SUNDAY LID SCREWED ON

DeFunak Even Had Electric Lights Cut Off On Sunday

The Sunday lid is on DeFunak, it being impossible to buy a cold drink of beer or even so little as a pint of gasoline for an auto can be purchased here "of a Sunday." But on last Sunday the lid was screwed down a little tighter when the city authorities ran the joke in the ground and incidentally established a stumbling block in the way of the ministers who inaugurated the Sunday closing movement which resulted some weeks ago in the announcement from County Solicitor Gus Campbell that he would enforce to the letter the old state law prohibiting the sale on the Sabbath of anything except drugs or other absolute necessities of life as opposed to death.

Already this town was about as tight a town as a traveler ever tarried in, but yesterday she became tighter so did some of the boys.

It was decided by the city that if it was a sin and a violation of the law to sell a cigar it was also not in accord with the statutes and the scriptures for the man who runs the municipal-owned electric light plant to labor during church hours, so there was no light here last night except from the few oil lamps which had been kept trimmed, filled and burning.

This caused the churches some inconvenience, but what the preachers missed even more than their lights, was their mail. The postmaster decided that he had better not work on Sunday either, so the postoffice was closed all day yesterday. No mail of any kind was delivered from the window of the postoffice or letters placed in the boxes thereof. The clergymen wanted to get their mail on Sunday, it is said, and went to see the postmaster about it, but the ministers and the government failed to reach a compromise.

No one being able to get a Sunday or Saturday afternoon paper out of the office, there was a mad rush on the P. and A. train's butch for papers, and a few were supplied with reading matter in that way, but next Sunday the Anti-Tight Closers threaten to meet the train at Crestview, buy up all the papers and then sell them back to the butch after the train passes DeFunak.

DeFunak yesterday was without drinks, smokes, lights or mail, and it is said that next Sunday those who pump and play the organs in the churches will be warned that they are violating the state law.

Verily, DeFunak hath the "lid on."

Wilson Was Notified

Sea Girl, Aug. 8.—Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey was officially informed yesterday that he had been chosen by the Baltimore convention as the nominee for the president on the Democratic ticket.

Briefly and simply Governor Wilson was notified by Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky, who emphasized the fact that the governor had obtained the high honor untrammelled by obligations and unembarrassed by affiliations of any kind. Although the governor spoke in accepting the office to theoretically fifty-two members of the committee representing every state in the Union in his speech, which sounded the depth of his political philosophy, was heard by a great throng. Gov. Wilson read from manuscript.

Governor Wilson's only brother, Jos. R. Wilson, one of the editors of the Nashville Banner, and his cousin, James Woodrow, of Columbus, S. C., are here for the notification exercises. Miss Eleanor Wilson, the governor's oldest daughter, has arrived, which completes the family circle. Everything was in readiness early for the reception of the notification committee and twenty-two Democratic governors of the country who have assembled here.

Quite A Long Train

Unique in the history of railroading are the tremendous trains that have within the past week been made up on the Lehigh Valley railroad. A few days ago a train of 115 cars of coal, bound for the Bethlehem Steel Works, created wonderment. Since then the trains have constantly been growing larger. Yesterday a new record was made when a train of 133 cars moved westward from the Perth Amboy docks for the Mahoning yards, where they will be distributed to the mines. The train was 7,000 feet long and was drawn by two locomotives, a third pushing. It is said that the trains are so enormous because trainmen are scarce enormous because trainmen are scarce.

Lightning Strikes Pastorium

During a thunderstorm Tuesday afternoon lightning struck the Baptist pastorium at Arcadia setting fire to the building, and although a heavy rain was falling, it was burned to the ground. Practically all the contents were destroyed, few articles being saved. The pastor, Rev. H. M. Crain, but was not at home when the fire started, but soon reached the place. His wife and daughter were considerably shocked by the lightning. The building was insured for $1300 in the Norwich Union. Rev. Mr. Crain carried $1,000 on his books and furniture in the Aetna. The building was owned by the First Baptist church.

Another bolt of lightning struck the kitchen at the home of Postmaster Andrew Greene, severely stunning his daughter, Miss Ursula Green, and his little grandson, Kirby Lane. The young lady's hair was singed by the lightning and for several hours she was speechless.

Thinks Florida Is All Right

Mr. Charles A. Welch is visiting his daughter, Mrs. J. R. Stewart, at 2300 Pleasant avenue after an absence of eighteen months. In the winter of 1910 he accompanied his cousin, Mrs. George J. Backus and her family to their new home on the St. Lucie Inlet farms, near Palm Beach, Florida.

His intention was to remain only until Mr. Backus could adjust his business and join them, but he liked the country so well and was so greatly benefited in health that he stayed on, and now only slipped away to Minneapolis for a visit and will return about the last of August.

He declares the summers in that part of Florida are really more delightful than the winters; that they have no malaria, and that in general health and feeling, he is fully twenty years younger than when he went away. Speaking of the general healthfulness he related how a modern doctor opened an office in a town five miles from there, because there was no physician at that place, and waited six months for a patient and then left. A few items from his daily experience may be of interest. He found dewberries growing wild along the river, indicating that they were indigenous, so he sent for choice varieties, and now has plants with vines 15 feet long. They are very prolific and bring better prices than strawberries.

He also found wild persimmon trees. On this stock he budded fine Japanese varieties, from which he expects great results. He regards persimmons as one of the most profitable fruits that can be grown. He was enthusiastic over sugar cane. A small patch was planted near the house and it had grown without fertilizing or cultivation until it was over twelve feet high. Cane matures one joint at a time. In Louisiana about a five foot stalk is the limit, but in Florida they get an eight or nine foot stalk and this means 60 tons to the acre or from 600 to 800 gallons of syrup.

In poultry he has had experiences in several states, but said that Florida beat them all. Eggs sell for 40 cents in summer and 60 cents in winter, with strong local demand; broilers 25c lb., and fowls 20c lb. He introduced imported Indian runner ducks. These begin to lay at five months and will average 300 eggs a year. He sold all his eggs at 10c each for breeding purposes.

He regarded string beans as staple crop; said they were good for 125 hampers per acre. He sold at $8 per hamper, although the price at times reached $15 to $18. He had some green peppers and the yield was at the rate of 800 crates per acre. The price was from $1 to $1.50 per crate. He staked his tomatoes and they grew over 12 feet tall. If properly cared for in like manner an acre of tomatoes should yield $1,000. If planted in rotation they will produce every month in the year. Head lettuce was a winner. He had only a very small bed, yet sold $20 worth. He made successful experiments with asparagus, and said he could sell all he could raise for $12 a dozen bunches.

Regarding his future plans, Mr. Welch said he had made none except that he would return to Florida in about a month. Minneapolis News.

New Florida Postoffices

According to recent issues of the Postal Daily Bulletin new postoffices have been established or will be shortly at Ellarbee, Bradford county; and at Woods in Liberty county; the latter holding a special service from Bristol, the county seat.

Charles G. Basse has been named postmaster at Carleton; James M. Futch, Ellarbee; Perry J. Bryan, Raleigh, and Annie Hill at Woods.

The postoffice at Murdock, DeSoto county has been discontinued, the order of Oct. 25, 1911, being rescinded.

Wanted—Clean rags at The Herald office. Will pay 2 cents per pound.

Grower's Firm Dissolves

The firm of Delamater & Hilton, vegetable growers, has been dissolved by mutual consent, C. H. Hilton retiring and Dr. Delemater will carry on the business. The firm of Delamater & Hilton was organized about three years ago for the purpose of growing Florida vegetables and their farm on Cameron avenue is one of the show places of the celery delta. They have made a success of the business and only the fact of the pressure of Mr. Hilton's business in the north forced him to leave Sanford.

Neither Dr. Delemater or Mr. Hilton were familiar with the growing of winter vegetables when they purchased the place on Cameron avenue but by judicious growing and marketing they have made money every season.

Dr. Delemater, who will continue the business, came to Sanford as a haven of rest after teaching medicine in a Chicago college for over thirty years, but the salubrious climate had such a good effect upon him that he has never taken the vacation yet and delights in farm life and Florida in general.

The many friends of Mr. Hilton are loathe to lose him and are hoping that the lure of Florida will bring him again to the sunny south where he found health and wealth.

Killed on Motorcycle

Walter Jenkins of Miami was instantly killed late Tuesday evening while practicing on his motorcycle for the races which were to have taken place today. The races were called off.

Mr. Jenkins, in company with several others, went to the boulevard to practice, and in crossing the railroad track, Jenkins, who was running at a speed of seventy-four miles per hour, did not slacken his pace and lost control of his machine which ran into an electric light pole, killing Jenkins almost instantly.

Services at the Baptist Church

Embargo on Potatoes

The state board of control has raised the embargo on Irish seed potatoes laid down in state law. It was decided to raise the embargo called for in rules 31 to 38, inclusive, in relation to the importation of nursery stock until April 1st of next year. This was done on account of growers having already arranged for the shipment of their seed potatoes into the state.

The rules mentioned cover means of guarding against the introduction of warts and scabies, but rather than work a hardship on the growers the board decided to temporarily suspend the rules.

The whole session of the board was taken up with the transaction of routine business, the only important matter coming up for consideration being a discussion of the rules in relation to the bringing into the state of seed for Irish potatoes.

Defy John Bull

By a vote of 44 to 11, the senate tonight refused to strike from the Panama Canal bill the provision exempting the American ships from payments of tolls for passage through the Panama Canal. Debate on the question has continued from 1 p. m. until midnight. The senate then adjourned until tomorrow without voting on the bill itself.

The defeat of the Burton amendment was the senate's defiant answer to the protest of the British Government against the legislation.

WE WIN WITH WILSON

W. D. HOLDEN

It is difficult to write of the death of any one even of one whom we never knew. It is more difficult to write of the death of a relative. Ground by no ties of kinship to W. D. Holden the editor of the Herald has never attempted a sadder task than to chronicle the death of this man who was more than a friend and like a brother. Our early struggles were linked with his fortunes in the making of a greater Sanford and we pause today to lay a small tribute on the bier of a man among men.

W. D. Holden has always been an active and energetic man, both mentally and physically, giving liberally of his time, labor and sympathy in homes of sickness and death.

He early developed the habit of weighing things in the balance of reason, discarding that which to him did not harmonize with the Creator's plan as he saw God's laws in the big book of Nature. He believed in doing good for the sake of humanity and not in the fear of the anger and vengeance of a higher power. As to future existence, he felt that each will be rewarded according to the good deeds done in this life. That we come into this life not of our own accord, and we do not go out of our own free will, but subject to the Supreme power over all, and to that power he was willing to trust his fate when his time should come to meet the great mystery of death.

His convictions, whether right or wrong, were honest and sincere, resulting from much careful study and analysis on his part and with which he calmly met the fate of all flesh.

Having lived according to the light he had—and who shall judge that light but the just God before whom we all must pass—we lower all that remains of our friend to his final resting place to calmly await the reward of a just God. And as we cover it with the sods of earth may we also cover with the mantle of charity his earthly shortcomings, whatever they may have been, and keep bright in the lime light of memory his many good deeds and may we always emulate his virtues that we may be better fitted to meet our loved ones who are on the other side.

Each death is a link that binds us to the beyond, so let us live and do that when our time comes we will be found a good link in the endless chain of the plan of Nature.

FROM THE FUTURE PRESIDENT

Governor Wilson was notified on Wednesday that he had been nominated by the Democratic party to be their standard bearer in the campaign for President and his speech in reply bespeaks the man. The whole speech cannot be given in this issue, but the few words given below and made in the preface to his address is worthy of more than a passing notice and shows the character of our next President:

After thanking the committee of notification and expressing his profound sense of responsibility in accepting the nomination, the Governor said he realized that he was expected to speak plainly, to talk politics and open the campaign "in words whose meaning no one need doubt." And he was expected to speak, he added, to the country as well as to the committee:

"We must speak," he continued, by way of preface, "not to catch votes, but to satisfy the thought and conscience of a people deeply stirred by the conviction that they have come to a critical turning point in their moral and political development."

"Plainly it is a new age," he went on. "It requires self-restraint not to attempt too much, and yet it would be cowardly to attempt too little. In the broad light of this new day we stand face to face with what? Plainly not with questions of party, not with contest for office, not with a petty struggle for advantage. With great questions of right and justice, rather, questions of national development, of the development of character and of standards of action no less than of a better business system. The forces of the nation are asserting themselves against every form of special privilege and private control, and are seeking bigger things than they have ever hitherto achieved.

"There are two great things to do. One is to set up the rule of justice and of right in such matters as the tariff, the regulation of the trusts and the prevention of monopoly, the adaptation of our banking and currency laws to the very uses to which our people must put them, the treatment of those who do the daily labor in our factories and mines and throughout all our great industrial and commercial undertakings, and the political life of the people of the Philippines, for whom we hold governmental power in trust, for their service, not our own. The other, the additional duty is the great task of protecting our people and our resources and of keeping open to the whole people the doors of opportunity through which they must, generation by generation, pass if they are to make conquest of their fortunes in health, in freedom, in peace and in contentment. In the performance of this second great duty we are face to face with questions of conservation and of development, questions of forests and water powers and mines and waterways, of the building of an adequate merchant marine."

Reports say that snow fell in Wisconsin, but there is no immediate danger of a snow storm in Sanford.

Sanford military company should be organized at once. Official red tape can be dispensed with for the nonce.

We are anxiously awaiting the arrival of the brick for the new roads. There will be something doing then.

West Florida is having a press association meeting. What is the matter with the South Florida Press Association?

If you don't think Sanford is the real article in base ball just ask any gentleman from Orlando. They ought to know.

The city council is determined to go into the idea of bulkheading and will call for a survey in a few days to determine the cost.

No Federal office holder will be allowed to become a member of the national committee of the new Bull Moose party. The steam roller will not work in Roosevelt's party.

Sanford needs a good Business Man's League or a club composed of all the boosters of this city. There are many questions of vital interest to the city that should be discussed by the citizens in a general conference. All of us are too far apart and we can never get together unless we have a general meeting place where the members and where strangers can be made to feel comfortable and a general spirit of good fellowship will prevail.

City Council Meets

City council met in regular session July 5th, at 7:30 p. m. Present, T. J. Miller, president; W. H. Underwood, W. S. Hand, B. W. Herndon, P. M. Elder. Absent, F. L. Woodruff and Geo. Fox, Jr.

Minutes of the last meeting read and approved.

Letter from W. H. Beatty, asking that the grass be cut and bridge built at corner of 11th street and Maple avenue read and referred to Inspector Williamson.

Petition from a large number of citizens of Georgetown asking for lights and water service was referred to the street committee.

The sum of $4.90 was appropriated to the United Charities to pay a bill incurred by them in the relief of an object of charity.

The reports of the chief of police, sanitary inspector, and city clerk were read and ordered filed.

Moved and seconded that the bills as signed by the president and approved by the finance committee be paid. Carried.

Moved and seconded that council adjourn. Carried.

Prof. W. N. Sheata, former state superintendent of public instruction, who has been returned to that office to succeed W. M. Holloway, will be principal of the Plant City high school until his term as state superintendent begins, Jan. 1.

married and made his home in Orlando, being engaged in the real estate business and general development in county and in the state.

About five years ago, recognizing the vast possibilities of winter gardening in the Sanford section he moved to this city and with W. J. Thippen formed the Holden Real Estate Company, taking over the immense property interests of the Florida Colonization Co., which included not only a large amount of fine farming land and valuable city property but the Sanford Water Co., plant and appurtenances.

Being a man of exceptional business ability and most progressive ideas, Mr. Holden became the central figure in Sanford's business circles and was identified with every movement that tended to advertise and develop the city and surrounding country.

He served the city an alderman for two terms and the many improvements made during that time can be traced directly to the masterful mind of W. D. Holden. His mind was an unlimited storehouse of information and his progressive ideas were backed by mature judgment and wisdom that made him the foremost leader among men. While looking forward to the time when his own fortunes would brighten with the rapid development of the city Mr. Holden was unselfish to a remarkable degree and his public acts were never directed in channels that would tend to build up his individual interests but rather were his efforts directed toward the improving and upbuilding of the entire city, irrespective of personal benefit.

Troubles, reverses, disasters could not shake his optimistic spirit, warp his kindly nature or quell his indomitable nature and he was a born leader to whom every one seemed to turn and never found him wanting.

Open handed, open hearted, broad minded, charitable, W. D. Holden was an imposing figure in the public and social life of Sanford and Orange county.

Mr. Holden was about fifty years of age at the time of his death and his life had been spent in this county where all knew him and all loved him.

He leaves a wife and one son, little Billy Holden who reside here. A sister, Mrs. Langenbach of Orlando, his old father in Orlando who is about ninety years of age, and one brother who resided in Montana.

The sympathy of the entire county goes out to the bereaved family. Their loss is our loss, and while not so poignant our grief is not lessened by distance of kinship.

W. D. Holden was a brother to all men

Another Version of the Accident

In a talk with C. O. McLaughlin today a more lucid account of the terrible accident of yesterday is gleaned. Mr. McLaughlin was one of the first to get disentangled from the wreckage and render first aid to the injured and he states that Mr. Holden was pitched backward over the seat, striking his head against the bank of the ditch on the side of the road, breaking his neck. A heavy suit case that was almost a trunk belonging to Mr. Gorusch fell across Mr. Holden's body, breaking his ribs, and that after they had taken him from the car and laid him on the grass he lived about forty-five minutes, but never regained consciousness.

Mr. McLaughlin states that the skidding occurred so quickly that no one in the car realized the danger until the car had turned over.

Funeral Tomorrow

The funeral services of the late W. D. Holden will be held tomorrow afternoon about three o'clock at the Episcopal church, Dean Spencer officiating. The exact time has not yet been decided upon as the relatives may arrive tonight or tomorrow and the time of the services depends upon their arrival.

The pall bearers will be Forrest Lake, C. O. McLaughlin, A. E. Yowell, Walter Wescott, W. J. Thippen, J. N. Whitner W. E. Martin and Harry Beeman.

The services will be under the auspices of the Sanford Lodge 1241 B. P. O. Elks, of which order deceased was Past Exalted Ruler.

Roosevelt and Johnson

Singing "Onward Christian Soldiers" and the "Battle Hymn of the Republic," the delegates to the first national convention of the Progressive party acclaimed Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, as their candidate for President and Gov. Hiram W. Johnson, of California, as their choice for vice President.

Marking a new departure of the proceedings of national conventions, the two candidates were immediately informed of their nomination and in the midst of deafening cheers appeared before the delegates to voice their acceptance and to pledge their best efforts to the coming campaign.

Pope Wicker has returned from a pleasant visit to relatives in South Carolina.

R. R. Deas has returned from a trip to the beach and expects to go back on Saturday.

E. H. Peters has accepted a position as salesman with the Merchants' Grocery Co. of this city.

W. L. Morgan stopped off in the city several hours on Wednesday to see his many Sanford friends.

Labor is said to be scarce in Miami. So much building is going on that it is impossible to get men to work in the orange groves.

W. A. Raynor has returned from a trip to his old home on Long Island. His family will remain for awhile longer ere returning to Sanford.

Seventh street from Park avenue to Oak is being opened up by the street department and is making a great improvement in that part of the city.

Dick Calhoun has gone west again looking for another gold mine. Dick is tired trying to get gold out of Florida soil and will try the west for awhile.

J. H. Barnes is shaking hands with his many Sanford friends today. He will only be here a day but expects to return when the vegetable season opens.

M. Frank received word from Mrs. Frank and Florence in which they state that it is very cold in the Catskills and the oldest inhabitant predicts early snow.

You ought to start the new serial in the Saturday Evening Post, Silverides, one of the best summer fiction stories that this great magazine has published this summer.

A card from Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Brown at Smithsburg, Maryland, bears the information that they are enjoying the trip and expect to return home in a few days to Sanford.

Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Chase and family left Tuesday morning in their car for Warm Springs, Va., where they will spend the remainder of the summer. They were accompanied by Alfred Foster, who also went in his car.

Albert Brady has returned to his duties in Budge's store after a pleasant vacation of a month spent in the northern part of the state. He returns much refreshed and was seen this morning for the first time busily engaged in tacking bunting on the front of the hardware building.—Miami Metropolis.

It is nice to have a change of climate in the summer time, but if the people who are seeking other states can get any nicer weather than Sanford offers at the present time they are lucky indeed. The nights are cool enough here now to require light covering and the mountains cannot offer anything better.

Rev. C. H. Summers is steadily working at his project, that of building a new Methodist church for Sanford, and reports splendid success in securing funds for the enterprise. The present church is not large enough. The Sunday school has outgrown its quarters and one class is taught in the band stand in the city park, across from the church. The new church will provide ample room and modern up-to-date facilities for conducting religious work.

At Presbyterian Church
Rev. J. F. McKinnon will preach at both morning and evening services. The public is cordially invited to attend.

Baraca Social Evening
The Baraca class of the Baptist Sunday school met Tuesday evening with Tom Norwood at his home on Oak avenue. The business of the class was transacted, with the president, Eugene Singletary, in the chair. After the business was concluded, games, music and refreshments brought a pleasant evening to its close.

President of Hayti Killed
Port au Prince, Haiti, Aug. 8.—President Cincinnatus Licente perished today in a fire that destroyed the national palace. The fire started from an explosion in the powder magazine attached to the palace. The origin is as yet unknown, but it is thought to have been connected with some of the revolutionary movements.

First Woman in Politics

Chicago, Aug. 8.—Miss Jane Addams, in seconding the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt for President, said: "I rise to second the nomination, stirred by the splendid platform adopted by this convention."

"Measures of industrial amelioration, demands for social justice, long discussed by small groups in charity conferences and economic associations, have here been considered in a great national convention and are at last thrust into the arena of political action."

"A great party has pledged itself to the protection of children, to the care of the aged, to the relief of overworked girls, to the safe-guarding of burdened men. Committed to these humane undertakings, it is inevitable that such a party should appeal to women, should seek to draw upon the great reservoir of their moral energy."

"We ratify this platform not only because it represents our earnest convictions and formulates our high hopes, but because it pulls upon our faculties and calls us to definite action. The new party has become the American exponent of a world wide movement towards juster social conditions, a movement which the United States, lagging behind other great nations, has been unaccountably slow to embody in political action."

"I second the nomination of Theodore Roosevelt because he is one of the few men in our public life who has been responsive to the social appeal, and who has caught the significance of the modern movement. Because of that, because the program will require a leader of invincible courage, of open mind, of domestic sympathies, one endowed with power to interpret the common man and to identify himself with the common lot, I heartily second the nomination."

Mr. E. D. Moon of Tallahassee has 200 colonies of bees. He devotes about one-third of his time to them and they pay him an average of $9 per colony, or $1,000 per year.

Orlando will now number its streets. Its avenues crossing the numbered streets are named. It is contemplated that all building will be numbered also, in contemplation of post delivery.

Delinquent Tax List

The following is a list of unpaid taxes for the year 1911. These can be paid at any time before April 1st, 1912, by adding the cost of this publication and one cent per month from April 1st, 1912.

After April 1st, 1912, Tax Certificates will be issued and placed in the hand of the City Attorney for collection with his fees, interest and cost of advertising.

Punishment Strictly Regulated. The Official Gazette, Tokio, Japan, contains an administrative order giving minute directions as to the method of application of corporal punishment in the Korean peninsula.

Pineapple as a Pepsin. The properties of the pineapple are extremely healthful, its contents of pepsin being of so high an average that, of all the fruits, it takes the highest rank among those possessing the qualities that aid digestion.

Insult on Removal of Queues. Military rowdies were again stopping inoffensive coolies and others whom they suspect of wearing queues, in the streets of Nanjing and relieving them of the objectionable appendages a few weeks ago.

Women and Police Whistles. Miss Lota Robinson, at one time one of the best-known society belles in Baltimore, has applied to the police department in New York for a police whistle.

Heroic Devotion to Duty. A striking example of fortitude and devotion to duty occurred recently at Old Trafford, England, when a signalman stuck to his post and manipulated the signals in his box for nearly an hour after being accidentally shot in the eye by a member of a local gun club pigeon shooting in the neighborhood.

Ball Player Needed an Osteopath. Rival teams were playing baseball in Leavenworth. In the height of the struggle one man made a dumb play at second base.

Wisdom and Virtue. Wisdom, too great to be translated into action is a contradiction of words. For wisdom is only knowing what one ought to do next.

To Cure the Blues. The quickest way to cure "blues" is to identify them. If you look a little and discover that your woe has no reasonable cause, and that you "just feel like feeling so," you know that the condition is physical.

New Talking-Machine Records. Talking machine records made by photography will be the next development in the reproduction of sound.

Man's Debt to His Profession. I hold every man a debtor to his profession; from the which as men of course do seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves, by way of amends, to be a help and ornament thereunto.—Bacon

SPORTING GOSSIP

Twelve Innings Tie Game

Carl Ray, the Collegian's port sider, hooked up with Tom Vaiden in the first extra inning game of the season. It was a pitchers' battle from start to finish, Ray having a shade the better of his rival. The game reeked with brilliant catches and stops, and several miserable bobbles of the Collegians outshone their opponents in the latter department. Bundy was the candy kid, securing two hits out of three trips to the plate, one for two bases, which later developed into Sanford's run. Jonas Swink played first in a style particularly of the Hal Chase variety. Buck Roberts and Boyer made spectacular catches on left. Boyer's catch saved the game for Orlando.

Sanford scored in the fifth. Bundy first up, poled one for two bases, went to third on a passed ball and scored when Carl Ray hit a long sacrifice fly to right.

Orlando scored in the seventh. Brewster reached first on an overthrow by Brittain. Howatt sacrificed him to second. From there he scored a second later on Bowen's single to right. In the last inning after Ray had fanned Brewster, Howatt singled to right, Bowen was hit by a pitched ball. Howatt looked bad for Sanford. But the big southpaw arose to the occasion, fanning Boyer and Wilson, the latter batting for Lee, leaving Howatt and Bowen gasping for breath on first and second.

As Orlando Saw It

Only a fair sized crowd was out yesterday to see the best game of the season. It went twelve innings with the score tied in a hard knot, one to one. The game then had to be called off on account of darkness.

It was a twelve innings pitchers' battle from start to finish, between Ray, the celeryites' big southpaw, and Vaiden, our utility man. Pitching honors were about even and Vaiden's box work yesterday proves that he is a good man and should be worked oftener. Ray is a strike out pitcher and mowed down a dozen yesterday in as many innings, while Vaiden only fanned three, but he kept the Sanford bunch repeatedly knocking easy chances to him, and the game was marked throughout by fast fielding and sensational work by both teams. Our boys shaded the Sanford bunch a little in fielding honors for they made only two errors while the bunch of celery made a total of four. They got five hits to our three, but Vaiden kept them scattered and only one run was scored against him, that coming in the 5th, when Bundy, the first man up, doubled to deep center, and took third on a passed ball, and later scored on the throw in from Ray's fly to deep right. We got ours in the 7th, when Brewster was safe on a bad throw by Brittain, Howatt sacrificed him to third and he scored on Bowen's line hit to right.

We had a good chance to untie the knot in the 12th when Howatt hit over second and Bowen got hit, but it was so dark by that time that the batsmen could not see the ball and Ray easily fanned the next two men.—Reporter-Star.

My Worst Blunder

FAMOUS 'BONEHEAD' PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS

Explained by Leading Baseball Players to

HUGH S. FULLERTON

BY JOHN KLING,

Manager Boston Nationals, Who is Considered the Greatest Catcher the Game Ever Has Known, and Who Promises Success as a Manager.

Do you believe that a fellow's brain can think two things at once? That is, can one idea get so strong that it beats another idea to it and makes a fellow go through with something he knows, and sees, is wrong?

I ask that because it seems to me that some of the worst mistakes I ever have made playing baseball have come from just such a situation. I figure a play, get my mind all made up as to just how the other man will act, and then sometimes that idea gets so strong it can't be changed, no matter what happens.

The worst mistake I think I ever made was one against Pittsburg when I was with the Cubs, and it lost a game that I thought also had lost the season, although we won it afterwards in a tough finish. And it all came because I thought I knew exactly how the other man would make his play. It was late in the season and we were fighting with Pittsburg and New York for the lead in the race. You know Pittsburg always has been a tough proposition for the Cubs, especially in Pittsburg, and the teams had played against each other so long, and with so few changes in lineups, that we got to know each other inside out. Leach always has been a great base runner, but in one thing our catchers had it on him, that was when he was on third, another man on first, and a double steal was to be tried. Leach usually was over-anxious to start home, and all a catcher had to do was to make a bluff at throwing to second, hold the ball and snap it to third and Leach would be on the jump for home. We had caught him so often that he knew what we would try, and two or three times he had made the jump, then jumped back to third and laughed at us. The situation came up late in the game with the score tied. Leach was on third, Abbaticchio I believe on first and two out. I felt certain they would attempt a double steal, so I decided that I knew exactly what Leach would do. He would think that I would certainly try to grab him off third, and would not try to score at all. He would figure that I wouldn't dare throw to second and give the winning run a chance to score, as two runs would not hurt us any more than one would. So I made up my mind to do exactly what I thought he thought I wouldn't do—throw to second and try to nail Abby going down and end the game right there.

I signalled for a high fast ball, and the moment it struck my hands I jumped forward to throw to second. As I caught the ball I saw Leach tearing for the plate just as hard as he could come. I knew all I had to do was to hold the ball and wait for him, but the previous plan was too strong in my mind and I cut loose as hard as I could for second. Leach came across the plate standing up, and was in with the winning run before Abby could be touched.

Leach had figured to double cross me just as I had planned to cross him. He calculated correctly just what I would do, and I had him figured all wrong. Pittsburg came near grabbing the pennant on that one play, but we nosed them out and in a game a couple of weeks later I outfigured Leach on the same play, held the ball and caught him, so we were quits.
