small, private office, she adjusted the blinds to let in more light, and turned back to her desk to see Rita Lambert, dark, trim, sophisticated, looking at least ten years younger than her thirty-six. She had been with the firm sixteen years and had worked up to an executive position. But she was leaving now. Rita had written articles, sketches, and book reviews as a hobby. Now she wanted to try her hand at fiction. Priscilla liked Rita more than anyone she knew. She liked to lunch with her and to spend the night occasionally in Rita's charming apartment. Rita had wonderful clothes, Rita had a maid, she never lacked for escorts, she did as she pleased—but again, what of it? At thirty-six, was that the best life could offer? "Hello!" Rita's eyes moved over Priscilla's face. "You look like blue Monday. Anything wrong?" "No. That's just it. If anything were wrong that would be some excuse." She shrugged. "I'm just bored, I suppose." "Didn't you have a nice weekend?" "The usual. I'm always glad when Friday comes because I'll have two days away from the office. Then before the weekend is over, I wonder why I looked forward to it. Sleeping late, perhaps lunch or a matinee with one of the girls and a Saturday night date that bores me. Then it's Monday again." "You're too young to feel that way." "What has that got to do with it? You're older than I and you're never bored." "That's right," Rita agreed. "I don't let myself be bored. Certainly a girl as young as you are, one who could easily double for Lauren Bacall, should never have a chance to be bored. If you're bored with dates, then you're dating the wrong men. There should be dozens of them falling all over your doorstep." Priscilla sat down at the big mahogany desk, snapped on a light and glanced at the pile of mail waiting to be opened and sorted for the different departments. "What's wrong with me, Rita? It isn't that I'm looking for Sir Galahad or Prince Charming. If I happen to meet a man I like a little and he begins to get serious, I start thinking, 'What would life be like with him?'" Priscilla began sorting her mail, ceasing herself at a letter for her lack of interest. At the rate she had been going recently, she would never equip herself to take Rita's place in the firm. But—did she want Rita's place? Would being a successful career woman make up for everything else? She brought her mind back to the mail she was opening, her attention sharply arrested by a long envelope addressed to her. It bore the return address of Samuel H. Todd, Attorney, Apalachicola, Florida, and it had been forwarded on from her home town in Vermont. (To Be Continued)

American Legion Party Dec 17; Toy Is Admission

The Annual Christmas Party of the Cambell-Losing Post No. 53 of the American Legion will be held Monday evening, Dec. 17 at 7 o'clock at the Legion Hut on Seminole Blvd.

According to Post Commander Lynn Lyon, there will be music, singing, entertainment, refreshments and a reported visit by Santa Claus who is slated to drop in with goodies for the children.

Admission to the party, said Commander Lyon, will be a toy which will be turned over to the Elk's Club for their annual Christmas Tree for the underprivileged children of the community.

The commander of the local post urged all of the members of the American Legion Post to bring their wives and families for "the evening of fun and entertainment."

Lyon said that members not able to attend the Christmas Party but would like to contribute a toy could do so by leaving them with Harry Russell at Welch Tire Shop or with Gene Stall at Galloway's Service Station.

Christmas Program OVIDO—A special Christmas program will be held Sunday evening at the Oviedo Methodist Church, it has been announced.

A special offering for the Methodist Home at Enterprise will be taken at that time.

Weather

Fire Dept. Refuses To Answer Alarm

The "brass" of the Sanford Fire Department were called before the Board of Sanford City Commissioners last night at an adjourned meeting from the Monday night session to explain their refusal to answer a call to the Mayfair Inn Country Club recently.

Mayor F. D. Scott had called the Fire Department to a recent tree fire at the Country Club, Lt. John Crowe refused to send the fire apparatus outside the city limits.

Lt. Crowe, questioned by commissioners, explained "We do not answer fire alarms outside of the city limits unless they are registered with the city."

"We will go to schools or where lives are involved such as heart attacks, drownings or similar incidents," However, Lt. Crowe explained, "we will not go to any call if one truck is out."

A direct question to Lt. Crowe asked "What are your instructions regarding orders from a city commissioner to violate one of your orders or regulations?"

The Lieutenant answered, "I wouldn't do it."

"Unless a group of commissioners instructed me, I wouldn't violate my instructions for if I did and had a wreck the other commissioners would hold me responsible," Lt. Crowe said.

Commissioner Gatchel asked, "What is your authority if the Fire Chief or his Assistant is out of town?"

Crowe said "I use my judgment."

It was at this point that Commissioner Kridler asked "The Fire Department Lieutenant 'Irregardless, whether it is the Mayor or a commissioner that calls you, you would follow your instructions from the Fire Chief?'"

Crowe answered "Yesir."

"In other words," said Commissioner Kridler, "we have no authority."

Lt. Crowe explained also that he had called Asst. Fire Chief R. T. Thomas immediately following his call from Mayor Scott to explain his actions and that his decision was approved.

S. Snead Visiting PGA Open

Slammin' Sammy Snead came back to Sanford to visit the Mayfair Inn's $15,000 PGA Open yesterday.

Snead did not come in to play in the tournament but made the rounds shaking hands and congratulating low score players as they came in from the first round of the 72 hole contest.

The Mayfair Inn Country Club was "jumping" with low scores yesterday with 40 of the contestants bringing in cards of 69 or better for under par playing.

However, the course record set last year by Don Fairfield with a 63 on the first day of the tournament was not beaten when 132 amateurs, came in from the first 18 holes of the tournament.

Don Fairfield, of Casey, Ill. came in with a 73, ten over his last year's unusual record.

However, sports writers and professional golfers openly admitted that if the weather stayed good there will be some low scores. Most everyone agreed that 203 and under will win the tournament this year.

Top money man will cop a prize of $2,400 with the runnerup taking prize money of $1,500. Third place will receive $1,400.

Following today's round, completing the first 36 holes of the 72 hole PGA Open, the low 60 professionals and ties plus 10 amateurs will play the final 36 holes.

Dew Finsterwald, wiry young golfer of Bedford Heights, Ohio, was top honor man in yesterday's play when he carded a 64 with an all time low on the front nine, six under par and a par 31 on the back nine.

Finsterwald told reporters "This is my best year and I am playing a little better all around."

The 27 year old golfer who is completing his fifth year as a professional admitted that it was the "long putt" that helped him. He dropped a ball in the cup on the third green from 25 feet.

"This year's score at the Mayfair Inn Open is my best since 1951 when I shot a 61 in the St. Louis Open," he said.

Five golfers were runnerup to Finsterwald with 65. The first two to come in with the 65 card were Don January and Bob Keller. (Continued On Page Two)

Local Talent Will Be Seen In 'High Fever Follies'

Plans are going ahead on schedule for "High Fever Follies," said Mrs. Robert S. Stone general chairman of the committee which is in charge of the big local talent show sponsored by the Seminole Hospital Auxiliary.

"The production will be presented Feb. 8-9 at the Seminole High School Auditorium," she added.

According to Mrs. Stone, "High Fever Follies" will be built around the talent available here in the community. She said, "The cooperation of all of the civic clubs and organization is needed to make the show a success."

Mercantile of Sanford has already contributed over $1,600 toward the program.

Jerome Carhill of New York will produce and direct "High Fever Follies." This is the same company, said Mrs. Stone, that so successfully produced and presented "Belles and Beaux" in Orlando recently.

Proceeds from "High Fever Follies" will be used to purchase an orthopedic operating table for Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Hartman Will Serve As Part-Time Church Secretary

An addition to the staff has been made necessary at the Central Baptist Church because of its unprecedented and steady growth.

Mrs. W. C. Hartman is now serving as a parttime secretary with office hours from 8 a. m. until 12 noon each day, Monday through Saturday, according to the Rev. J. W. Farham, pastor of the church.

Because of increased Sunday School enrollment departments of the church school have been rearranged as well as classrooms changed.

The annual Christmas program of the Central Baptist Church will be presented Sunday night, Dec. 16 at 7:30 p. m. Inspirational music and scripture reading is under the direction of Mrs. Donald Hall. The Church Choir, the Concord Choir and the Cherub Choir of the church will participate.

P-T-A Party Told

OVIDO—The City Hall Memorial building will be the scene of most merriment Saturday evening—the occasion being the Senior High School party to be given that night, announced Mrs. Milton Gore, Youth Chairman of the P-T-A. This is their annual Christmas celebration.

The Junior High Christmas party, under the direction of Mrs. John Courier and Mrs. Ames Pearson, will be held on Thursday night, Dec. 20. This will also be a large affair.

Mrs. Beasley Head Of District Home Economics Assn.

OVIDO—We are very proud of the fact that Mrs. Joe L. Beasley (Louise) is chairman of the Central East Coast District of the Florida Home Economics Association. They had a recent meeting at Glenridge Junior High School.

Louise tells us that they learned a great deal about decorations from Mrs. Adrian Stockard, who demonstrated Christmas decorating, corsages, etc.

This District includes Seminole, Volusia, Osceola, Orange, Lake, Flagler and Brevard Counties.

Oviedo Is Named Fraternity Officer

Bob Shaffer, Oviedo, was elected historian of the Tau chapter of Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity, for the second semester in a recent meeting at the University of Florida. Shaffer is the son of Mr. Charles G. Shaffer.

New officers and brothers will be installed after the founders Day Banquet Sunday, Dec. 16.

YOU HAVE 8 SHOPPING DAYS TILL Christmas

The future of the Capital Improvement program bond ordinance was at stake at 12:15 today when Sanford City Commissioners reassembled for a recessed meeting from last night's adjourned meeting to consider the ordinance.

Last minute changes in details dissatisfied several of the commissioners when a representative of Leedy, Wheeler & Allman, investment brokers of Orlando presented a plea for a concession in the working of the ordinance and the length of the recallable years.

However, Bob Wagner, the representative on hand to discuss the latest developments in financing the revenue certificates, advised the Board of Sanford City Commissioners that his organization would live up to its agreement and contract with the city on the details as originally authorized.

The final signing of the ordinance was slated for discussion at last night's adjourned meeting but was held over until this morning because of the absence of one commissioner.

A waiver of rules and adoption of an ordinance requires a full attendance of the Board.

Demonstration Seen At 4-H Club Meet

OVIDO—A meeting of the boys and girls 4-H Club was held at the Oviedo High School. They both met for the decennial service, after which they had their individual meetings. Mrs. Wilson being in charge of the girls and Mr. Tucker the boys.

Combined Choirs Give Christmas Program

BY HELEN SNOODGRASS

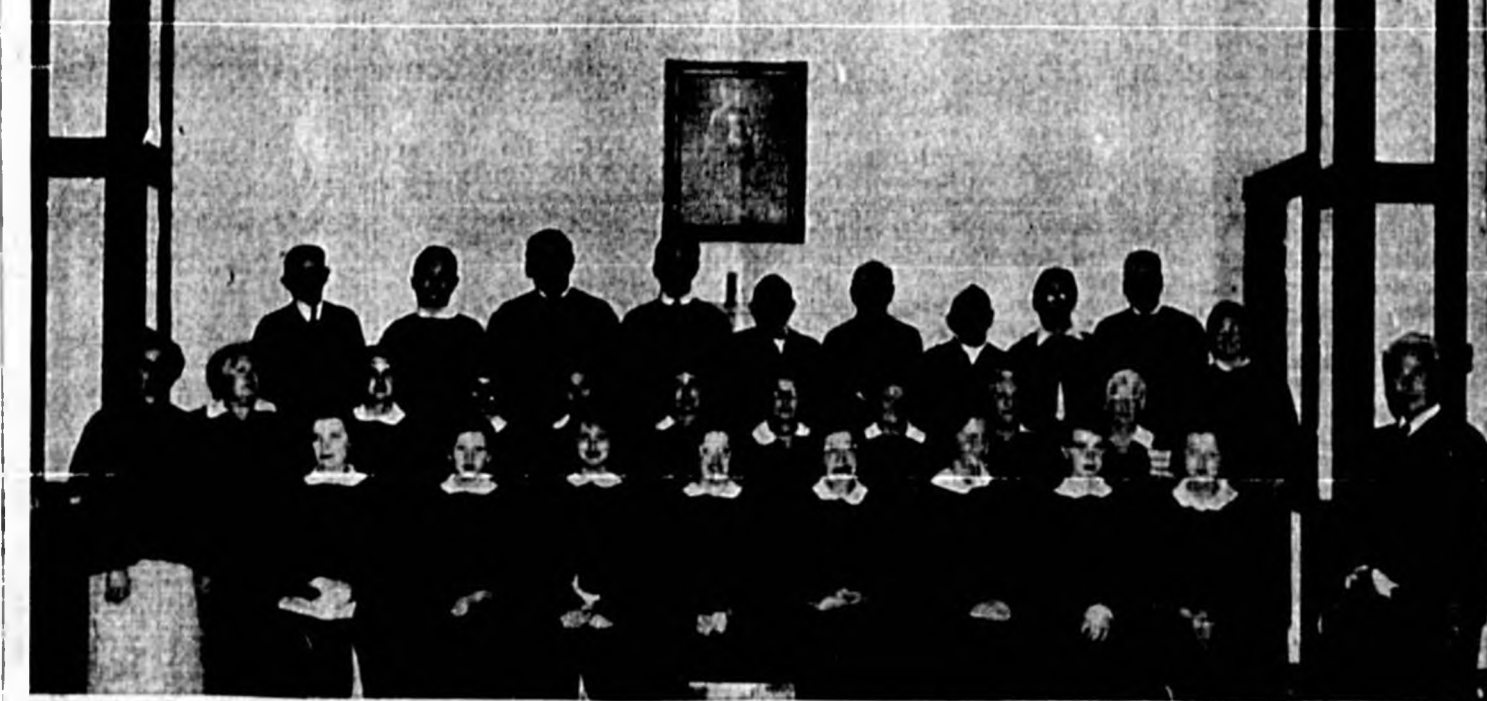

ENTERPRISE—The Christmas musical presented by the combined choirs of the Enterprise Methodist church and the Pilgrim Community Methodist church of DeBary under the direction of Charles M. Cassel of DeBary with Mrs. Catherine Sellars, Enterprise organist, Thursday evening was one of the most enjoyable highlights of the early Christmas season.

The Rev. Wilfred Aldridge, pastor of DeBary church, served as the announcer for the program and gave a short history of each of the carols as they were used.

The congregation sang several of the more familiar ones and the numbers rendered by the choir were, "Gloria in Excelsis", "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen", "Deck The Hall", "Citizens of Chaires", "O Holy Night", with Mrs. Elise Wolf as soloist, and "Good Will To Men", by Mr. Cassel as soloist.

This same program will be given at the DeBary church Sunday afternoon Dec. 23 at 4 p. m. and the invitation is extended to all.
