A pause to appreciate lady and the panther

WINTER SPRINGS — Rae Marie Schneider says she never met an animal she didn't want to paint.

Her first subject was her kitten, Cat Monet.

Her latest creation is a spectacular Florida Panther, done in pastel on suede.

On Oct. 5 and 6, Rae Marie and her panther just may sweep everyone off their feet at the 10th annual Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts.

To be sure, the artist known as Rae Marie has arrived.

A tall, elegant woman with dancing blue eyes, Rae Marie Schneider came "home" three months ago to begin the most enchanting summer of her life.

One look at her stunning animal portraits convinced officials to select her Florida Panther as a featured work at the festival. She'll not only have a personal tent but Rae Marie's panther painting will be auctioned to raise money for art scholarships. Her panther will also be on the festival's souvenir T-shirt.

"This leaves me almost breathless," says Rae Marie, who recently sold her home in Atlanta (she is a graduate of the Art Institute of Atlanta) along with most of her possessions. She is presently staying at her parents' house in Winter Springs.

Hoping to have her own studio one day soon, Rae Marie works in a small, cramped bedroom studio. Soft Caribbean music plays from a tiny compact disc unit as she finishes some of the other pieces she will show at the festival.

Her first pastel on suede - Cat Monet - purrs approvingly.

Rae Marie's overnight success has taken nearly 20 years since she was a classmate of major-league baseball star Tim Lincecum at Sanford High.

SANFORD — U.S. Congresswoman Corrine Brown recently announced that the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has awarded over $4.3 million in public housing improvement grants and homeownership counseling, to agencies in her Third Congressional District.

Of that amount, $677,469 is being allocated for the Sanford Housing Authority for low income housing.

Discover secrets of the forest

OVIDO — It takes a will and some good canoeing techniques, but after 15 or 20 minutes of paddling, the noise of trucks and cars rushing by on State Road 419, begins to fade as the secrets of the Big Econlockhatchee River open up around you.

The river is not as accessible as the Wekiva River, on the other side of Seminole County, but true canoe enthusiasts have been plying the tannic-acid stained water of the Econ for years.

With the opening of the Little-Big Econ State Forest two years ago, a canoe launch was put in place at S.R. 419 and a take-out is now available inside the forest just west of Snowhill Road. This has opened the river up to more and more water travelers. The river in between the two roads is wider and easier to maneuver than the Econ below 419, but is still filled with twists and turns, fallen trees and carry-overs (depending on the water level).

Public Safety facility: A first look

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The need for a new Public Safety facility in Sanford has been discussed for many months. This Monday afternoon, the Sanford City Commission will get its first look at an assessment of the projected space needs.

The projection is in the form of an assessment by Architects Design Group, Inc., and is based on the presumption that the new facility would probably be located at city-owned property across French Avenue from Sanford Middle School.

The plans include projected space requirements for the police department, fire department, and emergency medical service (EMS) facility at the present time, as well as with expected growth 10 years in the future, and 20 years in the future. It also suggests that increases in personnel in both departments should be expected in the future years.

According to the study, the present Sanford police station, located at 815 S. French Avenue, was designed to serve a community with a population less than 60 percent of the present city population.

The study says, "Technological changes, increased staffing levels and the normal life cycle deterioration of buildings that are

Running for Sanford mayor: Lyn Donato

Editor's note: Election season in Sanford and Lake Mary is just around the corner. Each Sunday, the Sanford Herald will profile mayoral candidates from both cities.

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — As a child, Lyn Donato (nee Hope) never dreamed she would one day run for mayor in her hometown.

Her classmates at Westside Elementary used to call her "No Hope."

"And if that wasn't bad enough many of my teachers thought I was 'hopeless,'" says Donato.

Today, Donato has high - apple pie in the sky - hopes to be the city's next mayor.

Born and raised in Sanford, Donato went off to college at the University of Maryland, married and established herself in business.

A certified optician, she owned and operated the Joppatowne Opticians, Ltd. She was also an AT&T manager for 10 years.

Returning to Sanford last year, Lyn and her husband, Ross Donato, bought and now run the Osborn's Bible & Book Store at 2598 Sanford Ave. Lyn and Ross own a home directly across the street from the store, which is managed by their daughter, Bobbie, 27.

"I have the vision and the innovative skills to help the city change for the better as it reaches into the new century," Donato says, as she sits in her dining room munching on a fresh doughnut one morning this past week.

Her Chihuahua, Sampson jumps into her arms and she cradles him as she talks.

An energetic woman with a warm smile, Donato speaks softly but passionately about her hometown and her desire to be its mayor.

"My heart has always been here. Yes, I went away for awhile. And when we came back we lived in Lake Mary. This is where we really wanted to be, though. This is where I always want to stay.

"At the commission meetings that I've attended, I've seen good, fine people who have lived here all their lives, plead their cases and sometimes not get the attention and respect they

Prostitution sting

Members of the Sanford police Special Investigative Unit (SIU) conducted undercover operations Wednesday and Thursday against street-level prostitution. The following persons were arrested:

• Kelly A. Armstrong, 30, of 213 E. First Street, was arrested Wednesday at a stakeout at 10th Street and Palmetto Avenue in Sanford. She was charged with assignment to commit prostitution.

• Dorien L. Armentrout, 37, 114 Wieber Court, Sanford, was arrested following a stakeout at 10th Street and Sanford Avenue Wednesday. She was charged with assignment to commit prostitution.

• Edna Gavitch, 58, of Winter Springs, was arrested Thursday at First Street and Palmetto Avenue in downtown Sanford. She was charged with assignment to commit prostitution.

Traffic stops

• Alvin W. Kilgore Sr., 36, of 2019 Summerlin Avenue, was stopped by sheriff's deputies Thursday at Summerlin and Celery Avenue after an officer reported seeing him throw a beer can from his Ford bronco. He was charged with possession of cocaine, possession of over 30 grams of cannabis, and possession of cannabis with intent to distribute.

• Salomon R. Gonzalez, 58, of 889 Trotter Court, Sanford, was stopped by Longwood police Thursday on SR-484. He was charged with driving without a license.

Robbery

Ralph Morris Jr., 37, 387 Dublin Drive, Lake Mary, was arrested by sheriff's deputies Thursday. According to the arrest report, a woman told deputies she was walking near CR-427 and Marler Street, when a man pulled up in a vehicle and grabbed a chain from her neck. She attempted to struggle, and said she tried to pull items from the vehicle in order to help in identification. An address book was located after deputies arrived, which indicated an address on North Lake Blvd. in Altamonte Springs. Deputies arrived and said they found Morris in the house. He was charged with unarmed robbery.

Calculator caper

Longwood police arrested a man and woman Thursday, following a report that the man had taken 14 calculators from a store on SR-484. Officers followed the man after he drove off. He eventually arrived at a pawn shop on U.S. Highway 17-92, where officers said they watched as he and a woman passenger in the car, went into the pawn shop and pawned the items. Willie James Markerson, 36, of 1804 Harding Avenue, Sanford, was arrested on charges of retail theft and dealing in stolen property. The woman, identified as Holly Hodges, 35, listed as homeless, was charged with dealing in stolen property.

Multiple charges

Terrance A. Frieson, 30, of 2180 Church Street, Sanford, was arrested by members of the Sanford police QUAD-Squad Thursday. Officers said they were called to Cowan Moughan Terrace regarding suspicious activities. When they arrived, a man they identified as Frieson is said to have been seen grabbing some money from the ground and fleeing on foot. Following a chase, they said they located him inside a building being renovated in Lake Monroe Terrace. He was arrested on charges of gambling, trespassing after warning, resisting an officer without violence, and burglary.

Overnight

Keith James Edensfeld, 41, 500 Oak Avenue, Sanford, was arrested by officers of the Sanford police Special Investigative Unit (SIU) Thursday, following an undercover drug operation at 11th Street and Maple Avenue in Sanford. He was charged with purchase of a controlled substance.

Domestic cases

• Robbin R. Fricke, 25, of 615 Briarcliff Street, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police at her residence Thursday after a reported altercation with a male. She was charged with battery, domestic violence.

• David B. Kimbrough, 32, of 28 Higgins Terrace, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday following a reported dispute with a female at his residence. He was charged with aggravated battery to a pregnant female, domestic violence.

• Margarita Heimeman, 62, 244 N. Crystal Lake, Lake Mary, was arrested by Lake Mary police Wednesday at her residence following a reported altercation with her husband. She was charged with battery domestic violence, and aggravated assault, domestic violence.

Retail theft

Lannie Blodoo Myers, 38, of 116 E. Woodland Drive, Sanford, was arrested by Sanford police Thursday at a store in the 3800 block of S. Orlando Drive. Officers said she attempted to take an alarm clock, towels, makeup and other items with a total value of $66.03 from the store without paying. She was charged with retail theft.

Cashing scam

Sanford police are investigating two separate incidents Thursday evening, in which a person apparently conned a store clerk into giving more change for purchases than should have been given.

At approximately 8 p.m., a person in a store in the 1800 block of S. French Avenue, to pay for a purchase of a $64 bar of soap, gave the clerk a $20 bill. He then repeatedly demanded his change in several different denominations several times, causing the clerk to be confused. As a result, the cash register reportedly indicated a shortage of $22.25.

At approximately 8:30 p.m., a person entered a store in the 2500 block of S. French Avenue, and again paid for a small purchase with a $20 bill. After asking for several different types of change, he left the business reportedly taking $60.

Regarding the incident in the 1800 block of French Avenue, police said they located a woman in possession with two of the bills reportedly taken, which had red dye on them, indicating they had come from the store. The woman was issued a trespass warning and was not immediately arrested.

Sanford police reports

• A 1998 Honda, reportedly stolen Tuesday from a dealership in Longwood, was located by Sanford police Thursday in the 1800 block of W. 16th Street in Sanford.

• A 1998 VCR was reported stolen Thursday from a residence in the 1100 block of Willow Avenue in Sanford.

Court rules former legislative candidate should get new trial

By The Associated Press

SANFORD — A former state legislative candidate convicted of shooting the wife of state Rep. Bob Starks must be given a new trial, an appeals court ruled.

Eric Kaplan, Starks' Democratic challenger in the 1992 election, was found guilty last year of attempted felony murder for firing a handgun into his opponent's Mattland home and injuring Judith Starks as she rested in her bedroom.

But a Florida Supreme Court ruling earlier this year abolished the charge of attempted felony murder, a charge in which prosecutors did not have to prove the suspect intended to kill someone.

Kaplan, who said he was ordered by a "higher force" to scare Starks out of the race, shot randomly into windows at Starks' home on Sept. 27, 1992.

Bob Starks said the ruling will force his family to relive a harrowing experience.

"The Supreme Court is more interested in the rights of criminals than in the rights of the victim," he said. "Now I have to subject my wife to the emotional stress of another trial. I don't think that's right."

Because of the state Supreme Court ruling, Kaplan's conviction and at least 21 others had to be reviewed.

The 5th District Court of Appeal ruled Friday that Kaplan must be retried on a charge of first-degree, attempted premeditated murder. Under that charge, the state must prove intent to kill.

Seminole County prosecutor Tom Hastings said Friday he was pleased with the ruling. The judge could have thrown out the attempted-murder conviction altogether without ordering a retrial, meaning Kaplan could have served as little as 4½ years for the remaining charges of armed burglary of a dwelling and shooting into an occupied building.

Because those charges were not affected by the Supreme Court ruling, Kaplan will remain in prison while he waits for a new trial.

Kaplan's attorney, Chandler Muller, said he will ask the appeals court to rehear the matter.

View total eclipse of the moon

By Vicki Robinson
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — For fans of astronomical phenomena, a major event will be taking place this week and we have front row seats.

And to celebrate such an occasion, the Seminole Community College Planetarium and the Central Florida Astronomical Society are hosting a tailgate party.

On Thursday evening, Sept. 26, there will be a total lunar eclipse, the last such event of this decade.

An exciting event will become a heavenly party with the addition of a huge tailgate party in the open field next to the planetarium facility on the east side of the BCC campus.

"We just wanted to make an event of it," Laurent Pellerin, director of the planetarium said. "This is the last time this will take place before the year 2000."

Total lunar eclipses, where the entire surface of the moon is covered by the shadow of the sun, occur rarely and are a favorite of those who like to watch such events in the heavens.

The show will begin at 8:12 on Thursday evening and will be complete at 1:36 a.m. on Friday.

"But I think the first half an hour and the last half an hour won't be much to look at," Pellerin said. "The real show will begin at about quarter till nine, but I don't know how many people will stay until the bitter end."

Pellerin is expecting a fairly good sized crowd at the Sanford campus, because the location is good for viewing.

"We have a wide open location out here," Pellerin said. "We're not right in the middle of town."

Pellerin said the idea of having the tailgate party was simply to give the people something to do while celebrating the eclipse. □ See Hodges, Page 5A

Nothing depressing about this

The semi-annual Sanlando Depression Era Glass Show and Sale has brought a glimmer of excitement to the Sanford Civic Center this weekend. The show, which began Friday evening and concludes today at 4 p.m. brings together collectors of the popular glassware items from the 1930s with those who are selling the items, such as Michael Phillips, above. Author and Depression era glass expert Gene Florence will be on hand today to sign his books and answer questions. The event usually draws crowds looking for special pieces and a good buy on their finds. Tickets for the event are $3 each and may be purchased at the door.

Having fun downtown

Jennifer Grady, director of Sanford Main Street, welcomed the crowd to downtown on Friday evening for the Calypso Night and street party to benefit the Joe Reinhart Scholarship at Seminole Community College. The annual event included dinner, Caribbean music and the opportunity to remain downtown for a little fun after work for the benefit of students at SCC who need financial assistance to attend school.

Women in business

In the early days of our nation's development, females were prevented from becoming involved in business and industry. Some of the wild west movies may have occasionally shown a woman running a saloon frequented by cattlemen, but the businesses were very often a brothel as well.

Along about World War II, we had such stalwarts as that lady of sons, Rosie the riveter, who worked in the aircraft factories and shipyards.

Then, as the 20th century continued, women became more and more involved in the business world. Thanks to a few who dared, women-owned businesses were finally accepted by the male population.

It wasn't that females were not capable of managing a business. It was merely because of male egos, carried over by our forefathers from European, Asian and African nations. They wanted women to stay home, take care of the house and raise the children.

Now we not only have females managing legitimate businesses and corporations, but their contributions are a vital part of the American economy.

Locally, there should be no doubt of the importance of business women in our society. Look at the people who have been presented with awards locally, such as the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Topper Award, various citizen achievement awards and others. Most of these honors in recent years have been presented to women.

Females hold leadership positions in our city and county governments. They head many of our civic organizations such as Sanford Lions President Joyce Fitzgerald. Just this week, Dorothy Morrison was honored by Sanford Main Street.

Today, September 22, is American Business Women's Day. It is a day on which all Americans are called on to recognize the important contribution more than 55 million American working women have made and are continuing to make to this nation.

Locally, we have some outstanding women managing businesses and maintaining top level positions. Let's not just have this observance today, but let's carry it over into this coming week, and show our female leadership that we are aware of what they do for our economy, our community, and our individual selves.

Congratulations American Business Women. You are doing an outstanding job. While some may not admit it, we couldn't do it without you.

LETTER

Candidate's position

On the article written August 28 in the Sanford Herald.

I would like to comment on the article on Lon Howell running for mayor. The section to privatize the public works department. The public works department is a big place - YES! The men and women work very hard for their city, and take high pride for the work they do for the city of Sanford.

LET ME TELL YOU LON HOWELL. How would you like to be in a position knowing the person running for mayor wants to get rid of the Public Works Department and employees.

DO YOU HAVE A FAMILY TO SUPPORT!

These employees all live in the city and pay taxes; what are they supposed to do when you get rid of them. Are you going to feed those families and pay their bills? All for 20 more police officers. What about those employees, that started with the city 10-20-years ago for minimum wage? That's the thanks they get for all the years they dedicated. Do you really think you'd win the city employees and their families' votes. I DON'T THINK SO.

As usual, Lon Howell your mouth preceded your intelligence. Let me explain to you commissioner, how the city operates. THE POLICE DEPARTMENT HAS ITS OWN BUDGET! THEY ARE PUBLIC SAFETY! Nothing to do with any other city departments.

How do you think taking away a police service will service the citizens?

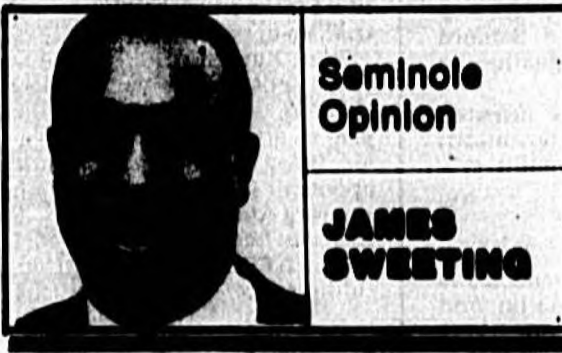

As a commissioner, if you had done your homework, you would understand how city government works. Our present mayor has tried to educate and enlighten your dog-eared mind. One day, I hope you realize that there is much more to Sanford than just the historical district.

BEFORE YOU RUN FOR MAYOR, I HOPE YOU KNOW IT TAKES MORE THAN JUST ONE DISTRICT TO ELECT YOU!

A concerned citizen,

JAMES

I am back, after several weeks hiatus due to illness and workload. In the interim, much has occurred locally, nationally and worldwide. There is always an over-abundance of materials about which to write. This fact and the appreciation for the column has encouraged me to continue.

The breath and depth of human experiences during the twentieth century make these the most interesting of times. Internationally, we are subjects of the nation of superlatives. Our least affluent citizens enjoy greater wealth, freedom, flexibility and opportunity than their poor sisters and brothers around the globe. Locally, we almost live in paradise. Sure we have problems, namely the four horses of growth: poverty, crime, drugs and pollution run across our neighborhoods.

With all of the positives going for us in this country we seem to be mired in leaders who talk about limits as opposed to possibilities. The tenor of our political debate has become more and more vitriolic, rather than confronting our human problems. Politicians should emphasize all that this country has to offer and refuse to serve in that arena. We have historical events and documents that make us believe that Americans can achieve the stars. Let US not get lost in the tar pit of shortsightedness. As I view our country, very little of the commentary forthcoming from our leaders is uplifting. They seem to be blinded to the opportunities that are within our grasp, irresponsible leadership promises everything to everybody, hoping that sufficient confusion is created and will not be discovered before the next election.

We need collective attitudinal positive adjustment which focuses on what we can do. We do not need to return to an idealized past that never was. We need to embrace the future to recognize while we are individually responsible for ourselves. We are also responsible for those who live in our communities. I recall when I began my freshman year and the chancellor gave his Acres of Diamonds speech, he challenged us with the possibilities of what we could become. My challenge to the political leaders is to the possibilities of what America is and can become in the twenty-first century if we all work together to keep this the land of opportunity for all of its citizens.

My fascination with local history

Perhaps it's my age, but more and more, I am finding some of the best entertainment in studying the past history of Sanford, Seminole County, and Central Florida. At times, I have found it more entertaining than any TV show and most live performances.

For example, I recently learned that Sanford, back in 1908, when it was part of Orange County, had a business downtown called "Sanford Pressing Club." People who joined the club for dues of $1.25 per month, could go to the club and clean and press their own clothing. The limit was 12 pieces of clothing a month, but that was apparently sufficient.

Back then, you could purchase practically all the property you wanted here in Orange County. There were 25 acres available, cleared, with operating wells, for only $4,000. Ten acres, cleared, fenced and with fine wells, at only $2,200. In modern times, the price is almost that per acre rather than the entire parcel.

I've traveled through the city and seen the various markers showing the historical beginnings of the area, such as where the forts were located. The Upsala Road cemetery also brings early history to light.

I look across Lake Monroe from the Sanford area and imagine in my mind that victors, including presidents of the United States, were still arriving on riverboats, to stay for a week or a month with County Frederick Debarry at his sumptuous mansion.

I know about the hanging that took place behind the old Sanford fire house on Palmetto Avenue. I know that there were trolley cars handling our transportation needs through First Street in the downtown area.

I know that, Sanford Avenue, then Park Avenue, were at different times, said to be the best streets in the city, where we could expect the largest commercial growth. French Avenue, (now U.S. Highway 17-92), was considered a dirt road which would never be developed.

When I attended high school near my home town in Michigan many decades ago, they had classes in Michigan history, stressing the history in the local county and surrounding areas. I learned so much, and have retained those text books, although they are probably outdated by now. (No, there weren't Indians. It wasn't that long ago.)

Today, students may learn some minor details about the State of Florida, but generally the information is contained in a paragraph of U.S. History.

Of course, even if Central Florida History was taught in our schools, it would probably be an elective course and very few teenagers would bother with it, unless it was easy to pass and a simple way to get a good grade.

In our local area, we have the Sanford Museum on E. First Street, and the Seminole County Museum at Five Points. Unless there is a teacher-initiated tour through the school system, I doubt if many teenagers bother visiting them.

Why am I intrigued by local history? Because what I have found the information I have learned thus far is exciting, interesting, and at times even humorous. But I have this opinion because of the way I have learned of it.

If it was made more interesting, I believe more of our youngsters may become involved, and as a result, learn more about our past. While some doubt the importance of local history, it is important. It tells us, in no uncertain terms, why we are where we are today.

As a result, knowing where we are today can lead to where we may want to go tomorrow.

Facing fear: The things we do

Wimp no more

Sanford: Zip-a-dee-do-dah was the name of the tune I last heard before my stomach entered my throat. With a sinking (literally) feeling, my family and I dropped five stories racing 40 mph in a large brown log on a ride otherwise known as Splash Mountain at Walt Disney World.

Our short venture with the infamous roller coaster/water slide left me wet, yet relieved and proud. You see, I chickened out in front of my friends during my last visit to the Magic Kingdom. Splash Mountain was one ride this weary body had not intended to encounter.

Don't ask me what triggered the change of heart (or insanity) recently but I braved the elements and have a picture to prove it. I wasn't getting away from there without some proof of my feat.

Humorously enough it was only after our second ride that our evidence was complete. We were told that our first image was deleted from print because a couple behind us in the Wild Ride decided to exhibit only one finger on one hand during the descent and the joyful Disney crew could not allow such a photo to be printed. Needless to say with the push of a button our first adventure became known only to the universe.

After a bit of disappointment and sharing those feelings with the staff, they offered us a no-wait, extra ride. With my daughter in tow, crying and reeking, we braved the H2O and fear. (Of course she now says she wasn't afraid at all and the ride was great.)

I can't imagine how much we can fear something but when we face the experience, it becomes a memorable moment of reflection and humor. By the way, my children gave me the same "I'm not going" reaction to the Haunted Mansion too. Of course later they recognized the hype and glitter as "not real" and enjoyed their adventure into the unknown.

Many host a "no fear" sun visor on their vehicle or adorn their bodies with the same phrase in the form of a T-shirt or baseball cap. I tend to like my son's cap "fear not" based on various scriptures in the Bible. When our hearts and minds are set on things above, we really should "fear not." Life is an adventure of living pure, helping others and spreading a little sunshine. I hope I caused a laugh or two as we plummeted down the raging waters with arms in the air and the squeals of us all. It truly was a comical sight. See for yourself.

Making a splash

Some of my friends have referred to me as a "wild and crazy girl." Although I love having a good time, a belly-splitting laugh and a great job I must admit that since I've had children I've become a real wimp when it comes to danger.

Many years ago when I was single I jumped off a 40 foot cliff while in Jamaica doing mission work. (We did take time out for relaxation. It wasn't all work.)

I found the courage to occupy many a fast ride at local fairs. I still enjoy boating

Staff Writer 'Sumo' Susan Wenger on the St. Johns River and that's dangerous in itself.

But, last year a trip to Wet-n-Wild left our youth group and my husband having all the typical challenging experiences and me in the "kiddie pool" with my kids.

I did tackle Splash Mountain at Disney. I tried water-skiing but fell face first all of the four attempts made.

Well, before you courageous souls give up on me and write me off, I've found a sport for young and old. It's well-padded and a "wild and crazy time."

Are you ready? I tried sumo-wrestling. No, not like you've seen in the movies and on television. It's a suit that over-doubles you in size and a tall hat is worn resembling the hairedo of the trade.

At a recent Christian youth rally that my family attended it was one of the side entertainment for the youth. My husband was supposed to "fight" Danny Carpenter in a mock ring.

Well, low and behold, he was recruited to help with other activities, so guess who stepped into the ring. One and only ... me.

I was a bit reluctant at first when I saw how the youth were scrambling into the outfits. You see the suits are laid on the floor, belly down. The "fighter" must crawl in and be veicered into the hot suit, causing most everyone to sweat. Not a barrel of fun.

After I was placed into the firm plastic, several people came to stand me up. I suddenly knew how those little weebles felt as my children played with them. You've heard the echo, "weebles wobble but they don't fall down." Well, I fall down.

As I looked at my partner, the brown suit was adorned with a small belt resembling a thong on the outside. The suit was also complete with a belly button and nipples. A large black hat shaped in a beehive style also completed the ensemble.

Yes ... I looked ridiculous but what fun! The object was to either knock your opponent out of the ring or "bring him to the floor." Again, as I fell, I felt no pain, just a well-padded fall.

Would I do it again? You betcha. This proclaimed wimp needs all the help I can get to stay young and adventurous. Just send me no heights, no water and a well-padded area and ... wimp no more.

EDC honors CBIS for contributions

By NICK PAPPAS
Herald Staff Writer

The Economic Development Commission of Mid-Florida held its annual Industry Appreciation Luncheon Thursday. Four companies, one each from Seminole, Lake, Orange and Ocala counties, were honored.

Selected by the EDC's Business Retention and Expansion Program, the corporation honored from Seminole County is Cincinnati Bell Information Systems, which recently held its grand opening ribbon cutting in Heathrow. After breaking ground on June 23 of this year, Cincinnati Bell (CBIS) currently occupies a $32 million 185,000 square foot building and data center complex on a 58-acre site at the Heathrow International Business Center.

The company's advanced data centers process over 75 million wireless bills and more than 45 million wordline bills annually. Others selected by the EDC include Space Master Manufacturing, Inc., in Lake County, Lucent Technologies in Orange County, and Amera Trail in Ocala County. The selections were based on company growth, leadership in current business issues and corporate citizenship.

After hours fun

Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Wanda Kelly, with back to camera, assists President Bobby Von Herbulis, in the door prize raffle during the chamber's Business After Hours gathering Tuesday at Seminole National Bank, 251 W. First Street, which acted as host for the event. Chamber members, bank officials and guests wait to see if they will be the lucky one in the drawing.

A new face for realtors

From staff reports

HEATHROW — Realtors don't expect to receive cosmetic surgery just because they were responsible for the sale of a home. But in Heathrow, the offer is being made for one particular home.

Stirling International Realty, Inc., is offering a special bonus for the participating realtor or broker responsible for selling the Nazareth Estate. The home is a spectacular five-bedroom, five-and-one-half-bath mansion.

"I really don't know if this has ever been offered before," said Stirling Partner Roger Soderstrom. "We're very interested to see how it is received by the Realtor community."

Soderstrom said Dr. Nazareth, owner of the home, is one of the most highly regarded cosmetic surgeons in the state. He is offering up to $8,500 worth of cosmetic enhancement surgery, a face-lift, tummy tuck, breast augmentation, or more, complete with anesthesia and overnight recovery if applicable.

The lakefront Heathrow estate, which includes a main house and guest house on 1 1/2 acres, lists for approximately $745,000. "The list price is substantially below what the estate is worth already,"

Soderstrom said. "I expect to have it sold within six to eight weeks."

Soderstrom said the bonus offer came about as a result of conversations with the seller, Dr. Nazareth.

"Cosmetic surgery is very common these days, even among men," Soderstrom said. "The realtor who sells this home ought to look the best he or she can, and with the very generous bonus offer made by Dr. Nazareth and his staff, well, that can be part of the transaction."

The Nazareth Estate is located in the East Camden neighborhood of Heathrow.

Investigate before you participate

ORLANDO — The Florida AIDS Health Fraud Task force will present a statewide conference on AIDS health fraud on Wednesday, Sept. 23 from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m. The event, which is designed to educate participants about AIDS health fraud prevention by defining the scope of the problem, identifying the components of AIDS health fraud and providing a list of resources and referrals for taking preventative action, will take place at the Marriott Courtyard at Lake Buena Vista in the Walt Disney World Village. There is no registration fee. To register for the conference, call Lynn Isaac at (407) 646-6663, ext. 308.

Too few internal medicine specialists

The Metropolitan Orlando area has too few internal medicine specialists. Our area is the only metropolitan area in the state to be so underrepresented, a survey by Florida Medical Management Consultants, Inc. (FMMC), reported. Using statistical analysis of the number of five internal medical sub-specialties required by most health maintenance organizations, the survey reveals an under-supply in Seminole, Orange and Ocala counties. This is the opposite of most areas of the state which simply have too many medical specialists.

HMCs utilize 104 internal medical specialists for every 100,000 enrollees. Using these figures, the survey revealed the state has twice as many in the internal medical physicians than is currently required.

However, the metro Orlando area has between three and 11 percent too few. According to Joseph M. Cahn, president of FMMC, "physicians need to walk up now to the new medical over-supply reality and move where the jobs are."

Volunteers do it 'fore' the hospital

By BARBARA SIGLER
Special to the Herald

SANFORD — It may look like a golf cart and even drive like a golf cart, but the purpose of this vehicle is very different. The "four" in this case represents the trolley driver and the three passengers being shuttled back and forth between Columbia Medical Center-Sanford and its main parking lots.

The shuttle service is offered for seven hours each day, seven days a week. It is broken down into two shifts for two different drivers running from about 8:30 a.m. until noon and again from 1 p.m. until 5 p.m.

Over the course of one day, drivers may make over 250 trips, carrying as many as 400 passengers.

It takes special dedication to be a good trolley driver. Each must be an upbeat person who can dispense a cheerful greeting and be sensitive, caring, reliable and possess a good sense of humor.

The current drivers have proven this by contributing 11,000 hours to the cause and to various other services throughout the hospital.

So far this year, they have contributed more than 2,500 hours to the hospital. Bill Meeks, trolley chairman, is known throughout the hospital for his friendly greetings and his cheerful smile.

He maintains that because the drivers are the first to meet people coming to the hospital it is very important the public knows there are, and will be, those who care about their needs. He also adds, with tongue in cheek, "where else can you pick up so many women?"

Bob Jones, auxiliary president elect, also stresses that while it is a fun service, it is also a very serious one. A friendly greeting is important, but when people leave the hospital the trolley driver is the last person to let the passenger know they care very much about the situation at that particular time in their life.

Meeks is responsible for seeing that all shifts are covered, which is not an easy task with many drivers on vacation during the summer months. The present roster is down to ten and it takes about ten people to run the service smoothly, meaning some are now covering many shifts.

What may seem like a little ride is, in actuality, a large commitment for the auxiliary.

The auxiliary has spent over $8,500 within the last year for its newest trolley and members are also responsible for the care and maintenance of the vehicle. This and other expenses are covered by various auxiliary fundraisers throughout the year in addition to the profits from the gift shop.

The trolley service is just one of the many opportunities auxiliary members have to show their concern for others.

Anyone with some free time and a desire to help should consider joining the Columbia Medical Center-Sanford auxiliary. For more information, call 321-4500, ext. 5653.

There is always something going on.

deserve. I won't allow this to happen when I am mayor. I am one of the people. My heart is their heart."

Donato says she believes that city officials often forget that the people have chosen them. In turn, these officials should be "compelled" to include the residents and merchants in all debates and decision making processes.

"Our city codes are out of control, our streets are dirty," she says. "Our neighborhoods have been infiltrated with drugs and prostitution. Our children have insufficient recreational facilities. Our citizens are afraid to take an evening stroll."

Donato wants all this to change. And change, quickly.

Although she has never run for office, Donato says she is experienced in politics and campaigning. She was a campaign assistant to Sen. Joe Tydings in Maryland.

Her business skills and knowledge include needs analysis, cost benefit analysis, cost effectiveness accounting, finance and accounting, auditing and security and strategic planning.

In addition to all this, Donato is a radio talk show host on WTRR-1400 AM. The name of her show is "Bearing Witness."

Has she plugged her mayoral campaign on the show?

"Religiously," she answers.

"Government is out of control in Sanford," Donato says. "Our problems are solvable but we need someone who cares and has the knowhow to solve them. How can we stand by and possibly lose the revenue from the regatta. Why are we spending money on one thing and forgetting about the lake front?"

"We have so much potential...so much to live for in this wonderful town. We need to sit down and address all the things we can do to make it truly magnificent."

Samaon, the Chihuahua wants some more sugar doughnut and Donato breaks it off for the dog.

"There's a shortage of honesty at city hall," Donato says, whetting her own appetite for the December election.

"Well, I'm back. I'm ready and I'm going to change things if I am elected."

Celebration

hardwood forest above. About the only sign of civilization is the Florida Trail footbridge, rebuilt from an old train trestle crossing the river just below Snowhill Road. The Florida Trail, winding through the forest above the river and through cypress domes and wire grass fields, is yet another way to enjoy the beauty and tranquility of the fragile ecosystem. Wildlife is abundant, if there have been no jet-skiers on the river and catching a glimpse of the resident bald eagle is highly likely.

The secrets of the river and the state forest will be celebrated on Saturday, Oct. 3, in conjunction with the 60th anniversary of Florida State Forests.

"The Little-Big Econ State Forest is so new that a lot of people haven't had the chance to see it," says Rep. Tom Feeny, R-Oviedo. "I think when people come out for the celebration they are going to be pleasantly surprised."

According to state forester Mike Martin, organizers of the "Little-Big Econ Celebration" utilized the resources of the annual Pioneer Days N Ways, which will not be held this year, to bring historic demonstrators to the forest. The festival at the Snowhill Road entrance to the state forest will include:

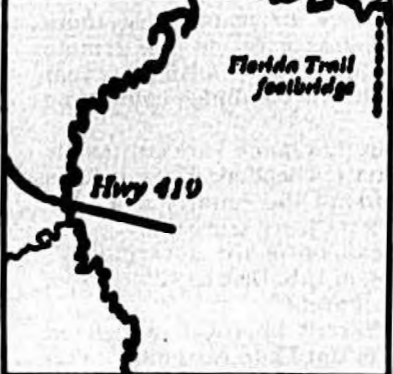

- Second Seminole Indian War camp, blacksmith, basket making, weaving, Florida Cracker presentations, wood carving, historians, story-tellers and much more.

- "I look forward to welcoming guests to the state forest on Oct. 3," says Rep. Bob Starks, R-Casselberry. "It will be a day of family fun and adventure as we celebrate the anniversary of Florida state forests and the great heritage of this state."

- Starks' work in the Florida legislature laid the ground work for the protection of the Econ River and the creation of the Little-Big Econ State Forest.

- Along with the heritage activities, many events are planned inside the forest itself. The Florida Trail Association will hold several short hikes on the trails they maintain in the forest. Other trails will also be open for horseback riding and bicycling. Experienced canoeists will provide canoe safety demonstrations on the river.

- An elite group of Central forests annually. There are two state forests in close proximity to Seminole County, the Little-Big Econ and Seminole State Forest in Lake County, just across the county line at State Road 46, at the Wekiva River.

The "Little-Big Econ Celebration" begins with opening ceremonies at 9 a.m. and concludes at 5 p.m. Admission and parking is free. Food concessions will be available.

To get to the state forest, take State Road 46 east, to Geneva, turn right on State Road 438 and veer left at the fork onto Snowhill Road. The forest entrance will be on the left.

The canoe route along a portion of the Econlochatchee River traveled by Herald Staff Writer Shari Brodie for this story.

Florida Boy Scouts, known as the Order of the Arrow, have volunteered to do a clean-up beginning at 8 a.m., along the river from S.R. 419 to the forest take-out site. Reps. Feeny and Starks will recognize the 60th anniversary and dedicate a new riverfront boardwalk during a noon ceremony, as the crew of Boy Scouts conclude their river cleanup.

The celebration will also include demonstration plantings of longleaf pines and wire grass. The wire grass and pine seedlings will re-establish the longleaf pine community that historically flourished throughout Florida and the Southeast United States.

Similar celebrations will be held in 1999, 2000, 2001, 2002, 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, 2007, 2008, 2009, 2010, 2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015, 2016, 2017, 2018, 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023, 2024, 2025, 2026, 2027, 2028, 2029, 2030.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Revelation in TWA crash

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. — The revelation that TWA Flight 800 was used to train bomb-sniffing dogs a month before the airliner went down could explain traces of explosive residue found on the plane, making it harder to prove that a bomb destroyed the aircraft, a source said.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation said Friday that the Boeing 747 jumbo jet was used in June to train bomb-sniffing dogs, and government officials said the explosives in those exercises could account for the traces of chemical residue found on recovered wreckage.

"This discovery would definitely hurt any attempt to build a circumstantial case of a bomb destroying the aircraft," a source close to the investigation told The Associated Press. "Now we would definitely need pitting or blast damage to prove there was a bomb placed on board."

Investigators have been stymied for two months in determining what caused the jet to plunge into the Atlantic Ocean July 17, killing all 230 people on board.

Diary details bombings

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — For nearly 20 years, prosecutors say, a reclusive former math professor sat in his remote Montana cabin and penned entries in a long, detailed diary that described each and every one of the 16 bombings committed by the Unabomber.

"I mailed that bomb" and "I sent that bomb" are entries the government plans to use to convict Theodore Kaczynski of sending mail bombs to people around the country since the 1970s, Assistant U.S. Attorney Robert Cleary said Friday.

"These documents are the backbone of the government's case," Cleary said during a hearing in U.S. District Court to set a trial date. Kaczynski, 54, was not present.

U.S. District Judge Gariand Burrell approved a defense request to delay setting a trial date until late November, after attorneys said the defense needs more time to develop legal strategy. Kaczynski did not attend the hearing.

Human rights abuses

WASHINGTON — A U.S.-run academy for Latin American military officers used training manuals that contained references to executions, beatings and other human rights abuses, the Pentagon says in a disclosure that prompted renewed calls for the school's closing.

The Pentagon on Friday released English translations of some of the phrases that officials said were contained in the original Spanish-language manuals used at the U.S. Army's School of the Americas from 1987 to 1991.

Military college goes co-ed

LEXINGTON, Va. — Virginia Military Institute opened its barracks and parade grounds to women on Saturday, retiring from 157 years of male-only tradition as the price of keeping its public funds.

The decision came nearly three months after the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that VMI's exclusion of women was unconstitutional.

While The Citadel in South Carolina decided in just two days to go along with the decision, VMI had put off acting while it weighed the possibility of going private to preserve its traditions and discipline.

The VMI board voted 9-8 on Saturday to admit women by the fall of 1987. The Citadel already has admitted four female cadets for the current year.

Both Gov. George Allen and state legislators had urged VMI to go along with the Supreme Court's ruling. Many alumni strongly opposed allowing women into the school in the Blue Ridge Mountains.

"It's a sad day for VMI. It's a sad day for the state and it's a sad day for the nation as far as I'm concerned," said Robert Patterson, a 1943 graduate and lead attorney for the legal effort to exclude women.

If VMI had decided to go private rather than admit women on equal footing with men, the school would have had to raise a minimum endowment of $200 million to generate the $10 million in annual operating funds now supplied by the state, according to VMI Superintendent Josiah Bunting III.

The alumni also might have had to buy the campus, valued at $137 million.

While the school studied the issue, about 80 women had requested information about applying to VMI since the Supreme Court ruling on June 26.

Adios, Dr. Deju

Dr. Jorge Deju is retiring as the director of the Seminole County Public Health Unit at the end of this month. Deju, who has led the public health unit since 1978, was feted at a retirement party thrown by his staff on Friday. The party, featuring music, food and fun was attended by many members of the public health unit staff, his family and some friends, including Deju's wife, Sylvia, center, and Ann Stevenson, right.

during the month since the changes were first announced. During that time, residents have the chance to voice their opinion on any subject.

There has been concern over the security deposit at all meetings, Hudson admits, but no one has filed a formal complaint.

In a letter to the board of county commissioners, Hudson addressed the issue:

"As of this date, the agency has received no written comments regarding the proposed Rental Agreement Revision... (during Management chat) residents voiced concerns that the additional $150 in security deposits imposed a financial problem. Please be reminded that rent is based on 30 percent of adjusted gross income with an allowance for utility expenses. This leaves 70 percent of adjusted gross income to manage other living expenses."

Those living in Sanford Housing Authority units already can pay the additional security fee over a 24 month period (less than $6.50 per month).

Hudson's proposed changes to the lease included:

• Raising the security deposit to $250 per unit. The deposit is currently $100.

• Giving the housing authority the right to raise the security deposit if an annual inspection "shows the property is being abused." If the deposit is not paid within 10 days, eviction proceedings will begin.

• Children under 18 will be held to a 9 p.m. curfew. Parents are responsible for their children and must be sure they comply with the curfew.

• Any act which "infringes on the rights of other tenants" will be considered grounds for eviction.

• There will be no public consumption of alcohol on housing authority property.

• There will be no unauthorized gatherings on housing authority property.

Hudson hopes to get police cooperation in enforcing those two rules. If they are adopted by the housing authority, he noted.

Hudson will also propose that the housing authority pass a rule that all individuals who are not residents or guests of residents leave public housing property by 11 p.m. or face arrest on trespassing charges.

He said most of the concepts incorporated into the lease changes were suggested by residents.

"Some residents wanted us to close off alleyways or turn off lights after 11 p.m.," he said.

Noting the inherent danger of such solutions, he said the housing authority staff and the residents have agreed on the proposed changes. The full housing authority board will have to approve the lease and policy changes before they can be placed in effect.

A change in the lease last year made residents responsible for the actions of the members of their households and their guests by making it possible for the housing authority to evict all residents of a unit from which one member was arrested on drug or violence charges.

school," Rae Marie says. "And I was a shy girl on the sidelines. I was active in music and was a majorette."

"Did anyone notice me like they did Tim Raines? ...no, I don't think so."

Rae Marie says, giggling at the absurdity of the thought.

And, even more absurdly she recalls going to watch him play at Atlanta Stadium 10 years ago against the Braves.

"I tried to get down close to where the players were before the game but I couldn't," she says. "I was going to call out to him but I was still too shy. He wouldn't have remembered me, anyhow."

There was a time when Rae Marie wished to perform before live audiences as does Raines. Music was her first passion and while a song remains in her heart, she now works alone.

"This," she says, "gives me certain privileges that a musician or say, Tim Raines, don't have. If I make an error, I can fix it up before anyone else notices."

Surely, art fanciers will see sheer perfection when they meet and see Rae Marie's work at the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts. Here's already a buzz about her painter, and the artist herself is eager to see what her big cat looks like on the festival T-shirts.

"I'm going to get myself two of them," she says, excitedly. "One to frame, the other to wear."

Rae Marie says she met her painter this summer at the Florida Zoological Park in Sanford. She took along a camera and photographed the animal from a distance. At times, she wanted to climb a fence and get closer. To look right into the animal's eyes if she could.

"It's important to know exactly what he looked like, so I could paint it exactly the way it is," she says.

A zoom lens helped.

It took two weeks for Rae Marie to complete her pastel on suede. Two weeks of sheer joy followed by a huge, "yeah."

When she showed it to family and friends and then the festival people, there were a chorus of "yeahs."

Forgive Rae Marie now as she dreams about her own studio, perhaps in historic downtown Sanford. Enough money to pay the rent. A place to show and sell her art. A place in the art world.

"A few months ago I thought I had lost just about everything," she says. "Then suddenly everything seemed falling into place. I want this to last forever. I want the music to keep playing and the festival to never end."

Thailand leader steps down

BANGKOK, Thailand — Battered by corruption allegations and blamed for the flagging economy, Thailand's prime minister announced his resignation Saturday in a bid to save face and his ruling coalition.

Banharn Silpa-archa promised to turn over power in seven days to a member of his six-party coalition, opening the way for what is likely to be fierce jockeying among potential successors.

"I'm tired," Banharn said. "I've done the best I could in my job."

The pledge to quit came minutes before a confidence vote in parliament and secured the backing of Banharn's balky political partners, saving him the ignominy of being instantly toppled and forced to call new elections.

siderable time. "They apparently just got around to compiling a specific list," he said.

Hudson said the money will be used in the continuing piecemeal modernization of Lake Monroe Terrace. The 100 unit complex is located off Third Street in Sanford.

"To do the entire 100 units," he said, "is estimated at $2.5 million. We have already modernized 16 units, and this money will go toward what we hope will be 20 more units."

While the Sanford Housing Authority received more than the Palatka or Ocala Housing Authority, the amount was by no means the largest.

The most HUD money announced by Brown was over $5.3 million granted to the Orlando Housing Authority, and $5.2 million to the Jacksonville Housing Authority.

Additionally, $30,000 is to go to the Housing and Neighborhood Development Services of Central Florida, to provide housing counseling for one year to homebuyers, homeowners and renters, and $100,000 to the Consumer Credit Counseling Service of Central Florida, Inc.

"I'm extremely pleased that the Third District will be able to use this money to improve the conditions of public housing, as well as assist people in purchasing a home," Comptroller Brown said.

Brown also announced over $8.7 million is being awarded by HUD for homeless providers in the district. They include approximately $1.1 million to various organizations in Volusia County, and approximately $8 million in Orange County.

Blake can't help

Even with NFL star in stands, Tribe falls

Seminole High School principal Gretchen Schapker hands a jersey and a plaque to former SHS star Jeff Blake after the Cincinnati Bengals quarterback had his No. 2 jersey retired in a ceremony Friday night.

SANFORD — Quarterback Shawn Eason met Jeff Blake and an agonizing defeat Friday — and believes he learned a great deal from both.

"Jeff told me to keep on working hard and to be patient about gaining success," Eason said.

Seminole High's 18-0 loss Friday night to Lake Howell made Eason all the more determined to turn the beat around for his team, which has lost its first three games and has a tough, tough date at Titusville High next Friday night.

Blake, a former Seminole who is now a star NFL quarterback for the Cincinnati Bengals attended a rally at his old high school Friday and was honored before the game when his No. 2 jersey was retired.

"I remember you when you were a kid in Pop Warner football," Blake told Eason. "Man, you had some energy."

Eason, a senior, ran into a lot of bad luck and some nasty hits against Lake Howell. He injured his right ankle early and re-injured it in the second half after a late hit.

"Shawn wouldn't stay out," said coach Ernie MacPhearson. "He insisted we get him back in the game. He's a tough kid, a proud kid. And I've said it from day one this year, as Shawn goes so goes the team."

"He deserved a better fate against Lake Howell — the team deserved better. We had a couple of punts blocked, we didn't pick up our blocking assignments and we had

WINTER PARK — Recently described as a "decoy" in the offensive attack of the Oviedo High School football team, running back Leroy Jackson showed he was the genuine article Friday night.

Jackson rushed for 143 yards and a touchdown to lead the undefeated Oviedo Lions (3-0) to a 35-25 come-from-behind win over the host Winter Park Wildcats (1-2) Friday at Showalter Field.

"I felt like I had something to prove tonight," said Jackson, a 5-8 junior. "I wanted to show what I can do."

Jackson, quarterback Andy Neufeld, and the Scott brothers, Jaime and Leon, give the Lions a deep and versatile backfield. And while each has contributed in the Lions' first two wins, Jackson has been overlooked, largely because he hadn't figured in the scoring.

He finally found the end.

LAKE MARY — After a while, you had to feel for the Lake Mary defense. In the end, though, the Rams proved it is better to win ugly than to lose pretty.

The Rams hosted their home opener Friday at Don T. Reynolds Stadium and scratched out a 3-0 victory against previously undefeated Dr. Phillips which came into the game with a reputation for having possibly the best defense in Central Florida. Lake Mary came in a week after a gut wrenching loss in which its defense surrendered 32 points.

The loss came to SAC favorite Oviedo but the Rams played about as well as they possibly could in the defeat. Something happened during the week and, all of a sudden, the Lake Mary defense was untoppable as the Rams survived with a little bit of help from the Dr. Phillips special teams.

Kris Kessler won the game with a 26-yard chip shot field goal midway through the third quarter to cap off Lake Mary's only major scoring opportunity of the evening. The score came after Panthers' backup quarterback Eddie Nix, playing in place of starter Jabu Powell, fumbled at midfield after a vicious hit by a host of Rams.

The score wouldn't have been possible without the intense defensive play from linemen Jason Wyse and

Lyman clicks heals and finds 'Kansas' to liking

By RYAN ANDERSON
Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD — The Lyman Greyhounds clicked their heals together three times and found themselves victorious over the Edgewater Eagles 12-6 in double overtime at the Carlton D. Henley Athletic Complex Friday night.

After the game ended in a scoreless tie at the end of regulation, the teams were forced to decide the outcome in a Kansas Tiebreaker.

"We had been in Kansas Tiebreaker situations before so we weren't too concerned," Lyman coach Larry Baker said. "We sat the guys down and explained what a Kansas tiebreaker was and what we needed to do. Once we told them what it was they were real excited."

In a Kansas Tiebreaker each team has four plays to score from their opponent's 10-yard line. The pattern continues until one team fails to score, or one team scores more points.

After winning the toss in the first overtime, the Greyhounds did something they had been unable to do for the previous 48 minutes; score. Lyman leapt on the scoreboard with a one-yard run by quarterback Ryan Aring. The extra point attempt failed giving the Greyhounds a 6-0 lead with the Eagles up to bat with their four chances to score.

The Eagles answered with six points of their own three plays later. The Edgewater point after attempt was blocked forcing the game into a second overtime.

What's Up in the NFL 1996...Week Four

Well folks here we are, Week Four of the season, and I am on fire so much fire, that I used some of my proceeds to buy a fire damaged pad down the street. Once again I find myself spending all of my free time counting last week's winnings. The IRS has now asked me to provide records on the wads of cash that are stacked throughout my house. On Sunday night, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers as my LOCK OF THE WEEK, not only covered the giant spread, but nearly won the game. This my fine friends elevates my LOCK record to a stunning 3-0. In other words, those of you that started with $100 would NOW have $600. Tax-free, effort-free money. I take that back, you big spenders would have to buy the Herald to read this column, a whopping $2.25. Anyway, let's discuss last week's action.

BRADY LESSARD

Indianapolis put my friend James in the hole as they relied to a surprising (for those of you who didn't read my column last week) victory against the ailing Cowboys. The Steelers pulled out a giant win against the Bills, which proves that they still have the talent to contend. New England bounced back (as predicted) and crushed the worst team in the league. Houston looks pretty good as they continue to collect wins. The season is shaping up as one of the best in recent history.

Let's take a look at Sunday's schedule and find some winners.

TAMPA BAY (-7) vs. ARIZONA. Although the Pege continues the lawsuit battle to remove the Saints' name from the franchise, he'll have reason to smile this week. The Cardinals are horrible and the Saints are at home. The Yats will be partying all night long. Saints 28 Cardinals 10

KANSAS CITY (-5) vs. DENVER. This is a great rivalry. I was planning to make this game my LOCK after the Broncos' poor performance on Sunday night. This will sound crazy, but not only will the Broncos cover, "They Shall Win." Broncos 24 Chiefs 21 (in overtime, 1 guarantee it.)

GREEN BAY (-7) at MINNESOTA. This game seems to be an easy one to pick, it's not. The Packers are 0-4 at the Metrodome under Mike Holmgren, but this year should be a little easier. While I think the Pack will win this one, I can't promise they'll cover. Packers 25 Vikings 20

NEW ENGLAND (-8) vs. JACKSONVILLE. The Patriots are coming off their first win of the year, but remember it was the Cardinals. I like the Jags to play this one close after the heartbreaker in Oakland. If you have to bet it, and I do, take the points and run to the bank. Patriots 20 Jaguars 20

NEW YORK vs. NEW YORK. This battle of losers really doesn't deserve my professional commentary. I must admit, however, I have $30 on the Jets. Run Keyshawn, run! Jets 23 Giants 17

SAN FRANCISCO (-10) at CAROLINA. Last year these teams split games when the Panthers ran to a giant upset special. I can't see giving up ten points on the road. I'll take the Panthers at home in this one. Jack. Niners 28 Panthers 21

SEATTLE (-3) at TAMPA BAY. I'm sorry, but even the Bucs should not be underdogs against Seattle. The Bucs will not only win this game but they will make the bookies pay for the insult. Get out of my face Seattle! Bucs 19 Seahawks 9

ST. LOUIS (-2) vs. WASHINGTON. The Skins are improving, but not this much. The Rams will play tough defense and win this game in a close one. Lawrence "They let me out of cuffs" Phillips will have a huge day. Rams 20 Skins 17

DETROIT (-4) vs. CHICAGO. The Lions will bounce back in this one after a pathetic performance against the Eagles. The Bears are so beaten up, they've been dropped by their insurance. Lions 24 Bears 13

DALLAS (-8) at BUFFALO. Dallas will be looking to make up for the loss to the Colts. They travel to Buffalo where the injured Jim Kelly will be watching from the sidelines. The Cowboys need the win desperately. Cowboys 35 Bills 13

OAKLAND (-3) vs. SAN DIEGO. The Oakland Cheaters, I mean Raiders, are feeling good after getting Hostetler back for the win against the Jaguars. However they have only managed three touchdowns in as many games, all by Tim Brown. The Chargers will take Brown out of the picture with their speedy defense and their offense will love passing against the Raiders' backfield. Chargers 27 Raiders 20

ATLANTA (-2) vs. PHILLY. The Eagles will prove they can compete by thumping this over-rated, under-performing Falcon squad. Possible LOCK OF THE WEEK material in this one. Eagles 24 Falcons 3

INDIANAPOLIS (-2) vs. MIAMI. Jimmy Johnson and crew get their first big test as they travel to the RCA Dome for a showdown with the gutsy Colts. After sweeping the Dolphins last year, I see no reason why they can't beat them on national television Monday Night. This is the best Monday Night game so far, so don't miss it. Colts 27 Dolphins 24

Each week I issue what I consider to be the best pick against the spread in the schedule. This is the game that after research and contemplation, I feel most confident about releasing as my LOCK OF THE WEEK. With the holidays just around the corner, I've decided to give another performance of my patented DOUBLE LOCK OF THE WEEK. I dare my doubters to challenge me this week. I'm going out on a limb as thin Richard Simmons couldn't hide behind it. TAMPA BAY (+3) against SEATTLE will easily take care of the first half. The second half will be another easy one as NEW ORLEANS (-7) beat the CARDINALS so badly they'll be dumped on Bourbon Street after the game. Tourists will pour hurricanes on them in a futile attempt to revive them. Take note, both of my LOCK selections are 0-3. Tampa is being used for the second week in a row! These are the calls that make me a professional, as others do this as a hobby. Good luck this week, and don't worry about showing the house today, they'll call back.

GFC sets dates for early duck and dove seasons in Florida

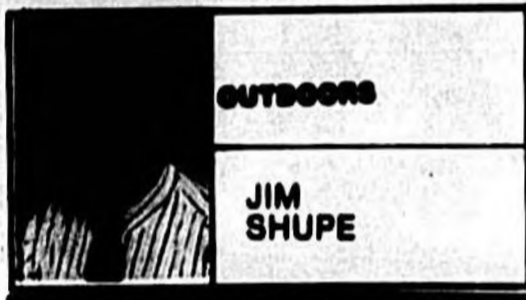

The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) recently announced season dates for this year's early duck and dove seasons in Florida.

The early duck season is set for Sept. 21-25. The early season daily bag limit is any combination of four teal or wood ducks. Non-toxic shot is required during this season.

Previously, dove season opened in September in the GFC's Northwest Hunting Zone.

The first phase of the statewide dove season is Oct. 5-28 (shooting hours are from noon to sunset). The second and third phases are Nov. 16-Dec. 1 and Dec. 14-Jan. 13. Hunters may take up to 12 birds daily. However, only four birds may be white-winged doves.

For taking migratory game birds, hunters may use shotguns not larger than 10-gauge, plugged to a three-shell capacity with a one-piece filler which cannot be removed without disassembling the gun. Also, long and compound bows and, arrows, falconry, dogs, artificial decoys and manual or mouth-operated bird calls are legal hunting methods for migratory bird hunting.

It is illegal to bait (place feed such as corn, wheat, salt or other feed to constitute a lure or enticement) or hunt on or over any baited areas.

SNIPP'S SCOOP
IT MAY SOUND A LITTLE STRANGE, BUT DOVE DECOYS ACTUALLY WORK. MANY OLD TIMERS PLACE A FEW FAKE BIRDS ON LIMBS OR OTHER OBVIOUS LOCATIONS TO LURE IN PASSING BIRDS.

FISHING FORECAST
Bass fishing continues to be tough. November will mark the beginning of greatly improved fishing. In the meantime, fish at night or at times of low light. In the river, fish areas with running water. Bass tend to hold in these areas due to bait movement and good water flow.

Snook continue to be the main attraction at Fowee Inlet. Large live shrimp or small baitfish are producing good numbers of fish in the 7-15 pound range. For the best results, fish slowly near bottom structure in current eddies. Snapper, redfish, jack crevalle and small bluefish are also mixed in. Snook and tarpon are active in the Sebastian River.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore action is spotty. The best fishing is taking 60 miles out, on the other side of the gulf stream, with yellowfin tuna. Captain Mike Cain of Whitewater Charters has been bringing home around 10 fish per trip in the 40-50 pound category. Inside the Port, sheepshead and flounder are very dependable. Trout and redfish are fair on the flats of the Banana and Indian Rivers.

Swarms of medium-sized sheepshead are biting live shrimp and fiddler crabs at Fowee Inlet. Drum, redfish, bluefish and jack crevalle are also roaming the rocks. Trout and redfish are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoon.

some passes dropped." Hobbling on his bum right ankle as the final seconds ticked off the clock and Lake Howell had the ball, Eason talked about the future.

"Jeff Blake inspired me today," he said. "I was thrilled he took the time to talk with me, to encourage me and assure me that everything would turn out fine."

"Here's a guy I saw play when I was a little kid and who I watch now on TV. And he was once where I am now. I think the Seminoles lost the first three games his senior year and then they turned it on."

With Blake in the stands rooting for him, Eason couldn't make it happen against Lake Howell (3-0).

"We know Eason could hurt us," said Lake Howell coach Mike Biocchia. "Every time he sprouts out with the ball, you know there may be trouble. He's fast and he's talented."

Biocchia got another big game from running back Lucious Cooper and an even better performance from 16-year-old sophomore Christian DeJesus.

DeJesus, who began the year as a backup quarterback and was moved into a running back slot, darted 17 yards for Lake Howell's first touchdown as the first quarter ended. The PAT attempt failed.

The Silver Hawks went up, 12-0, when Harold Lercius Ceus blocked a punt and ran it into the end zone with 3:24 to go in the second quarter.

DeJesus, taking over for injured quarterback Matt Mara (ankle twist), set up Lake Howell's third score with a nifty 21-yard keeper. Cooper went the next six for a touchdown.

The Seminoles were bogged down the entire first half, gaining only one first down, but came back to mount a couple decent drives in the second half. An unprofessional conduct penalty cost them once and a then there was a bad turnover.

Jeff Blake's presence stimulated a lot of excitement, especially at halftime when he signed several hundred autographs for fans who bought 99 pictures of him, 995 Cincinnati Bengals jerseys and 915 T-shirts.

What no one could buy was a touchdown for the Seminoles.

That's a dilemma coach MacPhearson and quarterback Shawn Eason must work on this week.

"We're not about to quit," Eason said.

Rams

Richard Redger. The two spent more time in the Dr. Phillips backfield than on their own side as they blocked passes, stuffed everything the Panthers threw at them and caused havoc all over the field.

One play after Redger sacked Nix six yards back, he helped cause the fumble and recovered to give the Rams a shot from the Panther 41. Wyce was in on the hit.

"We just knew we had to make it up tonight," Wyce said. "We were in the right place at the right time."

After two-and-a-half quarters of going nowhere, the Lake Mary offense turned to the officials for help. Facing a second down, quarterback Shaun St. Dennis fired downfield and an early hit caused a pass interference penalty which moved the ball to the 26.

Bobby Davidowits, playing for the first time all season after an injury, carried to the 11 on a draw play and St. Dennis followed with a dart to receiver Shane Burke on a crossing pattern. The drive stalled but Eason's kick gave the Rams all they would need.

From there, it almost got ugly for the Rams. On their next drive, St. Dennis was picked off by Panther Tyce Whyte. All that saved the Rams from giving up the lead was a game-saving tackle from St. Dennis but another interception on the next Lake Mary drive almost ended it.

St. Dennis was picked by Matthew Williams who brought it all the way to the Lake Mary three. Once again, a tired Lake Mary defense trudged onto the field to protect their three points and, as it had all night, they held.

Dr. Phillips missed on a 29-yard chip shot and that was as close as anyone came to putting the scoreboard operator to work.

For Lake Mary, last week's defense was the main concern. This week, it could be the offense as the Rams prepare for Lyman which is off to a surprising 2-1 start. The game will be played Don T. Reynolds Stadium next Friday starting at 7:30 p.m.

St. Dennis had a good night except for the two interceptions, completing nine of 13 for 77 yards. Running back Drew Young, who entered the game as the leading rusher in Central Florida was held to 30 yards on 20 carries. Senior offensive lineman Danny Johnson said his unit didn't get the job done.

"Dr. Phillips just outwitted us," Johnson said. "We just didn't block like we wanted to. This week, we're going to hit the blocking sleds until we throw up."

Mr. and Mrs. James Lee descend the steps of the First United Methodist Church following their wedding on Sept. 11, 1946.

The marriage of James and Luticia Lee in 1946 marked the second of four generations to be married in the First United Methodist Church of Sanford. Also, these four generations of brides were spotlighted in the Sanford Herald social news.

After 50 years of marriage, Jim and Tish Lee, stand in the sanctuary of the church where they were married and still attend.

Lees wed 50 years, club hosts district workshop

James and Luticia ("Jim and Tish") Lee are proud of their numerous experiences and challenges along the road of life including their church affiliation. Their generation is one of six to attend the First United Methodist Church of Sanford where they were married Sept. 11, 1946.

Tish's mother was also married in the church as well as the Lees' daughter, Kathy Dingle of Lakeland, and Kathy's daughter, Lee Dotson of Orlando.

Born in Sanford to the late Ernest and Eleanor Gormly, Tish's only sibling was her brother Charles, now deceased. Jim moved with his parents, the late James and Vellie Lee, to Sanford 10 years ago.

While the winds of World War II were raging, Jim was serving his country with the U.S. Army Military Police which included assignment in China and India. After returning from active duty, Jim attended Stetson University in DeLand where he majored in accounting and graduated with a B.A. degree in business in August, 1949. His youngest supporter at graduation was daughter Kathy who was born in April, 1949. He is retired from the Florida Department of Corrections as administrator of Parole Services for Seminole and Brevard Counties. He got his start with the state commission in Orange and Osceola Counties and spent 31 1/2 years in this work.

Following the 11 a.m. church service Sunday, Sept. 15, where the entire family worshiped in a group, 31 family members gathered at Sanford's Rose Cottage Tea Room for an anniversary feast. The celebration began with a champagne toast and the highlight of the event was the family excitedly discussing granddaughter Lee Dotson who expects to present her grandparents with their first great grandchild next April, her mother's birth month.

Another exciting event was daughter Linda reading her parents wedding account which appeared in the Sanford Herald 50 years ago. Four generations of brides have been featured in the Herald's social news.

Among the guests was Tish's maid of honor at her wedding, Katherine Spencer Fletcher, formerly of Sanford, now of Altamonte Springs. "It was neat. We had a wonderful day," Tish said.

The Lees have three children, Lee, of Charlotte, N.C., of Lakeland, and Linda Malczowski of Sanford. Their three grandchildren are Lee Dotson and Jamie Dingle, both of Orlando, and Joshua Malczowski of Sanford.

Tish has always been a homemaker and she and Jim have always been very active in their church. They spend a lot of

Breakfast in Sanford stresses importance of prayer

St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church held the Annual Prayer Breakfast on Saturday, Sept. 14. Crooms Academy dining hall was the setting for this special time of prayer sponsored by the Christian Education Committee.

The theme for this year was taken from James 4:2, "Ye Have Not Because Ye Ask Not". Representatives from various churches in Central Florida were present.

St. Paul's Pastor Amos Jones, presided. Guest musician, recording artist, Vernon "Papa" Jones, sang, "Keep on Praying and Heaven's Door Will Unlock" and "Somebody Prayed For Me".

Pastor Paul Wright, Calvary Apostolic Temple Church, keynote speaker, spoke about "the incomprehensible effects of prayer". He noted that "Prayer is a two-way conversation. We need to give God a chance to communicate with us. Give him a chance to tell us what he wants from us; and don't be afraid to follow God's instructions." He admonished the audience to teach children to pray; teach them that God works through parents to provide for their needs. "When my children ask me for something, I tell them to pray about it."

Prayer of general praise was offered by Rev. Terry Brock, Mt. Olive M.B. Church, Longwood. A special prayer for children was offered by all. The youth of St. Paul, Kevin Stallworth, Brooke Francis, William Kirby and Julius Francis, gave a special musical presentation. The audience recited in unison a prayer for children. The Christian Education Committee expresses their thanks and appreciation to the American Culinary Federation, Central Florida Chapter, Inc.; Crooms Academy; Ernie Culbreath, and to all who helped to make this occasion a success. Proceeds benefit the Castle Brewer Scholarship Fund.

Hobbyist of the Week

Bears seem to hibernate in home

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Cuddly cubs and big grizzly bears inhabit the home of Mollie Recca. All represent her hobby of collecting bears.

Now, before one calls the Central Florida Zoological Park or the health department, keep in mind they are all perfectly harmless and very stuffed. Maybe they haven't figured out that their time of hibernation is over.

But if Recca has her way these furry creatures and the many others she has in storage can use her Sanford home as a cave any day. She said, "They are so fascinating to me. Their expressions are so different and interesting. Sometimes I even talk to them because they look like they just might answer back."

With all these guard bears around Recca has little fear of intruders. Would you hurt a little lady when an open door revealed over 200 sets of ferocious eyes staring back at you?

All in all though Recca said, "I just love teddy bears. I used to go to the store and buy them clothes to dress them up. Now I just put them in baskets and have them all over the place."

In fact, her wall to wall collection hosts bears of wood, ceramic, glass, stuffed, plastic canvas, cloth and jewelry. Bears of clocks, fork and spoon sets, cookie jars, canisters, shower curtains, magnets, clothing, pins and earrings all hold the image that she loves.

She sat daintily among the cuddlers as she wore a sweat-shirt of teddy bears with several gold teddy pins attached and snuggled with a stuffed bear from a Christmas collection. Even a panda bear made its way between the brown fur and poined with a sign that read, "endangered younguns."

Mollie Recca, surrounded by cuddly bears, wears a bear shirt and gold teddy pins.

This 18-year collection actually began as somewhat of a joke to one of her granddaughters. "My granddaughter was over to visit one day," said Recca. "She had her teddy bear with her. As she was getting ready to leave she wanted her bear and I teased her and said 'no, that's grandma's bear.' She started to cry so I gave it back to her. Then she looked at me and said, 'grandma can have this teddy bear' and smiled. I've collected them ever since."

Recca added that her collection has grown because "everyone collects them for me." When holidays and special days roll around family and friends know just what to purchase for this charming lady. Although some of her bear buddies still remain in storage due to the lack of space in her apartment. Bears ranging from a one-half inch pin to a six foot stuffed bear that is housed in her storage area Recca dearly loves one and all. A "mascot" black bear sits in her living room to ward off any questionable characters.

Some of her green plants even have homes in teddy bear planters. A kitchen of pot holders, placemats, salt and pepper shakers, rugs, pictures, candles and candy dishes also adorn her comfortable home. Yet, some of her 25 sets of salt and pepper shakers don't hold the bear image. This collection of sets from all over the U.S. was a former hobby.

Recca added that one of her favorites now is clothed with a small pink dress. "I found that one at a yard sale," she said.

"When you lay her down the eyes close and she goes to sleep."

Another sentimental treasure was a gift from her son. "That bear is a PAWS ornament," she mentioned. "The shoes are a little ragged like she's walked very far. The mother bear is holding a baby bear."

A guardian angel bear was another special gift that's close to her heart. A large, sturdy Teddy Ruxpin also sat with an ear to ear grin.

Recca has been a Sanford resident for 20 years. She formerly volunteers regularly at coffee hour with Brams Towers and at the Senior Center.

She has five children, Corbin, Tommy, Benny, Jimmie and Kathleen, nine grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Contest open to high school, adult poets

High school and adult poets are eligible to enter the annual Poetry Day contests sponsored by the six Volusia County chapters of the Florida State Poets Association. Cash prizes and other awards will be presented at a celebration on Saturday, Oct. 12, at 1:30 p.m. at the New Port Orange Library.

There are three contests this year: students in grades 9-12, no entry fee; non-members of FSPA, $1.00 entry fee for each poem; and FSPA members, $1.00 for each poem. The poems may be in any form on any subject no longer than one page. Each poet may submit up to three poems. Mail deadline for entry is postmark Sept. 27.

Prizes awarded in each contest: $25 for first place; $15 for second place; and $10 for third place. In addition, three Honorable Mentions will be given in each category.

All entries must be the original work of the poet, never published, and not entered in any other contest. Send two typed copies of each poem; category number in upper left corner on both; no personal identification on original; name, address, telephone number, and school (if student) on duplicate sheet.

Send your entry and check or money order made out to TOMOKA POETS to: Poetry Contest, 20 Plaza Drive; Ormond Beach, Fla. 32176.

The contests are open to poets in Flagler, Lake, and Seminole counties where there are no FSPA chapters.

AARP airs election-year issues; talent show held

Nydia Gesto sings "Angel Baby" in Greenwood Lake Middle School talent show.

The Lake Mary chapter of the AARP held its first post-summer meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 17, at the Frank Evans Center. The group asked for help for an upcoming RSVP project. The Retired Senior Volunteer Program members will hold work days at the Frank Evans Center on Oct. 8 and Oct. 15 to complete their Neewollah ghosts. The ghosts are made from blow pops and toilet paper and are to be given out as safety reminders for Halloween. RSVP is a national organization; in 1995 they contributed more than one million volunteer hours.

Medicare is also surrounded by myths. Only 2% of the cost of Medicare is spent on administration. Fraud is still a problem, but methods of fraud prevention are being looked into.

Long-term care is a concern that keeps growing. As the population ages and medical care improves, there will be more and more people needing long-term care. At present, Medicare only pays for the first 60 days of a nursing home and only if the person enters straight from the hospital to recuperate from an operation or an illness.

Tax reform is kicked around every election year. Several politicians have proposed a flat tax. The trouble with a flat tax is, whose formula do you follow. Everyone proposes a different one. Also of concern is the homestead exemption. Almost every year, someone proposes cutting this exemption. The effects it would have on elderly homeowners and homeownership in general is being discussed.

Campaign reform is long overdue. On average, a member of Congress spends $500,000 to get elected and re-elected. For members of the Senate, the cost increases dramatically, anywhere from $4 million to $12 million. Of the funds raised for campaigning, 40% come from PAC's (political action committees). Currently, there is no limitation on how much any individual can spend on his or her own campaign. Also of concern is the soft money. People can contribute as much as they want to a political party. Ideally, this money is supposed to be spent to promote the party; but, more often than not, it is used to support individual candidates.

AARP announced RSVP's latest project. RSVP will be collecting used shoes. They need ladies, men's and kids shoes. The shoes will be refurbished, if necessary, and sent to Central and South America and Africa. The Frank Evans Center will be one of the drop-off locations in this area.

John Scheirman, the Lake

Henry Jehan, John Scheirman and Dee Buckland with shoe donations for RSVP project.

Mary AARP's Congressional District Team Member, gave the legislative report. A new welfare reform passed. John admitted he hadn't had time to read the whole bill. But at 400 pages, that's pretty understandable. The immediate effects of the bill are: it ends cash payments to poor children; the head of the household must work after two years on welfare; and it cuts benefits to non-citizens. At the state level, poker is now legal in Jai Lai and dog tracks. Charter schools passed, as did a bill giving parents the right to spank their children.

After a cookie and coffee break, John Scheirman spoke again. He was the program speaker for the meeting. John updated members on AARP concerns for this election year. AARP has five concerns: social security, Medicare, long term care, tax reform and campaign reform.

Despite what some people believe, the social security trust fund is in good shape until the year 2030. At that time, the fund will be putting out more money than it takes in. Currently, there are 42 million participants on social security. Of that 42 million, 3 million are disabled, 3 million are children, 5 million are surviving spouses and 31 million are collecting retirement benefits. Several options have been proposed to help the fund for future generations. Social security can reduce COLAs (cost of living adjustments), raise taxes on beneficiaries, and raise the retirement age. Part of this has already been done. In the year 2000, the retirement age will be raised to 67.

The Florida Sunshine Rehabilitation Clinic will be at the Frank Evans Center twice next week. On Monday, Sept. 23 from 11:00 a.m. to noon, the program will be "Alternative to Pain." Free blood pressure checks will be available. The clinic will also be there on Tuesday, Sept. 24, from 9:30 a.m.-10:30 a.m. to inform people of the services available at the clinic.

The Alheimers Support Group for caregivers will meet Wednesday, Sept. 25 from 10 a.m.-11 a.m. Shelly Brasler is in charge.

For more information about any of the activities at the Frank Evans Center, 324-3060.

Talent show held

The Chorus Department at the Greenwood Middle School held a talent show on Friday, Sept. 13, at 4:30 p.m., in the auditorium. The show, the Freaky Friday Talent Connection 96, was held in part to offer members the opportunity to showcase their talent, and in part, as a fund-raiser. The event raised more than $850 for the Chorus Department.

There was quite a wide variety of talent at the show—dancers, singers, musicians, solos, duets and groups. There was a large crowd of students who shelled out $3 each to watch their friends perform. The show was followed at 5:30 by a dance.

Jessica Johnson, Marie Collins and Marc Stymist perform a dance in talent show.

Women's Club hosts district workshop

On Sept. 12, the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. hosted the GFWC Florida Federation of Women's Clubs District 7 Workshop at the Sanford club when 84 members turned out for the annual event.
Registration and coffee began at 9:30 a.m. and the workshop ended after lunch at 2 p.m. Routine district business was conducted and a variety of door prizes were offered.
Sanford Women's Club president Ruth Gaines, chairman of the event, welcomed the guests and introduced visiting state and district dignitaries including District 7 Director Linda S. Dennis. Among the District 7 officers is Libby Provatt of the Sanford club who is district arts chairman.
Entertainment was provided by the "MOD" (March of Dimes) Squad, from the Lakeland Woman's Club who presented a delightful skit about volunteering to spread the word about the March of Dimes.

Emma Taaphen, District 7 Chaplain, conducted memorial services for deceased district members after April 1985. A flower was placed in a vase for each with a red rose honoring Mrs. Ralph Austin (Charlotte) Smith, former club president (1932-34) who later became president of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs (1942-44).
Other deceased Sanford club members included: Mary E. Thompson, Virginia Burney, club president 1973-74; Lucille Young and Helen Kaminsky.
It was announced that District 7 won an award for supporting one of the FFWC president's projects, "Adopt a Library." March of Dimes and Mental Health are also among the projects of the FFWC president. During the workshop, Juanita Black, district director of the Central Florida Mental Health Association addressed the clubwomen on mental health and Kathy Harrison, FFWC state chairman, spoke on the March of Dimes.
Bridge social
The idyllic home of Dr. and Mrs. Roger (Gail) Stewart was the setting for the Monthly Bridge Social's first gathering of the season. Tables were set up on the patio surrounding the pool and hostesses Gail and Libby Provatt provided a dessert table filled with goodies, iced coffee and iced tea.
Winners were as follows: Selma Newman, high; Dib McElrath, second high; and Helen Ernest, third.

Other players were: Frances Webster, Thelma Smith, Rose Jacobson, Betty Halback, Toni Hobson, Rusie Dean, Terri Milligan, Emy Sobel, Margaret Gross, Alice Potter, Carolyn Cornelius, Shirley Mills, Doris Stein, Martha Ashby and Lillian King.
Lions Club sets spaghetti dinner
The Sanford Lions Club will sponsor its annual spaghetti dinner and bingo on Saturday, Sept. 28, from 4 to 8 p.m., at the Sanford Civic Center.
The menu will feature succulent spaghetti with meat sauce, garden salad, garlic bread and beverage. Donation is $6. Desserts will be sold separately.
Proceeds will benefit the Lions Sight Program. Tickets are available from any Lions Club member or at the door.

Art auction

The Junior Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. will present an art auction fund-raiser on Saturday, Sept. 28, at First Street Gallery, 207 Magnolia Ave., Sanford. Preview time is 7 p.m. followed by the auction at 8 p.m.
Admission is $10 each or $15 per couple and includes wine and hors d'oeuvres.
The art will feature original paintings, lithographs, serigraphs, silkcreens, etchings, sports collectibles and animation work - all from a wide range of well-known artists.

Widower guilty of bad taste in signing card

DEAR ABBY: I am 66 years old and have been a widower for 10 years. The gentleman I am dating (17) call him Jim) is 73 and has been a widower for seven years. We have been dating for five years.
Recently we attended the 50th anniversary party for some longtime friends of Jim's. After the dinner, the couple opened their gifts and read the cards aloud to the guests. Imagine my shock when Jim's card was read. He had signed it "Jim and Margaret" - Margaret was his wife's name!
I immediately told him how hurt I was, and he said he saw nothing wrong with signing his deceased wife's name to the card. He said he and Margaret had been best friends of the honored couple for over 40 years, and he wanted to keep Margaret's memory alive in their thoughts through this gift.
I was deeply hurt by Jim's actions, both in signing the card as he did and having no regrets about doing so.
Abby, do you think I'm wasting precious time in this relationship? HURT IN CHERRY HILL, N.J.

ADVISE
the street are not only rude, but put women in an uncomfortable, if not frightening, position.
I have to relate one incident where the men probably felt as ignorant as they sounded. I was walking down a busy street on my lunch hour when a car approached from behind and the men started to whistle and shout, "Hey, Baby!" As they started to pass me, they became dead silent. You see, I was seven months pregnant at the time!
I'll never forget the looks on their faces! My daughter is 16 years old now, and loves to hear how she helped me put these jerks in their places. Sign me ... HEY BABY, BABY! SCOTTSDALE, ARIZ.

DEAR MUST: Signing the card "Jim and Margaret" was indeed in poor taste in view of the fact that you and he have been dating for the last five years. He is living in the past. But before breaking off your relationship because of a single thoughtless act, ask yourself if you would be better off with him or without him.
DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from Autumn R. Vogel, and I couldn't agree with her more. Men who whistle and yell at women on

Clear Birthday
 Sunday, Sept. 22, 1986

In the year ahead, you might have an opportunity to embark on an amazing adventure. You might even generate some additional revenue from this trip.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Prepare to work hard today, not just for your benefit, but also for people who depend on you. They will count on you to produce results. Virgo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your reputation could be on the line today if you make promises you do not intend to fulfill. You must honor your commitments.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Your feelings of self-worth will be enhanced today if you use your time productively. Put away the fishing rod and tennis racket and get out the toolbox.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Today, conditions will be conducive to having a serious discussion with a close friend. Make sure to use this opportunity wisely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may derive benefits today from a seemingly valueless situation if you are willing to devote the time and effort to get it back on its feet.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A serious issue you've had on your mind for a long time looks as if it will be resolved today. The solution might come to you in flash of inspiration.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Today, you might realize your good fortune. However, you might have the ability to do something that usually is troublesome.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This could be both an interesting and fun day for you if you make arrangements for a reunion with some old friends you have not seen for a long time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your probability of success can be enhanced substantially today if you keep your motivations and objectives to yourself.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Knowledge you acquire today could help you to conclude a long-term project. The best suggestion might come from an elderly, conservative associate.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) The leadership qualities you display today will be gracious but forceful. Your peers will not question your motives or your authority.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to be supportive of your mate's judgments and decisions today. The stars indicate that he or she may see things from a better perspective than you will.

He is how old?

By Phillip Alder

PHILLIP ALDER

Are the children in your town learning bridge? If not, why not? Contrary to popular pedagogic belief, the game doesn't encourage gambling. Instead, it teaches logical thought, cooperation and emotional control.

How many years from senior citizenship is the declarer in today's deal, do you think?

First, though, the bidding. One spade showed four and was forcing for one round. Four no-trump was a quantitative raise, but as South had a maximum, he showed his aces in reply.

Declarer had 11 top tricks: four spades, four diamonds and three clubs. If the clubs were 3-3 or West had a singleton honor, 13 tricks would be easy. Yet just in case, South laid some groundwork. He won with the spade jack, unblocked the spade ace, led a club to dummy's queen, cashed the king-queen of spades, discarding two hearts from hand, and continued with the club king. He was preparing to claim, but East's heart discard meant that play had to continue.

As East had a winning spade, declarer had to place West with the heart ace. However, rather than assume East had the heart queen, declarer took his four diamond tricks, coming down to the heart king and two clubs. What should West keep? He had no option but to retain his two clubs and blank the heart ace. West was thrown in with a heart, forced to lead away from the 10-eight of clubs into South's ace-nine tenace.

Who was this superstar? It was Shervani Vundevalk, a fourth-grader from Public School 156 in New York City.
